Thank you, Karl Schieneman, for the concise and to-the-point overview of the Grenada invasion printed 11/29. It is refreshing to see a researching student cut through the tedious moral and military implications and get straight to the superficial results.

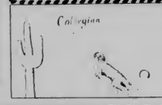
Your masterful analysis has reduced this issue to the point where we can lump it together with the other trivial issues of the day such as the threat of nuclear conflict, and promptly ignore it.

Please continue to keep your thinking uncluttered by any real information.

Margaret Miley
Harry Shanley
"Middle America," Amherst

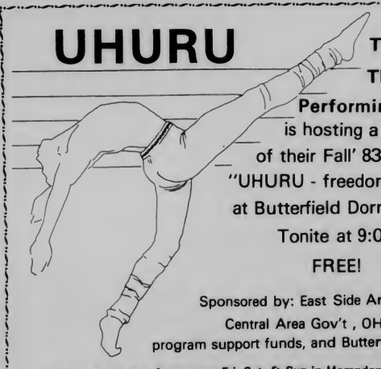
Monday Night Football Special
Pitchers of Draft Beer
$3.25
TIME OUT

Free Popcorn
Two T.V.'s
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N Pleasant
Amherst, MA



INTERNS WANTED
Hilltop Health Club, a multi-faceted fitness facility in the Orchard Hill Residential Area, is seeking interns for the Spring semester.

Interns should possess:
Knowledge of holisric health issues
Knowledge of principles & practices of cardiovascular fitness
Knowledge of weight training skills and equipment
Leadership and organizational skills



Complete job description & applications available at B 30 Baker House, Orchard Hill Residential Area.

Application deadline - Dec. 12, 1983

Work Semester Break
We offer excellent earning potential from end of December thru end of January. If you live from the Cape thru Southern N.H., Greater Boston, Worcester and west from Springfield thru Northampton and are over 18 and dependable, you can work, depending on your availability, 20-35 hours a week and start at $4.75 an hour.
Nationwide inventory service needs to supplement out present staffs of auditors in taking physical inventories in various retail stores. Must have weekend, weeknight availability, day hours also possible. A good work reference for the future. Must have phone and transportation. Contact Student Employment Office by Dec. 6 for interview schedule. FOE.

Read the Collegian every day

EXEMPTION EXAM
The Exemption Exam will be given on WEDNESDAY
DECEMBER 7, 1983
7-9 p.m.
HASBROUCK 20
The exam is for exemption from Level II Core 'B' (English 152). This test is open only to students who entered as freshmen prior to Fall 1982 or transfers who will be juniors before Fall 1984. Bring student I.D. and a pen.

UHURU

The UMass Third World Performing Ensemble is hosting a PREVIEW of their Fall' 83 production "UHURU - freedom of motion" at Butterfield Dorm, Central Tonite at 9:00 p.m.
FREE!
Sponsored by: East Side Arts Council, Central Area Gov't , OH/C program support funds, and Butterfield Arts Group.
Watch for our performances Fri, Sat, & Sun in Hampden Theatre, SW!

HOT TUBS NOW OPEN HOT TUBS
UTOPIA SPAS
Call for reservations at 253-SPAS
Open 11 am-1 am...Walk-ins are welcome
A COMPLETE THERAPEUTIC & RELAXATION FACILITY
• Hot Tub Whirlpool Spas • Float To Relax Tank • Therapeutic Massage • Suntan Lounge Room (Memberships available) • All natural refreshments available • Warm, comfortable lounge area with wood stove • A clean safe and supervised environment • Each area wired for your own favorite music or sounds. . .AND MUCH MORE. . .
TAKE A DEEP BREATH & RELAX!!! clip and save
ANY VISIT TO UTOPIA SPAS
(Good towards a soak, tan or tank)
Located at 175 University Drive, Price Chopper Mall, Amherst
(coupon valid through November 30, 1983)
one coupon per visit, per person
★ $1 OFF HOT TUBS ★ $1 OFF HOT TUBS

FREE SHOW
"NATURE'S BEAUTY"
"GANNETS of BONAVENTURE"
★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★
by JOHN GREEN NATURALIST
TONIGHT: MON. DECEMBER 5, 6:00 P.M. RM 905 CC sponsored by CEQ

SPEAK - OUT
on Violence Against Women on the UMass Campus
Monday, Dec. 5, 7-10 PM
Skinner Hall Auditorium
Panel Disc.
Open Mike
Refreshments
Music
Self Defense
Attend and Bring Friends
East Asian Residential Education
Sexism Awareness Program
NE/Sylvan & OH/Central Women's Centers
Anacoana Center Sylvan Cultural Society

Arts

In the autumn of their lives
Is November Group in a rut?

THE NOVEMBER GROUP
Nov. 19
Bluewall

By ALISON MALOON
Collegian Staff

Bluewall. Saturday, Nov. 19. The November Group. Yes, they are considered to be Boston's most-likely-to-succeed band. Yes, their sound is basically good. Yes, they do have that rhythmic dance beat, but the band seriously lacks variety. Yes, bands should possess that special sound which distinguishes them from the others, but when that uniqueness begins to get a little monotonous, that's when it's time for a change.

And the band is changing, a little. The show at the Bluewall was a bit different from the band's early-day performances. The November Group does seem to be experiencing some attitude revisal. They did establish some audience contact and Ann Prim even smiled a few times — really! Persistant Memories, the group's recently released e.p. may be contributing to this new attitude. The songs from the record are more polished and even more warm sounding than previously recorded material. Songs bound to produce a grin such as "Put Your Back To It" are much smoother, more relaxed, much less grim. But the grimness does remain, (after all, that is their "sound") and particulary in one song, a wonderfully eerie instrumental entitled "Night Architecture," as well as in "I live Alone."

But despite some change, the band still is fairly removed. This isn't to say that the November Group should become a J. Geils-sing-a-long band (please) but rather to recommend that they become more aware of their audience. To the November Group a performance is not for audience interaction, but just a far off show. So the group remains distant and almost regimented in style, but some fans feel that this attitude is the band's attraction — they drew a good crowd on Saturday night. But their Bluewall performance at least showed that the November Group is beginning to realize that audience awareness is vital to success.

Photo by John Doucette
Ann Prim — too aloof for her own good?

Wind is comic, touching

I SAW THE WIND
Nov. 15
Campus Center Auditorium

By MARK PRATT
Collegian Correspondent

"We ate at McDonald's about 500 times ... a month!" joked Never Summer Productions, Bob Jamieson, as he described his mountaineering expeditions to the Yukon and Rocky Mountain areas of the United States and Canada.

Along with musician Mark Thompson, Jamieson was touring American colleges and universities, presenting a unique and entertaining slide show and concert, called "I Saw the Wind." A sparse audience of about 100 people came to the first of two performances by the duo. Both were held in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Although the slides were from all of Jamieson's expeditions, the main focus was on his two major accomplishments — a partial ascent of Alaska's Mt. Kennedy, and the dangerous rock climb of the Diamond on the east face of Long Peaks in Colorado.

After one of Thompson's own compositions, accompanied by some spectacular photography, Jamieson described his experience in Alaska in 1981, where he led a 37 day 250 mile ski-mountaineering expedition through the St. Elias mountains in the Yukon. During his talk, he developed an amazing rapport with the small audience, who appreciated his comic delivery.

Thompson performed some songs from his latest album, Instruments of Desire, before giving an amusing demonstration of the versatility of his band — a drummer and a bass synthesizer player. Jamieson then described his breath-taking ascent of the 900 foot sheer Diamond.

The concert closed with two familiar songs; Cat Stevens' "Where Do All the Children Play" caused a slightly depressing air when Thompson simultaneously showed slides of modern American industrialized society.

Finally, to the tune of "Somewhere over the Rainbow," the audience was treated to a series of photographs of sunsets and rainbows, all selected from Jamieson's expeditions.

Fridrikh Begelmakher and Mary Jo Grews will dance in the Pioneer Valley Ballet's production of The Nutcracker. See artslines for further information.

Treasure, but no pleasure
Nate and Hayes bombs locally

NATE AND HAYES
Directed by Ferdinand Fairfax

By JAMES TAYLOR
Collegian Correspondent

It is usually not my policy to waste good ink on bad images of celluloid, but because I have seen two good motion pictures in the span of one month (a rarity today), I will make an exception.

Nate and Hayes, Savage Islands, Savage Treasure, or whatever the hell it is being called, is another one of those let's-slop-together-some-action-set-pieces-to-make-a-movie-that-will-lure-little-kiddies-into-the-cinema-so-that-we-can-steal-their-money movies.

Tommy Lee Jones and Michael O'Keefe are the good guys, if you really care. John Hughes, a National Lampoon editor, collaborated on the screenplay.

The cinematography is bright and cheery, which it always is in a film like this. The characters, if there really are any, do not seem to have any worries. The action is in the so-called 'Saturday-matinee' tradition. I have seen these serials and I like them. This film, like Raiders of the Lost Ark, exploits action, rather than using it. The repetition of the same action scenes gets boring. The use of wide angle lenses during fights and stunts moving from one side of the screen to the next is nothing new. The quick editing and use of a Medium-Close shot to emphasize the pace is standard in action.

If you want to see a real adventure film, look for the 1960 007 flicks at a revival theater. Yes, they are edited on cassette as well as television.

Nate & Hayes is a fundamental film for certain simple-minded primates who would drop some acid then say that they just saw a wonderful adventure. And don't anyone tell me that this is paying homage to the old adventure serials or I will smash you in the face with a shovel.

This film was playing at the Hampshire-4 Theaters for one week, then dropped. Only God and the distributing company knows if it will be back. Spare me.

Artslines...

Amherst College's Department of Dramatic Arts and Dance will present Carlo Goldoni's The Servant of Two Masters in Fayerweather Theater Dec. 6-14. The 18th century comedy will be directed by visiting professor Richard Edelman, with original music composed by Lewis Spratlan and choreography by Spider Kedlesky. For further information, call 542-2195.

Bertolt Brecht's The Good Woman of Setzuan continues at Smith College's Theater 14 Dec. 8, 9 and 10. All performances begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $4 for the general public, $2 for students and senior citizens. For further information, call 584-3023.

Pioneer Valley Ballet will present The Nutcracker at 3 p.m. Dec. 11 at Greenfield High School, at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Dec. 17 at the Academy of Music in Northampton and at 3 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 18 (also at the Academy of Music). Tickets are available at the Academy of Music Box Office, or by calling 584-8435.

The UMass Vocal Jazz and Afro-American Music Ensemble, under the direction of Horace Clarence Boyer, will present its fall concert at 8 p.m., tonight at Bezanson Recital Hall in the Fine Arts Center. Guest artists will be LeBoi Blair and Peter Levesque. The concert is free of charge. For further information, call the Department of Music and Dance at 545-2227.

The Early Music Ensemble in residence at the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington will present a program of music from the Shakespeare plays, from early 17th century France and from 14th century Italy in Buckley Recital Hall at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 7. For further information, call 542-2195 (mornings).

Keyboardist Ramsey Lewis and Trumpet player Wynton Maralis will perform a double bill concert at 8 p.m. on Dec. 11 in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall as par. of the Duke Ellington Series. For ticket information, call the Fine Arts Center Box Office at 545-2511.

The Fine Arts Center's seventh season of Concerts For Young People continues with Amhl and the Night Visitors, a theatrical production of Gian Carlo Menotti's classic holiday opera, at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 12. For further information, call 545-0190.

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Agrios	Plant Pathology 2/e	$14.50
Aziueso	Lecturas Periodistucas	$5.00
Beck	Motivation 2/e	$12.50
Beck	Mechanics of Materials	$16.75
Bubrow	Elem. Linear Circuit Analysis	$19.00
Bustzin	Psych Today	$12.50
Boger	Elementary Differential Equations BVP	$15.00
Baymer	Intro. to Hotel & Restaurant Mgt.	$7.00
Burnham	Democracy in the making	$12.00
Carson	Macroeconomic Issues Today	$3.50
Christensen	Policy Formulation and Administration	$13.00
Clydesdale	Food, Nutrition & You	$7.00
Comeaw	Ensemble	$8.50
Compton	Inside Chemistry	$12.00

THE ONCE AND FUTURE FIRE:

James Baldwin
and
Roger Wilkins
Ponder U.S. Society
on the Eve of 1984

and Discuss their works,

Sponsored by Chancellor Joseph Duffey of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and Five College Black Studies, Inc

The Fire Next Time and A Man's Life

James Baldwin, noted author and civil rights activist, recipient of Rosenwald and Guggenheim fellowships and the National Institute of Arts and Letters Award, is currently Five College Professor of Literature

Roger Wilkins, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist for his Washington Post editorials on Watergate and former Assistant Attorney General, is presently a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

Thursday, December 8, 1983, 8 p.m.
Campus Center, Room 101
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

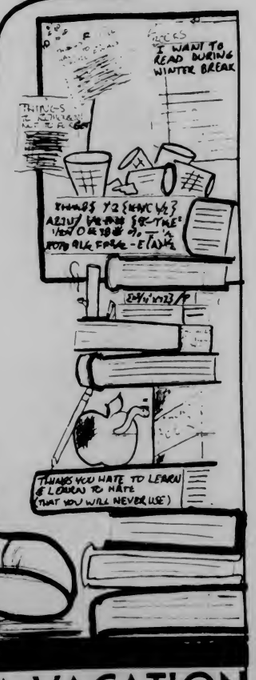
Great Gifts

Clothing Earrings
Stocking Stuffers
Posters Cards

Mugs Rugs Vases
Tree Ornaments
Crystals Calendars

Stuffed Animals Toys
Boxes, Tins, Mobiles, etc.
Candy Tea Tea Sets

SALE up to 30% OFF selected
Blouses, Skirts, Dresses
Sweaters, Jackets



Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM

THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS – GREAT PRICES

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27

YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW

MEETINGS
WED DEC 7 SOUTHWEST
7:00 pm HAMPTON-SOUTHSIDE
THURS DEC 8, ROOM 164
4:00 pm CAMPUS CENTER

TABLES WED-FRI DEC 7-9
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH
FOR MORE INFO CALL 545-3437

MANUFACTURING/ FINANCIAL ANALYST

Develop your technical and problem-solving skills with Varian's Semiconductor Equipment Group—a research, design and manufacturing organization specializing in semiconductor fabrication equipment. As a contributor to our team environment, you'll enjoy the recognition and rewards you deserve. And you'll find plenty of opportunities and encouragement to develop professionally. If you're a motivated innovator, explore the following high visibility opening at Varian SEG.

Reporting to the Director of Manufacturing Operations, you will evaluate manufacturing procedures and maintain a high level of financial performance for the department. You'll develop monitoring systems and controls as well as assist in justifying capital equipment recommendations. Acting as liaison between Manufacturing and Accounting, you'll help generate computer systems design for financial operations. You will also review budgeting and inventory management techniques, develop variances and assist with financial training for manufacturing personnel.

This key position calls for a clear understanding of accounting practices and financial controls for a high technology manufacturing environment. You should have familiarity with budgets, standards and inventory management for manufacturing systems. Qualified applicants should also have solid interpersonal and communications skills. A Bachelors degree in Industrial Engineering or Accounting is desirable, an MBA is preferred.

Along with unique opportunities for career development, Varian SEG offers a Rte 128 location on beautiful Cape Ann. You can enjoy all the benefits of scenic North Shore living with Boston's cultural resources close by. We are an equal opportunity employer. To explore this position please send your resume to:

Hugh B. McGettigan
Manager, College Relations
VARIAN SEMICONDUCTOR GROUP
Gloucester, MA 01930

varian

Now's the time to call

North Amherst Motors

Expert repairs & reconditioning.

Rt. 63, No Amherst

549-2880

Over 35,000 books at

40-80% OFF

publishers list price
Sci-Fi/Sports/Art
Poetry/Mystery
Fishing/Drama
Dance/Music
Field Guides

VALLEY BOOKSHOP
5 E. Pleasant St.
(next to Hampshire National Bank)
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Sat
12-4 Sun
549-6052

Attention College Students...

We're Ready To Go!!

Papa Gino's

College Pizza Specials

- The more Pizzas you order, the more you save...for pick-up or eat-in
- Great for Pizza Parties!

COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON Limit 1 Coupon - Not Good on Specials

Student must show College Identification Card to get discount.

Quantity Purchased	Discount	Quantity Purchased	Discount
1 Pizza	10%	3 Pizzas	20%
2 Pizzas	15%	4 Pizzas	25%
		Over 5 Pizzas	30%

Papa Gino's PIZZA & MORE Mts. Farms Mall Hadley, MA Call: 584-0220 Expires 2/26/84

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

Today

UMASS OUTING CLUB MEETING — Everyone is welcome to attend our meetings. Come see a slideshow on Greenland. See Outing Club board next to SUB for location. 7 p.m. location to be announced.

COMMUNICATIONS STUDIES CLUB MEETING — General meeting of club. The raffle will be discussed. Plans for final wine and cheese party will also be discussed. 4 p.m., ComStu lounge.

UNITED JEWISH APPEAL INFORMATION TABLE — UJA has a table set up in the Campus Center Concourse where information about the organization can be obtained. 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Campus Center Concourse.

UMASS AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION MEETING — This will be our last regular meeting this semester. Next year's budget will be discussed. Check CC schedule for room number. 7:30 p.m. Campus Center.

VOCAL JAZZ ENSEMBLE'S WINTER CONCERT — UMass Afro American Music Dept. presents; under the direction of Dr. Horace Clarence Boyer; the Vocal Jazz Ensemble's winter concert. Come and enjoy! Bring a friend! 8 p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall (FAC).

CONCERT: THE UMASS VOCAL JAZZ AND AFRO AMERICAN ENSEMBLE — Ensemble will perform "I'm Home," "When I fall in Love," and "O Come, O Come Emmanuel." Guest performers LeRoi Blair and Peter Levesque. 8 p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall.

W.L.P. BROWN BAG DISCUSSION — Wilesse Comissong will speak on the Homefront: Domesticity and Economic Solvency. All are invited to join. 12:30 p.m. CC 162.

UMASS HUNGER TASK FORCE MEETING — Discussion about first newsletter. 4:30 p.m. 428 Student Union.

GENERAL MEETING — Hear State Representative Royall Switzler speak on legislative rules reform and State House politics. Everyone welcome. 9 p.m. CC 804.

STUDENTS ADVOCATING FINANCIAL AID (SAFA) — General meeting — elections will be held. New members welcome!! 7 p.m. CC 917.

ANTI-RACISM TEAM MEETING — The Anti-Racism team will meet to finish planning for "The Many Faces of Racism" panel discussion. Come and join the team! 4 p.m. CC 801.

SLIDE PRESENTATION — John Green will show his color slides of New England, "Natures Beauty" and the coast "Gannetts of Banaventure." Take a new look at the world around you with this dynamic show. 6 p.m. CC 905.

EARTH DAY MEETING — The first and probably most idealistic meeting for next semester's celebration of the earth will need you and your ideas to work. Get involved in a better environment. Call 5-0618 if you can't make it. 8 p.m. 905 CC.

Tuesday

UMASS HORSEMASTER'S CLUB — Last meeting of the semester. A fun trail ride will be discussed. We will also vote on whether or not to manage the Intercollegiate team. 7 p.m. 311 Stockbridge.

ZULU MEETING: UMASS WOMENS ULTIMATE TEAM — There will be a meeting of ZULU, the UMass women's Ultimate Team. All women interested in playing this spring, please join us! Any questions call Taara: 546-9765. 7 p.m. CC 811.

HISTORY AS ENTERTAINMENT — The topic will be: "Fun and Profit at the Bastille," with Professor Charles Rearick speaking. Presented by the UMass History Club. 7 p.m. CC 174.

"THE MANY FACES OF RACISM" — A panel composed of leaders from the Five College educational community will discuss topics including: Racism in U.S. Foreign and Corporate Policy, Institutional Racism, and Racism and Education. 8 p.m. CC 101.

WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP PROJECT — A general meeting which will include a discussion of upcoming events for this semester, plans for January and next semester. All are welcome. 7 p.m. 415 Student Union.

FILM: "THE GREAT DICTATOR" — A tragi-comic masterpiece starring Charlie Chaplin, this film is his first with dialogue and marks the final appearance of his famed "tramp" character. Sponsored by Hillel. 7:30 p.m. Thompson 104.

LUNCH WITH THE RABBI — Informal lunch time get-together with Rabbi Saul Perlmutter. All are welcome. 12 - 1 p.m. CC 802.

DISCOVER NEW ENGLAND CLUB MEETING — Important organizational meeting. All members must attend. 7 p.m. 172 CC.

VALLEY WOMEN'S VOICE COLLECTIVE MEETING — There will be an important meeting, open to all women at Everywoman's Center. For more information contact Amy at EWC by calling 545-0883. 7:30 p.m. Everywoman's Center.

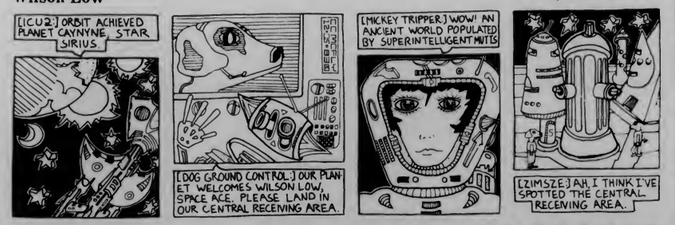
UMASS LESBIAN UNION GENERAL MEETING — All university women are invited to join us to discuss issues and plan events. 7 p.m. 406G Student Union.

PROGRESSIVE STUDENT NETWORK MEETING — Peacemakers, Students Against Militarism and the Radical Student Union have merged. Organizational meeting. 7 p.m. Suffolk Room SUB.

WOMEN'S ISSUES TEAM MEETING — Join us to discuss violence against women and what we can do about it. 4 p.m. CC 803.

Bloom County by Berke Breathed

Scrod by Dan DeBellis

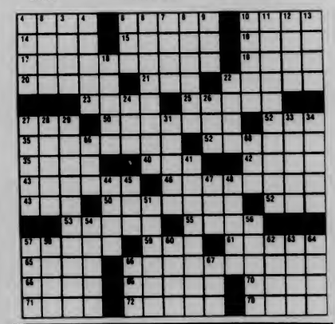


Superbad by G.H.

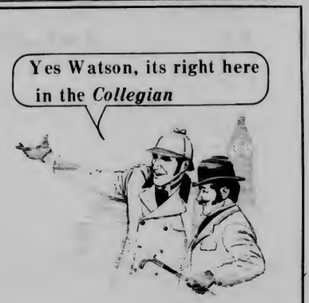
After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

Quentin by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE



Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

© 1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Word with ware
5 Israeli port
10 Vacationer's choice
14 Domingo's forte
15 Biting
16 Arabic father
17 Gainful
19 Took the trolley
20 Metric unit
21 Abbr. in a gazetteer
22 Galvanizer
23 Composed of: Abbr.
25 Official in early Rome
27 "— Got You Under My Skin"
30 Relating to heat
32 Univ. degrees
35 Critic
37 Elephant-tender
39 Arrow poison
40 Play-it-again man
42 Role for a Shakespearean
43 Time of day
46 One who interferes
49 Scornful exclamation
50 Plant with purple flowers
52 Help with the dishes
53 Sky blue
55 Venetian dignitary of old
57 Ultimate
59 River of central Asia
61 Spa on Lake Geneva
65 Lombardy city
66 Smallest state's largest city
68 Outstanding figure
69 19th cen. French composer
70 Church court
71 Virginia of tennis
72 Facing a glacier
73 State of agitation

DOWN
1 Timeworn sayings
2 Easy gait
3 Irish Republic, formerly
4 Mother: Prefix
5 Command to a team
6 Heel or tendon
7 Resplendent bloom
8 Stuffing
9 Lemon additive
10 Sing joyously
11 On the level
12 Style
13 Boy, in Caesar's day
18 And so
22 Isinglass
24 Cornfield call
26 Indistinct
27 Kind of stew
28 Location of a trial
29 Impartial
31 Take the stump
33 Tool kit item
34 Reporter's goal
36 Ending with book
38 Make haste
41 Islands SW of India
44 Hebrew month
45 Hilltop rockpile
47 "O Sole —"
48 Called for 51 City in the news
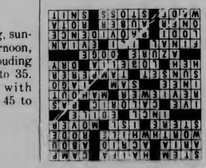
54 Kinshasa's country
56 One of a famous baseball trio
57 Stream
58 Inner Hebrides island
60 Timber wolf
62 Gel — the groundfloor
63 Dramatic beginning
64 Polished
66 — de deux
67 Gvt. service

DC Menu

LUNCH
Reuben Sandwich
Corn Fritters/
Sausage Patties,
Syrup

BASICS LUNCH
Spinach Noodle
Casserole
Corn Fritters/
Syrup



DINNER
Roast Lamb/
Gravy, Mint Jelly
Chicken a la King/
Biscuit
Fruit Plate with Saltines

BASICS DINNER
Carrot Loaf/
White Sauce
Chicken a la King/
Biscuit

Weather

Cloudy this morning, sunny during the afternoon, highs in the 40s. Clouding up tonight, lows 25 to 35. Tuesday cloudy with showers likely, highs 45 to 50.

Todays puzzle answer

Women gymnasts finish second to the Wildcats

By KEVIN DELUCA
Collegian Staff

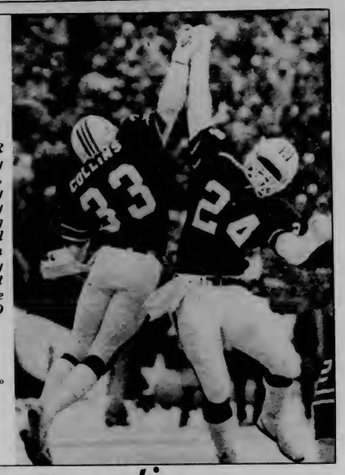
After the University of Massachusetts Invitational was over Friday night, the women's gymnastics teams were where they were expected to be, with the University of Massachusetts finishing in second behind New Hampshire and ahead of Connecticut and Northeastern. However, it took all four events and two stellar performances by Robin Low for the Minutewomen to capture second place.

The meet started off ominously for UMass, as their first competitor, Maureen Sutherby, in their first event, the vault, sprained her ankle and was lost for the meet. What made it worse was that Sutherby was competing as an all-around.

"By NCAA rules you cannot replace an all-around, though you can replace a specialist," explained UMass coach Ken Anderson. "It meant every score counted (instead of the best five out of six)."

After each team had completed two events (the Minutewomen's second event, the uneven bars, was their worst of the night), UMass was in last place while New Hampshire had already occupied first place.

Despite trailing the pack, it was fairly obvious that the Minutewomen were a better team than either UConn or Northeastern and should beat them. Also, UMass' last two events, the balance beam and the floor exercises, were their best. Catching UNH, however, was out of the question, as the Wildcats were exhibiting great execution while performing very difficult tricks.



On the balance beam, co-captain Barbara Lord and Low gave the two best performances of the night in that event, receiving scores of 8.95 and 9.15, respectively. The team total of 42.55 was the high of the meet for the balance bean and moved the Minutewomen into third place, behind UNH and UConn.

In the floor exercises, Abigail Farris led off for UMass, and proved that despite missing last year with a knee injury, she is still an extremely graceful dancer. However, it was Low who once again gave the best performance. Her flashy dancing and her nearly flawless execution of some daring tricks, had the appreciative standing-room-only crowd entranced. The judges were nearly as appreciative as the audience and awarded Low a 9.1.

The Minutewomen's team score of 41.60 on the floor exercises gave them a total of 162.05 for the meet — good enough to edge UConn for second place. UConn finished at 160.60 while UNH easily took first with a team total of 171.20. Northeastern ended up with a 159.55.

"I was very pleased with the way the girls pulled together and really helped each other (after the injury to Sutherby)," said Anderson. "I knew we could come back — the floor exercises and balance beam are very strong events for us."

The Minutewomen now have until January 14th, when they host Duke, to practice their more difficult tricks and to perfect their routines as well as to recover from various injuries and illnesses.

WHAT A DAY FOR FOOTBALL — As many avid fans will attest to, snow is great to play football in. Many games were being played yesterday all over campus and in Foxboro where Tony Collins and Robert Weathers exchange high fives after a TD against New Orleanes.

AP Laserphoto

★ men's gymnastics

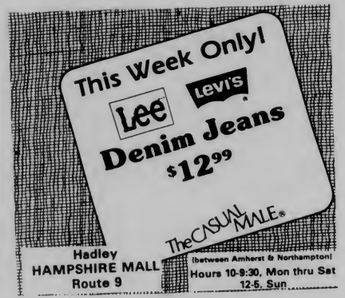
continued from p. 16

make them a little cleaner and more consistent."

Mathieson performed well on the rings scoring a 9.15 and leading the pack. Ciccione followed behind with an 8.95 as the Minutemen took the event 42.3-41.25.

UMass lost long horse vaulting by 3.15 points despite a difficult vault by Phil Gorgone. Placing behind Smith (9.6) and Doug Garmer (9.4), Gorgone performed a layout tsukhara with a slight pike scoring a 9.3.

Mathieson (8.65) and Dougherty (8.35) placed first and third respectively in the parallel bars event for UMass. The team had a rough high bar set with Joe Demarco placing third for UMass with an 8.7. Demarco who competed with sore ankles due to hurting them in practice last week, will sit out the meet against Lowell.



"It's nothing major," Johnson said. "Because he took some time off for the ankles he needs some time to work and brush up on his routines."

UMass will travel to Lowell on Wednesday for a week-night meet.

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM
HOUSING SERVICES

Emphasis on career advancement skills internship awards spring semester stipends of $3.65/hr. - 15 hr/wk and 3 credits independent study.
Interested sophomores and juniors should submit resume, personal goal statement, and 2 letters of recommendation by Dec. 9, 1983. Send application materials to:
Joya Jimenez, Intern Coordinator
c/o Affirmative Action Office
307 Whitmore
For information call: 5-0472 or 5-1550

Pursuing A Career In The Arts?
The Fine Arts Center has internships available in the following areas:
ARTS MANAGEMENT
CONCERT HALL MANAGEMENT
PUBLICITY
PRODUCTION SERVICES
For more information, call the Internship Office 545-0727

SKI POWDER WINTER BREAK
UMASS SKI CLUB
JACKSON HOLE
WYOMING JAN 10 - 17
TRIP INCLUDES:
ROUND TRIP AIRFARE & TRANSFERS
5 DAY LIFT TICKET JACKSON HOLE
8 DAYS, 7 NIGHT LUXURIOUS CONDOS
COLLEGE SKI FEST ACTIVITIES
(TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $559
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 545-3437

MILLER SPORTS NIGHT

MILLER HIGH LIFE WRISTWRESTLING SERIES
It's grip-and-grimace time. Miller's popular wristwrestling series — open to all challengers men and women feather-weight light-weight middle-weight and heavy-weight categories
Prizes trophies applause and glory. Sign up now. Come and compete or come and cheer for your favorite competitors 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Blue Wall
Pre-registration at Blue Wall from 12-7 p. m. at the bar
MILLER BEER SPECIAL
18 years and older

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.
Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL
- Learn the causes of low back pain.
- Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
- Learn exercises to care for your low back.
- Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.

Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge
Amherst Chiropractic Center
190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation

shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
20-50% savings
on all fall shoes
also many boot specials
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

AUTO FOR SALE

1980 Mazda 626 38000 miles AM FM cssst great shape 546-6033

73 Comet 77k mi stereo great condition $400 call Rick 549-3679

1979 Malibu 4 door a/cond exc. body some motor prob. runs good 1800$ or BO Kathi 546-6492 must sell!

VW Bug 1971 80,000 mi. no rust, heater works; overall, in excellent shape $1250 253-7396

1976 Chevette autotrans great mpg all new under hood cassette/stereo exc cond $1695. 546-8739

72 VW Squareback, radial tires, new front fenders, trans. just replaced, sunroof, rebuilt dual carbs, dependable transportation, $350 549-7883

BETTER GRADES

New Report reveals effective techniques to help you study for exams and pass!! Even if you have to cram!! Valuable aid to any student send $2.00 to P.O. Box 1155 Northampton MA 01061

CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEA

Enamel Earrings in a handsome gift box, 6 pairs for $5. Call evenings Lisa or Mary Ann 549-7611.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations
Marc Carey
Lambert Sheng
Tom Tullie
John Garrity
Jim Kearns
PI KAPPA ALPHA!

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

New Years in Montreal College New Years Party Weekend $69 + tax/grat. round trip transportation 3 days 2 nights hotel News Years Eve Party admission and more call Maureen for details 549-1671

UHURU - UMass Third World Performing Ensemble PREVIEW! Tonight @ 9:00 in Butterfield Dm; Central FREE! sponsored by BAG OH/C area govt, house council & Eastside Arts Council

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Bedroom available in #16 Swiss Village starting Jan 25. Takeover lease until Aug 31. Rent 174.00/mo includes utilities call Nancy after 5 256-1286

Mature parson for room in Northwood Apt occupy Dec 23 - Jan 1 call evenings 665-8567

Two persons wanted to share room in Rolling Green apartment 256-0058

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 $12.

If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Skis - K2 shorts, 195cm, barely used. Boots - Nordica Cosmos, size 10M, good condition 125 for both call Kim 549-6689, Dave 549-7755

Wholesale prices rings, necklaces, watches, 10-14 crt gold jewelry call 546-4408 for more info unbelievable low prices

1982 Gibson ES335 TOB Accosunburst mint cond $490 Craig 256-1231

Lab Series mint guitar amplifier Gibson SG must sell BO 6-9283

New Polaroid Camaras 2 models $15 to $20 call Glen 246-6456

Yamaha FG340 six string folk guitar great condition - $100 Julie at 546-6425

Ski Boots Pair of high performance Technica 'pro' ski boots, size 8½ one season, excellent condition interested? call Morgan 6-5469

Volvo 68 very low mileage one owner good condition call 549-7877

Typewriter interchangeable type elements, correction ribbon, etc. $250 or BO 586-9305 8 am - 11 pm

FOUND

Joan M pick up your wallet at the CC Information Desk

HELP WANTED

Part-time Christmas help. Good pay. Good hours. Good location. 253-3834 anytime

Production Managar - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challenging job in a student controlled business. Two year committment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in SU 403. Application due 12/7 AA/EEO 545-2271

GMAT Instructor required qualification high GMAT scores teaching experience preferred Springfield Kaplan Center 1-737-3788

The Collegian has an opening for an associate black affairs editor. This is a salaried position. Prior experience not a necessity. The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer.

The Collegian has openings for a women's issues editor and an associate women's issues editor. Both are salaried positions. Get involved. The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer.

LOST

Lost 11-30 CC downstairs ladies room unique stone brown/blue ring with deep sentimental value reward Beth 253-9414

2 tame birds: white parakeet and grey cockatiel Riverglade Apts. 256-1323/549-6000

PERSONALS

* College * Spring * Break ****
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe •
• Motor Coach Transportation •
• • ocean front accommodation7 night •
• • Welcome Party with FREE BEER •
• Make reservations Now and Save $20 •
• Check out our table in the •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*AB*E*A*C*H

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE

Housing available for spring semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Mr. W Happy 20! I hope it's a good one 'cause you're the best! I love you. Mr. S. W

Intersession Housing. Any university women interested in living in SDT Sorority house during wintersession contact Sue G 545-0527 for more info

Happy 20th Birthday Suzanne XO Judy have a great day

Petar feel like a newborn babe? Hope the operation was a success. Don't worry it will grow back soon

SUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR

Sugarbush Valley
Ski & Party Week Jan 22-27
5½ day lift ticket 5 nights lodging
hotel, with meals or condo
free beer & wine parties, hot tub party
long underwear party, turtle races
Nastar races, Sugarbush coupon book etc
Hotel Package only $184
Condo Package only $189
for more info call 545-3437 LAGNAF 84

Ski Powder Winter Break
Jackson Hole
Round trip airfare & transfers
transportation to & from airport
8 day - 7 night accomodations
gorgeous condos, wine & cheese party
hot tub party, beer slalom, free t-shirt
5½ day lift ticket for Jackson Hole
for more info call 545-3437

Hi Bri Happy Ann. You made it. Love Demo!!!

- Collegian Staff - Mandatory staff meeting, Thursday, Dec. 8, 7:00 pm in the newsroom. Topics include intersession paper, new editors, and a Christmas party

Nick Cokas Happy Birthday!! from Cyn

Will you install my car stereo? Generous compensation call Ilisa 549-5820

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

To Denver Colorado before Jan 1 will share driving & gas Gary 546-6027

Ride needed to Bradley Airfield I need a ride to Bradley Tuesday December 20 morning. Must be there by 11 am please call Sherry 253-7854

RIDERS WANTED

Rider to Los Angeles leav after finals? Doug 323-7774

ROOM WANTED

Quiet responsible clean senior looking for room in house or apt for spring semester call Rich 549-1215

ROOMMATE WANTED

Looking for 1 or 2 females for spring semester at Brittany Manor call 253-5560

Serious student wanted for apartment in Presidential $115/month call at night 549-0740

Female Brittany start Feb 1 call Linda 549-1754

Female roommate needed spring semester Brandywine 549-0505

Looking for 1 female to share Brittany Manor apt starting Jan 1 call 253-3796

Large bedroom available in pleasant Townhouse apartment starting January call Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

TO SUBLET

Colonial Village 147.50 from Dec 23 call 256-1375 after 5 pm

Help! 3 female sublettors wanted for intersession 3 bdrm in Townhouse apts rent neg 549-5216

Belchertown Ctr spacious 4 bedroom house available Jan 1 call 323-7310

Help 3 female sublettors wanted for intersession 3 bdrm in Townhouse Apts rent neg 549-5216

TRAVEL

New Years in Montreal College New Years Party Weekend $69 + tax/grat. round trip transportation 3 days 2 nights hotel News Years Eve Party admission and more call maureen for details 549-1671

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley: #3 U.S. fighter. Next semester! 256-0080 CALL NOW!

VENDERS WANTED

Vendars wanted to sell original arts and crafts for GPC and craftshop fund raiser. On the CC Concourse Dec 7, 8, 9 contact Penny in the SUB Craftshop

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

Atten Photogs: last years Gymnastics photos? Call 549-1889 after 8:00

WANTED TO RENT

2 females want space in house or apt Amherst area for spring semester call 546-3293

I am looking for a two or three bedroom apt in Amherst, North Amherst. call Paul or Tony 665-7605 starting Jan 1

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Urgent! Apartment for intersession starting Dec or Jan on bus line call 546-5725

Seeking two bedroom apt in house or a room in one for spring semester 256-1069

Sports

More Sports on Page 14

UM struggles but prevails over Bentley

By BILL SHEA
Collegian Staff

The show at the Curry Hicks Cage Saturday afternoon had all the elements of a Clint Eastwood flick — the good, the bad and the ugly.

The good, of course, was that the University of Massachusetts basketball team defeated division II Bentley 80-75, boosting their record to 2-0 on the year. The bad was that they didn't look very good doing it. The referees took care of the ugly.

Although UMass controlled the contest most of the way, their largest lead was just eight points. And more than a few fans were disappointed that the Minutemen couldn't bury their division II opponent.

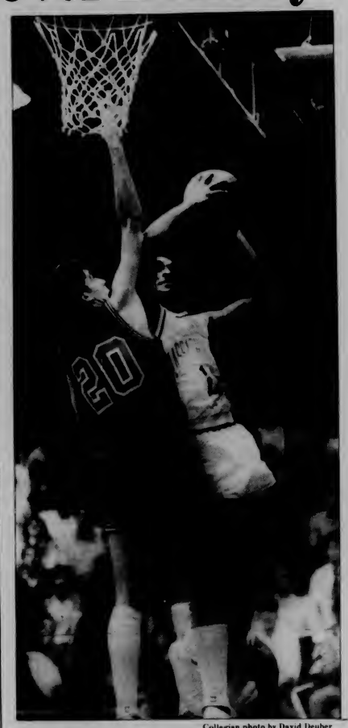
"People who have followed basketball the last few years know the days are over that you can just show up and win," said UMass first year head coach Ron Gerlufsen, who was yet to taste defeat as a college coach. "Teams you never heard of are knocking off major college teams. I think expecting our guys to come in and blow Bentley out is unfair pressure."

Bentley hung close early. The biggest first half lead for UMass was 27-19 on two free throws by John Hempel, who finished with a game high 22 points.

UMass led 39-37 at halftime and built up a 53-45 lead when Hempel followed up a Edwin Green miss. But Bentley scored eight straight points to produce a 55-55 tie with 11 minutes remaining.

The teams traded hoops until Hempel nailed a 15 foot jump shot and a free throw. Then Horace Neysmith (18 points, 13 rebounds) hit three consecutive free throws to give UMass a 76-59 lead with 1:20 left in the game.

Here comes the ugly. The officiating throughout the game was questionable and may have hurt Bentley's comeback. Trailing 78-75 with 18 seconds left, Bentley's Andres Cabrero fouled Hempel. But a new rule in college hoop this year states that two shots will be awarded for any foul with under two minutes left in the game. The purpose of the rule is to take the pressure off the referee so he doesn't have to decide between an itentional foul, which is a two shot foul, and the customary one and one penalty shot.



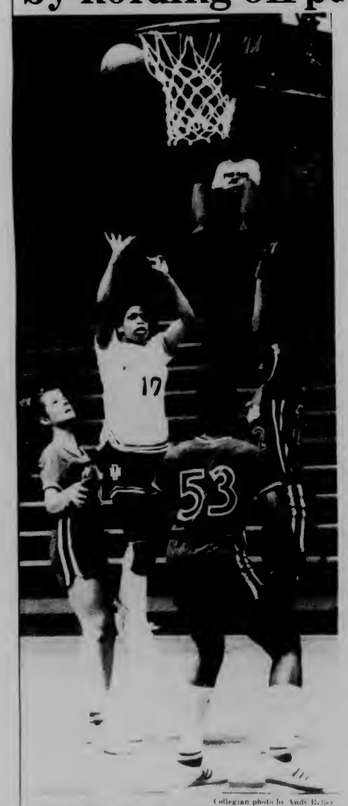
But referee Paul Campbell decided to tack on a "T" on Bentley for an intentional foul. So UMass had three free throws, one of which they made and they also got posession of the ball due to the technical.

A Donald Russell foul shot iced the win for UMass. "I don't like that rule," said Gerlufsen. "Because it makes the last 10 minutes a lot longer."

The Minutemen are now 2-0 for the first time since 1977-78. But there are still problems to be worked out. The problems aren't physical, they are mental. A good example is the fact that Bentley managed at least six offensive rebounds off of missed free throws. Considering Gerlufsen stressed mental toughness in his pre-game talk, the let-down in this area is not a good sign as the Minuteman start their Southern swing next wing.

MASSACHUSETTS — Neysmith 6-6-18, Hemple 6-10-22, Green 2-0-4, Carl Smith 1-2-4, Russell 6-3-15, Braun 5-0-10, Craig Smith 3-0-6, Connors 0-1-1.

BENTLEY — Wilkinson 1-0-2, Jones 6-0-12, Orlando 8-5-21, Woodley 2-3-7, Cizyinski 3-0-6, Calzonetti 2-3-7, Dixon 6-2-14, Riley 1-2-4, Carboreo 1-0-2.



Collegian photo by David Deuber

OUTTA MY WAY — Donald Russell drives to the hoop against UNH similar to the way he did against Bentley in UMass 80-75 win over the Falcons.

Women hoopsters take first win by holding off pesky Vermont

By ED CUNNINGHAM
Collegian Staff

Collegian photo by Andy Reiter

THE DRIVE FOR TWO — Senior guard Wendy Ward takes a jumper in a crowd of St. John's players last Tuesday.

By 8:45 p.m. Saturday night, the University of Massachusetts women's basketball game was history. Looking across the now empty floor, the two coaches on their respective benches told the whole story without saying a word. University of Vermont head coach Robyn Markey was trying to find some justice in her team's third straight loss against no victories. On the home side, first year head coach Barbara Stevens was reflecting on a little personal history. By a score of 62-58, the team had achieved their first victory of the season and the first victory under Stevens.

The final two minutes of this contest were no doubt the most exciting and perhaps the most important of the young season for UMass.

Vermont seemed like an easy victory after the first half of play as UMass had a commanding 29-20 lead. "I felt we were in control in the first half, but I had heard Vermont was a scrappy team which could have come back," stated Stevens.

The Catamounts proved Stevens correct, almost word for word. Vermont came out in the second half and scored the first four points of the half. The rest of the half was a 'see-saw' battle. Catamounts Margaret Anderson and Cindy Malinowski were causing problems for the UMass defense. The Minutewomen, which used man to man, full court press and zone defenses, were occasionally caught off guard by the drives by Malinowski and the strong rebounding by Anderson. The nine point lead was cut to only two with 2:15 left to play.

Following two quick buckets by Vermont, and a questionable out of bounds call against UMass, The Catamounts were up by four 58-54. UMass scored a strong two points by Jerrie Bernier (15 points) under the hoop. Wendy Ward's tenacious full court press defense caused a turnover and an easy layup for Ward to tie the score at fifty eights.

On the next trip down the court, Karen Damminger stole a Vermont and put UMass up by two with an easy bucket. With ten seconds left, Vermont was still in the hunt. Once again Damminger stole the ball, was fouled, and with ten seconds left, scored her 21st and 22nd points of the game from the charity line.

As the Catamounts traveled down the floor, the UMass crowd counted down the last few seconds and then the uproar began. The entire UMass team was leaping, shouting and congratulating each other as the disappointed Catamounts trudged to their locker room.

It was a few seconds later when the two coaches were seen in their reflecting poses. The summation from an excited coach Stevens was this, "The first one is always the hardest, but it feels great. Yes, I would like some more," claimed Stevens.

UMass (1-3) will have their next opportunity for a victory Tuesday when they travel to play the Harvard Crimson. Last year's meeting ended with a 72-64 victory for UMass.

Gymnasts drop opener to Army

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

There always seems to be a light at the end of the tunnel and the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team's 255.65-247.40 loss to Army on Saturday, there were a few bright spots that shined.

It was the lack of getting through the routines and missed tricks which contributed to the defeat, something the Minutemen will be working hard on in the next couple of days before their second meet of the season against Lowell.

"We had 20 major breaks on 30 routines," Coach Roy Johnson said. "It was the worst we've ever had yet this team has the most talent. Army just didn't have too many major breaks. That's the key."

Ken Dougherty displayed the team's talent, along with Bert Mathieson and Eric Ciccione. Dougherty took the top honors in the pommel horse event with 9.4. "It was just a tough day but there were a few bright spots," tri-captain Jim Corbett said. "Ken had an outstanding set, but besides that we were really glum. He really came through for us." Johnson agreed, "He was the real bright spot," and added, "Bert looked good in the first three events and had a nice ring routine and Eric's ring routine looked great." Mathieson came in first all around with a 52.85.

The first event, floor exercises, turned out to be the team's best score — a 42.95. However Army took the top three spots, with Mike Smith (scoring a 9.65 for first), and won the event with a 45.8.

UMass won the pommel horse event 39.3-39.1. After Dougherty's 9.4, Mathieson placed second with 9.15. Despite the good scores it was, again, the breaks which kept the horse scores down and are "like a knife in the back" according to Johnson.

"We talked about it in the gym but we're not really sure (what's wrong). It has something to do with not being conditioned correctly or the routines are too hard for them. We'll try to rearrange the routines and

continued on p. 14

NUMMO NEWS

connected with the Collegian for the sole purpose of distribution

December 5, 1983 Volume 12 Issue 12

Black Woman Arrested in Crampton Fires

by Segun Eubanks
Nummo Staff

On Friday, December 2, at approximately 5:00 pm., officers from the state and university police departments took Yvette Henry, a 20 year old Crampton Resident Assistant, into custody in connection with the rash of fires that have plagued Crampton dormitories this semester. Three hours later officials arrested Yvette Henry and charged her with two complaints alleging burning the property of another.

Friends and family of Henry, particularly from the Third World Community were shocked and outraged at the circumstances surrounding the investigation and arrest. Aside from the official announcement, police have not released any information concerning evidence of witnesses against Henry.

Chuck DiMare, Henry's lawyer, "hopes authorities have not made her a scapegoat," said Michael Pill, an attorney who works with DiMare at the student-financed Legal Services Office.

Students and faculty got together to help raise enough funds to get Henry released from Franklin County Jail in Greenfield, Ma. Bond was set at $10,000 and the group successfully raised the $1,000 cash needed for bail late Sunday. Henry will be arraigned Monday morning in Northampton District Court.

Editorial

The arrest of Yvette Henry took the Third World community by surprise. Reactions of those who knew Yvette were that of shock and outrage. A resident of Crampton dormitory who asked not to be identified said that when the police announced Yvette's arrest more than half the people in the room broke down crying. "We just could not believe that Yvette could do that."

Reaction was similar to all those who know Yvette as the news of her arrest quickly spread on a national level. We at Nummo News believe that the Black community and in fact all of the community must take a long hard look at this investigation and arrest. We must ask a lot of questions and demand a lot of answers before we accept the conclusion of the authorities.

First of all, let us consider some facts. Yvette Henry is a senior at the university. For three years she has maintained a high grade-point average in a very difficult major, Chemistry. Yvette has never been in any sort of trouble with the police and has a perfect record as a citizen.

Now let's ask some questions. Considering Yvette's circumstances, why was her bail so high? Why did police wait until late Friday to arrest Yvette, causing major difficulty in abtaining a bondsperson and getting access to funds? If Yvette is only charged with two out of twenty fires, why are police so anxious to pin*all* the fires on her? Think about these questions.

More facts: In a letter dated December 2, 1983 from the office of Dean William Field, Yvette Henry was suspended and barred from the university. There have been actual cases where male students were caught in the act of rape and were not suspended or barred. Why did they suspend and bar Yvette?

Why is it that Black administrators could get no information from police, student activities, or the Dean's Office? Yet immediately after the arrest Philadelphia's largest radio station, WKYW began announcing the arrest every fifteen minutes.

We need answers to all these questions. But there are two more very important facts that we must examine. 1) Of the five suspects the police announced, all of them were Third World women. In a study done by the university a few years back, vandalism was described as mainly "a white male problem." Yet all five suspect were Third World women?

The second and perhaps most important fact is that since Yvette was arrested, there have been three more fires, one of them in Crampton. The police have labeled these "copy cat" fires. What proof do the police hae that these fires were not set by the original arsonist? If Yvette is innocent until proven guilty why are the police so eager to brush these latest fires off? If the original arsonist is still out there aren't the police putting the safety of all of us in jeopardy?

We must seriously consider the facts and find answers to these questions and more. Nummo News believes that Yvette Henry should be immediately reinstated so that she may have the option of completing the semester. We feel that the university should continue extensive investigations of the most recent fires to find any possible connection. Finally, we must demand that the police present sufficient evidence to the community so that we may be assured of our safety on campus.

Lastly, due to the vast publicity of the case, there is no way that Yvette can come out of this without being seriously affected. Glenn Silva, UMass student Attorney General said, "I believe irreputable damage has been done to her character and she may never be able to continue her education." Yvette and her family needs the support and help of community and friends, regardless of the outcome.

A Legend

On Dec. 2, in Sage Hall at Smith College, the group "Women of the Calabash" performed before a packed house. The group, made up of three African American women, performed traditional music from Africa, the Carribean, South American and the United States.

The group, based in New York City, seeks to preserve the musical traditions of African people all over the world, through the use of traditional instruments and songs sung in the original African tongues as well as the dialects of the Carribean and the United States.

The women performed with warmth, intelligence and humor. Between songs they would joke with one another and the audience. The group's approach was as much educating as it was entertaining. Before each song they would explain the meaning behind the songs and give insight into the variety of traditional instruments used.

They performed songs from Ghana, South Africa (Azania), Nigeria, the United States, Carribean Nations and Brazil. The musical styles ranged from traditional African ceremonial chants, to Calypso, to Blues-tinged Gospel. The "Women of the Calabash" performed with a verve, sincerity and commitment that is too often lacking in much of popular music today. "Women of the Calabash" do what few groups do today - preserve the historical and cultural traditions of African people everywhere.

It was a delight and a rare treat to observe these women in performance, and this reporter would encourage everyone to see them when and if the return to the area.

Women of the Calabash perform at Smith College. Friday, December 2

The ABC's

The Fifth Annual New England Third World Students Conference

In a shining one-man show, William David Chin, alias "Charlie" Chin, entranced his Friday audience with a performance of A.B.C.: American Born Chinese. Chin's musical and theatrical talents absorbed the UMass Bowker Auditorium audience in his description of the experience of being an A.B.C.

In the performance Chin spoke to an imaginary character, Dennis, a young Chinese American, who proclaimed, "I don't know who I am." As a New York Chinatown restaurant owner, Chin, outlined the basic differences for this young man. "Your father is a Chinese in America, not a Chinese American. He doesn't have two cultures."

After asserting that "you gotta look at the history of us Chinese people in America; we've been here for 130 years," Chin spoke of A.B.C.'s dual experiences through the generations. He described the journeys of first generation Chinese-in-America. The psychological sell of "Americans love Chinese people, the streets are paved with gold," and the bait of 'come discover your fortunes,' lured ships full of Chinese people to America; many, only to die in transit, only to dig gold instead of walking on it, and to work without due appreciation, and to live in a strange socio-cultural environment. Referring to this heritage Chin said of the Chinese translation of America, "mei guo" - literally "beautiful country," "it's not beautiful to me any more. I live in Queens."

Chin's dialogue with Dennis and the audience reflected the open experience of A.B.C.'s. Growing up familiar with Chinese phrases, Chinese cooking and old country values , in addition to American culture yields a strange mix. Chin demonstrated with his songs, "Wandering Chinaman," about the first generation of Chinese immigrants, "Noodle Connection" and "Mott Street on Sunday," describing Chinatown restaurants and culture, and "The Only Chinaman in Great Falls, Montana Blues," on the burden of not living near a strong Chinese cultural center. In addition to the lyrics' message, Chin's Western-style banjo picking and guitar strumming stressed further his sense of cultural duality.

He gave more examples relating tales of superstitions and "old ways" imported by elders, his eventual outgrowing "the stories, learn(ing) about the empirical method," but his inability to ignore the superstitions, as in washing down a Contac pill with medicinal herbs to cure a cold. He said that at a Chinese restaurant: "We want the English menu, but we wnat chopsticks, too." He spoke of difficulties in relationships with non-Chinese saying, "She really couldn't understand what I couldn't say out loud" about underlying cultural differences.

"Being an A.B.C. is all part of these things, it's spending the first half of your life frustrated and the second half feeling grateful that you don't show your age."

Several A.B.C.'s expressed pride after the performance. UMass student, Karen Su said, "It's good to have things like that around this area because there are so few events that deal directly with Asian Americans." CCEBMS staff member, Carol Young liked it "because it was important to see an Asian on stage (who) accurately portrayed what it's like to be an A.B.C."

I, as an A.B.C., can only say that everything from Chin's exclamations of "aiya" to his communicating the complex notion of belonging to two cultures, fully describes the ABCs of the Asian American experience.

Gloria Joseph

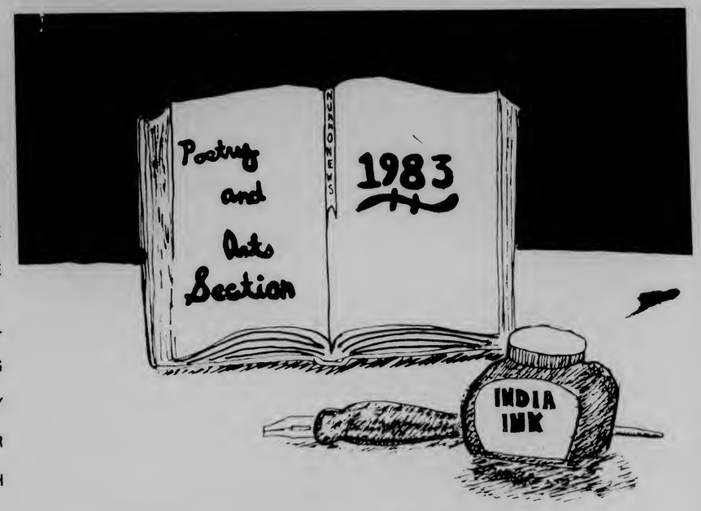
"Third World Women and Feminism,"

Third World women's "struggle to overcome racism, classism, sexism is not a question of choice; it's about staying alive," said Gloria Joseph to an audience of twenty-five on Wednesday in her talk, "Third World Women And Feminism."

The Hampshire College professor and author of Common Differences was sponsored by Third World Women's Program of UMass' Everywoman's Center. Joseph described descendants of Third World nations as the United States' Third World population.

She cited "the problems created by the multinational (corporations)," including Third World women's production of commodities, Third World women's consumption of commodity and Third World women's being commodities. Saying that "Women are special targets of corporate marketing, Joseph emphasized that the present economic reality "instills a sense of inadequacy abroad as well as at home." "We have one and the same problem; it is only a matter of intensity," said Joseph. She compared the industrial economic wages of $3.35/hour in the U.S. to the $3.35/week earned by many women in Third World countries who are employed by U.S. multinationals.

Within this perspective of global oppression, Joseph asserted that "The battle against sexism is not of men against women. It is a battle against an exploitative social system." She stated, "We must put politics, not biology, in the lead," suggesting that "Third World feminists must be willing to determine our own destiny."



Joseph said that "in spite of cultural differences, a common oppression unites us. We must struggle to overcome racism, classism, sexism, to oppose any force that seeks to deny" Third World women's ability to combat broad social constraints. She spoke of the need for a "major coalition on the formalWomen's Movement" to address the issues and concerns specific to women of color in an industrial capitalist, patriarchal, imperialist nation.

Poetry and Arts

BLACK PEOPLE'S LEGACY

MOTHER AFRICA GAVE BIRTH TO ALL OF HER SONS AND MANY BEAUTIFUL BLACK DAUGHTERS.
THE SONS AND DAUGHTERS WERE STRONG AND WORKED THE LAND.
MOTHER AFRICA REWARDED THEM FOR THEIR LABOR.
THEN THE WHITE MAN CAME WITH GUNS, TREASURES AND SHIPS HE STOLE SOMEWHERE IN ASIA
IRONS WERE LOCKED AROUND THE NECKS OF BLACK WOMEN AND MEN
PACKED INTO THE HOLDS OF SHIPS
WE IN OUR MINDS HEARTS AND SOUL KNEW THIS WAS WRONG.
THE WEAK CRIED, THE STRONG FOUGHT, SOME ESCAPED MOST DIED
TRYING TO GET HOME WHERE THEY KNEW THEY BELONGED.
BROUGHT TO AMERICA AGAINST OUR WILL LIKE ANIMALS WE WERE BRED WITH MOTHERS,FATHERS,SISTERS, BROTHERS, SONS,AND DAUGHTERS
FORCED TO BELIEVE WE WERE UGLY, INHUMANE, A THING, NOT A HUMAN TAUGHT WE HAD SINNED AGAINST GOD AND HELL NOT HEAVEN IS WHERE WE SHALL DWELL
THROUGH THE SUFFERING OF THE PAIN AND THE AGGRAVATGION OF THE YEARS
THE THOUGHT PROCESS WE ONCE POSSESSED VANISHED
THE HEART BEAT OF OUR HOMELAND CEASED TO SOUND
SOUR MINDS FORCED ONTO SLUMBER, WE COULD ONLY SLUMBER
THE WHITE MEN FOUGHT AMONGST EACH OTHER
THE NORTH WANTED US FREE
BECAUSE THEY ENVIED THE RICHES THE SOUTHERN WHITES MADE FROM OUR LABOR
THEY FREED US AND SAID WE WERE MEN AND WOMEN AND POSSESSED THE SAME RIGHTS AS THEY
YES WE WERE FREE
FREE TO LIVE IN SLUMS AND SLAVE IN FACTORIES
FREE TO GO TO COLORED ONLY RESTAURANTS, RESTROOMS AND BARS
OUR FREEDOM WAS A HIGHER FORM OF SLAVERY
OUR RIGHTS WERE TO BE HUNG FROM TREES, CASTRATED AND BURNED IN OUR CHURCHES
TODAY WE ARE TOLD OF THE ADANCEMENTS WE HAVE MADE
ADVANCED TO WELFARE, UNEQUAL EDUCATION AND MIDDLE CLASS PROJECTS
WE BETTER OPEN OUR EYES OR WE WILL ALWAYS ADVANCE ONE STEP BEHIND THEM
MOTHER AFRICA CRIES FOR US
WHILE WE PIMP OUR SISTERS AND KILL OUR BROTHER BEING SO SLICK.
BEING THE WHITE MAN'S WHORES
YES WE BETTER WAKE UP OR DIE SLEEPING

Author Unknown

This poem is dedicated to Alex Eldridge and John Wright. Good-bye My Friend!

I didn't get to say Good-bye
I didn't know you were leaving
Or I would've told you... just how much I valued your friendship
I would've told you... how I always knew that you were on my side
And I would've told you... how I would always remember talking to you, listening to you, and laughing with you
I didn't know you were leaving
Or I would've told you... just how much I'd miss you
I just didn't get to say Good-bye.

By Mary Custard

I'D LIKE

I'd like to give the women of El Salvador
Black lace dresses
they can mourn in on a Sunday and celebrate in on Saturday nights.

I'd like to give them
Pearl necklaces to line their bosoms holding too much pain.

I want the sea to wash away
Blood
from their children's faces splattered on their hearts/their bodies allowing nothing soft to pass.

I'd like to see them drink clear water from a clean stream, or preferably a faucet - WHICH EVER THEY PREFER.

I'd like to hear the shouts of children/ in song - not in sorrow
I'd like to see the people, leaning against trees, not on one-legged canes.

I'd like to see t h e people of El Salvador victorious over war triumphant over death which are just the celebrations of oppression.

I would like to See/someone try to lift their burden, instead of watching them carry it.

There is much we can do!

I'd like to see us/bear their pain,
if we do not.

By Tracey M. Bryant

BLUE ROSES

blue roses are pretty on a pillow case but not in real life because there are no

blue roses
in our life.

unless you imagine it which is different from changing the chemical balance of a flower,

And in supreme insult you say,
you are not three-dimensional
I have overlooked your beauty;
it does not serve my purposes and fit my needs.

it is not sacred, enuf
to be left, UNTAMPERED!
Maybe, your needs are not real maybe you are not sacred, enuf.

You do that to a little flower,
What do you do to me?

by Tracey Bryant

HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN

By Marcel

Have you forgotten a dream long past
That they said would never last
Have you forgotten how we were brought to these shores
Do you remember the atrocities our people have bore
(on mind and body, the scars and the sores)
Have you forgotten that we bear them still Do you think that this was God's will

Have you forgotten God made us vital and strong
Are we not earthly soldiers, here to combat the wrong
Do you think we were put here simply to exist
Never to fight, never to resist

Have you forgotten we are likened to the tree
They can chop it down, but it will never cease to be
And have you ever listened to the tree in song
Bearing it's grief and sorrows, but never grieving long (Just whispering to God, and then carrying on)
As you walk along, look into the tree
You'll see the branches, the leaves - the Black race - its infinite beauty

Here on earth my branch, my task
These are questions I must ask... Will the tree rot?
What have we forgot?
Have you forgotten, your people still bleed
Have you forgotten to nurture your seed

WAS JESUS BLACK?

Hey, I wanna know, was Jesus black?
They gave him forty lashes on his back.
Was he black when he was born?
I heard they gave him a crown of thorns.
Was his face the color of Death's mournin' veil?
They came in the night and took him to jail.
Are you sure they didn't see him with a woman black like me?
I heard they beat and scourged him, and shouted profanities.
I heard they nailed him to a tree.
Now I know he had to be black like me.

By Marcel

Polyester people, manufactured highs-manufactured suits, manufactured lives.
Polyester people, with their polyester personalities--Smile manufactued by MONSANTO...and "Where would we be without chemicals?"
True feelings? The only "true" feelings we see are made by DOW...and Where would we be without chemicals? "I'll wear my
'I like you, I care' face now while you're here, and change to my 'Guess what I heard about you' when you disappear."
Mentality by DUPONT...'Without us, life itself would be impossible..."
Is there no end? Is there no "true friend"?
In whom can we trust - when being phony is a must? Where people with tongues that cut like an axe, smile in our faces and talk behind our backs - Where are we anyway? In the land of sugar-coated lies, fairytales and phony highs... undaring and uncaring.
Conscience by MONSANTO...AND WHERE WOULD WE BE?....
WITHOUT CHEMICALS....

By Esrich

BLACK MUSIC TODAY

Music, Black music, you're the key to my soul. You unlock my mind and set it free. Our music, today's Black music, is unlocking our bodies more than ever. Why? We can't think with it but it's not all our fault.

YOU see, the music industry is controlled by a handful of myopic, tunnel-visioned hucksters who only want a pocketful.

They want to see your green, transform it to their greed which supplements this racist society's capitalistic need.

A need to "Blind us with Science," to boogie us to death, and after we tune in, plug in and turn on, they've got us.

They've got us just where they want us; in their hands, while the blues goes unnoticed, raggae is ignored and the jazz musicians starve. Gospel? Have you been to church lately?

We support the rhythm but not the blues, would rather boogie than pay some dues. We do this while men on Madison Avenue, and even your view, ponder another maketing scheme to keep us in our place. We watch the dancers break and we are broken.

Broken by money - (the lack and misuse of it), by lack of jobs and no control over an industry which rapes our talent, our music, and, by doing so, controls us. And we love it; by loving it we hate ourselves and our rich culture. We groove to "Sucker MC's" and "Sucker DJ's" while we sucker ourselves and think it's okay.

Oh sure, nothing is wrong with the rap, the clap and the big beat but we've got to put something much more positive onto the streets. Put out love of self and love of race -(not drugs and sex and empty phrases), surely it's a much better fate than "Got to have your Lovin" or "Give it up till you get Enough."

And while we dance to the music we oughtto listen to the message. It's message, the real message, lest we forget our musical past which is the link to the musical future. Do we really want to be nasty? People imitate lyrics and try to live by them. Lionel, Lillo, Prince, Kool, they're our heroes; they make our day. How can we "Let the Music Play" and strive to reach an "Electric Kingdom" when our neighborhoods are in disarray, our land is being lost and jobs cut daily? What do our heroes really offer? Why is sex so much a part of our music? We all like sex and it's essential but in our music it is too much.

Consider the impact today's music has on our black youth. Teenage pregnancies among our youth are rising. Do you simply want to blame it on the "nigger" who did it. He probably thought it was fine. It's okay to be a nasty girl or boy, just don't get pregnant. Fantasy is turned into reality then and you better think more than twice when it does.

Enough of the vocodors, body lyrics, beat boxes, synthesizers and all the other technological crap; just bring back the music, our music, which was meaningful and strong in emotion, rich in culture and free of frills. Don't become blinded, think! Wake up children before this dream becomes a nightmare.

THE POET'S SONG

Let me write my sadness
in a poem that doesn't rhyme,
Let me write my doubts and fears,
in a poem that has no time.

And even Jeremiah understands.
and Mom I didn't want to admit/you/knew what I was feelin/ when the feelin was too new/to me/to be touched.
I couldn't admit/it would make you too great/too great to sacrifice for me/ too great to scrub floors. You became too big for me to hug/and too small for me to hold.
So I had to deny your existence/Outside of me/
I didn't want to give you up. Cauz you were my mother/and that was good enough./
Even that was incomprehensible to me/ You were ½ of me, and still more/ I found myself feelin humble while I was walkin behind you arguing.
And I love you/
I love you/when I see/me in you,/when I see you in yourself/
when I see you in others/and definitely touching others./
I appreciate their appreciation of you/that I didn't appreciate/
I see you strong/Even when I see you weak I see you strong/
I see your strength in midst of you, holding you up, like silicone your breasts don't have/
I see your strength holding up your body, though your shoulders may sag/
I see strength in the midst of you/wrapping itself around you like a bandage, not letting you bleed 'til you die/though sometimes you try.
I see strength telling you it's more a part of you than you know/
but like to pretend/
I see strength telling you/that you don't see it/cauz you carry it/on your back/ in your feet/ and under your hands./
I see you/

by Tracey M. Bryant

By Marcel

Daddeo or James Monroe

I know a man can be good!
but must he first go blind,
and have his right arm chopped off?

Before he learns to touch, instead of grab
to reach out, instead of thrust to soothe instead of assault,
to caress - instead of choke?

I don't think they realize the power of their hands:
the magic that trickles down/and explodes/
when they reach up to love someone.

This is not about gentle rape
it's about living a life indicative of its Essence it's about being a life-giving, or at least
-perpetuating force/
It's about making your actions equal to your love
It's very rejection is an act of Violence.

photo by Ed Cohen

UNTITLED

A baby is born in the ghetto
Unaware of the struggles before him
Innocent, of all crimes, of those around him.
Forced to grow up in a world so uncaring
Is it right or wrong?
Tis a question that I can answer only by saying that in this life there are two roads.
Neither of which guarantees him anything.
Yet he has only to take one wrong turn and he could lose everything.

As the baby grows into a man even then the struggles do not end. Why, because of a man's race, creed or color should he be shunned? No one knows. Yet these are the factors that matter so much in the world of today

Mankind as we know it has set standards based solely on these factors. Instead of a man's ability to perform.

Now that he has passed, the gifts of flowers and the tears of sadness come out like vultures over their prey.
Yet it is now too late to give of one's heart or to express feelings of love.
"He shouldn't have died so young," is the cry to be heard, but it is too late for such cries, far too late. If only we as a people could realize that there are so many babies who live this same life.
Maybe then, and only then will the flowers be given when their fragrance can be enjoyed. Rather than used as dressings for the graves of the departed.

Maybe then we can end these deaths of babies born in the ghetto.

By James Robert Johnson

FOR I AM LIKE NO MAN YOU WILL EVER KNOW

Don't underestimate me...for I am like no man you will ever know.
Don't "assume" that I will react to you, or anyone else in a certain way...for I am like no man you will ever know.
Don't label me as you would an animal or food...for I am like no man you will ever know.
For I am what I am, the original man...that man I'll remain, seven ounces of brain.
He who was sent here...to share the knowledge with all those who would lend an ear.
Even when all others turn their backs on you...I will still be the one you can call "friend"...for I am like no man you will ever know.
So don't, in your "divine ignorance", try to categorize me... for I am like no man you will ever know.
Don't "assume" I'm supposed to be like "other guys you've met"...for I am like no man you will ever know.
Trust me, learn from me,KNOW ME...
FOR I AM LIKE NO MAN YOU WILL EVER KNOW...

By Esrich

FOR I AM LIKE NO WOMAN YOU WILL EVER KNOW

Don't underestimate me...for I am like no woman you will ever know.
Don't "assume" that I will react to you, or anyone else in a certain way...for I am like no woman you will ever know.
Don't label me as you would an animal or food...for I am like no woman you will ever know.
For I am what I am, the original woman...that woman I'll remain, seven ounces of brain.
She who was sent here...to share the knowledge with all those who would lend an ear.
Even when all others turn their backs on you...I will still be the one you can call "friend"...for I am like no woman you will ever know.
So don't, in your "divine ignorance", try to categorize me... for I am like no woman you will ever know.
Don't "assume" I'm supposed to be like "other women you've met"...for I am like no woman you will ever know.
Trust me, learn from me,KNOW ME...
FOR I AM LIKE NO WOMAN YOU WILL EVER KNOW...

A variation of "I AM LIKE NO MAN YOU WILL EVER KNOW".

YOU TELL ME

You tell me: Iam Black/what do I need to worry about the Indians for/Wounded Knee was not my fight.

But in my dreams: your mouth runs like a muddy river;
never flowing freely
when you speak
Some say you're carrying toxic waste and I see you trying to get rid of it/some other place I shouldn't worry about

You tell me: in fact I shouldn't worry at all -
Once I learn your ways, I'll be okay.

But I hear voices!

You say you protect us all from impending night
Might in the left hand, true light in the right.
I say night never bothered me before.
But if you say.

Still, I must think: since contact with you,
the Indian population has been decimated
but still lives. the strength of a good spirit.
and the African populations,
also, continue to live through the strength of a good spirit.
And I must wonder
and must ask: This friend of yours - The Plague,
Who did it think it was protecting?
and what did it protect people from?

Oh good and white, you worry for us, too much,
(over) impending night,
It never did the things you do.

YOU SOLD US OUT!!

They're taking it away...They're doin' us in...
AND YOU SOLD US OUT!
All we've fought for. All our brothers & sisters died for or were imprisoned for...All that will have been in vain...
'CAUSE YOU SOLD US OUT!
WE looked to you...our "supposed" leaders to keep what we fought & suffered for...
BUT YOU SOLD US OUT!
What was "OURS" is now "OURS & THEIRS", & soon may be "ALL THEIRS" again...
'CAUSE YOU SOLD US OUT!
We went from strong leaders who wouldn't take refuse to those who eat it...
AND YOU SOLD US OUT!
We now have new leaders, caught up in the constant struggle to retain the IDENTITY & PRIDE you try so hard to take from us all...
SINCE YOU SOLD US OUT!
Can we rely on you? The security guard who sleeps as the bank is being robbed? NO!...
'CAUSE YOU SOLD US OUT!
Will B.S.A. ever be the same?...Who knows?...
SINCE YOU SOLD US OUT!
SLAVERY IS ALIVE AND WELL...
BUT THAT'S ANOTHER STORY...
SINCE YOU SOLD US OUT!

By Esrich

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 59 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Tuesday, December 6, 1983

Henry pleads innocent to dorm fires

Crampton RA suspended

By GREG BROWN
Collegian Staff

Yvette I. Henry, the 20-year-old Crampton resident assistant charged with setting one of that dorm's 16 suspicious fires, pleaded innocent in Hampshire District Court Monday.

Henry appeared emotionless as she and Legal Services attorney Charles J. DiMare stood before Northampton Judge Richard Connon at 10:40 a.m. Henry, of Philadelphia, was accompanied in court by family and fellow Crampton residents.

Henry was released Sunday on $1,000 bail raised in part by Crampton residents. Assistant District Attorney Rosemary Tarantino said Monday Henry could remain free, and that her case should be continued to Jan. 16 for a pre-trial hearing.

Tarantino also said that the state was still considering whether Henry should undergo psychiatric examination, but that she did not have to for the time being.

Members of the Third World community, and newspaper and television reporters crowded the courtroom and its outside foyer during Henry's arraignment.

As Henry and DiMare left the courtroom, supporters surrounded them and lifted up coats as a protective cover to block Henry from photographers.

The people guarding Henry from photographers followed her down to a small car driven by DiMare. Reporters and photographers were met with hostility by about a dozen of Henry's supporters, none of whom consented to be identified, but many claimed that Henry was "being used as a scapegoat," and that "the fires are still going on. That's the real story."

Dean of Students William Field said Henry has been suspended from the university, and that "she will not be permitted on campus until she and her attorney can meet with me."

Field confirmed the reports that a letter of suspension was sent to Henry this weekend, dated Dec. 4.

Field said, "It's the last resort when you have an immediate threat to the university community."

DiMare mentioned that the Legal Services Office will not be the only law firm defending Henry. "We are going to be one of three law firms representing Ms. Henry," he said.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

PROTECTION FROM THE PRESS — Supporters of Yvette Henry cover the vehicle she is riding in with coats to hide her from photographers as she leaves her arraignment Monday.

DiMare refused to identify the attorney, except to say that one is a prominent Northampton criminal defense attorney, and that the other is a former U.S. attorney.

DiMare refused to comment on whether Henry was suspended, or whether the five original suspects in the fires were indeed Third World students, as reported in Monday's edition of Nummo News. But another Legal Services Office attorney, Michael Pill, said, "There is a history of race relations problems with some police on this campus, and we have had complaints in this case related to that."

When asked to confirm the alleged fact, Tarantino expressed shock. She adamantly denied that all five suspects were Third World students, but refused to comment on any other aspects of the investigation, including the use of polygraphs.

UMass student, guest charged with campus rape

Rape victims are survivors; police stress coming forward

By GREG BROWN
Collegian Staff

A starting offensive tackle for the University of Massachusetts football team was arraigned in Hampshire District Court Monday in connection with an alleged rape this weekend in MacKimmie dormitory.

Michael E. Briggs, 21, a MacKimmie resident from Oxford, Conn., was arrested by University police early Sunday morning and charged with indecent assault and battery and assault and battery with intent to rape. His weekend guest, Clarence G. Hilton, 20, also of Oxford, Conn., was arrested and charged with rape.

Both men pleaded innocent to the charges. Police said the incident occurred between 1 a.m. and 2:15 a.m.

Reports of where the assault occurred vary. Gerald O'Neil, director of public safety, said the rape occurred in the area surrounding MacKimmie, while his assistant, Philip Cavanaugh, said the incident occurred in a residential hall. A resident assistant from MacKimmie said, "It was in Mac, on the third floor. I think it was in his room."

Rosemary Tarantino, assistant Northwest district attorney in Northampton, refused to comment on the case, except to say that the state has not completely prepared their case yet.

Both Briggs and Hinton were released from the Hampshire County Jail Monday after the payment of either $1,000 in cash or a $10,000 surety bond. Their case was continued to Dec. 14 for a pre-trial hearing.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

STUDENT SUSPECT — Michael E. Briggs, 21, charged with indecent assault and battery with attempt to rape leaves the Northampton court room Monday.

When a woman is raped she is more than just a victim of a crime. She is a survivor.

According to the dictionary, to survive something is to continue to live or exist after the death or occurrence of. For many victims, rape is worse than death.

"A women's own personal safety is of paramount concern, that's why they're called survivors. We treat them as such," said Mary Dumas, staff assistant to the Department of Public Safety, and a University of Masachusetts police officer.

It is not easy for the survivor to come to grips with rape, that is one of the reasons why she needs the support of others, especially the police.

UMass police have 17 staff personnel certified in rape counseling. They are usually available day or night, whenever needed, she said.

It is important for the survivor not only to contact the police for support purposes, but also so police can try to find the rapist. This is especially true on a campus of this size.

"We need data (on the rapist) to protect the rest of residents on campus," Dumas said.

"There is a lot of peer pressure going on. When someone turns another in they usually don't get a lot of support from their peers." But the only way a rapist can be caught is if people do come forward, she said.

It is also important for people to call the police if they see a suspicious looking person walking around.

"Once when I was on the West Coast I saw something that looked strange, but I told myself I'm okay and this is going to look silly if I call the police," she said.

Dumas did call the police. They found a rape and a murder had taken place.

Inside:

House rejects Gov. Dukakis attempt to delay the state Solomon Amendment ..... p. 2

Victims speak out on violence against women ..... p. 3

Curry Hicks update ..... p. 16

"There is nothing as good for the inside of a man as the outside of a horse"
— Ronald Reagan

Digest

AROUND THE WORLD

Soviets want US concessions first

MOSCOW (AP) — Top Kremlin officials Monday rejected Western "wishful thinking" that the Soviets might return to Euromissile negotiations without U.S. concessions first. They said U.S.-Soviet strategic arms talks are headed toward a similar stalemate.

The Soviets, at a rare news conference for foreign and Soviet reporters, also reaffirmed Moscow's intention to match the new U.S. medium-range missiles in Europe with powerful Soviet submarine missiles off the American coast.

These counter-weapons will "be no less effective than the American systems deployed in Europe, in range, yield, accuracy and what is especially important, in flight time to their targets," said Marshal Nikolai V. Ogarkov, chief of the Soviet general staff.

Ogarkov was joined in the news conference by First Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi M. Kornienko and Leonid M. Zamyatin, chief of the Kremlin's International Information Department.

On other subjects, the officials said Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov, not seen in public since August, is "recovering well" from illness, and they denounced Sunday's U.S. air attacks on Syrian anti-aircraft positions in Lebanon, saying Moscow will support those fighting "Israeli and American aggression."

On Nov. 23, the Soviets suspended talks in Geneva, Switzerland, on medium-range weapons in Europe

Marine position unlikely to change

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are warning Syria against any new attacks on American forces in Lebanon, but clearly are worried that marine peacekeepers are caught up in escalating violence — and uncertain where it will lead.

"The real danger from our point of view is getting drawn into the conflict as one of the parties to what is essentially a local and regional conflict," one State Department official said privately. "That is the last thing we want to do."

Despite a growing list of American dead, the official said the Reagan administration probably will make little, if any, change in the U.S. role in Lebanon.

Sandinista exile offer ' a farce '

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - A major opposition leader said Monday that political concessions announced by Nicaragua's governing Sandinistas do not go far enough.

A rebel Indian leader rejected the Sandinista offer as "a farce."

The leftist government announced Sunday it would welcome back Nicaraguan exiles, including most of the rebels who have been fighting to topple the Sandinistas, and promised to announce a date early next year for elections in 1985.

"To be frank, we were hoping the decrees would be broader," said a leader of the Constitutionalist Liberal Party, one of the country's four opposition parties. The other parties have not commented yet.

The Liberal party leader, who spoke on condition he not be identified, complained that the amnesty-like decree, which offers safe conduct home, property rights and voting rights to exiles, gives them too little time to act. The offer expires Feb. 21.

AROUND THE NATION

Reagan freezes Salvadoran accounts

NEW YORK (AP)— Newsweek magazine says the Reagan administration might try to deport or freeze the bank accounts of Salvadoran exiles in Miami who are suspected of sending money to right-wing death squads in El Salvador.

President Reagan is solidly behind the move, Newseek said in its Dec. 12 issue. It quoted one unidentified administration official as saying Reagan recently told aides, "This killing must stop."

As part of a "major investigation" in Miami, the magazine said, National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane recently asked Attorney General William French Smith and FBI Director William Webster "to explore legal grounds for deporting exiles long believed to have financed death squad activities."

The magazine said the federal government is looking for possible violations of "immigration, tax, firearm or currency laws" by the suspects.

US giving good offices, says Shultz

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State George Shultz said Monday the use of American airpower against Syrian targets in Lebanon does not foreshadow an American effort to impose a military solution to that country's problems.

At a news conference, Shultz sought to portray the American air strike Sunday as an isolated incident which does not represent an escalation of the conflict there.

At the same time, he called on the Soviet Union to use its influence with Syria to moderate that country's policies.

"We urge the Soviets to urge the Syrians to look on Lebanon in a sensible way," Shultz said.

Emphasizing the U.S. intention to seek a diplomatic solution in Lebanon, Shultz said special U.S. envoy Donald Rumsfeld will return to the region Tuesday morning.

Dukakis' aid proposal rejected

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts House has rejected an attempt by Gov. Michael Dukakis to weaken and delay a proposal to ban state scholarship aid to young men who fail to register for the draft.

The House rejected Monday, on a 95-50 vote, Dukakis' proposed amendments to the bill. The Senate considers the amendments next.

Those amendments would have limited the ban on financial aid only to students actually convicted of violating the Selective Service law and delay its implementation until the U.S. Supreme Court ruled on the constitutionality of a similar federal ban.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court agreed Monday to decide whether male college students applying for federal loans or grants must prove they have registered with Selective Service. A federal judge in Minnesota had struck down the government's draft status disclosure rule as unconstitutional.

In the Massachusetts House debate, opponents of the ban argued in favor of Dukakis' amendments, saying they addressed the unfairness of legislation which applied a sanction only to needy students.

Rep. Walter A. DeFilippi, R-West Springfield, said the amendments were only intended to "buy time" so Dukakis could veto the bill by failing to sign it after the legislative session ends.

He argued similar amendments had already been defeated in both the House and Senate.

AP Laserphoto

OVERTURNED TRUCK — Due to inclimate weather, this tractor trailor truck spun out on icy I-90 (Mass. Pike) Sunday.

AP Laserphoto

ATTORNEYS AT THE WHITE HOUSE — President Ronald Reagan gives Attorney General William French Smith a few pointers during a conference for U.S. attorneys held at the White House Monday.

AROUND THE REGION

Group to unify freeze movement

BOSTON (AP) - A new umbrella organization formed to unify the nuclear arms freeze movement may be able to call on up to one million people for funds and political activism, says the founder of the freeze drive.

"It's really a two-pronged effort," said Randall Forsberg on Monday, after a weekend conference of peace groups in St. Louis where formation of Freeze Voter '84 was announced.

She said one group aim is for a legislative ban on testing nuclear warheads or the deployment or flight testing of ballistics missiles. The second aim is to work for or against political candidates next year based on their nuclear arms views.

"Within the Freeze Voter '84 group we do need some initial money to support the staff and for printing and field organization and so forth," said Miss. Forsburg. "That money is being raised through direct mail and major donor fund raising this fall.

Uniform drinking age endorsed

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP) - Six Northeastern governors, including Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, endorsed a proposal Monday by their New York counterpart to establish a uniform drinking age in states from Maine to Pennsylvania.

The members of the Coalition of Northeastern Governors said a uniform drinking age would reduce highway fatalities by preventing youths who are under the drinking age in their home states from driving across borders to get a legal drink.

Drinking ages are now 19 in New York, 20 in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island and 21 in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The governors did not say what the uniform age should be, although several said they approved of 21.

"In order to avoid seducing people across borders, you have a regional age," said New York Gov. Mario M. Cuomo, a Democrat.

Today's Staff

Night Editor	Tami Borton
Copy Editor	Mary Anne Been
Layout Technician	Mat Atkins
Photo Technician	Andy Heller
Production Supervisor	Ken Kalinowski
Production	Lynn Eisenberg, Joy McCarty, Dave Rath, Laurie Frank, Neil Rhein, Leslie King, Dode Levenson, Merrianne Hrycin, Tim Rivere, Jon O'Hearn, Doug Chapman, Marianne Walsh

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

INTRIGUING ICICLES — Beautiful ice formations decorate this roadside barn in Hadley.

Women express unity, fear over campus violence

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Pledging support to one another, nearly 100 people gathered at the University of Massachusetts Monday night to express unity, fear and rage over violence against women.

The event brought women and men of different areas of campus together to speak out on the problems of violence against women at this campus and in other walks of life.

"Violence is alive and well on this campus and it is too alive," said Kathy Alexander, coordinator of Against Violence Against Women at the Everywoman's Center. "Women on this campus are not really safe."

Women have to walk around in fear, fear of being raped, assaulted, sexually harassed, or fear of just being made uncomfortable because they are the sex that they are. This fear can only stop if the source of it is stopped, she said.

"This is our University. We shouldn't have to live in fear of sexual assault, of sexual harassment...anything that insults us we will not tolerate anymore," she said.

During the nearly three hour discussion, members of the audience participated in voicing their concerns over violence and some gave examples of times in which they were the victims of violence.

"What disturbs me most," one member of the audience said, "is that a large majority of students don't even know (violence) exists. In my dorm a man was flashing some women, students just said 'well this is college life."

Even though such incidents are prevalent they need not be tolerated, another person said.

Alexander said it is important for women to come together as one group and show others they stand united.

"As women we must unite, we must join together and say very loudly, very clearly, we will not tolerate it anymore. This University has a vision, they're planning into the year 2000...but we've got to deal with violence here and now, we must say we won't tolerate it anymore," she said.

During the speak-out, the Valley Women's Martial Artists gave a Karate demonstration on self defense. Following their performance, nearly all of the audience stood, clenched their fists, and while "karate punching" in unison yelled "No, no, no."

Angela Guidice, Special Projects Coordinator for the Northeast/Sylvan area and one of the organizers of the event, said it is difficult to think about violence against women because when people do, they realize just how prevalent it is.

It is important for society "to come to grips about what violence against women is all about," Giudice said.

Alexander said right now is "a terrible time for violence," and everyone must be aware that violence can happen day or night.

It is important for women to "reclaim the day and the night." They need to get strength from support systems, acknowledge the various services the University does supply victims, and attack the "lies that women want to be raped or need to be abused," she said.

SPEAK OUT — Angela Giudice, Special Guidence Coordinator for Northeast/Sylvan area feels society must "come to grips about what violence against women is about."

Snow may give students holiday

By JIM FINKLE
Collegian Staff

While Sunday's six inch snowfall melted quickly and posed no threat to class cancellations, future storms could give students an unexpected holiday.

Vice Chancellor For Administration and Finance, John L. DeNyse, the UMass administrator responsible for deciding whether to cancel classes because of snowfall said he makes that decision around 4:30 a.m. when a winter storm is in progress.

"It depends on a number of things," DeNyse said. "Mainly whether or not we can get the parking lots cleared on campus."

"The decision to cancel classes will be made if the indications are that road travel is or will become hazardous or that insufficient parking capacity will be available," according to the University's 1983-1984 Snow Policy. That document defines "sufficient parking" as meaning that the following parking lots can be cleared by 7:30 a.m.: Lot 62, Lot 63, Lot 40, Lo2•25, Lot 65, Lot 26, Lot 31, Lot 66 and Lot 32.

Announcement of cancellation of classes is made on 18 area radio stations, including WHMP in Northampton, WTTT in Amherst, WMUA in Amherst, and WFCR in Amherst.

"It should be assumed that the library and bus services are operating, unless announcements are made specifically to the contrary on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM," according to the Snow Policy document.

A decision may be made to delay the opening of the University until 11:00 a.m. to provide enough time to plow and clear roadways and sufficient parking capacity, according to the document. Lots cannot be efficiently plowed if they contain parked cars.

NRLB says students should be included in deal

PVTA drivers to vote on union

By BROOKE STATES
Collegian Staff

Twenty five University of Massachusetts student bus drivers will vote Wednesday on whether to join a union and enter negotiations with their employer, Western Massachusetts Bus Lines.

The students and the other full and part time drivers would be represented by no union, the Western Massachusetts Bus Lines Employees union, or local 1459 of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, which has 1.3 million members nationwide.

The student drivers make up about one quarter of the company's workforce, and drive the Amherst-Northampton, Williamstown, and Easthampton routes. Western Massachusetts Bus Lines operates these routes for the Pioneer Valley Transit Authoity (PVTA), and also has school bus routes in Northampton, as well as a charter bus service. Students who drive the UMass routes are not affected.

"Most of the workers are supportive of the union; some of the new student drivers are scared. They have a job that pays more than slinging burgers and it is a lot more responsibility," said John Cogan, a senior philosophy major. Cogan will have driven a bus for the PVTA for two years in January.

According to company president John Herlihy, student bus drivers make a maximum of $4.75 per hour and start off at $4.oo.

"My feeling is that a lot of full time people are against the union, a lot of part time people are for the union, and I do not have a feeling for the students because most of them live in Amherst," Herlihy said.

"People on our organizing committee are full and part timers as well as students. We feel confident that we will win," Richard Courtney, UFCW local representative said. Courtney also said two members of the union organizing committee had been fired by Western Mass. Bus Lines since the campaign began.

"It looks really good. The question is not whether we win but by how much. We have full-timers' support," said Richard White, who has also driven PVTA buses for two years this January and is a senior political science major.

In a brief filed before the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) the company argued that the students should not be included with the bargaining unit because they "clearly do not have a community of interest." But the labor board found in favor of the union and against the company stating: "In analyzing whether the students have the requisite community of interest with other unit employees, the board takes into consideration such factors as regularity and continuity of employment; tenure of employment; similarity of work duties; and similarity of wages, benefits, and other working conditions. Applying these criteria to the instant case, it is concluded that the student drivers possess the requisite commmunity of interest to warrant their inclusion."

Euromissle debate to be held at 8 p.m.

A debate and discussion on "The Euromissiles: Why? What Next?" will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in Marrill I, Amherst College.

Christopher Paine, director of Physicians for Social Responsibility and David Aaron, former Deputy National Security Advisor to President Carter, will host the event, which is sponsored by the Five College Peace and International Security Studies Project.

" Faces of Racism " talk held tonight

A panel of University of Massachusetts students, professors and third world community leaders will host a discussion of "The Many Faces of Racism" at 8 p.m. tonight in Campus Center room 101.

Topics of the event, which is sponsored by the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA) Anti-Racism Team, include Institutional Racism, Racism and Education, International Racism, The Connections between Racism and Sexism, Theater and Racism, and Working to End Racism.

The directors of the UMass Office of Third World Affairs and Third World Programs, the director of Educational Access and Outreach Division of the UMass Student Affairs office, two education professors, and SCERA and Student Government Association representatives will participate in the panel discussion.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

COLD CALVES — Two junior members of the UMass livestock herd observe their first snowfall yesterday.

Police charge student with breaking glass

University of Massachusetts police reported the arrest of an 18-year-old Baker dormitory resident at 12:40 a.m. Monday.

Police said the subject threw a snowball through a window in Thatcher dormitory in the Northeast Residential Area. The student was charged with breaking glass in a campus building, police said.

A stereo and a box of cassettes valued at $600 were reported stolen from a motor vehicle parked in lot 32, police said. The theft occurred between 9 p.m. Friday and 8:50 a.m. Saturday, according to police.

— MARY ANNE BEEN

Try The Collegian Classifieds They Work

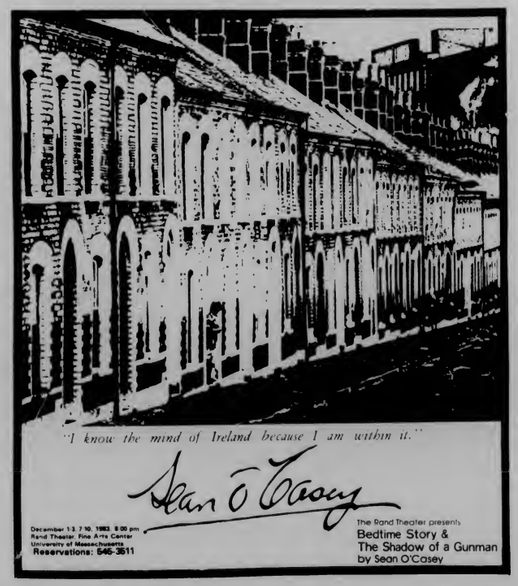
Keep in touch with your parents and don't write home!

Have them subscribe to the Collegian and know just what's going on on campus!



Spring semester rate: $13
For more information come down to the newspaper's offices, 113 Campus Center simple deception put the Pepperidge Farm Cookies safely within his grasp.

His efforts to secure a Pepperidge Farm Cookie were Shamelessly forward.

"I know the mind of Ireland because I am within it."

Sean O'Casey

December 1-3, 7-10, 1983, 8:00 pm
Rand Theater, Fine Arts Center
University of Massachusetts
Reservations: 545-3511

The Rand Theater presents
Bedtime Story &
The Shadow of a Gunman
by Sean O'Casey

Crisci refutes abuse myths

By MICHELLE HYDE
Collegian Staff

One in four female children will be sexually abused before the age of 14 and one in 11 male children will be sexually abused before the age of 16.

These statistics were cited by Geraldine Crisci, an area social worker who specializes in sexual abuse and the program director of the Personal Safety Program, a developed curriculum used to teach children how to be assertive in dangerous situations.

In a lecture sponsored by the Council of Undergraduate Students in Psychology and the Educator/Advocate Program of the Everywoman's center, Crisci rebutted some of the myths about child sexual abuse, and described the preventive measures taught in the program.

Crisci said people often think that sexual abuse of children often happens on playgrounds or elsewhere by a stranger.

Parents warn children about "stranger danger," (not taking candy from strangers) but in 85 percent of the reported cases of child sexual abuse, the assailant is someone the child knows, either a family friend or relative, she said.

"The victims of child sexual abuse tend to blame themselves. That self blame becomes self hate and then turns into self destructive behavior," she said.

Sexual abuse has a lasting effect on a child's developmental process and may lead to multiple personalities, juvenile delinquency, and other deviant behavior, she said.

The Personal Safety Curricula, taught in two school systems in Franklin and Hampshire Counties aims to teach children about their rights to bodily privacy," how to say 'no' to adults in situations where they feel threatened, and who they need to go to for support if they feel threatened or have been sexually abused.

He pacified his demanding sweet tooth with emergency supplies of Pepperidge Farm Cookies.

African struggle same everywhere, says Ture

By REBECCA THATCHER
Collegian Staff

Speaking for one hour and fifteen minutes without so much as a few hand-written notes, Kwane Ture, formerly Stokely Carmichael, enthralled an audience of about 100 at Smith College with his anecdotes and theories on the "inevitable revolution."

Kwane Ture is the African name taken by Stokely Carmichael, a prominent civil rights and black power activist of the 1960s.

Ture said he has since moved to Africa, where he has been involved as an organizer in the Pan African liberation movement, but he sees the struggle for Africans to be the same everywhere.

"I was getting shot at in Guinea, just the same as I had been getting shot at in Mississippi, so I don't see any differences between the two movements," Ture said.

The two themes of his presentation were the inevitability of the revolution and the need for Africans to organize.

Ture noted that the Roman Empire and the British Empire had each dominated the world in their time.

"American imperialism is the largest imperialist force today; but that to will pass away," he said.

"Everywhere capitalist has gone to fit fight against socialism it has been defeated," he said.

He said the capitalist systems must be ended because it fails to learn from history.

"After suffering blatant defeat in Korea, the United States took its young and we went to Vietnam," he said.

Organization, Ture said, is the essential ingredient needed by Africans in the United States.

We have the most organizations in the country. The problem is that 95 percent of our people do not belong to any of these organizations," he said.

Ture repudiated the claim that the African movement needs leaders, "We have a probably produced more leaders than many movements put together."

He said the movement needs the support of masses: "ideas become material reality when the masses take hold of them."

He also repudiated the claim that Martin Luther King's greatest gift to his people is the tactic of nonviolence.

"Martin Luther King made a mistake when he elevated the tactic of violence to the level of a principle," he said.

He said Martin Luther King's mistake does not detract from his greatness.

"The only man who does not make a mistake is a man who does nothing," he said.

He said King's greatest contribution was to teach his people to confront their oppressors without fear.

Ture said capitalists try to confuse the definition of knowledge by giving people the impression that it is a commodity.

He said, "knowledge's only purpose is to alleviate the suffering of the people."

Ture said capitalists "inculcate stupidity" by giving people only the facts necessary to come to the preferred conclusion.

"The capitalist system knows that people have to think that they are thinking, so not only does it make them stupid, it makes them arragant about their stupidity," he said.

Collegian Staff:
Mandatory meeting
re: party, new editors
7 p.m. Thursday
Newsroom

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

What's that I hear?

The Collegian's printing over intersession?

You bet. The largest college news source in the Valley will be publishing weekly during January.
Be sure to pick up your Collegian Thursdays in the Campus Center and other key locations in Amherst and Northampton Pepperidge Farm® bakes 34 deliciously tempting cookies like Mint Milano, Date Pecan and Chocolate Brownie Nut.

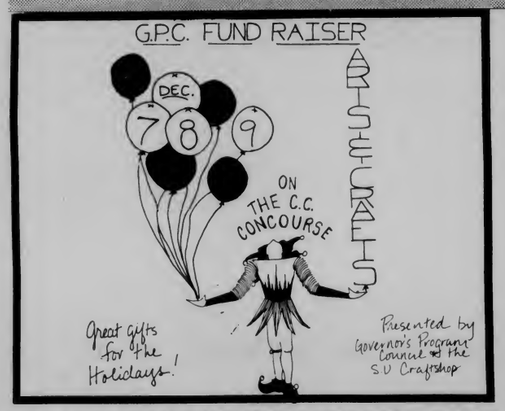
They're freshly baked with only the finest ingredients, then sealed tightly in foil-lined bags. And, of course, in true pepperidge farm cookie tradition, they don't contain any artificial colors, flavors or preservatives.
Persuade your shopkeeper to part with a bag.
And surrender to sweet indulgence.

15¢ STORE COUPON 15¢
PEPPERIDGE FARM®
SAVE 15¢ ON ANY
PEPPERIDGE FARM COOKIE.

CONSUMER: One coupon per purchase. Good only on product indicated. Consumer pays any sales tax. Not valid in Pepperidge Farm thrift Stores.
GROCER: Redeem on terms stated for consumer upon purchase of product indicated. ANY OTHER USE CONSTITUTES FRAUD. For reimbursement at face value plus 8¢ mail to: COUPON REDEMPTION PROGRAM, PO Box 1690, Clinton IA 52734. Failure to produce on request invoices proving purchase of stock covering coupons may void all coupons submitted. Void if taxed, restricted, prohibited or presented by other than retailers of our products. Cash value 1/20¢. PEPPERIDGE FARM, INCORPORATED, NORWALK, CT 06856. TAKE THIS COUPON TO YOUR GROCER. COUPON EXPIRATION DATE 6 30 84

14100 700880



A TIME TO WORK, A TIME TO PLAY —

While John Bottum, the Hampshire Mall maintenance supervisor, moves snow with a blower during Sunday's storm, (above), a "Gormanite" found making 'Frosty' — on the ledge outside his window — well worth his time, even though Frosty succumbed to warmer temperatures Monday.

Collegian photos by Andy Heller and Jim Powers

WHERE HILLS TURN TO MOUNTAINS

10-12 inches of snow on Sunday have provided mid-winter conditions. Don't miss the most skiing ever this early in the season. 30 trails are open on Main Mountain and North Face. Ski 2 days from Sunday to Friday and stay 1 night in between for only $49 until Dec. 16. Call (802) 464-8501 for details. We've got the snow, let yourself go!

THE SHORTEST DRIVE TO BIG MOUNTAIN SKIING LOCATED IN EASY TO REACH SOUTHERN VERMONT ON VT 100

LODGING (802)464-8501

SKI REPORT (802)464-2151

Mount Snow VERMONT

—EDITORIAL/OPINION—

Christmas is not my holiday

My uncle once told me that the most difficult thing for him was to be a guest in a Christian home during the Christmas celebration. I had never really thought about it or understood what he meant until recently. As a Jew, I am flattered and honored to share Christmas with a Christian family, yet it is probably the loneliest and saddest time for me. As I enter the dwelling, I can sense the love, the joy, and the intimate family ties within. The celebration is lovely. A large tree, lights, food, stockings — everyone has gathered from far away places to see one another and share in the holiday spirit. The atmosphere is festive and the company accepting and willing to have me partake in their holiday season. These family friends go back to my Mom's college days. I even call them aunt and uncle. Without a doubt, we are as much a part of their family, as they are of ours. So why then do I feel bitter and lonely and depressed at such a happy time of the year with such close friends?

Dayna Nepiarsky

While it is true that we, as Jews, have already celebrated our holiday two weeks prior, I still feel left out. I am glad that Hanukkah doesn't fall at the same time as Christmas only because it distinguishes the holidays from one another. Hanukkah is also a family-oriented holiday, like Christmas, but we as Jews aren't permitted the time off to spend with family and close friends. So many of us on this campus will once again spend an isolated Hanukkah, either with a few close friends or lighting candles by ourselves only because Hanukkah doesn't fall during the ever-so anticipated Christmas break. A family-oriented holiday and celebration has had to become a make-shift occasion to fulfill the needs of each Jew individually on campus. I find this to be the saddest part of what is generally a holiday filled with fun and celebration.

Just as I don't feel comfortable in a private home during this time, I don't feel comfortable in America, which is supposed to be my home, either. This is not due to the Christmas tree on the White House lawn and it's not due to when vacation falls. It isn't even the country being decorated in red and green holly berries and bows that irritates me most. It isn't the smaller things either, like going into a drug store and not being able to purchase Hanukkah cards or gift wrap because they only carry Christmas stock. Or Salvation Army donations — did you ever notice the volunteers always say Merry Christmas? Why don't they say Happy Holidays? No, individually none of these things would get me upset enough to write an editorial, but combined, all of these things (and more) form an ambiance that I as a Jew can never fully participate in. As an American I am still overlooked. It saddens me and hurts me to know that my country could just casually let a holiday slip past without recognition. After all, I am an American. I vote. I am politically interested and devoted to the betterment of this country, my country. I'm just as good as the next guy — I just don't celebrate Christmas, and the way Christmas is looked upon today makes me feel almost unAmerican for not celebrating it. Feeling unAmerican in my home, America, makes me feel as though I don't belong here. And believe me, it's the worst feeling in the world to feel as though you don't belong in your own home.

So once again, I ask myself, how does it feel to be a Jew at Christmas time? It feels lonely. Lonely because even though I am the same as the next American, I am different in that Christmas is not my holiday. I feel left out. Not because I don't celebrate Christmas, but because people don't acknowledge or realize that there are other holidays that other religions celebrate at this time of year. I feel sad. Sad because while I am a Jew, I am expected to attend and give Christmas parties, send greeting cards and give Christmas gifts, after all Sam, it's good for business. And I feel depressed. Depressed because while it is the season for giving, the gifts I receive (apart from those given by my family and Jewish friends) are usually those with the Christmas spirit in mind. It is not that people are uncaring, it's that so many of them just don't think about the red and green wrappings or the Christmas tree print on the greeting card. Most people don't even notice the holly berries on so many of the Hanukkah packages they wrap. It's not that they don't care, most people are just simply unaware of the fact that it's Hanukkah too.

What was that? Oh, what do I want for Hanukkah? Ultimately, the best gift for me would be to be able to walk down the street and be reminded that there are other religious holidays celebrated at this time as well as Christmas. But until then, during this season of celebration, wish everyone you see a happy holiday rather than a Merry Christmas. It will make my day.

Dayna Nepiarsky is a UMass student

Letters to the Editor see page 9

On maintaining one's Jewish identity

Imagine that it is the year 167 B.C.E. (Before the Common Era.) You are Jewish and the religion of your people has just been outlawed by the ruler of the land, Antiochus Epiphanes, the Hellenistic King of the Syrian branch of Alexander's empire. The death penalty has just been decreed for anyone caught practicing Judaism, pagan sacrifices and rituals have been instituted at the Holy Temple in Jerusalem, and Torah Scrolls have been burned.

Marcia Black

What would you do? Some people in 167 B.C.E. felt that they had to fight back, recognizing that the very survival of the Jewish people and religion were at stake. Others, who had become integrated into the Hellenistic culture, decided to obey the decrees of Antiochus and give up Judaism and separate themselves from the Jewish people. Some Jews, under the leadership of the Maccabees, waged a guerrilla struggle in the hills surrounding Jerusalem for three years, and in the year 164 B.C.E., the Temple was rededicated. As a result of this struggle, the Jewish people were once again able to practice their religion and culture for a limited period of time. The celebration of Hanukkah commemorates the Jews who fought back against the oppressive decrees of Antiochus, and thus enabled Judaism to continue.

There is another story told about Hanukkah: When Judah Maccabee recaptured the Temple, there was enough oil only for one night. This oil is said to symbolize the last, irreducible bit of spiritual light within the Jewish people. Miraculously, the oil lasted for eight nights, showing that the Jewish people's connection to God was as important in this victory as the political struggle that had taken place. The Hanukkah menorah is lit for eight nights, one candle on the first night, two candles on the second, etc. during this holiday, to symbolize the 8 days of rededication.

These dual themes of political and spiritual struggle and survival are as present for Jews today as they were in 167 B.C.E. The question of how to maintain one's Jewish identity when one is living in a dominant culture was faced by the Hellenized Jews in Jerusalem, and is faced by American Jews today. There is a difference, however. Judaism has not been outlawed in America, and Jewish people are free to celebrate their religion as they choose. Yet, still, the holiday season is a difficult time for Jews, as we see few, if any, reminders of our culture, and often feel inundated by the symbols of the surrounding Christian culture.

Here, in America, a multicultural nation by definition, we ask ourselves: Can we, perhaps, find a different solution to this age-old dilemma, one that does not enforce invisibility on minority cultures? Wouldn't it be possible to publicly acknowledge all the many different cultural and ethnic holidays that fall at this time of year? All of these holidays are, in one way or another, Festivals of Lights. Can we, in our dorms, our communities, our cities, our stores, acknowledge this commonality in all our religions, rather than impose one set of cultural and historical symbols on everyone?

Each people of the earth have created holidays that give a personal meaning to the larger life-cycle we are all a part of. Hanukkah, Christmas, Kwanza, and all the other holidays at this time of year are clustered around the winter solstice. Yet, what makes each holiday unique, is that each culture has given us important insights into humanity. At this time of year, the Jews' questions about assimilation and identity are ones that apply to all people in America, as we strive to build a nation that honors and values the many cultures that form the whole of our country.

Marcia Black is a Jewish Awareness/Anti-Semitism trainer from SCERA

The draft threat and student options

Given the perilous state of global affairs, perhaps some registration and draft deferment information is timely before its too late. U.S. troops are currently deployed in "hot spots" around the globe, straining the capabilities of existing personnel. One needn't be overly imaginative to foresee a sudden military escalation involving, either wittingly or unwittingly, American troops. Such a catastrophe would require rapid and recurring replacement of already thinly-spread forces. How would this be accomplished? The draft. The requisite bureaucratic infrastructure now exists for the swift resurrection of the draft. They're prepared, are you? Prior awareness of your status and your options is crucial to making informed decisions.

Guy L. Spencer

If you have chosen not to register, what are your options? What is the statistical probability of your being prosecuted; how does attendance of college, payment of federal taxes and similar acts affect your chances of slipping past the Selective Service? What do threatening letters from the Selective Service really mean? Are there others who for moral, political or other reasons refused to register? Yes, we are everywhere and we need to contact one another both for support and strategizing.

If you have registered, are you aware of the legally available deferments from military service? Conscientious Objector status is legitimately sought by both religious and non-religious opposers to war in any form. The process requires a great deal of planning. One's thoughts and beliefs must be clearly elaborated, letters of sincerity solicited and obtained and a lengthy application completed. Personal appearances before a potentially hostile panel are required. Once the draft is announced, it may be too late. Induction and classification are to occur 10-15 days following notification; precious little time to organize a viable C.O. claim. A draft counselor will, free of charge, assist a hopeful C.O. during this crucial preparatory period.

As you may or may not be aware, STUDENT STATUS DOES NOT ENTITLE ONE TO A DEFERMENT! An enrolled student will be permitted to complete only his current semester before reporting. The list of legal medical deferments is ponderous and full of potentially useful surprises. An hour with a draft counselor reviewing the list could prove life-saving. Deferments for economic hardship and "surviving son" status are quite detailed and specific. A draft counselor will help you determine whether or not you qualify.

All registrants have the legal right to deferments and all information concerning them. As the Selective Service hardly goes out of its way to promulgate these regulations, it is necessary for each of us to be educated consumers and seek them. Our fate is in our own hands.

Students concerned about these and other draft related issues (such as possible alternative financial aid sources for non-registered men) are invited and encouraged to attend the first meeting of a group forming to address these topics. The meeting will take place 7:00 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8 in the Suffolk Room of the Student Union.

Guy L. Spencer is a UMass student

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Curtis	Biology	$14.00
Curtis	Invitation to Biology	$13.50
De Paula	Marketing Todays Fashion	$10.00
Devore	Probability & Statistics For Engineers & Sciences	$15.00
Dommick	Dynamics of Mass Communication	$8.50
Donahue	Learning, Language & Memory	$11.00
Dorf	Modern Control Systems	$15.00
Fagan	In the Beginning	$10.00
Fagan	People of the Earth	$7.50
Flinn	Engineering Materials & Their Application	$15.25
Flippo	Personnel Management	$13.00
Fromkin	Introduction to Language 3/e	$8.00
Geoghegan	Language Files	$6.15
Gilson	Advertising	$12.50

Letters

Help for Crampton residents available

To the Editor.

To the residents of Crampton:

This has been a horrible semester. You have been frightened, bothered, and moved around. This morning at a meeting of the Faculty Senate Committee on the Status of Women we talked about your situation and how we could help. We want you to know that we understand how hard this has been for you.

However, we don't know who you are. You may be in our classes, and your grades may be suffering, but we don't know why — unless you tell us. Please — if you are having trouble, trust us to understand. Talk to your professors and TAs and see what can be worked out. We know that you're not making up excuses. The University is doing what it can for you, but if you need support and some personal attention to your studies, go to your professor and ask. We will get through this semester. Good luck on your (gulp) finals!

Barbara Baker and the Committee on the Status of Women

Republican Club will thrive

To the Editor,

An open letter to Rich Nangle, John Kenney and sundry other contributors to the Collegian Op./Ed page:

I would like to express my sincere gratitude for the support your self-indulgent attempts at journalism have given to conservatism. If Mr. Kenney and Mr. Nangle are any indication of what the campus liberals represent I have no doubt that the UMass Republican Club will not only endure, but thrive.

Because Mr. Kenney had nothing intelligent to write, he resorted to a cheap, emotional attempt to blame every evil known to civilized man on the members of our club. I half expected to be accused of the murder of Cock Robin. Trying his hand at a stream of consciousness editorial is certainly original, but I think that Mr. Kenney would benefit from a good creative writing course.

Mr. Nangle's article was as offensive to me as it would be to any clear-thinking individual, liberal or conservative. His accusations are so outrageous that they border on libel. His methods of refuting an opposing viewpoint are terrifying in their implications. If anything reacts with hysteria at the merest hint of disagreement it is The Liberal Mind. It is unfortunate that their tolerance for diversity does not extend to those who do not obediently march to their tune.

I am happy that many students at the University of Massachusetts do read these articles, for they serve to open the eyes of many students to what many "progressive" individuals and groups represent. Membership in my club increases.

William T. Pyne
President, UMass Republican Club

Do not steal those Xmas trees

To the Editor,

After drinking a few pitchers of beer or a few belts of 80 proof rot-gut, the Christmas trees, for sale by the Amherst Boy's Club on the town green, seem like an awfully tempting challenge to try to steal. I work in the District Attorney's Office in Northampton and I've already seen eight people convicted of this alcohol-related crime this season. Take a few words of advice and-or save yourself at least a $100 court cost (which goes to the Boy's Club) and give up this notion of trying to steal a tree.

As Pete "The Ax" Axthelm (a personal friend of mine!) has put it, "your chance of success is equal to the N.F.L.'s attempt to combat cocaine use among its players, or 40 to 1!" I'll be taking bets from now until Christmas.

Robbie Weinberg
Amherst

THE ONCE AND FUTURE FIRE:

James Baldwin
and
Roger Wilkins
Ponder U.S. Society
on the Eve of 1984

Sponsored by Chancellor Joseph Duffey of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and Five College Black Studies, Inc.

The Fire Next Time and A Man's Life

James Baldwin, noted author and civil rights activist, recipient of Rosenwald and Guggenheim fellowships and the National Institute of Arts and Letters Award, is currently Five College Professor of Literature

Roger Wilkins, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist for his Washington Post editorials on Watergate and former Assistant Attorney General, is presently a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

Thursday, December 8, 1983, 8 p.m.
Campus Center, Room 101
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY

SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27

YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW

MEETINGS
WED DEC 7 SOUTHWEST
7:00 pm HAMPTON-SOUTHSIDE
THURS DEC 8, ROOM 164
4:00 pm CAMPUS CENTER

TABLES WED-FRI DEC 7-9
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH
FOR MORE INFO CALL 545-3437

Over 35,000 books at
40-80% OFF
publishers list price
Sci-Fi/Sports/Art
Poetry/Mystery
Fishing/Drama
Dance/Music
Field Guides
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
5 E. Pleasant St.
(next to Hampshire National Bank)
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Sat
12-4 Sun
549-6052

Daisy's
Breakfasts, Lunches & Dinners.
Dinner at Daisy's
LIVER and ONIONS - tender baby beef liver with lots of onions and bacon...5.45
HADDOCK - marinated in fresh ginger, soy sauce and lemon juice then baked to perfection.....7.10
Served with parsleyed potatoes or rice pilaf, homemade poppy seed bread and salad.
Plus 8 Other Delicious Entrees To Choose. At A Price You Can Afford!
AT THE LIGHTS IN NORTH AMHERST 549-6643
We're open 7 days a week 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"Study In The Berkshires"

Extra Study Space Available in Berkshire D.C. - Southwest! 8:00 pm to 12:00

This is a 3 week trial period arranged by SWAG. Come show your support by studying with us!
Sorry - No food or drink.
Ad: courtesy of Academic Affairs S.G.A.

Tonight
A Party in Celebration of Columbia's New Thriller
CHRISTINE
Two For One 9 til 11 all drinks
50° Miller / $2.50 Pitchers
60 Movie Passes to be given away
- Copies of the book
- Key Chains
- Bumper Stickers
- Trivia Contest
- Posters
Opening at Mt. Farms 4 Theaters Fri. Dec. 9
THE PUB
15 E. Pleasant St.. AMHERST

Due to the relocation of the University Store, study space has been temporarily diminished in the Student Union. The Board of Governors has made arrangements to provide space. The available rooms change daily so we will post schedules by approximately 3 P.M. each day in the following areas: Entrance to the Cape Cod Lounge, S.U.B., Coffee Shop doors, University Store and Concourse Elevators.
We encourage you to take advantage of these rooms. Good Luck on finals.

Arts

Pitch Dark illuminating

Renata Adler creates a modern classic

PITCH DARK
By Renata Adler
Alfred A. Knopf, 144 pages, $12.95, (Hardback)

By DAVID TAYLOR
Collegian Correspondent

There are few works in recent times that I would personally rate, upon first encounter, as classics. PITCH DARK, the new novel by Renata Adler is a classic. It is a brilliant piece; a fresh poignant stream of consciousness reminiscent of James Joyce; but much more accessible, in touch with the reality and emotions of a young American woman.

What is the novel about? It is difficult to say. What is presented is a slice of life. Kate, the narrator and heroine, is a freelance writer. She is involved with Jake, in what becomes increasingly apparent to be a restrictive relationship. Kate leaves; she wants somewhere quiet and peaceful to collect her thoughts. But she finds herself instead, on a wet, dark road in Southern Ireland under strange and suspicious circumstances. A small accident involving her rented car and a truck escalates into a sinister web of intrigue and deceit. She has, or is about to commit a crime. Or perhaps this is just in her mind. Only when she has returned home to the States and Jake is she able to assemble these circumstances into some framework that can be looked at in perspective. And the reader finds that what has been presented is perhaps just the documentation of a young woman's paranoia at a time of emotional stress.

Renata Adler

In a style that at one time encompasses both journalistic and poetic techniques the novel moves easily between personae, shifting from one perspective to another. The most engaging effect is the way in which Adler conveys the ominous pall of distrust which seems to cling to the country of Ireland. A violence and evil cruelty seems to ferment beneath each encounter between the young woman and the Irish, and the uneasiness remains even when the novel returns to a more comfortable American setting.

PITCH DARK is a stunning book. It has a directness which absorbs the reader entirely. A fresh and neoteric approach to writing allows the novel to go deep within Kate's psyche- to convey the way in which this woman acts and reacts to the modern world. An emotional book, it is certain to become a standard English study text in the future, for it has a style which will no doubt be copied, and adapted for other means. This is a splendid novel which offers a rare glimpse into another's world of feeling and experience.

artslines . . .

A Crafts Market, featuring the work of 70 professional artists and crafts people, will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 10 and Sunday, Dec. 11 at Smith College's Scott Gymnasium at the end of Green Street.

Sponsored by the Smith College Campus School PTO, the Crafts Market is in its fourth year. Proceeds go to school programs and scholarships.

According to David Dempsey of Montague, display manager, this year's market will feature painters, wood workers, potters, photographers, weavers, knitters and ornament makers, to mention a few.

In addition to crafts displays, the fair will also offer area musicians performing throughout the day, films and special crafts activities for children and some demonstrations of craft techniques, according to Dempsey.

Hot lunches will be served and there will be baked goods and snack food tables as well as used book displays.

The Campus School serves children pre-school through Grade 6. Youngsters come from communities in Hampshire, Hampden, and Franklin Counties. For more information, contact David Dempsey at 367-2711.

The Wesley United Methodist Church in Amherst will once again sponsor a community sing-along of the Christmas portion of G.F. Handel's MESSIAH on Sunday afternoon, December 11, at 3:30 PM. All those in the greater Amherst area who wish to participate in this seasonal event are cordially invited. Guest soloists will be Suzanne Anderson, soprano; Joanne Blanchard, alto; Peter Payson, tenor; and John Ring, bass. Accompanying the sing-along will be the Northampton Chamber Orchestra playing from the original scoring for the Messiah. Twenty-one orchestral members will be playing, and both organ and harpsichord accompaniment will be included. The MESSIAH sing-along will be directed by George Orsten, Choir Director at Wesley United Methodist Church, as part of Wesley Church's music program. Copies of the vocal score will be available at the church, and parking is available in the commercial parking area off Fearing Street. Participants are urged to arrive at the church by 3:15 P.M. The church is located at 365 N. Pleasant Street in Amherst.

The Smith College Theatre Department will present Bertolt Brecht's THE GOOD WOMAN OF SETZUAN on December 2, 3, 8, 9, and 10 at 8:00 p.m. in Theatre 14, Smith College.

Three gods come to earth in search of good people. The only person to befriend the gods is Shen Te, the prostitute. The gods reward Shen Te's goodness with her very own tobacco shop. To protect herself from her own generosity Shen Te assumes the identity of Shui Ta, a greedy, mean, heartless person. The ensuing events are comical but tinged with moral overtones inspecting the human condition.

Tickets are available at the Theatre Department Box Office, weekdays, 12:30 - 4:30 p.m. Dollar Night is December 8. General admission is $4; students and senior citizens — $2. For reservations call 584-3023.

Origins, an MFA installation by Stephen Oakley, will be exhibited December 11 - 16, 1983, at Hampden Gallery, Southwest Residential College, UMass. An opening reception will be held Sunday, December 11, 5 - 7 p.m.

Working in copper, Oakley has created microcosmic and macrocosmic sculpture that stimulate the participant's conception of the human realm. Of obvious human origin but offering no reference to time or purpose, the forms appear to emerge from below the surface, suggesting the existence of much that we do not perceive.

Special gallery hours for the duration of the exhibit are 5 8 p.m., Monday through Friday. For more information, call the director at 256-6365.

Trumpet extraordinaire WYNTON MARSALIS will perform along with RAMSEY LEWIS in a jazz double-bill at 8 p.m. on Sunday, December 11 at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. Look for an exclusive preview on the show by David Chevan later this week.

Watch for Andy Gordon's TRAILERS every Friday!

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB

SUGARBUSH VALLEY

SKI & PARTY WEEK

JAN. 22 - 27

TRIP INCLUDES:
5½ DAY LIFT TICKET — SUN - FRI
5 NIGHTS LODGING — HOTEL OR CONDO
MEALS (TAX, DINNER & CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST) — HOTEL ONLY
ENTERTAINMENT: FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
HOT TUB PARTIES, LONG UNDERWEAR PARTIES
TURTLE RACES, FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES NASTAR RACES
SUGARBUSH COUPON BOOK, ECT. ECT.

HOTEL PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $184
CONDO PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $189

FIRST 100 PEOPLE TO SIGN-UP WILL BE ELIGIBLE FOR A FREE TRIP

LAGNAF 84

FOR MORE INFO 545-3437 430 STUDENT UNION

OOPS!

Now's the time to call

North Amherst Motors

Expert repairs & reconditioning.

Rt. 63, No Amherst

549-2880

CIEE BUDGET AIR FARES

USA
from Boston round trip from

Chicago	$229
New York	46
Los Angeles	369
Houston	138
Raleigh	129
Washington	80

International

Paris	519
London	459
Tokyo	925
Caracas	290

Also many other destinations. Eurail pass, Britrail pass, Int'l Student ID card, AYH card, books, tours, insurance, ski vacations and more.

497-1497

Council Travel
1278 Mass Ave Harvard Square
Cambridge MA 02138

Hypercurricula...

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

Wednesday

FILM — UMass Sci-Fic Society is sponsoring a showing of Excaliber — Free. 7 p.m., CC 804-808.

INFORMATION ABOUT ISRAEL PROGRAMS — Israel Maizel will offer interviews and information about Kibbutz programs in Israel. Call Hillel 545-2526 for an appointment. 10 a.m. - 4 p.m., CC 801.

ISRAELI FOLK DANCING — The last night of Israeli dancing this semester. It is also the last night of Chanukah — join us for lighting the menorah. 6 p.m., Commonwealth Room, S.U.

HEBREW SPEAKING LUNCH — Bring a lunch and join us for Hebrew conversation. 11 a.m. - 12 p.m., Dukes Room, S.U.

PROUT — PROGRESSIVE SOCIALISM AND SPIRITUALITY — Dada Ramana, meditation teacher, yogic monk, and prout worker will speak on "confronting the superpowers and superideologies" at 7 p.m. on 12/8 — Annabelle's 3rd floor Thorne's Market. Free! Also: 12 p.m., Hampshire College COLE 126.

ONE YEAR STUDY ABROAD OPPORTUNITIES IN THE UNITED KINGDOM — Informational meeting for students interested in studying in the United Kingdom for academic year. 3 - 4:30 p.m., Herter Hall 3rd, floor lounge.

RALLY — Another view of world affairs on campus. 12 p.m., in front of S.U.B.

MEXICO WORKING TRIP INFORMATION MEETING — Information about 3 week working trip to Mexico. We'll distribute food and clothes to the poor. $395.00 is the total cost, includes meals! Today is last chance to make a $75.00 deposit to hold space. Call Sheila, after 5, 665-7138 or Emily 9-11 a.m. 253-7503. 1:45 p.m., Newman Ctr. Cafeteria — No smoking room.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB MEETING — Mandatory meeting. Anyone interested in finding out about finishing their lessons must attend. Fund raisers and future plans are being settled. 7:30 - 9:30 p.m., 805-09 CC.

WILDLIFE SOCIETY MEETING — Chapter meeting with guest speaker Betsy Ham, speaking on the Restoration of the Atlantic Salmon on the Conn. River. Refreshment will be provided. 7:30 p.m., 312 Holdsworth Hall.

MEETING — COMMITTEE FOR EQUAL RIGHTS & REPRODUCTIVE FREEDOM — Join us as we view the film "Matters So Fundamental" about reproductive rights issues. CC. 802 5:00 p.m., Wednesday December 7.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

OFFERS FOR GRADUATE STUDY DURING 1984-85

The National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta announces that the fellowships for graduate study listed above will be awarded for use during the 1984-85 academic year. The amount of each fellowship is $3,000. Applicants will be judged on academic record, recommendations submitted, the soundness of the proposed project and its purpose, and need.

Any member of Alpha Lambda Delta graduating with a cumulative average of 3.50 is eligible. Graduating seniors may apply if they have achieved this average at the end of the first semester (or first quarter) of this year.

Application blanks may be obtained from the Chapter Adviser, Gladys Rodriguez, at the Dean of Students Office, Room 227, Whitmore. The deadline for application is January 4, 1984. For further information regarding the fellowships, see Gladys Rodriguez.

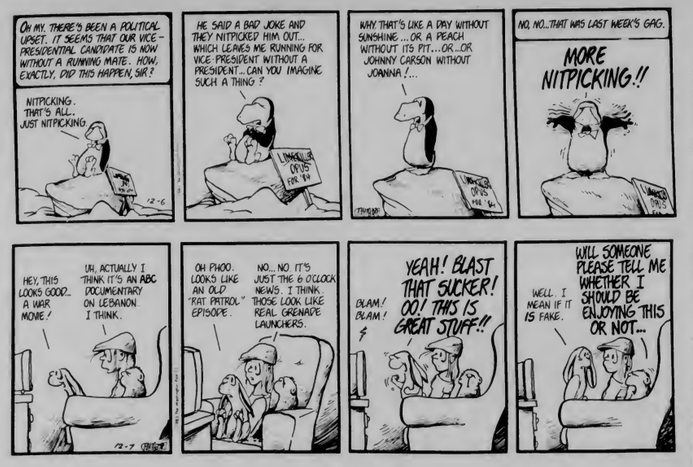
Pursuing A Career In The Arts?

The Fine Arts Center has internships available in the following areas:
ARTS MANAGEMENT
CONCERT HALL MANAGEMENT
PUBLICITY
PRODUCTION SERVICES

For more information, call the Internship Office 545-0727

SKI POWDER WINTER BREAK

UMASS SKI CLUB



JACKSON HOLE

WYOMING JAN 10 - 17

TRIP INCLUDES:
ROUND TRIP AIRFARE & TRANSFERS
5 DAY LIFT TICKET JACKSON HOLE
8 DAYS, 7 NIGHT LUXURIOUS CONDOS
COLLEGE SKI FEST ACTIVITIES
(TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $559

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 545-3437

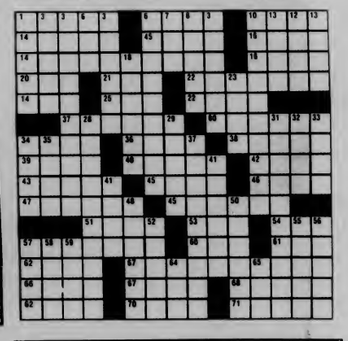
Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

Scrod — Dan DeBellis

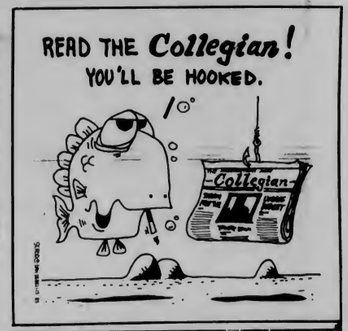
Superbad — by G.H.

After The Fall — by R. Miller

Wilson Low — by C.C. McFly



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE



Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Summary
6 Once, long ago
10 Musical sign
14 In any way
15 Treaty org.
16 A Chaplin
17 Engine apparatus
19 Cranny's companion
20 Prefix with gram
21 Word in a mailman's motto
22 Sputter
24 Fam. room
25 State: VIP
26 Windy day sight
27 Tarzan, e.g.
30 Biblical seamstress
34 Deed, in Dijon
36 Greek letters
38 Raphael's homeland
39 Like some pickles
40 Communities, in ancient Athens
42 Nutrition must
43 Stop for Gershwin's American
45 Religious faction
46 Slangy reply
47 Cooked, in a way
49 Pertaining to the back
51 Levin and Gershwin
53 Modern
54 "—— Little Teapot"
57 Diamond players' goal
60 Aswan attraction
61 Avian feature
62 Emit smoke
63 Brown, as sugar
66 Seed coat
67 At any time
68 Lasso
69 Spy thriller character
70 Depend (on)
71 Sub finder

DOWN
1 Track competitor
2 A day's march
3 Parody
4 Priestly robe
5 Rush headlong
6 Weakens
7 Spill the beans
8 Supply
9 Scorching
10 Accordion's cousin
11 —— down one's nose
12 Chemical compound
13 Counterfeit
18 Lodged
23 Thine: Fr.
28 Shade of blue
29 Titled
31 Andrew Johnson, for example
32 Crooked
33 Since, to Burns
34 Vipers
35 Chesterfield
37 Of minor importance
41 Steady flow
44 Evening, in Venice
48 "Chorus Line" performer
50 Suzanne of TV fame
52 Forestall (with "off")
55 Memorable hostess
56 As hungry as ——
57 Nanny's concern
58 Architect Saarinen
59 Astronaut Armstrong
64 CSA VIP
65 Zodiac sign

DC Menu

LUNCH
Turkey Club Sandwich
Fish in Batter
Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Grinder
Fish in Batter
Tartar Sauce

DINNER
Baked Ham
Fruit Sauce
Baked Ziti
BREAD BUFFET

BASICS DINNER
Baked Ziti
Green Bean Strata
BREAD BUFFET

Weather

Today, cloudy with rain developing, highs in the mid to upper 40s. Rain, heavy at times early tonight, ending late at night, lows in the 20s as temperatures turn sharply colder late at night. Wednesday, mostly cloudy, windy and cold, highs in the 30s.

Todays puzzle answer

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM
HOUSING SERVICES

Emphasis on career advancement skills internship awards spring semester stipends of $3.65/hr. - 15 hr/wk and 3 credits independent study.
Interested sophomores and juniors should submit resume, personal goal statement, and 2 letters of recommendation by Dec. 9, 1983. Send application materials to:
Joya Jimenez, Intern Coordinator
c/o Affirmative Action Office
307 Whitmore
For information call: 5-0472 or 5-1550

Work Semester Break
We offer excellent earning potential from end of December thru end of January. If you live from the Cape thru Southern N.H., Greater Boston, Worcester and west from Springfield thru Northampton and are over 18 and dependable, you can work, depending on your availability, 20-35 hours a week and start at $4.75 an hour.
Nationwide inventory service needs to supplement out present staffs of auditors in taking physical inventories in various retail stores. Must have weekend, weeknight availability, day hours also possible. A good work reference for the future. Must have phone and transportation. Contact Student Employment Office by Dec. 6 for interview schedule. EOE.

PREPARE FOR
MCAT•LSAT•GMAT
SAT•ACT•DAT•GRE•CPA
Our 46th year
Feb. 4, 1984 Exam — GRE — classes begin 1/3/84
Jan. 28, 1984 Exam — GMAT — classes begin 12/14/83 1/2/84
Intersession Class — LSAT — Begins 1/4/84
April 28, 1984 Exam — MCAT — classes begin 1/3/84 1/7/84
Stanley H. KAPLAN Educational Center
Call Days Eves & Weekends
264 N. Pleasant Street Amherst 253-5108
For information about other centers Outside NY State CALL TOLL FREE 800 223-1782
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Patriots release Fred Steinfort

FOXBORO, Mass (AP) - Placekicker Fred Steinfort, who made just six of 15 field goal attempts with the New England Patriots this season, was cut Monday for the sixth time in his seven-year National Football League career.

Coach ron Meyer said a replacement has been chosen and will be disclosed Tuesday once contractual matters are settled.

Steinfort's fate apparently was sealed when he failed on all three of his field goal attempts, from 37, 48 and 24 yards, in Sunday's 7-0 victory over New Orleans. But Meyer said he had decided before the game to release the kicker and did not say why he waited to do it.

Asked if it was a gamble for a team harboring slim playoff hopes to change kickers with two regular-season games left, Meyer said, "I'm tempted to do anything to win...I'm always looking to improve this football team."

He hoped to do that when he released veteran kicker John Smith after the fifth game. Smith had made three of six field goal attempts and 12 of 15 extra-point kicks this season.

"You can't look back in this crazy business. How can you regret it?" he said, citing Smith's mediocre performance. He added that Smith will not replace Steinfort.

In his first four games with New England, Steinfort made four of seven field-goal kicks with all the misses coming from beyond 40 yards. In the five games since then, he was two for eight with misses from 24, 37 and 39 yards. His longest successful field goal was a 35-yarder.

Sports Notice

There will be a manager's meeting about team registration for intramural basketball on December 13th or 14th at 6 p.m. in Boyden, room 215.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

MAKE WAY FOR NEW TRACKS — When the plans to renovate the Cage are approved, the old wooden floor of the track will be resurfaced with a synthetic covering.

★ cage

Continued from page 16.

The players will now have direct access to the court instead of fighting through the crowd as they know do.

The UMass locker rooms will be like "self-contained suites" according to Patrick W. McCarthy, one of the designers. The Minutemen locker rooms will include showers, lockers, training rooms and will be a bit more elaborate than the visitor's locker rooms of just showers and a locker upstairs.

"The home court advantage has to be played up," said Tony B. Casendino, another architect.

Other sports would also be able to use the locker room facilities, including the soccer teams who could use the facilities along with the coaches.

Inside the Cage itself, a concrete floor will be placed over the ancient dirt floor and then a synthetic surface will be placed on top of that. The track will be resurfaced with the same synthetic covering. A removable basketball wooden floor will be placed on top of the synthetic surface. The planners recommend that the wood floor would not be easily demountable because frequent movings and storings could damage it.

New bleachers, that will roll up into stacks, will be placed on the floor and the seats on the balconies will be new and moved forward.

The roof will have a little skylight at the top and ducts will run down the corners of the roof to help air circulate and make the Cage a more comfortable place.

While the architects say that the seating will be 4024, the capacity of the building will remain 4200.

Now, after meeting with Faculty Senate Campus Planning Group and the University Athletic Council earlier in the day, both of whom were pleased with the plans, the architects will now finalize their plans and make a few minor changes.

Then the proposal goes to the Board of Regents, who will likely pass it, according to Bischoff. After that the project will go out to bid and hopefully construction will start as soon as possible.

Amherst College
Department of Theatre and Dance
presents
Carlo Goldoni's
The Servant of Two Masters
In the improvisational style of the Commedia dell'Arte
Directed by Richard Edelman
Music by Lewis Spratlan
Movement by Spider Kedelsky
7 consecutive performances in Fayerweather Theatre
December 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 at 8:00 P.M.
General Admission $4.
Students & Senior Citizens $2.
A.C. students free with I.D.
Box office hours 1-5 daily
For reservations call 542-2277

Facing Death:
A Film dealing with the difficult issue of terminal illness and facing death
Place: UMass Campus Center, Room 911
Date: Wednesday, Dec. 7th
Time: 7p.m.
This event is free of charge and sponsored by the Student Health Advisory Board shah

Christmas Cards, Wrap, and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of
The Student Union Building
Christmas Wrap & Trims
ABRAMSBRANDS
Discover the distinctive wrappings that make gift-giving a joy!
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

TOP of the CAMPUS RESTAURANT
11th FLOOR CAMPUS CENTER/UMASS
PRESENTS
2 Fashion Show Luncheons!
"Career Dressing Into Evening Wear"
DECEMBER 6&7
12:30 to 1:30pm
Featuring Fashions From:
Hit or Miss
FOXMOOR
Cosmetics From:
MERLE NORMAN
In Conjunction with the Fashion Office Classes

BLUE WALL
CENTER AT UMASS
THURS. DEC. 8
NEW WAVE DANCE!
RCA RECORDING ARTISTS
THE BONGOS
18 YEAR OLDS WELCOME
WITH SPECIAL GUESTS
RAPTURE OF THE DEEP
PRODUCED IN ASSOCIATION WITH UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Prospect for golden oldies.
Discover grandpa's shirts. Grandma's nightgowns. Skinny ties. Hollywood glitter. And other choice nuggets. Rush right in.
MOLLY'S STORE
in the Carriage Shops
Amherst
M-Sat 10-5

IN SPITE OF REAGANOMICS
Career opportunities are continuing to develop in
PUBLIC HEALTH
The Division of Public Health at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, Massachusetts will be holding an
OPEN HOUSE
for students interested in master's and doctoral programs in:
Biostatistics
Community Health Education
Environmental Health
Epidemiology
Health Administration
Public Health Nutrition
Friday, December 9, 1983 at 10:00 a.m. in Room 904 of the
Murray Lincoln Campus Center
Meet Faculty and Students All Are Welcome
For more information call or write:
Robert W. Gage, M.D.
Graduate Program Director
University of Massachusetts
Division of Public Health
Amherst, MA 01003
(413) 545-1317

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1980 Mezde 626 38000 miles AM FM csst great shape 546-6033

1979 Malibu 4 door a/cond exc. body some motor prob. runs good 1800$ or BO Kathi 546-6492 must sell!

1976 Chevette autotrans great mpg all new under hood cassette/stereo exc cond $1695. 546-8739

72 VW Squarebeck, radial tires, new front fenders, trans. just replaced, sunroof, rebuilt dual carbs, dependable transportation, $350 549-7883

77 Fiet 131S gold 5 speed newly tuned good shape taking BO 546-7637

BETTER GRADES

*****
New Report reveals effective techniques to help you study for exams and pass! Even if you have to cram! Valuable aid to any student send $2.00 to P.O. Box 1155 Northampton MA 01061
*****

CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEA

Enamel Earrings in a handsome gift box, 6 pairs for $5. Call evenings Lisa or Mary Ann 549-7611.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Two persons wanted to share room in Rolling Green apartment 256-0058

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Skis - K2 shorts, 195cm, barely used. Boots - Nordica Cosmos, size 10M, good condition 125 for both call Kim 549-6689, Dave 549-7756

Wholesale prices rings, necklaces, watches, 10-14 crt gold jewelry call 546-4408 for more info unbelievable low prices

New Polaroid Cameras 2 models $15 to $20 call Glen 246-6456

Ski Boots Pair of high performance Technica 'pro' ski boots, size 8½ one season, excellent condition interested? call Morgan 6-5469

Volvo 68 very low mileage one owner good condition call 549-7877

TI-59 Programmeble Calc w/magnetic cards $160 reg. $250 TIPC100C printer fits TI-59 or TI-58C $140 reg. $200---546-6775 or 546-8475

Ski Boots Nordica Typhoon used 2 yrs size 9 good cond. Kurt 549-5897

Dorm Refrigerator, 1.7 cu. ft., $90, 256-8412

FOUND

Joen M pick up your wallet at the CC Information Desk

HELP WANTED

Production Manager - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challenging job in a student controlled business. Two year committment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in SU 403. Application due 12/12 AA/EEO 545-2271

Jobs for Intersession! Work for progressive social change with our political outreaching and fundraising staff. MASSPIRG has full time openings in Amherst, Boston and Worcester. Call Terry 256-6434

I CAN'T TAKE IT ANYMORE

I'm dropping out! Buy my drafting equipment! T-squares, templates, pencils, boards, etc. You name the price. Call Sam Meader 253- 2284

LOST

2 teme birds: white parakeet and grey cockatiel - Riverglade Apts. 256-1323/549-6000

NICE AND TIGHT

Tired of just listening to that great R & B and Rock and not playing it for people? Dedicated drummer, bass, keyboard needed. Call 665-7148

PERSONALS

 College * Spring * Break ******
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe • • Motor Coech Transportetion • • ocean front accommodation7 night • • • Welcome Perty with FREE BEER • • Meke reservations Now end Save $20 • • Check out our table in the • • CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
 D*A*Y*T*O*N*A  B*E*A*C*H *****

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE

Housing available for spring semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Intersession Housing. Any university women interested in living in SDT Sorority house during wintersession contact Sue G 545-0527 for more info

The Merine Corps will give the aviation qualification test tomorrow night, Dec 7 at 6 pm in Room 811 Campus Center, or call 203-722-2168 collect for an appointment

HARRY: Because equations stimulate your mind here is one of the creative kind. . .Saturday + Xmas party + midnight = the unveiling! Elise

SUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR

Sugarbush Valley
Ski & Perty Week Jan 22-27
5½ day lift ticket 5 nights lodging
hotel, with meals or condo
free beer & wine parties, hot tub party
long underwear party, turtle races
Nastar races, Sugarbush coupon book etc
Hotel Package only $184
Condo Package only $189
for more info call 545-3437 LAGNAF 84

Ski Powder Winter Breek
Jackson Hole
Round trip airfare & transfers
transportation to & from airport
8 day - 7 night accomodations
gorgeous condos, wine & cheese party
hot tub party, beer slalom, free t-shirt
5½ day lift ticket for Jackson Hole
for more info call 545-3437

Collegian Staff - Mandatory staff meeting, Thursday, Dec. 8, 7:00 pm in the newsroom. Topics include intersession paper, new editors, and a Christmas party

ZORG There's a little black fly in my eye today Santa

Georgie, It's been a helluva semesta teachin' withya. 'til class David

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

To Denver Coloredo before Jan 1 will share driving & gas Gary 546-6027

Ride needed to Bradley Airfield I need a ride to Bradley Tuesday December 20 morning. Must be there by 11 am please call Sherry 253-7854

RIDERS WANTED

Rider to Los Angeles leav after finals? Doug 323-7774

ROOM WANTED

Quiet responsible clean senior looking for room in house or apt for spring semester call Rich 549-1215

Clean quiet responsible male exchange student looking a room Spring '84 close to campus 546-1031 John

ROOMMATE WANTED

Looking for 1 or 2 femeles for spring semester at Brittany Manor call 253-5560

Femele Brittany start Feb 1 call Linda 549-1754

Female roommete needed spring semester Brandywine 549-0505

Looking for 1 femele to share Brittany Manor apt starting Jan 1 call 253-3796

Large bedroom available in pleasant Townhouse apartment starting January call Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

1 or 2 females needed for room in Southwood townehouse Jan 1st 256-0354

Women needed to share lg bdrm in 2 bdrm Puffton apt. Rent $127/mo heat included. Call Terri 549-5845

I need a considerate female roommate for the Riverglade Apts call 256-0033 and ask for Melanie

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Typing Special $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

TO SUBLET

Belchertown Ctr spacious 4 bedroom house available Jan 1 call 323-7310

Help 3 female sublettors wanted for intersession 3 bdrm in Townhouse Apts rent neg 549-5216

Available Jan 1 University Park Apts 1 bedroom apt $295/month util. incl. call Andy or Tuan 256-1339

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley: #3 U.S. fighter. Next semester! 256-0080 CALL NOW!

VENDERS WANTED

Venders wanted to sell original arts and crafts for GPC and craftshop fund raiser. On the CC Concourse Dec 7, 8, 9 contact Penny in the SUB Craftshop

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

Atten Photogs: last years Gymnastics photos? Call 549-1889 after 8:00

Mary Frick lookalike, where are you I need you now!

WANTED Mary Frick lookelike Apply at Phi Mud

WANTED TO RENT

2 females went specs in house or apt Amherst area for spring semester call 546-3293

I am looking for a two or three bedroom apt in Amherst, North Amherst. call Paul or Tony 665-7605 starting Jan 1

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Seeking two bedroom apt in house or a room in one for spring semester 256-1069

Sports

More Sports on Page 14

Plans released for renovation of Cage

by GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Plans for the renovation and addition to the Curry Hicks Cage were revealed to the media yesterday by the Dean of the School of Physical Education, David C. Bischoff, and the architects from the Boston based firm of Childs, Bertman, Tseckares and Casendino, who prepared the plans.

The project is estimated to cost $2 to $3 million and Bischoff hopes the construction will start in the spring or early summer.

According to Bischoff, the funding for the project has not yet been determined and that is up to the Board of Regents. The state has not appropriated any money for this.

The renovations should take 10-12 months to complete, according to the architects, and the cage should be ready by the 1985-86 season.

"It's a sacrifice well worth making," Bischoff said. During construction, teams could play at the Springfield Civic Center, and there may be more road games and maybe some games at Amherst College.

"If the Cage wasn't on a campus, it would be condemned," Bischoff said. "The people in the Atlantic 10 are most unhappy about the facility. They have to dress in primitive locker rooms," added the Dean.

"It (the renovations) will serve many interests and many other teams (besides the basketball teams) will be enhanced," he said.

Among the proposed changes are the addition of a new two-story building to be built along the South side of the Cage, where the student ticket entrance is now. There would also be an exterior ticket window, a trophy case and concession stand.

Bathrooms and locker rooms will be on the right side of the addition, with the left side used for storage and offices. The building and bathrooms would be accessible to the handicapped. The visitor's locker rooms will be upstairs on the left and right sides.

Continued on page 14.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

THE "BEFORE" PICTURE — An after picture of the renovated Cage will take a few years. A two-story addition will be built on the student entrance with an outer ticket window, a trophy case and concession stand.

Inexperience haunts the UMass wrestling team

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

An inexperienced University of Massachusetts wrestling team traveled to the Coast Guard Invitational Wrestling Tournament and came back with less than spectacular results.

In the 118 pound class, Rich Gardiner was 0-2 on the day. Gardiner is experiencing major problems with his weight. The freshman is small for his weight class, tipping the scales at a mere 114 pounds.

"Rich is a heck of a wrestler," Coach Rick Freitas said. "As soon as he gains some more experience and learns how to handle the larger wrestlers he'll be scoring a lot more points for us."

Salem's Chris Lee won two matches and looked impressive for UMass.

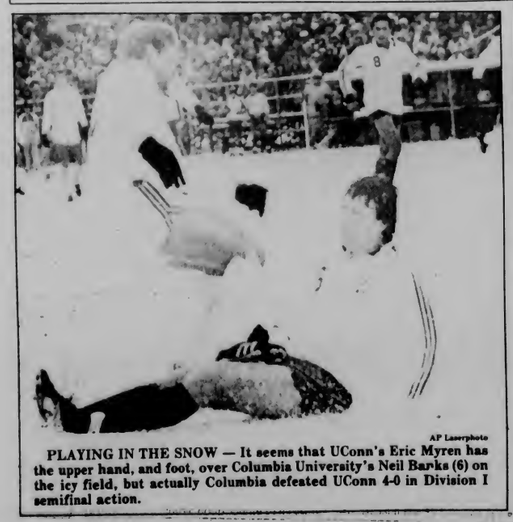
"I didn't wrestle as well as I would have like to," explained the freshman. "A wrestler always feels he could have done better when the match is over and that's how I felt after the tournament. The quality of wrestlers is much better here than in high school. I'm coming up against much stronger, more aggressive opponents who don't give up easily."

At the 134 mark, Mike Hanlon won his first collegiate match. Hanlon wrestled up a weight class which made his victory that much sweeter.

Wesley Beckwith entered the tournament with a hyperextended elbow and still managed to go 2-2. The 142 pounder has improved immensely since the start of the season.

Middle weights Dave MacDonald and Paul Hardy came away empty handed at the 150 and 158 spots, respectively. Both freshman wrestled well but weren't ready for the more experienced competition.

Although the score didn't show it, our improvement since the beginning of the season showed. These guys are still young but are maturing quickly: They're beginning to realize that they can't get away with a lot of the things that they did in high school.



— Wrestling Coach Rick Freitas

Captain Scott McQuaide didn't place but wrestled well. The senior went 3-2 in the tournament. McQuaide is only five weeks off a hernia operation and that he wrestled five matches in such a short time span is an accomplishment in itself.

The Minutemen's 177 pounder Brian Shaughnessy was overwhelmed by more experienced grapplers and went 0-2 in the tourney.

"Although the score didn't show it, our improvement since the beginning of the season showed," Freitas said. "These guys are still young but are maturing quickly. They're beginning to realize that they can't get away with a lot of the things that they did in high school."

UMass hosts Southern Connecticut tomorrow night at Boyden at 7:30. Connecticut is ranked eighth overall in New England and is ranked in the top 20 in the country in Division two. The UMass wrestling team will sell programs and posters at the door.

AP Laserphoto

PLAYING IN THE SNOW — It seems that UConn's Eric Myren has the upper hand, and foot, over Columbia University's Neil Banks (6) on the icy field, but actually Columbia defeated UConn 4-0 in Division I semifinal action.

UMass track finishes third

By M.E. MURRAY
Collegian Correspondent

In the introduction of a long season that will stretch until early March, the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track season shot out of the blocks Saturday at a four team meet at the University of Connecticut.

Host UConn held off a powerful St. Johns team while UMass managed to stay just ahead of the University of New Hampshire to grab third.

At least 12 of the 15 scorers for the Minutemen Saturday were freshmen and sophomores, evidence that this years edition of UMass track is a young one.

Some standout performances Saturday included the third place finish of freshman Rawle Crichlow, who completed the 60 yard dash in 6.4 seconds. Sophomore Jay Lynch placed second in the 800 meter (1:59.6) and sophomore Ted White came in second in the 1000 meter (3:31.7).

The team appears to be strong in the longer distance events with veterans John Pannacione, Rod LaFlamme, and Rick Doiron all coming off strong cross-country seasons.

Brian Osborne will be looking to break his own records in the 500 and 600 meter events. The senior set UMass marks in both events last year and sprinted to a third best in New England in the 600.

Co-Captains Osborne, Doiron and Todd Johnson lead a team whose scoring potential should develop strongly throughout the indoor season and may be fully realized by Spring when they move outdoors.

Meanwhile, the Minutemen will join many other New England teams this Saturday at the Boston University Relays.

Sports Notice

Intramural officials needed for men's, women's and co-rec hoop. Come to meeting December 13th or 14th at 7 p.m. in Boyden 215. Season starts February 1st.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 60 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Wednesday, December 7, 1983

Trustees approve $124 million 1985 budget

By JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

BOSTON—The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees approved a request for a 9.8 percent budget increase for 1985, citing large increases in applications, "the University's improved image in the media," and the need to expand and strengthen high-demand career-oriented programs.

The initial budget request, coming more than three months late because of delays in the 1984 budget, also places special emphasis on physical plant improvements to address problems of an aging campus and improvements to the Tower Library and the equipment replacement program to "enhance research capabilities" at the Amherst campus.

The trustees approved a budget request of nearly $124 million for the Amherst campus, as part of a $200.5 million request for the entire University system.

Two trustees voted against the proposal, and members expressed anger at University President David C. Knapp for releasing his recommendations to the Board of Regents of Higher Education before letting the trustees review them.

The Regents' recommendations to the state legislature for the 1985 Higher Education System passed at their Nov. 11 meeting, includes a "pared down version of the University's (budget) request," Knapp said.

The University's new requests for the Amherst campus total $6.7 million, and the Regents requested only $3.5 million for the 1985 UMass-Amherst budget. Of that, the trustees had asked for an extra $1.5 million for library acquisitions for the Amherst campus, but the Regents recommended only $500.00.

"We're in a difficult situation of bringing this request to you (the trustees) after the Board of Regents have heard . . .and acted on all the requests here before you," Knapp said. The President usually presents these recommendations to the trustees in August, for approval by September and presentation to the regents in October. However, Knapp said, because the final 1984 University budget was held up for three months, until October this year, the trustees could not review the 1985 recommendations before the had to submit them to the Regents for inclusion in the Higher Education Budget requests.

Trustee John Sweeney said the regents had cut "some very meaningful and important programs" and the board voted to send the regents a letter which Sweeney said would show "not only that we are unhappy with their actions but that we won't go along with their recommendaitons."

When some members expressed concern that the letter would damage relations between the two boards, Sweeney retorted, "if there are good relations between us on important issues, I have yet to see them."

In his final comments, Trustee Chairman Robert H. Quinn said the Knapp "was completely out of line in submitting the budget requests to the Board of Regents . . . without any attempt at consultation with the Board." This action, Quinn said, "diminishes the strength of the Board of Trustees."

In other action yesterday, the trustees approved the establishment of the first University-wide admissions policy, which includes the eligibility requirements established by the Board of Regents last April.

The admissions policy aims for academic quality and diversity, in the University population, according to a statement submitted by Knapp. The Regents' eligibility requirements, which include achievement in secondary school and community college programs, SAT scores, class rank, recommendations and "non-curricular measures of achievement," and have opportunities for waivers based on certain classifications, should ensure these two goals according to the statement.

Although the policy includes the regents' requirements for the first time, "little or nothing in the general policy statement seriously changes the general guidelines we have followed for some years." said Frederick Troy, chairman of the Trustee Committee on Academic and Student Affairs.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

FIRE—Firefighters leave MacKimmie dormitory in Southwest Monday night as students wait to return to the dorm.

Fire suspect suspensions are challenged

By JOHN O'CONNELL
and TOM KELLEY
Collegian Staff

BOSTON--The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees Tuesday asked Chancellor Joseph Duffey to review the process of suspension and due process which has suspended two students charged in connection with suspicious fires on campus but has not suspended a student charged with attempted rape.

Kent Bierly, a 20-year-old physical education major from New City, N.Y. was suspended Tuesday after arraignment in Hampshire District Court on charges of ripping a fire alarm box off a wall in Cance dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area during a 1:40 a.m. evacuation Saturday. He was arrested about 10:30 a.m. while attending Professor Jack Thompson's American History class in Herter Hall.

Crampton Resident Assistant Yvette Henry was suspended Friday after being charged with lighting one of the 16 fires in that dorm this semester.

"The campus must have the authority to suspend anyone whose actions are a threat to the community," Duffey said, stressing that "immediately that person must have the opportunity for a review."

When asked if 21-year-old MacKimmie resident Michael Briggs, charged Sunday with indecent assault and attempted rape, would be suspended, Duffey said the victim in that case had withdrawn charges.

But Mary Dumas of the UMass Police sensitive crimes unit said that statement had "no validity." Victims must go through a court proceeding to withdraw charges, she said, and "that hasn't happened."

Trustee James Carlin asked for the suspension policy review to ensure proper procedure was followed, because "these students are going to carry it for the rest of their lives and you want to be sure."

Duffey was asked to report back to Trustees Chair Robert Quinn by Monday.

New student group forms to fight campus fires

Aid for Crampton discussed

By ANNE McCRORY
and MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

The Student Network United to Fight Fires (SNUFF) discussed academic and financial restitution measures for Crampton residents last night following yet another fire on campus earlier in the day.

According to UMass Police, a resident assistant in MacKimmie dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area discovered a fire in a basement trashroom at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday. Police said students extinguished the trash can fire before the Amherst Fire Department, Environmental Health and Saferty officials and the state fire marshal arrived. No serious damage or injuries were reported.

Police have no suspects in the fire they have labelled "apparently suspicious," though the case is under investigation with the other fires that have plagued the UMass campus.

Last night SNUFF representatives discussed campus outreach programs and proposals to alleviate the pressures facing residents of Crampton dormitory, who have been subjected to frequent dorm evacuations as well as media interrogations.

SNUFF voted to support Crampton residents' efforts seeking academic restitution through an 80 signature petition. The petition states that "Crampton residents should have the option of omitting their semester grade point average from their overall cumulative average and this semester be listed separately" on their transcripts.

Student Government Association co-President Tom Ahern said Chancellor Duffey has seen the petition, which Ahern may revise and will present to both Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis Madson and the Faculty Senate.

SNUFF also agreed to support residents' efforts to receive a full refund and/or credit of dormitory fees for the semester.

"There's no way these students should have to pay for room this semester," Ahern said. "We expect a safe, comfortable academic learning environment. There is a way an entire dorm can ask for a rebate if an entire dorm has suffered."

SNUFF members also discussed outreach tactics, including representation at area government meetings to solicit both new members and contributions to a reward fund. Letters will be sent to dorm councils and registered student organizations urging donations, while Crampton residents and their parents will receive letters urging them to express their concerns to University officials.

SNUFF urged Crampton residents not to talk to the press, but rather refer media personnel to representatives away from the dorm.

Inside:

Pearl Harbor ..... p. 3
Time for even break for women ..... p. 3
Chronology of UMass fires ..... p. 5
Women's hoop blasts Harvard p.16

Wouldn't it be terrible if I quoted some reliable statistics which prove that more people are driven insane through religious hysteria than by drinking alcohol.
—W.C. Fields

Digest

AROUND THE NATION

AP Laserphoto

MASSIVE BLAZE—Thirty to forty area firefighting units attempt to control a massive petrochemical plant blaze. Heavy winds fueled the fire which authorities say could take 2 to 3 days to control if conditions continue.

Tornadoes ravage South

A double plague of tornadoes and floods hit the Deep South Tuesday, killing one person, tearing houses from foundations, flinging sleeping people into streets and reducing barns to matchsticks.

Scattered snowstorms, meanwhile, churned over the Plains and into the East and threatened to coat countless roads anew with ice and snow. A new, big chill turned the eastern Rockies into an icebox, with temperatures dipping to a bone-numbing 31 below in Colorado.

Sections of Selma, Ala., were leveled. A housing project and college dormitory were smashed. In LaPlace, La., 100 people were homeless.

The fury was unleashed in the darkness before dawn when nearly everyone was indoors, and some dazed, nearly naked residents stumbled outside in the chilly aftermath screaming for missing children.

The deaths stood at one and injuries at 15 in Selma, where 12 trailers, four houses and 50 new cars at a dealer lot were destroyed.

In LaPlace, 126 houses were damaged and 25 people were injured.

For D.C. Nichols of Selma, it began after he got up to hear weather bulletins and "the lights went off and we heard roaring. I said, 'My God, it's going to happen.' You could just hear it whoosh."

At Selma's Rangedale housing project, where the one fatality occurred, the twister hit a building and "it just fell down," resident Ella Jean Wright, 19, said. "I could see the debris flying up in the air. It was just horrible. Trees cracking and people running around and screaming and hollering," she said. "I don't ever want to see anything else like that in my life."

Clarence Chappell, 70, perished when a wall fell on him.

Nichols said he went outside to the middle of the road and found a little girl who apparently had been hurled from her house.

Kimberly Pettway, 5, was carried from the rubble by neighbors on a makeshift litter made from someone's door. She was hospitalized with a head injury and was reported in stable condition.

May Gordon, 74, of Selma, awoke in the road with an apparent broken back and asking why "someone was beating her and throwing water on her," said her neice, Renee Blackwell. She was in stable condition.

AROUND THE REGION

Court teaches old judge new tricks after attorney files legal complaint

NORTHAMPTON, - An attorney who complained about Judge Michael Donohue's courtroom manners says he has seen at least one change in the judge, who has been censured for the acts.

"He now comes in the courtroom and says good morning," Aaron Wilson said Tuesday, a day after the Supreme Judicial Court censured the presiding judge of Holyoke District Court.

The censure, a public scolding, was the second one imposed this year by the state's highest court. The court in April censured Judge James Killam III of Malden District Court after Killam acknowledged he was caught driving drunk in 1981.

The Supreme Court rejected a recommendation by the state Commission on Judicial Conduct that Donohue be censured and also banned from presiding in district court in his native Holyoke for the next two years.

"I think the judge did well for himself in the decision," Wilson said.

Wilson, who filed his complaint 2½ years ago, accused Donohue of embarassing him before clients, making him sit in court all day before hearing his case, scheduling his cases on dates Wilson had said he couldn't make and causing him other problems.

"I'll say one thing," Wilson said. "He's fair. He has no prejudices. He hates everyone."

Donohue, 60, who was assigned Tuesday to jury trials in Hampshire District Court, refused comment.

Boston cops save kidnapping victim

BOSTON - The sergeant who found a 17-year-old Haitian kidnapping victim tied with a noose to a pipe in an abandoned building while her captors demanded $200,000 said Tuesday he is hopeful she will overcome her ordeal.

Meanwhile, a fifth man, also Haitian, pleaded innocent Tuesday to kidnapping and extortion in the alleged abduction of Nadeje Remy, whose father, Raoul, is a businessman, former diplomat to Spain and retired army colonel, living in Haiti's capital of Port au Prince.

Two other men remained at large.

"She's gonna make it. They're doing a beautiful job," said Sgt. Emmanuel Dambreville, 36, also a Haitian native, who has followed the case since Ms. Remy was abducted Saturday night from a grocery store parking lot. She was tied up, put in the back of a van and left in a wet basement for nearly 36 hours.

Dambreville, a 10-year Boston Police veteran, and his brother Yves, a detective with five years on the force, spent Sunday questioning members of the Haitian community. Both speak Creole, the language of most Haitians.

As a result of several leads, they found the girl at 7:15 Monday morning in the basement of an apartment building, empty since it burned around 1975, which was undergoing renovation on Alabama Street in the city's Mattapan section.

Dukakis signs bill against job bias

BOSTON - Surrounded by cheering deaf, blind and wheelchair-bound people, Gov. Michael S. Dukakis signed a bill Tuesday prohibiting Massachusetts employers from discriminating against qualified handicapped workers.

"We did it," one man shouted as Dukakis affixed his signature to the bill, ending a seven-year fight by handicapped rights groups to overcome business opposition to the measure.

Dukakis said the bill, which takes effect in 90 days, is "an extraordinary milestone" in the way Massachusetts businesses and individuals look at thousands of disabled people.

"I can't think of a better way to help the people in this state who are handicapped and disabled and deserve every opportunity to achieve the best that is in them," Dukakis said.

National studies indicate there are 722,000 people in Massachusetts over age 5 with a handicap such as mental retardation, hearing impairment, arthritis, emotional disorders and blindness, said Karl Kastorf, an associate planner in the state developmental disabilities council.

Under the new law, the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination would be empowered to investigate complaints of bias involving qualified handicapped individuals in job hiring, promotion and retirement.

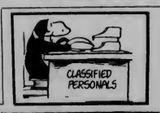
Shooting injures two

MALDEN, (AP) — An apparent dispute between husband and wife erupted in a shooting Tuesday afternoon in which a man and a woman were injured, police reported.

Lt. John Gearty said details were sketchy, but the shooting occurred at the Embassy Motor Lodge and the injured were sent to Malden Hospital.

"The husband shot the wife and then shot himself, it looks like that," Gearty said.

Hospital spokesman James Rendle said Joanne Cavoni, 49, of Nahant, suffered minor gunshot wounds while Benito Cavoni, 48, of Malden, was brought in unconscious, but suffered no apparent injury.



"It's really only one of the patients just has superficial wounds to her hand and leg and on the other, there was no evidence of a gunshot wound," Rendle said.

"They are now in the process of doing tests, an EKG (electrocardiogram heart test) and others to determine why...I have a new report that Benito is fine, is responding and he has come out of it."

Rendle said doctors were evaluating the woman's wounds to determine whether she would be admitted.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Bill Shea
Copy Editor — Alice Klingener
Layout Technician — Lisa Mosley
Photo Technician — Drew Ogier
Production Supervisor — Joyce Haglund
Production — Laurie Frank, Marsha Wilcon, Gail Tanzer, John Wielgus, Brenda Ling, Martha Connors, Jane Hirshberg, Tim Riviere, Ansel Zinter, Peter Soderburg, Larissa A. Patapchuk, Pamela Smith

BARN BASH!!! "DANCE ALL NIGHT"
Tues - Sat
NO COVER
8 PM TO CLOSING
ENTERTAINMENT!!
by D.J. - Midrange Productions
Hayloft Lounge
upstairs at the Red Barn Steakhouse
Route 9, 1/8 mile past Rolling Green Apts.
ALL NIGHT HAPPY HOUR 50¢ DRAFTS

Charter Travel Time
For hassle-free group travel, call the experts . . . call Travel Time. Before your group plans its next trip—any size group—call us for a price quotation. We'll be happy to quote you our economical rates. No obligation!
Charter Service to all points in the U.S.A. and Canada.
Check out what we offer:
• Luxurious Highway Coaches • School Buses • Mini-Buses.
We'll also handle hotel, meal and sightseeing arrangements for your group. Our deluxe highway coaches are climate controlled and restroom equipped.
Travel Time Bus Lines, Inc.
99 Arnold Street Springfield, MA
Call General Office and Charter Service 783-0211
Toll Free in MA 1-800-322-0297

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

HEADS—An enterprising UMass student uses the Collegian for rain gear in yesterday's freezing rain.

Carter advisor blasts Reagan

By REBECCA THATCHER
Collegian Staff

President Reagan has administered the nuclear weapons race without regard to the safety of the people he has been appointed to lead, said the former deputy security advisor to President Carter to an Amherst College audience of 150 last night.

"If you are the custodian of the security of all people, you have to act with responsibility for, as Jonathan Schell put it, the fate of the earth. I don't believe the Reagan administration has behaved in this manner in word or deed," David Aaron said.

Aaron said the Reagan administration talks with great and inexcusable callousness about the possibility of a nuclear war.

He said at the heart of the arms race and the need for the tactic of deterrence are deeply rooted questions about the role of Germany in Western Europe and the world.

He said West Germany's lack of trust in the United States has led to the excessive deployment of weapons to that area.

"During the Carter administration they were afraid that we wouldn't come to their defense. Now they are afraid that we will bring them into a war without asking - like in Lebanon," he said.

Aaron said he believed in deterrence because it has worked to keep the peace for 35 years, but he added that he had doubts about it working for the next 50, 100, or 200 years.

"There has to be a better way," he said.

"There still are a number of common interests that we share, for example, defusing crises in the Middle East and in Central America," he said.

Aaron said there is room for discussion and conciliation.

Though work on arms control is needed, Aaron said, he insisted that the current United States deployment of missiles to Western Europe is necessary to maintain the balance of power.

"To stop deploying the Pershing missiles now would be pulling the rug out from under every elected leader in Europe who has stood up against the opposition and insisted on this deployment," he said.

Aaron said it was the underlying political differences that need to be solved.

"We tried to do this by creating the United Nations, but that has become a dumping ground for ideologues and people who like to talk a lot," he said.

Unbridled sovereignty, Aaron said, is an anachronism in the nuclear age.

"There is nothing in human nature that says we have to divide up into little states and kill each other with nuclear weapons," he said.

The speech at Amherst College was originally to be a debate until Christopher Pane, from Physicians for Social Responsibility in Washington D.C. failed to show up because of the weather. It was sponsored by the Five College seminar on Peace and International Security Studies.

It's time to give women an even break, says prof

By DIANE LANE
Collegian Staff

Despite passage of the Equal Pay Act in 1963 and the Civil Rights Act in 1964 the overall economic status of women has not improved, according to Elaine Sorensen, professor of economics at the University of Massachusetts.

Sorensen spoke Tuesday night at the Jones Library on "Comparable Worth and Pay Equity," the last in a three-part series sponsored by the Working Women's Task Force of the Everywomen's Center.

Sorensen said employers have traditionally undervalued skills that women's jobs tend to require because of an "inherent sex bias."

"Women's wages have been historically low and women's work historically undervalued," she said.

Wages have been determined in this country since 1871 by means of a job evaluation process. These evaluations were originally used to perpetuate and rationalize existing wage structures. Advocates of comparable worth and pay equity doctrines want to use the same technique but with different purposes she said.

"Job evaluations have never been used to eliminate wage discrimination. Comparable worth doctrines would change that," Sorensen said.

The comparable worth doctrine would ensure equal pay for jobs of comparable worth. Traditionally worth has been determined by separating each profession and classifying jobs within that structure. The job evaluation procedure would include jobs of all types and rate worth by criteria of skill, effort, responsibility and working conditions.

"My feeling isn't that women's wages are low because men's wages are high, but because of discrimination in firms," Sorensen said.

A 1977 study of wages in public jobs in San Jose, California showed women earning 15 per cent less than men. After a strike by both women and men, the state enacted a 16 per cent cost of living increase for all workers and then gave women an additional 5-15 per cent.

"Comparable worth just corrects inequities which have been around for years. Companies have been making out; now it's time to pay up," Sorensen said.

RememberPearl Harbor

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

The starting point of a significant chapter in American history began 42 years ago today, at a place called Pearl Harbor.

The 1941 surprise attack on the U.S. naval base by the Japanese began at 7:55 a.m., leaving 2,434 dead and another 906 missing by sundown. The event was the immediate cause of the United States entrance into World War II, and the world's first look at atomic destruction.

Pearl Harbor "reminds us to examine the causes of war, and its relevance today is what we can learn from it," said University of Massachusetts political science professor Eric Einhorn.

The fear the unexpected attack left on the American mind "is still strong," said Einhorn, calling it the "Pearl Harbor Syndrome." He said it is a source of distrust in today's world between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Einhorn said the Soviets carry that same fear due to a similar assault made against them by Hitler's army in June of that year. This mutual fear is "an unstable factor" in the two powers' needed for a stable deterent, he said.

Scott Foti, a senior chemical engineering major, disagrees with the Pearl Harbor Syndrome idea. "I don't think it has any pertinence today, because no one would attack the United States in that manner," he said.

"I think it's important to remember," said senior civil engineering major Mike Wilser. He said he hopes people don't remember Pearl Harbor in terms of a single event, which "might create anti-Japanese sentiment," but rather they look at the "whole idea of war, the right and wrongs both sides commit."

Church receives $5,000

By PAUL TOMICH
Collegian Correspondent

The First Baptist Church of Amherst Tuesday received a $5,000 grant for its development of Chi Rho House, a co-ed Christian living option for students at the University of Massachusetts.

The award, presented by Norman Peale, co-publisher of the interfaith monthly Guideposts Magazine, is given annually to a church or synagogue whose congregation develops an imaginative and helpful program.

"We look for a kind of Christian caring service in the community that's a little bit different," said Mrs. Ruth Peale, a co-publisher of the magazine. "The denomination doesn't make any difference, it's the program."

Rev. Edward C. Jager of the Amherst church said the development of Chi Rho House is helpful because it is "a way that we (the church) could relate meaningfully to the campus."

Jager said the house "offers an opportunity for Christian growth" which is not as accessible in dormitories.

"The congregation will vote on what to do with the money," Jager said. "It won't necessarily be used for the dormitory."

According to Barry Tan, director of Chi Rho House, the house opened in the fall of 1982 and is a non-profit and self-supporting house dorm. Located in a former fraternity house in fraternity/sorority park, Chi Rho receives minimal financial aid from the First Baptist Church and no financial help from the University. The residents are charged $995 each semester for room and board which covers most of the house's expenses.

The purpose of Chi Rho is "to help students learn a value system that's consistent with Jesus Christ," Tan said. "We communicate values that the Bible teaches and somehow incorporate them into our lives."

Tan said these values are applied to daily problems a student faces, such as how to cope with the stress of classes and how to deal with the pressure of finals.

One goal of Chi Rho House is to teach its members how to bring other UMass students to Christ, Tan said, which is accomplished by encouraging residents to move to a campus dormitory after their stay at Chi Rho.

Mark Gray, a resident of the house, said no one is forced out, but the house shouldn't be considered "a haven for Christians to flock to." Gray said he views moving as a chance to "share the things I've learned and go out and vocalize it to people who want to hear."

Tan said he sees Chi Rho House as being different from other housing.

"The primary thing that binds us together has a spiritual and directional content. The primary thing that binds other fraternities and sororities is academic and social activities....we are building things that will last," he said.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

CHRISTIAN HOME—Chi Rho House provides an opportunity for students to become closer to God.

Although the rules of the house do not allow residents to smoke or drink, Chi Rho is similar to other dorms in many ways. Residents take trips to the mountains, play movies every Friday night and have dances and snowball fights with the sorority next door. Tan is currently planning to show a series of Three Stooges and Pink Panther films during finals week to help students unwind.

"More students are trying to get in the house than we can let in," Tan said. Chi Rho now houses 50 students.

Attention College Students..

We're Ready To Go!

Papa Gino's

College Pizza Specials

- The more Pizzas you order, the more you save...for pick-up or eat-in
- Great for Pizza Parties!

COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON

Student must show College Identification Card to get discount. Limit 1 Coupon - Not Good on Specials

Quantity Purchased	Discount	Quantity Purchased	Discount
1 Pizza	10%	3 Pizzas	20%
2 Pizzas	15%	4 Pizzas	25%
		Over 5 Pizzas	30%

Papa Gino's PIZZA & MORE Mts. Farms Mall Hadley, MA Call: 584-0220

Facing Death:

A Film dealing with the difficult issue of terminal illness and facing death

Place: UMass Campus Center, Room 911

Date: Wednesday, Dec. 7th

Time: 7 p.m.

This event is free of charge and sponsored by the Student Health Advisory Board shab

TONIGHT THE ORIGINAL DYNASTY NIGHT 8-10 pm

Try the "Carrington Cooler," "Alexis' Revenge," or the "Frosty Fallon" ...each 1.50

Giveaways!

Michelob bottles $1.25

TOP of the CAMPUS RESTAURANT & LOUNGE

11th Floor · Campus Center · UMass

Albert Einstein College of Medicine/Montefiore Medical Center Pre-Med Student Symposium

An MD Degree?

Which School Should it Be?

You are invited to attend a one-day symposium on selecting and applying to the appropriate medical school, sponsored by the Office of Continuing Medical Education of Montefiore Medical Center/Albert Einstein College of Medicine. The program is designed for pre-med students and will be an explicit, pragmatic and impartial examination of all considerations in selecting and applying to a medical school.

Faculty members, administrators and authors will discuss and answer questions relating to the following:

- Organization, Structure, Orientation of Various Medical Schools
- Admissions Procedures and Criteria for Acceptance
- Finance
- Choosing the Correct School
- The Flip Side: Warnings, Misconceptions, etc.
- Considering Foreign Schools
- Roundtable Discussion with Recent Graduates of Medical Schools

The program will be held at the Cardozo Law School Auditorium in NYC on Sunday, January 22, 1984, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Total fee is $85. Space is limited and will be available on a first come, first served basis.

Call 212-920-6674 for further information or send coupon.

Office of Continuing Medical Education
Albert Einstein College of Medicine/ Montefiore Medical Center
111 E. 210 St., Bronx, N.Y. 10467
Please Send Further Information
Enclosed is $85 Please reserve my seat
NAME
ADDRESS
CITY STATE ZIP
COLLEGE Graduation Date OCCUPATION

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB

SUGARBUSH VALLEY

SKI & PARTY WEEK

JAN. 22 - 27

TRIP INCLUDES:

5½ DAY LIFT TICKET SUN - FRI

5 NIGHTS LODGING HOTEL OR CONDO

MEALS (ALL DINNERS & CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST) HOTEL ONLY

ENTERTAINMENT: FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES HOT TUB PARTIES, LONG UNDERWEAR PARTIES TURTLE RACES, FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES NASTARRACES SUGARBUSH COUPON BOOK, ECT. ECT.

HOTEL PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $184

CONDO PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $189

FIRST 100 PEOPLE TO SIGN-UP WILL BE ELIGIBLE FOR A FREE TRIP

LAGNAF 84

FOR MORE INFO 545-3437 430 STUDENT UNION

Spotlight

Fire: chronology of a media event

Compiled by MARY CRESSE from Collegian staff reports

It began as a two-column, 26-line story topping page five of the Tuesday, Sept. 27 Daily Collegian: "Crampton fire causes evacuation." Such reports would within the next week crop up in the paper's pages, as they would stay in the minds of the readers, just as they would in the minds of Crampton residents, who like the rest of us, would wonder whether the fires were freak or the beginning of a pattern.

The Crampton fires have, in the words of Chancellor Joseph Duffey, "held the whole campus hostage." The recent events in Hampshire District Court Monday morning warrants a review of the occurrences since Sept. 26 and how events leading from that date have caused members of the University community to question themselves and their peers, on everything from ethics to accuracy.

The details of the first fire are simple enough. A trash room on the second floor is ignited at 10:17 p.m., and reported to have caused $500 worth of damage, the most expensive damage, interestingly enough, of all of the Crampton fires. Officials now assert no damage was done. A smoke detector alerts two residents and two floormates who see smoke seeping out from underneath the door and inform Resident Assistant Jeanne Gonsalves, who opens the door and attempts to extinguish the fire but is driven back by smoke.

UMass fire official Keith Hoyle says the fire is "suspicious" and under investigation.

●●●

Tuesday, Oct. 8th, 1983: Resident Assistant Yvette I. Henry, conducting a routine security check, discovers at 9:21 p.m. a fire in the second floor trash room. Hoyle rules the fire "definitely suspicious" the building evacuates while four engines dispatched from the Amherst fire department to the site extinghuish the fire.

Wednesday, Oct.12, 1983: UMass police receive a report of a fire at 8:57 p.m. Crampton, again. Again "suspicious," again "under investigation," again, no suspects. This fire: number seven.

Attention from Crampton is sidetracked when, on Wednesday, Nov. 2, Cashin Dormitory in the Sylvan Residential Area is hit with its own fire, shortly after 8 p.m. This time the UMass department of Environmental Health and Safety is summoned and fire officials label the fire "suspicious" and "under investigation."

Fires beginning at this period, are considered by some to be "copycat" occurrences.

(By Tuesday, Dec. 6, more than 20 fires will occur in other dormitories on campus, including Cance, Coolidge, MacKimmie, Brown, Patterson, Grayson, Mary Lyon and the Student Union/Campus Center complex.)

Thursday, Nov. 17.: Crampton 1:08 a.m. Bulletin board on the second floor, south wing, is reported afire. Still, no suspects. Police now reveal all fires were on second or third floors.

Monday, Nov. 21: Tenth fire strikes Crampton.

Tuesday, Nov. 22: Fear heightens as another fire occurs when a bulletin board in the second floor of the east wing is set afire and two more fires occur within an hour of each other. Papers hung on a wall in the third floor bathroom in the south wing are set on fire at 10:53 p.m. and a plastic trash container and its contents in the third floor bathroom of the north wing are ignited at 11:47 p.m., according to police.

Collegian photo by David Deaber

WAITING—MacKimmie residents wait outside their dormitory and Amherst Fire Dept. Engine No.1 waits on Sunset Avenue as firefighters inspect a blaze in a basement trashroom Monday night.

Executive Director of Housing Services Joseph Zannini says his staff is doing as much as they can and reveal their collaborative investigative efforts with state and campus police. There have been no requests from Crampton residents to move, according to Zannini.

State and regional papers and television stations now pick up the story. As the Daily Collegian continually presents the fires as its lead story, the regional dailies such as the Daily Hampshire Gazette and the Morning Union of Springfield pick up the story, University residents think maybe the coverage may be instigating the fires.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis expresses his concern, after which the state Fire Marshal Joseph O'Keefe visits the campus to meet with University and local officials to determine a solution to the problem. O'Keefe notes that Dukakis had received calls from concerned parents of residents. He expresses his own concern. Some residents are quoted as saying the fires bother them and say they want officials to catch the instigator, but have no plans to move from the building. Six other Crampton residents express their desires to move. Requests are granted as Zannini and Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis L. Madson say all requests for a move can be granted. Twenty-four hour security is instituted. Residents wait outside building in below-zero temperatures while police question their housemates after a 12:37 a.m. second floor bathroom fire.

Sunday, Nov. 27: Northwest District Attorney asks Crampton residents to aid him in catching firestarter, saying his staff has a few leads, but no information from students. Students stress increasing difficulty in maintaining grades; become reluctant to discuss the matter.

Monday, Nov. 28: Frequency of fire escalates and assumes an eerie quality after crayoned note warns of fire fourteen. Residents stand in freezing rain after a 3:12 p.m. evacuation prompted by a fire alarm. State trooper denies presence of notes, refuses further comment. Freshman Donna Murphy, who with a sister conceived a petition requesting a full refund of the $606 housing fee, expressesintentions of presenting the petition cir-culated among residents to Zannini.

Tuesday, Nov. 29: Crampton residents are informed during a private meeting that five suspects have been chosen. Officials do not discount the possibility of there being a "ring leader;" they reveal all notes have been found in the same handwriting. Locks are changed and six to eight quards are added. A second floor student's desk is set ablaze shortly after 10 a.m.; this spurs more fears because fires are considered now to have personal nature.

Wednesday, Nov. 30: Fires climb to sixteen. Student senate offers $1,000 reward for information leading to arrest of firestarter.

Friday, Dec. 2: Yvette I. Henry, 20-year-old second floor resident assistant and chemistry major from Philadelphia, is arrested shortly before 8 p.m. after taken for questioning at 5 p.m. and a press conference by Duffey at 3:30 p.m. Charged with two complaints of "burning the personal property of another," Henry is held a the Franklin County Jail in Greenfield until Sunday night when she is released on $1,000 bail, partly raised by Crampton residents.

Director of Public Safety Gerald O'Neil says Henry will not be able to return to campus. Police refuse to comment on the evidence that lead to Henry's arrest.

Monday, Dec. 5: Henry pleads innocent during arraignment in Hampshire County District Court. State is still considering placing Henry under a psychiatric examination, according to assistant district attorney. Dean William Field says Henry was sent a letter of suspension dated Dec. 4 and will not be permitted on campus until she and her attorney meet with him.

Tuesday, Dec. 6: Henry's case will resume Jan. 26. Board of Trustees requests Chancellor to review suspension policy, as suspensions are permanently recorded.

THE BEST LOOKING MEN & WOMEN in the Amherst Area WILL BE LOOKING FOR

one on one hair company

EXPERIENCED IN ALL PHASES OF MEN'S AND WOMEN'S STYLING

26 Gatehouse Road, Echo Hill, Amherst

open Monday-Saturday and Mon-Wed & Fri eves. by appt.

conveniently located on bus route

256-6008

M.E. GRADUATES: JOIN OUR TECHNICAL TRAINING PROGRAM

Mechanical Engineering Graduates...join GLOUCESTER ENGINEERING's 2 year Technical Training Program...gain first hand knowledge from people who create products which are "first" for the plastics industry and pursue a career with us in either engineering design or marketing. Under our 2 year training program you'll work with experienced personnel while developing a thorough knowledge of plastics processing machinery and systems. Your work assignments will be varied and include: our Engineering Laboratory, Manufacturing and Assembly Operations, and Field Service work at our customers' plants. Upon completion of the program we'll work with you in selecting a career with us in either engineering or marketing.

If you are a recent M.E. graduate interested in rolling up your sleeves to really learn the plastics machinery business, and if you are competent in your ability to communicate effectively, you're the type of person we're looking for to help us meet the challenges ahead. In addition to this excellent career opportunity, we offer a competitive salary plan, comprehensive benefits package...and the beauty of Cape Ann located just 45 minutes North of Boston! At GLOUCESTER ENGINEERING you'll find everything you've been looking for in your career and your living.

Send your resume and salary requirements to: Ruth Ann Clark, GLOUCESTER ENGINEERING, Co., Inc., Blackburn Industrial Park, Gloucester, MA 01930. An equal opportunity employer, M/F.

Gloucester Engineering

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.

Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL

- Learn the causes of low back pain.
- Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
- Learn exercises to care for your low back.
- Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.

Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge

Amherst Chiropractic Center

190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002

Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.

Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation.

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

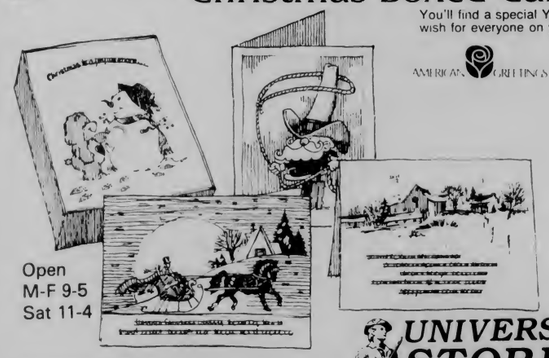
Betty Friedan

speaking on

"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"

Monday December 12, 1983

8:00 P.M. Bowker Auditorium



»»»»Free««««

Christmas Cards are now available at the Ballroom of the Student Union Building

Christmas Boxed Cards

You'll find a special Yuletide wish for everyone on your list!

AMERICAN GREETINGS

Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

UNIVERSITY STORE

Memo To Faculty:

We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.

Jeffery Amherst Bookshop

TRADING PLACES

★★★Dan Akroyd★★★

★★ Eddie Murphy ★★

Friday, Dec. 9th

5:00, 7:00, 9:00, 11:00

all shows $1.50

To be shown at

Mahar Auditorium

Presented by the Central Area Council and the Northeast Area Government

"HEADLIGHTS" LIVE!

FRIDAY DEC.9

9pm - 1am

the Blue Wall

(moved from the S.U.B)

Cash Bar

Adm. $2.50

18 year olds welcome

Dance!

This bash sponsored by:

25¢ Club & Commuter Area Govt.

BLUE WALL

AT UMASS

THURS. DEC. 8

NEW WAVE DANCE!

RCA RECORDING ARTISTS

THE BONGOS

18 YEAR OLDS WELCOME

WITH SPECIAL GUESTS

RAPTURE OF THE DEEP

PRODUCED IN ASSOCIATION WITH UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Editorial Notes

On Violence against women

Because I am a victim of violence against women, I attended a speak-out held on this campus which attempted to deal with this issue. I was not surprised to find that the discussion did not center only on the University and its residence halls, but was an open forum in which women shared experiences that occured on the job, in the home, and also walking down the street. I was also not surprised to find that I was one of only a handful of men in attendance. In June of 1976, my mother separated from my father after nineteen years of loneliness, pain, and fear. No one could understand why she would leave her husband. Her friends could not hide their dismay. Her mother, her sister, and her brothers were shocked that this seemingly happy marriage could fall apart. However, my mother did have five very frightened individuals who could empathize with her decision. With our mother we formed a support group which could verify for friends and relatives the horrors that she never dared to share with anyone. The pain and embarassment of growing up in an abusive household is still very hard to discuss. Nevertheless, the victims of this violence need to speak.

The speak-out on violence against women had much to say to the victim of this abuse, but most importantly it had much to say to those who did not experience the physical violence, but, the emotional injury of this malady. If one lesson can be learned from this gathering, that lesson is that the victim is a wife, a friend, a mother, and a child. The perpetuation of violence against women needs to stop, yet, to the small gathering in attendance, it was disheartening to see that the concern of a student body of 25,000 did not manifest itself on Monday night. The speak-out attempted to provide those in attendance with a feeling that a support system does exist. Violence against women goes on not only in the University community but in the whole wide world as well. What is dismaying is that even with such support networks as The Every Women's Center and the Sexual Harrasment Education Project of S.C.E.R.A., much violence on campus is unreported. If indeed violence perpetuates violence, one needs to consider that the child of an abused woman has the potentiality to allow a continuation of this violence. If a male, this child can become an abusive husband—if female, this child can become an abused wife.

A few women in the audience shared with those in attendance their own experiences of victimization and their mother's reactions when they went to them for help and advice. The general consensus was that their mothers viewed the abuse as exaggerated and far-fetched. One mother suggested that her daughter see a psychiatrist to help her deal with the problem. This is frightening.

I attended the speak-out because I desired to share my victimization with those who were concerned. Unfortunately, the speak-out was not large enough for me to share my thoughts on the realities of violence against women. Hence, I've decided to use this forum to impress upon many that the victimization of women knows no barriers—it transcends socio-economic, religious, and racial lines. Violence against women makes no distinctions or broad generalizations. It exists and is real. The pain that it inflicts is enormous.

As men, as women, as students, as friends, and as children we must not ignore this oppression. We have a responsibility as human beings to protect one another from violence and all of its consequences. My parents reconciled about two weeks after the intial separation. As far as her children know their father has not abused her since. We watch carefully for signs that could mean a return to the old days of their seemingly happy marriage. My mother realizes that we are there to help her if she needs us. I worry about her and I worry about the future of my older and younger sisters. The pain of the victim and those in the periphery is very real.

David A. Rego is a UMass student

Sound off with your letters to the editor!!

Cyprus-an unknown war rages on

On November 15th, one more tragic event in the inflammable and extremely sensitive area of the Middle East; an event that was largely unnoticed by our local media. On that day, Turkey carried off its long-planned partition and consequent destruction of the independent state of Cyprus, after a nine year occupation by tens of thousands of its troops. The proclamation of the Turkish occupied the northern part of the island as the new "Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus" completes, while trying to legitimize, "the land grab begun by a Turkish invasion in 1974" (New York Times, Nov. 16, 1983).

Hellenic Student Association

Lying in the southeast corner of the Mediterranean, 60 miles west of Syria, the island state of Cyprus (pop. 620,000) was established on Aug. 16, 1960 after a long and bitter struggle against the British colonizers, its ruler since 1878. An island smaller than our neighboring state of Connecticut, Cyprus remained after its creation an independent, strictly non-alligned nation, virtually unarmed and unprotected. From the start Cyprus turned its attention and energy to providing for and improving the welfare of all its people, a mixture of 79 per cent Greek, 19 per cent Turkish, and the rest of various other backgrounds. Like any other state new and old, it had its share of socio-economic tensions, of successes and failures.

But on July 20, 1974, the process of progress was abruptly and ruthlessly halted. Under the false pretext of protecting parts of the Turkish Cypriot minority, from a danger which has yet to be proven, Turkey, Cyprus' northern neighbor, viciously attacked the young republic. In the next few days it carried out murderous assaults by massive ground, naval and air forces; arms ironically provided by the U.S. and other NATO allies for defensive purposes. As the world, stunned and outraged, watched the slaughter of the defenseless island, "Turkey proceeded to use its superior force to impose an inequitable division of land" (N.Y. Times, Nov. 16, 1983). "By the time international pressure affected a real cease-fire on Aug. 16, the Turks were in control of the northern 40 per cent of the island, and 250,000 Greek Cypriots were refugees" (CBS News Almanac, 1978). Thousands of Turkish Cypriots were also impelled to "relocate". The toll that the martyred island had to pay was heavy. Besides the hundreds of thousands of uprooted, destroyed lives, there were an unknown number of dead and at least 5,000 missing.

The international community was appalled, but every legal pressure which it exerted to end the occupation was in vain. With the silent and covert support of some of its NATO allies, emanating from "broader strategic interests," Turkey proceeded to colonize the northern part in the economic, political, as well as physical sense. Deaf to continued world castigation and indifferent to the human suffering it had caused, Turkey remained the master and sole supporter of the so-called independent "Turkish Cypriot Federal State" which it had carved.

"Knowing that the price would be less land, the Turks and Turkish Cypriots have resisted proposals for a united government. They ignored the United Nations resolutions and were unmoved by a United State arms embargo - or the lifting of it." (N.Y. Times, Nov. 16, 1983.) Instead of pursuing a gradual de-escalation of the crisis, the Turkish government and the Turkish Cypriot authorities repeatedly chose the precarious road of provocation. They resorted time and again to unilateral solutions, culminating in last week's events.

The establishment of the new state under the aforementioned circumstances not only violates human rights, exacerbates and perpetrates the plight and pain of the refugee populations and sets a dangerous precedent. It also creates at this particular historical conjuncture an unacceptable and dangerous situation for peace in the sensitive region of the Southeast Mediterranean. It serves to further aggravate an electrified environment already blackened with the clouds of war. To quote senator Percy (R-Illinois) "...the Turkish Cypriot move was totally contrary to any efforts to bring peace and stability in the area" (N.Y. Times, Nov. 16, 1983)

We the Greek and Cypriot community of the five college area deplore and strongly condemn this outrageous, unjustifiable and internationally unlawful act. We join our voices with those of the United Nations and members of the U.S. Congress in demanding the immediate reversal of the situation and the adaption of the U.N. resolutions by both the Turkish and the Turkish Cypriot leaderships. We express our solidarity with the people of Cyprus in regards to the basic universal right of any nation, large or small in size or might, to decide its own destiny with neither the fear nor the actuality of intervention and military terrorism by outside forces.

The government of Turkey is at present the third largest recipient of U.S. economic and military aid. In this context, the leverage the U.S. administration has in advancing and pressuring for the reversal of the decision is unmatched by any other country or group of nations. Turkey is universally viewed as "solely responsible for the purported declaration of independence which would have been impossible had it not been in occupation of that part of the territory of the Cyprus republic." (United Nations debate, Nov. 17, 1983) We therefore urge you, our collegues on this campus, to contact your government representatives and protest this unsupportable act.

Christos Karastamatis is the president of the Hellenic Student Association

Letters

What happened to justice?

To the Editor,

On their eleven o'clock news, (Dec. 5, 1983), WFSB channel 3 in Hartford reported that alleged arsonist Yvette Henry has been suspended from the university because of the charges brought against her. This decision goes against every aspect of American law. In our system of law an individual is always assumed innocent until he or she is proven guilty by a jury of his or her peers. The university has taken this judgement into their own hands when they suspended Ms. Henry as an arsonist even before a trial has begun. I know little of Ms. Henry except that she is (was) a R.A. and a chemistry major. Why has the university taken such swift and extreme action without a verdict on her case in sight? Has the university forgotten that we are in the United States and not Germany of the 1940s or Russia?

Ms. Henry might be the most guilty person in the world but that does not give the university any right to punish her just because charges were brought against her. This suspension is a disgrace to the American legal system as well as an injustice to Ms. Henry. The university in their haste to appease the residents of Crampton and critics of their handling of the situation made a grave mistake when they suspended the alleged party. The students of the university should be outraged by the suspension, and should allow the university to know their feelings. A solution to this whole fiasco would be to allow Ms. Henry to return to school (in a different dorm or off campus) until a verdict is reached. Then and only then should the university take action. If the accused is found guilty then suspend her, and if she is found innocent allow her to continue her studies if she wishes.

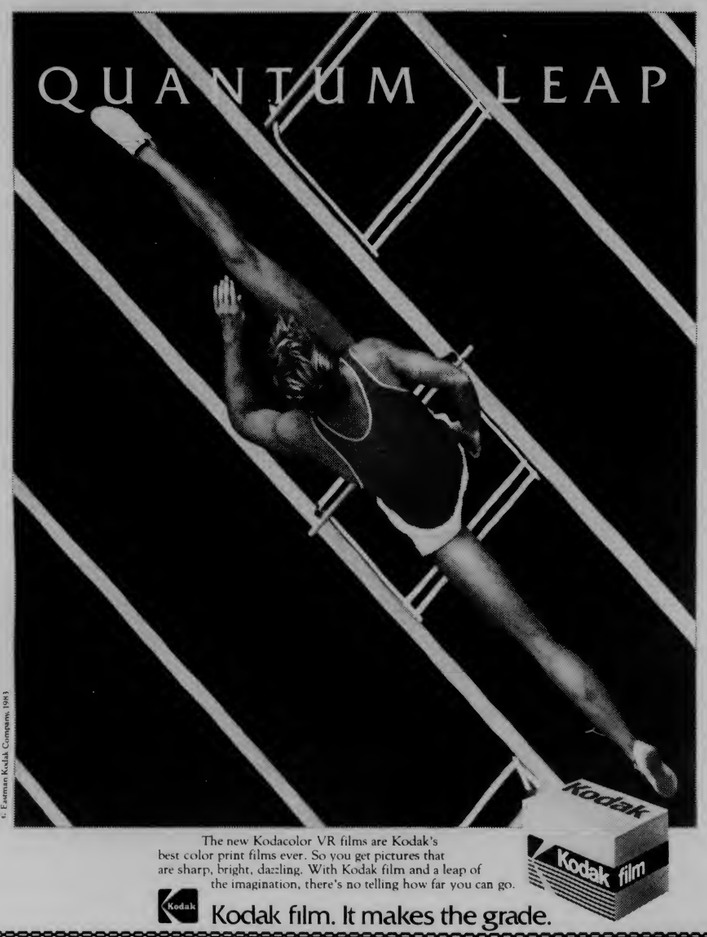
Jeff Baker
Southwest

Oppression by democracy

To the Editor,

I was deeply offended by Foad Vafaei's column, Terrorism in the American Tradition, in the December 1st Collegian. I was offended not only by his unrealistic and rambling accusations against U.S. foreign policy, but also by his blatant ignorance of certain facts surrounding events of the past year.

On Grenada: Mr. Vafaei chooses to ignore the fact that the United States was asked by other Carribean nations to intervene, or that the overwhelming majority of the Grenadian population welcomed their liberation. (I won't even mention the problem of Soviet encroachment.) And to go as far as to imply that the United States bombed the mental hospital in order to murder civilians is preposterous.



On the downing of the Korean airliner, Mr. Vafaei says "We still don't know whether the Soviets knew they were dealing with a spy plane or a civilian one." Maybe he doesn't. Obviously he hasn't heard the recording of the Soviet fighter pilot discussing the night lights of the Boeing 747 with his control center, and therefore Mr. Vafaei is probably unaware that one thing spy planes don't have are night lights.

Mr. Vafaei takes his accusations one step further. He attempts to compare not only the KAL tragedy and the liberation of Grenada (how can one see similarity between murder and liberation?), but also the bombing of the mental hospital and the Holocaust: be real, Mr. Vafaei! Don't tell us you consider an accident and the preordained mass killing of Jews the same thing!

Finally, Mr. Vafaei implies at one point that to consider the United States as a democracy is naive ("As a final defense, some would say: "but the Soviets are Communists: we are a democracy!" (as naive as the second assertion may sound.)"). All I can suggest to Mr. Vafaei is that he leave this fascist country of ours and go try to publish the same sort of column in Pravda. Meanwhile, we'll register to vote and write letters against the government and rally and march and freely express our ideas on any subject. Boy, I love being oppressed by democracy!

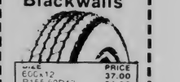
Come on Mr. Vafaei, be real!

Ben Brogan
Central

© Eastman Kodak Company, 1983

The new Kodacolor VR films are Kodak's best color print films ever. So you get pictures that are sharp, bright, dazzling. With Kodak film and a leap of the imagination, there's no telling how far you can go.

Kodak film. It makes the grade.



The Collegian

Start your day refreshed with the Collegian

TIRES

A-78-13 Polyester Blackwalls $32.00

SIZE	PRICE
E60-12	37.00
P155/80D13	34.00
A78-13	32.00
B78-13	34.00
C78-14	36.00
E78-14	38.00
F78-14	39.00
G78-14	42.00
H78-14	45.00
F60-15	38.00
G78-15	42.00
H78-15	45.00
L78-15	48.00

Plus F.E.T. 1.42 to 2.78 per tire. Prices include mounting & trade-in, whites walls 2.50 per tire additional.

10% Off Additions* OR 5% On Accessories

*Additions with a CASH purchase of a set of 4 tires with this ad

*Additions with a CHARGE of a set of 4 tires with your MC VISA AX with this ad

MASS APPROVED INSPECTION STATION

MICHELIN TIRES SPECIALLY PRICED

North Amherst Tire & Auto

Center "FULL SERVICE TIRE STORE"

78 Sunderland Rd.

No. Amherst, MA across from Watroba's Store

549-4704

Christmas Cards, Wrap and Gifts Are Now Available in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building

Christmas Wraps & Trims

Deck your gifts in the season's finest!

Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

AMERICAN GREETINGS

UNIVERSITY STORE

SKI POWDER WINTER BREAK

UMASS SKI CLUB

JACKSON HOLE

WYOMING JAN 10 - 17

TRIP INCLUDES:

ROUND TRIP AIRFARE & TRANSFERS
5 DAY LIFT TICKET JACKSON HOLE
8 DAYS, 7 NIGHT LUXURIOUS CONDOS
COLLEGE SKI FEST ACTIVITIES

(TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $559

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 545-3437

Black Affairs

Panel unveils the 'many faces of racism'

By YADIRA BETANCES
Collegian Staff

Institutional and international racism, traces and trends of racism, education and racism and racism and sexism were the topics discussed in a panel discussion held at the University of Massachusetts last night on "the many faces of racism."

Leading the discussion were Emma Cappelluzzo, professor of education and director of the multicultural education program at UMass; Charlene Allen, co-president of the Student Government Association; Gloria De Guevara, director of educational access and outreach division in student affairs; and Monica Gorden, assistant professor of sociology and black studies at Mount Holyoke College. Sherwood Thompson, director of the Office of Third World Affairs at UMass served as moderator.

"Many would have you believe racism was something that exists in outer space. They would make you think racism was packaged similar to those lovable, cuddly little teddy bears depicting creatures such as E.T. (the extra terrestrial). But, as you know, it roams," Thompson said, mentioning Yvette Henry's case, a black woman charged with setting one of the fires at Crampton Dormitory.

"Prejudice, racism, discrimination, aggression and hate are not relics of the past. They exist and can increase dramatically at any moment," De Guevara said, addressing racism on the content of the Puerto Ricans. Puerto Ricans face a particularly brutal form of racism, she said. "You can't disguise this kind of accent. You are bilingual to some extent, but on the interference, it is noticed and used against you," she said.

"Like a sector, racism continues to haunt us in this twilight years of the twentieth century retaining its major characteristics of repression," Gordon said. Gordon, who focused her talk on international racism said, "racism remains internationally a useful tool."

Cappelluzzo said language and transmission of ideas in most societies are done via education, but in the American society education is taught in a biased, slanted and racist curriculum. "Those who ought to be here tonight are not," she said.

"The oppressors themselves are affected by the disease," Allen said. "Racism is a white problem," Mosley said.

Cape Verdean American heritage, nationalism discussed

By YADIRA BETANCES
Collegian Staff

Raymond Almeida, Public Relations Director from the embassy of Cape Verde led a discussion and slide show Monday at the University of Massachusetts to a group of Cape Verdean students on "Cape Verdean American and the African Liberation."

Almeida said he wanted to show his experiences and formal comprehensive understanding of how international Cape Verdeans can relate to Cape Verde, a set of ten islands off the coast of Northern Africa.

Cape Verdeans have always been small in numbers, he said, but as individuals Cape Verdeans have been able to make a difference.

"Through history Cape Verdeans have been able to make dramatic differences that have impacted on the lives of everyone in the island or country," he said.

"This is one of the advantages to being small," he said, "measured input at (the) correct moments when other variables weren't playing can make a dramatic impact upon the progress your people are making," he said.

Almeida asked Cape Verdeans present at the lecture to force themselves to "put Cape Verde in your agenda."

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

"Calling yourself a Cape Verdean is making a statement about a personal relationship that you want to have with your people and your ancestral homeland," Raymond Almeida

"What will it mean in 1983," he asked.

"In 1983, calling yourself a Cape Verdean is making a statement about a personal relationship that you want to have with your people and your ancestral homeland," he said.

Almeida said not many people know where Cape Verde is, or are aware of the history of the islands except where they accidentally run into them. He also said Cape Verdeans themselves have to learn more about the islands.

Almeida said native Cape Verdeans as well as American born Cape Verdeans who constantly hear about the Islands tend to say they are experts on Cape Verde. "I've never seen an ethnic group that has so many experts as the Cape Verdean community," he said.

According to Almeida, every where you go in Cape Verde there is an evidence of connections with the Cape Verdean population residing in the United States. Many natives depend on what is sent from the U.S. to build homes and stabilize themselves economically.

Almeida went on to discuss the progress Cape Verde is making. He said tuna fishing will be an important part of Cape Verde's future. Cape Verdeans have always had a "vocation for the sea," he said. The sea is a part of the role Cape Verdeans are playing within the economic community in the Western African states, he said.

USA
MTA:NEA

Contract Ratification Vote
Monday, December 12
8 am - 3 pm
Memorial Hall

Don't forget to make your opionion count! All members of the bargaining unit represented by USA/MTA/NEA should have received notice of Monday's contract ratification election, for which the University has agreed to provide one hour of release time for each bargaining employee unit who wishes to cast a ballot.

If you believe you are eligible to vote, and have NOT received notification, please call the Union office on Friday, so that we can check your bargaining unit status.

"Study In The Berkshires"

Extra Study Space Available in Berkshire D.C. - Southwest!
8:00 pm to 12:00

This is a 3 week trial period arranged by SWAG. Come show your support by studying with us!
Sorry - No food or drink.

Ad: courtesy of Academic Affairs S.G.A.

THE ONCE AND FUTURE FIRE:

James Baldwin and Roger Wilkins Ponder U.S. Society on the Eve of 1984

Sponsored by Chancellor Joseph Duffey of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and Five College Black Studies, Inc.

The Fire Next Time and A Man's Life

James Baldwin, noted author and civil rights activist, recipient of Rosenwald and Guggenheim fellowships and the National Institute of Arts and Letters Award, is currently Five College Professor of Literature

Roger Wilkins, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist for his Washington Post editorials on Watergate and former Assistant Attorney General, is presently a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

Thursday, December 8, 1983, 8 p.m.
Campus Center, Room 101
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

COMPUTERIZED
BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Glahe	Microeconomics	$11.50
Goldman	Constitutional Law	$12.80
Goode	Principles of Sociology	$13.50
Goodwin	Agricultural Economics	$12.00
Gordon	Amer. Family in Socio-Hist. Persp. 3/e '83	$6.50
Greenfrick	Using Microprocessing & Microcomputers	$14.00
Greenwood	Physics	$12.00
Guyton	Human Physiology	$13.25
Harmatz	Human Sexuality	$10.50
Henderson	Ten Notable Women of Latin America	$6.00
Honour	Visual Arts: A History	$10.50
Hooper	Greek Realities	$4.25
Hysom	Business and It's Environment	$11.50
Irwin	Prisons in Turmoil	$5.00
Jarvis	Invitation	$13.00

AC/DC: heavy, man

By GERARD COSLOY
Collegian Staff

Heavy Metal, the bane of creativity, refuge for neandrathals, soulless empty rituals played to an unquestioning, mindless mob...right?

Who you callin' mindless, asshole? Sorry to shatter your cozy illusions, but Heavy Metal '83 is as valid a musical form as anything else going. I'm not talking about the clean and fluffy ranks of Foreigner, Journey and Quiet Riot; their collective brand of saccharine-sweetened shit deserves no defense from me or anyone else.

AC/DC are a unique case, being one of the harder lot to break through to mass acceptance without going soft (not the case with acts like Def Leppard and Iron Maiden). That same uncompromising rawness that has a non-HM fan like me likina AC/DC is also their commercial downfall; their new LP, Flick Of The Switch (Atlantic) has been a flop saleswise, even the presence of wimp producer Mutt Lange (Def Leppard, Cars) failing to assure airplay (as my 15-year-old sister, who knows more about these things than I, so succinctly put it, "Nobody in school has the album 'cause no one knows what it sounds like 'cause we haven't heard any of it on the radio"-familiarity breeds consumption?).

More surprises: there was no dry ice, no antiquated comments from the stage like "hello Worcester," or "Are you ready to rock?" (and suppose someone says no?). What there was: a more than competant display of high-energy guitar pyrotechnics from the brothers Young, Angus and Malcolm. AC/DC are no airbrushed joke. The twin engine catharsis of "Guns For Hire" isn't based on feigned anger or heavily rehearsed teeth gritting--the sweat is real, the forward motion genuine. True, there's not much lyrically inventive, innovative or socially responsible about AC/DC, but I figure you've got to take these things on the level of what they are. AC/DC harbor no pretensions toward being socially or politically correct. They harbor no pretense, period.

A few complaints (didn't think you'd escape without at least a couple, did you?): Angus' skills as a soloist are apparent, but there's really no excuse for the large number of melodramatic, overdone solo spots attempted each complete with its own idiotic stunt: writhing on his back, jumping off the P.A., taking off his clothes, etc.). Another unneccessary distraction was the gaudy computer-controlled lighting rig, which closely resembled the spaceship from Close Encounters (perhaps some members of the audience want this sort of thing, feeling that it adds to a "good show." I say AC/DC can leave that kind of crap to Yes and Genesis). Fuck stage sets! With declining record sales, maybe soon we can have AC/DC back in the clubs where they belong (hopefully on a triple bill with the Dream Syndicate and the Meat Puppets...patrons exit the hall with blood pouring from their ears). Best metal bank I've seen since Killing Joke 18 months ago, miles funnier than watching Dallas, AC/DC are the most unhip gang in town. And I'm glad.

Hey
Secret
Santas
Have balloons
and a card
secretly delivered to a friend under $5.00
call 665-7664

TIME OUT

Two TV's
Free Popcorn
Vodka & Gin Drinks
Special $1.00
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Le Boudoir
Intimate Fashions

We Wish All Gentlemen...Happy Holidays... and Cordially Invite Them to
Gentlemen Only Nite
Thurs. Dec. 8th 6 to 10 p.m.
Give her a gift that's truely romantic...
Soft Silk Teddies, Camisoles & Tap Pants
Matching Bras & Bikinis, Garter Belt
Stockings, G-Strings
Night Gowns, Lounging Pajamas & Housecoats
Champagne & Hors d'oeuvres Served
Come Join Us!
Carriage Shops, 233 N Pleasant St. Amherst
(upper level) 549-6915

Are you a Secret Santa?

toys games unusual gifts & unique accessories for under $3.00
many under $10.00
FACES
A Store-full of Stocking Stuffers
Sundays 12 - 5 Downtown Amherst

Attention College Students...
We're Ready To Go!!
Papa Gino's
College Pizza Specials

- The more Pizzas you order, the more you save...for pick-up or eat-in
- Great for Pizza Parties!

COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON
Limit 1 Coupon - Not Good on Specials
Student must show College Identification Card to get discount.

Quantity Purchased	Discount	Quantity Purchased	Discount
1 Pizza	10%	3 Pizzas	20%
2 Pizzas	15%	4 Pizzas	25%
		Over 5 Pizzas	30%

Papa Gino's PIZZA & MORE
Mts. Farms Mall
Hadley, MA
Call: 584-0220
Expires 2/26/84

For those whose toughest scholastic achievement is paying the tuition.

It takes more than just a lot of hard work to get through school these days. It takes money. More than people have on hand. So Shawmut offers several tuition loan programs like the Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP), Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS), Equity loans and others to meet specific needs.

Get an education on how Shawmut can help you go to school. Ask for complete information. Call 1-800-882-1008 or send in the coupon below.

Please send me more information on Educational Loans.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Return to: Shawmut Banks, Marketing Division, 10th Floor, One Federal Street, Boston, MA 02211. MDC 12/7/83

Shawmut Banks

Look to us for direction.

Members FDIC Equal Housing Lenders.

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

STERILIZATION ABUSE: MOVIE AND TALK - Panna Putnam will speak on Sterilization Abuse and show a film called L'Operacion, on sterilization of Puerto Rican women. All welcome; bring bag lunch. 12-1:30 p.m. CC 903

STUDENT LOBBY FOR SOVIET JEWRY - Preparatory meeting for National Soviet Jewry Lobby in Washington, D.C. on February 22 and 23. Make your voice heard! 7:30 p.m. Dukes Room, S.U.

MINORITY GET-TOGETHER - Rev. Robin Harden invites members of the minority community to socialize and relax before final exams begin. Please call 5-2661 if you plan to attend. 7-9 p.m. Malcolm X Center

THE NECESSITY FOR HUMAN RIGHTS - a panel discussion with representatives from the Jewish, Catholic, Unitarian and Bah'a'i communities. Refreshments will be served. 8 p.m. 168 CC

WMUA MANAGEMENT BOARD MEETING - All management board members are urged to attend because important business needs to be discussed. General meeting to follow at 7:30 in 905. 6 p.m., CC 801

MOVIE - "Not a Love Story" is a movie based on pornography. Everyone interested should be there. 7 p.m., Hasbrouk 134

UNIVERSITY OF MASS. AT AMHERST

Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

A JAZZ DOUBLE-BILL

RAMSEY LEWIS, keyboards

and

WYNTON MARSALIS, trumpet

Sunday, December 11, 8:00 pm

Tickets: $9, $7, $5

Five-college students Half-Price.

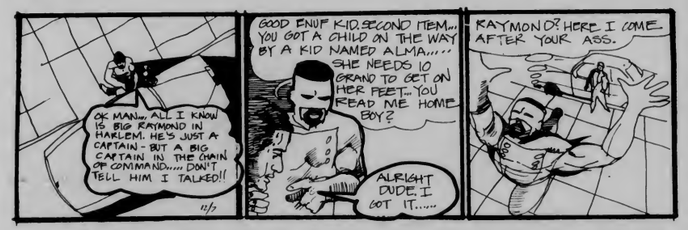
Available at the Fine Arts Center Box Office, DATATIX outlets, Springfield Civic Center. Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

"I know the mind of Ireland because I am within it."

Sean O'Casey

December 1-3, 7-10, 1983, 8:00 pm
Rand Theater, Fine Arts Center
University of Massachusetts
Reservations: 545-3511

The Rand Theater presents
Bedtime Story &
The Shadow of a Gunman
by Sean O'Casey



Bloom County by Berke Breathed

Scrod by Dan DeBellis

Superbad by G.H.

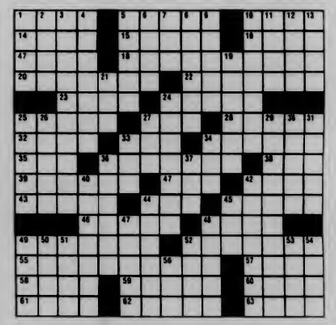
After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

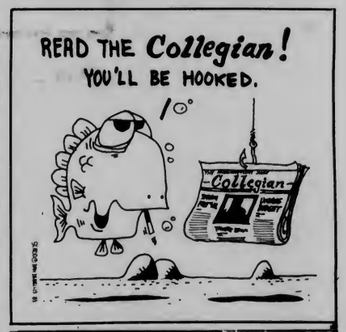
Quentin by Mark MacKenzie

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe



©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate



ACROSS

1 Data, for short
5 Fauna's partner
10 Brand
14 Baby whale
15 Mideast vessel
16 Capital of W. Samoa
17 Star in Pegasus
18 Blushing comic?
20 Ding-a-ling
22 Shorten
23 Easily molded
24 Tincture
25 Certain acid
27 Charge
28 Thighbone
32 Pattern
33 Baseball's Red or White
34 Request starter
35 Transport
36 Hodgepodge
38 Massage (with "down")
39 Chemical compound
41 Volcano in Kyushu
42 To be, in Paris
43 Doctrine
44 Numero ——
45 Kind of alcohol
46 Intended
48 East African people
49 Tooth socket
52 Sought to attain
55 Flowing comic?
57 Spelunker's milieu
58 Mine entrance
59 Capital on the Aare
60 Hebrew letter
61 Nevada resort
62 Mass of metal
63 17th cen. Dutch painter

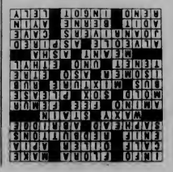
DOWN

1 Menu items
2 Zola novel
3 Tossing comic?
4 Impromptu
5 Raid
6 German song
7 Word with guard or hat
8 Discount
9 Curacao's neighbor
10 Daytime event
11 Footless
12 Chess piece
13 Command (with "at")
19 Daily
21 Outside: Comb. form
24 Navigation instrument
25 Circuit
26 Disney character
27 Reynard
29 Beaming comic?
30 Excessive interest
31 Noncomformist
33 Galahad
34 Seasoned player
36 Heavenly sight
37 Hospitality center for GIs
40 Keepsake
42 Moral
44 Irregular
45 Sixth sense
47 Excuse
48 Plus feature
49 Partly open
50 Before stone or star
51 Conceited
52 Memorable cartoonist Peter
53 Sinister
54 Disavow
56 Energy unit

DC Menu

LUNCH
Hamburg on Roll
Eggroll
Fried Rice, Duc Sauce
Soy Sauce

DINNER
Roast Top Round of Beef
Mushroom Sauce
Baked Cod
Lemon Wedge
Eggs with Sharp Cheese
Cold Plate



BASICS LUNCH
Roast Top Round of Beef
Mushroom Sauce
Baked Cod
Lemon Wedge
Eggs with Sharp Cheese
Cold Plate

BASICS DINNER
Creamed Vegetable
Croquette with Sauce
Baked Cod
Lemon Wedge
Eggs with Sharp Cheese
Cold Plate

Weather

Today, cloudy with rain developing, highs in the mid to upper 40s. Rain, heavy at times early tonight, ending late at night, lows in the 20s as temperatures turn sharply colder late at night. Wednesday, mostly cloudy, windy and cold, highs in the 30s.

Todays puzzle answer

Juniors' perfect fitting Chic® proportioned jeans at the perfect price!

Regular Price . . 25.99 and 27.99
Sale Price 20.99
Mfr. Mail-in Rebate 5.00

15.99 FINAL COST

10.00 and 12.00 off with rebate! Chic® proportioned jeans for the perfect fit in fabulous fashion looks! Of cotton denim in indigo blue. Styles include 5-pocket, western jeans or stripe baggy jeans in 1-11 short rise, 3-13 reg. rise and 7-13 long rise.
Not shown: Chic® Cheetah tight fit, tapered leg jeans in 3-13 short or reg. rise.
Rebate ends 12/31/83. Details on coupon

VISA MasterCard CHOICE
Use your Choice card also in MD and VA

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies

NOW THRU SATURDAY

12-1-3

CHICOPEE • NORTHAMPTON
SPRINGFIELD • W. SPRINGFIELD

Pursuing A Career In The Arts?

The Fine Arts Center has internships available in the following areas:
ARTS MANAGEMENT
CONCERT HALL MANAGEMENT
PUBLICITY
PRODUCTION SERVICES

For more information, call the Internship Office 545-0727

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50

Wed. Dec. 7 - Sat. Dec. 10
Marx Brothers Triple Feature
Duck Soup 7:00
Horsefeathers 8:15
Animal Crackers 9:30

DOWNTOWN AMHERST

UHS DENTAL SERVICE EXPANDS STAFF TIME

If you have had difficulty getting an appointment at the dental service, take heart. You can now call 545-2400 for an appointment to begin comprehensive care or simply for information about the program.

The dental service at UHS is a prevention oriented, comprehensive care program which offers a complete range of servcies including restorations (fillings) endodontic care (root canals) and oral surgery. Costs for care include copayments, modified fees, and prepaid services. Underlying all visits is a fundamental philosophy of educating individuals about techniques and behaviors which can assure excellent oral health.

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1980 Mazda 626 38000 miles AM FM csst great shape 546-6033

1979 Malibu 4 door a/cond exc. body some motor prob. runs good 1800$ or BO Kathi 546-6492 must sell!

1976 Chevette autotrans great mpg all new under hood cassette/stereo exc cond $1695. 546-8739

77 Fiat 131S gold 5 speed newly tuned good shape taking BO 546-7637

1977 Subaru 4 wl drive standard just tuned up new brakes reliable 900 or BO call Bill at 546-5065

1975 Datsun 280 Z black 4-speed exc. cond. taking BO 546-8236

1965 Plymouth Valient rebuilt motor good condition BO Jeff evenings 549-6935

BEV IS 19!

Just think only one more year and you can blow off Joanna. Have a great one! Love ya, Terese, Cheryl, Charmain and Steph

CAMPUS REPS WANTED

Earn free trips and $ working on your campus for America's number one student travel organization. Call for full details. 212-355-4705. Or write Inter-Collegiate Holidays, 501 Madison Ave., NY, NY 10022

CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEA

Enamel Earrings in a handsome gift box, 6 pairs for $5. Call evenings Lisa or Mary Ann 549-7611.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

ENTERTAINMENT

Rockadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Disciockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Two persons wanted to share room in Rolling Green apartment 256-0058

Room in Mill Hollow Apt available for intersession. Completely furnished. Make an offer. 549-7612

Townehouses - Large bedroom available for 1-2 people starting Jan. 1 with option to continue lease. Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

One bedroom available in 4 bedroom apt in apt complex on bus route - take over lease from Jan 1 - 174 mo includes everything call after 5 253-3971

Apartment to rent Brittany Manor 2 br 256-0994

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Skis - K2 shorts, 195cm, barely used. Boots - Nordica Cosmos, size 10M, good condition 125 for both call Kim 549-6689, Dave 549-7755

Wholesale prices rings, necklaces, watches, 10-14 crt gold jewelry call 546-4408 for more info unbelievable low prices

New Polaroid Cameras 2 models $15 to $20 call Glen 246-6456 Mike 546-6451

Volvo 66 very low mileage one owner good condition call 549-7877

TI-59 Programmable Calc w/magnetic cards $160 reg. $250 TIPC100C printer fits TI-59 or TI-58C $140 reg. $200---546-6775 or 546-8475

Ski Boots Nordica Typhoon used 2 yrs size 9 good cond. Kurt 549-5897

Dorm Refrigerator, 1.7 cu. ft., $90, 256-8412

Roland SH-09 Synthesizer. Perfect condition unlimited sound range $250 call Mike 253-3971

Double bed, desk & dresser sold separately or together 549-0505

Peavey XR-600 Mixer-Amplifier 210 watts outrageously powerful $300 Mark 546-8606

Skis - Rossignol XP70 175 cm never used only $35! call 6-6177

1 to 3 twin beds - comfortable - please take them away $60 ea or BO Andy 665-7130

FOUND

Found at Lib Tower Timex watch identify 6-7713

Watch found by bus stop across from FAC during week of 21 Nov. Contact D. Dunn at 549-1051 after 7 pm

HELP WANTED

Production Manager - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challenging job in a student controlled business. Two year committment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in SU 403. Application due 12/12 AA/EEO 545-2271

Jobs for Intersession! Work for progressive social change with our political outreaching and fundraising staff. MASSPIRG has full time openings in Amherst, Boston and Worcester. Call Terry 256-8434

GMAT Instructor with high scores Springfield Kaplan 737-3788

Temporary full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

LOST

Squsre cased watch brown strap lost near Boyden call Gail 253-3630

Key ring lost in or around Grad Tower, CC, or Cashin Friday aft. 12/2. Please call Dave 546-4046

Jean Jacket taken from Justin Ryans Fri night had Bowie and Dead buttons reward Kim 546-9115

Brown wallet Dec 4 between Franklin DC and Orchard Hill call Pat 6-4478 or 6-6745

Lost red duffel bag w/Anthro books & notebooks please call Mike 6-9824 Reward

PERSONALS

* College * Spring * Break ****
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe •
• Motor Coach Transportation •
• • ocean front accommodation 7 night •
• • Welcome Party with FREE BEER •
• Make reservations Now and Save $20 •
• Check out our table in the •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*A B*E*A*C*H

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE-JACKSONHOLEJACKSONHOLE

Intersession Housing. Any university women interested in living in SDT Sorority house during wintersession contact Sue G 545-0527 for more info

To the Brothers of Alpha Delta Phi - we're proud and honored to be members of the great A.D. Phi society. From the New Brothers

Hey Swingbag Have a great day! Get psyched for tonite! Happy Birthday Kiddo! Love J

SUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR-BUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR

Sugarbush Valley
Ski & Party Week Jan 22-27
5½ day lift ticket 5 nights lodging
hotel, with meals or condo
free beer & wine parties, hot tub party
long underwear party, turtle races
Nastar races, Sugarbush coupon book etc
Hotel Package only $184
Condo Package only $189
for more info call 545-3437 LAGNAF 84

Ski Powder Winter Break
Jackson Hole
Round trip airfare & transfers
transportation to & from airport
8 day - 7 night accomodations
gorgeous condos, wine & cheese party
hot tub party, beer slalom, free t-shirt
5½ day lift ticket for Jackson Hole
for more info call 545-3437

• Collegian Staff - Mandatory staff meeting, Thursday, Dec. 8, 7:00 pm in the newsroom. Topics include intersession paper, new editors, and a Christmas party •

To the med units and other brothers of Alpha Delta Phi we finally made it Riff-Raff

Congrats Owen, you finally did it! Made you swim faster, huh?

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

To Denver Colorado before Jan 1 will share driving & gas Gary 546-6027

Ride needed to Bradley Airfield I need a ride to Bradley Tuesday December 20 morning. Must be there by 11 am please call Sherry 253-7864

Ride needed to Syracuse anytime Friday please call Perry 6-7937

ROOM WANTED

Responsible female looking for a room to share in Townehouse Brandywine or Puffton starting Jan 1 call Sue 256-1286

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female Brittany start Feb 1 call Linda 549-1754

Female roommate needed spring semester Brandywine 549-0505

Looking for 1 female to share Brittany Manor apt starting Jan 1 call 253-3796

Large bedroom available in pleasant Townhouse apartment starting January call Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

1 or 2 females needed for room in Southwood townehouse Jan 1st 256-0354

Woman needed to share lg bdrm in 2 bdrm Puffton apt. Rent $127/mo heat included. Call Terri 549-5845

I need a considerate female roommate for the Riverglade Apts call 256-0033 and ask for Melanie

Girl wanted for single bedroom in nice three bedroom house. In South Deerfield on bus route 150 plus utilities Kim 546-9115

Roommate needed for 302 Puffton Village $154 plus utilities call 549-6411 or 549-0937

Female non-smoking student to share Puffton 2 bed apt starting Jan 1, Edie at 545-2707 or 549-4869 leave message

One or two quiet males for spring sem in Brandywine 549-5416 Mike

Female roommate needed to share room Brittany Manor for spring 256-0358

Room available in 3 bedroom apt starting Jan 1 on bus route call 665-4896

Female roommate wanted to share studio apt Hadley 175.00 + tel not on bus rt. 586-3682 available Feb 1

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Typing Special $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

Underground Ski Repairs professionaly sharpen plane and wax skis price 12-15 call John 256-1419

ST. JUDE'S NOVENA

May the sacred heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved, and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, help of the hopeless, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will be answered. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. Thank you St. Jude K.B.

STUDDED SNOW TIRES

Semperit 155SR13 tires plus Volkswagen wheels $40 call Bill Irvine 545-0733

TO SUBLET

Belchertown Ctr spacious 4 bedroom house available Jan 1 call 323-7310

Available Jan 1 University Park Apts 1 bedroom apt $295/month util. incl. call Andy or Tuan 256-1339

Townehouse - single room available 12/23 - 1/30. Normally $150, will sublet for $100. Shelly 549-5990

WANTED

Buying Class Rings. Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

I am looking for a two or three bedroom apt in Amherst, North Amherst. call Paul or Tony 665-7605 starting Jan 1

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Seeking two bedroom apt in house or a room in one for spring semester 256-1069

Responsible person looking for space in apartment or house 546-1080 after 5

Sports

Intramural officials needed for men's women's and co-rec basketball. Meeting Dec. 13th or 14th at 7 pm in Boyden 215. There will be a manager's meeting about team registration for intramural basketball on Dec. 13th or 14th at 6 pm in Boyden 215. Season starts Feb. 15th.

UM earns second win ; rolls over Harvard 74-57

By ADAM NAZIMOWITZ
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team put together back to back victories for the first time in two seasons as it easily defeated cross-state opponent Harvard University by a final score of 74-57.

The Minutewomen were led in scoring by the starting backcourt tandem of shooting guard Barbara Hebel and point guard and captain Wendy Ward, who poured in 17 and 16 points respectively. Karen Damminger added 13 points to the UMass cause.

"It was a pretty close game in the first half," Coach Barbara Stevens said. "Harvard played a pressure game and we were rushing our shots a little. But in the second half, we took more time and waited for the better shot to take. I felt that when the game was tight the kids maintained the lead and didn't go into a lapse like they have done in past games and that shows improvement."

Harvard began the ballgame by using a man-to-man and pressure defense on UMass. The somewhat nervous Minutewomen did not respond well right away as they began to force their shots and throw the ball away. But they did hold their composure and played well enough to post a 30-26 halftime lead.

"In the first half, we didn't play exceptionally well, but to end up leading by four points shows something to me," added Stevens.

The Minutewomen came out and scored the first basket of the second half and began to settle down and play more of their type of game. They maintained a 6-8 point lead throughout the half, and with about eight minutes left in the game, they began to open it up and pull away.

Harvard was forced to foul after it fell behind and the women hoopsters hit their foul shots and went on to win the game. UMass attempted 30 free throws in the second half alone, and hit 20 of them, after hitting only four out of six in the first half.

"We came out with more intensity and more intensity and outrebounded them in the second half. We were better blocking them out and getting position and showed more patience waiting for our shot. From the floor, the shooting was better, and we were a little bit more effective with the man-to-man defense. We played more consistently than we have been," Stevens commented.

The women hoopsters now bring their 2-3 record back into the Cage for a Saturday afternoon contest with another Ivy League opponent, Yale University, while Harvard's record drops to a poor 0-6.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

AND THE WINNER IS—UMass captain Scott McQuaide who battled Connecticut freshman Charelton Merdith in the 167-lb. category.

Wrestlers pinned by SC, third loss due to forfeit

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

Wrestling Coach Rick Freitas should take out an ad in the personals that looks something like this; Wanted: large male, preferably 230 lbs or more who enjoys intense paramutual groping.

The lack of a heavyweight cost the Minutemen an upset victory over Southern Connecticut, hot off their first place performance last weekend at the Coast Guard Invitational Tournament. The Owls won the match 29-23 with six points given them by the forfeit in the last weight bracket.

Connecticut's 118-pounder Jim Miller pinned UMass' undersized Rich Gardiner with 1:24 left in the match. Miller took first place in the aforementioned tourney last weekend.

Chris Lee tallied for the Minutemen, pinning sophomore Bob Crego at 3:46 of the match to even the score at six apeice. The Minutemen's freshman is now 2-1 in dual matches at the 126 mark.

UMass' Mike Hanlon battled Owl's John Schumatti to a 7-7 draw at 134 lbs. to leave the score at 8-8. The match ended not by the usual buzzer but by fire alarm. An alarm was pulled at almost the exact time the match ended and took twenty minutes to shut off, causing an annoying delay to the night's activities.

At the 142 lb. mark, UMass' Wes Beckwith decisioned Dave Zehnbaurer 10-8 to put the home team up 11-8. Dave MacDonald kept the momentum going with a six point victory over SC's Ray Talamelli. MacDonald wore Talamelli down to the point where the Owl's junior was disqualified for delaying the match. Connecticut came back with a 19-5 decision as junior Norm Forrester dominated Minuteman Paul Hardy, leaving UMass with a slim 17-13 lead.

The match the people came to see took place at the 167 spot. UMass captain Scott McQuaide took on SC's freshman sensation Charelton Meredith. Meredith outpointed McQuaide on his way to taking third place in last weekend's Coast Guard Tournament and revenge was on the UMass senior's mind. The two wrestled even through the first two periods before McQuaide's experience proved superior as he scored several times in the third period before pressing the South Connecticut star's shoulders to the mat with seven seconds left in the match. Unfortunately for the Minutemen, those would be the last points scored by them.

Owl's John Tobias outscored Brian Shaughnessy 14-2, which sould have left the match score at 23-18 in UMass' favor, however SC was penalized a team point for calling an injury time out with no injury, so the score was 23-17 going into the last match.

UMass' Fransisco Guttierez put forth a valiant effort, wrestling up four weight classes but was eventually pinned by a much larger Vin Mattaliano at the 190 spot, which tied the score at 23 and the forfeit at heavyweight secured the win for Connecticut.

"We didn't even place in the Coast Guard tourney and here we are wrestling the winners to a near stand still. That's quite an improvement in two days," Coach Freitas said.

The Minutemen started the season with 260 lb. Mike Dwyer at the heavyweight position. However, UMass football Coach Bob Pickett felt that his offensive guard would do better lifting weights during the off season than wrestling.

UMass hosts Albany at Boyden Friday at 7:30.

Gymnasts to take on Lowell with refined skills, routines

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

After some rearranging and repeated practicing of routines, the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team is ready to execute skillful routines when it travels tonight to compete against the University of Lowell.

"We've been working on hitting our sets this week and performing real quality (routines)," Assistant Coach John Macurdy said. "We rearranged a few sets because at Army we just didn't hit too well."

Lowell, which almost did not have a gymnastics program this year, should not be a hard opponent to beat. However Coach Roy Johnson is more concerned with the Minutemen's performances at this point.

"The other team's performance is important when the final scores are totaled but while the performance is going on you think about what you're going to do," Johnson said. "Wins are fine and dandy but let's go out and execute the routines. Remember, we don't have to go out and tackle them.

Among the changes the Minutemen have made are to rest Eric Ciccone, hampered by a bad back, and Joe Demarco who is hobbled by sore ankles.

Also, the routines of tri-captain Willie Stevens and Tony Sbarra have been rearranged so as to eliminate any breaks in the sets. In his high bar routine, Sbarra will take out the delchev (a back somersault with a half twist, recatch the bar).

Stevens will start with a different mount and opening combination on highbar and parallel bars.

"He's got so many different skills he can do and they're upper level skills, so he's all set," Johnson said of Stevens, who will not compete in the still rings because of a bad back. "We're just taking the best one he's hitting."

Phil Gorgone will be seeing action in four events and Johnson said he would like to see him score a total of 36 points in the four. Mark Mcgaunn will compete in the pommel horse and long horse vaulting event.

As for Lowell, all around John Knowles should be the only threat to UMass.

"He's a really talented gymnast," Macurdy said. "He will be good on floor. We definitely have guys who can score better than him on floor but we might not put them up because they've (Lowell) got a hard tumbling surface and we've got some guys with bad ankles.

"He's (Knowles) also a good vaulter. But, Willie (Stevens) has come on real strong in vaulting. All of a sudden something clicked and he's been coming on real strong. All of a sudden something clicked and he's been coming on real strong. Everybody's been vaulting pretty well."

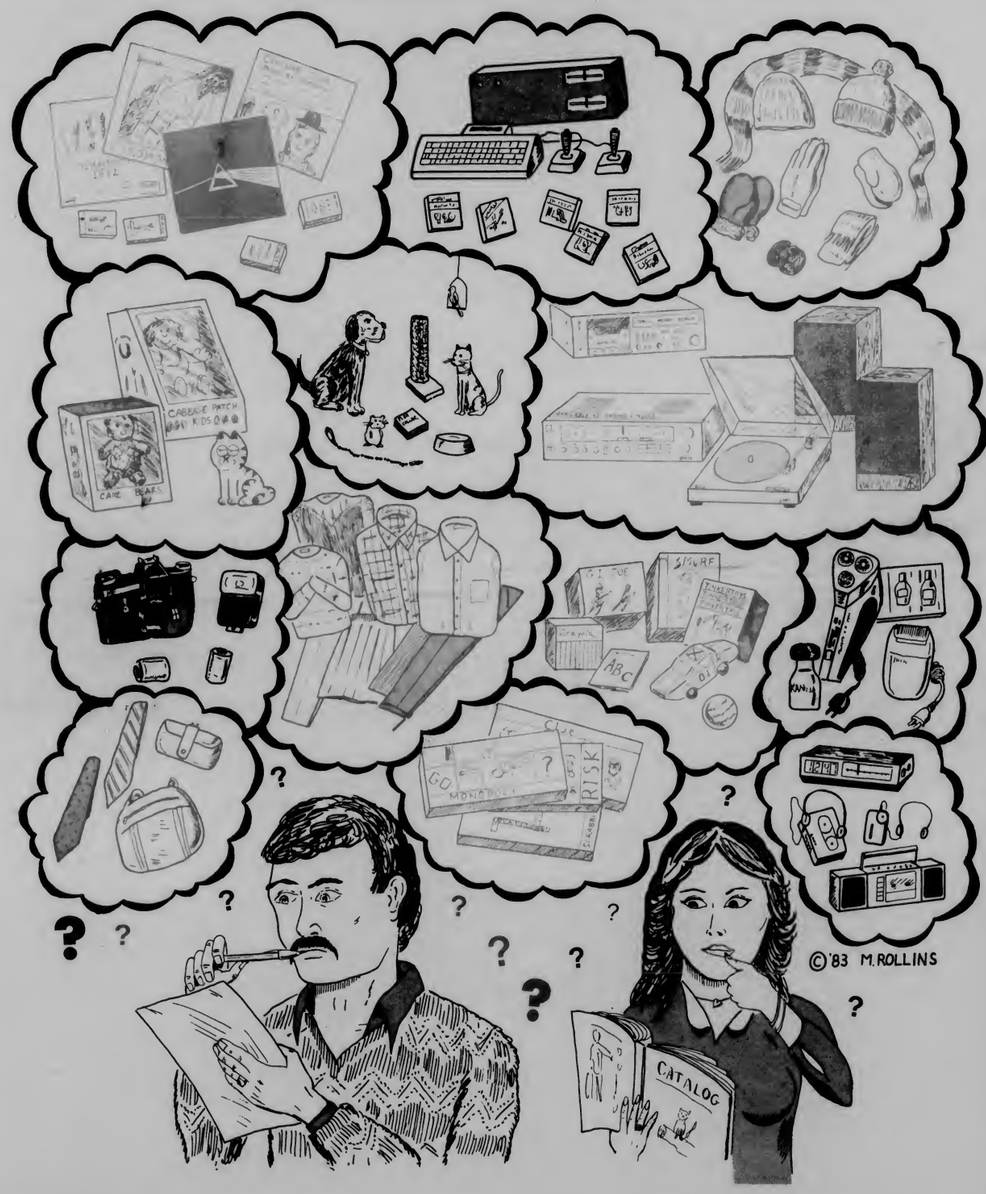
UMass should come back from Lowell tonight with an even 1-1 record, since the Minutemen have never lost to Lowell, and they're also hoping to come home with the improved individual scores that they've been working on.

Baseball talks underway, Sox trade Tudor to Pittsburgh

By SCOTT HOOD
Collegian Staff

For baseball fans this can be the best of times or the worst of times (Charles Dickens, eat your heart out). And in the past few years it has, no doubt, been one big ZZZZZZ. This is, of course, baseball winter meeting time and this year our heroes have descended on the magical musical kingdom called Nashville, TN to talk trade, turkey, and bid farewell to Bowie Kuhn, who made his final "State of the Game" address on Monday, thus ending his 14-year reign as Commissioner.

Along with the meetings come, inevitable, the rumors. And a lot of them. For Red Sox fans (Sorry, but I'm not one of them), the past two weeks have not been uneventful as Haywood Sullivan has gone hunting for lefthanded power and starting pitching. The most persistent rumor of this offseason has the Sox shipping Dennis Eckersely and Mark Clear to the California Angels for Daryl Sconiers, a young hard-hitting firstbaseman, and Mike Witt. The deal has been held up due to the Angels' reluctance to part with Witt, who possesses the best arm on the staff. The deal in recent days had reportedly been expanded to include the Expos, with the Sox sending John Tudor to the Expos, and receiving Al Oliver and Scott Sanderson in return.



But all talk around Tudor was officially ended yesterday as the Sox traded the lefthanded pitcher to Pittsburgh for lefthanded powerhitter Mike Easler.

Another rumored deal, but now also dead, was a three-way agreement among Boston, Texas, and Detroit. The Sox would have given up Tudor and Reid Nichols and received Rangers pitcher Danny Darwin and Tigers DH Howard Johnson. Tudor along with Rangers 3B Buddy Bell, would have moved to Motown with Tigers outfielders Glenn Wilson and Kirk Gibson taking up residence in Arlington, TX.

Another club active in the trade rumors are the Cubs where GM Dallas Green has stated that he is willing to "overpay" to obtain quality pitching. A deal that appears close has the Cubbies sending OF-DH Keith Moreland to Texas for Darwin, although they prefer Mike Smithson. Other Cubs that appear gone are Bill Buckner and Leon Durham. Even ace reliever Lee Arthur Smith could be shipped out of the Windy City. A rumored blockbuster had the Expos trading Gary Carter and Steve Rogers to the Cubs for a slew of players, including Durham, Jody Davis, and Ryne Sandberg.

Other trade items: Milwaukee is yearning for Rangers catcher Jim Sundberg...The Indians appear set to move Gorman Thomas to Seattle for Tony Bernazard. Other Clevelanders on the block are Rick Sutcliffe, Ron Hassey, Toby Harrah, and Chris Bando...The Dodgers have the inside track on free agent Darrell Evans...There is a bidding war between the Yankees and the Braves for Goose Gossage. If Gossage does sign with Atlanta, look for Steinbrenner to sign Kent Tekulve.

Holiday Special

Supplement to the Collegian

Everything (anything) for your 'nut'

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

"Real" sports nuts won't get Aqua Velva Cologne or gold chains for Christmas. New improved, super-duty Right Guard maybe, but no cologne or jewelry.

But don't despair if you're in love with, related to, or play racquetball with an avid sports nut because there are a lot of gifts you can give him or her. For instance, there's the basic T-shirt, buttons, caps, patches, jackets, bumper stickers or sweat pants—all of course with the logos or names of their favorite sports teams on them.

Or if you want to be creative, and have the money, how about paying the first payment and for the installation of cable television since channel 38 won't be broadcasting Bruins and Red Sox games starting in April (right before hockey playoffs, I might add?) Or how about season tickets for their favorite team? Still too much? You should probably settle for a funny card and tickets to one game . . .

If you really love your nut and want to see him or her happy, a video recorder for those days when there is more than one game on, or for when your beloved sports nut is talked into going to that bowling banquet on the same night the Bruins play the Islanders would be a handy gift. Or, better yet—a Seiko TV watch (it's ONLY $500.00)!

Then there is new sportswear—and we're not talking K-Mart. From head to toe you can dress up your sports nut. Start with a New York Yankees baseball cap because sports nuts love controversy and where there's the Yankees, there's controversy. Maybe throw in a Billy Martin for President button for flavor.

Forget about buying them a gold chain necklace. A whistle on a piece of string would be better and it's cheap, if you've got a tight budget. Just buy a whistle and take the piece of string from your window shade and you've got it made.

How about a pair of boxing gloves so that when the avid fan gets into an argument with his or her best friend about the Bruins' style of play, they can have it out during mini one-on-one? Too rough? Settle for Rock'em-Sock'em Robots.

Sports fans love to advertise "their" team. You can get bumper stickers for a dollar, hats for about $5 or mugs are between $3 and $13. They can even sleep with their favorite team if you buy them night shirt.

For the visual sports nut (i.e., the sports nut who's only physical action is running to and from the bathroom between commercials) there's the standard equipment. Also known as the survival package for during games, a case of beer would be great. Or there are the basic pretzels, chips, peanuts, popcorn and Pepto Bismal (for after the game).

There are a lot of things you can do to make your sports nut happier at home. For example, buy him or her earphones for the TV, a telephone message recorder for during games, artificial turf for the living room, a sponge brick to throw at the TV, or a tape recording of a crowd of people.

For the physical sports nut, get them a basketball (nerf for inside the house), tennis or racquetball racquets, bowling balls, hockey stick, darts and dart board, golf clubs, weights, and so on.

Finally, there are many good sports books to choose from. For $8.95 you can get "To Absent Friends From Red Smith" which includes a collection of Smith's writing. Or there is "Giant Steps", the autobiography of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar for $16.95. "Baseball's Greatest Experience" is about Jackie Robinson and his legacy. Written by Jules Tygiel, it sells for $14.95.

Body-building books are in now and if you want to have a good-looking sports nut, those books are selling anywhere from $7 to $20. There is also "Happy to be Alive" by Darryl Stingley, selling for $13.95. Finally for the one who loves to run, "The Complete Book of Running" by Jim Fixx is a good buy for $12.95.

The Collegian sports staff extends its holiday greetings to everyone. Don't worry, I'm sure your sports nut will like anything you give them. They'll probably be too busy watching the big game to notice anyway.

'On' and 'off-the-road' gift ideas

By ALICE R. KLINGENER
Collegian Staff

Gifts for the 'cold-proof' masochist who bikes through snow-bound streets and the warm-weather springtime cyclist can be found at most local bike shops.

Even though spring is months away, it's not too early to go shopping for bicycle gear. If you know an avid cyclist, then one of these goodies may be just the thing for Christmas.

For the cold-proof masochist who insists on biking through the winter, the best gift (short of a mountain bike) is a pair of winter biking shoes. The shoes, which look a lot like ordinary bike shoes, retain heat with a vengeance. They retail for around $40 at good bike shops.

There are other winter gifts for the more economy-minded, including wool helmet liners, gloves, arm and leg warmers, and little hoods which mount on the toe-clips and help keep the feet warm. Or, if you really want to splurge, there are all kinds of winter training machines which allow the bike enthusiast to ride the winter blues away - indoors. Rollers are the most basic training device, but there are also a lot of fancier contraptions on the market which purport to simulate road conditions.

If your cyclist is going south for intersession, or even if you just want to give a spring gift early, there are many options no matter what your price range. The cycle tourist uses gear ranging from the $5 water bottle through gloves ($10 to $15) and handlebar bags ($20 to $30) and on up to full touring bags, or panniers (a $75 investment). Clothing is also good and the options include shorts, jerseys, and skinsuits (the overgrown bathing suits worn by drag-conscious bike racers).

To the delight of gadget-crazy riders, a whole array of bicycle computers has recently hit the market. That's right, bicycle computers. Actually, the so-called 'computers' are more like calculators; they are mounted on the handlebars and allow the rider to calculate speed, distance and mazimum speed attained, all at the push of a button. Some even measure the pulse. If you or someone you know is feeling depressed because they are out of shape and have no computer, then this is the gift for you.

Experience the Carriage Shops
233 No. Pleasant St., Amherst

ONCE MORE WITH FEELING
Family Resale Clothing
For your holiday gift needs. . .
Rhinestones, hats, sweaters, wool coats, and much more!
Let us help you stretch your Christmas dollar.
Carriage Shops 233 N Pleasant — Amherst MA 549-3772

Collegian photo by Kevin J. Pachetti

Prospect for golden oldies.
Holiday glitter and other choice nuggets. Rush right in.
MOLLY'S STORE
233 N. Pleasant St. in the Carriage Shops Amherst Mon-sat 10-5

The Creative Needle
Supplies for Quickly Crafted Christmas Gifts
Santa Suggests. . .
Gift Certificates, Needlework Kits, Instruction Books, Christmas Kits, Stocking Stuffers, Yarn, etc.
Mon. Sat 9:30 - 5:30
Open in December Sun. 12 - 5

Holiday Flights
Reserve Now & Save up to 40%
549-1256
Computerized Ticketing for most Airlines
adventura travel
Eurailpass, Charters, Club Med.

INTERNATIONAL GALLERIES
Last Minute GIFT IDEAS SALE
When you need it most Prints - Framed and Unframed
10 - 50% Off
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-1398

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier
AND WHO MIGHT YOU BE? - Just a white-whiskered, jolly old Santa reflected in a downtown Amherst store window.

Gifts for the (well) read

By CHRISTINE MARINI
Collegian Staff

Books make wonderful gifts because they are available not only on a tremendous number of topics, but also in a full range of prices. There are books to please everyone on your holiday gift list - even the illiterate - and when properly chosen, no other gift reflects so well the character of the giver and the receiver.

The best way to select a book as a gift is to wander through a bookstore. To start you off, I've compiled a short list of books suitable for giving. If nothing else, this should make clear to you just how great a variety there is to choose from. (All books listed should be readily available from local booksellers).

For a friend moving off campus for the first time, you might consider The Campus Survival Cookbook, volumes I and II (by Jacqueline Wood and Joclyn Scott Gilchirist, Quill Books, $5.95 each). These books cover everything from how to turn on a stove to how to throw a party, and include time and money saving hints.

The novel of the year, The Color Purple (by Alice Walker, Washington Square Press, $5.95), is available in paperback. This moving atory of two sisters who grow apart and then together won bot h the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award for fiction. It would make wonderful intersession reading for someone who hasn't discovered it yet.

Outrageous Acts and Everyday Rebellions(by Gloria Steinem, Holt, Rinehart, and Winston, $14.95), selections from the best of Steinem's writings on politics, feminism, and life over the past 20 years, is a chronicle of an era interpreted by a perceptive and lively mind.

Out-of-state or exchange students might consider Massachusetts: A Senic Discovery, (photographs by Steve Dunwell, Foremost Pubishers, $25.00) to show the folks back home what they're missing. Dunwell has photographed the state from the Berkshires to the Cape in one of the best local picture books in recent years.

Annie Leibovitz Photographs (Pantheon/Rolling Stone Press,) is a gorgeous book of celebrity photos that somebody on your list would probably love but never buy for himself. Leibovitz, celebrated Rolling Stone cover photograph, has captured these peole so well, you would almost believe they were real.

Area shelters provide holiday housing to needy

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

What is the holiday season like for the homeless?

"These people are the same as you and I, they're just in difficult times," said Felice Brooks, executive director of the Hampshire County chapter of the Red Cross.

The homeless, the people that society has forgotten or at least do not like to think to much about, celebrate the holidays much like others. They are thankful not for material possessions, for they have little or none, but they are thankful for being alive.

The homeless in Hampshire County can be particularly thankful for organizations like the United Way, the Red Crass, the Amherst Survival Center, and especially Jessie House, the area's only emergency shelter for those without roofs over their heads.

Jessie House, located in Northampton, opened its doors last March through both public and private donations. While its residency changes periodically, at any given time it will provide shelter for nearly 21 people, give or take a few, said Cathy Bennett, housing advocate for Jessie House.

"Because we are limited, we turn away anywhere from 80 to 100 people a month. We just don't have the space," Bennett said.

The home away from home for people without them takes in as many families as possible. Families with small children is its first priority, she said.

"Those families are more fragile than others, we make them our top priority," she said.

This time of year is hard for those either in the shelter of without housing altogether.

"It's hard to be in a shelter during the holidays. The holidays are based on home and family; these people have no home," she said.

Bennett said the problem fo the homeless is a "horrible and serious one" locally and nationally. The Northampton-Amherst area is only a "small representation of the national problem of the homeless."

John Sheehan, executive director of United Way in Northampton, said the problem is so prevalent that people are "sleeping in cars, back staircases, anywhere that's warm."

United Way, a private corporation, helps the homeless by providing agencies like the Red Cross with money to provide food and shelter.

The reasons for the homeless are many. Some are one day in a two-family income household, then the next day are trying to exist on one income and finding it impossible. Others come to the area thinking they are set in a job or in housing, only to find few available housing complexes and little chance for employment, Brooks said.

"Much of the reason for the homeless is economic-based. Also getting housing in Hampshire County is not easy, if not impossible, to come by," Brooks said.

Jessie House is trying to make the holiday season as pleasant as possible for its guests. A holiday tree has been set up and through various donations, food is being gathered for a holiday dinner, Bennett said.

> "It's hard to be in a shelter during the holidays. The holidays are based on home and family; these people have no home."
>
> -Cathy Bennett of Jessie House

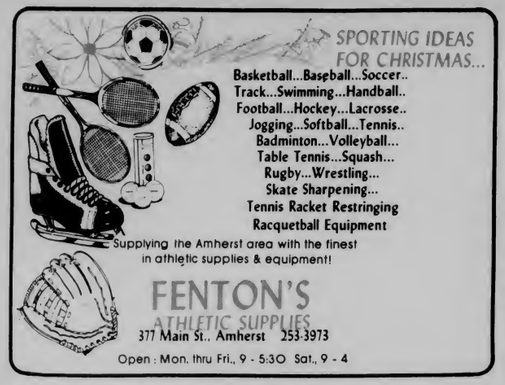
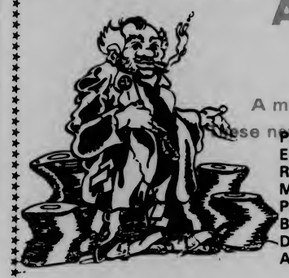
This is a difficult time of year for Jessie House because when intersession comes, students go home and many of the volunteers at the shelter are students. Bennett said she hopes the house is not forgotten by students during vacation.



While students return home for the holidays, the guests of Jessie House will have their own holidays, complete with thanks for the little they have and the hope for a brighter New Year.

150 Main Street, Northampton, MA 584-7803 or 7901

open Mon-Fri 9:30-9, Sat 9:30-5:30, Sun 12-5



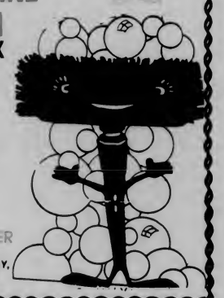
SPORTING IDEAS FOR CHRISTMAS...

Basketball...Baseball...Soccer..
Track...Swimming...Handball..
Football...Hockey...Lacrosse..
Jogging...Softball...Tennis..
Badminton...Volleyball...
Table Tennis...Squash...
Rugby...Wrestling...
Skate Sharpening...
Tennis Racket Restringing
Racquetball Equipment

Supplying the Amherst area with the finest in athletic supplies & equipment!

FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES
377 Main St., Amherst 253-3973
Open : Mon. thru Fri., 9 - 5:30 Sat., 9 - 4

We Buy Used Records



AL-BUMS
Lowest Prices on New, Used, and Imported Records
A must for Christmas
these new releases now $5.49

Police	Flashdance
Eurythmic's	Animals
Ramones	Def Lepard
Motels	R.E.M.
P. Benatar	Air Supply Grt.
Billy Joel	Heart
Diana Ross	Stray Cats
Ann Murry

181 North Pleasant Street, Amherst 253-7137
M-F 10 to 6
Sat 9 to 5
Hours: Sun 12 to 5

"IF IT HAS WHEELS, YOU CAN WASH IT HERE."
381 COLLEGE ST.
AMHERST SUNSHINE
CAR WASH
AUTOMATIC WASH/WAX
DAILY 8 A.M. TO 5 P.M.
3 SELF- SERVE BAYS
OPEN 24 HOURS
• BUBBLE BRUSH
• ENGINE DEGREASER

Be a "Secret Santa" give a car wash token for an automatic wash/wax
GREEN STAMPS CATALOG CENTER
YOU CAN REDEEM HERE MONDAY, TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY, 10-4

WILDWATER OUTFITTERS
9 East Pleasant Street
Amherst, MA 01002
413 549 5863

Best Selection of Sweaters in town by Woolrich, Cambridge and Green Mountain Threadworks.

RUGBY SHIRTS
$35.95
GOOD SELECTION RUGBY SHORTS AND PANTS

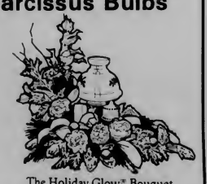
TO BUY
OR NOT TO BUY,
THAT IS THE QUESTION?

THE ANSWER IS THAT CHRISTMAS WILL BE HERE SOON!

The House of Walsh can help you through these trying times with our offering of fine clothing and accessories that are guaranteed to please.

We have many fine gift suggestions that will satisfy the very discriminating men and women on your holiday gift list.

Stop in soon.



House of Walsh, Inc.
32 Main Street
Amherst, Massachusetts
Daily 9:00 to 5:30 253-3361

say "Merry Christmas" in glowing color. Montgomery's

Christmas
flowers and plants

- Your Christmas Store for:
- Poinsettias
- Centerpieces
- Flowering Gift Plants
- Roping
- Wreaths
- Corsages
- Baskets and Silk Flowers
- Cemetery Boxes
- Amarylis and Narcissus Bulbs

The Holiday Glow® Bouquet

FTD has a perfect way to make a spirit bright.

Montgomery's
350 Russell St.
Hadley, MA
584-3798

MasterCharge
VISA

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place

Seasons Greetings
Looking forward to seeing you again.
The management and staff would like to thank all who joined us for opening week.

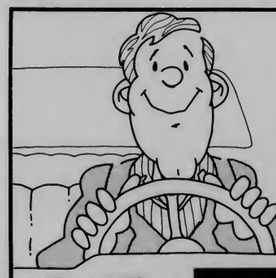
Wickles FinePrint

- COPIES
- RESUMES
- LETTERHEADS
- ENVELOPES
- FORMS
- INVITATIONS
- TYPESETTING

1 BOLTWOOD WALK
(behind Aubuchon Hardware)
DOWNTOWN AMHERST
256-0148
M-F 8:30 am-5:30pm Sat. 9am-5pm

NOW OPEN!!
151 MAIN ST.
(next to Cathy Cross)
NORTHAMPTON
586-9982
M-F 8:30 am-5:30 pm Sat 9:00 am-2:00 pm

Reg. $10.95
Our price $1.00



Reg. $19.95
Our Price $10.00

Are They Silly or Serious
A Book is a Thoughtful Gift

Mon-Sat 10-6
Thurs, Fri 'til 9
Sunday 12-5

71 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Zodiac USA
$10. off all Zodiac Boots
HEARTFELT LEATHER
Downtown Amherst
Monday - Saturday 9:30 - 6:00
Friday till 8:00 Sunday 11:00 - 4:00
253-5135

Deals For Your Wheels

PIONEER
KP-2000 $119*
AM/FM Cassette deck. Locking fast forward and rewind, auto eject, loudness.

$259* JVC KS-R55
High power AM/FM cassette with digitally synthesized tuner. Dolby noise reduction, separate bass & treble, music search and JVC's exclusive Biphonic processor. Two year warranty.

CONCORD
HPL-525 $387*
Audiophile quality AM/FM digital cassette deck with Matched Phase head, DC servo motor and 25 watts per channel.

*speakers and installation not included

Expert Advice • Professional Installation
Factory Authorized Service

Sound & Music
90-92 King Street (Rte. 5), Northampton • Mon-Sat 10-5:30, Sun 1-5
VISA, MasterCard, American Express • Financing Available • 584-9547

Great Gifts

Clothing Earrings
Stocking Stuffers
Posters Cards

Mugs Rugs Vases
Tree Ornaments
Crystals Calendars

Stuffed Animals Toys
Boxes, Tins, Mobiles, etc.
Candy Tea Tea Sets

SALE up to 30% OFF selected
Blouses, Skirts, Dresses
Sweaters, Jackets

Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM

THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS - GREAT PRICES

A 'Santa,' by any other name...

By TRICIA A. YACOVONE
Collegian Staff

It's here again. The season to be jolly with heralding angels, silent nights spent roasting chestnuts, thousands of season's greetings and good tidings.

But also around this time of year, rumors circulate about a generous, plump and beared man who wears a red suit and distributes presents to all the good boys and girls around the world. He allegedly executes his mission with the help of eight flying reindeer who pull his gift-laden sleigh through the sky.

Every now and then, hot allegations fly about another reindeer that was born with a mutation which allows his nose to light up, permitting the jolly man and the rest of the reindeer to see on foggy nights.

This man goes by the name of Santa Claus, a man who lives on the North Pole with a battery of elves who make the presents he gives away. He hops on his sleigh on Christmas Eve, stopping on rooftops to shimmy down people's chimneys and leave presents under the Chirstmas tree or in the stockings hung by the chimney with care.

Is there any truth in these rumors• Where did these outrageous stories begin•

This story is based on some facts... and many exaggerations. There was a saint, Nicholas, who was Bishop of Myra during the fourth century in what is now called Turkey. St. Nicholas had a reputation for kindness and generosity which finally earned him the honor of being the patron saint of children. The reasons for his appointment are certainly worthy of the recognition he obtained.

It is reported that St. Nicholas gave three bags of gold as a dowry to three poor sisters. One bag, thrown through the window at night, fell into a stocking hung over the chimney to dry, resulting in thatmodern tradition.

Although disputed, it is also reported that St. Nicholas restored life to three students who were butchered and pickled by an innkeeper.

During the Middle Ages, especially in Germany and England, Dec. 6 was designated St. Nicholas' feast day. During the festival, a zty ae elected bishop for the day. He would be robed in the full Episcopal regalis of miter, cope and crozier and lead a parade through town

Gradually, this tradition became associated with Christmas because the Dutch tradition of giving presents on Dec. 6 became anglicized. The tradition of Santa Claus was also a result of the Dutch people, who called this man "Sinter Klaas."

From thie point on, the modern image of Santa Claus is more of a literary rather than a mythical creation. Washington Irving, in his Knickerbocker's History of New York (1809), described Santa Claus as a rotund, jolly figure wearing a wide-brimmed hat and smoking a long-stemmed pipe. In*A Visit From St. Nicholas*, a poem by Clement C. Moore, begins "Twas the night before Christmas..." The reindeer, sleight twinkling of the eye and the laying of his finger alongside his nose were part of that poem.

The idea for the reindeer is derived from the Scandinavian or Norse traditions of this season that claim Kris Kringel aided St. Nicholas with his reindeer and sleigh that could glide across rooftops. The reindeer seemed to be derived from a Norse legend about Odin's white horse Sleipnir who had eight feet and was the fastest horse in the world.

The German image of St. Nicholas as a furry imp,"Pelz Nichol," led to the tradition of a fur suit; the soft, furry cap was first seen in a depiction of Santa Claus by Thomas Nast in a political cartoon in Harper's Illustrated Weekly.

In the Netherlands, the tradition is not as distorted from the original concept as is the American tradition. In Dutch tradition, St. Nicholas still appears in the Episcopal regalia of a mediaval bishop, descends the chimneys and leaves presents for the children in wooden shoes they leave filled with hay for the white horse.

In Italy, Santa has a female counterpart, Befana; in Russia, Babushka, recently changed to Grandfather Frost; in England, it is Father Christmas; in Germany, it is Christkindl (Christ child); and in Denmark, the personality is called Yule Man.

Santa Claus is a tradition in Christian countries that has evovled as differently as the nations themselves have.

Reprinted from an article appearing in the fall 1982 Collegian holiday special.

Holiday Special Staff

Editor	Ray Beauchemin
Contributing writers and photographers	Ellen Richard Alice R. Klingener Rita Murphy, Christine Marini, Tricia A. Yacovone, Jim Finkle, Drew Ogier
Cover Art	Mark Rollins
Ad Design and Composition	Faye Whitney-Lussier, Lynn Eisenberg Neil Rhein, Dave Rath, Mark Roden Laurie Frank, Gail Tanzer, Marsha Wilcon Martha Connors, Joy McCarty
Advertising and Sales	Jeff Taylor, Eric Mann Adrienne Newman, Chris McManus, Janet Morgenstern, Lori Silver, Kathy Kelly Stacy Schott, Joel Cantor, Mike McDonald, Caren Orlick, Jon Levy Liz Zwerling, Russ Jones
Production and Composition	Pam Smith, Tim Riviere, Pete Soderberg, Ray Beauchemin and James P. Shanahan

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

THIS MIGHT JUST DO! - Shopping for Christmas trees is made easier when local groups sell them as this tree shopper knows.

Amherst Car Parts
has a new line.
We now sell imported car parts by CarQuest
Come check out our great savings.
Kendall 10W-40 Special Price $1.09
Permanent Anti-freeze $4.33 per gallon
Windshield Solvent $1.29
Dry Gas 2 for 99°
3 yr top & side term Noreaster Batt. $39.99
256-8940 319 Main St.

THE BEST LOOKING MEN & WOMEN
IN THE AMHERST AREA WILL BE LOOKING FOR

one on one hair company
EXPERIENCED IN ALL PHASES OF MEN'S AND WOMEN'S STYLING
26 Gatehouse Road, Echo Hill, Amherst
open Monday-Saturday and Mon-Wed & Fri eves. by appt.
conveniently located on bus route
256-6008

COMPUTER PORTRAITS
Cafe Square
Hampshire Mall
for last minute gifts

Fisherman's Catch.....
A Dinner Special of Fish & Chips: buy the first, get the second 1/2 price(with this ad)
4-6 pm(Tues-Thur) ☆ All Day Sat & Sun
Enjoy our cozy atmosphere for casual dining or phone ahead for take-out service. You can also purchase fresh fish in our market
10% Discount with College ID or Senior Citizens
OPEN 6 Days a week Lunch & Dinner
CLOSED Mondays
Cape Cod Clam Shack
Route 9 ☆ Belchertown ☆ 323-6552

THE TASTEFUL ALTERNATIVE
COFFEES,
PASTRIES,
LUNCH,
GOOD MUSIC
AND GOOD PEOPLE
63 S. Pleasant St. Amherst
256-1390
239 Main St. Northampton

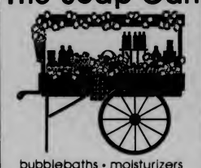
GIFTS

Hats, Gloves, Socks & Scarves
Active Wear for women & men by Boston Traders & Lee

The itty bitty book light

Wood
Brass
Glass
Ceramic
Ted D Bear

SUNDAY 12-5



Marble Rolling Pins • Coffee Makers • Mugs
Espresso Pots • Vacuum Jugs • Tea Kettles
Pasta Makers & Pizza Accessories • Baskets
a complete assortment of bar accessories
Kitchen & Bar

Gift Boxed Glass Ware
Champagne
Brandy • Pilsner • Wine

The Soap Cart

bubblebaths • moisturizers
soaps • soaps for kids
loofahs • brushes • sponges
sachets

Toys to Stuff your Stockings

Rubber Duckies
Windup Toys • Puzzles
Kaleidoscopes • Kazoos
Maze Books and
Stocking Stuffers Galore

Plush Animals
Big Bears, Little Bears, Seals, Lions, Monkees

Haircuts Jewelry Cosmetics unique accessories...

Mon-Fri 'til 9
Sat 'til 6

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst

And what do you want for Christmas?

By JIM FINKLE
Collegian Staff

While it may be better to give than to receive, it may be better to know what you want or you may get something you don't want.

If you have not yet begun to make a list of gifts that you want for the holidays, you better hurry. With finals coming up, holiday shopping to take care of and preparing for intersession, there is not much time left.

"I want money," junior Paul Grenier said. "That's all I want. That's all I need. That's all I'll get." Grenier, a forestry major from Waltham, said he plans to use that money for a five-day ski trip to Mount Snow.

First year School of Management student Jill Carpenter is also a ski enthusiast. "I want everything you need to go skiing," Carpenter said. "But first off all I want a 3.8 cum."

Barbara Donovan, a pre-COINS major from Newton, is not requesting a particular grade point average. "I just want to be able to finish college without getting an ulcer," the Grayson resident said.

Senior accounting major Mike Quinlan said he wants to get a job offer by the end of this semester. "I need a job, but it's going to be touch and go."

"I don't know what I want," said art major Dawn DeLong of Framingham. "I really haven't thought about it yet." Although DeLong has decorated her room with paper snowflakes, she said she has not gotten the Holiday spirit. "At home I'd be helping put up the Christmas tree."

First year School of Management student Scott Kimball said he would like gifts that will help decorate his dorm room. "I want a rug, a tapestry, a curtain for the cubicle, a toaster oven and a desk blotter." Kimball also said he would like some new sweaters. "I like to look nice and in style."

Leisure studies major Leslie MacIver has a request for Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey. "I want all morning classes abolished."

Communications Studies sophomore Tom Glynn of Westwood has a request for Marie Cappadonna, director of Food Services at UMass. "I want chopped egg at the salad bar," Glynn said.

While MacIver and Glynn may or may not have their holiday wishes granted, HRTA major Wendy Horowitz has already had her wish. "I wanted rainbow-colored leg warmers," the Needham resident said. "And that's what I got."

Say
"Merry Christmas"

with a pair of Bausch & Lomb
"Extendedwear"
Soflenses
at an unbelievable price
$129.00
'Dailywear' lenses available at $98.00
Ask for a FREE demonstration. Gift Certificates available. Offer good with this ad thru December '83. Offer precludes previous discounts
Vision Showcase
Your locally owned Optical Shop
HAMPSHIRE MALL across from KMart 584-8324

photo lab mountain farms mall hadley
584-9669
PASSPORT TO DISCOUNTS

Prestige Prints by Berkey
Save on developing and printing your Kodacolor film

Borderless prints are big and bright...resist finger prints.
Sale
12 exp. roll $2.49
20 exp. roll $3.49
24 exp. $3.99
Coupon Must Accompany Order

Prestige Prints by Berkey
2 for 1 sale!

2nd set of color prints FREE!
Bring in your color film for developing & printing at the regular price
Get a second set of prints FREE
• Kodacolor, Fuji or 3M color print film
• 110, 126 or 135 film sizes
• Satin borderless prints
• Prints are dated
This coupon must accompany order.

shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE
shoe SALE

20-50% savings
on all fall shoes
also many boot specials

the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

COMPUTER WORKS
266 N PLEASANT ST
AMHERST, MA 01002
253-5673

Dear Santa,

For Christmas I'd like a pair of joysticks and a desk to put my micro-computer on. I also need a box of disks and a 'Flip File' to keep them in. I don't have a surge protector and I need supplies for my printer. Some software would be nice, or some magazines and books.

You can get all this at COMPUTER WORKS in Amherst. In fact, it'll probably be so cheap you'll have enough left for a second drive and a modem.

Thanks. And don't forget COMPUTER WORKS.
Computer Enthusiast

BARN BASH!!!
"DANCE ALL NIGHT"
Tues - Sat
NO COVER
8 PM TO CLOSING
ENTERTAINMENT!!
by D.J. - Midrange Productions
Hayloft Lounge
upstairs at the Red Barn Steakhouse
Route 9, 1/8 mile past Rolling Green Apts.
ALL NIGHT HAPPY HOUR 50¢ DRAFTS

Amherst Music House and Guitar Workshop
GIVE THE GIFT OF MUSIC:
MUSIC FOR ALL INSTRUMENTS, GUITARS, CASIO PIANOS, RECORDERS, AUTOHARPS, DULCIMERS, THUMB PIANOS, OSI DRUMS, HARMONICAS, METRONOMES, ELECTRIC TUNERS, MUSIC STANDS
Located in the Amherst Carriage Shops
233 No. Pleasant Street, Amherst
Tel. 549-1728

SHOP EARLY and SAVE!

COUNTDOWN TO CHRISTMAS

MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY	SATURDAY	SUNDAY
			DEDUCT 20% OPEN till 8PM 1	DEDUCT 19% 2	$10 off any DEDUCT 18% 3	Ski Package DEDUCT 17% 4
DEDUCT 16% 5	DEDUCT 15% 6	DEDUCT 14% 7	DEDUCT 13% OPEN till 8PM 8	DEDUCT 12% 9	DEDUCT 11% Buy one, Get one-Any WIGWAM Hat or Sock...Half Price! 10	DEDUCT 10% 11
DEDUCT 9% 12	DEDUCT 8% Buy a pair of BMX Wheels-Get Tires FREE! 13	DEDUCT 7% 14	DEDUCT 6% OPEN till 8PM 15	DEDUCT 5% FREE Gloves with BMX Bicycles! 16	DEDUCT 5% ...Get a $24.95 any new 17	DEDUCT 5% Tool Kit with Bike purchase! 18
DEDUCT 5% Tune-up Gift Certificate ...$15.95 19	DEDUCT 4% FREE Helmet with Mountain Bike purchase! 20	DEDUCT 4% 21	DEDUCT 3% OPEN till 8PM 22	SANTA'S The BIGGEST SALE OPENING 23	SURPRIZE! in Peloton's History! AT 8AM 24

EVERY THURSDAY EVERYONE—SAVE 20-33% ON ALL ALPA UNDERWEAR

Our "SHOP EARLY AND SAVE" bicycle promotion is the deal of the year, if you have ever thought of purchasing a bicycle for yourself or as a gift, NOW IS THE TIME!!

THE OFFER*: From Dec. 1-Dec. 24 deduct the percentage noted on the calendar for the particular date from any new Bicycle, Exercycle or Rowing Machine.

* We have a complete selection of 24" Ten Speeds
* For stuffing stockings: Tune-Up Gift Certificates only $19.95
* Ski Packages starting at $79.95!!

* No Trade-ins Accepted toward new bicycle purchases
* There will be a $5.00 surcharge for discounted bicycle, exercycle & rowing machine purchases when using MC/V
* Discounts only apply on the date listed
* No Raincnecks available on Bicycles
* Layaways require a 50% deposit

Peloton Sports
THURS. 10-8
SAT. 10-5
SUN. 12-5
AMHERST • 1 E. Pleasant Street / 549-6904
NORTHAMPTON • 15 State St. / 584-1016
GREENFIELD • Mohawk Mall / 773-5572

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 61 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, December 8, 1983

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

REMEMBERING PEARL HARBOR — Jim McNally, past commander of VFW Post 806 in Florence, listens yesterday to a speaker in front of the Student Union describe the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. McNally served with the U.S. Navy during the Korean conflict.

Duffey still stands firm on recent suspensions

By JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

As the first of two University of Massachusetts students suspended from school for being charged in connection with suspicious dormitory fires prepared to appeal her suspension last night, Chancellor Joseph Duffey restated his policy that any student charged in connection with fires will be suspended immediately from the University.

Duffey said the policy is, "You suspend first and have a hearing as soon as possible." But a Legal Services Office attorney and the professor who most recently chaired the University Discipline Board disagreed with that statement. The UMass Board of Trustees asked Duffey Tuesday to review the policy used to suspend the two students to ensure that due process was followed.

Duffey said Yvette I. Henry, 20, a senior chemistry major and resident assistant in Crampton dormitory, would appeal her suspension which was ordered last Friday after her arrest on charges of lighting one of 16 fires in the Southwest Residential Area dormitory.

Kent Bierly, a 20-year-old physical education major, was suspended from the University Tuesday after being charged with ripping a fire alarm box from a wall in Cance dormitory in Southwest.

"Any violation of law relative to these fires is going to result in a suspension," Duffey said. "I consider the University to be in a state of emergency over this issue."

Michael Pill, an attorney for the UMass Legal Services Office, said the office "has counseled dozens of alledged felons," during his years there.

"It is highly unusual for the student to be suspended even when charged with felonies such as rape, assault with a deadly weapon or destruction of property, and even then, the suspension has always been after going through the hearing process," Pill said.

The University Discipline Board, the highest judicial board on campus according to the Code of Student Conduct, has not been active yet this semester, but its most recent chairperson, John Brigham, said the discipline board "meets to decide whether a suspension goes into effect," and "until (a hearing) is completed, the suspension doesn't operate."

However, Duffey said, the code "refers to hearings held before and after" a suspension.

"It's a judgement call," he said. "At the moment, we're trying to end a situation that is potentially life-threatening to the student body."

Status of rape case still cloudy

Charges of indecent assault and battery with attempt to rape will be dropped against a University of Massachusetts student, Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said Wednesday.

But, according to UMass police no such action has taken place.

Michael E. Briggs, from Oxford, Conn., was arrested by UMass police early Sunday morning and charged with indecent assault and battery and assault and battery with intent to rape. His weekend guest, Clarence G. Hilton, 20, also of Oxford, Conn., was arrested and charged with rape.

There has been no information on whether Hilton's charges will be dropped.

Duffey said he has been told by a reliable source the victim "has requested the court to withdraw charges" against Briggs.

Gerald O'Neil, director of the department of public safety, said he has not heard from the Hampshire County District Attorney's office on whether charges have been or will be dropped against Briggs. Normally, UMass police would be notified on such matters, he said.

Mary Dumas, a UMass police officer in the sensitive crime unit, said, "We have heard nothing" about Briggs' charges being dropped.

The District Attorney's office could not be reached for comment.

UMass Republican Club stands up for patriotism

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

In a noontime rally Wednesday on the steps of the Student Union, the University of Massachusetts Republican Club blasted the policies of the Soviet Union and pledged their support of the United States government.

A crowd of more than 75 people stood in the cold to hear a number of speakers before proceeding to Memorial Hall to watch the placing of a wreath honoring the men killed at Pearl Harbor.

"We must not forget that 42 years ago today the United States was caught sleeping. We can never let that happen again," said Steve Ericson, Republican Club treasurer.

Bill Pyne, president of the organization, said the club was formed to "counterbalance the liberal element on campus and show support for the United States government. The rally is for the same reason."

Matthew Levine, a member of the club, spoke on the issues surrounding the invasion of Grenada by U.S. forces. He said the United States was justified in invading the island in order to save the medical students. He continued by criticizing Russian motives across the world and said that America must "deal from strength" when meeting with the Soviets.

"The Russians are not concerned with human issues when they act," Levine said.

"They (the Russians) killed 60 to 80 million of their own people under Stalin and today they are led by the former leader of the KGB, and organization dedicated to terror," he said referring to current Soviet Premier Yuri Andropov.

Katherine Kurda, a Soviet studies major, presented a long history of Russian actions since their revolution in 1917.

Stephen Barrett, a member of the Conservative Coalition at UMass, spoke following Kurda.

Barrett said, "The United States must never back down against the Russians. We have to have peace through strength."

Barrett challenged people opposing the conservative viewpoint to, "Go to Afghanistan, go to Vietnam, go to Hungary — Ask those people about Communism."

At Memorial Hall, "Taps" was played while six members of the Veteran of Foreign Wars Post 8006 stood at attention. James Anderson, president of the Amherst College Republicans, held a sign reading "support Reagan."

"We're out here to show that we remember the dead of Pearl Harbor and thank them for the ultimate sacrifice," Ericson said. "Let Pearl Harbor be a lesson for the United States and may we never let down our guard."

SGA condemns suspensions

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night unanimously passed a resolution which called for immediate reinstatement of two students suspended from the University of Massachusetts for charges made against them concerning alleged involvement in recent dormitory fires and fire alarm vandalism.

The students Yvette I. Henry, charged with setting one of 16 fires in Crampton dormitory, and Ken Bierly, who allegedly tore a fire alarm from a Cance dormitory hallway, were "charged, not convicted," said Third World Caucus senate member Eugene Bull, who opposed their suspensions prior to due process of law.

Dave McCarthy, Southwest area co-president said, "All of Southwest is disturbed at the treatment" Henry has been subjected to since the charges were made, and said he questions the legality of the "prior restraint" the suspensions pose.

Bull said, "Their academic careers and reputations have been placed in jeopardy." A person "is innocent until proven guilty," he said.

The resolution also called for the University to provide housing for the students on or near campus, in order for them to complete the semester.

The resolution will be presented to the administration tomorrow, Bull said.

Robert Teixeira, a Third World Caucus senate member, said administrators responsible for the suspensions, "should come under heavy fire from the University community for their complete disregard of due process."

Teixeira, along with several other senate members, said he felt "civil rights may have been violated" in the Crampton fires investigation.

"It is alleged that all five of the (latest) suspects were Third World women," said Teixeira, who said he learned this information "through a confidential administrative source."

The senate last night also deliberated over the revised constitution before the document was again tabled to the Governmental Affairs committee. The recently

Continued on page 5

Inside:

Goessman repairs scheduled..... p. 3

SEE HOLIDAY SPECIAL INSERT

Collegian staff's NFL picks .... p. 16

"If I repent any thing, it is likely to be my own good behavior."
– Henry David Thoreau in Walden

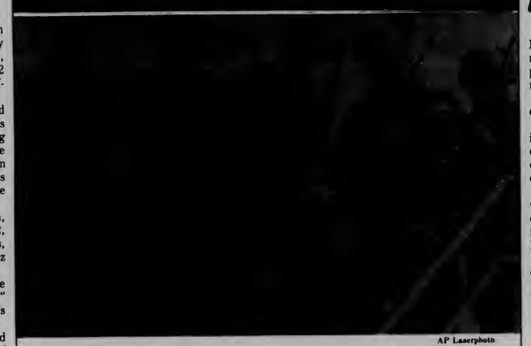
Digest

Spanish planes crash, killing 92

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Two Spanish jetliners collided in heavy fog today as they accelerated to take off from Madrid, touching off a fiery blast and killing all 42 aboard one plane and 50 on the other, officials said.

Earlier official reports said 62 died aboard the second plane, which was traveling about 100 mph and carrying dozens of Japanese tourists. But Japanese Embassy officials said this resulted from confusion over names, and that the toll was 50. Some of the Japanese were honeymooners, they said.

Two Americans who survived the crash, Thomas Goltz, 39, and his wife Sydney, 32, residents of Madrid from El Paso, Texas, were "bruised but otherwise fine," Goltz said.



"We were just about to take off when we heard this big crunching sound of metal," Goltz said in a telephone interview from his home in the Madrid suburb of Arevaca. "The plane sort of broke up in pieces, and smoke started to fill the cabin. The smell of burning plastic was awful.

"A crew member was struggling to get the back door open. I grabbed my wife and jumped out when the door was open and we ran. We found ourselves in a sort of field with the co-pilot and a badly burned man. We wandered around for about 15 minutes in the fog and finally were picked up by some people in a jeep..."

Goltz is general manager of the Singer Co. in Madrid.

Airline officials said the accident was similar to the 1977 Canary Islands disaster in which two jumbo jets collided on the ground in heavy fog, killing 582 people. The planes involved today were an Iberian air Lines Boeing 727, said to be going about 100 mph, and a DC-9 of Aviaco, a domestic airliner hit near the fuel tank, killing all aboard.

AROUND THE WORLD

AP Laserphoto

BACK HOME — Morehead City, N.C. — Marines from the second battalion go down the gangplank of the USS Iwo Jima after arriving from Lebanon Wednesday at the Morehead City Port, N.C.

Navy pilot's body is sent back home

(AP) Syria released the body of U.S. Navy pilot Lt. Mark A. Lange on Wednesday but said the return of American prisoner Robert O. Goodman depended on relations with the United States.

Syria also accused the United States of direct involvement in the Lebanon war.

Meanwhile, bombs and rockets slammed into residential neighborhoods in Christian east Beirut from Druse positions in the hills overlooking the city. Police reported two civilians killed and 16 wounded by shrapnel.

The body of Lange, 27, of Fraser, Mich., was flown by the Marines to the aircraft carrier Independence off the Beirut coast for its eventual journey home, said Maj. Dennis Brooks, the Marine spokesman.

Lange's A-6 fighter-bomber was shot down Sunday in an attack on Syrian positions in Lebanon's central mountains. His body was delivered by the Syrians to the Lebanese army, which in turn handed it to the Marines.

Syria's state minister for foreign affairs, Farouk Charaa, told a news conference in Damascus that Goodman, 26, of Virginia Beach, Va., Lange's bombardier-navigator, was considered "a prisoner of war."

Germans citizens are flocking to see 'The Day After'

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) - Some critics said the film was poorly made and badly acted, a "nuclear soap opera." But it hasn't mattered to West German audiences who are flocking to theaters around the country to see "The Day After," the U.S. made-for-television movie about a nuclear war triggered in Germany.

At least 250,000 people saw the film during the first four days of its release, said Patricia Wiedenhoest, spokesperson for the West German distributors, Tobis. The movie, which opened Dec. 2, is showing in 100 theaters.

"Interest in the film is extremely high...much more than we expected," she said. "We have ordered 35 copies more because of the high interest."

Tobis, which paid $1 million for the West German movie, video and television distribution rights, has shrugged off some critics, charges that it is profiting from "scare tactics" in the film.

West German audiences, however, seem generally impressed by the film, which focuses on the town of Lawrence, Kan., following a nuclear exchange between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The film opened 10 days after the West German parliament, following a stormy debate, voted to deploy new U.S. nuclear missiles despite the objections of the country's vocal anti-nuclear movement.

The 500-seat Europa Palast in downtown Frankfurt is filling the house at nearly every showing, said spokesperson Doris Amthor.

"We've been showing the film five times a day for the past four days, and the house is usually full," Amthor said.

AP Laserphoto

LING LING — Washington — Washington's giant female panda, Ling Ling sits in the corner of her cage at the Washington National Zoo Wednesday. Ling Ling is seriously ill with kidney failure and National Zoo specialists say her chances of recovery are poor.

AROUND THE NATION

Surviving Marines welcomed back

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) - Some 1,800 Marines who survived the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing in Beirut returned to the United States today to welcoming signs, marching bands, American flags and thousands of yellow ribbons.

The USS Austin, carrying 600 to 800 members of the 24th Marine Amphibious Unit, was the first to arrive, docking at the North Carolina State Ports Authority terminal at 10 a.m., said Helen McBride, a terminal employee.

"It's just great," she said adding that a large crowd including hundreds of family members had braved chilly temperatures and 30-40 mph gusts to greet the troops.

The flagship Iwo Jima, carrying about 1,000 Marines, was due to land at 12:15 p.m., delayed by high winds and seas.

The Marines are based at Camp Lejeune, 60 miles east of Morehead City.

As the large, gray Austin came into views, Ann Krose began crying and said to a baby in her arms, "Look, there's Daddy's ship." Her husband, Navy radioman Joe Krose, had been in Beirut since May.

Elaine Sandrik, whose son Alfred Jr. is a Marine meteorologist, shouted. "Isn't that the most beautiful sight you've ever seen." Sandrik said she and her husband, Alfred Sandrik Sr., drove 11 hours from Atlantic City, N.J., for the homecoming.

Sandrik said it took a week after the bombing to learn that her son had survived.

Ford, Kissinger appear on soap

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Ford and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger have entered show business - appearing briefly as themselves in an episode of ABC's television series "Dynasty."

ABC said Wednesday that when Ford, his wife Betty, and Kissinger all attended a charity ball in Denver the producers of "Dynasty," which chronicles the lives of wealthy families in Denver, decided to fuse fiction with reality by having the cast attend the benefit.

On the episode, to be shown Dec. 21, Kissinger and the Fords each have one line of dialogue. Kissinger will talk with the scheming character Alexis, played by Joan Collins, who says: "Henry, I haven't seen you since Portofino."

Replies Kissinger: "That's right."

Petition pushes for reform in '84

BOSTON (AP) — A coalition seeking to force the Legislature to reform its internal rules said it presented 115,000 certified signatures to the secretary of state's office Wednesday in hopes of getting the issue on the 1984 statewide ballot.

"It's a wonderful day, a very rewarding and happy day," Elizabeth Fay of Common Cause said after members of the Coalition for Legislative Reform marched to the state office and dropped off the petitions.

A coalition of animal lovers also met the Wednesday 5 p.m. deadline and submitted 140,000 signatures asking for an end to experimentation on pets.

If the secretary of state's office finds the groups met the requirement of 61,508 signatures, it will refer the petitions to the Legislature. If the lawmakers refuse to approve the petitions, supporters can collect 10,000 more signatures and force the question on the 1983 ballot.

However, the legislative coalition still faces a mjaor hurdle in its effort to decrease the power of the House and Senate leadership and give rank-and-file members more control over the fate of legislation.

AROUND THE REGION

Dukakis hiring more minorities

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis said Wednesday he was proud of his administration's affirmative action record, which includes the hiring of 20 percent blacks and 49 percent women for top jobs since January.

Dukakis credited "hard work and a commitment to progress and equity" for the high percentage of blacks and women in state jobs. The statistics were released in a report issued by the state's affirmative action office.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Cris Schuster
Copy Editor — Elizabeth Luciano
Layout Technician — Susan Bankert
Photo Technician — Jim Powers
Production Supervisor — Ken Kalinowski
Production — John Wielgus, Tracy Lang, Jim Shanahan, Joyce Haglund, Merrianne Hrycin, Lissa Kiernan, Marianne Walsh

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

MassPIRG fights acid rain

BOSTON (AP) - The Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group launched a campaign Wednesday to place an immediate cap on statewide emissions of sulfur dioxide, a key culprit in creating acid rain.

"Massachusetts causes a significant share of its acid rain problem," Mindy Lubber of Mass PIRG said at a Statehouse news conference.

She said her group has collected 10,000 signatures in less than two weeks supporting such a measure, which will be delivered to Lt. Gov. John Kerry, a prominent advocate of national legislation dealing with acid rain.

"John Kerry and the Dukakis administration have been at the forefront of the national fight against acid rain," Mass PIRG attorney Joyce Roop said. "We hope to see their equally decisive action here at home."

Highly acidic precipitation has damaged waterways, soil and buildings in the Northeastern states.

UMass labs will receive badly needed repairs

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

Badly needed repairs for Goessman Laboratory at the University of Massachusetts will soon be made because of an $800,000 allocation for deferred maintainance on campus. The money will be used for heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC) renovation in Goessmann, Hasbrouck and Stockbridge labs.

James E.A. John, UMass dean of the School of Engineering, said "The situation right now is critical. In Goessman we have a problem with the ventilation and plumbing. In addition, many, many laboratories in Goessmann need to be renovated.

"Right now, we are very concerned with the safety of ventilating hoods, which carry away toxic vapors," John said. "These buildings are getting very old and there is still research being performed in Goessmann.

"There are also electrical wiring renovations that need to be done," he said. "But the maintainance has been held off for so many years that it will take a lot of money to correct those problems."

According to Ed Ryan, chief design and construction engineer of the Physical Plant, the University is now soliciting and receiving contracting bids for the HVAC renovations. Funding for the HVAC renovations was provided by the Massachusetts capital outlay budget, which allocated a total amount of $5 million for deferred maintainance at the University.

Goessmann has also experienced problems with water leakage as a result of either faulty plumbing or roof leaks.

However, Ryan said, "Structural renovations will only be done as a result of related HVAC work.

We hope to award the HVAC contract to the lowest bidder within 30 days. That will then allow the contractor time to prepare himself and his workers to begin the work on May 1," Ryan said. "The renovations are scheduled to be completed by the end of August." Currently, John said, "Our most pressing problem is the HVAC system and hope to have that problem settled soon."

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

PEOPLE PATHS — Seen from the 20th floor of the library tower, well-trodden walkways next to the campus pond form a zigzag pattern in the snow.

Coordinator helps working women gain on-the-job power

Women On Campus

BY DAVID SUMMERSBY
Collegian Staff

As coordinator of the Working Women's Task Force of the Everywoman's Center at the University of Massachusetts and a member of other campus groups, Myra Hindus said she is continually trying to change the condition of women in the workplace.

"It is important to help women feel more powerful and I see organizing as a way for them to get more power," Hindus said.

The task force she heads is a program aimed specifically to help working women through workshops, seminars counseling and resources.

"Eighty percent of women workers are concentrated in the dead-end and low paying category of traditional women's work such as clerical, service and sales. Women need to have access to higher paying and more challenging jobs," she said.

Much of the program centers around work-related problems such as sexual harassment, job stress, health and safety issues. Support groups are also offered in career development, assertiveness training and interviewing skills.

For many of these issues, the task force, in connection with the Western Massachusetts Coalition for Occupational Safety and Health Women's Committee, of which Hindus is a member, has compiled written information and fact sheets to raise workers' awareness.

"I think one goal is to get correct information to people so they can know that there is assistance if they have a problem."

Hindus is also involved with several other groups designed to improve the condition of women in the workplace.

One group she belongs to is the Sexual Harassment Education Committee which is trying to implement campus-wide information on the issue of sexual harassment. Another group is the UMass Chancellor's Sexual Harassment Hearing Panel and also the Labor Advisory Council to the Occupational Health Center, a group of labor people who educate the health clinic on the needs of workers.

To increase knowledge on work-related issues, professors and community organizations often request that Hindus conduct workshops for them, she said.

"We help people problem-solve about their jobs and do a lot of work on job stress, discrimination and sexual harassment," she said.

Hindus said she also does work on statewide legislative issues.

"There are many ways to change the system," she said.

Writer speaks on spirituality

By REBECCA THATCHER
Collegian Staff

The responsibility of writers is the responsibility of all people: to fulfill obligations which are political, social and spiritual, said author, professor and broadcaster Julius Lester Wednesday night in the last of the series of lectures on "Writers on Writers and Social Responsibility" at the University of Massachusetts.

"We must live with reverence towards and responsibility for our souls. We no longer know how to do that. I know that is true because of the monstrous weapons in existence. Only people trapped in chaos can be so in love with death," said the UMass Afro-American Studies and Judaic Studies professor.

Lester, who is also the assistant director of the Institute for the Advanced Study of the Humanities, said, "Religion in our society has been replaced by politics, which is nothing less than a religion in which we have a chance to play God."

He said he needed to fulfill a spiritual obligation to his people and describe the slave experience in his books. However his critics erred when they thought he and other black writers could only express anger, he said.

"I have entered the fray and my pen has gone to battle," he said.

It is a mistake, Lester said, for people to want a writer to be their public voice.

"It is enough that I take responsibility for my voice being on key— that I am singing a melody that is a faint echo of heaven," he said.

Lester said his autobiography had damaged his reputation because his critics not only thought it was presumptuous for him to write an autobiography at the age of 37, but it also "did not fit the mold that white literature had decreed it should."

"They failed to consider that as a black man and an outspoken one, that I might not live to be an old man," he said.

Lester said he did not believe literature could change society.

"All too many make it a game, a vampire orgy of analysis. Then after a Draculian feast, the writer is given a prize or two and sent back," he said.

Cabbage Patch fever cropping up everywhere

Northampton harvest picked clean

AP Laserphoto

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS — Eighteen Cabbage Patch dolls sit strapped in the seats of a chartered airplane Wednesday in Wichits, Kansas. A Wichits radio station paid $1700 for the dolls, had them shipped to Wichits from Dallas, and then posed them in a chartered plane for a publicity stunt.

By DAVID MUNIZ
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts student Peg Fuller stood in front of the Caldor store in Northampton in order to take part in a craze that has swept the nation.

As Cabbage Patch fever strikes the minds of everyone who sees the cuddly computer-made individuals who come with their own adoption papers, the dolls are becoming harder and harder to find.

"I heard a rumor about Caldor having them. It was pretty hush-hush," she said.

The rumor spread quickly. Ronald Sodergren, manager of the Northampton store said, "We put them on the shelves Tuesday night with no advance advertising, and this morning (Wednesday) we had a line of about 40 people waiting for the store to open."

Sodergren said the store sold about 90 dolls, its whole supply, in about an hour.

"They smell cabbage I guess," he said.

Customers who bought the dolls had to pay for them in advance, and then go around to the back of the building where they could pick them up. But Peg Fuller and other customers were not able to pick out the doll they wanted.

"They just issued us a doll, and then we could trade amongst ourselves if we wanted a different doll," she said.

What do UMass students think of the $28 fad?

"I think they are the most vile, crude things I have ever seen," said Robin Shorr, a theater major.

Deirdre Marley, a sophomore economics major agreed. "It shows where people's minds are at. It's insane," she said.

Francis Dietrich, another sophomore economics major said, "From what I hear, it's an absurd frenzy for the homely-looking, over-priced dolls."

THE ONCE AND FUTURE FIRE:

James Baldwin
and
Roger Wilkins
Ponder U.S. Society
on the Eve of 1984

Sponsored by Chancellor Joseph Duffey of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and Five College Black Studies, Inc.

The Fire Next Time and A Man's Life

James Baldwin, noted author and civil rights activist, recipient of Rosenwald and Guggenheim fellowships and the National Institute of Arts and Letters Award, is currently Five College Professor of Literature.

Roger Wilkins, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist for his Washington Post editorials on Watergate and former Assistant Attorney General, is presently a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

Thursday, December 8, 1983, 8 p.m.
Campus Center, Room 101
University of Massachusetts at Amherst

THE CONTINUING SAGA OF THE COMEDY CLINIC

featuring The Naked Mike Talent Contest ($10. prize) aspiring comedians sign up
9:00-9:30

THURSDAY
DEC. 8
M.C. Drew Anderson
9:30

Hampden Southwest Snack Bar

Joke Telling Contest - tell your best ($5 prize)

"Study In The Berkshires"

Extra Study Space Available in Berkshire D.C. - Southwest!
8:00 pm to 12:00

This is a 3 week trial period arranged by SWAG. Come show your support by studying with us!
Sorry - No food or drink.

Ad: courtesy of Academic Affairs S.G.A.

2 for 1
ON DRINKS
ALL NITE
Thursday
AT POOR RICHARDS

guaranteed lowest price!

Permalens®
Extended Wear Contact Lenses

$99 now just

Buying contacts
and eyeglasses is easy as AVC.

And now, American Vision Centers has made buying Permalens® Extended Wear contact lenses even easier. We've lowered the price to just $99. That's the lowest price we've ever offered and it's the lowest price in the city. We guarantee it!

New purchases only • Limit one pair per customer • Cannot be used in conjunction with other discounts or specials

Permalens® Extended Wear Contact Lenses	Soft Contact Lenses	SAVE
$99	$55	33⅓% on frames
Regular $149	A full refund on the cost of the lenses if not satisfied • Professional and fitting fees not included.	With purchase of complete pair of eyeglasses
"The lenses you can sleep with" 30 day trial wearing plan • Full credit within 30 days on lenses only if not satisfied • Eye exam, professional and fitting fees not included • SPH lenses only		50% OFF FRAMES
		on second pair of eyeglasses (not to exceed value of 1st pair) with purchase of complete pair
Coupon must be presented at time of purchase Expires 1/15/84 DC	Coupon must be presented at time of purchase Expires 1/15/84 DC	Coupon must be presented at time of purchase Expires 1/15/84 DC

AMERICAN VISION CENTERS
great eye care · great eyewear
Hampshire Mall, Hadley • 584-7958 • Open M-Sat 10-9 Sun 12-5
Major credit cards accepted

The Collegian

CIEE BUDGET AIR FARES

USA
from Boston round trip from

Chicago	$229
New York	46
Los Angeles	369
Houston	138
Raleigh	129
Washington	80
International
Paris	519
London	459
Tokyo	925
Caracas	290

Also many other destinations. Eurail pass, Britrail pass, Int'l Student ID card, AYH card, books, tours, insurance, ski vacations and more.
497-1497
Council Travel
1278 Mass. Ave. Harvard Square
Cambridge, MA 02138

UMass Express/Locals
New Location
Peter Pan
MBTA - Riverside
Newton Mass
For reservations and information call
(617) 965-7040

¡Laliannite-board-$1
4:30-7pm at more. & hamp.
THE WEEKENDER

State Student Association of Massachusetts is a statewide student organization created to represent students at the legislative level. If you are a student dependent on financial aid or a job for your education, or want to participate, come to the UMass SSAM chapter meeting - 8 p.m., Dec. 12 in CC 911. Find out what we're doing this year for you. Together we can make a difference.

Man admits to indecent exposure, turns himself in Amherst Police reported Wednesday that a 45-year-old man turned himself in Tuesday night and admitted to exposing himself and masturbating on a bench in front of Price Chopper. The man has not been charged with indecent exposure yet, police said, but an investigation is underway.

Police said the man allegedly sat on the bench Tuesday afternoon and proceeded to expose himself. The man is a suspect in a few other indecent exposure incidents, police said, none of which occurred in the area where a rash of exhibitionism was reported earlier this semester.

In other police action:

A 20-year old Amherst man was arrested Tuesday afternoon and charged with two counts of receiving stolen property. Police said they recovered a $312 television and $2000 worth of stereo components.

A Brittany Manor resident reported Tuesday the loss of a silver 1980 Mercury Bobcat. Police said the car had a New Hampshire registration and the theft occurred between 4 and 7 p.m. Tuesday.

-GREG BROWN

Dormitory resident arrested after disorderly behavior

A 20-year-old Brett House dormitory resident was arrested at 1:46 a.m. Wednesday and charged with being a disorderly person, University of Massachusetts police reported. Police said the subject apparently had been trying to start an argument with his Resident Assistant and other members of his floor, and was causing a disturbance in Brett House basement.

In other police action:

Police received a report of malicious destruction to a motor vehicle shortly before 3 p.m. Tuesday. Both headlights and the left rear side marker light of a vehicle parked in Lot 21 were smashed, according to police, causing $35 worth of damage. There are no suspects.

A resident in Moore House dormitory reported a case of vandalism at 3 a.m. Tuesday, police said. The resident apparently heard glass breaking and found a dorm room window in next door Pierpont dormitory broken. Police said the resident reported seeing two males in sweatpants running from the scene. The resident of Pierpont had been sleeping at the time, police said, but discovered a round hole in his window. The window was apparently broken with a snowball, according to the police report. The case is open.

A ski jacket, valued at $90, was reported stolen from a corridor in Boyden gym shortly before 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, police said. There are no suspects.

A Libertas bicycle, valued at $550, was reported stolen at 12:24 p.m. Tuesday, police said. The bicycle had apparently been stolen from the student's room in John Adams dormitory, according to police. There are no suspects.

-MARY ANNE BEEN

Film explores sterilization abuse

La Operacion, a film about sterilization abuse in Puerto Rico, will be shown at 12 p.m. today, in Room 903 of the Campus Center.

The film, by Ana Maria Garcia, explores government action in Puerto Rico to curb overpopulation by advocating sterilization of women as a form of birth control.

Following the film, there will be a discussion led by Panna Putnam of the Everywoman's Center.

Putnam is coordinator of the Third World Woman's Task Force at the Center.

★senate

Continued from page 1

rewritten constitution has been a subject of discussion at the meetings for the past five weeks, and Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey has extended his original end-of-the-semester deadline to mid-March.

Some senators felt the document in its present form does not adequately represent the entire UMass community.

Student Government Association Co-president Charlene Allen, along with several other senate members, said she felt, "there was not enough input from women and the Third World Caucus," and advised the senate to use the "extra time" in order to get the "best document possible."

BLUE WALL
CENTER AT UMASS
THURS. DEC. 8
NEW WAVE DANCE!

RCA RECORDING ARTISTS
THE BONGOS
18 YEAR OLDS WELCOME
WITH SPECIAL GUESTS
RAPTURE OF THE DEEP
PRODUCED IN ASSOCIATION WITH UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

"I know the mind of Ireland because I am within it."
Sean O'Casey

December 1, 2, 7, 10, 1983, 8:00 pm
Rand Theater, Fine Arts Center
University of Massachusetts
Reservations: 545-3511

The Rand Theater presents
Bedtime Story &
The Shadow of a Gunman
by Sean O'Casey

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Kagan	Western Heritage Since 1648	$9.50
Kagan	Western Heritage to 1715	$9.50
Kane	Physics 2/e	$14.50
Kell	Modern Auditing	$14.50
Larson	Putnam's Geology	$13.50
Lefcowitz	Writing Skills Wrkbk.	$4.50
Lefrancois	Psychology	$12.50
Hehminger	Principles of Biochemistry	$17.50
Mansfield	Principles of Macroecon. 4/e	$7.50
McCormal	Structural Steel Design	$16.25
McGarrah	Productivity Mgt.	$15.50
Mencher	News Reporting & Writing	$8.50
Miller	Organic Chemistry	$11.50
Morrison	Organic Chemistry 4/e	$18.00
Morton	La Presse II	$5.00

UHS DENTAL SERVICE EXPANDS STAFF TIME

If you have had difficulty getting an appointment at the dental service, take heart. You can now call 545-2400 for an appointment to begin comprehensive care or simply for information about the program.

The dental service at UHS is a prevention oriented, comprehensive care program which offers a complete range of servcies including restorations (fillings) endodontic care (root canals) and oral surgery. Costs for care include copayments, modified fees, and prepaid services. Underlying all visits is a fundamental philosophy of educating individuals about techniques and behaviors which can assure excellent oral health.

Amherst College
Department of Theatre and Dance
presents
Carlo Goldoni's
The Servant of Two Masters
In the improvisational style of the Commedia dell'Arte
Directed by Richard Edelman
Music by Lewis Spratlan
Movement by Spider Kedelsky
7 consecutive performances in Fayerweather Theatre
December 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 at 8:00 P.M.
General Admission $4.
Students & Senior Citizens $2.
A.C. students free with I.D.
Box office hours 1-5 daily
For reservations call 542-2277

KICKOFF LOUNGE
Bruins vs. Canadians
35¢ Drafts
during game

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
TONIGHT
Closed for Private Function
 Don't miss
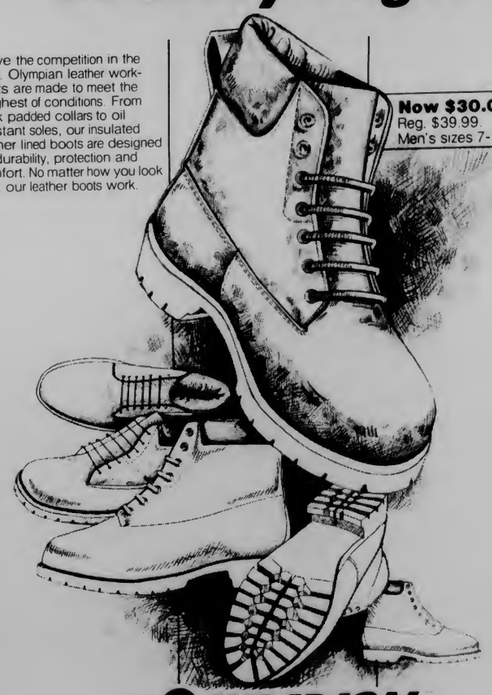
Friday Night Lacrosse *
Team final exam jam

SKI POWDER WINTER BREAK
UMASS SKI CLUB
JACKSON HOLE
WYOMING JAN 10 - 17
TRIP INCLUDES
ROUND TRIP AIRFARE & TRANSFERS
5 DAY LIFT TICKET JACKSON HOLE
8 DAYS, 7 NIGHT LUXURIOUS CONDOS
COLLEGE SKI FEST ACTIVITIES
(TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $559
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 545-3437



12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27

YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW
MEETING
THURS DEC 8, ROOM 134
4:00 pm CAMPUS CENTER
TABLES WED-FRI DEC 7-9
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH
FOR MORE INFO CALL 545-3437

Tough competitor at every angle.

Leave the competition in the dust. Olympian leather workboots are made to meet the roughest of conditions. From thick padded collars to oil resistant soles, our insulated leather lined boots are designed for durability, protection and comfort. No matter how you look at it, our leather boots work.

Now $30.00
Reg. $39.99.
Men's sizes 7-12.

OLYMPIAN
We thrive on competition.
Hampshire Mall, Rte. 9, Hadley.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Is it justice or just us?

Yvette Henry, the 20 year old senior Chemistry major arrested Friday night in connection with the numerous fires which have placed our University on the front pages of the nation's major newspapers and television screens, is being made a scapegoat many among the student body believe. Students have come to the following conclusion for a number of what I consider to be valid reasons. Perhaps the most telling of these reasons are: Ms. Henry's arrest came at a time when pressure was being placed on the University administration by parents and elected public officials to take measures to assure the safety of students residing on campus; especially those students residing in Crampton dorm, the site plagued with most of the fires.

At the request of the Governor, Michael Dukakis, the State Police were brought in to help solve the crisis. It turns out that the State Police felt themselves inadequate and turned to the FBI for help. Being the top law enforcement agency of the nation, the FBI was bent upon finding the culprit or culprits involved. To accomplish this they made composites of the psychology of the individual or individuals thought to be the most likely perpetrators. The FBI composites suggest that the individual or individuals involved are most likely Black and/or Hispanic and female, that the individual either lost a parent at a very early age or was undergoing undue stress.

George Mckenzie

Based upon these and other assumptions, Ms. Henry, who is Black, who indeed lost her father at an early age, was picked up for questioning at 5 p.m. on Friday. She was questioned for over three and a half hours before finally being arrested at 8:30 p.m. on the said night. Bail was posted at $10,000 cash. Ms. Henry was charged with setting fire to her neighbor's desk. The consequence for which was that Ms. Henry was subjected to spending two days and two nights in jail before she was finally released.

We, as members of this student body, must ask what are the evidences that link Ms. Henry to the fire she is accused of setting to her neighbor's desk? Why was bail set at such a high amount? Why did the law enforcement authorities wait until after five when all the banks in the area were closed before arresting her? Further, why the adamant stipulation of cash as opposed to assets in the form of property? (Which was incidentally refused when offered!) Yet even further, why did the law enforcement authorities refuse to release Ms. Henry into the custody of a high-ranking University authority when requested to do so?

Answers to these and other questions pertaining to the arrest and treatment of Ms. Henry both before and after her arrest have not been forthcoming from those directly involved in her arrest nor the University administration who were party to the arrest. Yet, there are other pertinent questions to be raised. Ms. Henry, after her arrest, was subsequently dismissed from the University and banned from the campus, in what at present appears to be the unilateral decision of the Dean of Students, Mr. William Field. What was the basis of her dismissal? Certainly, Ms. Henry has not been tried and proven guilty of any crime. Is this a normal University policy to dismiss and ban all students arrested and charged with having committed a crime here on campus; if it is, why has the individual recently charged with attempted rape in Mackimmie dorm not been dismissed and banned from the campus?

While the entire student body is outraged at the fires and the undue stress it has come to cause those residing on campus, we as students have a responsibility both to ourselves and to Ms. Henry, to come to her defense. To allow this kind of treatment to be meted out to students without raising questions, without challenging the powers that be, is to leave ourselves open to similar treatment. Indeed, anyone among us can be picked up and treated in like manner, merely because of the existence of a crisis which affects the name and prestige of our beloved institution. While the crisis of fires on campus have not been solved, since Ms. Henry's arrest – there have been four such fires, any one of us could be carted off and be made to suffer in the same manner.

Judging from the handling of the Yvette Henry affair, we have a classic case where the accused is being presumed to be guilty before proven innocent. Our judicial system is based upon the assumption that "one is innocent until proven guilty." Taking all this into consideration, it is our responsibility to rally the administration to reverse its position and that Ms. Henry be unconditionally re-admitted and be allowed to complete the semester. Unfortunately, the damage is already done; it is not clear to me that after all that Ms. Henry had gone through she will be in the frame of mind to carry on her work. The option should be afforded her and if the events of this weekend prove to be too much for her to come back and handle the regular classroom setting, provision should be made for her to complete the semester in an atmosphere conducive to such.

George McKenzie is co-coordinator of the Third World Caucus of the SGA

1984 – Big Brother or Big Mother?

It's that time of the semester again and things have been happening too fast. With the Middle East and Central America ablaze with conflict it is difficult to relax, regardless of exams. Having signed up for the draft in the conservative sawmill days of my year off, I've given too much of my computerized identity to the government. The Selective Service System has my Social Security number, and that bothers me.

But lately I've also begun to feel anxious about the coming phone monopoly divestiture. Although on the surface it resembles a consumer-oriented undertaking, it may be the ultimate cause of a techno-centralized society. Consider for a moment the immensity of the United States' information network. According to a recent article in Time, "Americans make more than 800 million phone calls a day, and have twice as many telephones (183 million) as toilets (87 million)."

Thomas Pitoniak

With the Computer Age upon us, we are becoming a society forever altered by the basic compatibility of the telephone and computer. Currently the telephone is an essential link between terminals thousands of miles away. Even Richard Nixon talked with the Apollo astronauts with the help of Ma Bell's machinery.

Also take into account the ongoing advancement in the area of info-network technology. A telephone that stores a measly ten numbers is already old hat; today people are talking about cordless phones that don't make you deaf. Such big-brain concerns as Bell Laboratories are pushing the science of message transmission to new levels of sophistication. On the horizon is the marriage of the silicon chip and the individual voice print, which makes me a little edgy. I don't like to think that someday there may be catalogs of voices. The F.B.I. would have a ball. A fugitive walks into a "wired" McDonalds, orders a Big Mac Pack, and within minutes he's spirited back to the slammer.

And that's not all. AT&T has begun marketing videotex terminals, reminiscent of Orwell's "telescreen," that combine both image and voice. Don't try calling in sick when you're not; it could mean your job. Although we couldn't afford it anyway, this device would take up too much room for us poor students; it would take up half of my Belchertown shack.

It may not be coincidence that the divestiture takes place in 1984. The term itself is doublespeak. After all, the same greedy souls will be running the "new AT&T" and its seven babies. We will owe money every month to AT&T for access to long distance lines, in addition to our new bills to a beast called NYNEX. NYNEX and its six siblings are already filing for rate hikes to make up for their loss of a piece of AT&T's long distance pie.

People will be so in debt that they will have to borrow from the banks. And since the economy is already undermined by a grave deficit, the unthinkable will happen: the government will have to relinquish its entire assets – the nation – the phone companies. Move over Big Brother, here comes Big Mother.

Thomas Pitoniak is a Collegian correspondent

Well-graced, and leaving the stage

When Ronald Reagan is finished with his stay in the White House, he will leave more than a legacy of bombs and bullets. Not only will the world be in a more precarious position than it was in January of 1981, but the political sophistication of the general public will be as retarded as the policies of the EPA under the conspicious reign of Ms. Burford. The fact that support for Reagan rose after the invasion of Grenada is testimony to the American public's lack of awareness in the realm of world politics. The intellectual vacuum in which foreign policy is debated by the vast majority of Americans, is primarily the responsibility of the national media. The mass media limits the breadth and scope of its reporting, and the discussion of issues by the public is correspondingly narrow. Distortions in the media lead to distortions in the views of millions of people. The true loser in this arrangement is democracy in America, which requires a public that is both interested and well informed. It must be assumed that the perpetrators of this system of misinformation are not too concerned with the preservation of democracy in this country.

John Gilman

In the issue of Newsweek of November 7th, 1983, an editorial by George Will demonstrated the disdainful view that much of the media holds towards democratic principles and the intelligence of the American people. Mr. Will states that "even if every nation in the world disapproved (of the invasion of Grenada,) an invasion to overturn an indecent regime would have been justified by the security needs of our decent society." Mr. Will fails to define what he means by decent and indecent, but this is not what I find most disturbing about this statement. Security has been cited as the reason for more oppression in this world than the next ten reasons combined. This is the reason cited by the Soviet Union for most of its brutal methods of supressing political dissidents; it is truly ironic for Mr. Will to justify our actions along the same lines as "the mortal enemy of all open societies." This is not to say that George Will is a vociferous supporter of open societies. He does not view the exclusion of reporters from Grenada as an affront to our legal right to know what our government is doing. Not to mention that the aura of dubiousness surrounding the entire operation could have been removed by the presence of reporters. Rather, he feels the "adversary stance" of some journalists is justification for the sealing off of the island.

Mr. Will states: "Someone must make judgements." The implication of his article is that the judgements must be reached in secret. "It is an unanswered question whether, given modern communications technologies and modern sensibilities, a democracy can pay the price of remaining a great power. "For George Will, and journalists of his political temperament it is imperative for the United States to retain its position as a great power. Democracy will have to be abandoned.

John Gilman is a Collegian columnist

Random Notes

On Dying Young

It was a year since she had run away. She had run away from all the things she hated about life. It was unfair, she thought, that her cousin had died so young. He was only nineteen, and nineteen years wasn't enough. She wishes he was alive to laugh and smile again because she loved him so much.

The whole thing made her question the world. It made her hate the world. Her cousin had been so good, an A student in the pre-med program at Georgetown, a football star, and above all someone who loved his family more than anything else. He had known what was important. He always cared, and he showed that care in his smile, in his determination to be the best.

Michele Dolan

But then he got cancer. He struggled through his senior year in high school battling leukemia. In his high school yearbook he put the quote, "I was given life so that I may enjoy all things, I was given all things so that I may enjoy life." He realized how important it was to have life. He didn't believe he would die. He was a strong person. God shouldn't hurt those who are good.

During his freshmen year in college, he died. And the girl fell to pieces. 'God was wrong,' she knew. He was unfair. He had taken life from the best person she knew, the person who cared so much, and was so glad to be alive, and left murderers to walk the streets.

It hurt her more than anything ever had before. It was the holiday season, but it wasn't happy.

It took her a year to understand, to come to know why this had happened. She knew that her cousin was special. She knew that he knew what was important. He showed it in the way he cared about people, his family, above all. He had a hand for his brothers, and a hand for everyone. He knew something about life that other people fail to realize. That was what made him good, and that was what made him die.

And she knew it now too. Life is fleeting. In it we should know that the most important thing we have is our family and friends. Those are the things that really matter. She realized that nineteen years had been enough for her cousin. When he died he said, "I'm giving a part of my heart to all of you." She knew he meant it, and she wished that people would take that heart and live the way he did.

Michele Dolan is a Collegian staff member

The need for guidance, not criticism

Winter seemed to arrive overnight. The wind whipped off of the pond and chilled any flesh that dare expose itself. He did not enjoy keeping this appointment.

He always became very anxious when he had to go there. And why not, he thought, my transcript is fairly "exemplary." But they make you feel like a criminal. How can they really even know me – I've changed so much since I've been here. How can my record show maturity, state of mind? He thought. And those advisors, a great help they are. "Well son," (they were always saying) "You're about two-hundred credits shy of your degree, I'm afraid you're going to be administratively withdrawn after this semester and be forced to run through the campus center in your underwear," thanks for the help. He didn't even know what CASIAC meant, exactly.

John Kenney

He had to wait a long time. He simply sat there in the small waiting area, hearing bits and pieces of conversations.

"We went to 'Poor Dick's' last night. It was awesome. Cheryl finally introduced me to Rick, ya' know him." "Oh God, yes" the other replied, "He's a fox."

"So how'd you do on the exam Phil?" "Well, uh, not too good, I think. I was only sure of two answers." "Hmmm – out of fifty – that's good Phil."

"Paul Goodwin?" someone yelled. He got up and walked around the partition. He sat down. The advisor was looking at his transcript and did not even look up at him.

"What happened your first semester?" he said, eyes still lowered.

"Well sir, I feel that I was mentally unstable."

"It says here that you visited mental health?"

How the hell did he know that? He had gone there once, hoping to find someone, anyone at this place who would listen to his problems and perhaps understand his confusion and fear of the future. He never went back.

"Ah – yes sir – that's true. But it was just that once and I feel a lot better about things now."

"Hmmm, well, how do you plan on making up those credits? I mean you have core requirements that you haven't filled and – I mean what's your plan?"

"Well, I plan to do an internship."

"Ha – yes – but you have several core requirements you still have not filled. Son, you're in fairly big trouble."

Mistakes that inevitably accompany youth are often difficult to leave behind. He was made to feel dumb, terminally unsuccessful, alone. And instead of guidance, he – many of us – receive criticism, judgement, disapproval.

It was getting dark when he walked outside. He wished he had not kept this appointment. But that would have been irresponsible.

John Kenney is a UMass student

Don't leave the driving to them

The current Greyhound strike illustrates a union-busting trend among certain corporations as they try to root out and destroy one of the large remaining strongholds of citizen and worker power – trade unions. We can all learn a lot from this struggle about the concentration of economic power in this country and the attempt of trade unions to defend the living standards and working conditions of their members. UMass students should be concerned about the Greyhound strike because as future members of the labor force, everyone's wages and working conditions are weakened when any one group is forced to make concessions. Furthermore, the gains made by our parents and grandparents in this country will be severly undermined the more workers are forced to make concessions to the large corporations. Social Security, the minimum wage, unemployment compensation, equal employment opportunities, and other protective laws were forged largely by coalitions of unions, civil rights activists, and others. The Greyhound Corporation and other powerful sectors of private industry clearly wish to erode the wages and working conditions of people who work for them, for no good reason.

Gerry Scoppettuolo

Greyhound is actually a holding company of which its bus service is only one part. The parent firm's revenues for 1982 exceeded $4.5 Billion. Greyhound Corporation owns the following subsidiaries: Manncraft Exhibition Services (trade shows), Delaware Sunshine Hatcheries, Cattle Science Corporation (feed cattle), (until Dec. 13) Armour Foods, "Burley" Men's Personal Care Products, Dial soap and deodorants, the Verex Corporation (the 2nd largest insurer of residential home mortgages in the U.S.), Treet Canned meats, La Sauce food products, Greyhound Manufacturing Corporation (the largest manufacturer of inner-city buses in the U.S.), Greyhound Temporary Personnel Agencies, Appian Way Pizza, the Pine Top Insurance Co., over 400 cafeterias, coffee shops, and fast food restaurants, Traveler's Express Money Orders (sold in over 23,000 retail outlets), and (last but not least) the Greyhound Financial and Leasing Corporation.

How is Greyhound doing financially this year? We have information for the first 3 quarters (through Sept. 30, 1983). Net Income is up from last year in this period, $81.28 million as compared to $79.41 million. Furthermore, Greyhound is selling its Armour Meats division this month for a cool $166 million. Despite this less than dismal picture, Greyhound demanded that its bus drivers take a 22.7 percent wage cut in the first round of bargaining this year, which would reduce wages from $27,437/yr. to $21,208/yr. What self-respecting worker, whether he or she belongs to a union or not, would willingly accept an arbitrary wage cut of 22.7 percent? How would you feel if your parents had to swallow such a pay cut? Mr. Teets, the Chief Executive Officer of Greyhound has not offered to reduce his salary, which for the past year clocked in at $614,000 or $11,807 a week.

The real reason why Mr. Teets and Greyhound want to take away so much from the workers is not because of declining competitive position, as we have documented in the figures which disclose that their net income is up for the first three quarters. One has to look elsewhere. For instance the Greyhound Financial and Leasing Corporation, which is the money-lending arm of the corporation, has lost $12.9 million already this year on operations which have nothing to do with the bus service. I defy anyone to prove that there is any information in the public domain which shows that the bus service of Greyhound is losing money. Even if it were, the parent corporation could cover the losses. There must be other reasons for busting the union. Remember that Greyhound is selling off its Armour Food division. Well, the company discloses (in its current Standard And Poor Corporation Reports) the meaning of this sale, please read on:

"13 Armour facilities operated under a master agreement with the United Food and Commercial Workers Union representing employees at such facilities would be closed by Greyhound on December 17. Conagra (the new owner) would complete the transaction at that time and reopen the plants with a new workforce." The intention is for the workforce to be non-union.

It is clear from such statements that Greyhound is out to bust not one, but two unions. Again, please note that when wages fall in any area there is a depressing effect in other areas (students of microeconomics can verify this). When students support striking drivers by refusing to ride Greyhound this holiday intercession they are protecting all workers 'wages – including their own and their families.' If our country can care about Lech Walesa and Solidarity in Poland it can support our own people, right here.

Gerry Scoppettuolo is a UMass graduate student

Letters

Holidays should be for all

To the Editor,

On December 4th at 7 P.M., Mary Lyon Dorm had a "Holiday Party" in the main lounge, which was not advertised beforehand. However, I was told by an R.A. that a Chanukah Menorah would be lit at the party, along with a traditional holiday celebration.

Well, I stayed for the entire party. The lounge was decorated with a Christmas tree and Christmas ornaments. Many residents were gathered around the piano singing religious Christian songs like Silent Night and Come All Ye Faithful. Even the cookies served were in the shape of Christmas trees.

But the main point is that no Chanukah Menorah was symbolically lit, or even present-beside the ever so obvious and decorated Christmas tree.

This year is not termed the Year of Civility. And this year Mary Lyon Dorm is mainly supervised by the R.A.'s, rather than a Head of Residence. Do these R.A.'s need to be reinforced of their training in order to be sensitive and fair to people of all religious beliefs?

The purpose of a "holiday party" in a dormitory is to celebrate all holidays that occur during the winter season. No one should have to feel out of place at a dorm event.

Tracy Hatch
Northeast

D.C. eaters gets a raw deal

To the Editor,

As a UMass student, I am pleased that the University Food Service has taken such a strong stand against food waste. Hopefully the measures taken by students and staff will help to reduce food costs and our board-plan bills. In my opinion, the University Food Service provides an interesting and adequate fare, and I do not like to see food, labor and money wasted. However, I have found that some foods are consistently undercooked. The hot-dogs are often unintentionally served raw, and therefore inedible. Students cannot bring the food back, as they have already eaten some of it.

This is an aspect of food waste that the University Food Service has apparently overlooked. I hope corrective measures will be taken to prevent continued food waste.

Patrick Mahoney
Sylvan

No one should be left out

To the Editor,

First, I would like to apologize for your left out feelings during this festive time of year. It is unfair that anyone should feel like this. However Christmas is the holiest day of the year in the Christian Faith. Regardless of the commercial build up it has developed into. Do you find it unfair that we should spend the holiest day with our families, as the Jewish Faith did during Yom Kippur, and Rosh Hashanah in September? You also make a gross generalization by stating that "people" don't acknowledge other holidays. I personally have many Jewish friends, and during Hanukkah, we lit the Menorah. The "people" that do not acknowledge other holidays are the advertisers and businesses. It angers me also, that the businesses have lost the true meaning of Christmas. However I don't think you should be angry at people because they wish others a "Merry Christmas", it is tradition, as other religions have traditions. Dayna, Happy Holidays.

Elizabeth MacDonald
Amherst

Board of Editors

Editor in Chief	Joel Myerson
Managing Editor	Ray Beauchemin
Production Manager	J.P. Shanahan
Business Manager	Andrew May
Editorial Page Editor	Joshua Meyer
News Editor	Anne McCrory
Women's Issues Editor	Michelle Hyde
Women's Issues Editor	David Summersby
Arts Editor	Doug Muise
Arts Editor	Lisa Mosley
Black Affairs Editor	Yadira Betances
Sports Editor	Gerry deSimas
Photo Editor	Drew Ogier

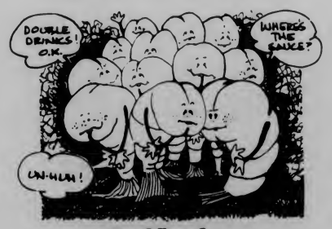
Letters for publication must be signed and include the writer's address and telephone number for verification. Please type triple spaced with 67 characters per line. Due to space limitation and the volume of mail, we regret that unpublished letters cannot be acknowledged. Letters are subject to editing for clarity, and should not exceed thirty lines.

The Distinguished Visitors Program
presents
Betty Friedan
speaking on
"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"
Monday December 12, 1983
8:00 P.M. Bowker Auditorium
»»»» Free ««««



Christmas Sale
All "E" priced albums are only $6.00
- also -
TDK SA90s are only $2.75
Sale ends the last day of classes.
UNION RECORDS UNLIMITED

LAST CHANCE to place any advertising
in the Collegian
(classified or display) is on Wed. Dec. 14
by 3:45 P.M.

LOVE ★★★★ STORY
Tonight Dec. 8
in Hasbrouck 124
at
7, 9, & 11 p.m.
$1. admission
THE MOVIE
sponsored by Governor's Program Council

AN
A·PEELING
OFFER!

12 Shrimp
ONLY $1.95*
*During Carbur's Famous Happy Hour
Monday thru Thursday 4 to 6 p.m.
and Sunday evening 9 to 11 p.m.
CARBUR'S
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
at The Elmwood•Route 9•Hadley, Ma.
(413) 586 1978

Budweiser.
KING OF BEERS.

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

Five on Five Basketball Last Chance

Entries were due November 28, 1983 there are at present, a few slots remaining.
215 Boyden Building, 545-2683. 0022, Men, Women, Co-Rec
Play begins February 1, 1984, managers meetings are scheduled for the 13/14 December 6 pm. Officials clinics are scheduled on the 13/14 December at 7 pm. Managers should attend at least one of the scheduled meetings. Schedules will be issued at this time.

Basketball officials needed: Applications in Office

Volleyball Playoffs and Racquetball Playoffs are in progress.

Three on Three Champions are:
Women: The Whips: Judy Bryant, Diana Gendron, Joanne Gregory, Karen Tsoulas. Beep and Sick-Chicks second and third respectively.

Men Three to Beat: John Crowley, Tom Cioppa, Duck Grange, Troy Turner. Second place Unity, third Friends of Fred

ICE HOCKEY
Applications for the winter session are now being accepted. Rosters are due not later than 8 December 1983 Entry fee is $350. per team. A $25.00 deposit is required. Play begins February 1, 1984 Goalie equipment is supplied. Ice time is limited.

GENUINE GENUINE
this Bud's for you!

Arts

Nothing bugs the Roches

Suzzy talks about her music and herself

By PETER WISSOKER
Collegian Staff

"I don't think that we'd be making the same music (If we were men). We would probably be very different." But they aren't men and very different. Who are they? They are Maggie, Terre and Suzzy Roche. They'll be coming to the Calvin Theatre tomorrow night. They'll be playing songs that they've rehearsed since last May.
The tour will only last a week and they say that there will be some "new things" when they come to the Calvin. What are these things? "Maybe they should be a surprise" says Suzzy.

Suzzy said that they rehearse every day from about noon until 5 p.m. "It's just like going to a job." Do the Roches socialize together when not in the studio? "We don't do out together, we don't really have to see each other more than we do". The group has a working relationship with guitarist/producer Robert Fripp who produced and played on their first and third albums. Suzzy said that Fripp usually will play something and then ask if they like it or if it feels right. Terre, Maggie and Suzzy all help Fripp mix the album (or visa versa).

Suzzy has a daughter, age two, who is taken care of by both a school and by friends. "I wish I had taken a course in daycare," she said. Unlike Tina Weymouth she won't be taking her on the road. Does the comparison with the Talking Heads end here? No. The Roches are the Talking Heads of that acoustic folk genre. Their songs are really intelligent and witty (I say this, not Suzzy, although she does say that she likes all their songs) and they don't all sound alike. On their last album Keep on Doing there's everything from the "Hallejuliah Chorus" to "Losing True" one of the saddest happy songs you'll ever hear.
Some of the songs on that album have Bill Bruford listed in the credits as percussionist, but Suzzy says that he's way back in the mix so you really have to listen for it. I've only been able to find him playing triangle on one song.

Other Cool things that Suzzy said:

Q: Are you tired of people telling you that you're cute and sweet and that kind of stuff?
A: I don't really care what people say. They can say whatever they want.
Q: Did you go to college?
A: I did. I had a great time. I went to an acting school and I never graduated but I learned alot.
Q: What are the words to "Sex is for Children"?
A: They're from an A.A. Milne poem, "Timothy Tim has ten big toes . . ."
Q: Which voice is yours?
A: Mine is kind of in the middle.
Q: On the songs you write with Terre on the last album; how do you come up with them?
A: We write everything together. Each song really happens differently. Sometimes somebody will have a piece of a tune, an idea or something, but it's pretty jointly done.
Q: What have you done with the money you've made?
A: Lived . . . I consider myself very fortunate.
Q: Have you ever thought of doing an electric tour, with the electric guitars and drums and stuff?
A: We're not very traditional, you know, I don't think we'd ever have a traditional rock and roll band.
Q: Do you think that Keep on Doing was overproduced in comparison to the first album?
A: It was overproduced? (Surprised) No we really like the way it came out.

Maggie, Suzzy and Terre: Folk's foremost serenading siblings.

Maralis shakes jazz world

By DAVID CHEVAN
Collegian Staff

There are times when all the literature you read about a musician is worth little more than the paper it is printed on because when you get right down to it, it's the music that really counts. Wynton Marsalis is one of those few. At 22, Marsalis' sound is one of the hottest among today's jazz musicians.

Born in 1961, Marsalis is the son of Ellis Marsalis, a highly respected jazz pianist. At age six he already had his first trumpet, given to him by his father's employer, Al Hirt. But it wasn't till he was about 12 that he really got involved with the instrument, and by the age of 14 he was playing the Haydn Trumpet Concerto with the New Orleans Philharmonic.

All the time he was practicing his technique, he was listening. In a recent interview Marsalis identified some of his earliest roots. "As for me, in high school I listened to funk for a long time - people like King Curtis - but later I began paying attention to jazz: Charlie Parker, Cannonball Adderley, and then I went on the road with Clark Terry's band, someone told me about Wayne Shorter. I learned every solo off every album Wayne had done for Miles. John Coltrane was a very recent discovery for me." As a result, Marsalis was playing with Art Blakey when he was 18 years old.

In soloing Marsalis makes use of the entire history of the jazz trumpet. Some of the players that he lists as major influences include: Miles, Freddie Hubbard, Lee Morgan, and Louis Armstrong. This becomes apparent upon listening to any of his solos on either of Wynton Marsalis' two jazz albums on Columbia, including the recent Think of One. The maturity of his playing lies mainly in Marsalis' ability to synthesize all these artists into his sound. While there are moments when he may sound like a particular artist, the overall feeling is his own, not something one can say of most young musicians. In addition to his recent jazz recordings, Marsalis recently recorded his first album of classical music.

Wynton Marsalis and his group, featuring his brother Branford on tenor and soprano sax, will be appearing Sunday night at the Fine Arts Center. Opening will be Ramsey Lewis, also a major figure in the jazz world. So if you're free Sunday night, I'd recommend this unique opportunity to catch a rising young jazz musician, and let the music do the talking.

live wire
by David Chevan

As finals approach we have less time for frivolity and the like, which is as it should be, but forget not the adage of all work and no play...This weekend features some good music in the clubs and a special concert Sunday night. Tonight the Bongos will be at the Bluewall. I don't know why everyone insists upon identifying this group as new wave, they play some of the most creative pop on the market, including the very funny "Nothing Bad Ever Happens to Me." Tomorrow night the Roches, an oft-celebrated and semi-successful modern sibling folk trio will perform at the Calvin; opening is local pianist Steve Schoenberg. At the Iron Horse you can find Claire Arenius and her jazz group, and the Rusty Nail plays host to Sal Baglio's Stompers.

Saturday night Dead Heads should swing by the Rusty Nail for an evening of Max Creek. Julie and the Flashers will be performing at Sheehan's Cafe.

Sunday night pianist Ramsey Lewis and trumpet player Wynton Marsalis will front their respective groups and the Fine Arts Center. Wynton's no electronics, no gimmicks approach to jazz has created something of a stir in the jazz world. Even Miles Davis writes commercial music, but Marsalis' level of integrity is unquestionable, here's an opportunity to hear why.

And now--the Great Holiday Trivia Contest and Album Giveaway! There are ten questions, answer as many as you can and send your answers to Trivia Contest, Arts Desk, UMASS Daily Collegian, Rm113, Campus Center, UMASS. We will award prizes to first, second and third place entrants as well as special prizes for creative guessing on questions you don't know. Basically, it's gonna be very hard to lose. All entries must be in by 12:00 noon, Wed. Dec. 14 and must include a local phone number so we can contact you. Good Luck.

1. Joan Jett belonged to what group before going solo?
2. Who performed the original version of the Linda Ronstadt hit "Tracks of My Tears?"
3. Lenny Pickett is currently touring with David Bowie and playing some very mean sax licks, what group did Lenny originally belong to?
4. What artist regularly used the Band as his backup group during the sixties and early seventies?
5. a. Who was the Beatles first manager?
   b. Who was the Beatles first drummer?
6. Who wrote the Monkees smash hit, "I'm a Believer?"
7. What's the name of Rick James' new all woman band?
8. The supergroup Asia is made up of famous players of famous bands, name these players and the bands they belonged to.
9. Who had the hit "Hello, Its Me?"
10. Before Diana Ross had a hit with the song "Aint No Mountain High Enough" a duet turned it into a number one soul smash, identify both halves of this duo.

Beachcomber Tours
presents
DAYTONA
Spring Break '84
Trip Info Meeting
- TONIGHT -
Rm 904 Campus Center at 8 PM
Everyone Welcome
FREE SUN TAN LOTION

OOPS!
Now's the time to call
North Amherst Motors
Expert repairs & reconditioning.
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

ST. PAULI GIRL lt. or dk. 6 pk.... $4.45 + dep.
CALGARY 6 pk.... $3.50 + dep.
STEINHAUSER 6 pk.... $4.25 + dep.
BUD suitcase.... $10.95 + dep.

BEAUJOLAIS VILLAGES NOUVEAU
750 ml.... $4.50
JIM BEAM litre.... $7.99
CANADIAN MIST litre.... $7.99

C & C LIQUORS
61 MAIN STREET
"Across the street from Plumbleys"

The Adelphia Theater, Film & Production Company is proud to present

The Play . . .

★ STARRING ★

Starting from back row (left to right)
Peter O'Claire
Lisa Lanzarotto
Karl Askins
James Belisle
Gary Rubin
Darlene Rose

"One Day Last Summer"

-A True Love Story - Directed by Louis J.P. Rivers IV

January 20 & 21 Curtain Time: 7p.m.

Springfield Symphony Hall

Ticket Cost:
$5.75 - Orchestra
$4.75 - Loge
$3.75 - Balcony

Tickets in advance may be purchased from
Gary Rubin
714 Grayson, Orchard Hill
546-7049

Or send to:
Adelphia Theatre Film & Production Co
PO Box 477, Ludlow, MA 01056
add 20 cents for postage

Tickets may also be purchased the nights of the show at Symphony Hall

Hypercurricula

"BUILD RESISTANCE TO FBI REPRESSION" - An evening of discussion about building resistance to Grand Jury and FBI repression. Grand Jury resistor Eve Rosahn will speak. All are invited to participate. 7:30 p.m., Campus Center Rm 811

HILLEL COUNCIL MEETING - 6 p.m., Dukes Room, S.U.

BROWN BAG THEOLOGY - Rev. Robin L. Harden facilitates dialogue on "The Day After". Everyone is invited to bring a lunch and join the discussion. 12:15 p.m., 428 Student Union

STERILIZATION ABUSE: FILM & SPEAKER - Panna Putnam from the Everywoman's Center will discuss sterilization abuse and the film "L'Operation" which reveals the situation in Puerto Rico will be shown. 12-1:30 p.m. CC 903

INTERVARSITY CHRISTMAS DINNER - Come out in holiday dress for dinner, a movie, and Christian fellowship! Proceeds from the $5 charge will go to College Church's Bibles for India project. (RSVP: 253-9487), 5 p.m., First Baptist Church, Amherst.

CONCERT: UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS YOUTH WIND ENSEMBLE - 7 p.m., Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall.

SPECIAL SHABBAT SERVICES - A special Shabbat service to thank and honor graduating seniors. 7 p.m., Dukes Room, S.U.

KABBALAT SHABBAT - Creative welcoming of the Shabbat. 6:30 p.m., 72 Triangle St., Amherst

WOMYN'S SOCIAL GATHERING - An evening of music, dance, conversation and fun! Coffee, cocoa and tea provided free. Join us for a good tyme! 7 p.m.-midnight, Commuter Lounge across from the Hatch.

CASE OF HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATION - Bahai Persecution in Iran today. Showing segment of 20-20 concerning the Iranian Bahais. Speaker: Kavous Monadjemi. Refreshments will be served. 8 p.m., 168C Campus Center

MEETING/FILM — "Utter Chaos," followed by the voting of constitution no. 8. Followed by "Film Star Wars Trilogy." 7 p.m., Machmer W-26.

Pursuing A Career In The Arts?

The Fine Arts Center has internships available in the following areas:
ARTS MANAGEMENT
CONCERT HALL MANAGEMENT
PUBLICITY
PRODUCTION SERVICES

For more information, call the Internship Office 545-0727

FUNDING FOR INDIVIDUAL PROPOSALS

umass Arts council
545-0202

The deadline for the next UMass Arts Council funding period is Feb. 8, 1984. Applications may be picked up in Herter Hall 125, Monday through Friday, 9-5.

1984 FUNDING PERIODS

Period 3 Proposal deadline--2/8/84
Council vote--2/14/84

Period 4 Proposal deadline--3/30/84
Council vote--4/10/84

Period 5 Proposal deadline--4/30/84
Council vote--5/14/84
(for Sept. '84 events)

TRADING PLACES

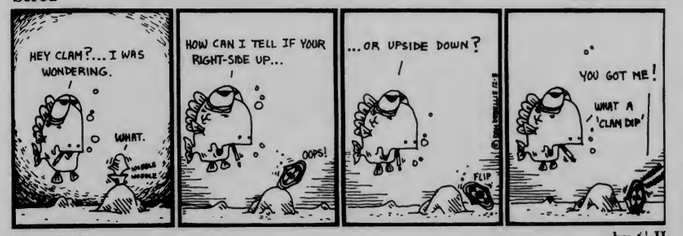
★★★Dan Akroyd★★★

★★ Eddie Murphy ★★

Friday, Dec. 9th
5:00, 7:00, 9:00, 11:00

all shows $1.50

To be shown at
Mahar Auditorium



Presented by the Central Area Council and the Northeast Area Government

IN SPITE OF REAGANOMICS
Career opportunities are continuing to develop in
PUBLIC HEALTH
The Division of Public Health at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, Massachusetts will be holding an OPEN HOUSE
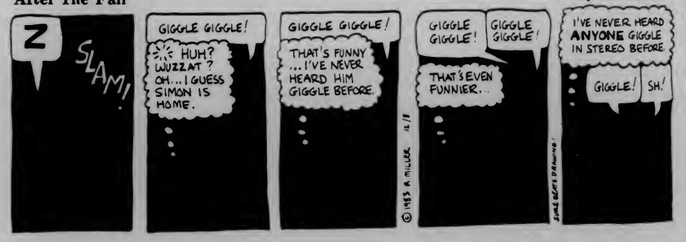
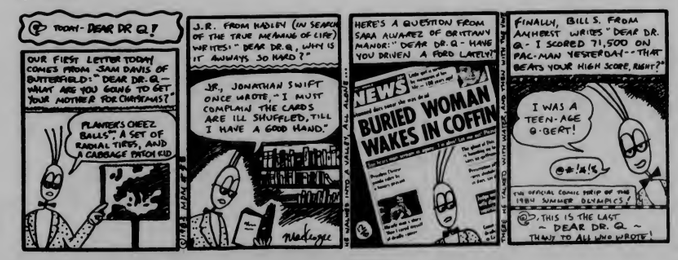
for students interested in master's and doctoral programs in:
Biostatistics
Community Health Education
Environmental Health
Epidemiology
Health Administration
Public Health Nutrition
Friday, December 9, 1983 at 10:00 a.m. in Room 904 of the Murray Lincoln Campus Center
Meet Faculty and Students All Are Welcome
For more information call or write:
Robert W. Gage, M.D.
Graduate Program Director
University of Massachusetts
Division of Public Health
Amherst, MA 01003
(413) 545-1317

Bloom County by Berke Breathed



Scrod Dan DeBellis

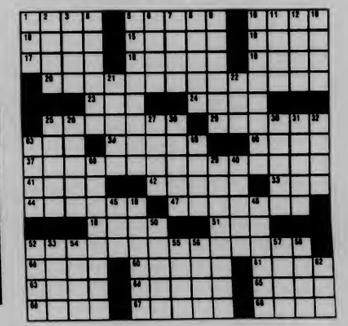
Superbad by G.H.



After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

Quentin by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Sounds from the kennel
5 Intone
10 Employs
14 On the briny
15 Mechanism
16 —— me tangere
17 Spent
18 Heath
19 Family unit
20 Creator of Gunga Din
23 Many many years
24 Snick's partner
25 Reading
29 Dreiser's "Carrie"
33 Mississippi or Missouri: Abbr.
34 Keepsake
36 Ancient money box
37 Creator of Charles Primrose
41 Greek letter
42 "Cookery has become ——": R Burton, 1621
43 —— relief
44 Market areas
47 Moved in masses
49 Genus of sheep
51 Aromatic leaf
52 Creator of Maud
59 Spanish-American money
60 "I am the ruler of the Queen's ——!"
61 City on the Hudson
63 Baseball family
64 Disney's middle name
65 Regarding
66 Klimt and Kirman
67 See 1 Across
68 Small coin

DOWN
1 Swerve off course
2 Ancient stringed instrument
3 Land of the llama
4 Device for floor renovation
5 Household item
6 Munich man
7 Ardent
8 Narrow margins: Slang
9 Prepares
10 National symbol
11 Songs for Pavarotti
12 Joie de vivre
13 Choral performance
21 "—— the cream in my coffee"
22 American architect
25 Person at the helm
26 Long-playing musical
27 Pond growth
28 Circus performers
30 Huron or Erie
31 Outward
32 Sounds in the stadium
33 Louis XV and XVI
35 Type of hammer
38 Marked by bravery
39 Dull state
40 Wander
45 Timetable abbr.
46 Actor Poitier
48 Seaport in Connecticut
50 Word with mate
52 Shebat follower
53 Alban Berg opera
54 Kermit
55 Wicked
56 Type of tide
57 River into Bay of the Seine
58 Norse goddess of fate
62 For the present

COLLEGIAN STAFF

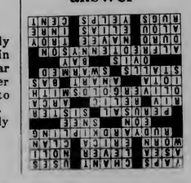
MANDATORY MEETING TONIGHT AT 7:00 pm. NEWSROOM

Many important issues to be discussed, including Ray's tearful departure. Hankies will not be supplied.

DC Menu

LUNCH
Cold Cut Grinder
Shells in Cheese Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
Vegetable Taco
Shells in Cheese Sauce



DINNER
Baked Chicken
Supreme Sauce
Cranberry Sauce
Ratatouille
Spinach and Mushroom Quiche

BASICS DINNER
Baked Chicken
Supreme Sauce
Cranberry Sauce
Ratatouille

Weather

Today, partly cloudy with high temperature in the 30s. Tonight, clear with lows in the upper teens to mid 20s inland to near 30 along the coast. Friday, becoming cloudy with highs 35 to 40.

Todays puzzle answer

TONIGHT
Hear the new music of Rack-A-Disc
Requests Welcome
Two For One 9 til 11
- All Liquor Drinks -
No Cover
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27
TRIP INCLUDES:
5½ DAY LIFT TICKET — SUN - FRI
5 NIGHTS LODGING — HOTEL OR CONDO
MEALS (ALL DINNERS & CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST) — HOTEL ONLY
ENTERTAINMENT: FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
HOT TUB PARTIES, LONG UNDERWEAR PARTIES
TURTLE RACES, FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES NASTAR RACES
SUGARBUSH COUPON BOOK, ECT, ECT.
HOTEL PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $184
CONDO PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $189
FIRST 100 PEOPLE TO SIGN-UP WILL BE ELIGIBLE FOR A FREE TRIP
LAGNAF 84
FOR MORE INFO 545-3437 430 STUDENT UNION

Scott's TREE FARM
Sunderland, MA
take Rt. 47
to 252 Hadley Rd.

Christmas Trees
Balsam Fir $12.
Scotch Pine $14.
Wreaths $4.
665-4791

★ womens track

Continued from page 16

people in meets and qualify more for the Easterns," said Banda.

Junior co-captains Leah Loftis and Maureen O'Reilly are the leaders of the largest women's track roster yet at UMass - a group that includes more than 27 names.

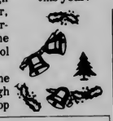
Loftis was the number one runner for the team last year, setting school records in the 400 and 440 sprints, finishing number one in New England in the 400, and placing third in the East in that event.

Also covering the shorter distances for UMass will be Deborah Smith who may have the best raw talent on the team and needs only more experience in order to score consistently.

Freshmen Barbara Cullinan and Susan Goldstein finished two and three among New England high-schoolers last year in the 400. They will join Loftis and Smith to form a strong mile relay team.

Two other freshman sprinters to watch for are Kayla Morrison, Connecticut high school champ in the 100 meters last year, and Coni Anderson, a native of Northampton who last spring captured the Western Massachusetts High School Championship in the 100 meters.

Sharon Lassard of Westfield was the Western Massachusetts champ in the high jump last year and finished in the top three in New England.



Freshman Julie Ott, from New York State, could be a surprise in the mile where she will be joined by Deidre Doyle, Sally Howes, Eileen Kelly, and Chris Pratt, who are rested up after an exciting cross-country season.

While Coaches Banda and LaFreniere were busy with their respective fall sports, Curtis Pittman, newly arrived from Kent State University was busy training some of the throwers and jumpers.

"Curtis has been a great help to the team," said Banda. "The people he has been working with are all in good shape."

Sophomore Liz Patterson will be heaving the shot-put, an event she holds the school record in, and may also throw the discus.

Colleen Dawkins improved much during last season in her specialty, the javelin - she should be a strong challenger again this year.

Sports Notices

Women's Lacrosse Mandatory meeting on Dec. 13, 1983 in room 153 in NOPE at 5 p.m. All must attend.

Intramural officials needed for men's, women's and co-rec basketball. Meeting on Dec. 13 or 14 at 7 p.m. in Boyden 215.

There will be a manager's meeting for all team's registered to play intramural hoop on Dec. 13 or 14 at 6 p.m. in Boyden 215. Season starts on Feb. 1.

The First General Meeting of people concerned about the Draft and the Solomon Amendment will be at 7:00 P.M. in the Suffolk Room in the Student Union Come before it's too late! Everyone welcome! For more info: call Dan at 549-1233, 545-0487

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

A Classroom Change Can Do Wonders For Scholarship
- earn a semester's college credit
- cruises in marine biology, marine affairs, oceanography & navigation
- sail on a tall ship
- take a significant scientific contribution

Class 84-2: 12 Feb. - 9 May 1984 • Class 84-3: 30 Apr. - 20 July 1984
Caribbean - Gulf of Maine — Gulf of Maine
Study the ecology of coral reefs & open oceans — Study haybacks & right whales feeding community interactions

Mail this coupon to us

Ocean Research and Education Society
19 Harbor Loop • Gloucester, MA 01930 • (617) 283-1475

Please send me information
☐ I am interested in Class 84-2
☐ I am interested in Class 84-3

Name
Address
School
City State Zip Phone( )
Home Address
City State Zip Phone( )
Your School

Christmas Cards, Wrap, and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of
The Student Union Building
Christmas Wrap & Trims

Discover the distinctive wrappings that make gift-giving a joy!
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

amc THEATRES
$2.00 MATINEE & TWILITE SHOW — REDUCED PRICES FOR STUDENTS & SENIOR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARDS
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 — MT. FARMS 4 584-9153

AL PACINO SCARFACE
Fri 2:45 @ 12:00 7:00, 9:00 Sat 12:30 & 2:45 @ 12:00 7:00, 9:00 Sun 11:30 & 5:00 @ 12:00 8:30

CLINT EASTWOOD SUDDEN IMPACT
Fri 4:45 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:45 Sat & Sun 11:30 & 4:15 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:56

In a cold world you need your friends to keep you warm.
THE BIG CHILL
Fri 4:45 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:30 Sat 12:15 & 4:45 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:30 Sun 12:15 & 5:00 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:30

DEBRA WINGER SHIRLEY MacLAINE Terms of Endearment
Fri 4:30 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:56 Sat & Sun 11:00 & 4:00 @ 12:00 7:00, 9:45

MICHAEL CAINE JULIE WALTERS Educating Rita
Fri 5:00 @ 12:00 7:30, 9:45 Sat 12:15 & 5:00 @ 12:00 7:30, 9:45 Sun 12:15 & 5:15 @ 12:00 7:30, 9:45

John Carpenter's CHRISTINE

A CHRISTMAS STORY
Fri 5:00 @ 12:00 7:00, 10:15 Sat 11:00, 3:00 & 5:00 @ 12:00 7:00, 10:15 Sun 11:00, 3:00 & 5:15 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:30

BARBRA STREISAND YENTL
Fri 4:30 @ 12:00 7:15, 9:56 Sat & Sun 11:00 & 4:30 @ 12:00 7:00, 9:45

MIDNIGHT MOVIE MADNESS FRI & SAT at 12:15 a.m.
AMC HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 — MT. FARMS 4
ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
BLADE RUNNER
The Who Quadrophenia
The Movie

Entertainment is the perfect gift! Gift Certificates available at the Theatre Box Office

Skins, Dallas set to battle

The game to watch this weekend, the game to watch of the season, kicks off from Texas Stadium in Irving, TX at 4 p.m. on Sunday as the Cowboys meet their arch-rivals Redskins with the division title and home field advantage at stake.

Dallas (12-2), which already owns a thrilling 31-30 win over the defending Super Bowl champions way back on Sept. 5, - the first week of the season - can win the division with a win. Washington (12-2) needs a win Sunday and in their finale against the Giants to win the title.

Both teams have already qualified for the playoffs and the home field advantage will be up for grabs here. The Skins rolled through the playoffs at home last year, but have trouble winning on the road. In the last 10 years, the Skins haven't won a playoff game on the road.

Dallas has won seven of the last eight games. Their only loss came in the NFC championship last year, where Dallas has lost the last three years in a row.

The 'pre-Super Bowl' as one paper called it, matches the league's top offense, Washington, and the Cowboys fifth ranked offense.

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

AAA STUDENTS AND THE DRAFT

Are you concerned?? Come to the first general meeting of students concerned about the draft and the Solomon Amendmant will be tonight at 7:00 in the Suffolk room in the Student Union, before it's late! Everyone encouraged to attend. For more info call 545-0487 or 549-1233

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1980 Mazda 626 38000 miles AM FM csst great shape 546-6033

1979 Malibu 4 door a/cond exc. body some motor prob. runs good 1800$ or BO Kathi 546-6492 must sell!

1976 Chevette autotrans great mpg all new under hood cassette/stereo exc cond $1695. 546-8739

77 Fiet 131S gold 5 speed newly tuned good shape taking BO 546-7637

1977 Suberu 4 wl drive standard just tuned up new brakes reliable 900 or BO call Bill at 546-5065

1975 Datsun 280 Z black 4-speed exc. cond. taking BO 546-8236

1965 Plymouth Valiant rebuilt motor good condition BO Jeff evenings 549-6935

CAMPUS REPS WANTED

Earn free trips and $ working on your campus for America's number one student travel organization. Call for full details. 212-355-4705. Or write Inter-Collegiate Holidays, 501 Madison Ave., NY, NY 10022

CHRISTMAS GIFT IDEA

Enamel Earrings in a handsome gift box, 6 pairs for $5. Call evanings Lisa or Mary Ann 549-7611.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackedisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Two persons wented to share room in Rolling Green apartment 256-0058

Townehousee - Large bedroom available for 1-2 people starting Jan. 1 with option to continue lease. Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

Apertment to rent Brittany Manor 2 br 256-0894

One bdrm Puffton Village availabia immediately with heat, cabla call 1-736-3760 after 6:30 p.m.

1 bedroom apartment loctaedright in Amherst Center. $385.00 par month - haat included. Take over lease January 1. Call evanings 253-5012

Two spaces in Brittany Manor Apt for spring semester starting in jan or Fab with option for next year. Call Dan or Steva 256-1280

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top nama running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10, Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Skis - K2 shorts, 195cm, barely used. Boots - Nordica Cosmos, size 10M, good condition 125 for both call Kim 549-6689, Dava 549-7755

New Polerold Cameres 2 models $15 to $20 call Glen 246-6456 Mike 546-6451

Volvo 68 very low mileaga ona ownar good condition call 549-7877

TI-59 Programmable Calc w/magnetic cards $160 reg. $250 TIPC100C printer fits TI-59 or TI-58C $140 reg. $200---546-6775 or 546-8475

Ski Boots Nordica Typhoon used 2 yrs size 9 good cond. Kurt 549-5897

Dorm Refrigeretor, 1.7 cu. ft., $90, 256-8412

Rolend SH-09 Synthesizer. Perfect condition unlimited sound ranga $250 call Mike 253-3971

Double bed, desk & dresser sold separately or togather 549-0505

Skis - Rossignol XP70 175 cm never used only $35! call 6-6177

1 to 3 twin beds - comfortable - please take them away $60 ea or BO Andy 665-7130

190 cm Rossignol St Competition w/Salomon 727 bindings $210 or BO 546-6032

1973 Saab good conditon many new parts must sell $950 or BO call 665-4801

•• WINTER GLOVES ••
All-Purpose makes a Great Gift
LOWEST price anywhere
call Dan 546-9146

FOUND

Found at Lib Tower Timex watch identify 6-7713

Watch found by bus stop across from FAC during week of 21 Nov. Contact D. Dunn at 549-1051 after 7 pm

Found!!! One pair of glasses outside Grad Research Center. Call 546-8352 to identify

HELP WANTED

Jobs for Intersession! Work for progressive social change with our political outreaching and fundraising staff. MASSPIRG has full time openings in Amherst, Boston and Worcester. Call Terry 256-6434

GMAT Instructor with high scores Springfield Kaplan 737-3788

Temporery full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

Production Manager - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challanging job in a student controlled business. Two year committment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in S.U. 403. Application due 12/12. AA/EEO 545-2271

The Collegian Graphics Dept. has openings for two graphics technicians to work days during the Spring Semester. Experience helpful. Apply this week in Room 105 CC between 9 am and 3 pm.

LOST

Squere cased watch brown strap lost near Boyden call Gail 253-3630

Key ring lost in or around Grad Tower, CC, or Cashin Friday aft. 12/2. Please call Dava 546-4046

Jeen Jacket taken from Justin Ryans Fri night had Bowie and Dead buttons reward Kim 546-9115

Lost red duffel bag w/Anthro books & notebooks please call Mike 6-9824 Reward

Metel Frame Glasses in black plastic case on Campus rewrad call 549-0498

MOVIE

Don't miss the movie classic, Love Story, tonight in hasbrouck 124 at 7, 9, 11 PM. $1 admission

PERSONALS

* College * Spring * Break ****
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe •
• Motor Coach Transportation •
•• ocean front accommodation7 night •
• • Welcome Party with FREE BEER •
Make reservations Now and Save $20
• Check out our teble in the •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*A B*E*A*C*H

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Intersession Housing. Any university women interested in living in SDT Sorority house during wintersession contact Sue G 545-0527 for more info

To a fasciat friend on her birthday from the best

To Jcobb - Howya dooin'? Ya look great. Can we talk? Lunch Tuesday? Greaatt! Supal - Lirosa

Belle Someone very special to me. Hope it's the happiest b-day ever!! And, G, I'm gonna miss you sooo much next semester. Love you always, MEI P.S. green flem, SOMC

Tom Melone well hera is your final clue. Taka all the previous clues with stars and revarse them

Beth Jezab! Happy Birthday, hope this year is as good as tha last! Love, Sue Leslee, Thinking of you. Always, Chris

SUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR
Sugarbush Valley
Ski & Party Week Jan 22-27
5½ day lift ticket — 5 nights lodging
hotel, with meals or condo
free beer & wine parties, hot tub party
long underwear party, turtle races
Nastar races, Sugarbush coupon book etc
Hotel Package only $184
Condo Package only $189
for more info call 545-3437 LAGNAF 84

Ski Powder Winter Break
Jackson Hole
Round trip airfare & transfers
transportation to & from airport
8 day - 7 night accomodations
gorgeous condos, wine & cheese party
hot tub party, beer slalom, free t-shirt
5½ day lift ticket for Jackson Hola
for more info call 545-3437

• Collegian Staff - Mandatory staff •
• meeting, Thursday, Dec. 8, 7:00 pm •
• in the newsroom. Topics include •
• intersession paper, new editors, and •
• a Christmas party •

To my Hun - since its your birthday, i should tell you, that I knew when you offered me your rice at dinnar that we were destined to be togathar! My turn to confess I kind of liked you too! Wanna be friends? 8442 Congrats! Hava a super day! I love you - your Hun PS happy 7th!

Sue Happy Birthday love always Scott

Help defeat R R in 84 Free transportation room meals to canvass in NH this weekend for Senator Alan Cranston for Presidant call Marty Farrero 253-2439

Augie - Happy Birthday. Let's all get busted again. --Captain Crunch and friends

Mr. Manzon I've been watching you!!

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, casas, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Syracuse anytime Friday please call Perry 6-7937

RIDERS WANTED

St. Pete for Xmas leaving 12/22 return 1/2. Want 2 responsible riders to share driving, ges. Jack 253-9237

ROOM WANTED

Responsible female looking for a room to share in Townehouse Brandywina or Puffton starting Jan 1 call Sue 256-1286

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female roommate needed spring semester Brandywina 549-0505

Looking for 1 female to share Brittany Manor apt starting Jan 1 call 253-3796

1 or 2 females needed for room in Southwood townehousa Jan 1st 256-0354

Woman needed to share lg bdrm in 2 bdrm Puffton apt. Rent $127/mo heat included. Call Terri 549-5845

Girl wantad for single bedroom in nice three bedroom housa. In South Deerfield on bus route 150 plus utilitias Kim 546-9115

Roommate needed for 302 Puffton Village $154 plus utilities call 549-6411 or 549-0937

Female non-smoking student to share Puffton 2 bed apt starting Jan 1, Edie at 545-2707 or 549-4869 leava message

One or two quiet males for spring sem in Brandywina 549-5416 Mike

Female roommate needed to share room Brittany Manor for spring 256-0358

Room available in 3 bedroom apt starting Jan 1 on bus route call 665-4896

Female roommate wanted to share studio apt Hadley 175.00 + tel not on bus rt. 586-3682 available Feb 1

Female roommate wanted for January to June. Nicely furnished apt in Brittany Manor. A quiet, sarious student preferred. Bevarly 256-1335

Female roommate wanted to share Townehouse apt Jan 1 nights 549-4781

Female wanted to share Southwood townhouse apt. 256-0463 Kathy

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondenca, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Typing Speciel $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

Underground Ski Repairs professionaly sharpen plane and wax skis price 12-15 call John 256-1419

SOFABED

Sofabed in fair condition for sale. $25 or best offer - you haul it away. Call 549-6305 between 12 am and 1 am

SSAM

State Student Association of Massechusetts is a statewide organization, creatad to represent students. If you are a student dependent on financial aid or a job for your education, come to the UMass SSAM Chapter meeting 8 pm Dec 12th in CC911 find out whar we're doing this yaar for you. Together wa can maka a difference.

STUDDED SNOW TIRES

Semperit 156SR13 tires plus Volkswagan wheels $40 call Bill Irvine 545-0733

TO SUBLET

Townehouse - single room available 12/23 - 1/30. Normally $150, will sublet for $100. Shelly 549-5990

Rooms for Intersession Amherst Center furnished $110 inclusiva two available 256-1083

2 bedroom apt on bus route $375/mo available Jan 549-6471

TRAVEL

*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*
T Don't be left behind T
O Join the FUN in the SUN O
N Daytona Beach is the #1 resort in N
I tha country for collega Spring Break I
G Trip Information Meeting G
H Campus Center Room 904 at 8:00 pm H
T FREE Sun Tan Lotion T
*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*Tonight*

WANTED

Buying Class Rings. Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Responsible person looking for space in apartment or house 546-1080 after 5

Still gotta get outta the dorms!! Looking for an apt or room in house please help! Call Sharon 546-5341 keep trying

Will take over lease on 1 or 2 bedroom apt starting Dec 23 or Feb 1 546-1080 after 5

Three engineering students need apartment for intersession in Amherst area. Call Mike 546-9426 or Steve 546-9403

Need sublet Puffton or Townhouse Tom 546-6590

Room available in house, January. On bus route, cheap rent. call Lisa 253-5893

Sports

More Sports on Page 14

It's the holiday season- Time for those Bowl predictions

RUSS WHINNEM

The Christmas holiday season is once again upon us and to college football fans that also means bowl season. It's therefore time for my second annual predictions. I have been told that my picks often show a certain infinite wisdom. Of course it has usually been said sarcastically.

COTTON BOWL

BYU 45 MISSOURI 21

BYU has this habit of breeding quarterbacks that keep breaking the previous one's records. This year it is Steve Young. Young has completed an amazing 71 percent of his passes with 33 touchdowns. Critics will argue that any quarterback who is allowed to throw on any down will complete a lot of passes and throw a lot of touchdowns. A bunch of NFL quarterbacks throw as much as Steve Young. They don't complete 71 percent or throw 33 touchdowns.

ALOHA BOWL

WASHINGTON 21 PENN. ST. 20

Even though the Huskies lost their chance to kick-off January 2nd they still have a shot at being another Washington team to win a bowl this year. That would make two, along with the Redskins in D.C. It could give the Gipper some braggin' rights.

LIBERTY BOWL

BOSTON COLLEGE 30 NOTRE DAME 17

There will be more cassocks and white collars in this crowd than anywhere since the choosing of the current Pope. It will also be the first and probably the last time I will ever root against the Fighting Irish.

PEACH BOWL

FLORIDA ST. 23 NORTH CAROLINA 19

There was a time when North Carolina was undefeated and ranked 3rd in the Nation. There was also a time when the Tar Heels had lost three straight and it was suggested that a season finale loss to Duke would warrent them wearing bags over their heads in this one. They came awful close.

GATOR BOWL

FLORIDA 27 IOWA 10

The Bowl carries the same title as Florida's team name. How can they lose?

CALIFORNIA BOWL

NORTHERN ILLINOIS 3 FULLERTON ST. 0

This one is guaranteed to create a whirlwind of blinding excitement. All eyes will, without question, be glued to the TV screen unless there is something of drastic importance on another channel--like a re-run of The Brady Bunch.

ROSE BOWL

ILLINOIS 24 UCLA 13

Here you have UCLA, a 6-4-1 team, in the biggest Bowl of all because it is PAC-10 locked. Some things in this world just don't seem right. Right, SMU?

HALL OF FAME BOWL

KENTUCKY 23 WEST VIRGINIA 21

Kentuck's Sam Bowie gives up his basketball comeback and joins the Wildcat football team as a designated kick blocker. It pays off when he blocks a last second game-winning Mountaineer field goal attempt. However, a new referee, officiating his first game since defecting from the NBA where he was on strike, loses his head and calls Bowie for goaltending. When order is restored the kicker is given another attempt but having had his concentration shattered by all the commotion, he misses anyway and Kentucky still wins.

HOLIDAY BOWL

TEXAS 24 GEORGIA 17

The Dawgs have proven there is life after Herschel. However, if Texas wins and no. 4 Miami upsets Nebraska the old arguement of who really should be National Champs will begin. The Longhorns will take care of their end.

ORANGE BOWL

NEBRASKA 35 MIAMI 21

Here's the scenario. Nebraska triumphs and has the Championship in their back pocket. Their flight home from Miami is then hijacked to Cuba. Texas is named number one and the Corn Huskers start a Cuban National team.

Collegian file photo by Tom Kudla

FLIPPING OUT -- Jim Corbett, a tri-captain for the Minutemen, led the squad (0-1, a loss to Army) against the University of Lowell last night competing in five of six events. Massachusetts travels to Syracuse on Saturday for another meet. The Orangemen will have to deal with Senior Bert Mathieson, who excelled for UMass against Army by winning the all-around title. UMass will not see the friendly confines of Boyden gym until Jan. 28.

AP Laserphoto

WHY ISN'T GERRY FAUST SMILING? Because Russ Whinnem picks B.C. over Notre Dame in the Liberty Bowl.

Veteran team returns

By M.E. MURRAY
Collegian Correspondent

The University of Massachusetts women's track and field team will kick off the indoor season this Saturday when they travel to the Hub to compete in the Boston University Relays.

"This could be our strongest team," according to Coach Kalekeni Banda, noting that a quick group of highly regarded freshmen are teaming up with some proven veterans.

Banda and assistant coach Julie LaFreniere expect to improve on last year's record which saw UMass finish among the top seven in New England indoors. "We're hoping to score more

Continued on page 14

Holmes will still fight- but only on his terms

PHILLIPSBURG, N.J. (AP) - Larry Holmes said Wednesday he will continue to fight - but only on his terms.

"I'm not going to quit and I'm not going to be forced to quit by any organization or by any promoter," said the 34-year-old unbeaten World Boxing Council champion.

"I will not honor my contract for Greg Page unless they increase the purse," Holmes said at a news conference at his hotel here. The agreement with promoter Don King calls for a $2.55 million purse for a Page fight.

Holmes has a contract with King to make a mandatory defense against Page, the WBC's No. 1-ranked contender, in February or March. If he doesn't, he certainly will be stripped of title recognition by the WBC.

But while challenging the WBC and King, Holmes also said he would go to Las Vegas Thursday and confer with Jose Sulaiman, WBC president, and King at the WBC convention at Caesars Palace.

Holmes, who last week said he might announce his retirement at Wednesday's news conference, is angry about WBC pressure to meet the Page commitment, noting that he has until March to fulfill that contract.

The champion, 45-0 with 32 knockouts, said early in the news conference that Murad Muhammad would be his exclusive promoter. But later he said Muhammad would serve as his agent. "If you deal with me, you have to deal with Murad," said Holmes.

He also said: "I'm promoting my own fights. I'm Don King with a haircut."

The fight Holmes seems to want most is one with South African Gerrie Coetzee, the World Boxing Association champion. But Wednesday he said that because of press criticism he would now fight Coetzee only in the United States.

Holmes also talked about possible fights with John Tate, the former WBA champion, and unbeaten Pinklon Thomas.

He mentioned a $4 million purse for a fight against Tate and $100 million for a Coetzee fight. Many boxing people consider both figures to be much too high.

Holmes was introduced at the news conference as "the heavy-weight champion of the world and also a businessman." The champion then made it clear boxing was, for him, strictly business from now on.

FINAL WEEK

Collegian NFL Picks

It is week 15 of the NFL season and this is the last week of the popular Collegian NFL picks for this semester. Going into the home stretch, Scott Hood holds a scant one game lead over Bill Shea in their dogged pursuit of the championship title.

Tony Betros is three games off the pace while Kevin Deluca and Gerry deSimas are vying for the right to stay out of the cellar. Last week, Hood, Shea, and Betros all went 10-4 with deSimas pulling a 9-5 and Deluca getting a 8-6.

The big game this weekend has to be the 4 p.m. Sunday duel between Dallas and Washington. Green Bay and Tampa Bay will be the Monday night game. A long streak of lopsided, boring Monday nighters continue.

	Shea (93-60)	deSimas (84-69)	Deluca (87-66)	Betros (91-62)	Hood (94-59)
Steelers at Jets	Pitt	Pitt	Pitt	Jets	Pitt
Falcons at Dolphins	Miam	Miam	Miam	Miam	Miam
Patriots at Rams	Pats	Rams	Rams	Rams	Rams
Saints at Eagles	NO	Phil	NO	NO	NO
Bears at Vikings	Chic	Minn	Minn	Minn	Minn
Browns at Oilers	Clev	Clev	Clev	Clev	Clev
49ers at Bills	Buff	SF	SF	SF	Buff
Seahawks at Giants	Seat	Seat	NYG	Seat	Seat
Lions at Bengals	Cinn	Detr	Cinn	Detr	Cinn
Chiefs at Chargers	SD	SD	KC	SD	SD
Cardinals at Raiders	LA	LA	LA	LA	LA
Colts at Broncos	Denv	Denv	Balt	Denv	Denv
Redskins at Cowboys	Wash	Dall	Wash	Dall	Dall
Packers at Buccaneers	GB	GB	GB	GB	GB

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 62 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Friday, December 9, 1983

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

JERRY IN THE CAGE -- The Jerry Garcia Band performed to a nearly sell-out crowd at the Amherst College Cage Wednesday night. The ten -- (or so) song concert, which lasted for two and a half hours was slow at first, more upbeat as the night went on, and extremely anti-climatic as the band left with no encore.

Fire suspect at large despite arrest warrant

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

A warrant for the arrest of a Moore House resident to be charged in the setting of a previously unreported fire in his dorm was still outstanding late last night, as calls to his room yielded no information of the whereabouts of the University of Massachusetts student.

John Campbell, a food and natural resources major from Stoughton, had not been apprehended at press time on a warrant obtained by State Trooper Jay Bowman from Hampshire District Court. Campbell is accused of "burning the property of another...exceeding the value of $25" in a carpet fire Monday in the Southwest co-ed lowrise, according to University spokesman Arthur Clifford.

Campbell will be the third student arrested on charges relating to the string of suspicious fires on campus this semester. Yvette Henry, a 20-year-old Crampton resident assistant and chemistry major, was arraigned Monday on charges of setting one of that dorm's 16 fires. Kent Bierly, a 20-year-old physical education major living in Cance dormitory, was charged Tuesday with ripping a fire alarm box from a wall in his residence during an early morning fire evacuation Saturday.

Both Henry and Bierly were immediately suspended following their arrest, but were granted a "modified" suspension Thursday which will allow them to attend classes for the rest of the semester.

Clifford said Henry, whose lawyer met Wednesday with Dean of Students William Field, will be allowed to attend classes though her "suspension is still in effect." Henry's "living arrangements will not be the same as prior to suspension," he said, and must be accompanied on campus by her mother or a friend approved by the University.

Both students will be allowed to finish academic obligations for this semester, though they have not been reinstated, Student Government Association co-President Tom Ahern said following meetings with Chancellor Joseph Duffey and Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis Madson.

Ahern said administrators defended their controversial suspension action by reiterating a press release issued Thursday.

The release states that University officials complied with "the provisions of the University Code of Student Conduct" by arranging Wednesday's meeting with Field to review the student's status. They now must arrange a University Discipline Board hearing. Such action is "standard University policy" when the University exercises its "responsibility and authority" in temporarily suspending students because of "an immediate threat to the safety, peace or well-being of the community," according to the statement.

But Discipline Board Chair John Brigham said Wednesday the board "meets to decide whether a suspension goes into effect and until a (hearing) is completed, the suspension doesn't operate."

"they (the administrators) do not have the authority they think they have," said Legal Services Office attorney Michail Pill, speaking in behalf of on of Henry's lawyers, LSO attorney Charles DiMare. "There is no such 'standard practice.' It's an after-the-fact effort to cover something outside their authority."

Ahern said administrators contended they had correctly followed the code of the Student Conduct. That document states: "Every case of disciplinary action involving a penalty of suspension or dismissal shall be heard by the (University Discipline) Board before becoming effective as a disciplinary action. This shall be so even when the Dean of Students shall have suspended a student, pending an appeal, upon reasonable presumption that continuance of this student would constitute an immediate threat to the safety, peace, or well-being of the University community."

The administration's statement also noted, "Because minor fires have continued on campus, creating a state of emergency, any individual found contributing to the problems will be considered for immediate suspension."

It was also announced Thursday that attorney Harry L. Miles of Northampton has been hired to work with DiMare on Henry's case, which will continue with a pre-trial hearing Jan. 26. Miles was Hampshire/Franklin County assistant district attorney from 1974 to 1978 and first assistant district attorney from 1979 to 1980.

Rape case conclusion still uncertain

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Hampshire District Attorney W. Michael Ryan said Thursday an announcement was forthcoming on whether or not charges would be dropped against a University of Massachusetts student charged in connection with a recent rape.

"I know what we're going to do, but I don't know if we can announce it until we do it," Ryan said about the case involving Michael E. Briggs, who was arrested Saturday night and charged with indecent assault and battery with attempt to rape in an incident at MacKimmie dormitory Saturday night.

William A. Norris, lawyer for Briggs, said charges have not yet been dropped against his client and is unsure whether or not they will be.

UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said Wednesday the charges would be dropped against Briggs, a MacKimmie resident from Oxford, Conn. and a starting offensive tackle for the UMass fottball team.

Ryan would not say whether or not Duffey's comments were accurate, but he did say it was "unusual" for a chancellor of a university to make such an announcement.

Duffey had said he had been told by a reliable source the victim "has requested the court to withdraw charges" against Briggs.

Ryan said he was "surprised Duffey made a statement about it." "I'm not sure where he got (the information), or why he published it."

Duffey could not be reached Thursday for comment.

While some speculation has been made on Briggs' charges, nothing has been said about the charges of rape against Clarence G. Hilton, 20, of Oxford, Conn., who was a weekend guest of Briggs'.

Ryan did say, however, the case could continue against one of them even if charges were dropped against the other.

Norris said it was a possibility charges would be dropped against his client.

"Whenever there is a crime against society, any crime, it is society who brings charges against someone, it's not just the victim," Norris said.

Society is the District Attorney and he has not made a decision yet, Norris said.

Porn institutions outnumber eateries

By ANNEMARIE MALEY
Collegian Correspondent

There are four times as many Adult book stores and peep show theaters in this country than there are McDonald's.

Playboy and Penthouse magazines each have a greater circulation in the United States than Time and Newsweek magazines combined.

These statistics were presented in Not a Love Story, a film about pornography sponsored Thursday night by the Women's Leadership Project, the Women's Issues Team, the Student Government Association and the Women's Forum Against Media Violence.

About 200 people, half of whom were men, crowded into Hasbrouk auditorium to watch the film.

Pornography has been the subject of the team's research this semester. "It's an important issue because it (pornography) is doing awful things to the images of women," said Turchinetz.

Valerie Singleton, a member of the team said, "Pornography represents violence against women and it perpetuates rape."

A study done in 1981 by two UMass professors found massive exposure to pornography tends to create callousness towards rape victims, and for women in general.

Team members said in pornography, violence, sex and love are equated and women often submit to and enjoy sexual acts of brutality, mutilation, and abuse and that this is dangerous because it perpetuates the myth that women actually want to be raped.

In a discussion after the movie, one woman said she felt like she was on the screen because men were in the audience.

"I just feel very caught," said another woman, "I've been working in women's organizations and talking about this issue for years. I'm feeling all this tragedy inside...so what do you do?"

Inside

Argentina now eligible for U.S. military aid.....p.2

Local restauranteur extends good cheer to Crampton residents.....p.5

Is there life outside of UMass?.....p.9

Male gymnasts chalk one up.....p.15

"Laws are like spider webs through which the big flies pass and the little ones get through."

-- Honore deBalzac

Digest

AP Laserphoto

LIVE PRACTICE -- Military police of the U.S. 82nd Airborne, stationed in Grenada, leave a live fire range by helicopter after completing target practice.

AROUND THE WORLD

Argentina may get U.S military aid

WASHINGTON (AP) -The State Department, citing "significant progress" in Argentina's human rights situation, announced Thursday that country has met congressional requirements for a resumption of American military assistance.

The announcement by department spokesman Alan Romberg came two days before Argentina's formal return to constitutional rule with the inauguration of President-elect Raul Alfonsin.

Vice President George Bush will head the American delegation to the inauguration.

Legislation dating back to the Carter administration barred U.S. security aid to Argentina unless the State Department was able to certify an improvement in human rights performance and in other areas.

The legislation was prompted by widespread abuses by Argentina's military government in its so-called "dirty war" against leftists. Thousands of Argentines disappeared at that time and remain unaccounted for.

US deployment detains dialogue

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Soviets today suspended talks on long-range nuclear rockets and bombers, saying new U.S. missiles in Europe made a "change in the overall strategic situation."

In Washington, President Reagan said he does not interpret the Soviet announcement as a "walkout" and indicated he might be willing to meet Soviet President Yuri Andropov for a summit to improve relations between the superpowers.

Reagan, speaking to reporters as he left the White House for a speech in Indianapolis, noted that the end of the Geneva talks on reducing long-range nuclear weapons was a "regular adjournment that was scheduled to take place."

AROUND THE NATION

Columbia returns after record voyage

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Six astronauts overcame broken equipment Thursday, fired Columbia's rockets and started a blazing descent to Earth with a cargo of science treasures gathered in a record 10-day shuttle voyage.

Touchdown on a dry lakebed at Edwards Air Force Base in California was set for 3:47 p.m. Pacific time but did not occur until 6:15 p.m. Eastern time. Landing weather was ideal, with light winds and only a few scattered clouds.

For the first time, a space shuttle approached its landing from the northwest. The glide path carried it over the Aleutian Islands of Alaska, across the U.S. coastline 80 miles north of San Francisco, directly over Fresno, then 20 miles east of Bakersfield and on into Edwards.

Columbia's return was delayed nearly eight hours after the craft experienced a powerful jolt and both a computer and a key navigational instrument failed.

Doctor will save life despite law

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — A psychiatrist reaffirmed his vow Thursday to force-feed a cerebral palsy victim rather than let her starve herself to death, even if it meant he was breaking a law.

Dr. Donald E. Fisher, chief of psychiatry at Riverside General Hospital, where Elizabeth Bouvia is being treated, said he was convinced the 26-year-old woman eventually will change her mind.

However, he also said he did not know how long he would continue to wait for her to have a change of heart.

Official requests civil disobedience

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Anthony S. Earl says civil disobedience and mass demonstrations may well be required for the nuclear weapons freeze movement to succeed in influencing government policy.

Earl delivered a guest lecture Wednesday at the University of Wisconsin in a course called "Perspectives on Nuclear War," and one student asked him about an apparent failure of the democratic process to influence policy on arms reductions.

"It apparently is going to take something more than we have done to date," Earl replied, "and perhaps it's going to have to take on the dimensions of what did happen in civil rights in the 1960s, and what did happen in the Vietnam War. What's happened to date does not seem to have galvanized enough support from those we elect."

Reagan orders end to "drug dens"

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — President Reagan declared Thursday that America's schools must be "temples of learning and not drug dens," and said he ordered the Justice and Education departments to find ways of helping schools "enforce discipline."

The president, in a speech delivered before an education summit of 2,300 teachers, school administrators, politicians, parents, and teachers' union representatives, called for stricter classroom discipline and unveiled a program of presidential academic awards.

He told the group he had ordered Justice and Education "to find ways we can help teachers and administrators enforce discipline."

On the flight from Washington, White House spokesman Larry Speakes, discussing Reagan's order to the Justice Department, said the department was looking for ways in which school principals can work with law enforcement officers to improve community support for school discipline.

AROUND THE REGION

AP Laserphoto

RUNAWAY BARGE -- A guardian helicopter hovers over this gasoline barge off Martha's Vineyard Monday. The vessel broke loose of its tug and drifted 30 miles before being recovered by the Coast Guard. None of its cargo leaked.

State representative reprimanded

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts House reprimanded Rep. James J. Craven for violating the state's conflict of interest law Thursday despite his charge that the move was politically motivated.

The Boston Democrat, the senior representative in the House, lashed out at Common Cause, a citizen's lobby which brought the issue to the attention of the House Ethics Committee.

"For much of the past decade this group has been devoted to removing me from office," he said.

Tree thieves profitable for scouts

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Crime pays for the Boy Scouts in this western Massachusetts college town who are turning a tidy profit on fines levied against thieves who steal their Christmas trees.

According to William Burke III, chief probation officer, between 18 to 24 of the scout's trees are pinched each year from their lot on the town green and the scouts average about $2,000 in court-ordered donations from tree thieves.

Bowie Kuhn remains until March

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Outgoing Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was given a second extension on his contract Thursday as major league owners, unable to find a successor, met formally for the first time at baseball's annual winter convention.

The extension will keep Kuhn in the commissioner's office until March 1, 1984. By that time, the search committee headed by Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig must find a new man.

"That's the latest date he will be there," Selig said, "and it comes from him frankly more than it comes from us." Kuhn has said he is anxious to pursue other commitments.

One leadership vacancy was expected to be filled Thursday, however. The American League was looking for a replacement for the retired Lee MacPhail, and Dr. Bobby Brown, former New York Yankees third baseman and noted Dallas heart specialist, was the heir apparent.

Transplant patient wants to hide

BOSTON (AP) -John Faragi, who received a new heart this summer after a public campaign raised money for the transplant, says he is growing a beard to help disguise himself.

"Wherever I go people say, don't I know you? Aren't you John Faragi?" he said. "I'm trying to get back to a normal life."

But Faragi added that without the publicity his case received he might not be alive today and he thanked the people of New England for pitching in money for his operation after his insurance company refused to pay for it.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Tami Borton
Copy Editor — Tricia A. Yacovone
Layout Technician — Stephen Anderson
Photo Technician — Drew Ogier
Production Supervisor — Mat Atkins
Production — Laurie Frank, Marsha Wilcon, Gail Tanzer, John Wielgus, Lynne Gottlieb, Martha Stevens, Jane Hirshberg, Joanne Gaudette, Ellen Waxman

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. ostmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Administration willing to resume negotiations

By JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

A meeting called by the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP) scheduled for Thursday to protest the University of Massachusetts administration's unwillingness to negotiate a contract with the union was postponed because of a renewed administration commitment to negotiation, a union spokesman said.

James Boylan, chairman of the UMass Journalistic Studies department and president of the Amherst chapter of MSP, said contract negotiations broke down last Friday, but "essentially we have a committment from the administration to continue bargaining."

Boylan said negotiations for the contract, which will effect about 1,200 faculty and librarians at the Amherst and Boston campuses, were 95 percent completed last Friday, when the administration resubmitted proposals from a Nov. 14 meeting, without considering union counter-proposals from a Nov. 22 meeting.

"We had been going very slowly, but at least we were making progress at that time," Boylan said. "We felt we were getting very close to an agreement."

Both Boylan and T.O. Wilkinson, dean of the school of social and behavioral sciences and a member of the University bargaining team, said talks will resume Monday.

The negotiations began in January, and union members have been working without a contract since June 30.

Boylan said he hopes the university negotiators continue to bargain the issues rather than take the position they did last Friday, but added that the union is setting aside next Thursday for a protest if talks show no progress next week.

Six important issues remain unresolved, Boylan said, including procedures for laying off and rehiring faculty. The union wants to ensure that these procedures and procedures for awarding merit pay and allocating educational needs funds are handled equitably, he said.

Retrenchment procedures, which entail "...terminating contracts so as to meet a financial emergency or eliminate a program," can be used as political tools, Boylan said. The administration's proposals leave the way open for targeting individuals in a retrenchment situation, and procedures for calling faculty back after a layoff leave the way open for denying tenure rights, he said.

The educational needs funds for research support are important because appropriations for professional travel in many departments are...chronically low, and the administration also wants to begin charging professors for computer accounts, Boylan said.

"We think the faculty could use this money to pay for what is free at other universities," he said.

Wilkinson said, "We (administration negotiators) have consistently had the union's proposals before us and have considered them very seriously."

"We're down to very critical issues on both sides and I hope we can come to agreement very soon," he said.

BOG requests permanency of Campus Center study space

By RALPH ROBERTS
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts Board of Governors member Jerry Quill spearheaded a motion last night to allow the Coffee Shop and some meeting rooms at the Campus Center to remain open until 11 p.m. weekdays permanently.

Originally, study space was taken away from the students because the University Store had to move into the Cape Cod Lounge while asbestos was removed from the store's usual sight.

To fill the study space void, the Coffee Shop and certain meeting rooms were opened to the students. The program has worked "swimmingly", (sic) and many members of the BOG would like to see it continue indefinitely, according to Quill.

Each student pays $84 a year for this building. I want to see them get their money's worth," Quill said.

While there were not enough BOG members present last night at the meeting to have a quorum, Campus Center Director William Harris said that there were reasons that the Campus Center administration had not carried the policy in the past.

"The final three weeks of every semester we open meeting rooms up to give the students additional studying space. But what makes this possible is that there are less meetings to prepare for at this season, and to keep some rooms open throughout the semester would create major hassles for the administration and the janitors," Harris said.

Besides not being able to clean rooms in time for meetings taking place on the following days, Harris also said that the potential policy would cause safety problems.

The janitors would have to keep a close eye on the rooms, and because the elevators are shut off at 11 p.m., the students' access to exits would be limited to the stairs, Harris said.

BOG Chair Mike Reilly said that Campus Center offered much more to the students than any other building on campus, and that if the Campus Center administration was against the idea of increasing the amount of study space in the Campus Center, then it was against excess revenue for the Campus Center.

"Students enjoy taking study breaks at the various food shops and the arcade in the Campus Center. This brings in a great deal of money for the Campus Center," Reilly said.

L. Scott Cohen, another BOG member, said, "The administration's argument is weak, because the new program, at status quo, is working magnificently."

GSS requests asbestos info

By SEAN CASEY
Collegian Staff

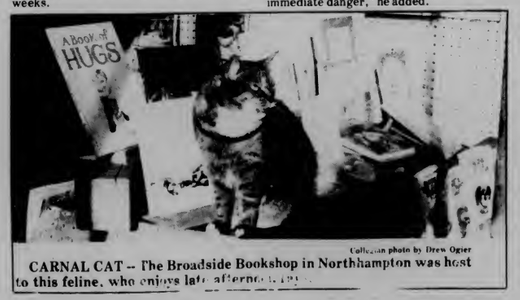
The University of Massachusetts administration was criticized last night by Gerry Scoppettuolo, associate director of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy (SCERA), for what he feels has been an inadequate flow of information on the presence of asbestos in the Campus Center.

"The University should have communicated more with the students about the issue," Scoppettuolo said.

"It's been the feeling of workers, students and other people on campus who are concerned that people should've gotten a memo on the subject," he added.

Scoppettuolo was addressing the Graduate Student Senate (GSS) on the asbestos which has been found in the ceiling of the Campus Center Concourse and the University Store.

Scoppettuolo said workers will start removing the asbestos in about three weeks.



After Scoppettuolo's presentation, the senate passed a motion requesting "that the Department of Environmental Health and Safety give detailed information with regard to the situation of asbestos in the Campus Center ceiling."

Scoppettuolo said that in a recent inspection by the state's Asbestos Commission, the ceiling tiles were found to have between 30 and 50 percent asbestos in them, which could eventually flake off and become airborn.

An air sample conducted on the concourse showed only background levels of asbestos, but Scoppettuolo questions the fact that only one sample was taken.

"I personally feel one air sample is not enough to accurately gauge the problem, but OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) says that the asbestos is bulk and not in the air," he said.

"I want to stress that I'm not saying anyone is in any danger now. The University's view is that there isn't any immediate danger," he added.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

CARNAL CAT -- The Broadside Bookshop in Northhampton was host to this feline, who enjoys lat[illegible]

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

AT IT AGAIN -- George Hubbard (left) was pictured last year taking down the snow fence he is now putting up in front of the Boyden playing field Wednesday. Assisting him is fellow UMass employee John Daley.

Dedicated donate to telefund

By VIRGINIA WARFIELD
Collegian Staff

Through an alumni money-raising operation known as Telefund, nearly 13,000 UMass alumni and parents have pledged $569,259 since July 1, said Larry Kocot, director of Telefund and assistant director of development for the annual fund.

"We expect to reach 55,000 people and $1 million in pledges by the end of our fiscal year," he said.

Such funding enables many programs and organizations at the University to exist, by supporting what University budget cuts must leave out.

Telefund, which began full-time operation March 15, is a phone/mail program which begins with an introductory letter and is followed by a phone request for a pledge.

"We employ about 5[illegible] students," he said. "Some are work-study and some aren't, but they are all the very best, and extremely committed."

Up to 24 callers may be at work during an evening; the phoning takes place Sunday through Thursday nights, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. A separate day-time staff handles the necessary organizational paperwork.

Telefund is part of the alumni Annual Fund, which last year raised about $740,000. Awards of $653,740 have been distributed among various academic affairs, student affairs, and chancellor's programs through the fund, Kocot said.

"We give money to various scholarship programs," he said, "as well as augment funding for the marching band and international programs. We raised $64,000 in pledges for the School of Management campaign, and a gift of $65,000 will go to the Barber Scholarship Fund for athletic scholarships."

Some of the pledge money is restricted to certain areas of donation, while the rest is unrestricted and may be awarded wherever it is needed.

Kocot said many of the student workers are dedicated because they are able to see the value of the money to the University as well as the value of their own educations.

He added that the donors are very loyal, too, and 89 percent of them renew their pledges.

"These people really care about the students and the university. They are able to see the worth of their educations in retrospect."

Kocot said recent graduates have been giving a lot more than older alumni and the average gift from the class of 1983 was about $50.

Before Telefund, Kocot said the alumni used to hold phonathons staffed by volunteers, but these were not as effective.

"There were too many alumni for the volunteers to handle, and still we couldn't reach all the people," he said.

Sterilization used to better economies

By MARY-SHEILA LOUGHLIN
Collegian Staff

A million Native Americans and Puerto Ricans a year are being used as "guinea pigs" for sterilization by the United States government, said the Third World Women's Task Force Coordinator of the Everywoman's Center at the University of Massachusetts, Thursday.

"One third of all Native Americans are sterilized in this country," said Pann Putnam who spoke as part of a lecture series sponsored by the Everywoman's Center and the Democratic Socialists of America.

Putnam said one reason the amount of sterilization is so high among Native Americans is because the government wants to reduce the population in the areas where they live, which are rich in coal and uranium.

"Women under 21 are threatened by the U.S. Government that Welfare funding will be taken away if they do not consent to sterilization," she said.

There are two methods used to control the population in Puerto Rico, Putnam said. The first is through forced migration of Puerto Rican people to the United States. The second is to subject women to the "most intensive sterilization policy in the world."

"In Puerto Rico the goal is to sterilize all women of childbearing age to control the population there," Putnam said.

"The number of Puerto Rican women sterilized reaches 35 percent and 92 percent of these women are under 35 years of age," Putnam said.

Putnam also said the U.S. forces sterilization in other countries.

"In India over 10 million women and men were sterilized, Putnam said. Sometimes bicycles and other gifts were offered to these people if they would consent to being sterilized."

She said in Bolivia the Peace Corps sterilized people without their even knowing it.

The U.S. gives reasons why population control is needed in the countries mentioned, Putnam said.

First the U.S. wants to increase the standard of living in the countries with population control.

Secondly, the U.S. says that it is our government's responsibility to offer better health care to these countries. It will be able to do this when there is a decrease in the population.

Third, the population must be controlled to maintain U.S. economic interest in these countries, she said.

Drug possessor arrested

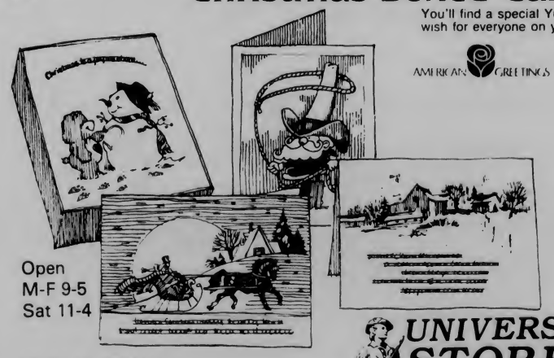
Amherst Police reported the arrest Wednesday night of a 23-year-old man, charging him with possession of a quarter gram of cocaine.

The man was cited by a community service officer in a car behind The Pub. He reportedly was seen imbibing the substance, and police were summoned. The cocaine was valued at $40.

A Brandywine resident reported the larceny of a television set Wednesday night. The TV was taken from the victim's apartment, police said, and no value was given.

An 18-year-old man from Thoreau dormitory was arrested Wednesday night and charged with possession of a falsified ID card. He was arrested at an East Pleasant Street establishment.

-- GREG BROWN



MUNCH-OUT AT MIKES
FRIDAYS
$1.00 will get you all you can carry
Beer and Drink specials too - Served Promptly at 5:30
MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE
Selection of salads
chicken wings, eggplant parm.
swedish meatballs
spanish rice, beef juliene
Bar-B-Que ribs
lasagna
Italian dishes cold cuts
and much more!

"HEADLIGHTS" LIVE!

TONIGHT
BLUE WALL AT UMASS
9pm - 1am
the Blue Wall
(moved from the S.U.B)
Adm. $2.50
18 year olds welcome
Dance!
This bash sponsored by:
25¢ Club & Commuter Area Govt.

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
sponsors:
Lacrosse Teams
Final Exam Jam
- support your team -
$1.00 donation at the door

KICKOFF LOUNGE
Movies Shown on Large Screen TV
food served all night

Christmas Cards are now available at the Ballroom of the Student Union Building
Christmas Boxed Cards
You'll find a special Yuletide wish for everyone on your list!
AMERICAN GREETINGS

Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
UNIVERSITY STORE

Hundreds evacuate S.U.B. due to fire alarm malfunction

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

A malfunctioning fire alarm sent more than 200 people outside of the Student Union Building at the University of Massachusetts Thursday, closing all businesses located inside for about 15 minutes.

The 11:15 alarm rang out because of the malfunctioning of a fixed temperature heat detector, located in that building's art gallery, according to Amherst Fire Department lieutenant Paul LaLande. The crowd returned inside and the relocated University Store, Post Office and Earthfoods reopened after the building was searched and a fire was not found. Fire officials then checked the alarm system and determined the cause.

UMass Police received a report of a fire in Wheeler dormitory in the Central Residential Area at 4:24 p.m. Wednesday. Police said a notice taped to the mirror in the fourth floor bathroom had been burned, and a roll of toilet paper had also been slightly burned. Amherst Fire Department and Environmental Health and Safety responded to the scene. There were no injuries.

Police were called at 9:20 p.m. to check a past fire in Leach dormitory in the Northeast Residential Area. Police said apparently a person or persons had attempted to burn a notice taped to a fourth floor bathroom stall between 7:30 p.m. and 9:20 p.m. The case is open.

In other police action: A 22-year-old Brighton resident was arrested at 2:10 a.m. Dec. 8 and charged with driving while intoxicated, police said. The subject has been traveling west on Massachusetts Ave. and was observed to be driving erratically and was stopped, according to police, and placed under arrest.

Police received a report of breaking and entering and motor vehicle larceny shortly after 4 p.m. Dec. 7th. According to police, the driver's window of a vehicle parked in P Lot near the stadium had been smashed and a stereo, two speakers and a power booster were stolen. Damage was estimated at $60 and value of the stolen property was estimated at $100, police said. There were no witnesses.

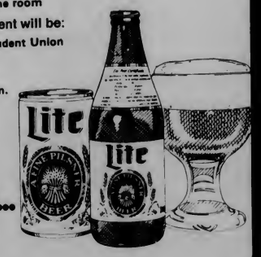
Fire fearer feeds Crampton

By MARY CRESSE
Collegian Staff

Ernie Arena remembers all too well the fear of fire. The day Chicago's Our Lady of the Angels elementary school was gutted by a blaze claiming the lives of 99 schoolchildren and three nuns, Arena was sitting in a restaurant with two of his friends, who with him rushed over to the site in time to pull a sister out of the building.

"I remember the hate and the fear and also the love that came out of the fire," he said, "and I'd hate to see anyone be threatened with anything like what I saw."

So the owner of the Red Barn Steakhouse on Rt. 9 hosted a spaghetti and meatball dinner Thursday night - "nothin' real special, just a good meal" - for Crampton residents.



"I think they need to have a little pressure taken off them. I think it's time for them to unwind, forget about the fires, and just have a good time," Arena is also providing them with free use of the disco floor upstairs.

Life at Crampton now is slowly returning to normal, residents say.

Crampton head of residence Eileen Ranneberg called the dinner "a marvelous gesture" about which residents were "definitely excited."

First floor resident Laura Gevanter, who had to study for a final exam Thursday night, said she was joined by only a few others on the floor, all, apparently who had to skip the meal for study purposes. "It was very thoughtful," she said.

Great Gifts
Clothing Earrings
Stocking Stuffers
Posters Cards
Mugs Rugs Vases
Tree Ornaments
Crystals Calendars
Stuffed Animals Toys
Boxes, Tins, Mobiles, etc.
Candy Tea Tea Sets
SALE up to 30% OFF selected
Blouses, Skirts, Dresses
Sweaters, Jackets
Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM
THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS – GREAT PRICES

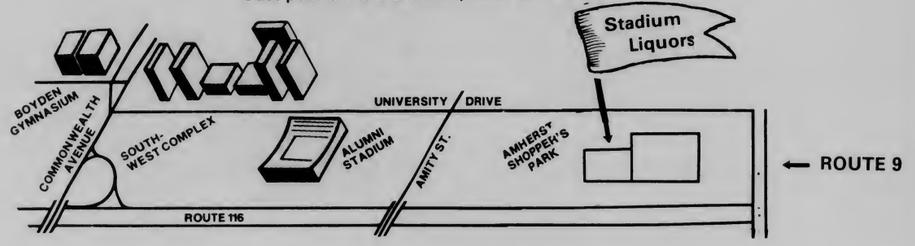
NATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE POCKET BILLIARDS TOURNAMENT
You can qualify for the Lite Beer/ACU-I National Championships by winning your local and regional tournaments.
Preregistration: Monday - Friday
9 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the game room
The on-campus tournament will be:
Place: game room in Student Union
Date: Dec. 10, 1983
Time: 12:00 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Great Taste... Less Filling
1982 Miller Brewing Company Milwaukee Wisconsin

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents
Betty Friedan
Author of "The Feminine Mystique" and "It Changed My Life"

Co-founder of N.O.W.
"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"
Monday December 12, 1983
8:00 P.M. Bowker Auditorium
Free

STADIUM



UMass Amherst

10 a.m. LIQUORS til 11 p.m.

Kegs • Beer • Wine • Soda • Ice

University Drive, Amherst, Mass.

Just past UMass Stadium, from SW dorms

Bud	12 oz. cans	$9.95 + 1.20
Miller	12 pk. bottles	$5.00 + .60 12 pk.
Stroh	12 oz. bottles	$9.95 + 1.20
Busch	12 oz. cans	$8.95 + 1.20
Meister Brau	12 oz. cans	$7.95 + 1.20 case
Wiedemann	12 oz. cans	$6.75 + 1.20
Schmidt's or Light	12 pk. cans	$3.95 + .60
Martini & Rossi Asti	750 ml	$7.99
Harvey's Bristol Cream	750 ml	$7.95
California Cellars	3 L	$5.99
Almaden	3 L	$5.79
Gallo	1.5	$3.49
J. Walker Red	1.75	$18.95
C. Mist	1.75	$12.49
Jim Beam	1.75	$11.95
Gilbey Gin	1.75	$10.99
Black Velvet	1.75	$11.99
Tanqueray Gin	L	$10.99
Southern Comfort	L	$8.99
Kahlua	750 ml	$9.95
Smirnoff De Czar	750	$7.95
E & J Brandy	L	$8.39

253-5595

not responsible for typographical errors

Black Affairs

Authors discuss U.S. society on the eve of '84

By DARLENE JACKSON
Collegian Correspondent

James Baldwin looks up for hope as Roger Wilkins looks at the audience and around him as they came together last night to speak on the once and future fire.

Chancellor Duffy welcomed last night distinguished guest in and around the five college area to the campus center at UMass to listen to James Baldwin, noted author and civil rights activits, and Roger Wilkins, Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist and former Assistant Attorney General who discussed their books, The Fire Nexzt Time and A Amn's World.

Professor William Strickland of the Afro-American department at UMass began the discussion with a series of questions covering two broad scopes: what they felt the craft and the responsibility of a writer were and how they viewed the world.

In regard to how they came to write in the autobiographical style for The Fire Nexzt Time (Baldwin) and A Man's Life (Wilkins), Wilkins said that "it was a long letter to my children; to all black children and white children. The worst thing that you can do to a person," he said, "is to deprive them of their history...you take away their future."

"It's a two-way street," Baldwin said. "You try something now and hope to be heard. People have called me a prophet; it's not a matter of prophecy...if you this, this will happen. You try to tell the truth," he said, "and hope to live to see it."

"I don't believe for a moment that President Reagan represents the American people," Baldwin said. He said President Reagan doesn't represent all Americans, but some people, some corporation.

"World leaders today," Rogers said, "are not prepared to deal with reality; their own reality of human beings."

"I'm very worried about our leaders' attitude regarding nuclear power," said Wilkins. "The Day After was a very useful movie," he said.

"The nuclear war is too much for people like you and me to think about," Wilkins said. "Leave it up to the expert."

"The only way to stop this," he added, "is if ordinary people march in numbers to make the mad man stop."

Baldwin and Wilkins both agreed that white women and black people are oppressed by the white male.

Wilkins said he feels that in order to be productive, there should be common goals.

"How do you deal with white people after you realize that you can't play the game," said Wilkins, "gingerly!"

"My time," he said, "is going to be spent helping black people and associating with those white people who really are grown up - in every sense of the word."

"It is time perhaps," said Baldwin, "that one concieve of the possibility of taking our lives into our own hands."

UHURU to perform at Hampden Theater

On Friday and Saturday December 9 and 10, at Hampden Theater, Southwest, UHURU, the Third World performing ensemble of the University of Massachusetts will give a performance entitled UHURU—Freedom of Motion. There will also be a performance on Sunday Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m.

This performance will be a presentation of dance, music, theater and fashion modeling exploring subjects of artistic, social, historical and cultural importance.

UHURU was created with the objectives of presenting the theatrical, musical, dance and fashion modeling talents of those students at the University who desire to learn more about the Third World performing arts.

In their attempts to preserve the concepts of the Third World arts, the performers hope to expand and enlighten the community by revealing the lifestyles and historical experiences of all Third World peoples through the aspects of performance and production.

Both performances wil begin promptly at 8:00 p.m., with general ticket sale beginning at 7:30 p.m. All ticket holders will receive a discount to the UHURU dance party, to be held directly following the fashion modeling show from 10:00-1:00 a.m. on Dec. 10 in the Hampden Southside Complex, Southwest Residential area, UMass.

Always Read Black Affairs

ONLY 22 DAYS LEFT TO SEND A CHRISTMASCARD

Limited Selection also available in the Mini Store in the Student Union

Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

Located in the Student Union Ballroom

Cards by. . .
Blue Mountain
Recycled
Pawprints
American Greeting
Renaissance
Hallmark and many others to choose from

UNIVERSITY STORE

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Letters

Innocent 'til proven guilty...

To the Editor,

We have been avid Collegian readers since our arrival at the University this past fall. By following what has transpired in the last few months, we have noticed that the Collegian reporters are quick to give out the names of mere suspects in various crimes. In the case of the Crampton fires, as well as in the recent alleged rape case, the names of the suspects have been released with little evidence. Do you not believe in "innocent until proven guilty?" We feel that alleged suspects names, especially those of UMass students who have reputations at stake and who have to continue their education here, should not be tarnished because of someone's loose lips.

Whether these people are guilty or not is not the issue. The reputations of these people are permanently damaged and their privacy is lost.

We feel that the staff of the Collegian should use more discretion when publicly exposing the names and or photographs of the accused suspects.

Michelle Wdensky
Southwest

...or Kangaroo court action?

To the Editor,

I have sent a letter with the following text to Chancellor Duffey of the University:

"Dear Chancellor Duffey:

I am outraged by the University's suspension of Yvette I. Henry, the suspect in the arson case, and its demand that she leave the residence hall. I had, perhaps naively, believed that in the United States our system of justice held that people are innocent until proven guilty. People accused of crimes, I had thought, had the right to, while released on bail, continue to live their lives and maintain their residences.

Why is the University of Massachusetts not following this principle? Is it because:

1) the University does NOT believe that criminal suspects are innocent until proven guilty?;
2) the University does not believe that blacks have the same civil rights as whites; or
3) the University does not believe that students have the same rights as other people, including the right to continue living in your home as long as you pay the rent or the mortgage.

Whatever your reason, I am disgusted by this treatment of Ms. Henry. I hope she is able to bring you and the University to court and obtain massive damages for what you have done to her."

Marc Breslow
Graduate Student, Dept. of Economics

Let's not bash their heads

To the Editor,

Over the past several weeks, I have noticed the increase of conservative activism on campus and have been tempted to write something about it in a letter such as this. I procrastinated, but I couldn't keep my typewriter unplugged after reading what I did in the Collegian's Editorial/Opinion pages last week.

I am an unabashed liberal Democrat, but I found the article by Rich Nangle ("Let us beat their heads in," Collegian, Nov. 29) to be too objectionable to go unanswered...by a liberal. I would not want it thought by anyone that Mr. Nangle's opinions are shared by all of us on the left-of-center at UMass.

The column is full of ignorant sarcasm that does the liberal cause no good at all. Mr. Nangle equates student conservatives with fascist militancy. He writes: "And let's beat the shit out of anyone who doesn't see it our way."

I don't know whether Mr. Nangle has bothered to talk with any conservatives at UMass, but I doubt it. I have had a few intelligent conversations with a member of the local Massachusetts College Republicans and came away from it quite uninjured. Indeed, I've come away from such talks with greater respect for conservatives in general. I like talking with people who can defend their positions intelligently, even if I don't agree with them. What I do not like, and have precious little respect for, are those who make inarticulate attacks on other people's beliefs. Mr. Nangel put himself in the second category with his column last week.

Some UMass liberals could learn something from our conservative colleagues. Let's stop "beating the shit out of anyone who doesn't see it our way" and start a real political dialogue on campus that could enrich us all.

Geoffrey A. Feller
Pelham

AC/DC review lacks voltage

To the Editor,

In his December 7 review of AC/DC, Mr. Cosloy used descriptive terms that are not only offensive and unnecessary, but could have been better utilized in the latter stages of his article. Also, I'm curious as to where Mr. Heavy Metal gets off on knocking people who criticize his music (although I don't know why), and then does a complete turn and dumps all over the musical preferences of others! All in all, I would say this was A Crappy/Deal Collegian, and in the future, you should screen your articles more carefully if you desire to sell any subscriptions to parents.

Phillip Jackson
Amherst

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA
OFFERS FOR GRADUATE STUDY
DURING 1984-85

The National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta announces that the fellowships for graduate study listed above will be awarded for use during the 1984-85 academic year. The amount of each fellowship is $3,000. Applicants will be judged on academic record, recommendations submitted, the soundness of the proposed project and its purpose, and need.

Any member of Alpha Lambda Delta graduating with a cumulative average of 3.50 is eligible. Graduating seniors may apply if they have achieved this average at the end of the first semester (or first quarter) of this year.

Application blanks may be obtained from the Chapter Adviser, Gladys Rodriguez, at the Dean of Students Office, Room 227, Whitmore. The deadline for application is January 4, 1984. For further information regarding the fellowships, see Gladys Rodriguez.

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27

YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW

TABLES WED-FRI DEC 7-9
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH
FOR MORE INFO CALL 545-3437

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Random Notes

Presidential Fitness and You

Another Sunday morning. I rolled out of bed and looked out the window to discover the snow bearing down. Before spending a well needed day studying I made a trip to Augies to buy The Globe and decided to sit down in Classe Cafe with a coffee and read the paper. As usual, I unfolded the double-stuffed Sunday paper and fished around for Parade so I could get caught up on all the celebrity gossip. Well, as I soon discovered, this weeks Parade was no ordinary one! Peering at me with determined eyes was a t-shirt clad Ronald Reagan busy at work pumping up those Presidential biceps. The title of this "executive" style article was "How to Stay Fit" by Ronald Reagan. Without a second to spare I flipped quickly past these weekly columns that I never miss to find out more about "The President's Personal Exercise Program". I'm sure that you, like myself, have always been just a little curious how an aging B-movie celebrity turned president with nary a gray hair on his head, manages to stay so fit. Well folks, as I soon discovered, it isn't life with Nancy that keeps our number one man looking so young. As I read, I marvelled at how lucky I was to be fortunate enough to discover such a wealth of information about our President's personal life.

I read on, and was pleased to discover that Mr. Reagan truly enjoys the great outdoors and never misses the opportunity to get out into the fresh air and chop some wood. Although, as Mr. Reagan tells us, "There is not alot of wood to chop or trails to clear on the White House lawn, so I have set up a gym on the second floor". Well Mr. R., good for you! I was pleased to know that after all that has been spent on our "well needed" defense, there was still a little bit left over to keep our President in tip-top shape. Reading on, I soon found that Mr. Reagan even thinks of ways of dealing with psychological trauma, he tells us, "Someone recently recommended I get a punching bag, so that when I have had a rough day, I could paste up the picture of whomever has been giving me trouble and give them the what for". Now there's a constructive way of dealing with all those numerous presidential pressures.

As I continued, I discovered paragraph after paragraph filled with helpful hints on diet and exercise routines with endless tips on staying healthy. I knew that from this moment on my life would never be the same; and it occured to me this must be what Mr. Reagan has meant when he says that we will achieve "Peace Through Strength". Unfortunately though, reality slowly sifted back to me and I remembered that I was a student with neither a personal gym nor a punching bag and little time left after classes to chop fire wood. But, at least I was left with the satisfaction of knowing that after reading this enlightening article, I was left with a "dream". I gathered together my paper, paid for my coffee and got ready to bear the elements. As I trudged through the snow to school with my newspaper under one arm and my books under the other, I couldn't stop thinking of one bit of advice that this healthy, strong and incredibly fit man -- our President, had said: "If all of us get out there and exercise, America will be in better shape". Well, Mr. President, I sure do hope that's all it takes.

by Scott Slarsky
Amherst

The real world is coming

Diane Lane

My Uncle, normally a sedate person, rushed into the department store, his tie askew, eyes glazed. He collared a salesperson and demanded, "I have to have one of those Cabbage Patch dolls! Do you have any left? I have to have one!"

It is obvious that we at UMass, isolated in our small world of two or three square miles, have no idea of what is going on out there in the Real World. Our Collegian is filled everyday with intelligent (if somewhat repetitive) and ferocious arguments on the nature of nuclear deterrence, our anger at those with differing points of view, and our arrogance in insisting that those people see the error of their ways immediately. I have read heart-rendering editorials about oppressed Third World peoples, Thanksgiving was ruined for me by guilt over what my Anglo-Saxon relatives did to the American Indians, and Columbus, a former hero, turned out to be a real scum-of-the-earth type.

When I left the happy Valley for a few days to visit some friends over the Thanksgiving break, I found my self-righteous anger and smug intellectualism quite displaced in this Real World. They are fighting one another over Cabbage Patch dolls (for those not privy, the doll is the hottest selling Christmas item, with her pushed-in but lovable face and indestructible cloth body). My Uncle's granddaughter has to have one of these dolls, along with millions of our little girls, half of whom will be sorely disappointed. The dolls sell out in hours wherever they're advertised.

The Real World is concerned with Christmas shopping, with money-making activities, with investments and stocks. They are concerned with fashion and hairstyles --people self-consciously wear outrageous outfits and feign casualness. (Do I fit in? Am I in any way different?) The World is in active pursuit of a cheap but good haircut. My friends wear their hair extremely short now. It is the latest thing. Real People are deeply involved with real estate and cars (how much and what kind).

My friends are getting older now. Social consciousness is seriously Out. At UMass our zeal for truth, beauty and the American Way is seen as...quaint. We feel we are Right yet most of the World sees us, at best, misguided liberals and more often as arrogant and presumptuous. Out There people in power are those with money and position. The writers of editorials will find a less available outlet for their anger and concerns. The world closes up after graduation. People want things. They want tangible evidence of success. Keeping the world from blowing itself up is a distant vision, certainly someone else's business and decidedly not a reality. Those concerned with it are considered frivolous, and thereafter are tainted with a touch of suspicion. Collegiate rallying cries pale before the World's trumpet, "For God's sake, protect the status quo!"

Racism and sexism are discussed loftily and theoretically on this campus. I wonder what good it can do to sensationalize what is old news. The plight of the American Indians at the hands of white settlers revelling in the newly discovered joys of imperialism is admittedly destitute. It is a Bad Thing. Yet minority peoples alive today receive the same prejudiced and crippling treatment. Surprise! American Indians continue on, a lot worse for the wear, and in fact in terrible shape. Let's change the name of Amherst to make amends.

We trivialize sexism by calling full blown attention to old men watching people walk as an example of terrible sexual harassment. Sexism is usually much less blatant and a lot more debilitating.

Over the weekend, and mind you there was only four days of it, I witnessed real live racism that hurt those who received it, both personally and economically. I experienced matter-of-fact sexism that left me feeling shut out, less important and frustrated. I heard casual racist comments taken for granted, accepted and unquestioned.

Money is a god in the Real World. The people who Have Money are not about to change the world in ways to help those who don't. All the rallies in the world, all the organizations, all the coalitions, meetings, and discussions won't seize power from those who have it. As students and future potential leaders of this world, our duty is not to mindlessly mouth cliches handed down from our parents or intellectual society but to learn new ways to approach problems. There are no answers today. It occurs to me that we may find ourselves forty years from now, no better off, facing the scorn of our children. We need to learn. We need to change the basic assumptions by which we all live; liberal and conservative alike.

We have to combat sexism and racism on personal levels -- every day, in all ways -- Lord knows this is challenge enough for the moment. We cannot change the world today and not ever if we don't change our programmed methods of dealing therein. Women have as much responsibility to combat sexism as men, for we are sometimes the biggest perpetrators of the stereotypes we abhor. Men have to risk the loneliness that showing real respect for women may bring. All people must fight our fear of cultures and peoples not like ourselves. Let us each confront alone the ugliness of our own racism.

Poverty, war, economic chaos, hatred. The Real World seems to have no time or place for the ideals we as students espouse. They are very busy with More Important Matters. A doll for a child, the newest fashion, mortgages, boats, cars, possessions, Things. If we graduate and forget -- if we chase things as breathlessly as our predecessors have then we are no better than those we rally against. The Real World challenges us to practice what we preach.

Diane Lane is a Collegian staff member.

Letters

Wait, and judge the facts

To the Editor,

I can understand the frustrations of students concerning the fire-related student suspensions and the lack of accurate information in this regard which was reflected in Mr. McKenzie's Editorial and in the Senate news story of December 8, 1983.

I would welcome an opportunity to correct these errors and to present to the Senate and all students a full analysis of every action taken in relation to these students and to the allegations which have been made. The managing attorney of the Student Legal Services Office, Mr. DiMare, supported by Associate University Counsel, Mr. Sidney Myers, has made it clear that I may not comment on or respond to questions on either of these matters in any public forum.

I believe that every action taken was reasonable, proper and in the best interests of the University and its student body. Whether or not these actions were in fact entirely correct will depend upon an open, complete public review and judgement when the attorneys for the students involved and University counsel permit a public presentation of the facts. I agree with Mr. DiMare that in fairness to the students involved such a public discussion is not possible at this time.

I hope that everyone will be patient until the court procedures have been completed and until Mr. DiMare and University counsel permit me to respond to all questions which the Senate, the Collegian or student body may wish to raise.

It is a difficult time for all of us. Let us, through care and consideration, wait in our response until the facts are available to all.

William F. Field
Dean of Students

"PR" that we don't need

To the Editor,

Regarding the letter that was published in the Collegian supplement "Newsweek on Campus":

At the University of Massachusetts in Amherst we have our own requirements regarding possible inclusions to our evergrowing list of "gut courses": a course may only qualify if one can attend a maximum of four classes and effortlessly receive a grade of A. My fraternity published a biannual list of such courses.

Robert S. Weinberg
U. of Massachusetts
Amherst, Mass.

As a strong supporter of this university I was appalled at the insensitivity and blatant disregard Mr. Weinberg displayed by submitting a letter of such demeaning nature. This university gets enough bad publicity without its' students "proudly" seeking approval for knowing how to get an easy "A". Six other letters to the editor of Newsweek were in defense of their universities and the course load they provide, while Mr. Weinberg proceeded to encourage a "Zoo Mass" image and make the course load at this university look like a joke. Mr. Weinberg, maybe you should consider teaching one of these "gut" courses yourself to add to the "evergrowing" list entitled "HOW TO GET YOUR NAME PUBLISHED IN NEWSWEEK".

Patricia Casey
Amherst

Not your everyday problem

To the Editor,

Recently, I was rendered a sprained ankle, and could walk only with the use of a cane. This made it hard for me to use the regular stalls in the women's bathroom, as they are too small and uncomfortable.

So, I had to use the handicapped stall. This was usually impossible, as people who are not handicapped insist on using that stall. Many times, I would find every stall in the bathroom empty, except for the handicapped stall.

My awareness of the problems that the permanently handicapped face was heightened by my temporary injury. I am writing this letter to try to heighten other people's awareness, also.

Please, have some consideration and do not use the handicapped stall.

Elizabeth N. Rich
Sunderland

TRADING PLACES
★★★Dan Akroyd★★★
★★ Eddie Murphy ★★
Friday, Dec. 9th
5:00, 7:00, 9:00, 11:00
all shows $1.50
To be shown at
Mahar Auditorium
Presented by the Central Area Council and the Northeast Area Government

DELANO'S

our December Special
Twofer One
Kronenbourg
Proper ID a Must
57 N. Pleasant St.
253-5141

Dinner for Two
Enjoy
any two entrees
with salad bar and a complimentary n/a beverage
12.95
Every Friday

TOP of the CAMPUS

Nothing Else
Feels Like Navy Flying.

The thunderous roar of jet engines rolls across the carrier's flight deck.
Throttles are at full power, and you're waiting for the signal to launch.
Now. The catapult fires. G forces press you back into your seat. Suddenly, you're flying low and fast over the open sea. Zero to 150 in 2.5 seconds.
Nothing else feels like Navy flying. Nothing. And when you become a pilot or flight officer you're at the very heart of it.
Once you've earned your wings, the Navy puts you in full control of a multi-million-dollar supersophisticated combination of jet aircraft and electronic wizardry.
And Navy training makes sure you're up to the challenge. Rigorous flight training gives you the navigation, aerodynamics and other technical know-how you need.
Leadership and professional schooling prepare you for the immediate decision-making authority and management responsibility you have as an officer in the Navy.
On the ground, as a Navy officer, you work with and supervise today's most highly skilled aviation professionals. In the air, as part of the naval aviation team, you have about the most exciting job anyone can have.
It's a uniquely rewarding job with pay to match. You start at $18,300 a year —more than the average corporation pays you just out of college. After four years, with regular Navy promotions and pay increases, your annual salary climbs to $31,100. That's over and above a full package of benefits and privileges.
Find out how much more a job in naval aviation has to offer. Fill in the coupon. No other job gives you the kind of leadership experience or fast responsibility you get as part of the naval aviation team. And nothing else feels like Navy flying.

W 346
NAVY OPPORTUNITY
INFORMATION CENTER
P.O. Box 5000, Clifton, NJ 07015
☐ Please send me more information about becoming a member of the Naval Aviation Team. (OA)
Name (First) (Please Print) (Last)
Address Apt #
City
State Zip
*College/University
Age ‡Year in College ◆GPA
▲Major/Minor
Phone Number (Area Code) Best Time to Call
This is for general recruitment information. You do not have to furnish any of the information requested. Of course, the more we know, the more we can help to determine the kinds of Navy positions for which you qualify.

Navy Officers
Get Responsibility Fast.

Scott's TREE FARM
Sunderland, MA
take Rt. 47
to 252 Hadley Rd.

Christmas
Trees
Balsam Fir $12.
Scotch Pine $14.
Wreaths $4.
665-4791

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst
Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

PERSONALIZED
STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00*
(with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo
and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah
26 University Drive
Amherst MA 549-5610

SKI POWDER WINTER BREAK
UMASS SKI CLUB
JACKSON HOLE
WYOMING JAN 10 - 17
TRIP INCLUDES
ROUND TRIP AIRFARE & TRANSFERS
5 DAY LIFT TICKET JACKSON HOLE
8 DAYS, 7 NIGHT LUXURIOUS CONDOS
COLLEGE SKI FEST ACTIVITIES
(TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $559
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 545-3437

Arts

Trailers by Andy Gordon

"Hey Gordon, learn to count," "10 comes after 9 you moron." Yeah, yeah, I know last week's film list was short. Don't blame me; I listed Singing in the Rain as my tenth favorite film of all times, but apparently someone in the graphics room didn't believe me. The response to last week's question "what is your favorite film?" was fairly underwhelming. The responses were largely divided between duplications of my choices (with The Graduate and Harold and Maude frontrunners) and extremely recent pictures (Flashdance, Risky Business). We'll just assume the lad who chose Nat and Hayes was kidding, not retarded. Other good choices were Kubrick's 2001: A Space Odyssey and A Clockwork Orange, The Big Chill, Fosse's Cabaret and All that Jazz, "anything by Fellini," "anything by John Landis," Ordinary People, Kramer vs. Kramer, Diner, E.T., and Fast Times at Ridgemont High.

The Man Who Loved Women will open next week and although it's been getting positive publicity of late, the jury is still out. Burt Reynolds stars in the title role as a "sensitive" sculptor (like gag me with a chisel) who is "both creative and complex, daring and darling (gack)." I shouldn't be so negative, the flick is based on a wonderful 1977 French film of the same name. I suppose the cause of my wariness lies with the director. While the original was made by the brilliant Louis Malle (Atlantic City, My Dinner with Andre), the new version was directrd by Blake Edwards. Edwards' Breakfast at Tiffany's was wonderful and the early Panther films were a lot of fun, but judging from his latest pictures --Trails of the Pink Panther and Victor/Victoria -- I can't decide whether he's turned into a slimebag or just a boring old fuck. In any case, the new film has a fantastic supporting cast: Kim Basinger (Never Say Never Again), Marilu Henner, Cynthia Sykes ("St. Elsewhere") and Jennifer Edwards (Blake's daughter). Mrs. Edwards (Not again!) also stars. Incidentally, the original can be seen on spotlight Monday night.

Following the success of their recent Educating Rita, Columbia Pictures is releasing another film adaptation of a London stage play. The Dresser stars Tom Courtenay as a theatrical wardrobe master to Sir, a pompous actor played by Albert Finney. The "smallish" film should be a nice vehicle for director Peter Yates, who

Clint Eastwood as Dirty Harry in Sudden Impact: "Go ahead, make my day."

Albert Finney prepares for a performance as King Lear in The Dresser.

Today is a big day. Besides being the Mic-Bio final exam day, today is the day the new Dirty Harry flick opens. Clint Eastwood again plays our favorite homicide detective in Sudden Impact, the fourth of the series. Clint, who also produced and directed the picture, here is off to Northern California to find a killer plaguing a coastal resort. One complication is a sub-plot concerning the death of a gangland boss. Dirty Harry is being held responsible and becomes the target of repeated assassination attempts. The action film, which purportedly has a lot of action, also stars Sondra Locke (almost as predictable a piece of casting as Julie Andrews in the Edwards film). Unfortunately the advertising is overusing one of Clint's great lines: "Go ahead, make my day." --which, incidentally, is not an original; the detective in Vice Squad said it two years ago.

This just in: It was announced today (yesterday when you read this) that Roy Scheider has been selected for the leading works best on this scale -- take Breaking Away for example. His massive flop Krull cost Columbia like three trillion dollars. The light comedy-drama is set during World War II and co-stars Edward Fox and Rex Harrison's 23-year-old granddaughter Cathryn.

role in MGM's 2010: Odyssey Two, which will be produced, written and directed by Peter Hyams. Principal photography for the film will begin on February 6 and will also star John Lithgow and Bob Balaban. Written by author Arthur C. Clarke, the sequel sends Scheider, Lithgow and Balaban to the vicinity of Jupiter to search for astronaut David Bowman, victim of the H.A.L. 9000 computer of the original. Apparently, a lot of questions about the original will be answered here. The production crew working on the film is amazing, and includes such big-time effects wizards as Richard Edlund (the Spielberg and Lucas movies) and Syd Mead (Blade Runner). 2010: Odyssey Two is scheduled for a Christmas 1984 release.

Local Best Bets: We're hooked-up; all sorts of good flicks are hitting the area today. Besides Sudden Impact, the Mountain Farms 4 is getting John Carpenter's Christine, Barbara Streisand's Yentl and Terms of Endearment. The Hampshire 4 has Al Pacino in Scarface. For people who don't feel like hearing singing or gunplay, Martin Guerre is returning to the Academy of Music.

It's udderly incredible!

The Cow Book
by Marc Gallant
55 pages, $17.95
Alfred A. Knopf.

Prince Andrew
by Nicholas Courtney
64 pages, $7.95
Little, Brown & Company

By DAVID TAYLOR
Collegian Correspondent

Once in a while I take a break from reading Quentin and turn for intellectual relief to less serious literature. What more could I ask for, then, than a 55 page picture book on cow wit? The Cow Book, by a 37 year old Canadian graphic designer, Marc Gallant, has all the appeal of a D.C. breakfast. "With this book, the time of the Cow is irresistably upon us!" the glossy cover informs the reader. Whoopee.

Some of the treats the book offers are a history of civilization from the cow's point of view, and "a celebration of bovine wisdom, wit and beauty"! Gallant, it seems, has travelled around the world twice researching the book, and commissing the artwork for the expensively finished and squarely bound volume (obviously intended to qualify as a 'coffee-table' book). The 25 paintings range from crass to tasteless, and so accompany the text in true harmony.

I fail to see exactly what market this sort of rubbish is aimed at. It would certainly not hold a child's interest beyond the dedication page. (I think if I was 'Mom and Dad' I would disown you, son!) Perhaps Gallant sees The Cow Book as a replacement for Playboy in some lonely farmer's barn in Idaho? Perhaps the collector of useful facts would find the text informative; "The first drive-in movie theater opened on a ten-acre plot near Camden, New Jersey and the first movie neighboring cows get to see is She Done Him Wrong, starring Mae West." Interesting, huh?

Frankly I cannot see how the publishers dare ask nearly $18 for this trash. It seems a waste of decent paper. I am surprised that they did not go the whole way in their journey into tastelessness and make the pictures 'Scratch and Sniff'. Give this book a wide berth - it deserves to remain on the shelves. Maybe they should give it to the cows to read?

From the sublimely crass to the ridiculous; the second book in the trash publishing stakes is a British pictorial on Prince Andrew, a collection of press photographs strung together with a tacky biography of the 'teen-idol' of the Royal Family. The author, Nicholas Courtney, is usually a sensible, coherent biographer, and his other books on the Royals are amongst the best there are. However, the emphasis in this publication seems to have been upon reducing the level of readability to suit a sub-normal eskimo.

Prince Andrew, we are told, is the playboy of the Royal Family. This is a polite way of saying that he is a bit of an embarrassment. The third in line to the British throne is not supposed to galavant around the world with various women of dubious background. (Yes, Koo Stark is in there in soft-focus, helping along the rapid deterioration of taste.) But without Andrew's naughtiness sensationalist, gossipy trivia like Prince Andrew would not be able to survive.

The Falklands Conflict, starring the brave prince, features prominently in this book, of course, as the market the publishers seem to be aiming at is the group of people who have the complete set of 'Captain Crunch Falklands Memorial

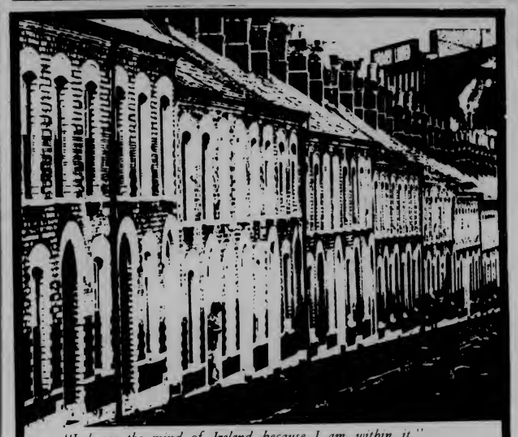
Medallions' in a Genuine Leather-look washable presentation case'. Prince Andrew is also heavily oriented toward sales in Canada, with a complete chapter devoted to 'The Canadian Experience'.

Basically Prince Andrew is an expensive magazine of the People genre, poorly bound and presented, a wallowing symbol of the British 'gutter press'. If a nude center-fold of Andrew was available it would have been there, in 'superb full-colour'. There are real books for those with a desire to read about the Royal Family for the same price which make infinitely better reading than this garbage. It is sad to see the sorry state of publishing that allows pap as obnoxious as these two offerings to clutter bookstore shelves. They may be of use, perhaps, as an alternative to D.C. trays now that the sled weather is here. They would then realize their true position in literature.

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX



Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Meter	Applied Statistics	$14.50
Pavia	Intro. to Org. Lab. Tech.	$14.50
Peckham	Foundations of Food Prep.	$12.50
PeAirson	Income, Employment & Economic Growth	$10.00
Pi-Sunyer	Humanity & Culture	$14.00
Prescott	Cancer: the Misguided Cell	$7.50
Rewoldt	Intro. to Mkting. Mgt.	$14.50
Riasnovsky	History of Russia	$10.50
Riddell	Economics	$8.00
Rodin	Basic Calc. w/Appl.	$12.75
Romer	Vertebrate Body - Long	$16.00
Rubin	Worlds of Pain	$4.25
Schewe	Marketing 2/e	$12.50
Schiller	Micro Economy Today	$8.50
Schneider	Linear Algebra	$12.50

"I know the mind of Ireland because I am within it."

Sean O'Casey

December 1-3, 7-10, 1983, 8:00 pm
Rand Theater, Fine Arts Center
University of Massachusetts
Reservations: 545-3511

The Rand Theater presents
Bedtime Story &
The Shadow of a Gunman
by Sean O'Casey

GOING TO BE ON CAMPUS IN JANUARY?
WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO EAT?

- Worcester Dining Commons will be open Lunch and Dinner - Monday - Friday
- Choose any of the five meal plans and SAVE! 20-25-30-35-38
  From $72.00 To $130.00
- SIGN UP: DEC. 1-20.
  MEAL TICKET OFFICE - FRANKLIN COMMONS

Offering Soup, Sandwich, Casserole, Self-Service Salad Bar, and Homemade Desserts for Lunch.
Dinner two Entrees, Self-Service Salad Bar, some Vegetarian Selections, Homemade Breads and Desserts.
All this and more for less than you would pay anywhere in the campus area.

WHY NOT TRY IT OUT!

Alternative to an Intersession Board Plan
Pay Cash or Buy Strip Tickets

RT. 47 SUNDERLAND
You must be 18 to enter
Open 'til 2
665-4937
24 Hour Taped Message

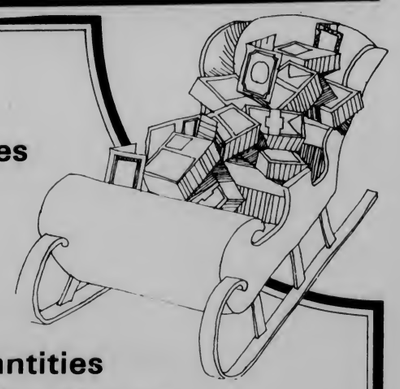
The rusty nail Inn PROUDLY PRESENTS

TONIGHT
starting at 11:00

the Stompers and Julie and the Flashers

Coming the 17th

NOVEMBER GROUP



Coming the 10th
MAX CREEK
"Grateful Dead music"

All Tickets at Door Only
Doors open at 7:00
All Bottles Beer 7-9 $1.00

Christmas Gifts

50% OFF of original prices

 Games
and
 Jewelry

 selected items only - Limited Quantities

Sale items are located in the front of the Main Store in the Campus Center

UNIVERSITY STORE

Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

$1.00 COVER AT THE DOOR
STARTING AT 9:00
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
2 FOR 1 ON EVERYTHING
FROM 8:00 TO 10:00

Poor Richards

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

"The Best Chinese Food"

MENU

Hot & Sour Soup
Chicken Fingers
Pan Fried Ravioli
Beef with Green Pepper
Chicken Fried Noodles

Sweet & Sour Chicken
Pan Fried Rice
Chinese Barbequed Pork
Broccoli in Oyster Sauce
Chicken Wings

BUFFET
Mon - Thurs
5 pm - 8 pm
Sunday Brunch
11:30 am - 3 pm
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$5.25 per person

Luncheon Special & Take-Out Service
Full Cocktail Menu
Sun - Thurs 11:30 am - 10 pm
Fri & Sat 11:30 am - 11 pm
10 Belchertown Road
at Rte 9, Amherst
256-0251

Christmas Cards, Wrap and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building
Christmas Wraps & Trims

Deck your gifts
in the season's finest!

Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

AMERICAN GREETINGS

UNIVERSITY STORE

Are you a Secret Santa?

Toys, games unusual gifts & unique accessories for under $3.00

many under $100!

FACES

A Store-full of Stocking Stuffers

Sundays 12 - 5 Downtown Amherst

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.

Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL

- Learn the causes of low back pain.
- Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
- Learn exercises to care for your low back.
- Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.

Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge

Amherst Chiropractic Center
190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation.

LAST CHANCE
to place any advertising in the Collegian (classified or display) is on Wed. Dec. 14 by 3:45 P.M.

Gymnasts blast out Lowell; travel to take on Syracuse

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

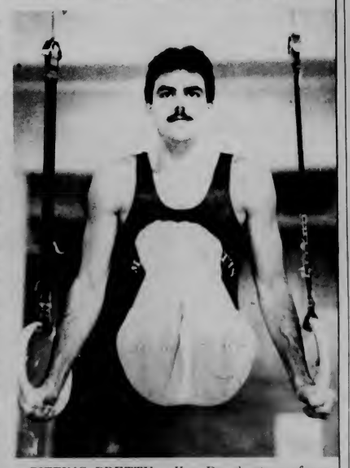
The University of Lowell was no competition for the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team on Wednesday as it received consistent performances from Bert Mathieson, Ken Dougherty and Phil Gorgone to blast its opponent 241.85 - 197.45.

Mathieson scored 53 points to capture the all around title for the second meet in a row. Anchoring the floor and high bar events, Mathieson posted a 9.1 on each event.

"I think his level of difficulty is right there," Coach Roy Johnson said of Mathieson. "He starts every event with a 9.5, 9.6 (points are added and subtracted depending on how well the routine is executed.) If he can get a 9.2 on every event, that's what he's striving for. His goal is to go 55."

Dougherty led the pommel horse team with a 9.0 while Gorgone averaged an 8.5 on three events. Johnson commended Dougherty for his performances on the pommel horse, still rings (8.2) and parallel bars (7.85) and praised Gorgone for fine performances on floor (8.9) and rings (8.4).

Tri-captain Jim Corbett stood up his vault to receive an 8.85 and a second placing behind Lowell's John Knowles (9.15). He also placed behind Mathieson and Gorgone in the floor exercises (8.8).



In summing up some of the performances Johnson said, "Corbett had a really nice floor set, for a hard floor. Lew (tri-captain Wingert) hit a nice high bar routine. He looked great considering the bar wasn't really fastened down that well.

"Ideally we could go out and score 45 on floor, we could go 42 on horse, 44 on rings, 45 on pommel horse, 45 on parallel bars and 45 on high bar. It's not beyond their ability to score that high but they sure haven't come close to doing that yet. The Syracuse meet (on Saturday) should be a good meet for them because they've got nothing to lose and everything to gain."

Syracuse will be a tough competitor for UMass on Saturday. The Minutemen will concentrate on executing their routines with few flaws.

"We shouldn't really be concerned with what Syracuse is doing," Johnson said. "That's the nice thing about gymnastics. You just have to concentrate on what you have to do. I'd like to have them swing their routines with clean sets. They've all done it at one point, they just haven't done it all at the same time."

After competing against Syracuse, the Minutemen will have a seven-week break between meets to work out and prepare for their return. After three away meets to start the season, UMass will compete in its next six meets in Boyden gym. The season will continue on January 28th when the Minutemen host Navy.

SITTING PRETTY -- Ken Dougherty performs his routine on still rings for the Minutemen. Dougherty led his team on the pommel horse against Lowell, scoring a 9.0.

Black Hawk suspension is upheld

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The suspension of Chicago Black Hawks star Tom Lysiak was upheld Thursday by the National Hockey League board of governors, averting a possible walkout by referees who were said to be considering a strike if the penalty was reduced.

The decision, the first order of business at the annual NHL winter meetings, was announced in a brief statement which said: "It is the board's decision that the suspension of Lysiak for 20 games is confirmed."

"I guess I'll be playing a lot of golf," Lysiak said as he was whisked out of the meeting room with his attorney, Bill Martin.

NHL game officials had threatened to take some kind of action if the board of governors softened the penalty imposed on Lysiak by NHL President John Ziegler.

Lysiak received the suspension Oct. 30 for hooking linesman Ron Foyt with his stick and left knee, causing the official to fall to the ice. Foyt was not hurt and referee Dave Newell automatically suspended Lysiak.

Supported by the Black Hawks and the NHL Players Association, Lysiak obtained a temporary injunction from Cook County (Ill.) Circuit Judge George A. Higgins on Nov. 3, which allowed him to continue playing.

★ Women's Hoop

Continued from page 20

some confidence now, but not over confident. We're getting to the point of thinking 'let's play our game...and win,' stated DePaolo.

UMass will be squaring off against the division I Elis at 2:00 p.m. tomorrow afternoon in the Cage. The team will be searching for victory number three of the season and looking to avenge last years 71-57 loss at the hands of Yale.

UNIVERSITY OF MASS. AT AMHERST
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

A JAZZ DOUBLE-BILL
RAMSEY LEWIS, keyboards
and
WYNTON MARSALIS, trumpet

Sunday,
December 11,
8:00 pm
Tickets: $9, $7, $5
Five-college students Half-Price.

Available at the Fine Arts Center Box Office, DATATIX outlets, Springfield Civic Center. Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

FOUR SEASONS

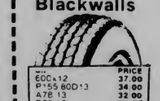
Location: On Route 9 in Front of Mountain Farms Mall
Just a quick jaunt from free bus stop at Hampshire Mall

MOLSON GOLDEN.....bts.....$12.99
LABATTS.....beer or ale bts.....$10.99
MEISTER BRAU.....cans.....$7.99 cs
ST. PAULI GIRL.....bts.....$3.99 six/$14.99 cs.
BECKS.....bts.....$3.99 six/$14.99 cs.
GENESSE BEER.....bar bts.....$6.95 cs.

VODKA & GIN.....1.75 L.....$7.99
SOUTHERN COMFORT.....1 L.....$8.99
CPT. MORGAN SPICED RUM...750 ml...$5.99
KALUHA.....750 ml.....$10.49
AMARETTO DI SARONNO....750 ml....$11.99

SEBASTIANI.....table wines 3 L.....$5.99
ALMADEN.....table wines 1.5 L.....$4.69
RIUNITE (all kinds).....750 ml.....$2.99
GALLO VARIETALS.....1.5 L.....$3.99
KEGS WE DELIVER BEER BALLS
584-8174

IT's RAFFLE TIME AGAIN - Come in and fill out the form. No purchase necessary - I've got mirrors, clocks, a radio, large beer bottle, wall plaques and tee shirts - only to mention some of the prizes.



Memo To Faculty:
We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.

Jeffery
Amherst
Bookshop

Daisy's
Breakfasts, Lunches & Dinners.
Dinner at Daisy's
Includes
LINGUINI with CLAM SAUCE
a full bodied white sauce with lots of clams 6.85
BEEF STEW served in a large crock and better than mom's..... 5.25
Plus 6 Other Delicious Entrees To Choose.
At A Price You Can Afford!
AT THE LIGHTS IN NORTH AMHERST 549-6642
We're open 7 days a week 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.

TIRES
A-78-13 Polyester $32.00
Blackwalls

	PRICE
E/C/G 12	37.00
P 155 80D 13	34.00
A/B 13	32.00
B/C 13	34.00
C/D 14	36.00
E/F 14	38.00
F/G 14	39.00
G/H 14	42.00
H/J 14	45.00
F/G/L 15	38.00
G/H 15	42.00
H/J 15	45.00
L 78 15	48.00

Plus F.E.T. 1.42 to 2.78 per tire. Prices include mounting & trade-in, white-walls 2.80 per tire additional.

10% Off Additional with a CASH purchase of a set of 4 tires with this ad
OR
5% Off Additional with a CHARGE of a set of 4 tires with your MC VISA AX with this ad

BASS APPROVED INSPECTION STATION
MICHELIN TIRES SPECIALLY PRICED

North Amherst Tire & Auto Center
FULL SERVICE TIRE STORE
78 Sunderland Rd
No. Amherst, MA across from Watroba's Store
549-4704

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

Sunday

AMHERST AREA NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH - All are welcome to join us for our weekly Sunday service of worship, praise, and teaching from God's word - the Bible. 10:15 a.m. see CC Schedule for room number

CONCERT: THE ARIAN ENSEMBLE - The Arian Ensemble, which is the graduate woodwind quintet of the University, will perform works by Joseph Haydn, Anton Reicha, Paul Hindemith, and Elliott Carter. FREE 8 p.m., Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

STRATEGY GAMES CLUB MEETING - No need to study because there is still one week before finals! Come and play the latest in board games and miniatures. Noon-Midnight, Campus Center

RAMSEY LEWIS/WYNTON MARSALIS - A Jazz Double-Bill: Two concerts in one. Ramsey Lewis on keyboards and Wynton Marsalis on trumpet will perform seperately with their own back-up musicians. 8 p.m. Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB

SUGARBUSH VALLEY

SKI & PARTY WEEK

JAN. 22 - 27

TRIP INCLUDES:
5½ DAY LIFT TICKET — SUN - FRI
5 NIGHTS LODGING — HOTEL OR CONDO
MEALS (FULL DINNERS & CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST) — HOTEL ONLY
ENTERTAINMENT: FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
HOT TUB PARTIES, LONG UNDERWEAR PARTIES
TURTLE RACES, FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES
FREE BEER & WINE PARTIES MASTAR RACES
SUGARBUSH COUPON BOOK, ECT. ECT.

HOTEL PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $184
CONDO PACKAGE (TAX INCLUDED) ONLY $189

FIRST 100 PEOPLE TO SIGN-UP WILL BE ELIGIBLE FOR A FREE TRIP

LAGNAF 84

FOR MORE INFO 545-3437 430 STUDENT UNION

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

HAPPY HOUR PRICING!!!

Beck's light/dark..... $4.25 12 pk + dep.
Bud or Bud Light 12 oz. cans..... $10.95 case + dep.
Duke 12 oz. bottles..... $5.25 case + dep.
Pabst 12 oz. bottles..... $9.00 case + dep.
Piels Draft 12 oz. cans..... $3.75 12 pk. + dep.
Strohs 12 oz. cans..... $9.95 case + dep.
Champagnes & Spumante's..... $2.99 & up/bottle
Vodka & Gin 80°..... $8.49 1.75l
Barrelled Beer & Beer Balls in Stock
Large Selection of Stocking Stuffers

BARN BASH!!! "DANCE ALL NIGHT"

Tues - Sat
NO COVER
8 PM TO CLOSING

ENTERTAINMENT!!
by D.J. - Midrange Productions

Hayloft Lounge
upstairs at the Red Barn Steakhouse
Route 9, 1/8 mile past Rolling Green Apts.

ALL NIGHT HAPPY HOUR 50¢ DRAFTS

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

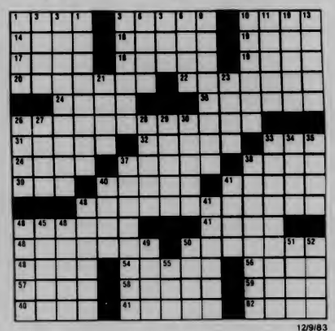
Scrod — Dan DeBellis

Superbad — by G.H.

After The Fall — by R. Miller

Wilson Low — by C.C. McFly

Quentin — by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Part of Chicago (with "The")
5 Irritate
10 Baron in "Der Rosenkavalier"
14 Border river of Asia
15 Balanced
16 Huntley of TV
17 Member of the crew
18 Spring up
19 Menu item
20 Sage reflection
22 Minute quantity
24 Food and drink
25 Pertaining to the ankle
26 Part of a fitness program
31 Lissome
32 French student
33 To and ——
36 Falls from grace
37 Great —— River, Canada
38 Vacation choice
39 Do a farm job
40 Winnie-the-Pooh creator
41 Military rating
42 Sensational
44 Wheedle
47 Ancient Persian
48 Mythical women warriors
50 —— water
53 Iwo ——
54 Crowd figure
56 Formerly existing
57 Frankfurt's river
58 Serve an apprenticeship
59 Destiny
60 Place for little peepers
61 Jolly boats
62 Anti-aircraft fire

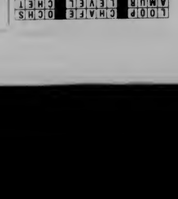
DOWN
1 Part of the street scene
2 General Bradley
3 Off base
4 Dominates
5 Red-purple color
6 Flavoring agent
7 Bird: Comb. form
8 Escutcheon band
9 Optional
10 Comes to pass
11 Cowboy gear
12 Icelandic volcano
13 Shade of blue
21 Gaelic
23 Trackmeet event
26 Way to pay
27 Exchange premium
28 Greeting for Dolly
29 African antelope
30 Resolute reply
33 Brotherly
34 "——, Pagliaccio..."
35 Oil org.
37 Without a sound
38 Exchange, of a type
40 Song: Prefix
41 Fed. agents
42 Amadeus
43 City in N France
44 Narrow gorge
45 Ammonia compound
46 Richmond's river
49 New York City arena
50 Blackbird
51 Minutes of court proceedings
52 Welsh emblem
55 Inclement, as weather

12/9/83

DC Menu

BASICS LUNCH
Lentil Spinach Stew
Turkey Divan

LUNCH
Tuna Boat
Turkey Divan



BASICS DINNER
Carrot and Cauliflower Pie
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Tartar Sauce
Cocktail Sauce

DINNER
Meatloaf
Mushroom Sauce
Fried Shrimp Dinner
Tartar Sauce
Cocktail Sauce

Weather

Sunny, giving way to clouds during the afternoon, high temperatures 30 to 35 in the Berkshires and northwest Connecticut hills to 35 to 40 elsewhere. Tonight, chance of a little snow or snow flurries, low temperature in the 20s. Saturday, sunny, high temperature 30 to 40.

Todays puzzle answer

Hey
Secret
Santas
Have balloons
and a card
secretly delivered to a friend under $5.00
call 665-7664

Swimmers take on Springfield at Boyden

By ED HAYWARD
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's swimming team will need a strong performance from its divers tomorrow if it is to have a chance to defeat Springfield College for UMass' third straight victory of 1983.

Having demolished Lowell University last week by a score of 76-37 UMass takes a perfect 2-0 record into what coach Russ Yarworth feels will be the team's toughest meet of the year. "This is one of those meets that gets you nervous; Springfield has a very strong team," Yarworth said.

UMass divers must come through if the team is to have a shot at winning the meet. "Springfield looks tough. Their divers have a good chance at sweeping us and if that happens we're going to be in real trouble," Yarworth said.

UMass must hope for at least a split in the diving competition. If that happens then it will be up to the swimmers to hold their own against a tough Springfield line up. "It's just a matter of getting in there and going head to head. But I'm confident, these guys have worked awfully hard for the past few weeks," Yarworth said.

"There's a little bad blood between us (UMass-Springfield) so we're hungry. We want to get 'em.

- coach Russ Yarworth

Springfield is led by Larry Jordan, an excellent all-around swimmer who is concentrating on the sprint event this season. Freestyler Doug Backlund and a good group of freshmen also add to Chief's strength, Yarworth said.

Yarworth also noted that Springfield is the only team in New England that has a 400 medley relay that comes close to UMass' excellent foursome of Chris Clarke, Mike Hoover, Chris Porter, and Marc Surrette. Yarworth also sees the 200 backstroke and the 200 and 500 freestyle races as close events.

UMass swimmers have vengence in their minds which stems from last year's meet. "There's a little bad blood between us so we're hungry; we want to get 'em," said Yarworth.

North Amherst's
Finest Grocer

WATROBA'S

Wine Specials
Almaden light Rhine or Chablis 1.5 liter Reg. $4.99 NOW $3.99
Gallo 1.5 liters Reg. $4.99 NOW $3.99
Chablis Blanc, Hearty Burgundy, Pink Chablis, Red Rose
Vivante Rose 4 liter Reg. $6.99 NOW $5.99
Beer Specials
Imported Furstenberg $3.99 + dep.
Kronenbourg $3.99 + dep.
O'Keefe $3.70 + dep.
Red, White and Blue - case - $7.75 + dep.
Schweppes - 1 liter ginger ale, diet ginger ale, tonic water
2 for $1.10 + dep.
N. Amherst Lights
"Look for our Weekly Specials"
Mon thru Sat 8 am - 11 pm Sunday 8 am - 9 pm

Sweeties
FINE CHOCOLATES AND CONFECTIONS
Over 100 Kinds of Candy
Secret Santas
Christmas gifts and gift certificates
Quality Chocolate
Tins, Glassware and More
Downtown Amherst 253-5589 and 68 Main St, Northampton 586-4180

LÖWENBRÄU & DARTING
MILLER SPORTS NIGHT
Monday Dec. 12, Time 7:00-9:00 pm
LOWENBRAU DARTING TOURNAMENT
at the Blue Wall
Preregistration at the Blue Wall
12:00 pm - 7:00 pm
trophies, shirts awarded to winners
prizes for spectators also
NFL film shown
18 yrs and older invited
HERE'S TO GOOD FRIENDS.

The Collegian

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50
Fri. Dec. 9 - Sat. Dec. 10
Marx Brothers Triple Feature -
Duck Soup 7:00
Horsefeathers 8:15
Animal Crackers 9:30
Sun. Dec. 11 - Tues. Dec. 13
Sandakin 8 7:00
The Demon Pond 9:05
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

Pursuing A Career In The Arts?
The Fine Arts Center has internships available in the following areas:
ARTS MANAGEMENT
CONCERT HALL MANAGEMENT
PUBLICITY
PRODUCTION SERVICES
For more information, call the Internship Office 545-0727

OOPS!
Now's the time to call
North Amherst Motors
Expert repairs & reconditioning.
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1980 Mazda 626 38000 miles AM FM csst great shape 546-6033

1976 Chevette autotrans great mpg all new under hood cassette/stereo exc cond $1695. 546-8739

1985 Plymouth Valient rebuilt motor good condition BO Jeff evenings 549-6935

1968 Dodge Dart runs excellent must sell now! $300 call Rob 586-6889

1970 Chevy Nova 6 cylinder dependable transportation $299 256-0747 / 253-5259

1974 VW Bug, 120000 mi, excellent condition, $600, Mike Kajen, 545-2690 days

CHI-O's & PLEDGES

I resigned because I don't feel I can give you 100% and you deserve that I'm sorry, Sherril

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

DANCEDANCEDANCE

Don't miss The Corporate Actors Bluewall -- Saturday 12/10 9-1 pm $2.00 18 and over welcome

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Townehouse - Large bedroom available for 1-2 people starting Jan. 1 with option to continue lease. Michele or Cheryl 549-5990

Apartment to rent Brittany Manor 2 br 256-0994

One bdrm Puffton Village available immediately with heat, cable call 1-736-3760 after 6:30 p.m.

1 badroom apartment loctaedright in Amherst Center. $385.00 per month - heat included. Take over lease January 1. Call evenings 253-5012

Two spaces in Brittany Manor Apt for spring semester starting in jan or Feb with option for next year. Call Dan or Steve 256-1280

Single rm in boarding house for intersession. Furnished, in Greek area $75 549-0363

One badroom in a quiet 2 bedroom apt on bus route take over lease in January 665-7554

Share apartment thru Intersession. Near campus. Own room. Guests welcome. Tel. 549-3940

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

New Polaroid Cameras 2 models $15 to $20 call Glen 246-6456 Mike 546-6451

TI-59 Programmable Calc w/magnetic cards $160 reg. $250 TIPC100C printer fits TI-59 or TI-58C $140 reg. $200---546-6775 or 546-8475

Ski Boots Nordica Typhoon used 2 yrs size 9 good cond. Kurt 549-5897

Dorm Refrigerator, 1.7 cu. ft., $90. 256-8412

Roland SH-09 Synthesizer. Perfect condition unlimited sound range $250 call Mike 253-3971

190 cm Rossignol St Competition w/Salomon 727 bindings $210 or BO 546-6032

1973 Saab good conditon many new parts must sell $950 or BO call 665-4801

•• WINTER GLOVES ••
All-Purpose makes a Great Gift
LOWEST price anywhere
call Dan 546-9146

Mens all leather gloves with linings sizes M & L 9.00 call 549-1224

Tenor Sax, Conn, almost unused. $250 253-5991

FOUND

Found!!! One pair of glasses outside Grad Research Center. Call 546-8352 to identify

Found 12/7/83 AM SBA 120 round wire frame tinted (prescription) glasses in colorful hard leather case. Call 546-8017

HELP WANTED

Temporary full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

Production Manager - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challenging job in a student controlled business. Two year committment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in S.U. 403. Application due 12/12. AA/EEO 545-2271

LOST

Jean Jacket taken from Justin Ryans Fri night had Bowie and Dead buttons reward Kim 546-9115

bag of clothes at Morrill bus stop late Sunday 11-1 am please call 665-8514 reward

Pub Saturday night - black wool coat need desperately no questions call 546-9578

Brassdisk key ring with five keys. In front of parking garage. 546-1044 or 545-1772

Long black cashmere coat from T.O.C., of great value, call Steph 546-1130

PERSONALS

* College * Spring * Break ****
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe • •
• • Motor Coach Transportation • •
• • ocean front accommodation7 night • •
• • Welcoma Party with FREE BEER • •
• Maka reservations Now and Save $20 •
• Check out our tabis in the •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*AB*E*A*C*H

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Intersession Housing. Any university women interested in living in SDT Sorority house during wintersession contact Sue G 545-0527 for more info

Rush Meeting
Alpha Epsilon Pi
Monday, December 12
CC 802 7:00 PM
Get into it! Rush AEPi
For Info: 256-1458

Housing available for Spring Samestar! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Mary Lyon: Thanks for the X mas carol. Happy Holidays! - Sally

Adam the past year has been fantastic. i love you more than ever. Happy Anniversary! Love always, Amy

Barry Happy 23rd! Thanks for sharing it with me. Love ML PS Welcome Home

David Lawless, Congratulations on your BFA!! I love ys. M.C. Lori W. Congrats also!

Hey Jensen! Are you ready for the big double whammy weekend? Everything else is. Love Tom Shari A. You're finally in the 20's club! Happy Birthday love J.H.

SUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGARBUSHSUGAR

Sugarbush Valley
Ski & Party Week Jan 22-27
5½ day lift ticket 5 nights lodging
hotel, with meals or condo
free beer & wine parties, hot tub party
long underwear party, turtle races
Nastar races, Sugarbush coupon book etc
Hotel Package only $184
Condo Package only $189
for more info call 545-3437 LAGNAF 84

Ski Powder Winter Break
Jackson Hole
Round trip airfare & transfers
transportation to & from airport
8 day - 7 night accomodations
gorgeous condos, wine & cheese party
hot tub party, beer slalom, free t-shirt
5½ day lift ticket for Jackson Hole
for more info call 545-3437

••• Dioganas, call me. Karan •••

Thea: Happy first UMass B-day! Love ya, Rene

Avoid the crowd order by phone Jessica the Cabbage Patch doll BO ask for Donna Fri & Mon 3-4:00 256-1066

Rob1. . .It must be love. . .Rob2

Kathi Bouchard -
Happy Happy 20th Birthday!!
- Lauren

Estelle - Wishing you love, laughter and happiness! Happy 21st! Love always, Sharon and Sharon

Happy Birthday Mo! The MPC Fan Club

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, thesis, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Syracuse anytime Friday please call Perry 6-7937

To Boston on Tues Dec 20 afternoon call Elaine 6-1451 please call

RIDERS WANTED

St. Pete for Xmas leaving 12/22 return 1/2. Want 2 responsible riders to share driving, gas. Jack 253-9237

ROOM WANTED

Female senior looking for room preferably single near campus for Spring semester, 549-0313, Anne

Very neat, responsible male wishes to acquire room or apartment for intersession Mark 546-4435

ROOMMATE WANTED

Girl wanted for single badroom in nice three bedroom house. In South Deerfield on bus route 150 plus utilities Kim 546-9115

Female non-smoking student to share Puffton 2 bed apt starting Jan 1, Edie at 545-2707 or 549-4869 leave message

Room available in 3 badroom apt starting Jan 1 on bus route call 665-4896

Female roommate wanted to share studio apt Hadley 175.00 + tel not on bus rt. 586-3682 available Feb 1

Female roommate wanted for January to June. Nicely furnished apt in Brittany Manor. A quiet, serious student preferred. Beverly 256-1335

Female roommate wanted to share Townehouse apt Jan 1 nights 549-4781

Female wanted to share Southwood townhouse apt. 256-0463 Kathy

Wanted female to share room in Brittany Manor spring semester call 256-0393

House-mate wanted for large beautiful house large room fireplace hardwood floors garden on bus route call 253-3868

Female roommate wanted to share one bedroom apt starting January 546-5754

Female roommate over intersession to live in Brittany Manor call nights 253-5716

Female roommate needed Southwood townhouse 256-8817 available now or January

Roommate needed Amherst Canter apt full kitchen call Patrick 253-5296

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Typing Special $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

Underground Ski Repairs professionaly sharpen plane and wax skis price 12-15 call John 256-1419

SOFABED

Sofabad in fair condition for sale. $25 or best offer - you haul it away. Call 549-6305 between 12 am and 1 am

SSAM

State Student Association of Massachusetts is a statewide organization, created to represent students. If you are a student dependent on financial aid or a job for your education, come to the UMass SSAM Chapter meeting 8 pm Dec 12th in CC911 find out whar we're doing this year for you. Together we can make a difference.

TO SUBLET

Townshouse single room available 12/23 - 1/30. Normally $150, will sublet for $100. Shelly 549-5990

Rooms for intersession Amherst Center furnished $110 inclusive two available 256-1083

2 bedroom apt on bus route $375/mo available Jan 549-6471

Townhouse Apts Intersession cheap call Michael after 4 549-6797

TRUCKING

Intersession Truck Service to Boston or Long Island. Fully insured. Call now for free estimate! 549-4490

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Responsible person looking for space in apartment or house 546-1080 after 5

Will take over lease on 1 or 2 bedroom apt starting Dec 23 or Feb 1 546-1080 after 5

Three engineering students need apartment for intersession in Amherst area. Call Mike 546-9426 or Steve 546-9403

Need sublet Puffton or Townhouse Tom 546-6590

Wanted 4 females seeking 2 bedrm apt Jan 1 call 546-7364 or 546-9253

Sports

Minutemen travel South to Stetson

UMass takes on Houston Baptist in Stetson tourney semi-finals

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team may be able to get away from the cold weather when they hit Deland, Florida for the annual Hatter Classic at Stetson University tonight, but the Minutemen could be in for a chilly reception when they meet undefeated Houston Baptist at 6:30 p.m. tonight in the opening game of the tournament.

The Minutemen are currently sporting a 2-0 record with victories against New Hampshire (75-73) and Bentley (80-75) in the Cage. However Houston Baptist has defeated Oklahoma State, the defending Big 8 champ, and Texas Wesleyan, the NAIA champion.

The Huskies went 20-9 last season and return all five starters. In the frontcourt, 6-8 center Anicet Lavodrama from Africa will jump center and is joined by a 6-7 and 6-5 pair of forwards. Leading scorer Larry Hollins (11.3 points per game) is at guard along with Terry Hairston (also 11.3 ppg).

Of course UMass, also, has run up some impressive stats. Leading scorer John Hempel is averaging 19 a game along with nine rebounds. Forward Horace Neysmith is tossing in 15 a game with guard Donald Russell getting 15.5 per game thus far in the young season.

"These games down South will tell the coaching staff a lot about the team," Coach Ron Gerlufsen said before leaving for the Sunshine State yesterday. "We are pleased with our progress so far and are very loose going down there to play some very good teams."

In the second game of the tournament host Stetson faces Georgia Southern. Stetson is regarded as one of the better independent teams in the nation while Southern went to the NCAA tournament last season. Stetson was 19-9 last year with Georgia going 18-12. Both are 3-0 this year.

Houston Baptist plays only man-to-man defense, so the Minutemen have been preparing for the individual pressure all week in practice. "I'm confident that we can match up well against Houston and put some pressure of our own on them," Gerlufsen said. "Our execution has to be very good and our shooting has to be about 50 percent if we expect to win."

In the two games this season UMass is shooting 49 percent from the field at 58 of 118. Gerlufsen, who has yet to experience defeat in his rookie season, has played ten players and showcased a team that knows how to score.

"We aren't as concerned with our offense as we are with our defense," commented the coach. "We'll have a few wrinkles on defense and hope to try a couple of new things down there."

Defensively, center Edwin Green has rejected eight shots but has been plagued with foul trouble in the two games. Russell has seven steals to lead the team while freshman point guard Carl Smith has 18 assists and 5.5 ppg. Gerlufsen said he will go with his usual starting quintet of Green, Hempel, Neysmith, Russell and Smith.

MINUTEMAN MUTTERINGS: The championship game will be Saturday night at 8:30. The consolation game will be at 6:30. Donald Russell is 12 of 20 from the floor for a .600 shooting percentage. Horace Neysmith is .524 from the field. Both Hempel and Neysmith are hitting 80 percent from the foul line. UMass has not gone into it's third game undefeated since 1978.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

REACHING FOR THE BALL -- Horace Neysmith reaches for the ball in an earlier game. UMass takes on Houston Baptist at 7:30 p.m. tonight. The game can be heard on WTTT-AM 1430.

Women host Maine Sunday

The University of Massachusetts women's swimming team takes on the Black Bears from the University of Maine this Sunday at 1 p.m. The Minutewomen's mark stands at 1-3 this season.

The early part of the season belongs to Liz Feinberg, a junior from Lawrenceville, NJ. Feinberg is undefeated in the 200 yard freestyle and has won three of her four starts at 100 yards. She was disqualified for an early start in her fourth start. Coach Valerie Turtle is also pleased with freshman Allison Uzzo of Brockton. Uzzo is 3-0 at the 1000 yard freestyle and set a school record of 11:15.17 against UConn. The meet takes place in Boyden and will be a stiff challenge for the Minutewomen. This will be their last match before semester break so it's your last chance to see them before you go.

Collegian photo by Jim Lavoie

IN BATTLE -- Mike Hanlon, 132 lbs., and the rest of the University of Massachusetts wrestling team will take on Albany tonight in search of their first win at 7:30 p.m. at Boyden Auxiliary Gym. The Minutemen, who narrowly lost to Southern Connecticut 29-23 in their last outing, are led by Captain Scott McQuaide, 167 lbs. The team also hosts Harvard Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

Women's hoop takes on Yale in the Cage

By ED CUNNINGHAM
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts womens basketball team, under the direction of first year head coach Barbara Stevens and company, may have a legitimate streak going. The team has posted two consecutive victories after a dismal 0-3 start. The first UMass victim was the University of Vermont. Win number two was a convincing 74-57 trouncing of Harvard University.

Tomorrow, UMass meets Yale, at 2 p.m. in the Cage. The contest will also be somewhat of an anniversary for the team. It will be the one week anniversary of the teams first victory of the season and their first triumph under Stevens.

A victory over Yale would bring the team record back to an even .500 clip. The last time the team was at five hundred was when they were standing at the starting block waiting for the season to begin.

The attack the women will be using can best be described as 'diverse'. The team is not led by any one player. Last Saturday Karen Damminger led the scoring attack with support from Jerrie Bernier who contributed 15 points of her own that night. The Harvard victory was supported by the backcourt duo of captain Wendy Ward (16 pts.) and Barbara Hebel (17 pts.).

Karen Damminger, despite only averaging about 24 minutes of play per game, leads the team in scoring with a 15.7 clip per game. She is also tied for second on the team in rebounds with Bernier at a 4.7 average. Kelly Collins, who has only played in two games thus far because of injuries, leads the Minutewomen with a 6.5 rebounding average.

Shooting guard Hebel is second on the team in scoring with a 5.5 points per game average and leads the team in assists with a 3.5 average. Forward Rebecca Kucks is third in scoring with a 8.2 average, and leads the team in field goal percentage at .603 and a free throw percentage with a 1.000.

The team will not be changing their game plans or strategy for the Yale game. While speaking with assistant coach Val DePaolo, the theme of team confidence and 'playing our game' were the topic. "We are getting

Continued on page 15

SPORTS INSIDE.....

INSIDE SPORTS: Men's gymnastics travels to Syracuse tomorrow to take on the Orangemen- page 15. Men's swimming makes a splash in Boyden Saturday at 2 p.m. against Springfield- page 18. Black Hawks Tom Lysiak 20-game suspension - page 18.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 63 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Monday, December 12, 1983

WHO NEEDS ICE? -- A group of UMass students, not willing to wait for freezing temperatures, take to the Sylvan Area tennis courts for a game of street hockey.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

Officials puzzle over UMass fires

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

The rash of University of Massachusetts fires that began in a trash can on Sept. 25 in Crampton dormitory has become a national media event, which, according to UMass mental health professionals, has gone beyond "arson".

An arsonist -- one who starts fires for the "excitement" of evacuations and fire engines -- may have been behind the early Crampton dormitory fires, says David Kraft, director of UMass Mental Health Services. But, "from a psychological point of view, (that profile) is not particularly instructive of what's (now) going on on campus."

"Any sort of public media play, both frightening and exciting, can lead to copycat behavior," said Kraft, relating the potential epidemic to the college fad of streaking in the 1970s.

Bonnie Strickland, former chairperson of the UMass psychology department, concurs. These incidents now cannot accurately be termed "arsons," but rather "negative attention-seeking behaviors," she said.

"One person or a few people can disrupt the lives or actions of enormously large numbers of people," Strickland said. "It's showing that you've got some power -- unfortunately enormously disruptive power."

While no suspicious fires were reported this weekend --only two false fire alarms in Kennedy and Washington towers and two fires caused by careless disposal of smoking materials -- the anxiety of an arson plagued campus lives on.

"The University is paying overtime and security, but there are those who cannot be compensated," Clifford said. Some individuals involved are not entitled to extra hours -- it's coming out of energy they're normally able to expend on other matters. The administration and staff are several weeks behind in their normal work because of the fires. In that respect, the campus is paying a price you can't quantify.

"We are not prepared to end the investigation -- there are too many questions that have not been answered. Most of the individuals involved in criminal actions will be identified and punished," Clifford said, "but I can't say we can be sure we'll ever find all the people who have done it."

Satellites will transmit to Hasbrouck

By GREG BROWN
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Remote Sensing Center has received funds that will enable that facility to receive data transmissions from satellites.

The Remote Sensing Center in Hasbrouk, a research outfit that uses delicate instruments to take scientific measurements, has received $140,000 from the University's Board of Trustees to start a research corporation, said RobertHuguenin, director of the program.

Huguenin, a professor in astro-phisics, said he was putting together "a corporation to make data retrieval cheap and easy."

The corporation, Huguenin said, will be totally funded by the private sector, and its goal is "to fund research."

Huguenin said the corporation's profits would "acquire data, process it, and sell it." He also said the program will help regional planners, geologists and meteorologists, but not the military. "The data transmitted will be strictly civilian," he said.

The bulk of the funding is to set up reception facilities for the satellites. Huguenin said the Landsat, Metsat, and Noah series of satellites would be received from.

The corporation is "a real source of pride to the university," because it will make it cheaper and easier for researchers and scientists to get any information they need.

Huguenin said this program, unlike most similar ones, will be available to anyone, regardless of whether they are a part of the university or not.

Inside:

Student dies in Texas fraternity fire.....p.2

UMass seniors combine classes with running businesses.....p.3

Conservatives make it back in Massachusetts.....p.5

Referees, Georgia Southern, beat hoopsters.....p.12

"Life is, simply put, a bundle of curious juxtapositions."

– R. Marcel

Worker fears prompt state asbestos tests

By JOSH MEYER
and JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the first article in a series on asbestos on campus at UMass.

Fears of asbestos-related health hazards by Campus Center employees prompted the University of Massachusetts Department of Environmental Health and Safety to take air samples Friday to check asbestos levels there.

The Massachusetts Asbestos Program found an asbestos concentration of 30 to 40 percent in the spray-on coating of the concourse and University Store ceilings in tests taken Oct. 7 and recommended removal as the most effective method of controlling the substance.

The removal project, which is expected to cost up to $400,000, is scheduled to begin in the University Store Dec. 21.

Department Director Donald A. Robinson said an industrial hygienist took air samples to measure airborne particle levels in the concourse and store "for a period of time" Friday with equipment approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The air sample "is not something we ordinarily do," Robinson said. "It's basically a way to give people additional assurance."

Results of the air sample will be available Dec. 16, Robinson said.

Asbestos was banned by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency from use in fireproofing in 1973 and for all other uses in 1978 because of medical evidence which "suggests that individuals exposed to asbestos fibers are vulnerable to environmentally-induced cancers," according to Joseph Lamalva, chemist for the Asbestos Program.

Both Robinson and University Store Manager Win Cummings said asbestos concentrations in the concourse and store are not dangerous and should not concern Campus Center workers, but several members of the University Staff Association and the Massachusetts Teachers Association complained that their fears of health hazards have been ignored by the Campus Center administration.

"For many years people have been complaining about the air (quality) and the dust that gets over everything," said a University Store employee who asked not to be identified. "There have been specific confrontations over the issue, and it's an outright lie that there has been no concern."

"Our biggest concern is that when questions are raised they are immediately brushed off," the employee said. "There have been no memos or anything to inform people of the potential hazards and removal of the asbestos. There have been no tests on the dust that falls from the ceiling, even though it gets on the clothing, the desks and everything else."

"The dust is natural," Cummings said. "With the amount of traffic in the concourse and the University Store, it's a constant problem, the same as in a house."

Robinson said air samples are an inaccurate indication of the levels of airborne asbestos particles, and that bulk sampling is better suited to assessing the level of exposure.

Recent laws requiring removal or containment of asbestos in public buildings, especially schools, were passed "in view of the increasing knowledge of the potential of asbestos as a cancer-inducing agent at low-level exposures," according to an EPA "guidance document" for asbestos-containing materials in school buildings.

The dangers of heavy exposure to asbestos in factory or construction workers have been recognized for many years, and the lung disease asbestosis "is a classic occupational disease," the report states.

More recently, the report states, other cancer-related diseases of the lung and digestive system have been associated with lower levels of exposure, and "no safe level of exposure has been established."

The spray-on coating used in the Campus Center, Goessman Laboratory, Tobin Hall and some other campus buildings is considered more dangerous than other forms of asbestos because of its tendency to crumble and send asbestos fibers into the air. Fibers are small—.5 microns in diameter—and can stay airborne for as long as 80 hours.

According to the EPA report, asbestos fibers can lodge in the lungs or digestive system and remain there for years, detectable only with an electron microscope.

Most asbestos-related diseases do not appear for 20 years or more after the initial contact with the substance, making the connection between the disease and asbestos exposure difficult to establish.

Digest

One student dead in fraternity fire

AUSTIN (AP) — A University of Texas student was killed and six other people were injured Sunday morning when fire roared through a fraternity house.

The blaze, reported at 6:17 a.m., destroyed 22 of the 28 rooms in the two-story Lambda Chi Alpha house west of the UT campus, fire officials said.

Firefighters said a strong north wind hampered their efforts to extinguish the blaze. The fire finally was brought under control by 8 a.m. by 70 firefighters using 16 pieces of equipment.

Officials still were investigating the fire's cause Sunday afternoon, but said arson was not suspected.

The victim was identified as Margo McFee, 19, of San Antonio. Firefighter Danny Stamper said it took two hours to find her body in the rubble.

Ms. McFee was in the room where the fire apparently started, Stamper said. He said the fraternity brother who lived in the room tried to carry her to safety but could not because of the heat and smoke.

AP Laserphoto

FRATERNITY FIRE -- Firefighters help University of Texas Lambda Chi Alpha member Ted Pestorius, 20, after a fire in his fraternity Sunday morning. He is listed in stable condition.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Paul Belval
Copy Editor — Greg Brown
Layout Technician — Anne McCrory and Greg Brown
Photo Technician — David Deuber
Production Supervisor — Mat Atkins
Production — Lynn Eisenberg, Martha Connors, Gail Tanzer, John Wielgus, Lynne Gottlieb, Vicki A. Spagnoli, Joanne Gaudette, Leigh Heywood, J.P. Shanahan, Peter Soderberg, Ken Kalinowski

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

GOING TO BE ON CAMPUS IN JANUARY?
WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO EAT?

~ Worcester Dining Commons will be open Lunch and Dinner ~ Monday ~ Friday

~ Choose any of the five meal plans and SAVE! 20-25-30-35-38
From $72.00 To $130.00

~ SIGN UP: DEC. 1-20.
MEAL TICKET OFFICE ~ FRANKLIN COMMONS

Offering Soup, Sandwich, Casserole, Self-Service Salad Bar, and Homemade Desserts for Lunch.
Dinner two Entrees, Self-Service Salad Bar, some Vegetarian Selections, Homemade Breads and Desserts.
All this and more for less than you would pay anywhere in the campus area.

WHY NOT TRY IT OUT!

Alternative to an Intersession Board Plan
Pay Cash or Buy Strip Tickets

AROUND THE NATION

Castration constitutionality at issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The crime is rape. The sentence is chemical castration. The issue is whether judges who mete out such "eye for an eye" justice are overstepping moral and constitutional bounds.

Searching for a means to effectively punish sex offenders, at least three judges have recently ordered rapists and child molesters to take a drug that causes "chemical castration."

The drug, Depo-Provera, decreases the male libido by suppressing the hormone testosterone, and patients lose the urge to commit sexual offenses, according to researchers. At regulated doses, it cuts down men's sexual aggressiveness without making them impotent.

Depo-Provera has been voluntarily used by sex offenders for at least 15 years on an experimental basis, but in the past year, several judges handed down unusually short or probated sentences to be served while taking the drug.

In February, a municipal judge in Vista, Calif., sentenced a 61-year-old child molester to a year in custody and five years of bi-weekly Depo-Provera injections. He had faced a maximum sentence of eight years.

Last month, a judge in Anderson, S.C., gave three admitted rapists the choice of 30 years in prison, the maximum sentence, or castration — either physical or chemical — while on five years' probation.

AROUND THE REGION

Bostonian forgives five assailants

BOSTON (AP) — Five men who pleaded guilty to beating a Boston man with a nail-studded club, a tire iron and a jack on Revere Beach last July 30 are free after the victim asked that they be spared prison.

Boston attorney Thomas Simmons, representing Emanuel Gonsalves, said his client worried that "because of their age and the state of the jails today...they would come out in worse shape if they had gone to jail."

Kevin Cawthron, 23, Jeffrey Bailey, 17, Edward Cabral, 17, all of East Bridgewater, William Mills, 20, of Brockton, and James Emerson, 17, of Halifax, were charged with assault with intent to murder, armed robbery and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

They were given suspended 3- to-5 year prison sentences after pleading guilty to the charges Friday in Suffolk Superior Court, according to The Sunday Enterprise of Brockton. Assistant District Attorney Thomas Mondy had recommended 10- year prison terms with an opportunity for parole in two years.

Under a sentencing agreement worked out with the victim, the five defendants will pay $5,000 each in restitution to cover the victim's hospital bills.

The Umass Music Theatre Guild announces
AUDITIONS for
THE ROCKY MIDNIGHT EXPERIENCE
An adaptation of everyone's favorite Midnight Movie to rehearse over Intersession and be performed in February at several 5-College locations.
PLACE: Room 162 Campus Center
TIME: Monday, Dec. 12 and Tuesday, Dec. 13
7-11 P.M.
For more info please call Gregg 256-6150

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.
Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL
- Learn the causes of low back pain.
- Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
- Learn exercises to care for your low back.
- Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.

Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge
Amherst Chiropractic Center
190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

BUT WERE YOU A GOOD GIRL? -- Cristina Thibeault of Springfield tells Santa Claus what she wants as her parents shop in the Hampshire Mall this weekend.

Hampshire hosts peace rally

By DAVID SUMMERSBY
Collegian Staff

On the eve of NATO's decision to deploy Cruise and Pershing missiles in Europe, 30 people gathered at Hampshire College Sunday night to show their support for women's peace encampments world-wide.

A slide show, presented by Feminists Against Militarism, showed the strength and energy of the women's peace encampments at Greenham and Heyford, England, and Seneca, New York.

"The best thing that motivated me to the peace movement was spending a year in Hiroshima. There is nobody that I look at that may not be burned like these people were," said Phylis Roden, a University of Massachusetts Future Studies major.

Roden, a former member of the Seneca peace camp said the experience was very "moving."

The Seneca encampment was inspired by the Greenham one, which in turn has fostered camps in Minneapolis, Pungent Sound, and Tuscon, Arizona.

"Women from all over the world are being connected. What we've struggled and cared for at Seneca was the same everywhere. The encampment have made the world smaller," said Felice Yeskel, a dormitory assistant in the Northeast residential area at UMass.

Yeskel, who narrated the slide show, said women "must take responsibility to tell others what is going on."

The Seneca encampment, which Yeskel attended, was held at the army depot believed to be the sight of the neutron bomb and the transatlantic shipping point for United States Cruise missiles bound for Europe.

Before and after the slide show, the crowd sang songs much like the women at the peace encampment in New York.

The audience expressed unity with others in encampments.

"I was really amazed at the slide show, I found them very empowering, and I'm really glad to be a woman," said one member of the audience.

Another member of the audience said the slides made her "feel the need to do more than I am doing right now to change the world. I want to hook up with other men and women in the valley."

Arcade games doing well

By DANIEL SOBEL
Collegian Staff

The video game arcade in the Campus Center at the University of Massachusetts is more than a means of relaxation for the many students that visit it daily.

It is a big money-maker for the school.

Campus Center Financial Manager Mohamed Idrees said the arcade brought in $220,876 in revenue this year, the equivalent of 883,504 games on video and pinball machines.

In 1982, the arcade earned $226,537, the equivalent of 906,148 games, Idrees said.

Traditionally, there is one game that outearns all the others, and this year, that game is "Dragon's Lair."

The animated game runs on a video disk, offering players an alternative to the blips and dots of old video games or the bumps and pings of pinball machines.

In "Dragon's Lair," Dirk the Daring braves purple aardvarks, firey pits and mud men to rescue the voluptuous Princess Daphne, quite possibly the raciest thing to happen to family entertainment in a long time.

Previously, it had been Pong, Space Invaders and Pac Man. But the story is always the same: big money for the people who sell and own the machines, and an almost compulsive obsession for those who play them.

Marty Rheault, a sophomore electrical engineering major, said he spends $15 a week on video games because "they're relaxing."

But others don't share Rheault's love of the games.

Judy Binda, a 20-year-old psychology major, called the games "a waste of time, money and brain cells."

Video games owe their popularity to their predecessors, pinball machines.

Before television screens became standard equipment in family arcades, pinball machines attracted practically anyone with loose change in his pockets.

But now, with video games gradually pushing the older machines out of arcades altogether, it seems pinball games have become just another dinosaur killed off by the video age.

George Lane, a 19-year-old Hotel, Restaurant and Travel Administration major, still sees an advantage pinball machines hold over video games.

"You can beat a pinball machine," Lane said. "You can't beat a video game."

Whether it is video games or pinball machines, however, there is one thing that seems certain: arcades will not go the way of hoola-hoops, yo-yos and pet rocks. Arcades will be around for a long time.

Which means lots of fun for video addicts. And lots of money for arcade owners.

WOMEN'S FORUM

Women's Forum is a weekly listing of upcoming events relating to women's issues. Notices should be sent to the Women's issues Editors, care of the Collegian, 113 Campus Center, before the Friday preceding the event. The Collegian will be publishing during intersession.

The Valley Women's Voice has moved from its Northampton office to the University of Massachusetts Everywoman's Center. The newspaper, in its sixth year of publication, is the only feminist newspaper of its kind in the area.

For more information on the Voice contact Joan Wilse, coordinator of the project, at 545-0883.

Monday-Betty Friedan, author of The Feminine Mystique, will speak on women's changing roles in the 1980's, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Friedan is the co-founder on the National Organization for Women, and was its first president. Recently, Friedan has been a leader in the fight for the Equal Rights Amendment. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Tuesday-Women and the law, is the topic of a discussion by UMass Professor Janet Rifkin at 12:30 p.m. in room 162, Campus Center.

There are two hotlines available on campus for aid to victims of rape or other violence. The 24-hour Rape Hotline is 545-2677. The Everywomen's Center Hotline for victims of violence is 545-0800.

Students combine school with business ventures

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

Most college students wait until after graduation to begin making their fortunes.

But two University of Massachusetts seniors aren't letting classes get in the way of their careers.

Karol Jamrok and Joel Fischl both split their time between their studies and their own businesses.

Fischl, 23, a political science honors student who will be graduating in May, co-owns High Notes, a singing telegram delivery service, with his wife Maureen Walsh, out of their home in Sunderland.

Jamrok, 22, is a BDIC microcomputers and database management major also be graduating in May. Jamrok is the co-owner of Computer Works in Amherst.

Computer Works is the first complete computer center in the Amherst area, Jamrok said. It is the only store that offers rentals to students and rentals while systems are being repaired. the store also offers a wide variety of systems — from computers for $299 to complete systems worth $5,000.

"We cater to 10-year-olds who are looking for games to 65-year-olds who feel they must be involved in the computer scene," said Jamrok.

The rentals have gone well also, Jamrok siad. Many families want to see how much use a computer would get in the home, and rent for a period before deciding to buy a system.

Jamrok and his partner, Dennis Paquette, started last spring renting terminals to students on campus. Jamrok spent most of his summer finding a location and thinking of a name.

Computer Works held its grand opening December 3.

"We're largely financed through the bank and distributors with what is called a floor plan arrangement. We have two part-time employees and several volunteer workers who are developing their own software. It works out really well for all concerned. Sales are booming," he said.

Jamrok has arranged his schedule to have classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

"I spend every other available hour here, at the store. I'm often here at night doing homework," he said.

At the end of the school year, Jamrok will re-evaluate his plans for the future.

"If all goes as well as it has been, perhaps we'll open another chain. I can always pursue my career in data base management if demand decreases."

Fischl, like Jamrok, is enjoying success in his business.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

GETTING STARTED EARLY -- Karol Jamrok, a University of Massachusetts senior, owns the Computer Works in Amherst while going to school.

"We started in September of 1982 with $1,800. Business went slowly but surely. Things picked up around December, but were dead in January. Then in February things took off," said Fischl.

In February, Channel 22 in Springfield did a Valentine's Day special on Maureen and the business.

Interviews with area newspapers followed, and from there, "things have been very busy. There seems to be a demand for this type of thing in this area."

Fischl and his wife financed their business through savings from former full-time jobs in New York City. Fischl was then assistant buyer for a department store and Maureen worked for Eastern Onion, another singing telegram company. At the time, Fischl was attending PACE Business School but decided to transfer to UMass for financial reasons.

"We had had the money saved for tuition and then didn't have to use it, so my wife and I had the cash to use for the business," Fischl said.

High Notes telegrams are accompanied with balloons and singing tuxedo-clad delivery persons. Or a clown. Or even belly dancers.

"The Northampton Association of Belly Dancers works through us. They're great. We're all hams — we're great for parties. our employees are all part-time and all go to school. The arrangement works well for everyone. Our workers do it for enjoyment and enterainment."

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00* (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah
56 University Drive
Amherst MA/549-5610

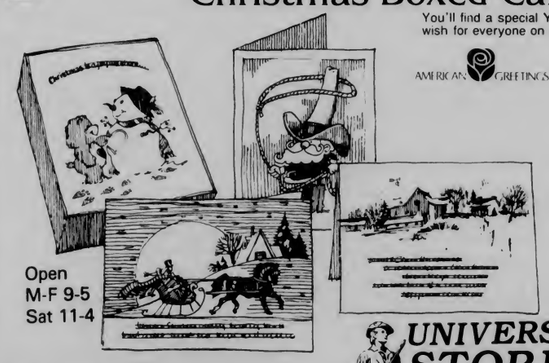
Now's the time to call
North Amherst Motors
Expert repairs & reconditioning.
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

Hey Secret Santas Have balloons and a card secretly delivered to a friend under $5.00

A Classroom Change Can Do Wonders For Scholarship

- Earn a semester's college credit
- Courses in marine biology, marine affairs, oceanography & navigation
- Sail on a tall ship
- Make a significant scientific contribution

Class 84.2: 12 Feb. - 9 May 1984 • Class 84.3: 30 Apr. - 20 July 1984
Caribbean - Gulf of Maine — Gulf of Maine
Study the ecology of coral reefs & open oceans — Study humpback & right whales: feeding community interactions



Mail this coupon to us
Ocean Research and Education Society
10 Harbor Loop • Gloucester, MA 01930 • (617) 283-1475
Please send me information
☐ I am interested in Class 84.2
☐ I am interested in Class 84.3
Name
Address or School
Zip Phone ( )
Home Address
Zip Phone ( )
Your School

Year after year, semester after semester, the college plan from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular life insurance program on campuses all over America. program on campuses all over America. Call the Fidelity Union Life Field Associate in your area: Find out why.
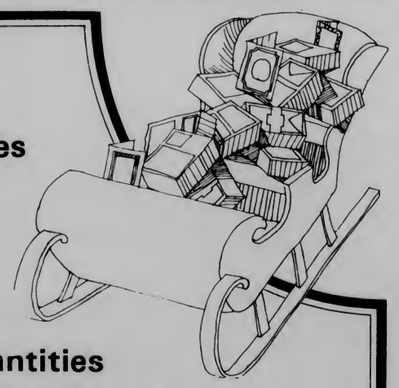
Fidelity Union Life
Tel: 256-8351
RONALD J. NATHAN AGENCY
20 Gatehouse Rd., Amherst, Ma.

Christmas Cards are now available at the Ballroom of the Student Union Building

Christmas Boxed Cards
You'll find a special Yuletide wish for everyone on your list!
AMERICAN GREETINGS



Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4
UNIVERSITY STORE
American Greetings with Rose Design MCMLXXXIII American Greetings Corporation

Monday Night Football Special
Pitchers of Draft Beer $3.25
TIME OUT
Free Popcorn

Two T.V.'s
Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N Pleasant
Amherst, MA

Christmas Gifts
50% OFF of original prices
* Games
and
* Jewelry
* selected items only - Limited Quantities
Sale items are located in the front of the Main Store in the Campus Center

UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Conservative revival in state

Do conservative politicians and their ideas have a chance to succeed in Massachusetts, or are they on the permanent endangered species list? This isn't just a rhetorical question for the sake of building a catchy lead.

Just after the results of last year's election tallies began to trickle in, I was clearly overtaken by a sudden sense of gloom. The future didn't bode too well for conservatives in this state. With the re-election of Ted Kennedy to the U.S. Senate, and the return of Michael Dukakis to the Corner Office in the Statehouse; there was little reason to feel optimistic for the future. But who knows, I thought, something might give way and things might look brighter.

Stephen Barrett

The Republicans put it best when they claimed Massachusetts was a one-party state, meaning dominance by the liberal Democrats. Well, were the Republicans right? Yes, but in many respects, the Bay State's GOP has only itself to blame, particularly with regards to local elections and contests for seats in the Statehouse.

Let's face it, you can't win if you don't run. On the statewide level, the Massachusetts GOP is beginning to play smarter politics. Instead of nominating men and women for the Governorship and U.S. Senate who held key seats in the legislature, the GOP chose non-officeholders like John Sears and Ray Shamie. Smart and savvy politics for a change.

When your chances of winning are low, at least you ought to avoid even losing the ground from under you. In a real sense, Massachusetts Republicans learned from past losses, and have laid the groundwork for better things to come.

If only conservative Democrats would also start challenging the predominate liberal wing of their party more often; even the Massachusetts Democratic Party might begin to resemble a more truly democratic organization.

For the moment, however, I'd like to concentrate upon the most realistic avenue for conservatives to take in this state. The best shot for the Tories in this state to demonstrate their resurgence, is the defeat of Paul Tsongas. But who will pull this off?

Presently, there appears no one else on the political horizon to defeat Tsongas other than Ray Shamie. The man is a proven vote-getter. Ask Ted Kennedy. Remember, Shamie is the man who derailed Ted Kennedy's plans for running for president next year. If an "unknown" like Shamie could keep the legendary incumbent's victory margin down to only 59 percent, what could Shamie do to Tsongas who doesn't have the same status Kennedy has. Tsongas is still a relatively new commodity on the political market scene in this state.

If I were Paul Tsongas, I'd be typing out a new resume just in case. Tsongas, despite what the pundits say, isn't that "safe." He's a first term Senator, devoid of any personality to carry him over in a pinch -- and his record on foreign policy, not to mention his debacle last summer while defending the ERA before Sen. Orrin Hatch (R-Utah), will surely help to render hhim vulnerable.

Tsongas is also a "loner". He doesn't even fit in well with the rest of his party machinery. While the vast majority of Bay State Democrats are backing Walter Mondale, Tsongas was one of the first big backers of John Glenn for the presidency. Although I think he was wise in supporting the idea of basing the Battleship U.S.S. Iowa in Boston, he'll pay dearly as time proceeds.

The hard-core liberal wing of the Democratic Party in this state isn't a very forgiving group. They live by litmus tests.

But Tsongas has also failed miserably on foreign policy issues. Okay, he supports the Afghan Freedom Fighters --but who wouldn't? By conservative standards, Tsongas completely cancelled out whatever gains he made with his support of the Afghan rebels by cuddling up to the Sandinista government, particularly Daniel Ortega, "Coordinator of the Junta." When Tsongas invited Ortega to come up here and observe our democracy in action, I hope he didn't have the great laboratory of democracy in mind: Massachusetts Legislature. Ortega would just love seeing Commandantes McGee, Bulger and Keverian in action. Some lesson.

Shamie ought to be able to garner conservative Democrats alongside his campaign bandwagon. If anything, he ought to take advantage of the rift between the newer white collar professional Democrats, (the more liberal branch) and the older and more traditional blue collar Democrats. However, I'm sure Shamie is quite aware that any Democrat, particularly an incumbent, in this state has an enormous advantage -- the letter "D" by his name.

Nevertheless, I'm quite confident that conservatives can, and should re-assert themselves. They not only owe it to themselves, but also to the public. C'mon Tories, let's blow some fresh air into the political system here and clean out thirty years worth of liberal cob-webs and inertia.

Stephen Barrett is a Collegian columnist.

Women's rights: far to go

Rebecca Thatcher

Are you a feminist?" asked my friend incredulously. "Of course", I replied. "How can anybody be a woman and not be a feminist in this day and age?" Well, apparently there are a lot of women in the world today who do not define themselves as feminists. This curious phenomenon is difficult to explain. First of all, I want to draw your attention to the words of the feminist historian Gerda Lerner, upon dedicating her book, The Majority Finds its Past. "This book is dedicated to my students -- a new generation of women, who take for granted the time and space for thought we had to win -- in faith and trust that they will carry on."

The rights of women have come so far in the last century, it is sad, but not surprising, to see apathy and ignorance about the women's movement when success is so close, but so far away.

Women who are going to school, having careers, participating in sports, or making their own choices concerning who, when and if to marry and are not feminists, are failing to uphold the struggle that allows them to lead the lives they are leading. It is similar to the worker who enjoys the shorter hours and higher pay procured by their union -- but refuses to pay the union dues.

There are many reasons why people are unwilling to take the final steps towards full equality for women. The early successes of the women's movement were more straightforward, because they were curing more blatant inequalities. They involved obtaining for women the right to vote, the right to be educated and the right to be a legal entity who can, among other things, file a suit or own property.

These concessions on the part of male dominiated society are hard won but obviously justified. The most difficult years for the women's rights movement lie ahead because there is still a lot of less overt discrimination that must be fought. The resistance to women gaining complete equality will be great because social change worries some people. People are especially resistant to giving women equal rights because, for some reason, they are afraid of finishing the task begun by Elizabeth Cady Stanton in 1848 when she wrote: "We hold these truths to be self evident: that all men and women are created equal..."

My suggestion is: don't take anything for granted, and you will begin to see why the women's rights movement must continue. Appreciate women's presence in the University: it was only a hundred years ago that it was widely believed that women's brains could not cope with education beyond the eighth grade level. But remember, the proportion of male professors and administrators to female ones is still lopsided. Appreciate birth control being widely available to women, especially when only seventy years ago, the first women to publicly advocate birth control were condemned as prostitutes. But remember, the anti-choice movement is large and powerful and trying all the time to legislate control of women's bodies away from them. When a person says being a feminist is sexually unattractive, consider the comment to be a symptom of a sick society in which violence against women occurs every hour of everyday.

To let the struggle drop now is to accept a second class role for women in American society.

Rebecca Thatcher is a Collegian staff member.

Letters

Employees talk on asbestos

To the Editor,

We are some of the employees of the University Store and are writing in response to Friday's article that quoted Mr. Cummings, general manager of the Store, as saying that "...no employees are worried about their health as the asbestos at its present state won't cause any illness." We would like to make it clear that many of us are concerned about the health hazards connected with asbestos. Asbestos is an extremely dangerous substance causing many diseased including asbestosis, lung cancer, and mesothelioma. According to the National Institute for Occupational Health and Safety (NIOSH(, "Human data provides no evidence for a threshold or 'safe level' of asbestos exposure."

We feel that our concerns have not been seriously considered. At a MTA-USA Union meeting, Nov. 10th, several full-time employees raised questions about the health hazards connected with asbestos. Many of these questions have remained unanswered.

In the future we would like to be able to speak for ourselves. If the Student Senate, Collegian or Board of Governors wants the opinions of University employees, staff and students alike, it should ask them directly.

Several University Store Employees

Both groups should listen

To the Editor,

I believe there is a mistake being made by the "liberals" and "conservatives" on this campus. Neither one of the groups are listening to one another.

Let's take a for instance: recently in the Collegian there have been many letters and articles from one side or the other. The "conservatives" of this campus and elsewhere are accused of voting for Ray Flynn because he is white and wanting to assassinate Jesse Jackson because he is black. The "conservatives", those short-haired, flag-waving, frat boys, are shown as people with no feelings. They ignore the fact that people were killed in Grenada and don't really care that over 200 marines were killed in Lebanon. I believe these people do care and are not racists and they will listen.

Likewise we have the attacks on the "liberals." Those commies who don't care about our country. All the left-wing radicals want to do is protest and live in their own little world. Will they ever learn there is a real world out there? How dare they protest about nuclear build-up? You know, you can't live on earthfoods all your life. I believe these people have been unjustly accused also.

Mr. Nangle wrote, on November 29, "And most of all let's do something that takes some real effort. Let's go to a top notch school and remain stupid." To you Mr. Nangle I would like to say you are as guilty as the ones which you write about. Generalizations and accusations don't get you an education. An open mind and open ear do, however. The close mindedness you accuse those "preppy, frat boys" of having is just like yours.

The University of Massachusetts is an excellent educational institution. We should use it to learn together. Perhaps an open mind to all views is the highest degree we could recieve from our University.

Lisa L. Mead
Amherst

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

Amherst Insurance Agency
20 Gatehouse Rd.
Amherst, Massachusetts
(413) 253-9387
Auto - Motorcycle - Renters

Christmas Special
25% Discount
ON Spring Semester Memberships
(includes Jan. Break)
regular $45.00 NOW $33.75
BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden.
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
Call IDBTIPS for info 545-1555 Dec 12 to Dec 22 only

Summer of "84"
Summer staff wanted for large Girl Scout resident camp in Tolland, Mass. Positions available for General Counselors; Nurses; Specialty Staff: Waterfront, Smallcraft, Riding, Gymnastics, Arts & Crafts; and Cooks. Salary with Room & Board for 9 or 10 weeks.
For applications write: Timber Trails, Star Route 158, Tolland, MA 01034 or call 1-413-258-4592

AEROBICS
in the BLUEWALL w/ Abel Silvas
MON. DEC. 5
TUES. DEC. 6
MON. DEC. 12
TUES. DEC. 13
2:30 - 3:30
☆ FREE ☆
Work off final EXAM & Holiday STRESS
Feel good, look good for the NEW YEAR!
☆ ALL WELCOME! ☆

MANUFACTURING/ FINANCIAL ANALYST
Develop your technical and problem-solving skills with Varian's Semiconductor Equipment Group—a research, design and manufacturing organization specializing in semiconductor fabrication equipment. As a contributor to our team environment, you'll enjoy the recognition and rewards you deserve. And you'll find plenty of opportunities and encouragement to develop professionally. If you're a motivated innovator, explore the following high visibility opening at Varian SEG
Reporting to the Director of Manufacturing Operations, you will evaluate manufacturing procedures and maintain a high level of financial performance for the department. You'll develop monitoring systems and controls as well as assist in justifying capital equipment recommendations. Acting as liaison between Manufacturing and Accounting, you'll help generate computer systems design for financial operations. You will also review budgeting and inventory management techniques, develop variances and assist with financial training for manufacturing personnel
This key position calls for a clear understanding of accounting practices and financial controls for a high technology manufacturing environment. You should have familiarity with budgets, standards and inventory management for manufacturing systems. Qualified applicants should also have solid interpersonal and communications skills. A Bachelors degree in Industrial Engineering or Accounting is desirable, an MBA is preferred
Along with unique opportunities for career development, Varian SEG offers a Rte 128 location on beautiful Cape Ann. You can enjoy all the benefits of scenic North Shore living with Boston's cultural resources close by. We are an equal opportunity employer. To explore this position please send your resume to:
Hugh B. McGettigan
Manager, College Relations
VARIAN SEMICONDUCTOR GROUP
Gloucester, MA 01930
varian

PREPARE FOR (Our 45th year)
MCAT•LSAT•GMAT
SAT•ACT•DAT•GRE•CPA
Feb. 4, 1984 Exam — GRE classes begin 1/3/84
Jan. 28, 1984 Exam — GMAT classes begin 12/14/83 1/2/84
Intersession Class — LSAT Begins 1/4/84
April 28, 1984 Exam — MCAT classes begin 1/3/84 1/7/84
Stanley H. KAPLAN Educational Center
Call Days Eves & Weekends
264 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst
253-5108
For information about other centers Outside NY State CALL TOLL FREE 800 223-1782
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Christmas Cards, Wrap, and Gifts
Are Now Available in the Ballroom of The Student Union Building
Christmas Wrap & Trims
Discover the distinctive wrappings that make gift-giving a joy!
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE ☆
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

Chin explores feelings of American-Chinese

Not quite as easy as 1-2-3

ABC: American Born Chinese
By Charlie Chin
Friday, December 2
Bowker Auditorium

By LORENA NOZZOLILLO
Collegian Correspondent

In a unique and entertaining way, ABC: American Born Chinese, explores the feelings and the attitudes of the American-Chinese. The play, presented by the Third World Theatre, was a one-man show featuring actor Charlie Chin. Chin also wrote the play, and throughout the show dances, sings and plays the banjo and guitar.

Chin uses pantomime and imaginery settings instead of using real props and other actors. On stage, all the audience sees are a couple of folding chairs spread out over the stage. However, the audience is led to believe that they are looking at a bar and grill somewhere in New York.

The storyline begins when Chin's illusionary nephew, Dennis, comes to visit him, just when Chin is closing down his bar.

He and Dennis discuss the image of the Chinese in America, both present and past. Chin states that "the only thing they have written in your history books is that the Chinese helped build the railroad." Chin then proceeds to tell the story of immigration into the U.S. He tells how the Chinese were coaxed into America with false promises of instant wealth. Of course, like other immigrants, all the Chinese ever found in America was hard labor and hard times. At this point, Chin sings a stirring ballad about the plight of the Chinese immigrant and his struggle to survive in this country.

Chin then moves on to the image of present day Chinese, and all the stereotypes that are associated with it. He explains to Dennis, that since he's a bartender, he's been confronted by his customers with every cliche in the book.

For example, they expect him to know the name of an exotic Chinese dish ("what's that dish called with the lettuce and the brown things") or, in general, to be an expert on Asian culture.

His favorite questions, though, are the intimate ones ("Have you ever had a white woman before?") or the truly ignorant ones ("How did you learn to speak English so good," "I don't speak English very good" explains Chin, "I speak it very well.")

Misconceptions like these are an example of the obstacles American-Chinese have to deal with in their attempt to fit into a predominantly white society. Chin then touches upon the subject of inter-racial dating, and the complications it causes. It seems that Dennis has had a fight with his traditionally minded father about his white girlfriend. Chin mentions the affair he had with a blonde, white dancer. He explains how they were happily living together for awhile, but then it eventually fell apart. "But," he tells his nephew, "it can work if you are really in love."

Charlie Chin handles the problems of the American-Chinese with humor, sensitivity and poignancy. Since he is an American-Asian, he can relate to the circumstances A.B.C.'s have to face.

Charlie Chin's one-man stint shows his wide range of talents. He has taken advantage of these talents to put together a presentation that educates his audience, as well as entertains them.

Read Arts
until it hurts!

Graduate Student Position Available
Departmental Assistant/Coordinator of Southwest Woman's Center.
Educational, cultural and research activities. $5.95 per hour for 20 hr./wk. 03 position carries no benefits.
Forward letter of application, resume, proof of enrollment in graduate school, three letters of reference to:
Pamela S. Dice
Residence Director John Quincy Adams
Southwest Residential Area

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50
Mon. Dec. 12 - Tues. Dec. 13
Sandakin 8 7:00
The Demon Pond 9:05
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

Christmas Cards, Wrap and Gifts Are Now Available in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building
Christmas Wraps & Trims
Deck your gifts in the season's finest!
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE ☆

Scott's TREE FARM
Sunderland, MA
take Rt. 47
to 252 Hadley Rd.
Christmas Trees
Balsam Fir $12.
Scotch Pine $14.
Wreaths $4.
665-4791

READ THE ARTS PAGE!

Over 35,000 books at
40-80% OFF
publishers list price
Sci-Fi/Sports/Art
Poetry/Mystery
Fishing/Drama
Dance/Music
Field Guides
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
5 E. Pleasant St.
(next to Hampshire National Bank)
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Sat
12-4 Sun
549-6052

KICKOFF LOUNGE
Monday Night Football
50¢ Drafts
Free Draft
with food purchase
Football Bloopers
starting at 8:00

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27
YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW
Last Chance Deadline sign-up Dec. 16
TABLES Wed-Fri Dec 14-16
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH

LÖWENBRÄU & DARTING

MILLER SPORTS NIGHT

Monday Dec. 12, Time 7:00-9:00 pm

LOWENBRAU DARTING TOURNAMENT

at the Blue Wall

Preregistration at the Blue Wall
12:00 pm - 7:00 pm
trophies, shirts awarded to winners
prizes for spectators also
NFL film shown
18 yrs and older invited

HERE'S TO GOOD FRIENDS.

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

Today

AUDITIONS FOR ROCKY MIDNIGHT EXPERIENCE — The UMass Music Theatre guild will hold open auditions in room 162 CC. Be prepared to dance, and sing a song from "Rocky Horror." 7 p.m. — 11 p.m. 162 CC.

AEROBICS IN THE BLUEWALL — Work off finals and holiday stress by doing Aerobics in the Bluewall. All are welcome — Free of charge, today and Tuesday. 2:30 - 3:30 p.m. BlueWall.

CONCERT: UMASS CHAPEL JAZZ ENSEMBLE — Directed by Devid Sporny, the Ensemble will perform a broad range of jazz styles. Guest artist is faculty trumpeter Jeff Holmes. Free. 8 p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall.

LAST OUTING CLUB MEETING — Alas! — The semester is ending ! Come finish it with us at our party! Bring a dessert and enjoy! See you there! Everyone is welcome. 7 p.m. 168 CC.

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION — The Asian American Students ASSOC. WILL HOLD ITS LAST MEETING OF THE SEMESTER. Elections will be discussed, — everyone is welcome. 7-8 p.m. CC. rm. 165.

FINANCIAL AID WORKSHOP FOR STUDENTS STUDYING ABROAD 1984-85 — Meeting for students planning to apply for financial aid to study abroad for the academic year 1984-85. 2 p.m. Herter Hall 6th floor lounge.

UMASS REPUBLICAN CLUB GENERAL MEETING — This will be the last meeting of the semester topics will include next years agenda. All Republican Party supporters welcome. informal with refreshments. 8 - 10 p.m. 164 CC.

HUNGER TASK FORCE MEETING — Last meeting for the semester -- it's not too late to help! 4:30 p.m. 428 Student Union.

INDEX STAFF MEETING — 4 p.m. in the office. Please be there ! Or you are dead meat... 4 p.m. Index Office.

STUDENTS FOR GARY HART MEETING — A meeting to discuss internship opportunities in upcoming presidential campaigning for Senator Gary Hart will be held with State Student Coordinator-Andrew Hurwitz Call 549-4462. 7:30 p.m. See CC room schedule.

Tuesday

FINANCIAL AID WORKSHOP FOR STUDENTS STUDYING ABROAD 1984-85 — Meeting for students planning to apply for financial aid to study abroad for the academic year 1984-85. 4 p.m. Herter Hall 6th Floor Lounge.

ISSUES FACING ISRAEL — The film "America I Love You" will be shown; followed by discussion led by Dr. Alan Lieberman. 7 p.m. Herter 108.

AUDITIONS FOR ROCKY MIDNIGHT EXPERIENCE — The UMass Music Theatre Guild will hold open auditions in room 162 CC. Be prepared to dance, and sing a song from "Rocky Horror" 7-11 p.m. 162 CC.

PROGRESSIVE STUDENT NETWORK MEETING — New group made of Peacemakers, SAM, and RSU — Short meeting! — to plan for next semester. 7 p.m. 428 Student Union.

UMASS ITALIAN CLUB MEETING — We will have our final meeting to close out the semester and to organize for the Feast of Santa Lucia. All are welcome 6 p.m. 3rd floor lounge Herter Hall.

WORKSHOP ON SEXUAL HARRASSMENT — The workshop is designed to define sexual harrassment and its effects on UMass students. 5:30 - 7:30 CC. 903.

WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP PROJECT MEETING — Join us for a party/discussion to celebrate the semester's end. 6 p.m. Student Union 415.

Archer Kent sale ends Dec. 17

191 No. Pleasant St. Amherst

OPTI-CLEAN 12 ml. $1.99 reg. $3.29

SILKIENCE HAIR SPRAY regular, extrahold or unscented aerosol or extra hold non-aerosol $1.95 reg. $3.35

CLOSE-UP TOOTHPASTE 4.6 oz. 95¢ reg. $1.29

CENTRUM 100 plus 30 FREE $6.69 reg. $8.99

TUSSY 2 oz. cream, 2.25 oz. roll-on, or 2.12 oz. stick reg. $1.45 88¢

SUCRETS regular, mentholated or children's 24 count $1.59 reg. $2.09

Gift SPECIALS

LOVE's BABY SOFT 1 oz. Cologne Spray $3.66 reg. $5.19

$5.39 reg. $7.99 SENCHAL Pleasure Points GIFT SET 3/8 oz. cologne spray and 1/8 oz. perfume

FINESSE SHAMPOO regular or extra body 15 oz. $2.29 reg. $3.99

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

Betty Friedan

Author of "The Feminine Mystique" and "It Changed My Life"

Co-founder of N.O.W.

"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"

Monday December 12, 1983

8:00 P.M. Bowker Auditorium

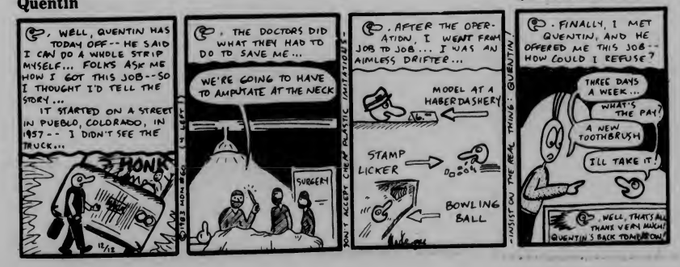
Free

Bloom County by Berke Breathed

Scrod Dan DeBellis

Superbad by G.H.



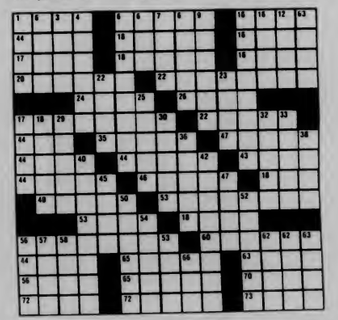
After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

Quentin by Mark MacKenzie

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe



©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS

1 Robert Burns, for one
5 Ethical
10 Poet-singer of yore
14 Easy gait
15 Author Jong
16 Away from the weather
17 Hymnal ending
18 Start a meal
19 "Peter Pan" role
20 Potted dwarfed plant of Japan
22 Annexation
24 Whale
26 Vague amount
27 Amplify
31 Certain tecs
34 Supportive expression
35 Roman robe
37 Prepares, as chocolate
39 Spring emotion, Spanish style
41 Muse of poetry
43 Word with horse or ages
44 Acted as agent
46 Household need
48 Bitter herb
49 In battle array
51 Weaken
53 Flightless birds
55 Pennsylvania port
56 Supplements
60 Cavalryman
64 Kind of bag
65 Small role for a big star
67 Extinct bird
68 The latest thing
69 Helen's cousin
70 Sheep, in old Roma
71 Winged
72 Patched
73 Nerve plexus

DOWN

1 Thick slice
2 Lake in Lombardy
3 Frank
4 Stretching muscle
5 Apply a healing agent
6 You ——
7 Baltic seaport
8 Muriatic and acetic
9 Roosevelt rival in 1936
10 Joshed
11 Kirgiz mountain range
12 City near Lake Tahoe
13 Campus figure
21 Greek god
23 Prayer leader of a mosque
25 Old stringed instruments
27 Certain bank accts.
28 City W of Boise
29 Loft occupants
30 Raise the spirits
32 Barton of the Red Cross
33 Swagger
36 Unanimous
38 Alpine equipment: Var.
40 "I —— Mama"
42 Burden (as a circuit)
45 Greek commune
47 Assam silkworm
50 Puddingheads
52 Sidewalk salesperson
54 Timeworn
56 Carpet from India
57 Asian boundary range
58 Fuddled
59 Merganser
61 Inlet
62 Check a rough draft
63 Flower for Gertrude Stein
66 One way to sail: Abbr.

READ THE Collegian!

YOU'LL BE HOOKED.

DC Menu

LUNCH

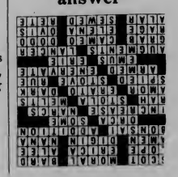
Hamburg on Roll
Tuna Oriental

BASICS LUNCH

Oatburgers
Tuna Oriental

DINNER

Roast Turkey/Bread Dressing, Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Knockwurst



BASICS DINNER

Egg and Cheddar Florentine
Roast Turkey/Bread Dressing, Gravy, Cranberry Sauce

Weather

Partly cloudy today, highs in the low 40s. Rain tonight, lows in the 30s. Clearing Tuesday, highs in the 30s.

Todays puzzle answer

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Skolnick	Family in Transition 4/e	$6.50
Smith	Voix Du Siecle	$5.00
Smith	Food For Sport	$3.50
Sonntag	Intro to Thermodynamics 2/e	$18.75
Spotts	Design of Machine Elements	$18.50
Stanton	Mgt. of the Sales Force 6/e	$13.50
Stockton	Essential PreCalculus	$13.00
Sykes	Criminology	$12.50
Tanur	Statistics: Guide to Bus. & Econ.	$4.25
Taylor	Intro. Readings in Metaphysics	$8.00
Tippo	Humanistic Botany	$10.00
Tortara	Principles of Anatomy & Physiology	$15.00
Tucker	Marx-Engels Reader	$4.50
Uyterhoeven	Strategy and Organization	$13.25
Weinstein	Freedom and Crisis Vol. 2	$7.50

LAST CHANCE
to place any advertising in the Collegian (classified or display) is on Wed. Dec. 14 by 3:45 P.M.

Sweeties
FINE CHOCOLATES AND CONFECTIONS
Over 100 Kinds of Candy
Secret Santas
Christmas gifts and gift certificates
Quality Chocolate
Tins, Glassware and More
Downtown Amherst 253-5589 and 68 Main St, Northampton 586-4180

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1968 Dodge Dart runs excellent must sell now! $300 call Rob 586-6889

1970 Chevy Nova 6 cylinder dependable transportation $299 256-0747 / 253-5259

1974 VW Bug, 120000 mi, excellent condition, $600, Mike Kajen, 545-2690 days

1972 Dodge Dart good running condition low gas milege asking $400 call 546-7898

Must sell 1980 Mezda 626 2 dr 5 spd stereo only $4600 546-6033

1975 Plymouth Fury. Runs well excellent interior, snow tires, stereo. $500 549-2872

76 Honda Civic Wagon 4 speed $1000 negotiable moving sale 665-7530

74 Toyota Corolla gd. cond. 4 spd Rm 20 Goess. Lab - days/533-3687 - eve 750/BO

1975 Datsun 280-Z black 4-speed exc. cond. taking BO 546-8236

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

CRANSTON FOR PRESIDENT?

Come and learn what Senator Alan Cranston's presidential campaign is all about. Everyone welcome to meet in the Hatch at 7:00 this Wednesday, December 14.

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadiac Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Two speces in Brittany Manor Apt for spring semester starting in jan or Feb with option for next year. Call Dan or Steve 256-1280

Single rm in boarding house for intersession. Furnished, in Greek area $75 549-0363

One bedroom in a quiet 2 bedroom apt on bus route take over lease in January 665-7554

Shere epertment thru Intersession. Near campus. Own room. Guests welcome. Tel. 549-3940

Intersession room cheap close to campus everything furnished 549-4067

One bedroom available in spacious five bedroom house near bus stop. Rte 9 Hadley $145.00 + call 586-3936

Two rooms available in spacious Sunderland house 665-2939

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

TI-59 Programmable Calc w/magnetic cards $160 reg. $250 TIPC100C printer fits TI-59 or TI-58C $140 reg. $200---546-6775 or 546-8475

Dorm Refrigerator, 1.7 cu. ft., $90, 256-8412

190 cm Rossignol St Competition w/Salomon 727 bindings $210 or BO 546-6032

1973 Saab good conditon many new parts must sell $950 or BO call 665-4801

Mens all leather gloves with linings sizes M & L 9.00 call 549-1224

Leaving country must sell rare Cinnamon Cockatiel $100 or best offer 1-863-8510 weeknights Sat & Sunday

Fischer Skis with bindings and poles 195c $50 or BO 256-1210

FOUND

Found 12/7/83 AM SBA 120 round wire frame tinted (prescription) glasses in colorful hard leather case. Call 546-8017

Found purple mitten with white trim near Thompson. Call Linda 549-4585

HELP WANTED

Temporary full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

Production Manager - SNPS to supervise and coordinate print/copy shop operation. An exciting challenging job in a student controlled business. Two year commitment. Print shop experience helpful - not req. Detailed description and application in S.U. 403. Application due 12/12. AA/EEO 545-2271

Housepersons needed next semester for local sorority. Kitchen help in exchange for meals. If interested contact Paula M. 549-7538, 256-6874

Full & Part-time student advocates for Wintersession & Spring semester at Commuter Area Gov't. Organizational, leadership & writing skills needed. Apply 404 SUB 545-2145 deadline 12/16 AA/EEO

Earn extra money photographing rock bands. Rock photo company is looking for new photographers and/or photos. Write to Pop Shots, P.O. Box 1247, Boston, MA 02117 or call (617) 262-3401 and ask for Mark beg of clothes at Morrill bus stop late Sunday 11-1 am please call 665-8514 reward

LOST

Lost Wed Dec 7 9-10 PM Poor Dicks mohair scarf by Bar great sentimental value reward please call 253-3339

PERSONALS

 College * Spring * Break ******
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe • Motor Coech Transportation • • ocean front accommodation7 night • • • Welcome Party with FREE BEER • Make reservations Now and Save $20 • Check out our table in the • CC Concourse or call 546-5422 • D*A*Y*T*O*N*A*B*E*A*C*H**

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Rush Meeting
Alpha Epsilon Pi
Monday, December 12
CC 802 7:00 PM
Get into it! Rush AEPi
For Info: 256-1458

Housing available for Spring Semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Sheri A. You're finally in the 20's club! Happy Birthday love J.H.

$10 off of UMass Sugarbush Ski Trip for anyone who takes my place call Mabel 546-1481

BZ, Janice, Jo - Thanks from my heart for everything, especially memories: Diads, Dynasty, Judy's for a thrill; chowda', long talks, our own fire drill! I love you all - Kelley

John, You are a nut and I love ya Jeannie

Avoid the crowd order by phone Jessica the Cabbage Patch doll BO ask for Donna Fri & Mon 3-4:00 256-1066

Lori Usher. Happy 21st Birthday! Let's celebrate all Intersession long! Love, Patty

Jake the potatoes will be waiting for you when we get back - Waddy's Girl

Is it true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S. Government? Get the facts today! Call (312) 742-1142 ext. 5931A

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7524 evenings

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Co. share exp. Art 586-5876

ROOM WANTED

Female senior looking for room preferably single near campus for Spring semester, 549-0313, Anne

Very neat, responsible male wishes to acquire room or apartment for intersession Mark 546-4435

Help! 3 females looking for 3 bedroom apt for intersession in Puffton or Townehouse please call Karen 546-9695 or Shari 6-9623

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female roommate wanted for January to June. Nicely furnished apt in Brittany Manor. A quiet, serious student preferred. Beverly 256-1335

Female roommate wanted to share Townehouse apt Jan 1 nights 549-4781

Wanted female to shere room in Brittany Manor spring semester call 256-0393

House-mate wanted for large beautiful house large room fireplace hardwood floors garden on bus route call 253-3868

Female roommate wanted to share one bedroom apt starting January 546-5754

Female roommate over Intersession to live in Brittany Manor call nights 253-5716

Female roommate needed Southwood townhouse 256-8817 available now or January

Roommate needed Amherst Center apt full kitchen call Patrick 253-5298

Roommate wanted to share rm w/1 other F in 2 br Twnhse apts call 549-4585

Townehouse female roommate wanted for Spring take over lease Jan 1 call 549-7690

Responsible female to share room in Brandywine, $118-heat included call 549-1405

Apt mate wanted, own bedroom Presidential Apts. 150/month + util. 549-0896

SARAH BABY

Sareh Baby Thought I missed your B-day on the 5th you're right! Your big little sister Rebecca

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

SOFABED

Sofabed in fair condition for sale. $25 or best offer - you haul it away. Call 549-6308 between 12 am and 1 am

SSAM

State Student Association of Massachusetts is a statewide organization, created to represent students. If you are a student dependent on financial aid or a job for your education, come to the UMass SSAM Chapter meeting 8 pm Dec 12th in CC911 find out what we're doing this year for you. Together we can make a difference.

TO SUBLET

Rooms for Intersession Amherst Center furnished $110 inclusive two available 256-1083

2 bedroom apt on bus route $375/mo available Jan 549-6471

Townhouse Apts Intersession cheap call Michael after 4 549-6797

One bedroom in 4 bedroom Swiss Village apt from Jan 1st 174 mo includes everything call 253-3971 after 5

TRAVEL

SKI SWITZERLAND********
• low cost ski tours to the Alps •
• everything included one low price •
• tour information and slide show •
• Wednesday 7:30 pm Campus Ctr Rm 903 •

TRUCKING

Intersession Truck Service to Boston or Long Island. Fully insured. Call now for free estimate! 549-4490

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst. 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Need sublet Puffton or Townhouse Tom 546-6690

Wanted 4 females seeking 2 bedrm apt Jan 1 call 546-7364 or 546-9253

Minutemen fall just short in Tourney

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

DELAND, Fla. — For the past few months it's been the NBA coaches who have been irate about the officiating in their games, but on Saturday night down in Florida it was the University of Massachusetts' hoop mentor Ron Gerlufsen who had all the complaints.

In the consolation game of the Hatter Classic at Stetson University, UMass dropped a 67-64 decision to Georgia Southern, but not before a pair of calls by the referees turned the momentum against the Minutemen in the last six seconds.

With the score 66-64 in favor of Southern, UMass' Horace Neysmith stole an inbounds pass and on his drive toward the tying hoop was apparently fouled.

But the call was instead traveling, and their was no chance for any free throws or overtime. Donald Russell was then called for a foul, putting Georgia's Steve Jessup on the line with no time left, he made one of the two free throws and UMass now has a 2-2 record.

On Friday night, powerful Houston Baptist topped UMass 68-55 in the first round contest. The Huskies broke off a streak of eight unanswered points to make a close 50-47 game a blowout.

Neysmith continued his hot pace with 17 for the Minutemen but co-captains Donald Russell and Edwin Green combined for only five. John Hempel contributed 12 with Carl Smith and Bobby Braun canning eight apiece.

In Saturday's game against Georgia Southern, Green and Russell reverted back to their old form by leading UMass to a first half edge of 42-32. Russell had 14 of his 16 points in the half with Green getting 10 of his game-high 20. The Minutemen shot 52 percent from the floor and netted 10 of 14 foul shots while not allowing Georgia Southern a chance to go to the line.

In the second half, Georgia chipped away and took the lead until Green and Neysmith hit back to back hoops that narrowed the Southern margin to 66-64. Massachusetts fouled an opponent, and after misses from the stripe, Russell worked the ball downcourt before being called for a charge with six seconds left to set up the eventual travel call on Neysmith and the end of UMass' chances. Neysmith had 13 and Hempel eight for UMass in the game.

Tonight, the team takes on Atlantic Coast Conference powerhouse Duke in a 7:30 game. The Blue Devils started five freshmen last season on way to a 11-17 mark but are undefeated this season. Leading scorer Johnny Dawkins (18.1 points a page) returns for coach Mike Krzyzewski. This is the first meeting between the two squads and figures to be a tough one for UMass. The Minutemen will be looking to snap a 25 game streak of road losses against Duke. The game can be heard on WTTT-AM 1430.

MINUTEMAN MUTTERINGS: A lack of bench production killed UMass in the Georgia Southern game. Bobby Braun hit for the only two points off the pines. Against Houston Baptist Braun and Craig Smith combined for 13. The team will return home Tuesday afternoon from their Southern swing and face UConn Thursday.

Sports

Women hoopsters walk over Yale in 73-56 win

By ED CUNNINGHAM
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team recorded their third straight victory of the season, Saturday afternoon to even their record at 3-3 by pounding Yale in the Cage. Perhaps more importantly, they are no longer playing or living under the shadow of last years team and record of 5-22.

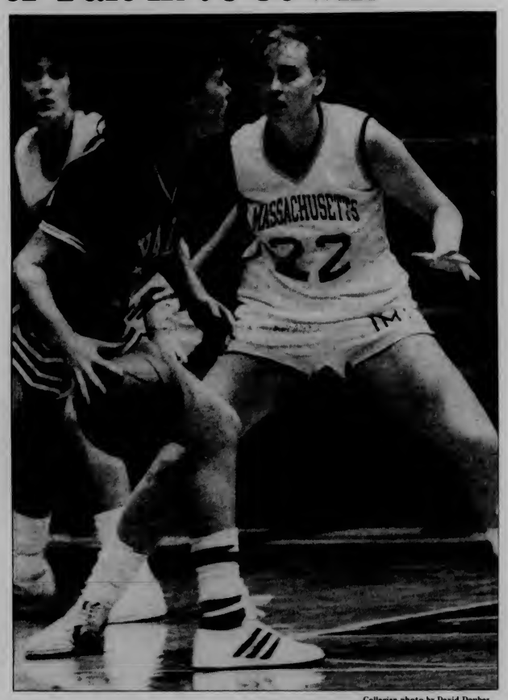
"We really keyed in on this one. We still had to establish ourselves as a 'new team' because we hadn't beaten anyone we haven't before," stated happy UMass coach Barbara Stevens.

The '83-'84 version of the women hoopsters established themselves via a convincing 75-76 score. The 19 point victory over Yale is quite a turnaround from last years 21 point loss to the Elis.

The undisputed number one star in this contest was Barbara Hebel. The 5'9" sophomore guard was unstoppable. Hebel hit 14 of 18 from the floor and 3 free throws for a game (and season) high 31 points.

UMass was in control of this game from the onset, except for occasional lapses. UMass surged to a big early lead, and looked to be unbeatable. The Yale offense was marred by poor passing, poor shot selection, traveling violations and a tough Minutewomen defense. The combination of circumstances led to UMass leads of much as 14-3 and 25-13.

At the end of the first half, the UMass surge stalled and Yale was right back in the ballgame. The halftime score stood at 34-27 and UMass headed to the locker room to regroup.



Half number two began with both teams merely swapping turns to score. Finally the UMass team decided to play some basketball. Aided by the fact that Yale was in the penalty (one and one situation on any personal foul) for the final ten minutes of the game, UMass took control. The women built their lead as Yale haplessly began to 'go thru the motions'.

The Elis attempted one last defensive ploy to stem the UMass attack. Their full court press failed, miserably. At one point, number one star, (Hebel) left a Yale defender reaching for the rafters for a fake pass, as Hebel strolled by her and in toward the hoop. Hebel and Karen Damminger (12 pts.) composed Hebel for the easy two points brought the crowd to their feet. It was the crushing two points of the game, and the prettiest two of the season.

The game didn't end on that play, but it may as well have. The team continued on their way to the 75-76 final.

Other instrumental figures in this game were Jerrie Bernier (14 pts.) Wendy Ward (9 pts.) and the freshmen contingent of Karen Kowe, Karen Fitzgerald and Mary Marquedant.

The next opponent for the women is a road trip to New Haven to meet a tough division II team in Southern Connecticut. The Owls were number four in the nation last year. UMass was pounded by Southern 82-56 last season. But that was last year's team!

Collegian photo by David Deuber

YOU'RE NOT GETTING BY ME -- Karen Damminger blocks the path to the hoop in UMass' 73-56 win over Yale Saturday in the Cage.

Wrestlers pinned down by Albany State

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts wrestling team was handed their fourth consecutive loss Friday night at the hands of the Albany State Great Danes by a 33-18 score at Boyden.

Shawn Sheldon started things off for the Danes by pinning UMass' Rich Gardiner at 1:21 of the first match in the 118 pound weight class.

Albany's Dave Averill put the visitors up 9-0 with an 11-5 decision over Minuteman Chris Lee. The UMass 126 pounder is now 2-2 in dual meets this year.

At the 134 mark UMass' Mike Hanlon dropped a four point decision to John Balog before Wes Beckwith put points on the board for the Minutemen. Beckwith dominated Albany's Greg Stackel the entire match before introducing his shoulders to the mat with 15 seconds left in the match. The score was now 13-6 in ASU's favor.

The Danes increased their lead to 17-6 as 150 pounder Glen O'Conner outpointed UMass' Dave MacDonald 16-8. Paul Hardy didn't fare much better for the Minutemen as he was outpointed by Stu Brodish, 21-9.

Albany's Doug Slater was no match for UMass captain Scott MacQuaide as the senior pinned Slater at 2:35 of the match. MacQuaide started the match by practicing his take downs on Slater until the Great Dane gave MacQuaide a tooth-loosening head butt and UMass' 167 pounder decided that enough was enough. After an injury time-out, MacQuaide got himself a mouth piece and pinned Slater almost immediately after the match resumed, leaving the score at 22-12.

UMass' Francisco Guttierez was outscored by Albany's Sandy Addlisterin 23-10 to put the Great Danes up 27-12 before Coach Rick Freitas and the rest of the wrestling squad got a surprise from 190 pounder Brian Shaughnessy. The freshman, wrestling up almost four weight classes, pinned a much larger Paul Feltman at the very end of the second period. Feltman led points the whole match before Shaughnessy reversed him and finished off the pinning combination. UMass forfeited the unlimited spot to make the final 33-18 for Albany.

The Minutemen host Harvard tonight at Boyden Auxiliary Gym. The match is scheduled to start at 7:30.

Holmes resigns WBC title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes resigned his World Boxing Council world heavyweight title Sunday and said he would fight as champion of the fledgling International Boxing Federation.

Holmes made the surprise announcement at the final day of the WBC's convention at Caesars Palace, and WBC President Jose Sulaiman accepted Holmes' title resignation.

Holmes relinguished the title just as the WBC was to approve a compromise that would have ordered arbitration to resolve Holmes' dispute with promoter Don King over a mandatory defense against No. 1-ranked Greg Page.

Skins win

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Joe Theismann threw for two touchdowns, John Riggins ran for two more and Washington's defense shackled Tony Dorsett and victimized Danny White as the Redskins seized first place in the National Conference East Sunday with a 31-10 rout of the Dallas Cowboys.

It was the worst regular season loss ever by the Cowboys to the Redskins.

The Redskins, 13-2, will win the division title if they beat the New York Giants next Saturday or if the Cowboys, 12-3, lose Monday night to San Francisco.

If the Cowboys and Redskins finish tied at 13-3, the Cowboys would win the NFC East title based on a better division record.

Dallas and Washington have already clinched playoff berths.

NUMMO NEWS

December 12, 1983 Volume 12 Issue 13 A Black News Service publication. connected with the Collegian for the sole purpose of distribution

"UHURU: Freedom in Motion" performed this weekend at the Hampden Theater in Southwest in their first production. photo by Segun Eubanks

UHURU: Freedom in Motion

by Segun Eubanks
Nummo Staff

"UHURU: Freedom in Motion," a new Third World performing ensemble at the university, opened their first production of dance, theater, and music this weekend at Hampden theater in Southwest.

In front of a full house on opening night, UHURU gave the audience an impressive performance consisting of a whole realm of culture and tradition. The ensemble showed their talent and creativity from the opening dance number of "To Be Young, Gifted, and Black," through to the ensemble finale, "Long Distance;" which combined dance with the song of many languages to represent the unity of all people of color who "must travel in order to purge the trauma of slaveries of the past and the impending threat of genocide of the future."

Under the theatrical direction of Patti O'Neal and the choreography of Olivia Sabulau, John Ruddock and Patti O'Neal, the student ensemble presented a unique cultural perspective that is too rarely seen in this area. This unique quality even carried over into intermission as the audience, instead of going out for munchies, was educated by the words of El Hajj Malik al-Shabazz, otherwise known as Malcolm X.

The two dance duets, "For all we know," performed by John Cruz and Kathleen Young and "When I first saw you," performed by John Ruddock and Melinda Ripps, were the most talented performances of the evening as the dancers portrayed the emotions that flow between men and women.

The strongest and most impressive performances came from ensemble member, Lorraine Smith and special guest Nigel Lewis. The message of the entire production was brought out in Smith's theatrical narration of excerpts from Ralph Ellison's "Invisible Man." "Take your mind out of hybernation..Create," said Smith, "Diversity is the world."

I was particularly moved by Lewis' excellent rendition of the hardships and frustrations of a Black man in his dance solo to the Gil Scot-Heron composition of "Pieces of Man."

This was the first time UHURU performed together as an ensemble. There were a few bugs, such as lighting and music coordination, that need to be worked out. However, overlooking these minor technical difficulties was very easy as the ensembles' talent, creativity, and strong cultural spirit combined for an excellent and very enjoyable show.

Being the first Third World student dance ensemble at UMass gives this production added significance. John Ruddock, production manager and main founder of UHURU said that he formed the ensemble in fall 1982 because "There was no avenue for people of color to express their art and culture" at UMass. The UMass dance major and the UMass dance ensemble are very exclusive and have never allowed for cultural expansion, Ruddock added.

Olivia Ilano, who has been performing in the area since 1978, teaches the Third World dance theatre workshop for the university and was very instrumental in the UHURU formation. Patti O'Neal, who has been teaching and performing dance, music, and theater in the area since 1977 said "UHURU is a collective endeavor." Music and theater are "natural compliments to dance" and are necessary aspects in presenting the culture of people of color, she added.

The future success of UHURU will surely add new perspectives and avenues for people of color in the Five College area. UHURU is, in the opinion of this reviewer, the most important and exciting ensemble for the Third World community since the Third World Theater Series (TWTS) opened with its first production in 1979. Hopefully, with the support of the students and participation of Valley artists, UHURU will be as successful as TWTS has been throughout the years.

Talking about Change

by Brenda Ling
Nummo Correspondent

"Change is constant. Those who are oppressed today will not be oppressed tomorrow." Kwame Ture, formerly Stokely Carmichael, activist and political philosopher, delivered this message to an audience of 75 people at Smith College last Monday.

Referring to all people pf African descent, Ture stressed to students that "only because of the struggles of the 60's" are there more African students in American colleges and universities today." Ture asserted, "the better organized you are the more (able) you are to fight for self-determination."

He urged all students to join organizations, the NAACP, PUSH, the National Urban League, the BLA, the New Afrikan Independence Movement, any organization, because "Inactivity works against people."

However people become involved, Ture proposed, all will finally see, perhaps through disillusionment with other movements, that "scientific socialism (is) the only just economic social system."

He gave as example of mass movement leaders, Martin Luther King Jr. and Jesse Jackson. Mentioning King, Ture said that King's mistake was transferring the tactic of non-violence into a principle. This was a mistake, said Ture, because the "search for power is not moral, but political." King contributed most by teaching people "how to confront the enemy without fear," he explained.

In response to a question Ture explained that Jackson "will raise the minimal level of consciousness" by raising issues that the other Democratic candidates will bypass and ultimately "will raise revolutionary aspirations of people when they are disillusioned" further by the present unjust system.

Ture told his audience, as workers in many different political struggles, to "break out of the confines of the U.S., (to) look internationally," as had Malcolm X. He supports "Pan-Africanism, the total liberation and unification of Africa," and said it is an example of solidarity that all African must strive toward in the goal of "anti-sectarianism, (because) only the enemy wins with sectarianism."

Kwame Ture, his African name, is a combination of the names of two political philosophers and leaders, Kwame Nkruma and Seka Ture. He resides in the Peoples' Revolutionary Republic of Ginea, but travels widely on touring circuits. His visit was sponsored by the Smith College Black Students Alliance and the Smith chapter of the NAACP.

UMass Chaplain Robin Harden (right) and student Andrea Baker in discussion at a "community get-together" sponsored by the Minority Worship Committee this Thursday at the Malcolm X Center. photo by Segun Eubanks

EDITORIAL

I am not writing this letter as an alumni holding two degrees from this institution, nor as member of the administrative staff. I am writing as a member of the community at large, because I feel a responsibility to raise some question - not because they stem from a consensus of the community or represnt a popular cause, but because moral conscience dictates it.

I realize that there are many facts of which I may not be well informed. If my concerns stem from ignorance, then perhaps they will be answered in order that the community at large may be enlightened.

On this campus two students are charged with two separate offenses. One, a young Black female charged with two complaints alleging burning of property of another. She was arraigned before District Court Judge Richard Connor on Monday, December 5, 1983. On this same date another student, a white male, was arraigned in Court Room Number One at 9:00 a.m. for allegedly raping a fourteen year old child.

One question to be considered is the value placed upon the separate offenses that would regulate the respective actions taken by the university. In the case of Ms. Henry, she was withdrawn from the university and issued a no trespassing order, barring her from setting foot on campus.

In the case of Mr. Briggs, it is my understanding that he remains a student in good standing until the jury reaches a verdict after hearing the facts in his case. Are we then to believe that justice shold be carried through in the latter example but not in the former? Or should we believe that the university takes stern sanctions against a student only when there has been national coverage and community outcry to convict someone? Or should we believe that if you are charged with sexually abusing and debasing the body of a 14 year old child, and potentially scarring that child's mind, that this is not worthy of, nor requires, university sanction? I personally believe that the alleged sex offender should have his day in court before being sanctioned by the university. So I applaud them for their sense of judicial reasoning and fair play in Mr. Briggs' case.

Is there a reason why Ms. Henry has not been afforded the same fair treatment? Or do we have two victims - both female - one a 20 year old college student accused of a crime and the other a 14 year old child who has been raped? Does justice fall short when a female is involved, or does justice fall short when one is a female and black? Is there a different set of standards applied when the subject is a white male, or a football player, who is accused of doing nothing less than raping a child? It is my fervent hope and prayer that these are not the standards applied in this case.

Much was made earlier about the psychological profile of an arsonist. If the experts are willing to consider this profile, I hope they will consider the following profile.

Ms. Henry, at the age of 20, is completing a rigorous academic program. She is the daughter of a widowed social worker who served as an advocate for child welfare in the Pennsylvania court system. She is the daughter of a father who worked 25 years for the federal government. She is the granddaughter of a Pennsylvania judge, a fifth generation college student on the maternal side and sixth generation college student on the fraternal side. She has a sister who graduated from UMASS last year, and a sixteen year old sister who has applied for admission next fall. Ms. Henry is a young woman who comes from a long line of people who believe in the importance of a quality education and of making a positive contribution to the community at large.

There are other questions to be asked. For instance, what process was used when Ms. Henry was detained incommunicado; was she denied her civil rights? But enough has been said for the moment. I will close with a message to the community. We must develop a coalition of conscience, a grand alliance, which will one day bring an end to the evils of injustice that have clouded our days and transform a dark today into a bright tomorrow. We must stand up and ask questions based upon our convictions and our perception of right. This is our community and we should become active participants in it, rather than passive bystanders.

Sincerely,
Rev. Arthur L. Hilson
Florence, MA.

Editor's Note: It is Yvette's great Uncle that was a judge not her grandfather.

Also, since this letter was written Yvette has been temporarily readmitted in order to attend classes. Nummo feels that the questions raised in this letter still have significance.

EDITORIAL

NOTE: Reprinted from the December 8, 1983 issue of The National Leader, the newsweekly linking the Black community nationwide.

by Claude Lewis

If you believe in Santa Claus, or have a need to, perhaps you had better not read this.

It is Christmastime, 1983, and most of us are again involved in our annual delusion that giving gifts and whooping it up makes us better people. But lingering just below the surfaces of our minds are the realities of the previous 11 months. And painful realities they are.

A sweater from Aunt Mildred or a camera from Uncle Reggie does not make the war in Lebanon less of a reality for me. There is no moratorium in my mind as legal murder on our globe continues.

I suppose that we should all be thinking happy thoughts because its Christmastime, but what are we supposed to do with truth? Are we to deny reality for a week? During the rest of the year they put people in mental hospitals for doing that.

Even a one-minute-and-20-second filmed message from President Reagan or the mayor does not fill me with joy at what I see. No, I am not suggesting that we all walk around with our heads hanging in despair. What I do suggest is that we hold our heads up and give some real meaning to Christmas.

This should be a time for renewed dedication to the principles of love and respect between all people, a time for a determination to rid ourselves of baseless suspicions and false prejudices.

Instead, Christmas for many has become no more than an opportunity to broaden their materialism. Many families strain their budgets each December because they are too embarrassed or too insecure to face their loved ones with empty hands even though their hearts are full.

I have four children but long ago I stopped delighting them on Christmas morning with gifts. And I have provided none this year.

What I will offer will not be gift wrapped. As we do each year, we will talk about the gift of life and the inherent value of evey man and woman on this earth. I believe that these unique gifts will last a lifetime; they will not be discarded because the batteries run down or because of some manufacturer's planned obsolescence.

continued on page 3

by Segun Eubanks

It has been ten days since federal, state, and university police concluded an investigation and arrested Yvette Henry for burning the personal property of another. Since that time there has been a lot of activity and a lot of talk concerning the case.

In beginning the press was very slanderous and had already convicted Yvette. However, the more facts come out the more the press has had to change the stories and ask questions.

When Yvette was arrested, she was immediately suspended had barred from the university. However, due to the work of many people in the community and much to the embarrassment of Dean Field, Yvette was readmitted and given the option of attending classes.

Another development was the arrest of two more students in so-called fire related issues. The first student was arrested for pulling a fire alarm off a wall. Now the press and the university quickly associated this arrest with the string of fires that has plagued the campus. They did this in order to take some of the negative publicity away from the Yvette Henry case. The only problem is that this arrest really had nothing to do with the fires. The alarm went off and a student with a hang-over ripped the box down: typical vandalism but not an arsonist.

The other arrest was of a student for setting a rug on fire; university property just as the desk that Yvette was supposed to have set on fire. However the charge of burning the personal property of another, a felony, was reduced to a misdemeanor, in that case but not so with.

So as you see there are still a lot more questions that need to be answered. And there are a lot of people looking for those answers. One such group of people is the newly formed Legal Defense Committee designed to raise funds for Yvette and gather information about the case. Approximately 30 members will work to keep the community aware of new developments, raise money for attorneys, and provide transportation to Yvette's pre-trial hearing on January 26th.

We must support the Defense committee in their efforts and offer whatever support we can. As time goes on and more answers are found, still more questions will arise. Such as why a pre-trial hearing was set for mid January when students will be at home for intersession?

And maybe when this is all over and Yvette is free to piece her life back together, we as a community can stay organized . For lack of organization makes us vunerable to attack. Any one of us can be taken off the streets and denied freedom as Yvette was. However, this can not happen when we are united and strong.

Scera's Anti-Racism team sponsored a panel on racism in education Tuesday night. photo by Ed Cohen

So go home this intersession and enjoy your vacation, but remember what you left behind. Remember Yvette had come back ready to continue your support. In the words of Yvette Henry: "Thank you very, very much for your love and support. I love you all."

On Sunday, December 11, Crampton received another threat of fire. Found in a Collegian typewriter was the quote "Crampton dies young...gasoline on carpets december 11, 1983." Yet, security in Crampton, according to many residents in the dorm, has eased up considerably.

THINK ABOUT IT!

Third World Leadership

by Segun Eubanks
Nummo Staff

On Saturday, December 3, 1983, the University of Massachusetts hosted the fifth annual New England Third World Leadership Conference. Over 250 students attended a full day of workshops and speakers, designed to bring together Third World organizations from majority white campuses.

The conference was highlighted with a keynote address by James Baldwin who spoke on the collision between Third World interests and present higher education. Baldwin said that the purpose of higher education is to maintain order in the world and to "preserve the status quo."

He went on to say that "white" is a state of mind designed to justify the enslavement of people. He concluded saying that the institutions, including higher education, want to keep us "on the auction block" and that we (Third World people) will remain slaves until we decide not to be slaves. "The world is ours, we must take it."

Coordinators of the conference, Paul Barrows, director of the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black and Minority Students (CCEBMS) amd Sherwood Thompson, director of the Office of Third World Affairs felt that the efforts of students and staff led to the success of the conference.

Two UMass students register for the fifth annual Third World Leadership Conference.

STUDENT REACTION

Most students interviewed felt that the conference was very successful. According to Kevin Hatten from Greater Hartford Community College, this was the biggest and best conference so far.

Robert Texeira, co-chairman of the UMass Third World Caucus and facilitator of the workshop, "Involvement in Student Government," said "Paul (Barrows) and Sherwood (Thompson) deserve deep thanks and appreciation from students; however students should be more involved in the planning and implementation of the conference." He also added that the UMass student turn-out could have been much better.

Hakim Abal-Khallaq, a sophomore Psychology major from American International College and Hank McCoy, a junior Criminal Justice major from the same school, both participated in the Black Student Caucus. Abal-Khallaq said that the caucus was beneficial but "spent too much time jumping fom issue to issue." McCoy thought the caucus was very important but that it didn't have enough time to get anything started.

Another student from Manchester Community College, Blayne Cohen, a sophomore said, "I felt the conference was very informative, and gave the Black perspective more definition." He would like to see the conference become national if it can be accomodated.

Other schools that have hosted the conference have done so for two years in a row and Barrows is hoping that UMass will do the same. "We can improve on our mistakes and have an even stronger conference in 1984."

A constitution for the Northeastern Minority Student Alliance was presented to a sub-committee to be formalized and should be ratified at the next regional meeting. According to Paul Reeves, student trustee from UMass Boston, "We have made giant strides in bringing together Third World people in the Northeast region."

continued from page 2

The money that our family normally spends on gifts will be turned over to an organization which assists orphaned children. Christmas morning will be no shock in my house, because my family concurs with the idea that it is better to give than to receive.

For several years my wife and I have sorrowed at the encroaching commercialism of Christmas and each year we have grown less and less involved in purchasing gifts. Now all ties with this holiday as it is generally practiced have been severed in our home.

All year long, people offend one another's deepest sensibilities. We engage in unkind deeds, dishonest acts, and then at Christmas we rush out and spend billions of dollars on toys, household furnishings, fancy automobiles, computers, video recorders, and other gifts, while not far from our homes, our neighbors exist on year-long starvation diets.

In our kindness we do not forget the poor entirely. We send a ten-cent toy to some lonely orphan who would much prefer a hug and a home. Or we send a dollar to an Indian starving to death on a reservation, because we have "the Christmas spirit."

Each year with monotonous regularity we hear or read of those who knock on doors delivering food baskets to the poor and the hungry. Thi is a kind deed, but who helped these same families on March 1, or June 20, or August 6, when hunger was just as real and Christmas was several months off?

Somehow I can no longer rejoice over a new bowling ball at Christmas while Black and white Americans and brown Asians and others are engaged in war. It is also difficult for me to put aside the problems of world hunger, the violence between the Israelis and Arabs, the deadly trap of drug addiction or the many other transgressions we have grown used to.

I am not a religious person but I am very respectful. And it is because of this respect that I can no longer dwell on materialism. It pains me that every year most of us go off on a commercial venture on the birthday of a man named Jesus Christ who was born in a stable, offered his life to those who would accept it, and died in a plain garment on a rough wooden cross.

I can no longer trade His image and what He represents for Santa Claus.

I love my children and your children much too much to continue doing that.

Here Comes Eddie!

by Richard Thorpe
Nummo Correspondent

Here comes Eddie! The mastermind of Buckwheat, Velvet Jones and Raheem Abdul Muhammed from Saturday Night Live (SNL) has done it again. This multi-media star of television, film, cable and concerts has just released an uproariously funny album entitled simply, "Eddie Murphy: Comedian." And what Pryor did to audiences in the seventies, Murphy is doing to them in the eighties.

Recorded in Constitution Hall, Washington D.C. on August 17 and 18 the lp is part of the five city "Delirious" tour and was also made into a video that was shown on Home Box Office (HBO). Aside from creating and writing all his material, Murphy also co-produced the record.

The two-sided, one-record set contains nine selections: "Faggots Revisited/Sexual Prime," "Singers," "Ice Cream Man/Shoe Throwin' Mothers," "Modern Woman," "The Barbeque," "Fart Game," "Politics/Racism," "Languages" and "T.V."

Anyone who thought that Eddie would be doing SNL-like material is in for a surprise;for not only is his material different than that of Saturday Night Live, it is offensive enough that he warns those who are easily offended to "get the f--k out now."

Clearly there are three routines that are destined to become classics: "Singers," "Ice Cream Man/Shoe Throwin' Mothers" and "The Barbeque."

On the first he talks about singers being able to manipulate their audiences, particularly the women.He imitates Michael Jackson, Elvis Presley, Luther Vandross, James Brown and Stevie Wonder, so flawlessly that you actually believe they're up on stage and not Eddie.

"The Ice Cream Man" reminicses hot summer days and the havoc that the ice cream man causes among mothers and kids alike. Part two of that selection is a recreation of Eddie's mother and her accuracy at throwing shoes at her son to disipline him.

"The barbeque is probably the funniest thing on the album, and at over twelve minutes in length, the longest. It is the hilarious escapades of the Murphy family at a family picnic. He describes how their backyard happens to get burned up every year by Eddie's over exuberant uncle, and the destruction caused by his aunt, who rips down the stairs evey year after falling down them.

Murphy's imitations of Mr. T and other celebrities are both brilliant and too funny. He is able to take situations and not only breathe life into them but create funny monologue. I recommend this record for fans and also for those who are hams at heart. I also recommend that you see the HBO video because it contains the album version plus some material too visual to put on the album. Listening to him is a pleasure but seeing him on the screen performing is sheer delight.

Rhythm Changes

On December 16 and 17 at 8:00 p.m., in the Hampden Theater, there will be a multimedia performance entitled "Rhythm Changes." This presentation is an outgrowth of the senior thesis work of two Africa-American Studies majors at the University of Massachusetts, Barry Haq and Victoria Carter, and will present an overview of African-American music with a special emphasis on the historical process out of which it developed.

"Rhythm Changes" was conceived and produced by Barry Haq and Victoria Carter. The production is directed by Ingrid Askew and uses music, dance, theater and visual media to instill the audience with a message that is both educational and entertaining. The production staff which includes both artists and stage crew is composed predominantly of students from the five colleges.

This event will be free and open to the public and all are encouraged to attend. The Hampden Theater is located at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in the Southwest Residential Area.

by Segun Eubanks
Nummo Staff

This time of year has always been special to me. It has been a time to rejoice and celebrate. The family and the community comes together to learn, to share, and to love. To give strength for the coming year and to look at the accomplishments and shortcomings of the previous year.

Of course I am talking about my favorite holiday. No, I'm not referring to Christmas. I have not celebrated Christmas for many years.

There are many reasons for this, but I won't go into them now. The joyous spirit that I feel around this time is the spirit of KWANZA.

Kwanza is a celebration in the cultural spirit of African tradition. It is a celebration of the Nguzu Saba, seven principle, of which we all should live by. Come celebrate with us this Friday at 12:30 in the NAH library. Be a part of our family.

• • • NUMMO STAFF • • •

Tracey Bryant	Editor-in-Chief
Andrea Baker	Business Manager
Bernadine Brown	Administrative Assistant
Segun Eubanks	Researcher
M. David Lee III	Researcher
Yvonne Mendez	Layout Editor
Charles Rinehart	Graphics
Donette Wilson	Reporter

• • • Contributors • • •

Ed Cohen	Photographer
Maria DaLuz	Photographer
Russell Jordan	Correspondent
Brenda Ling	Correspondent
Aiko Pandorf	Correspondent
Rob Teixeira	Correspondent
Rich Thorpe	Correspondent

Address all letters to the Editor to:
NUMMO NEWS, New Africa House 103

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Anyone who will be in the area during intersession and is willing to share their apartment with people coming up for Yvette Henry's hearing on Jan. 26, please contact Nummo at 545-0061 or CCEBMS at 545-0031.

Friday, December 16

CCEBMS' Christmas and Kwanza celebration will be held at 12:30 in the Shirley Graham DuBois Library, New Africa House.

The Legal Defense Committee of Yvette Henry will meet at 4:00 PM in rm. 428 SUB. For more information call Nummo at 545-0061.

For pictures or tapes of the fifth annual Third World Student Leadership Conference contact the Office of Third World Affairs at 545-2517.

Monday, December 12

There will be an informational meeting on the Yvette Henry case at 8:00 PM in Campus Center Room 175. The meeting is sponsored by the Everywoman's Center and the Office of Third World Affairs.

Sunday, December 18

Community Worship in the tradition of the Black church, will be conducted by Rev. Robin Harden, UMass Chaplain at James House classroom in Southwest at 11:00 AM.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U.S. Embassy in Kuwait bombed

KUWAIT (AP) - A dumptruck packed with explosives crashed through the U.S. Embassy gates today and blew up, killing three people and injuring 14, officials said. Five other explosions in the city killed one person and injured about 40 others.

The blast collapsed a three-story annex of the U.S. Embassy, shook buildings hundreds of yards away and hurled chunks of concrete into nearby buildings. The truck blew up before it reached the four-story main embassy building, but initial reports spoke of severe damage in the American compound. U.S. officials said no Americans were killed.

Witnesses and hospital sources said one of two men in the cab of the six-wheeled truck was killed, but his partner was hurled into the air by the blast and survived. He was unconscious and in serious condition at a hospital hours after the attack, sources said.

Police sources said others killed included two Arab security guards employed by the U.S. Embassy and a technician at the airport.

A seventh car bomb was defused near the Kuwaiti Passport and Immigration Office in the Remaithiya district of the city.

A shadowy group calling itself "Islamic Holy War" claimed responsibility in a telephone call in Beirut for the bomb blitz in this small Persian Gulf country. The obscure group has said it was responsible for other recent suicide bombings of American, French and Israeli targets in Lebanon.

The Kuwaiti government asked the public for calm. Police sealed off the blast areas and stepped up security at foreign offices.

U.S. Embassy spokesman David Good said the truck bomb detonated in a parking lot just inside the American compound after crashing through the main gate about 9:30 a.m. 1:30 a.m. EST. Witnesses said the administration building housing the consulate collapsed.

Kuwait's news agency said 54 people were injured by the explosions and said several arrests had been made.

The state news agency quoted security sources as saying the other five bombs were detonated by remote control in parked vehicles rigged with explosives and gas cylinders. The airport blast did not disrupt service, and there was only minimal damage at the industrial complex.

Normally, the U.S. Embassy has a strong security force, including armored cars. CBS News reported Aug. 25 that U.S. intelligence had thwarted a plot to bomb the embassy and that security was beefed up.

The other explosions were at the French Embassy; in a car in a parking lot near the Kuwaiti International Airport control power; in a residential district where U.S. technicians and diplomats live at Al-Badah, nine miles north of the city; at the Al-Shoaibab industrial complex 30 miles south of Kuwait; and at an electric power station.

The Kuwait News Agency said 54 were injured in all the explosions and also said several arrests had been made.

Secretary of State George Shultz condemned the attack and said it would not deter U.S. effortshto bring peace to the Middle East. He was in Rabat, Morocco, where he met with King Hassan II.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 64 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Tuesday, December 13, 1983

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

University of Massachusetts at Amherst Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey addresses an audience of resident assistants and other invited guests, including University police and Housing Services personnel, yesterday at his Orchard Hill house, to announce that after "a very difficult few weeks," which have included more than 40 fires in University dormitories, "I hope the next couple of weeks will be quiet ones and you will go off and have a nice holiday."

The chancellor, at the first of two such receptions he has planned for members of the University community involved with the series of small fires which he stressed are in essense "only matters of a small part of the student body," thanked all attending and called the problem one "which we ought not to hang our heads over."

"This campus has really a marvelous reputation...despite the events of the past few weeks," Duffey said, although admitting some damage to the school's reputation as a result. However, "most parents I've talked to are quite understanding," and the "public is now beginning to understand the situation," Duffey said, although emphasizing that his primary concern — the safety of dormitory residents — has thus far been achieved.

Inside

Civil Disobedience used to voice nuclear arms protest ..... p. 2

Dead heads — Garcia reviewed ..... p. 5

"History repeats the old conceits, the glib replies, the same retreats."

— Elvis Costello

State legislature closes; UM repair budget killed

By STEPHEN HOWE
Collegian Staff

When the Massachusetts Legislature recessed for the year early Saturday they left in limbo a capitol outlay budget which would provide the University of Massachusetts with up to $22 million for much needed repairs.

Included in the budget approved by both chambers of the legislature are $6 million for repairs to the high pressure steam pipes that provide heat to the Southwest Residential Area, and $5 million for building repairs on campus.

The 18 year-old steam pipes, which were only designed to last 20 years according to Physical Plant officials, are the sole source of heat for 5,400 students who live in Southwest. The pipes are said to be deteriorating, and Chancellor Joseph Duffey has been involved in the search for money to pay for replacement. Governor Michael S. Dukakis recommended that $3 million be allocated for the project.

The $5 million for building repairs would pay for extensive renovations of Goessman laboratory, which has the oldest lab facilities on campus, and repairs to the roof of the Fine Arts Center. Dukakis recommended only $3.5 million for these projects.

The House and Senate also both approved $2.5 million to study and implement a solution to the pollution of Taylor brook by a University-owned coal pile at Tilson Farm, while Dukakis recommended no money for this project.

According to Kathleen Merrigan, an aide to Sen. John Olver, D-Amherst, the Senate's version of the capital outlay budget, approved last Wednsday, would be rejected by the House, and differences between the two would be worked out in a conference committee and a final budget passed before the legislature broke for the year.

The budget was the first state capital outlay since 1980, and according to University President David C. Knapp, would be the last for another three or four years.

H.J. Littlefield, director of facilities planning at UMass, said last week he would be "delighted" if the UMass allocations went through. However, the legislature recessed at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, after a 23-hour session, leaving the budget differences unresolved.

Discrimination in Henry case

By DAVID SUMMERSBY
Collegian Staff

Despite University of Massachusetts Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey's statement Monday that the fire fiasco is over and is something "which we ought not to hang over our heads," supporters of the black woman charged with setting one fire in Crampton Dormitory said Yvette Henry was a scapegoat used by the University and her arrest was an attack on the whole black and third world community at UMass.

"They (the university) goofed and goofed badly. Singling out Yvette Henry was an act of hysteria. The heat was on and they had to act," said Muriel Wiggins, assistant director of Freshman Admissions last night at an information session on the Henry case.

"The university was under pressure to make an arrest and they had to find somebody. "It was unfortunate choice," said Reverand Robin L. Harden, from the United Christian Foundation.

"If it can happen to one black it can happen to anyone who is black or third minority on this campus," Harden said.

The information session was attended by mor than fifty people who listen to a four person panel view their concerns about the Henry case and then answered questions from the audience.

Thelma Griffith-Johnson, director of Affirmative Action at UMass and another panelist said the decision to arrest Henry was an act of hysteria by the University and that Henry was treated unfairly because she was black.

"In my view her, constitutional rights were violated," Johnson said referring to the night Henry was arrested and forced to spend two subsequent nights in jail before appearing at her arraignment.

"I offered my own property, all my jewelry and my future employment to take that woman into my home," she said.

"There was no need except public hysteria to allow them to post a $10,000 bail and take her into custody.

"I believe if she had been white, I would have been allowed to take her into my home," Johnson said.

Johnson and several others at the forum made appeals for everyone to support Henry through donations and their presence at her January 26th pre-trial hearing.

"She is going to need money. She has been damaged for the rest of her life. It depends on us to turn it around for her," Johnson said.

Legal Services lawyer, Michael Pill said Legal Services have dealt with 12 similar serious student discipline cases and none were suspended. "I support the statements made about the problems."

Pill also said it was important that many people attend Henry's pre-trial hearing on January 26.

"It will have a solid effect for the judge to look at a packed courtroom," he said.

Digest

AP Laserphoto

CHRISTMAS KISSES — Mr. T., star of T.V. show The A Team, donned Santa garb for first lady Nancy Reagan's preview of the White House Christmas decor Monday.

Personas protestaban contra armas detuvieron

Boston- A tightly guarded conference on missile development and marketing drew hundreds of protesters Monday, and more than 50 were arrested for sitting down on the sidewalk in the hotel lobby and in elevators to protest U.S. arms policies.

The arrests took place shortly before 8 a.m., when dozens of demonstrators sat down on a sidewalk outside the 57 Park Plaza Hotel. Police Superintendent John Geagan said about 40 demonstrators out of a crowd of 350 were charged with disturbing the peace.

About 15 others, who got through police lines and sat down in the lobby and elevators, were charged with trespassing. George Furst of the Worcester Support Group Against Euromissiles said his group released cockroaches in the lobby "as a reminder that insects will inherit the earth following a nuclear war."

Coast Guard casi cesa una remesa de marijuana

BOSTON - After a 1½ day wait for diplomatic approval, the Coast Guard halted a suspected marijuana "mothership" with a salvo of gunfire Monday, only to find the ship's $25 million cargo had been thrown overboard.

The freighter Adina stopped after the cutter Unimak fired a .50 caliber machine gun volley about 275 miles east of Nantucket, said Chief Petty Officer Griggs of the Boston Coast Guard base.

Griggs said the warning fire was authorized after the 154 foot freighter, suspected of ferrying Colombian marijuana to the Northeast, refused to stop.

AP Laserphoto

...'AND I'D LIKE the session to end December every year...' Mass. Senate President William Bulger sits on Santa's knee during a senior citizens' party in Boston Sunday.

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
TUESDAY LIVE!
Comedy Night with BOSTON COMEDIANS!
— Only 99¢ —
Sponsored by GPC

PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS
THE GREAT DINNER MOVIE DEAL!
TOP of the CAMPUS RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
fine dining ...a meal with a view
CHOOSE from our starring entrees:
★CHICKEN KIEV
★TURKEY PARMESAN
★COUNTRY STYLE BAR-B-Q RIBS
★FRESH CATCH OF THE DAY served with our SALAD BAR and your choice of beverage and RECEIVE a FREE MOVIE PASS
ONLY 6.95
DINNER SPECIAL is available TUESDAY-THURSDAY nights
MOVIE PASS is valid SUNDAY-THURSDAY
8 Theaters... Your choice for entertainment
amc THEATRES 584 7550 584 9153

SPECIAL UMASTY NIGHT 8-10 pm
T.O.C. COCKTAIL PARTY
COSTUME CONTEST
10 PM • ALEXIS • FALLON • BLAKE
Giveaways!
Michelob Prizes
TOP of the CAMPUS
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
11th Floor • Campus Center • UMass

GIFT IDEAS
Swiss Army Knives
Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
UNIVERSITY STORE

FUNDING FOR INDIVIDUAL PROPOSALS
umass Arts council
545-0202
The deadline for the next UMass Arts Council funding period is Feb. 8, 1984. Applications may be picked up in Herter Hall 125, Monday through Friday, 9-5.
1984 FUNDING PERIODS
Period 3 Proposal deadline--2/8/84 Council vote--2/14/84
Period 4 Proposal deadline--3/30/84 Council vote--4/10/84
Period 5 Proposal deadline--4/30/84 Council vote--5/14/84 (for Sept. '84 events)

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00* (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah

AEROBICS IN THE BLUEWALL — Twice a week, Californian Abel Silvas holds aerobic classes in the Bluewall Bar on campus. A class will be held today, free of charge, from 2:30-3:30 p.m. Collegian photo by Andy Heller

MTA-USA sign contract for workers' safety

By JOSH MEYER
and JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the second article in a series on asbestos on campus at UMass.

With the removal of asbestos-containing materials from the Campus Center to begin in eight days, employees there are still concerned over the potential cancer risks associated with exposure to asbestos particles.

Workers in the Massachusetts Teacher Association — University Staff Association (MTA-USA) ratified a contract yesterday which orders that "areas found to contain friable asbestos shall be posted and all reports of suspected areas of asbestos shall be promptly investigated," said Winnie Stone, grievance officer for the union.

This is the first time a contract has specifically mentioned asbestos, Stone said.

Removal of asbestos-containing spray-on coating from the ceiling in the concourse and University Store is scheduled to begin Dec. 21, and yesterday workers removed pictures from the walls of the concourse, the first step in clearing the concourse for the project. The store began moving its stock up to the Cape Cod Lounge and the Student Union Ballroom after Thanksgiving.

University of Massachusetts Department of Environmental Health and Safety Director Donald Robinson has said present levels of asbestos in the air are not dangerous, and said air samples wre taken Friday to give added assurance to workers.

Asbestos concentration increases considerably during removal, though, according to an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) report, and employees who are working in the University Store basement during removal, are worried they might be exposed to dangerous levels of the cancer-causing fibers.

University Store manager Win Cummings said some management, bookkeeping and receiving employees will be working in the basement during the removal.

"We'll be working directly underneath the removal area," said a University Store worker who asked not to be identified. "Our main concern is that the area will not be sealed up right. We've still been told nothing formally — all we have to go on is hearsay."

Kathy Murray, president of MTA-USA, said, "People have expressed concerns (about) testing and relocating (people who are found to have been exposed to asbestos)."

"A lot of people have been hearing a lot of things," Murray said. "Our primary concern is with people who are stuck there."

Murray added that the University administration has been "fairly forthcoming in terms of willing to do tests and plan meetings, but the problem has been discovered only recently.

Stone said the administration has agreed to meet with Campus Center employees and discuss concerns as soon as a meeting can be arranged.

Because the asbestos levels are expected to increase during removal, the entire work area will be sealed off with polyethylene sheets, and elevator doors and ventilator shafts will be blocked with plywood sheets, according to the safety specifications for the project. Workers removing the asbestos materials will wear disposable clothing and respirators, and will be required to take showers before leaving the site, the specifications state.

35 PVTA drivers vote for union

By BROOKE STATES
Collegian Staff

Drivers for the Western Mass. Bus Lines, including 25 University of Massachusetts students, voted to join the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, in an election held last week.

Thirty-five workers voted to join the union, and 21 voted against, according to union representative Richard Courtney. Twenty-one ballots were challenged, he said, and must be judged before the National Labor Relations Board will certify the election, so the union can begin contract negotiations with the company.

"I am delighted by the results," Courtney said. "Once we get certified by the National Labor Relations Board as the bargaining agent the company has to sit down and negotiate in good faith according to the law."

The student drivers make up about one-quarter of the company's workforce, and drive the Amherst-Northampton, Williamstown and Easthampton routes. Western Mass. Bus Lines operates these routes for the Pioneer Valley Transit Authority (PVTA). Students who drive UMass PVTA routes are not affected by the election.

Company officials do not want part-time student employees to be included in the union bargaining process.

"We do not agree with the bargaining unit and do not feel that students should be included in it," John Herlihy, president of the bus line, said. He noted that benefits and pay "have doubled in the past few years," and claimed that full-time workers do not support the union.

"We have to wait until the challenged ballots are counted and see what type of bargaining order we recieve from the National Labor Relations Board, " Herlihy said. "We also have to respect the 25 people who voted against the union." Herlihy added that if the labor board approves the election the company may file an appeal with the first circuit court of appeals.

The board had earlier decided that students could be in the bargaining unit.

Tom Burnell, a senior UMass legal studies major and member of the union organizing committee, called the election results "Fantastic."

"Just to sit down and negotiate with the company will be great," Burnell said. But he said, "(Herlihy) wants to isolate the full timers from the rest of the people so we will not have a unified bargaining unit."

Herlihy gave full-time employees a raise and told them that "they were the most important people to him," Burnell said.

Three men arrested for fight in Pierpont

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts police arrested three men shortly before 9:30 p.m. Friday, in connection with a fight at Pierpont dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area.

Police said a 19-year-old Jamaica Plain resident was charged with being a disorderly person and in possession of an altered Massachusetts license, a 19-year-old West Newton resident was charged with being a disorderly person and a 17-year-old West Roxbury resident was charged with being a disorderly person and with assault and battery on a police officer. All three were involved in a fight and disturbance at Pierpont dorm, police said.

In other police action:

A 20-year-old North Scituate resident was arrested at 2:27 a.m. Saturday and charged with driving while intoxicated, police said. The subject was also cited for failure to use care in turning, according to police, when he was observed on Commonwealth Ave.

Police arrested a 28-year-old Boston resident at 4:46 a.m. Sunday and charged him with possession of amphetamines.

The arrest occurred at police headquarters after the subject was brought in for protective custody, police said. The drugs were found during a routine search in booking procedure, according to police.

Police and the Amherst Fire Department responded to a report of a fire in the Student Union at 3:10 p.m. Sunday. The fire occurred in a trash barrel on the first floor, but the alarm was not activated and there were no damages, police said.

Police, the Amherst Fire Department and Environmental Health and Safety responded to a report of a fire in Washington dormitory in Southwest at 9:30 p.m. Friday. The fire occurred on the 11th floor, according to police, and was caused by careless disposal of smoking materials into a wastebasket. A resident of the floor extinguished the fire, police said, and there were no damages.

Police report arrests for DWI, assault

By GREG BROWN
Collegian Staff

A Greenfield man allegedly assaulted a police officer Sunday morning after an accident that flipped over the 21-year-old's car.

Amherst Police reported that the man was arrested at 1:24 a.m. on East Pleasant Street and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI), driving to endanger, assault and battery on a police officer and being a disorderly person.

The two-car collision caused the Greenfield man's Volkswagon Beetle to flip over at the intersection of Cherry Lane and East Pleasant Street. Police said they approached the man sitting by a tree, and he "swung at the officer, then ran." He was chased, and he reportedly kicked a policeman in the shins before being apprehended.

Two passangers were slightly injured in the accident, a 23-year-old man and an 18-year-old man.

Amherst Police reported two other DWI arrests this weekend, and four arrests for larceny of Christmas trees from the Boy Scouts on the Amherst Common on North Pleasant Street.

A 1978 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was recovered from a Southwood Apartments parking space Thursday night. Police said the car was reported stolen in Palmer, and no arrest was made.

A white man was reported to have exposed himself at Hampshire College. A Prescott House resident said the 5 foot 8 inches man was on a fire escape near the dorm early Friday morning.

A resident of Cosby Avenue reported Sunday afternoon that $300 in burnt money was missing from their garage.

SECRET SANTA SIREN — Kermit Kimball, a school of management major, performed an interesting Secret Santa stunt in front of the Grayson House Council. Resident Director Ted Mone was reported to have "gotten a kick" out of the prank, which was required before Kimball received his gift. Collegian photo by Andy Heller

ANNOUNCING:
Peer Education Recruitment
University Health Services offers Spring 1984 credited course work as:
★ Peer Sexuality Educators
★ Peer Alcohol Educators
★ Health Aides and
★ HealthReach Workers
Training and working with others to round out your University experience:
INQUIRE OR APPLY AT
HEALTH EDUCATION / 549-2671 ext. 181

PREPARE FOR
MCAT • LSAT • GMAT
SAT • ACT • DAT • GRE • CPA
Our 45th year
Feb. 4, 1984 Exam — GRE classes begin 1/3/84
Jan. 28, 1984 Exam — GMAT classes begin 12/14/83, 1/2/84
Intersession Class — LSAT Begins 1/4/84
April 28, 1984 Exam — MCAT classes begin 1/3/84, 1/7/84
Stanley H. KAPLAN Educational Center
Call Days Eves & Weekends
264 N. Pleasant Street
Amherst
253-5108
For information about other centers Outside NY State CALL TOLL FREE 800 223 1782
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
$1.00 BAR DRINKS ALL NIGHT

Secret Santa Suggestions
Decals, Buttons, Smurfs, Pocket Combs, Calendars, Jewelry, Cards, Puzzles, Christmas Candy, Magazines, Brushes, Key Rings, Bumper Stickers, Stuffed Animals, Books, Socks, Hats, Cups, Pens, Games, Imprinted T-shirts, Shoelaces, Cosmic Wimpout Posters, Address Books, Paint, Pencils, Lighters
Located in the S.U.B.
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

Christmas Cards, Wrap, and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of
The Student Union Building
Christmas Wrap & Trims
Discover the distinctive wrappings that make gift-giving a joy!
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

Miller
Miller lite
Bud
Bud lite
Stroh's
Stroh's lite
a dollar a bottle
Old Milwaukee Drafts 3 for one dollar
One pitcher of Old Milwaukee for $2
Poor Richards

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Living in a Nasty World

Katherine Curda

With the televising of ABC's nuclear horror show The Day After, the editorial pages of the Collegian were filled to overflowing with columns and letters, the message of which could be summed up by the insightful and brilliant observation that nuclear war can indeed ruin your day. Those who spoke of such factors as deterrance, SS-20's, or Afghanistan were met with the horrified stares and self-righteous indignation of those self-proclaimed moral superiors who had no time to quibble over such silly details. They had a world to save! Yet putting aside this hysterical preaching, the rest of us must come to recognize some of life's harsh realities that will not change through positive thinking.

Nuclear weapons are not going to disappear for a very long time. You can not wish them away at prayer vigils, sing them away with folksongs, march them away at rallies, or simply negotiate them away at Geneva. Nuclear technology is just too simple to ever be truly erradicated. In today's world the possession of nuclear weapons, with all its political and military significance, has come to symbolize that a nation has entered the realm of the superpowers. National ambition rarely gives in to moral pleading.

Even if a group managed to defeat the development of a weapons system in their own country, the rest of the world, particularly our enemies, would continue along with their own national concerns, barely noticing this selfless act. National security, which today includes nuclear weapons, is infinitely more important to most nations, than whether or not some over-righteous disarmer, cozy and secure in their ivory tower, writes something nice about them in the editorial pages of the New York Times.

Nuclear weapons are not the greatest threat to mankind. According to columnist Brooke States, "There has never been a weapon that has not been used." Now statements such as this, with their aura of impending doom, can be quite effective in scaring the uninformed because they sound logical. Yet it is based on the false assumption that wars are caused by arms, rather than from unresolved political ambitions and differences among nations, and thus can be prevented solely by reducing or eliminating arms.

Yet as Salvador de Madariaga, who chaired the League of Nations disarmament Commission in the 1920's, realized to his sorrow, "Nations don't distrust each other because they are armed; they are armed because they distrust each other. Therefore to want disarmament before a minimum of common agreement on fundamentals is reached is as absurd as wanting people to go undressed in winter."

It is not the destructive power of nuclear weapons that is the primal threat, rather it is the aggression and ambition of states like the Soviet Union who have nuclear weapons which is the greatest threat to peace. However, a nation will only consider aggression if it feels that it can gain something from it at a minimum of risk. To preserve the peace we must convince all belligerent nations that any gains they may secure by going to war will be at a price too high to bear. Hence we have deterrence.

The Soviet Union is our adversary and nothing short of a revolution will change that. Many in the peace movement today, working from the rather obvious notion that the Soviet people don't want war, have come to believe that over 35 years of conflict can be magically wiped away through annual visits by Samantha Smith. It is just not that simple.

Meetings with various Soviet Peace groups have absolutely no significance at all in East-West relations because all groups actually allowed to go abroad must mouth the Party line or else. Not one of these groups has an ounce of political power or independence, rather they exist merely for show and to fool gullible Western intellectuals. The cold reality is that our relations with the Soviet Union are with a dictatorial regime, thus it is the ambitions and beliefs of the ruling Politburo which should be our main concern, not of its voiceless citizens.

Such are a few of life's nasty realities which are not going to change for anyone. It may be cynical, it may be unpleasant, but it is better to work toward peace in the real world, than to long for peace in your dreams.

Katherine Curda is a Collegian Columnist

Letters

More living and laughing

To the Editor,

I read the Collegian daily and admit that the Editorial-Opinion section is my favorite. Yet, over the last few weeks topics that seem to be consistently appearing are those about combat, chaos, criticism and nuclear catastrophe. Consequently, the Editorial-Opinion section has proved to be somewhat depressing lately. I do live in reality and do keep abreast of current issues and unders. nd that these issues should not be overlooked. Yet, must conclude that there seems to be a lack of love and laughter in the world today.

With the Holiday season upon us I thought I might write a little something about love and laughter and how I think they relate, something that might not solve world problems but something which people could think about after reading it.

Love is proportional to laughter
The more you love someone
The more you will laugh
The more you laugh with someone
The more you will love
Once the laughter is gone the Love will soon follow
Love without laughter is like
Death without sorrow
So laugh with someone today
For you will love with them tomorrow.

Doug Bodenka
Northeast

Sound off with your letters to the editor!!

Arts

Back to the same old story

Jerry entertaining but predictable

JERRY GARCIA BAND
Wednesday, December 7
Amherst College Cage

By PETER WISSOKER
Collegian Staff

Back to the same old story. When you've seen a band more then two or three times you know if the musicians are really up to par. If they're not, you go home cranky while all your friends have had a good time. So after a while to have a good time you learn not to get suicidal about things like quality. Needless to say, many "Deadheads" develop this cold sholder attitude, myself included.

Last Thursday's Jerry show, featuring Jerry Garcia, lead guitarist from the Grateful Dead, was a lot of fun and for all those except those people who are hypercritical, it was a very entertaining event. Garcia himself didn't play all that well but bassist John Kahn was exceptional, as was Garcia's choice of songs. Playing an odd combination of his own songs, Bob Dylan's songs, and some others, including "How Sweet It Is." The Garcia Band ripped through some of the most dance oriented music since the Temptations/Four Tops show a few weeks ago.

Problems? Yes. Problems with the sound. They usually use the Cage as a horse arena. Some of the songs, particularly "Tangled up in Blue" sounded more like Hot Tuna than Max Creek. Actually they got some pretty funky sounds out of a bad situation. The bass solo on "Simple Twist of Fate" sounded like one of the instrumental pieces on Brian Eno's Another Green World. But that was U.K. it sounded really good.

What did they play? What did they play well? They played "I'll Take A Melody" which was very good. They played it during the first set and there was no bass solo, which was good, and Garcia's playing was really good. They played "Mississippi Moon" which was also really good. That was also during the first set. The second set opened with "Rhapsody in Red," perhaps Garcia's answer to "Let it Rock". "Simple Twist of Fate" was pretty. And then came the medley. First he whipped through "Love in the Afternoon" which was fun to hear but not played too well. Then, "Cats Under the Stars," which was really good, but that could be because it's one of my personal favorites. And to finish the concert (there was no encore) he played "Midnight Moonlight" at about double speed. Unfortunately the solo was about half as long as the one at UMass, when he played here three years ago, yet almost exactly the same as the first half of that solo.

Although he has been playing the same material for the last two or three years, it seems to me that "Midnight Moonlight" was the only piece that was dissapointing to hear. Of course, that's my point of view and a lot of people really enjoyed hearing it. I haven't seen the Garcia Band in about two years and I think that's a good amount of time to wait before going to see him again, if he's still alive, because that way the music is a lot fresher and it's easier to appreciate it without worrying that this isn't the best show of the tour. For non-Dead Heads this concert gets a nine, because it was very entertaining. For Dead Heads who care about their music I would give it a six.

Photo by Drew Ogier

Jerry at Amherst College for Dead-Heads he gets a "6", for everyone else, a "9".

Now's the time to call

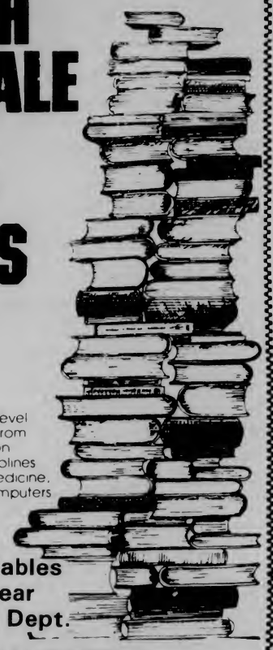
North Amherst Motors

Expert repairs & reconditioning

Rt. 63, No Amherst

549-2880

Graduate Student Position Available



Departmental Assistant/Coordinator of Southwest Woman's Center.
Educational, cultural and research activities. $5.95 per hour for 20 hr./wk. 03 position carries no benefits.
Forward letter of application, resume, proof of enrollment in graduate school, three letters of reference to:
Pamela S. Dice
Residence Director John Quincy Adams
Southwest Residential Area

Summer of "84"

Summer staff wanted for large Girl Scout resident camp in Tolland, Mass. Positions available for General Counselors; Nurses; Specialty Staff: Waterfront, Smallcraft, Riding, Gymnastics, Arts & Crafts; and Cooks. Salary with Room & Board for 9 or 10 weeks.

For applications write: Timber Trails, Star Route 158, Tolland, MA 01034 or call 1-413-258-4592

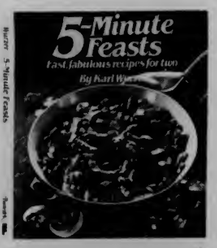
SCI-TECH BOOK SALE

65-90% SAVINGS OFF ORIGINAL PUBLISHED PRICES

Come pick up a stack of high-level scientific and technical books from leading publishers. Our selection ranges through numerous disciplines including physics, chemistry, medicine, mathematics, engineering, computers and more. Your savings range from a tremendous 65% to an unbelievable 90%

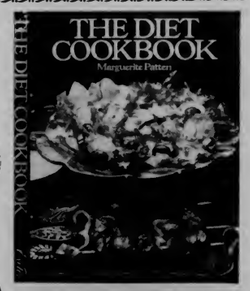


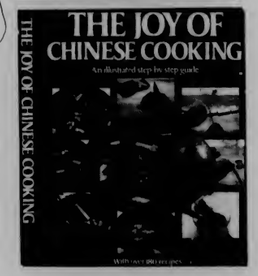
On Special Sale Tables located in the rear of the Trade Book Dept.

UNIVERSITY STORE

Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
Located in the S.U.B

A Christmas Idea





COOKBOOK SALE
"Our Most Popular Cookbooks"

	Publ. List	SALE prices
The Joy of International Cooking	$25	$12.98
Farm Journal's Cooking and Entertaining in America	$15.90	6.98
Bon Appetit Summer and Winter	$25	$10.98
5-Minute Feast	$12.95	$3.98
The Joy of Chinese Cooking	Special Value	$12.98
The Diet Cookbook	$19.90	$10.98

A Sample Selection
Quantities limited on Individual Titles

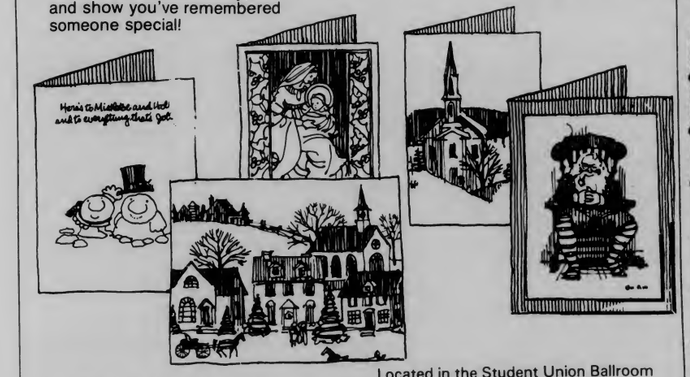
UNIVERSITY STORE

Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4
Located in the S.U.B.

Memo To Faculty:
We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.

Jeffery Amherst Bookshop

HOLIDAY JOBS FOR SOCIAL CHANGE



Work on Acid Rain
This Intersession
Call MASSPIRG at 256-6434

LAST CHANCE
to place any advertising in the Collegian (classified or display) is on Wed. Dec. 14 by 3:45 P.M.

Christmas Cards

...make the season merry, and show you've remembered someone special!

AMERICAN GREETINGS

Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4

Located in the Student Union Ballroom

UNIVERSITY STORE

American Greetings with Rose Design®
MCMLXXXIII American Greetings Corporation
Ziggy
© MCMLXXXIII Universal Press Syndicate

KICKOFF LOUNGE

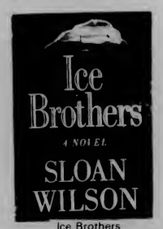
Free Draft

with any food purchase plus Movies

A Christmas Checklist

Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone

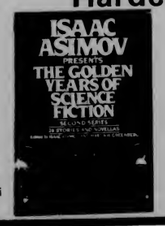
Some of our best ideas for Christmas have just been shelved.



Hardcover Fiction

5 Complete Novels
Sale $7.98
List $33.35

Jules Verne
Special Value $7.98



Ice Brothers
Sale $2.98
List $11.95

P.G. Wodehouse
Sale $7.98
List $15.70

Hardcover Science Fiction

The Golden Years of SciFi
Special Value $6.98

Twilight Zone
Special Value $6.98

Limited quantities of Individual Titles

There are hundreds of subjects to choose from. We have everything from the most timeless classics to the most recent best sellers.
And wait 'til you see our prices. We have bargains that are just as impressive as the selection.
So bring your Xmas list to the University Store. Some of our best ideas are just waiting to be picked up.

Located in the S.U.B.

UNIVERSITY STORE

OVERSIZED ORIGINALS?
AMHERST COPY CORNER

37 East Pleasant St. · Amherst · 549-2854

Now Featuring The Xerox 2080 Printer

The Printer will accept documents up to 36" wide by any length and output prints up to 24" wide by any length on either Xerox Bond or Engineering Vellum. In addition, the machine has variable reduction and enlargement capabilities ranging from 45% to 141% of any size and any increment in between.

We know our 2080 will increase your productivity by providing you with fast turnaround, high quality copies. Stop in today and let us fill all your copy needs.

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

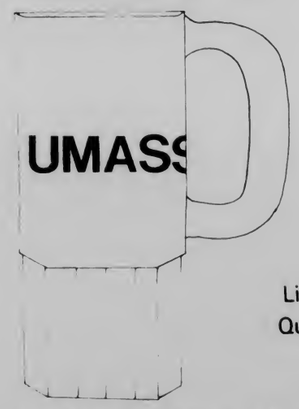
Wednesday

DISCUSSION — PERSPECTIVES ON ANTI-SEMITISM — Informal discussion, with speakers, on anti-Semitism as seen through various perspectives — refreshments served — all welcome. 7:30 p.m., Webster Main Lounge.

GENERAL MEETING — Western Mass Solidarity Committee will be holding its next general meeting. All are welcome to attend. 6 p.m., 404 S.U.B.

CONCERT: UNIVERSITY CHORALE AND BRASS CHOIR — The ensembles will perform a traditional winter concert. Highligh`s include Pinkham's Christmas Cantata and David Uber's Christmas in Brass. Conductors are Richard duBois and Walter Chestnut. FREE. 8 p.m., Bowker Auditorium.

ANGERS PROGRAM MEETING — Third and final meeting for all students participating in the Angers Program, Spring 1984. Please come — we hope to tie up lose ends before January break. 7:30 p.m., 3rd Floor Lounge, Herter Hall.



WMLASC MEETING — General meeting of the Western Massachusetts Latin American Solidarity Committee. All welcome. 6 p.m., 404 Student Union Building.

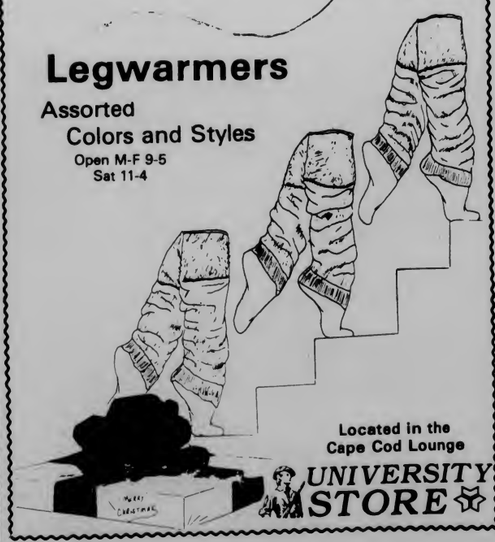
CRANSTON CAMPAIGN GENERAL MEETING — Anyone interested in learning more about or becoming involved in the campaign is welcome to attend a brief meeting. 7 p.m., The Hatch.

Daisy's
Breakfasts, Lunches & Dinners.
Dinner at Daisy's
VEGETABLE PASTRY fresh vegetables sauteed, wrapped in swiss cheese and baked in a flakey pastry shell 5.95
NEW YORK SIRLOIN - 8 oz. and broiled to your liking 10.95
Served with parsleyed potatoes or rice pilaf, homemade poppy seed bread and salad. Plus 8 Other Delicious Entrees To Choose, At A Price You Can Afford!
AT THE LIGHTS IN NORTH AMHERST 549-6613
We're open 7 days a week 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Over 35,000 books at
40-80% OFF
publishers list price
Sci-Fi/Sports/Art
Poetry/Mystery
Fishing/Drama
Dance/Music
Field Guides
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
5 E. Pleasant St.
(next to Hampshire National Bank)
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Sat
12-4 Sun
549-6052

SPECIAL VALUE
★ 99¢ ★

Limited Quantity



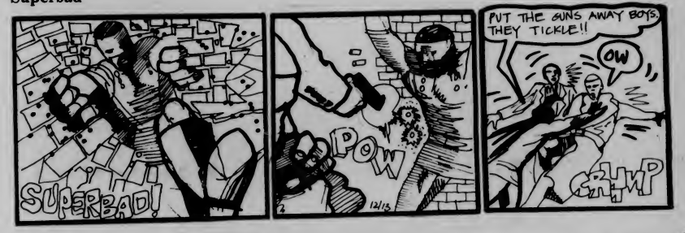
UMass Plastic 12 oz. Tankard
Blue - Red - Green
Located in the S.U.B.
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
UNIVERSITY STORE

A Christmas Checklist
Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone

Give a Gift of Warmth

Legwarmers
Assorted Colors and Styles
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

Located in the Cape Cod Lounge
UNIVERSITY STORE



Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

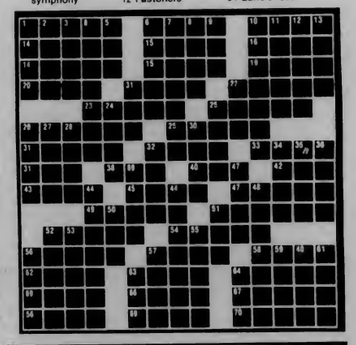
Scrod — Dan DeBellis

Superbad — by G.H.

After The Fall — by R. Miller

Wilson Low — by C.C. McFly

Quentin — by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 The sights on "Wuthering Heights"
6 Vestments
10 Church area
14 God of Islam
15 Use the phone
16 Twain character
17 Projecting shelf
18 Competently
19 Kind of rags
20 Not to be found
21 Ripened
22 Boutiques
23 Intrinsic
25 Notable acts
26 "Red Baron," for one
29 Genghis Khan, for example
31 Medicinal plants
32 Design
33 Moved quickly
37 Draft org.
38 Past
40 Head or cap
42 Finial
43 Monetary unit
45 Jai ——
47 Root used in perfume
49 Companion of true
51 Mendelssohn symphony
52 Luxury fabric
54 Dominoes
56 Be excited
57 Citrus fruit
58 Ancient Asian country
62 Lodgings
63 Ripped
64 Evening wear
65 MacLaine role
66 Modern Persia
67 Symbol of strength
68 Average
69 Trapper's trophy
70 Default

DOWN
1 Place for 22 Across
2 Kitchen staple
3 Auto maker
4 Jazz predecessor
5 "Who is ——?"
6 Saw
7 Party affiliation
8 Lacking adornment
9 Christopher in "Taming of the Shrew"
10 Coverlets
11 Aviator
12 Fasteners
13 Purposes
21 Name meaning "beloved"
22 Red or Yellow
24 Space agency
25 Dandy's companion
26 Show surprise
27 Otherwise
28 Betsy of Philadelphia
30 Draped garment
32 Item for May Day sport
34 Saucy
35 Grandiose
36 Bouillabaisse
39 Get better
41 Arrive, in a way
44 Footstool
46 Naval rank
48 Flowerlike ornament
50 Skeletal part
51 Compass reading
52 Aquatic area
53 Kitchen emanation
55 Catkin
56 In shape
57 Learning
59 Sprawl
60 Word of woe
61 Hosiery fabric
63 Apex
64 Band or buzz

The graduating & transferring night staff members wish everyone a happy holiday and hope that any "pranks" do not offend, for they were meant as last minute attention-getters.
-Good bye!
J.B. ¡Adios! M. K.

DC Menu

LUNCH
Hot Corned Beef on Rye
Quiche Lorraine

BASICS LUNCH
The Salad Sandwich
Quiche Lorraine

DINNER
Spaghetti/Italian Sweet Sausage, Tomato Sauce
Fruit Plate with Banana Bread
Fish Fry Plate
Tartar Sauce

BASICS DINNER
Hi-Protein Spaghetti
Tomato Sauce
Fish Fry Plate
Tartar Suace
Fruit Plate with Banana Bread

Weather

Occasional rain through late today. Temperature in the 40s along the coast and rising to near 40 or the low 40s inland by early today, low temperature tonight 25 to 30 inland and 30 to 35 along the coast. Wednesday a few morning showers or snow flurries giving way to a cloudy afternoon, high temperature 30 to 40.

Todays puzzle answer

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Weiss	Sport: A Philosophic Inquiry	$4.50
Wessells	Cognitive Psychology	$11.00
Whimbley	Developing Mathematical Skills	$9.00
Wilmot	Dyadic Communication	$5.00
Wilson	Living Theatre	$9.00
Wylie	Les Francais	$10.50
Yergin	Shattered Peace	$6.50
Yangs	American Realities Vol. I	$5.50

Sweeties
FINE CHOCOLATES AND CONFECTIONS
Over 100 Kinds of Candy
Secret Santas
Christmas gifts and gift certificates
Quality Chocolate
Tins, Glassware and More
Downtown Amherst 253-5589 and 68 Main St, Northampton 586-4180

Christmas Special
25% Discount
ON SPRING SEMESTER MEMBERSHIPS
(includes Jan. Break)
regular $45.00 NOW $33.75
BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden.
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
Call IDBTIPS for info 545-1555 Dec 12 to Dec 22 only

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

NOW THEREFORE...

DEAR LEE: Thanks for making the effort to teach an extra section. We not only learned about the Bible, but how to be a good student and a responsible individual. Thanks for the advise, we will treasure it! We'll miss you. Have a nice holiday in New York. Love your 2:30 Bible class.

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1974 VW Bug, 120000 mi, excellent condition, $600, Mike Kajen, 545-2690 days

1972 Dodge Dart good running condition low gas milage asking $400 call 546-7898

Must sell 1980 Mazda 626 2 dr 5 spd stereo only $4600 546-6033

1975 Plymouth Fury. Runs well excellent interior, snow tires, stereo. $500 549-2072

76 Honda Civic Wagon 4 speed $1000 negotiable moving sale 665-7530

74 Toyota Corolla gd. cond. 4 spd Rm 20 Goess. Lab - days/533-3687 - eve 750/BO

1975 Datsun 280-Z black 4-speed exc. cond. taking BO 546-8236

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

CRANSTON FOR PRESIDENT?

Come and learn what Senator Alan Cranston's presidential campaign is all about. Everyone welcome to meet in the Hatch at 7:00 this Wednesday, December 14.

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadisc Entertainment Agency Inc Disc jockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

Faye

Hi from your Secret Santa

FOR RENT

Intersession single and double occupancy rooms modern facilities call Dave 549-7583 253-9071

Two spaces in Brittany Manor Apt for spring semester starting in jan or Feb with option for next year. Call Dan or Steve 256-1280

One bedroom in a quiet 2 bedroom apt on bus route take over lease in January 665-7554

Intersession room cheap close to campus everything furnished 549-4067

One bedroom available in spacious five bedroom house near bus stop. Rte 9 Hadley $145.00 + call 586-3936

Two rooms available in spacious Sunderland house 665-2939

Large Room in 2 bedroom available for Feb. Sublet - on bus rt. Sunderland 665-7756.

2Spaces Available in Brittany Manor for Spring Semester call 256-8656.

One Bedroom in Brandywine for 1 or2 people. 260/ month, heat included. Starts February 1 M/F call eves. 549-4750.

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

190 cm Rossignol St Competition w/Salomon 727 bindings $210 or BO 546-6032

Leaving country must sell rare Cinnamon Cockatiel $100 or best offer 1-863-8510 weeknights Sat & Sunday

Fischer Skis with bindings and poles 195c $50 or BO 256-1210

FOUND

Found purple mitten with white trim near Thompson. Call Linda 549-4585

HELP WANTED

Temporary full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

Housepersons needed next semester for local sorority. Kitchen help in exchange for meals. If interested contact Paula M. 549-7538, 256-6874

Full & Part-time student advocates for Wintersession & Spring semester at Commuter Area Gov't. Organizational, leadership & writing skills needed. Apply 404 SUB 545-2145 deadline 12/16 AA/EEO

Earn extra money photographing rock bands. Rock photo company is looking for new photographers and/or photos. Write to Pop Shots, P.O. Box 1247, Boston, MA 02117 or call (617) 262-3401 and ask for Mark

Jobs for Intersession. Do something for a change! Paid Holiday jobs with Masspirg. Come work with us on acid rain and toxic waste this intersession call Terry at 256-6434.

LOST

Lost Wed Dec 7 9-10 PM Poor Dicks mohair scarf by Bar great sentimental value reward please call 253-3339

Blue and Beige winter Jacket at Dastardly Dans Thurs December 8 I have coat that looks similar call Marty 546-6916.

MARSHAS BIRTHDAY

Happy Birthday Masha Wilcon!!! You're our favorite "North Shore Girl" Love from Billy Joel and your Thousands of Fans.

Marsha Hey sagitterious - Happy Birthday! We will have to celebrate Saturday Night? Hope you have a great day and get all A's on your projects! Love Laurie, Idalyn, Ellen, and Sam.

PERSONALS

 College * Spring * Break ******
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe • •
• • Motor Coach Transportation • •
• • ocean front accommodation7 night • •
• • Welcome Party with FREE BEER • •
 Make reservations Now and Save $20 ***
• Check out our table in the • •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 • •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*AB*E*A*C*H**

Pam, you know who you are! I know who you are. Does anyone else want to know who Pam is? I bet you would. Flake-off touchhole.

Collegian Night Graffics – been a hell of a year, huh? Ray's Nummo nightmares, "be outta here by 12." "Anybody see 1-01?" Monday night apologies, "got your bong?" "I wanna go home!" Been along 2½ years, but worth it. See ya • Kalo,

606 — You're Evil — Beast

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Housing available for Spring Semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 549-0162

$10 off of UMass Sugarbush Ski Trip for anyone who takes my place call Mabel 546-1481

Kappa Kappa Gamma invites all university woman to a celebration of the Holiday Season Thursday Dec 5 3:00 - 5:30 545-0320.

SWF looking for a foreign lover, preferably a tall red - headed Russian, athletic build. I enjoy sprots, trips to the beach, imported liquors and your mother.

The Sisters of AXO would like to extend warm congratulations to Karen Kochanek on her pinning to Barret of Lambda Chi Alpha. Hugs and kisses from all of us!

Happy 21 B-Day Lori U! Hope you have a great year. Get psyched for Washington D.C. & Floridal Lynn Lori.

Mr. Manzon what comes between you and your Calrins?

Lisa, Laura and Chris: "Get Higher Babies!!" Luv, MK

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Co. share exp. Art 586-5876

To New York/North Jersey Area Dec 21 afternoon call Karen 6 - 9534.

Northbound for Christmas. Vermont or Canada. will share expenses. Call Blake 546-5336.

ROOM WANTED

Female senior looking for room preferably single near campus for Spring semester, 549-0313, Anne

Very neat, responsible male wishes to acquire room or apartment for intersession Mark 546-4435

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share room in Brittany starting January. Quiet Student preferred. Call Beverly 256-1335

Wanted female to share room in Brittany Manor spring semester call 256-0393

Female roommate wanted to share one bedroom apt starting January 546-5754

Female roommate needed Southwood townhouse 256-8817 available now or January

Roommate needed Amherst Center apt full kitchen call Patrick 253-5298

Roommate wanted to share rm w/1 other F in 2 br Twnhse apts call 549-4585

Townehouse female roommate wanted for Spring take over lease Jan 1 call 549-7690

Responsible female to share room in Brandywine, $118-heat included call 549-1405

Apt mate wanted, own bedroom Presidential Apts. 150/month + util. 549-0886

Female Roommate wanted to share Southwood Townhouse Apt Jan 1st 256-8471.

Male Roommate wanted to share Southwood Townhouse apt 256-0095 Rob.

Female wanted for single bedroom in nice Townhouse apt 256-0463 Kathy.

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Professional Typing 253-9582 after 3 p.m. M - F Anytime weekends.

SOFABED

Sofabed in fair condition for sale. $25 or best offer. Call Jim after 11 p.m. 549-6308.

T-Shirts

Light My Fire and burning down the house great price Cam - Con Jos 549-6364.

TO SUBLET

One bedroom in 4 bedroom Swiss Village apt from Jan 1st 174 mo includes everything call 253-3971 after 5

1-3 People for Jan in Duplex in No.Hampton Center, 120 + call Steve 546-8198.

Amherst CTR 1 Room Avail in 4 bdrm apt starting Feb Call 253-5298.

TRAVEL

SKI SWITZERLAND********
• low cost ski tours to the Alps •
• everything included one low price •
• tour information and slide show •
* Wednesday 7:30 pm Campus Ctr Rm 903 *

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Need sublet Puffton or Townhouse Tom 546-6590

Sports

Duke slaughters UMass by 88-56 score

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

DURHAM, N.C. - The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team, for a variety of technical delays, arrived over three hours behind schedule and barely had time to prepare to play Duke University last night down in North Carolina.

As the final score indicates, maybe the Minutemen would've been better off not showing up at all.

The Blue Devils ran their record to a perfect 7-0 with an 88-56 demolition of UMass as the locals dropped their third in a row down South.

The shooting statistics, as they usually do, tell the story. Duke was a sparkling 38 of 77 (48 percent) from the field (56 percent in the first half) while UMass shot up bricks to the tune of 32 percent (24 of 75) from the floor.

Garbage Time began the same time the second half did as Duke sprinted out to a 29 point 54-25 lead after the first half. The minutemen, now 2-3, where a pitiful 9 of 38 shooting while committing 16 turnovers against relentless Devil pressure. The teams's leading scorer, Horace Neysmith, was held scoreless while picking up three fouls, two offensively on charges. Center Edwin Green was the only bright spot with eight points.

Every Devil who played in the half scored, led by Johnny Dawkins and Mark Alarie with ten each, Duke also benefited from 12 of 16 shooting from the line.

In the second half, UMass fell behind as far as 40 (82-42) but cut the lead in the final minutes against seldom-used Duke subs. David Henderson had a dozen for Duke in the period with Green and John Hempel getting six each.

For the game, UMass turned it over 25 times but did improve defensively in the second half holding the home team to 34 points.

The game marks an end, thankfully, of the team's Southern Swing. UMass lost to Houston Baptist and Georgia Southern in the Stetson Tournament, but at least were in both games. Against an established Atlantic Coast Conference team like Duke, Coach Ron Gerlufsen's crew showed they were in deeper than they belonged. The familiar Curry Hicks Cage should be a happy sight as the team faces Connecticut on Thursday night at 7:^).

UMass- Green 5-4-14, Russell 5-2-12, Hempel 5-0-10, Carl Smith 2-2-6, Neysmith 2-0-4, Craig Smith 2-0-4, Ramming 1-0-2, Shaw 1-0-2, Braun 1-0-2, Young 0-0-0, Connors 0-0-0, Emerson 0-0-0.

Duke- Henderson 8-0-16, Dawkins 6-2-14, Alarie 6-2-14, Amaker 6-0-12, Meagher 4-2-10, Nessly 3-2-8, Billis 2-2-6, McNelley 2-2-4, Byrant 2-0-4, Ford 0-0-0.

Harvard sticks grapplers with fifth loss, 33-11

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Minutemen lost their fifth straight wrestling match to Harvard last night at the Boyden Auxiliary Gym, 33-11. UMass is now 0-5.

Harvard's 118 pounder Mike Meade gave the Crimson an early lead as he snuck away from his match with 7-6 decision over UMass' Rich Gardiner.

At the 126 pound mark, UMass' Chris Lee upset Harvard's Steve Beatti 9-8. "Beatti's one of the best wrestlers to ever come out of Massachusetts, and Chris took it to him tonight," said coach Rick Freitas. Lee dominated the two time high school state champ the entire match, only Beatti's experience kept the score from being more lopsided in Lee's favor.

Minuteman Mike Hanlon dropped an 8-6 decision to Dan Medalie of Harvard to leave the score at 6-3 in the Crimson's favor at the 134 lb-bracket.

Wes Beckwith (142 lbs.) won his second straight match by outscoring Harvard's Dave Ellen 5-2 to tie the match score at six apiece. "Beckwith gets better every time he steps on the mat," said Freitas.

Harvard's Jerry Greenburg put the visitors up 12-6 by pinning Paul Hardy at the 150 pound class.

Dan Levey increased the lead to 15-6 by outpointing UMass 158 pounder Brian Shaughnessy 8-2. Shaughnessy came up flat last night after a superb effort last Friday against Albany.

Captain Scott MacQuaide won a five point decision over Harvard's masked 167 pound Kevin McGinty by outscoring him 21-5. McGinty wore what looked like a hockey goaltender's mask to protect him from the brawling style that has made MacQuaide so popular with the fans. "Scott's an extremely aggressive wrestler," said assistant coach Ken Tashjy, "but he needs to work on controlling his style and not brawling as much." The senior is 5-0 in dual matches this season.

UMass' Francisco Guttierez was no match for Harvard's Barry Bausano at the 177 spot and was pinned late in the first period. The Minutemen forfeited the last two weight classes giving Harvard a 33-11 victory.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

ALL WRAPPED UP — Chris Lee (right) and his Albany State opponent struggle in last Saturdays match. Harvard sent UMass to their fifth loss last night.

Springfield swimmers sink UMass in semester finale

By ED HAYWARD
Collegian Staff

A strong Springfield College team took to the water on Saturday and handed the University of Massachusetts men's swimming team a 74-41 defeat, their first of the season.

Going into the meet UMass coach Russ Yarworth felt a strong performance from the diving team would be necessary for his team to have a chance at victory. But in the end this did not matter as Springfield proved to be too tough for the Minutemen.

The meet began with UMass' strong 400 medley relay team falling to Springfield. However, the Minutemen came right back with Paul McNeil and Rick Bishop placing first and second respectively in the 1000 freestyle. Chris Porter followed with a come from behind victory in the 200 freestyle for UMass.

Springfield then won the 50 freestyle, the 200 individual medley, and swept the one meter diving competition. Chris Clarke then led a UMass sweep of the 200 butterfly in which Jim Jacobson finished with a very strong second. UMass gained one more victory on the day, that of Mike Hoover in the 200 breaststroke.

In the three meter diving event UMass' John Macurdy prevented another Springfield sweep by placing second. The final score of the diving competition was 14-4, Springfield.

Of the meet Yarworth said, "We swam a good meet. I think we could have swam a little better but I'm in no way disappointed with our effort today." Yarworth admitted he had expected a better time drop from the team's previous meet times but that drop did not appear.

"They were the better team today," Yarworth said of Springfield. "They've got some good swimmers. Jordan is awesome," Yarworth said refering to Springfield's stand-out Larry Jordan who won a pair of races.

The Minutemen take a 2-1 record into intersession. During the break the team will travel to Montreal, Canada to train at the Olympic training center from December 28 to January 3. Then it is back to Boyden pool. In January the team will travel to Northeastern and the University of Rhode Island for meets. UMass will take on Williams at home. Yarworth sees all three meets as tough

Feinberg shines in UM loss

By TOM SCOLLINS
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's swimming team were beaten Sunday afternoon by the University of Maine swimmers, 96-44. The match drew a better crowd than usual with the UMass women still providing an exciting match.

Leading the UMass team (1-4) was co-captain Elizabeth Feinberg. Feinberg was a quadruple winner with wins in the 50, 100, and 200 yard freestyle races. She capped off the afternoon by swimming the final leg of the winning 200 yard freestyle relay.

UMass was in third place when Feinberg started her leg. "I was real nervous about this match," Feinberg said after the match. "I knew they were a strong team and I wanted to improve my times especially in the 200 yard freestyle."

Feinberg improved her time in the 100 and 200 yard freestyle though UMaine's strongest swimmer in the 200 did not swim that distance yesterday. UMaine did not put their regular line-up into all the races.

Coach Valerie Turtle commented, "If they had put their best line-up in it could have been a different story." The UMaine team beat the Springfield College squad (that had previously beaten UMass) Saturday night. "We've been putting in good yardages in practice and I expected more drops in time because it was the last meet of the semester," said coach Turtle after the match. There were four drops in time yesterday and Feinberg had two of those.

"We were division two when I came here and now we're in division one which I think is a little above our level," observed Feinberg.

UMass is off until January 17 when they visit the Lord Jeffs of Amherst College. The women can now look forward to a trip to Montreal Olympic Stadium and it's 50 meter facility for some winter practice. The women will be there from December 28th until January 4th, beginning double practice sessions which will last until the women start up their dual meet schedule again.

Women at SC

The UMass women's basketball team hopes to move over the .500 mark for the first time this season as they face the Lady Owls of Southern Connecticut tonight in New Haven. Barbara Stevens troops have won three games in a row after dropping their first three. Last year, Southern beat UMass 82-56. The correct score in Saturday's game was UMass 75 Yale 56.

The Massachusetts Daily
NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY
Collegian
Volume CXIII, Issue 65 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Wednesday, December 14, 1983

Collegian photo by David Deuber

PUDDLE JUMPING—These UMass students use their skills to avoid getting their feet wet in yesterday's strong down pour.

Suspension a threat for professors

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

More than 50 University of Massachusetts professors will be subject to a one-week suspension without gross pay during intersession for the failure to pay the Massachusetts Society of Professors teachers union agency fee, according to a letter recently sent to them by the University's president.

The letter, from President David C. Knapp, dated Dec. 2, also states that professors have two alternatives to avoid this suspension: "(a) you must protect your rights before the State and/or Federal Courts; or (b) you must pay the agency fee."

Professors must take one of the above actions, with evidence of that action communicated to the president's office by certified mail before December 31 to avoid the suspension, according to the letter.

The office of James R. Boylan, MSP president, said the move "is a legal obligation we have under contract guidelines approved by a majority of the membership. The law states that we are offering them (the professors) services and they are required to pay the fee for those services."

Edward R. Harrison, a UMass professor of astronomy who received one of the letters, said, "I'm very disappointed, though this action was somewhat expected. I think that this is a punitive threat.

"It's a shame that at this University, something like this is going on. The union is where one goes with grievances and if one already has a grievance against the union, then one has nowhere to go," Harrison said.

"I'm not against the faculty organizing," Harrison said, "I'm against a new layer of administration which tends to break collegial relations. Unfortunately, we've now got administrators who don't have scholarly reputations they don't know what makes a University."

"This union once proposed to withhold student grades as a job action. I hope that more faculty will come to realize the situation we have. It's a question of the appropriateness of the union," Chappell said.

One professor, who requested anonymity, said "This suspension will especially hurt faculty near retirement. Pension benefits are determined using the salary figures for their three highest paying years. If a professor was to lose $500-$1000 because of this suspension and this was one of their highest pay years, then they will be penalized throughout their retirement years.

"We serve the University in so many ways, yet we're getting slapped down now because we are not truly appreciated," he said.

"The penalty for faculty near retirement was discussed earlier this fall during two meetings with those who haven't paid the agency fee," said Edward P. Kelly, vice-president for Human Relations at UMass. "We solicited alternatives for this question, but no one had any concrete suggestions.

"We also advised people that they would have to make their own benefit payments if they were not paid because that professor did have their gross pay suspended. I would assume, however, that many professors will take some sort of action to avoid the suspension," Kelly said.

SCBs ask DeNyse for policy change

By STEPHEN HOWE
Collegian Staff

A committee set up to review the Student Controlled Businesses (SCB) purchasing policy has drafted a letter to the vice chancellor for Administration and Finance asking that the University's current policy toward SCBs be abolished.

The policy in question is a four-year-old University of Massachusetts policy prohibiting UMass administrative departments from doing business with SCBs.

The policy came under review earlier in the semester when the student economic development board sent a letter to Vice Chancellor for Admnistration and Finance John L. DeNyse requesting that the policy be "reviewed with an eye toward abolishing it." The letter charged that the policy is "in contradiction with a spirit of cooperation between students and the administration."

The letter to DeNyse, which has not been approved by all members of the committee yet, presents a four point refutation of the policy.

The SCB committee met on December 9 and designated committee members Joel Myerson and Katja Hahn d'Errico to write a draft of the letter which is subject to the approval of the rest of the committee at the next meeting, Dec. 19th before it is submitted to DeNyse. d'Errico said the meetings have been very positive.

"It (the Dec. 9 meeting) was a good meeting," she said. "We are glad that the committee was formed by DeNyse."

She also said that she believes the suggestions made by the committee will be carefully considered by the administration.

"We are addressing the concerns that the people in Whitmore have," d'Errico said. "The policy is old...the businesses have evolved...the policy needs updating."

The policy was created in 1979 by then Vice Chancellor of Administration and Finance George Beatty. Beatty stated in a memo that "the practice of several University departments to purchase goods and services from student operated co-ops...is not appropriate to maintaining good relations with the downtown community."

DeNyse declined to comment on the policy or the letter until he hears from the committee.

Water leaks release asbestos

By JOSH MEYER
and JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles on asbestos on campus at UMass.

Although University of Massachusetts officials insist asbestos is not flaking off the Campus Center Concourse ceiling and presents no health hazards, water leaks have removed large sections of asbestos-containing materials from the ceiling over the years, with release of considerable amounts of asbestos into the air probable.

In several places, especially around a large leak in the ceiling next to the Blue Wall, portions of the gray, fuzzy material have fallen off due to water erosion.

According to a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) report on asbestos in school buildings, "sprayed asbestos-containing materials . . .are susceptible to fragmentation from leaking water." The report says water can carry asbestos fibers "to other areas in the building where evaporation will leave a collection of fibers that can become resuspended in the air," and inhaled.

The central ventilation systems in the Campus Center make it possible to spread the fibers anywhere in the building.

Exposure to even low levels of asbestos can result in cancers of the lungs or digestive system, the report states. Asbestos fibers can lodge in the lungs or stomach or intestinal lining, and remain there indefinitely, slowly irritating cells until one mutates into a cancer cell.

The removal of the material is scheduled to begin next Wednesday, "to avoid the potential for a health hazard," Donald Robinson, director of the UMass Department of Environmental Health and Safety, said in early October, when tests for asbestos were done in the Campus Center.

Building workers have questioned the bulk samples of the materials, which in 1980 contained asbestos concentrations of only one to ten percent, and this year reported fiber concentrations of 30 to 40 percent. Robinson said a hazard did not exist because particles were not falling off, and that samples were different because they were taken in different parts of the ceiling.

Evan Johnston, who was vice-chairman of the UMass Building Authority from 1966 to 1972, said the ceilings in the concourse, the University Store and the Blue Wall have leaked since the building was finished in 1969.

"At that time nobody knew of the dangers of asbestos," Johnston said. "It was a pretty common type of substance to put on ceilings then."

Although EPA banned spray-on asbestos for nearly all uses in 1978, "it didn't even occur to our committee (which investigated structural problems in Umass buildings) about the asbestos problem," he said.

continued on p.4

Inside:

A group is formed to protest the Solomon Amendment.....p.3
A UMass employee is killed in a car accident on Rt. 116.....p.3
Women's hoop loses.....p.20

Cut loose like a douce,
Another runner in the night.
—Bruce 'The Boss' Springsteen
in dedication to the Collegian drivers

Digest

Instead of excavating toxic waste, Environmental Protection Agency would rather bury the evidence

HOLBROOK, MA (AP) - Instead of removing the chemical-saturated soil, engineers trying to clear one of the country's worst toxic waste sites here may seal the pollution in the ground, says a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency official.

Excavating behind the Baird & McGuire chemical plant virtually is out because of the expense, said Dave McIntyre, the EPA engineer overseeing the work.

"We'd have to dig up the whole area to remove all the chemicals and we'd create more problems than we would solve," McIntyre said in an interview published Tuesday in the Patriot Ledger of Quincy.

"Excavation is an option, but I don't think it will be seriously considered. It would cost $5 million to $10 million just to start."

To keep the toxic wastes from seeping into the Cochato River, McIntyre said, walls could be sunk to a depth lower than the waste and the area capped with clay or plastic or the wastes could be filtered from contaminated groundwater.

"It will take a lot more study to find the most economical and practical thing to do," he said. "But anything costs less than excavation."

The Cochato River is the main tributary of a reservoir serving 8,000 people in Braintree, Randolph and Holbropk.

The EPA has spent $812,000 so far on the clean up.

Baird and McGuire, which produced the pesticides, went out of business after 70 years when the town revoked its permit to store chemicals.

Chemicals found at the site include chlordane, naptha, creosote, DDT and PCE.

AP Laserphoto

BLAST—East Meadow, NY—Firefighters stand by across the street from a building housing a Navy recruiting station by two "high order" explosive devices Tuesday. The blast came moments after a bomb threat caused the building to be evacuated.

Bee Gee song rejected

MIAMI (AP) - Maurice Gibb, a two-time Grammy winner and one of the three Bee Gees brothers, has been informed that the song he volunteered for a promotional film on Miami wasn't lively enough.

"I think what he did was write it the way he feels about Miami, which is laid back," said Hank Goldberg, an advertising executive representing the local tourism department.

Goldberg said Monday he will recommend to an advisory board that it reject the 15-minute musical score written by Gibb for the film "Greater Miami: Where Business and Pleasure Meet."

Gibb lives on Biscayne Bay with his brothers. He said he wrote and recorded the score free of charge because "Miami is one of the best places in the world to live."

But Goldberg said it was not "strategically what we wanted for this film...We'd like to see the music more upbeat."

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Bill Shea
Copy Editor — Alice Klingener
Layout Technician — Meredith Carlson
Photo Technician — David Deuber
Production Supervisor — Joyce Haglund
Production — Laurie Frank, Martha Connors, Gail Tanzer, John Wielgus, Marsha Wilcon, Ansel Zinter, Jane Hirshberg, Brenda Ling, Pete Soderberg, Larissa A. Potapchuk, Merriane Hrycin, Pamela Smith

Feds want age 21

BOSTON (AP) - Despite a call from a presidential commission for a uniform drinking age of 21, opposition remains strong in the Massachusetts Senate to raising the age here, legislative leaders said Tuesday.

The Massachusetts House voted to raise the state age from 20 to 21 earlier this year, but Sen. Louis P. Bertonazzi, the Senate's expert on drunken driving, helped convince his peers that the age change would have little impact on highway safety.

"I'm sure that they will be looking to use this as another reason to raise the age," Bertonazzi, D-Milford, said after the Presidential Commission on Drunken Driving recommended Tuesday a cutoff of federal highway funds to states that don't have 21 as the drinking age.

"The members of the Senate realized this year that the facts do not bear out the change...If the facts don't change, I think they'll do so again next year," he said.

Against porn

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Linda Lovelace, star of the X-rated film, "Deep Throat," testified before City Council in favor of an ordinance making pornography a civil rights offense against women.

Miss Lovelace, now Linda Marchiano, told the committee her former husband coerced her to perform in pornographic movies through daily beatings and threats on her life and those of her family.

"I'm hurt and disappointed in my society and country that 'Deep Throat' is still being shown...every time that film is being shown, people are watching me being raped," Mrs. Marchiano said Monday.

The amendment would shift control of pornographic book stores and movie houses from zoning laws, which have failed to control them, and place them under the city civil rights ordinance.

AP Laserphoto

Robert Wayne Williams, right, listens to his mother plead for his life before a Louisana Pardon Board. The request was denied and Williams is scheduled for the electric chair this morning.

Officialnabbed

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) - State Agriculture Commissioner H. Earl Waterman was arrested Tuesday on a first-degree larceny charge in connection with a scheme to sell sand to the town of Suffield from a company he controlled while he was the town's top elected official.

Chief State's Attorney Austin J. McGuigan said that Waterman, who was appointed to the agriculture post in January, turned himself in at the prosecutor's office shortly after noon.

Waterman was released on a written promise to appear in Windsor Superior Court on Dec. 21. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Attempts to contact the one-time police officer were unsuccessful. Waterman's secretary said the 54-year-old commissioner was not expected to return to his office Tuesday afternoon.

In a prepared statement, O'Neill said Waterman had "told me he is innocent of the charges" and is "confident he will be vindicated."

'Hahvard' men

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Haig Bagerdjian didn't like the image people had of the typical Harvard Law School student, so he published a calendar to show that Harvard students "do just about everything that everyone else does."

"It seemed that everyone looked at a Harvard student as a tuxedo or striped suit-wearing type. I didn't like that," explained Bagerdjian, a first-year law student at the highly regarded Cambridge institution. "Why should Harvard Law School be considered untouchable."

Bagerdjian's 1984 calendar is titled "Bar Review: The Men of Hahvard Law School." It features black and white photographs of casually posed male Harvard law students, one each month.

About half the models, who are identified are not wearing shirts. One is shown, waist up, taking a shower, several are flexing their muscles and one is removing his tuxedo.

"I'm trying to show there's a human side to law school, not just a student sticking to the books 16 hours a day. There's a personal life, with personal interests," Bagerdjian said.

To pledge or...

BROOKLINE (AP) - John Bain says he just wanted to inject a little patriotism into his town meeting by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance. Now he's at the center of a controversy after it was ruled that saluting the flag "would be a divisive course."

The resulting rift between pro-and anti-pledgers in the birthplace of John F. Kennedy was to be settled by a special statement at Tuesday's meeting. But the resulting publicity has attracted nationwide attention.

Bain, a 40-year-old store-worker, had suggested that Tuesday's meeting start out with the pledge.

Williams claims innocence

ATLANTA (AP) — Wayne Williams, blamed by police for the slayings of 24 young Atlanta blacks, broke a long silence on the case today by telling reporters he has been "wrongly accused and connected with a series of heinous crimes."

Williams called a jailhouse news conference to make his first public comments on the case since his February 1982 conviction on two counts of murder. He said the purpose of the news conference was to respond to last week's Georgia Supreme Court ruling denying him a new trial.

"Naturally, I am disappointed" with the court's ruling, Williams said after being introduced by his attorney, Lynn Whatley.

"The (trial) transcript itself contains many misrepresentations of factual evidence and errors on the part of Judge (Clarence) Cooper and the prosecution, and shows a lack of diligence on the part of my previous defense. It has to be obvious that popular opinions of the public played a part in their (the Supreme Court's) decision."

Williams, wearing a blue and white sweater and grey slacks, smiled broadly as he entered the conference room.

Corrections

In Tuesday's Collegian, Thelma Griffith-Johnson spoke as a counselor for the Committee for the Collegiate Education for Blacks and other Minority Students. Griffith-Johnson did not say the arrest of Yvette Henry was an act of hysteria by the University, but a result of an act of hysteria by the public.

The headlines on page two should have read: 'People protest against arms development' and 'Coast Guard almost ceizes a load of marijuana.'

Grayson Resident Director Ted Mone was not amused by a Secret Santa student there as was erroneously reported in a photo caption in Tuesday's Collegian.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

FURRY FEAST—A squirrel enjoys munching on the contents of a discarded pumpkin yesterday.

Birthright offers women other options

By DIANE LANE
Collegian Staff

Editor's note: This is the first in a two-part series.

Two years after opening its Amherst doors, Birthright is continuing its advocacy of the right to life for unborn children.

Birthright is an emergency pregnancy service offering alternatives to abortion for women who find themselves with an unplanned or unwanted pregnancy.

Director of the service, Margaret Coty said Birthright believes in the "right of every woman to have her baby and the right of every child to be born.

"We try to help them make up their own minds and encourage them not to rush into anything," Coty said.

Birthright was organized in 1968 by Louise Summerhill, a Canadian housewife who addressed herself to the problems that face those women in distressed pregnancy who were increasingly offered only abortion as an alternative.

According to Coty, Birghright is an international organization with 16 chapters in Massachusetts and 550 centers throughout the world. It is staffed by volunteers and "subsists totally on the generosity of the public."

"We are basically a reference service but we do have some maternity clothes and furniture to offer women, as well as shelters if a woman feels she cannot live in her home during the pregnancy," Coty said.

Birthright offers a confidential pregnancy test on the premises to women of any age and then provides references to the kind of help each woman may need.

"We have a large list of references, including where to go for prenatal care, financial help, both professional and clergy counseling, and the option of temporary shelter in another town or state," Coty said.

According to Coty more than 300 women have used the service since they opened two years ago and many women do choose to have and keep their babies. "Currently adoption seems to be an unpopular option. "I am surprised by a woman saying that she would never give her baby up for adoption yet she will abort," Coty said.

Birthright is not a religious organization but the volunteers are "approximately fifty-fifty Catholic and Protestant." According to Coty, Birthright feels that supportive care and concern are all that is needed for many women to bring their babies to term.

"We get a lot of college students, and many women who already have children. If a woman wants an abortion we try to make clear that she has other options," Coty said.

Coty said Birthright does not seek its clients but "is ready to help any women."

"We feel there should be some place for them to go," Coty said.

New student group forming, vows to fight Solomon bill

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

A group of University of Massachusetts students have started the initial steps to fight the controversial Solomon Amendment, a proposed bill that would take away government financial assistance from any student who refuses to register with the Selective Service.

"The proposal would discriminate against only one segment of society, male students," said Dan Burgess, spokesman for Students Concerned About the Draft and The Solomon Amendment. "Then it would also go on to disadvantage poor students who can't afford to make up for any aid they may lose for not wanting to register."

The Solomon Amendment, proposed in Congress about a year and a half ago, would force male students who turn 18 to register with the Selective Service, or lose any federally administered financial aid. The Selective Service system was re-started by then President Jimmy Carter in 1980.

The group has two draft counselors, Guy Spencer and Bill Heintzelmen, to talk to students. They are available once a week at the Union Christian Foundation offices in the Student Union Building.

"We are hoping to distribute literature to educate people about this," Burgess said. "Next semester we hope to reach many students."

Burgess, who works out of the Student Government Association (SGA) President's office, said his group has been operating with funds from that office and the SGA's Public Policy Committee. About 15 people attended the first meeting, including several students who have yet to register and said they cannot go to school without federal aid.

Several schools, such as Harvard University and nearby Amherst and Hampshire Colleges, have instituted plans to have the individual school pick up the difference needed to finance a student's education without government aid. UMass, being a state institution, cannot do that but Burgess said he hopes his group can provide a venue for students needing money in the future.

"If the bill is made into a law (it is temporarily in effect pending a possible Supreme Court decision this spring) then we may try to establish a fund for students to have access to in order to meet financial need," Burgess said. "Hopefully the Supreme Court will strike it down and we won't have to worry about it."

Burgess claims the amendment is unconstitutional because it discriminates against students and is a disproportionate scrutiny on a small segment of society. If the bill becomes law, an estimated $20,000 would be needed to cross-check UMass students to see if they registered, he said.

"There have to be better ways to spend $20,000," said Burgess.

"It (the amendment) isn't fair," Burgess said. "And we'll do everything we can to fight it."

Suitcase, jacket stolen

University of Massachusetts police reported the theft of a suitcase and ski jacket, valued at $150, from the Campus Center kitchen on the 10th floor. The theft occurred between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 a.m. Sunday, police said. There are no suspects.

In other police action:

Books, a calculator, cash and study material, valued at $202, was reported stolen from the fifth floor lounge of Kennedy dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area, police said. The complainant was apparently absent for 10 minutes, according to police, between 2 a.m. and 2:10 a.m. Dec. 13. There were no witnesses.

Police received a report of stolen equipment from a resident in McNamara dormitory in the Sylvan Residential Area on Sunday. Approximately $1,400 of stereo equipment and records was taken between 9 a.m. and 12 noon Sunday from a locked room on the fifth floor, police said. The case is open.

--MARY ANNE BEEN

UMass employee killed

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

An autopsy will be performed today on a University of Massachusetts employee who died Tuesday after she was crushed in her automobile when it collided with construction equipment.

Lucy M. Gromaski, 54, of Whately, was pronounced dead of chest injuries at 2:58 p.m. by Dr. Mark Manning at the Bay State Medical Center in Springfield. The accident occurred at 6:15 a.m., according to Sunderland police.

Police said Gromaski was headed south on route 116 in Sunderland towards Amherst when her car collided with a Warner Bros. construction front end loader. She was brought to Cooley Dickenson Hospital in Northampton and later transferred to the Springfield facility.

Gromaski was a [illegible] Central Residential Area. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Rainy days and Mondays get UMass students down

By JEANETTE DeFORGE
Collegian Correspondent

The inclement weather prevalent in western Massachusetts the past few days has been met with varied reactions by University of Massachusetts students, who, rain or shine, will begin taking final exams in three days.

"(The rain) has a detrimental effect on my studying," said 23-year-old Scott Freedman, a sociology and statistics major, in a random weather poll taken on the Campus Center concourse Tuesday. "I won't go to the library."

"I might study more because I'll stay in," said Marty Ferreno, a 21-year-old political science major. "It's a bummer--snow would be much better."

Robert Huettner disagreed.

"I like it, it's much better than snow,' said the 20-year-old English major. "I just like walking through the mud."

"It's terrible--my feet are all muddy," said 18-year-old pre-med and biochemistry major Lori Rassmeise. "I want it to get cold so I can go ice skating and skiing. Can you loan me a scuba suit?"

"It's cold and wet but so far I haven't fallen in it," said Carol Brossi, a 22-year-old mathematics major. "I don't think we will have to start building an ark yet."

"The weather is not cooperating like usual in New England," said Sheila Manning, 18, a business major. "I think if it was snow, we would be snowed in by now."

"I think it's strange because of the time of year. It should be snowing and a heck of a lot colder," said John Harris, a 21-year-old geology major.

"It's good for the green stuff and lousy for people," said 18-year-old animal science major Dina Smith, with 19-year-old engineering major Charles Rinehart concurring, "It's a real pain."

"It's strange, you usually don't get rain now," said Brett Bowden, 20, a political science major. "It's cleansing and it's getting rid of the ice."

"It's exceptionally fortunate that we haven't had a worse winter," added Glenn State, 21, who is majoring in psychology.

"It's depressing--it fits this time of year (finals)," said Stacy Rogers, 18.

But gloomy or not, the rain might actually be helping Jerry Janafsky, a 22-year-old electrical engineering major.

"It helps because I have nothing to do but stay in and study," he said.

Loni Rassmeise

Robert Huettner

Marty Ferreno

★ ASBESTOS

continued from p.1

The committee recommended in 1978 that the University try to fix the structural problems which caused the leaks, but the University has paid almost no attention, Johnston said. He said Win Cummings, manager of the University Store, has complained about the leaks, which can move as the water runs along beams above the ceiling.

Cummings has repeatedly stated that there has been no cause for concern about the health hazards posed by floating asbestos particles. Store workers disagree, and have expressed concerns about the continuous layer of dust allegedly falling from the ceiling, and the potential for hazardous levels of airborne asbestos fibers.

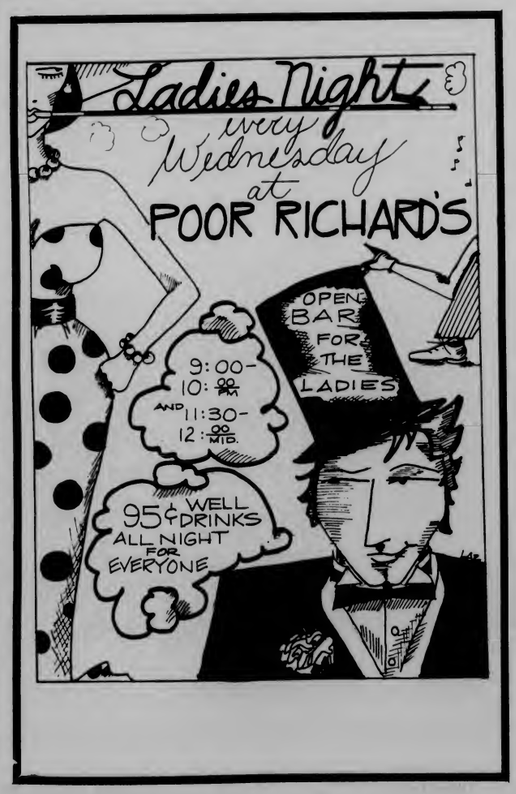
The Massachusetts Teacher Association-University Service Workers union, which represents 1,200 workers on campus, Tuesday ratified a contract which orders that "areas found to contain friable (crumbling) asbestos shall be promptly investigated," Winnie Stone, greivance officer for the union, said.

The American Federated Society of County, Municipal Employees (AFSCME) union, which represents more than 2,400 workers on the UMass campus, finished a contract with similar safety regulations in November.

"All University Store employees will be eligible for asbestos screening tests at University Health Center to determine possible exposure (to asbestos fibers)," said Kathy Murray, president of MTA-USA.

The exam, which consists of a chest x-ray and a breathing test, was started in the fall to examine UMass workers who work with asbestos.

Neither the concourse nor the University Store will be open to occupation after the removal until the area is cleaned and recleaned using wet methods, which should insure that the fibers, which can stay airborne for 80 hours in still air when dry, will be removed. Several air samples, using EPA-approved equipment, will have to prove that no fibers are present before the area is reoccupied.



University of Massachusetts
Student Federal
Credit Union
The largest student run Credit Union in the country will be open for INTERSESSION
* starting Jan. 4, 1984
we will be open Mon, Wed, Fri 10 am - 3 pm
Happy Holidays
Conveniently located in the Student Union
545-2800

Quality Titles from the Active List of America's Leading Publishers
Sale
PAPERBACK BOOKS 50% OFF original price
Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4
UNIVERSITY STORE
* Located on Special Sale Benches in the rear of the store
Located in the S.U.B.

A Christmas Checklist
Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone
LARGE SELECTION of UMass Imprinted Childrenswear

Located in the Cape Cod Lounge
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
Open Tonight until 9:00 pm
UNIVERSITY STORE

Spotlight

Feminism beyond standard definition

By MICHELLE HYDE
Collegian Staff

The term, 'feminism,' according to administrators and professors of various disciplines at the University of Massachusetts, has no standard definition; its meaning is as varied as the women and men who embrace feminism as an ideology.

For some it describes a political orientation, for others it's an activist orientation and for others it represents an ideological view of the world that incorporates a female perspective of how to interpret culture.

Some people think the meaning of the work has changed throughout history, and, as a result, it has become ambiguous and more successible to stereotypical attitudes.

"Feminism is an umbrella term that encompasses so wide a range of positions that you really have to hunt hard for a common denominator," said Joyce Berkman, a professor of women's history at UMass.

Over the past ten years, feminism has come to mean a committment to combat all forms of injustice against women, including gender and class injustice, and the "determination to uncover the social sources of cultural patterns which discourage and favor female self-affirmation and self-realization," Berkman said.

"It (feminism) has become sort of a catch word. People build into it their own perceptions, which are colored by the person's experience with feminists and their exposure to media coverage of feminist issues," said Bonnie Strickland, Associate to the chancellor at UMass.

Bailey Jackson, a professor in the School of Education who works with graduate students in the Oppression and Social Issues Program, defined feminism as "a belief that the female culture should be integrated into the whole culture.

"Some feminists have the position that in a male-dominated society, the male persuasion needs to be balanced by, or in some cases replaced by, a feminist persuasion or a women's orientation," he said.

Panna Putnam, Co-coordinator of the Third World Women's Task Force at the Everywoman's Center, said a feminist of color has to be "very clearly conscious" of links between sexism and racism.

"Sexism doesn't work in a vacuum. It exists as only one part of a larger oppressive society," she said.

Janice Raymond, a Women's Studies professor, said she thinks people engage in a "willful ignorance," by not taking the time to become acquainted with what feminism is.

"What amazes me is that within the last several years, women students have grown conservative, they think that feminism is a thing that already happened," said Raymond.

"You see many women who are doing extra-ordinary things who say they are not feminists. Many women reject the label because they don't want to be stereotyped as being out of the ordinary, when in fact they are doing something out of the ordinary."

Because of "willful ignorance," she said feminism is reduced to what people find threatening about it.

Jackson said a lot of people fear that feminists want to take away the rights of men and destroy the family. Berkman said many people think that feminists hate men.

Anne Ferguson, a philosophy professor at UMass, said that people associate radical feminism with the idea that women are anti-family, pro-individualistic, or lesbian.

"People have to realize that you can be anti-nuclear-dominated family without being anti-family. You can oppose male power without hating men. Many women say they are not men haters but are rather women lovers," she said.

People engage in "smear tactics" as a way of avoiding full grappling with social issues, Berkman said, and have simplified distinctive features of feminism as a way of rationalizing the fact that they have not chosen to identify themselves as feminists.

"What upsets some people about feminism is that these people (feminists) mean business," said Jules Chametzky, director of the Institute for the Advanced Study of Humanities at UMass.

"The effort has to be made to overcome the limitations of our own conditioning. At a university, students are exposed to serious bodies of thought. I think the feminist movement is a way to make people confront hard political issues and get us out of the narrow boxes culture has placed us in," he said.

"The effort has to be made to over come the limitations of our own conditioning . . ."
—Jules Chametzky
Director, Institute for the Advanced Study of the Humanities

"You can oppose male power without hating men."
—Ann Ferguson
Professor, Philosophy

"Some feminists have the position that in a male-dominated society, the male pursuasion needs to be balanced by, or in some cases replaced by, a feminist persuasion or a women's orientation."
—Bailey Jackson
Professor, School of Education

Fem i nism (fem'e niz'em), n. 1. the doctrine advocating social and political rights for women equal to those of men. 2. an organized movement for the attainment of such rights for women.
—fem'i nist, n., adj.
—Random House Dictionary

Students have their own meaning for feminism

Sylvia Kinn

Russell Carter

By MICHELLE HYDE
Collegian Staff

Feminism, according to a poll taken at the University of Massachusetts, is a political statement, a means of women's strength, a facilitator of free expression and a way of viewing the world.

While it is sometimes resented and seen as a phenomenon that has "lost steam," feminism is a mechanism for promoting sexual equality, said students who were polled Monday in the Campus Center.

Mindy Chateauvert, s Women's Studies major, said that as she studied feminism, "it became a way of looking at the world."

"Feminism means that you can find strength for yourself by working with and listening to what other women have to say. That strength is powerful and gives (one) a way to continue," she said.

"Feminism is more than just the Equal Rights Amendment, which, in my opinion, is a moot issue at this point. It will not have a profound effect on the culture and on society unless we make it do so," she said.

Russell Carter, a geology major from Newburyport, said, "When I think of feminism, I think of looking at all people as people and trying to put sex roles aside. Feminism has allowed me to express myself as a person and as a man" and to recognize stereotypical male roles. "It has helped me to realize what those roles were, and they they were not really necessary in order for me to survive as a person."

Sylvia Kinn, a psychology major from Boston, said feminism was a means for women to separate themselves from men and from a society that "defines people in terms of men."

"'Women' is a subcategory," Kinn said. "Feminism is a woman's statement that she is separate and not really a subcategory." It is a "defense against the stereotypes that have been put upon (women) by this society, such as the attitude that (they) are second-class citizens."

Walter Mecham, an economics major from Amherst said "feminism appears as a reaction to the historic organization of mankind. These people (feminists) are reacting to what they consider to be an historical process of oppression which will continue unless (women) speak up and not let it happen any more."

Andrea Bates, a junior English major, said she thought "feminism has not been in focus anymore, (that) it has lost steam." But when a person does focus on it, "feminism helps to open up the avenues of expression and the ability of women to do what (they) want."

Carter said he resented some feminist attitudes. "In some instances, I resent militant feminists who consider me an enemy simply because I am a man. They (militant feminists) are setting themselves up as adversaries rather than as (promoters of) equality. I see women as being equal, not as being superior. Militant feminism threatens my opinion of equality."

Mindy Chateauvert

Walter Mecham

page 5

Collegian photos by Andy Heller and Jim Powers

Graduate Student Position Available

Departmental Assistant/Coordinator of Southwest Woman's Center.
Educational, cultural and research activities. $5.95 per hour for 20 hr./wk. 03 position carries no benefits.
Forward letter of application, resume, proof of enrollment in graduate school, three letters of reference to:
Pamela S. Dice
Residence Director John Quincy Adams
Southwest Residential Area

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
Ladies Night
2 for 1 all night
Open Bar
8-9, 10-10:30
Dynasty will be shown
KICKOFF LOUNGE
Celtics vs.
Cavaliers
at 7:30
50¢ Drafts

95¢ CAN BRING OUT THE MASTER IN YOU

Just 95¢ buys you four tubes of Bocour Paints. . . up to a $10.00 value
Here's your chance to prove how easy it is to bring out the master in you with fine paints like Bocour Bellini Aquatec Acrylics. . .
* Limited quantities
* Color assortment consists of Hansa Yellow, Titanium White, Permanent Green Light, and Burnt Umber
OPEN M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4
Located in the Student Union Ballroom
UNIVERSITY STORE

Wickles FinePrint
- COPIES
- RESUMES
- LETTERHEADS
- ENVELOPES
- FORMS
- INVITATIONS
- TYPESETTING

NOW OPEN!!
1 BOLTWOOD WALK
(behind Aubuchon Hardware)
DOWNTOWN AMHERST
256-0148
M-F 8:30 am-5:30pm Sat. 9am-5pm
151 MAIN St.
(next to Cathy Cross)
NORTHAMPTON
586-9982
M-F 8:30 am-8:30 pm Sat 9:00 am-2:00 pm

Christmas Special
25% Discount
ON SPRING SEMESTER MEMBERSHIPS
(includes Jan. Break)
regular $45.00 NOW $33.75
BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden.
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
Call IDB 'S for info 545-1555 Dec 12 to Dec 22 only

Great Gifts
Clothing Earrings
Stocking Stuffers
Posters Cards
Mugs Rugs Vases
Tree Ornaments
Crystals Calendars
Stuffed Animals Toys
Boxes, Tins, Mobiles, etc.
Candy Tea Tea Sets
SALE up to 30% OFF selected
Blouses, Skirts, Dresses
Sweaters, Jackets
Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM
THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS — GREAT PRICES

Black Affairs

Newdirector has plenty to add

By BRENDA LING
Collegian Staff

"I think I bring with me a sensitivity to and an understanding of daily oppression," said Jacquelyn Crooks, now co-coordinator of the Third Wolrd Women's Program in the Everywoman's Center at the University of Massachusetts.

"Knowing that politics cannot be ignored, progress can be hampered by not moving on," she said. Crooks brings her academic and practical experience to the Center "to network, develop communication" and insure that "nobody's ideas will be totally squashed."

As a Black woman originally from Georgia she said she sees the expression of racism in the North to be more destructive than that of the South. Crooks said she can "identify it in terms of psychological warfare." As co'coordinator, the 35-year-old Crooks said she hopes to bridge her theoretical grasp of Third World women's double burden of sexism and racism with her practical experiences.

Teaching community academics through the program, Teacher Corps, running workshops on women and race realtions, "enjoy(ing) people, being able to network" are some of Crooks' qualifications for the job, she said.

She came to UMass six years ago to pursue her doctorate degree in the School of Education and Social Sciences. Her research, which she completed in the Spring of 1983, focussed on collegiate education. During her program she was an academic advisor for CCEBMS and was an administrative intern with ex-Associate Provost Johnetta Cole, she said.

With knowledge of this campus Crooks said she wants "Third World women to know that I am here, that I will be available, developing ongoing services, developing communication."

This kind of development may include projects like the "Black Women Moving On" symposium, a conference on black women and career development which Crooks coordinated last year through the Center.

New projects include plans for a course on "The Socio-Historical Exploration of Black and White Women in America."

Crooks said she and a friend also interested in multi-cultural education felt women could benefit from exploring, within a more personal context, women's interracial relations. The two had originally wanted to include all women of the world, but realized the impossibility of this task, "so we're starting small," Crooks said.

She said she hopes all women "see that we have a common interest and a common enemy, white male supremacy." She also hopes Third World women "examine these things to come away as more whole persons."

The Center is receptive to Crooks' ideas and has made her feel welcome, she said. Ruth Weekes-Washington, coordinator of the Center, reflected this when she remarked, "I think that Crooks will be a real positive addition to the staff. She is bright, creative, has the kind of skills we really need, is committed to Third World women's issues."

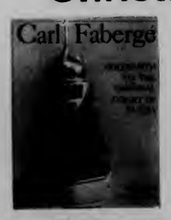
In this spirit, Panna Putnam, the other co-coordinator, said, "I'm definitely looking forward to it (working with Crooks)."

Crooks' concerns for Yvette Henry as a Third World campus resident and as a victim of outright discrimination have provided her with an immediate entry to campus organizing.

"It's been mishandled; I was enraged," she said, "realizing the emergency around Henry's issue and (of) pulling it all together," Crooks said she sets in to work diligently in support of Henry.

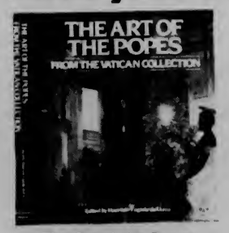
Crooks emphasizes, as she becomes more involved, she would need the support of Third World women and Third World organizations on campus "in order for me to do the job."

"I can't make any grandiose promises. I could, but I won't." Instead, Crooks modestly proposed to emulate the words that an elder woman once spoke to her, "I'll do the best that I can."



Barry Hag and Victoria Carter will perform an overview of African-American music in Hampden Theater, Southwest Dec. 16 and 17 at 8:00 p.m. in a performance entitled "Rhythm Changes." This performance will also encompass dance, theater and visual media to instill both an educational and entertaining message.

A Christmas Checklist



Art Books

Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone
Some of our best ideas for Christmas have just been shelved.

Imperial Court of Russia
SALE $9.98
List $35.00

The Art of the Popes
SALE $17.95
List $35.00

Drawing & Painting
SALE $12.98
Reg. List $30.00

Limited quantities of Individual Titles

Special Value $6.98
Aubrey Beardsley

Folk Painting
SALE $11.98
List $35.00

American Masterpieces
Special Value $12.98

There are hundreds of subjects to choose from. We have everything from the most timeless classics to the most recent best sellers.
And wait 'til you see our prices. We have bargains that are just as impressive as the selection.
So bring your Xmas list to the University Store. Some of our best ideas are just waiting to be picked up.

Located in the S.U.B.
UNIVERSITY STORE

CASH FOR CHRISTMAS

Bring your textbooks to

The Reading Remedy
NEW BOOKS AT HALF PRICE

71 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
Open Sun 12-5, Mon-Sat 10-6
Thur & Fri 'til 9

FINANCIAL AID OFFICE

Important Notice

All Undergraduate Dormitory Residents will receive their financial aid forms (FAF) via campus mail in their dorms during the week of December 19th 1983.

Off Campus and Graduate Students can pick up FAF's during this time period at the Financial Aid Office - 243 Whitmore, and the second floor lobby information desk in Whitmore.

The FAF filing deadline for academic year 1984-85 is March 1, 1984

INCREDIBLE STEMWARE.

CHAMPAGNE FLUTES AT PILSNER PRICES.

INCREDIBLE!

GIFT BOXED SETS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

J. G. DURAND International

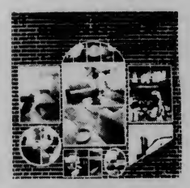
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst



A Christmas Checklist

Art Books

Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone

Some of our best ideas for Christmas have just been shelved. Great Gifts

The House Book
SALE $17.95
List $35.00

Ford 1903-1984
Special Value $14.98

Laurel & Hardy
SALE $9.98
List $25.00

Dick Clark
SALE $8.98
List $24.95

The World Guide to Model Trains
Special Value $12.98

Hand Tools of Arts & Crafts
SALE $7.98
List $19.95

Limited quantities of Individual Titles

There are hundreds of subjects to choose from. We have everything from the most timeless classics to the most recent best sellers.

And wait 'til you see our prices. We have bargains that are just as impressive as the selection.

So bring your Xmas list to the University Store. Some of our best ideas are just waiting to be picked up.

Located in the S.U.B.

UNIVERSITY STORE

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Azevdo	Lecturas Periodisticas 2/e	$5.50
Barnet	Types of Drama 3/e	$7.50
Barnett	College Math for Mgt, Life and Soc. Sci 2/e	$13.00
Baron	Medical Microbiology	$17.50
Beck	Motivation 2/e	$12.50
Bootzin	Psych Toay 5/e	$12.50
Brymer	Intro. to Hotel and Rest. Mgt. 3/e	$7.00
Burnham	Democracy in the making	$12.50
Carson	Macroeconomic Issues Today 3/e	$3.50
Current	Essentials of American History Vol. I	$4.50
Curtis	Biology 4/e	$14.00
Curtis	Invitation to Biology 3/e	$13.50
Davidson	After the fact Vol. I	$4.00
Elkins	Management	$12.00

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Carnage the American Way

From the bits and pieces of our memories, we are led to ask ourselves a basic question: Why is our government so interested in military interventions across the world? What is there which seems so worth the cost? Why do the rulers of this country sitting on their comfortable chairs in the White House, Pentagon, and Wall Street basically consider human lives expendable stocks to be sacrificed for THEIR strategic interests? What ARE these damned strategic interests?

Foad Vafaei

Some of us are happy with the explanation that our government is doing all this to preserve peace and democracy(!!) Need I remind these miserably misinformed friends that our government in all its foreign interventions has used its troops to back the most barbaric, and brutal dictatorships: today it is all too clear to all of us that our surrogate in Saigon (South Vietnam) had the worst record of human right violations against its people. In Lebanon, WE set up a regime in the summer of 1982 after our ally, the expansionist state of Israel invaded Lebanon (that invasion led to the destruction of 37,000 human beings). In a country torn by a civil war, we put all of our cards behind the most hated faction in the country. We supported the Lebanese Falangist Party. Any political dictionary will tell you that "Falangist" is the Spanish term for . . . Fascist.

The U.S. administration claims the Lebanese government became established after an election. We must realize under the conditions of a brutal Israeli occupation and a civil war in that small country that this claim is ludicrous and hypocritical. In El Salvador, too, the administraiton sponsored an election under the conditions of civil war. (As Robert White, our ex-ambassador in El Salvador, put it, "How can you have elections in a country torn by civil war? This was the biggest travesty of justice ever committed by the U.S.!") In El Salvador a bloody dictatorship backed by the U.S. has murdered at least 40,000 civilians in the last 4 years. The White House has declared it is ready to send the Marines to another military intervention, El Salvador.

Faced with a world in a state of crisis, suffering from a deep intellectual sterility, the only response the administration is able to propose is the use of crude military force under all kinds of justifications and excuses. In the case of Ronald Reagan, indecisiveness, hypocracy and lying are not so much the expression of personal weakness, as the inability of an aggressive imperialist foreign policy to go on disregarding the integrity and sovereignty of other nations.

The Lebanese tragedy was just a sample of what can happen on far larger scales if we let this insane foreign adventurism escalate in our names, and with our tax dollars.

Foad Vafaei is a Collegian correspondent

Editors note: This article was written before the illegal invasion of Grenada.

Anti-semitism still touches nerves

Howard Glantz

Whenever anti-Semitism strikes it is a fearful occurance. It scrapes an open wound in Jews who know what anti-Semitism, if allowed to fester, can develop into. In others it touches a sensitive nerve. In all forms, anti-Jewish feelings are cause for alarm. When anti-Semitism is blatant, the acts, expressions, or occurances can be reckoned with. Now, however, anti-Semitism is disguised and the sheath placed over its face receives respect. This sheath is the biases of the media.

Recently, Lebanon had been the location of mass killing. The truck explosions which massacred over 300 Americans, French, and Israeli troops are still fresh in our minds. An Irani and Syrian backed militia took responsibility for these deaths. More current was the renewed fighting between the factions of the PLO. Palestinian civilian camps were constantly shelled and bombed by Syrian supported rebels of the PLO. The latest International Red Cross count was estimated at 500 dead and 1500 wounded, and they specified that most were civilians.

But the voices of the concerned world seemed muffled and the public outcry against the actions of the rebels was virtually non-existent. The newspapers and broadcasts did not show us the bloody results of these bombings, yet they undoubtedly existed. Ahmed Masri, administrator of the Islamic Hospital in Tripoli expressed his genuine concern, "All of us are very angry, it is unfair to do this in Tripoli. If they want to fight, they should fight in another place, for example Israel."

Syria is coming into increased military conflict with the United States and has been a serious and constant threat to peace in Lebanon. What is incredible is that Syria's Prime Minister Assad makes no effort to conceal his motives. He has proclaimed over and over that Lebanon, Israel and Jordan are all parts of historical Syria and should be under his control. Yet no public condemnation has been issued by the so-called peace-loving nations of the world.

I fail to understand why there is a difference between the way Israel's military activities are reported and the way other nation's military activities are portrayed. Why the paradox? In September of 1982, World Jewry was embarrassed when most of the world condemned Israel for her indirect role in the Sabra and Chatilla massacres. At the demand of her citizens, Israel employed the Kahan Commission to conduct an inquiry and find an area of blame for these Phalangist perpetrations. Israel's defense minister, Ariel Sharon, was removed from his office along with some top military officers who did nothing to stop the killing. What is more important, however, is that before this finding was publicized, the press and live media bombarded the public with severly bloated estimates of the dead and wounded, graphic and bloody displays of murdered bodies, as well as ludicrous comparisons of Israel to Nazi Germany and of Former Prime Minister Begin to Adolf Hitler. Where was the so-called and expected objective element in reporting?

Where was the media's concern for human life when just one month before Israel entered Lebanon, Syria nearly obliterated the entire population of Hama? The "Hama Massacres" killed 15,000 innocent civilians. Why are there no condemnations now while the Arab world is committing crimes against humanity.

Although criticism towards Israel is quite acceptable, bigotry towards Israel is bigotry towards Jews. The majority of Jews, both in the diaspora and living in Israel, support both the cultural and religious aspects of Judaism.

By and large, Jews understand the need for a Jewish state and Zionists accept the value of the Jewish religion. Bigotry towards Israel in the media or anywhere else is a serious form of anti-Semitism. It is an expression of hatred towards Jews, yet in the media it is disquised under the auspices of responsible journalism. As consumers of the mass media, we need to examine what is fed to us. This form of anti-Semitism is of the utmost importance because prejudice, perpetuated through the media, grows and has costly affects.

Howard Glantz is a UMass student

Controversy

Liberals and Conservatives

Conservatism versus liberalism—the argument manages to captivate people's interest. That, in and of itself, is a positive thing.

My recent column was in no way intended to be the definitive argument in favor of liberal policy. But some people chose to view it that way. I'll be the first to admit that generalizations are a poor substitute for facts. However, if my column inspired people to march with Republicans they must have been pretty shallow individuals in the first place.

And isn't it interesting that the responses to liberal columns and others which choose to deal with issues in a variform manner are disproportionate to that of those columns and letters which deal with the same issues formally?

Take for example an excerpt from William Pyne of the UMass Republican Club's recent letter:

"If anything reacts with hysteria at the merest hint of disagreement it is The Liberal Mind. It is unfortunate that their tolerance for diversity does not extend to those who do not obediently march to their tune."

Is that not the pot calling the kettle black?

Also, it comes to my attention that a recent discussion at a UMass Republican Club meeting touched on the perceived problem of the Collegian being liberally slanted and inaccessible because the Editorial page Editor is a liberal.

These charges are, of course, ridiculous. This semester's Collegian has been the most balanced in years. Conservative viewpoints have enjoyed more attention these past few months than they have in a long time.

Anyway, not so strangely enough, one of the points I made in my earlier column was that conservatives, on the whole, prefer to criticize the media for telling it like it is. Let's not forget that a vast majority of newspaper owners are Republican.

If conservatives are truly concerned with their image let them defend their stances on various issues they believe the media have distorted.

Let them tell UMass students why they support a country that financially backs fascist regimes in Chile, El Salvador, the Philippines and most notoriously in the past; Iran.

Let them explain why the U.S. invasion of Grenada was kosher and Russia's of Afghanistan not.

Let them explain why so-called pro-lifers repudiate abortion while championing capital punishment.

Let the conservatives explain why people starve in this the most plentiful of countries, while tons of food lies in storage and farmers are paid by the government to watch television.

Let them tell us why forced prayer in school is in keeping with the First Amendment when it would infringe on the rights of a child who doesn't believe in a God. Let them explain why the New Right believes God is on its side. Because they know full well that if Jesus Christ were a candidate for public office he would support social reforms, oppose the arms race and favor the Equal Rights Amendment.

The best idea to come along at UMass in a long time is the proposal to have public policy debates on campus. If they should come to pass I'd be only too delighted to take on any of the new campus nationalists.

—by Rich Nangle
UMass alumnus

This little thing called Christmas

The season activates an infinity of complex triggers in our response pattern. I would suggest that Christmas has more reflex triggers than sex has. If Christmas were a wheel, it would have thousands of glittering spokes, and all the spokes would be identifiable as Christmas images. So many triggers, that it has become rather easy for us to suffer from Christmas burnout.

Steve Masse

Imagine the condition of your eyes (and mind) when a light has been turned on and off seven hundred and sixty-two times in rapid succession. Christmas trees, sugar cookies, wooden toys, colored lights. Buy presents. Candles in windows, bells and wreaths. Spend money. Pageants, concerts, snow falling, memories. Santa Claus and reindeer, the Nativity scene (for the purists) - and, of course, the K-mart Kwire Karols and the Xmas Shopping Xpress. Spend more money.

Add to this barrage of Christmas images all of our other concerns: exams, jobs, family problems, religious doubts, financial shipwreck, sucky love life and world war three. Not to speak of fire alarms.

Sounds like a shopping list for a nervous breakdown.

What to do, what to do? Every time I walk into a department store, I feel in a large way like Pavlov's dog - the poor pooch who was conditioned to drool every time a bell rang to herald the coming of luscious biscuits (whether the biscuits came or not.) The Christmas music! The tinsel! The Hershey kisses with red and green foil! (Ring, ring: drool, drool.)

But I won't let those Pavlovian tricks fool me this year. I must not spend money just because music is being piped through a store's PA system.

I have tried to re-educate my Pavlovian Christmas reflex. Instead of spending money on cue when exposed to fortieth-rate holiday music, I put on my Charles Dickens eyeglasses. All the windows become frosted with snow.

The air becomes fragrant with gingerbread and a hint of candle wax. Children become greeting card angels and elves and such. Parents slow down in this Currier and Ives montage, smile with real patience. I hold a lost child's hand and help find the parents.

And it hasn't cost a dime. Yet.

But later! My middle class mind gets me going full speed for a middle class Christmas. I brave all manners of horrible cold and storm to find the perfect Christmas tree, forgetting all about why I want to bring something green and alive into my home. I scratch up the roof of my already abused car with the branches, and knot my numb fingers with the rope I intend to stabilize the tree with. I drive home slowly, knowing that the hastily-tied knots could fall apart at any moment. And when I get honked at, I quickly find my middle finger to stick up at somebody.

I get home to find out that all of last year's lights are tangled and burned out. When I test them, I get zapped. Eyes bulging and ears smoking, I swear a blue streak. I race for the car and zoom out again, this time for the shopping center (where else?). Once I'm inside, the music hits me again.

And this time, I go for my wallet.

I excuse the action by pleading to myself that this is totally on purpose, it is not just a reflex to the piped-in music. I turn on my Chucky Dickens to add more credibility to my plea: Yeah, though I shop in the Valley of Commerce, I will fear no Vomitrocious Music, for mine eyes seeith the lights that twinkleth on the tree, my gloves smelleth of pine from a hundred forests, my dog chompeth on his rawhide pork chop with the red and green ribbons.

Oh, well. I guess there's just no getting away from those Christmas reflexes.

But still, I know something is missing. I realize that it all doesn't matter, it makes no difference whether I celebrate with or without music or a tree or money. What makes the difference is people. Human closeness. We can use the holidays to cushion our shyness, to say hello to strangers and not get weird looks in return. If we remember people through all the Christmas frenzy, all the rest of the seasonal images come into focus. No great expectations, no resentments, no holiday burnout. Just a satisfaction that we gave some of our warmth in the coldness, and some of our light in the darkness.

Steve Masse is a UMass alumnus living in Amherst.

Board of Editors

Editor in Chief	Joel Myerson
Managing Editor	Ray Beauchemin
Production Manager	J.P. Shanahan
Business Manager	Andrew May
Editorial Page Editor	Joshua Meyer
News Editor	Anne McCrory
Women's Issues Editor	Michelle Hyde
Women's Issues Editor	David Summersby
Arts Editor	Doug Muise
Arts Editor	Lisa Mosley
Black Affairs Editor	Yadira Betances
Sports Editor	Gerry deSimas
Photo Editor	Drew Ogier

How feelings sometimes vanish

John Kenney

It was so cold now. Not just in the morning, but all day. The sun seemed to hide most of the time. The sky was gray and lifeless, the trees bare.

She did not like the cold. She loved the warmth that spread through her whole body when whe lay on the beach, eyes closed and the sound of the waves and of children, the whistle of the lifeguard, the smell of the ocean that is pure, clean. The beach, she always knew, let you be free, to dream, to be as a child: warm, confident, safe.

But it was winter again and the wind seemed to blow right through her as she walked to class.

She had an exam in two days, a term paper due in a week and she wasn't concentrating on her work. She knew why.

People were grumpy in the winter, she thought. They were always hurrying off to someplace or another with their head down and their hands buried in their pockets. It seemed unfriendly. He got mad easier, too.

She had feared few things in her life—the dark (and she still was afraid,) asparagus (God, how she hated to eat that stuff,) her dog dying. But this was different. Now she was afraid of someone she loved.

At first, things worked out so well, he was thoughtful, funny easy to be with. But one night, drunk, he had lost his temper and she had been afraid of him.

He had apologized and she had forgiven him, for that is what love is about.

Then they were arguing one time, and he hit her, with his hand, in the face. She looked at him in the moment before the flash of pain was realized and she cried. She held her cheek, burning red, and she stared at him in shock. He stared back, muttered something about "women" and left.

He called the next day to apologize. He said they should talk, that they should meet and talk about it. But she was afraid. And yet she agreed. And in the fog that was his conversation, she found herself saying that it was all right, everything would be all right.

She knew that truly deeply, she was afraid of what would happen if she broke up with him, of how he would react. His temper . . .

Her friends said to break up with him. But when you love someone, or have loved someone and the trust you have in them is broken, it is the worst of all relationship pains. She did not want to let him go.

Yet she knew deep in her mind, she would never really trust him, like she had, and deep in her heart, that she would really never love him, as she wanted.

On a morning when she knew she should be concentrating on her work, when she should have been able to fall back and draw strength from her boyfriend, when she would have given anything to be on the beach, she found herself cold, confused and very scared.

John Kenney is a Collegian columnist

Editor's note: Counseling is available at Health Services for women who have experienced violence.

Letters

Imperial parking spots?

To the Editor,

Dear Chancellor Duffey; Last night (Wed., Dec.7) I received a parking ticket for parking in your parking space in front of Whitmore at 9:45 p.m. Apart from the fact that you were not using it, I wish to protest the ticket on two grounds.

Firstly, I noticed that the list of $10.00 fine codes are all safety-related obvious violations, and the list of $5.00 fines are simple violations like expired meters. Why is it that parking in your "reserved" space is among the $10.00 crimes? I realize that "reserved" spaces include handicapped spaces, but I do not equate a private space reserved for an administrator with a space reserved for those who cannot easily walk to further lots.

Secondly, and far more to the point, I would like to explain why I parked in your space in the first place, instead of Lot 34, where I park during the day. I am a graduate student in the theatre department, and my assistantship requires that I work nights when there are performances. I enclose only the most recent description of why it is not safe for a woman to be walking to a remote parking lot after dark.(photograph of an alleged attempted rapist) At other schools with this problem, parking lots close to central campus buildings are made available for women to park in after business hours. Why doesn't this University have a similar policy? I parked in your space because all of the others on the "U" were taken, and I knew I would not be leaving campus until after 11:00 p.m.

I plan to protest this ticket through regular campus channels, but I ask your support. I ask that this ticket be recinded, and that the University finally take some concrete steps to insure the safety of the women who work and study here.

Iris A. Valanti
North Hadley

Share your kindest gift

To the Editor,

Help Someone! There is much discussion on this campus proliferating peace and man helping his fellow man.

Here is an opportunity for many of us to practice what we have been preaching: Many elderly are placed in Nursing Homes, and if you've been in a nursing home you may have noticed that many of these people appear to be just waiting to die.

What I need are many volunteers to help bring a little joy to some of these people.

In cooperation with Amherst Nursing Home (University Drive), I need volunteers for 1-2 hours a week to go and become a friend of someone in a nursing home. They need our help.

David Crevier
Southwest

Editor's Note: If interested, please call David Crevier at 546-8927 Over intercession, call Roger Ochs at the Amherst Nursing Home, 256-8185.

Holiday was for everyone

To the Editor,

In regard to the letter entitled "Holidays Should Be For All," Mary Lyon House Council would like to make the following statements:

We would like to apoligize to Ms. Hatch and anyone else who may have felt out of place at a dorm event. Hopefully you will read on so we can explain the plans and unanticipated outcome. The issues we wish to address include the activities as well as the planners of the holiday party.

A Menorah celebration was planned but due to personal circumstances the woman who volunteered was unable to participate. We were not informed of her unavailability until the last moment and did not have a substitute.

Also, residents were singing what are considered holiday songs which were considered Christian, and we realize that someone of other religious beliefs may have felt uncomfortable in a crowd singing Christmas carols.

Concerning the planning for this party, the event was sponsored by the Mary Lyon House Council. The R.A.'s were not responsible for the planning or the party itself and therefore the responsibility should not be placed on them.

Finally, the advertising for the party was left to the responsibility of the floor representatives. Unfortunately this advertising was not adequetly circulated through the dormitory and some residents may have been unaware of the party.

Again, we would like to express our apologies. We hope that in the future a misunderstanding of this nature can be avoided.

Jeanne Roscigno
Jennifer Saccone
Co-Presidents
Mary Lyon House Council

The Washington Hillbilly

To the Editor:

To commemorate the Soviet walkout and the way that the Reagan Administration has handled the arms negotiations, I've written a song. It's sung to the tune of "The Beverly Hillbillies".

The Washington Hillbilly

Oh, let me tell ya' story 'bout a man named Ron.
Before he went to bed he flicked the T.V. on.
His arms flew in the air as he screamed contemptfully,
"The whole darn world is a-turnin' commie!"

Cuban backed, Soviet aided, Andropov (Yuri).

Weell the next thing you know there's missles in the air,
An' ev'rybody's dead, but Ronnie doesn't care.
He says, "Least the world is safe for all Democracy.
'Cause the only people left are my cabinet and me."

Reagan that is. A long life to ya' Mr. President.
You're welcome to it.

Ya'll burn black now ya' hear!

Daniel Larkosh
Southwest

Make your Christmas gift a hit!

POLYGRAM A&M ARISTA EPIC COLUMBIA RCA CBS CHRYSALIS

Here are 12 popular cassette favorites at one low price!

5.99 EA.
LPs ALSO AVAILABLE

JOHN COUGAR MELLENCAMP: Uh-Huh
DEF LEPPARD: Pyromania
THE POLICE: Synchronicity
AIR SUPPLY: Greatest Hits
MICHAEL JACKSON: Thriller
BILLY JOEL: An Innocent Man
KENNY ROGERS: Eyes That See In The Dark
THE MOODY BLUES: The Present
QUIET RIOT: Metal Health
PAT BENATAR: Live From Earth
BONNIE TYLER: Faster Than The Speed Of Night
LUCIANO PAVAROTTI: O Holy Night

MasterCard VISA

Available at the Bradlees below

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies

SALE NOW THRU SATURDAY

CHICOPEE • NORTHAMPTON
SPRINGFIELD • W. SPRINGFIELD

12-5

Arts

Service with a smile

THE SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS
December 8-14
Fayerweather Theatre, Amherst College

By LORENA NOZZOLILLO
Collegian Correspondent

Amherst College's production of Carlo Goldoni's The Servant of Two Masters, is a high-spirited, mischievious show that is filled with improvisations, ad libs, and countless prat-falls.

Director Richard Edelman, a visiting professor to the school's Department of Theater, gives his actors the freedom to elaborate on their characters, and to add their own personal flourishes. This makes the play all the more enjoyable to watch.

The play itself is a romantic comedy with a Shakespearian flavor. It takes place in 18th century Venice, and all the action takes place in one day. In the morning Signor Pantalone, a Venetian merchant, promises his daughter's hand to her true love Silvio.

Silvio is the son of Dottore Lombardi, a long-time friend of Signor Pantalone. The complication starts when Signor Federigo, a man thought to be dead, arrives to claim his promised bride, Clarice.

However, all is not as it appears to be. The person who claims to be Federigo Rasponi is really Beatrice Rasponi, Federigo's sister. Federigo was killed in a duel with Beatrice's lover, Florindo Aretusi. Beatrice has disguised herself as her brother so she can search for Florindo, who soon departed after the duel.

In the afternoon of this day Truffaldino, Beatrice's servant, is impatiently waiting for his mistress/master outside a local inn. This is where he meets Florindo. Florindo tells Truffaldino how he is without a manservant and Truffaldino instantly volunteers for the job (not mentioning that he is in service to someone else.) Truffaldino's plot is to wait on two masters at the same time, while in turn, getting two suppers at the end of the day.

Truffaldino, thought to be a fool, is actually quite clever, and is able to carry this off for a while. Soon the deception falls through for both Truffaldino and Beatrice. In order to comfort Clarice, Beatrice reveals who she is, and Truffaldino is finally caught by his two respective masters.

As in any good romantic comedy, each character is coupled off with the mate of his choice. Since Beatrice is a woman, and Federigo is dead, Clarice is free to wed Silvio. Since Beatrice has found her Florindo, they are now free to be together. Even Truffaldino is able to win the hand of Clarice's maidservant, Smeraldina.

Edelman and his cast have produced a play that is filled with fun and laughter. In fact, the cast seems to have as much fun as the audience. John Dunne, who plays Truffaldino, spends his time joking with the audience, performing flawless prat-falls, and cracking ad libs. For example, at one point in the play, Beatrice angrily asks where Truffaldino is going to. Truffaldino retorts, "La Mia Pizza!"

John Dunne is the most boisterous and out-going actor in the cast, but the other players have fun with their roles also. Kiki Norbeck is perfect as the crybaby Clarice, promptly flying into a temper tantrum on cue. In fact, Norbeck spends more than half her time on stage screaming, pouting, and crying like a three-year-old. Despite these obnoxious qualities, Norbeck still makes her character appealing to the audience. Jonathan Curelop plays Signor Pantalone as being a dirty old man, and Ezra Barnes is equally as amusing as his over-weight friend, Dottore Lombardi.

Diana Sheehan is fine as the cool, confident Beatrice. Sheehan's character is strong and independent and is in contrast to Clarice's daintiness and delicateness. Most of the cast members have many comedic talents, both verbally and physically. Not only are they quick-witted, but they are very capable in performing slapstick. The play relies heavily on the use of slapstick and physical humor. The cast even has a slapstick advisor, Alan Ball. The stunts are carefully planned and choreographed and are skillfully performed by the actors.

The Servant of Two Masters is a colorful, fast-paced comedy which is performed in the extremely intimate (and small) Fayerweather Theatre. This creates a feeling of closeness between the audience and the performers. John Dunne (Truffaldino) takes advantage of this closeness by clowning with the audience and talking to them directly.

The Servant of Two Masters is a play that is non-stop fun and can be enjoyed by all ages. It is now playing through tonight, December 14.

John Dunne, Ivana Kucan, and Kiki Norbeck perform in the Amherst College production of The Servant of Two Masters.

"We spell our last names R-O-C-H-E!"

Christine needs tune-up

CHRISTINE
Directed by John Carpenter

By JAMES TAYLOR
Collegian Correspondent

John Carpenter's Christine (based on the recent Steven King novel) is a ridiculous little farce and Carpenter has his tongue firmly in cheek all the way. Carpenter was hired to direct King's The Dead Zone and Firestarter, but was fired for going over budget. Carpenter is behind the wheel for the whole ride of Christine and it seems like it was made for him. It is his most well-made film (I don't really know if that's saying much,) and it is enjoyable.

There is an exterior and interior film here. The exterior deals with a killer car on the rampage of those who have made her and her owner mad. The interior deals with the obsession of youth and their individual desires of growing up. No, really.

Christine, the car, may be evil, but she kills only punks.

There are good contrasts of color throughout this film, and being a cinematography nut, I enjoyed watching it. There is a various soundtrack of music Christine plays, from the Mike Hammer theme to George Thorogood. For you psychoanalytic Freudian freaks, there are interesting scenes of symbolic castration.

Christine is a predictable vehicle, but enjoyable nevertheless. She has many flaws, but is still all fun, from the glistening high beems, to the shining steel tail pipe.

Trailers

Read Andy Gordon's last installment of the semester in Friday's Collegian!

Like watchin' the Waltons

Maggie, Terre and Suzzy Roche get high at the Calvin

THE ROCHES
Friday, December 9
Calvin Theatre

By PETER WISSOKER
Collegian Staff

How were the Roches? They played very well. Their show was very entertaining. They came on stage, turned on a rhythm machine and yelped: "It's summertime, summertime, sum, sum, summertime." And the concert was underway. Oh, boy. It was fun. They played lots of songs from their first album, like "The Man on the Train" and "Mr. Sellack" (written before Tom came along) and played a bunch of new songs, never before performed in front of a live audience (except a couple of nights before).

Can they harmonize as well in person as they do on record, or is it all a trick? They can. In fact, "The Troubles," they performed with such vigor that it blew away the album rendition. Unlike Quentin's narrator, they have personalities to go with their voices. At the beginning of the show, Suzzy was the only person who was talking a lot and they seemed to have developed this pattern/rap for her to do to lead into all the songs. It was mildly interesting but nothing to write home about. On the other hand, all three, as they loosened up, began to talk a little bit more. Particularly Terre, but even Maggie began to shake a leg, both legs actually, at the end of "Keep on Doing/Jerks on the Loose."

But they came to play and sing, and play and sing they did. Terre has her acoustic guitar wired so that she can sound like Robert Fripp. The songs really test the full vocal ranges of all three of the band members. They only used the rhythm machine on the new songs and the covers they did (except the "Halleluja Chorus"). The new songs were pretty fun. Maggie sang most of them. The two which were particularly good were "I've Got to Get Away (From You)" and another song, whose chorus is "Turn off the faucet, you waterfall, I'm not a bucket, dammit all." What is that all about? It's about a woman who comes up to Maggie and talks and talks and talks her heart out to her, but she can't seem to stop talking about her problems. This is what Suzzy talked about, her problems and about how she talked and people got tired of listening, but she wanted to tell people about these things because they were important. People need to know, etc.

'Are you going to name all the songs they played or just talk about a few of the better ones?' 'Sure, why don't we wrap it up with a discussion of some of the more "interesting" performances of the evening.' I thought that "Pretty and High" was done really well with Suzzy as the "pretty lie" and Terre as the clown who was pretty and high and only partially a lie. The weird thing is that sometimes I think that the sound that the Roches produce evokes the same kind of feelings as watching the Walton's and having something really nice happen. Does this mean that we can't listen to them anymore.?

"For the encore they played a really nice version of "Runs in the Family" and then they played "Listen to the Rhythm of the Falling Rain" and they finished with "We," their theme song. The other high point was when they got ready to play their last song, people booed because they said they were leaving so they sang "Good King Wenceslas" before playing "Keep on Doing."

I had a really good time at this show. A lot of people thought that it wasn't long enough (about 100 minutes), but I think that seeing the Roches is like seeing the Ramones, they work so hard on stage that you expect they'll tire after an hour and a half. The only other complaint I have is they only played two songs from Keep on Doing. But what they did play, songs both old and new, were really well presented and in general it was one of the finest shows I've seen all year.

Read Arts

until it hurts!

TIME OUT

Two TV's

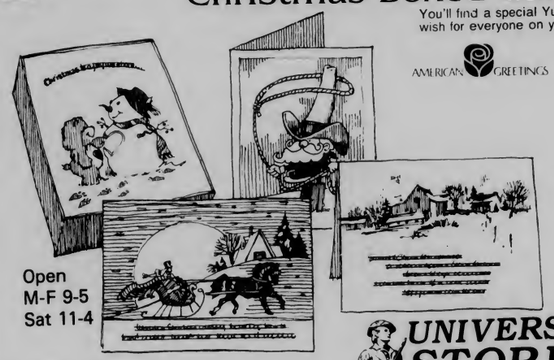
Free Popcorn

Vodka & Gin Drinks
Special $1.00

Amherst's Biggest Little Bar
37 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
4 free Movies!
WED. 12/14
CHEECH & CHONG
8 P.M. - "THINGS ARE TOUGH ALL OVER"
10 P.M. - "NEXT MOVIE"
THURS. 12/15 An Evening of JAZZ
Free! with ELIZABETH BULKLEY
COMING IN FEB.
JAMES COTTON BAND

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27



YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW
Last Chance Deadline sign-up Dec. 16
TABLES Wed-Fri Dec 14-16
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH

Christmas Cards are now available at the Ballroom of the Student Union Building

Christmas Boxed Cards
You'll find a special Yuletide wish for everyone on your list!
AMERICAN GREETINGS

American Greetings with Rose Design
MCMLXXXIII American Greetings Corporation

Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

UNIVERSITY STORE

GIFTS

Hats, Gloves, Socks & Scarves
Active Wear for women & men
by Boston Traders & Lee

The itty bitty book light

Great gifts

Wood
Brass
Glass
Ceramic
Ted D Bear

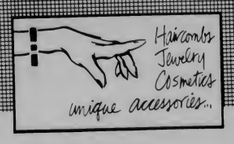
SUNDAY 12-5

Marble Rolling Pins • Coffee Makers • Mugs
Espresso Pots • Vacuum Jugs • Tea Kettles
Pasta Makers & Pizza Accessories • Baskets
a complete assortment of bar accessories
Kitchen & Bar

Gift Boxed Glass Ware
Champagne
Brandy • Pilsner • Wine

The Soap Cart

bubblebaths • moisturizers
soaps • soaps for kids
loofahs • brushes • sponges
sachets



Toys to Stuff your Stockings

Rubber Duckies
Windup Toys • Puzzles
Kaleidoscopes • Kazoos
Maze Books and
Stocking Stuffers Galore

Plush Animals
Big Bears, Little Bears, Seals, Lions, Monkees

Haircombs
Jewelry
Cosmetics
unique accessories...

Mon-Fri 'til 9
Sat 'til 6

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Gift
VISA
Downtown Amherst

Arts

The Spy Who Loved Me

Deighton transcends cliche

BERLIN GAME (Knopf)
By Len Deighton
345 pages, $15.95

By DAVID TAYLOR
Collegian Correspondent

Those books which may be classified as 'genre' novels have a tendency to be written in style that is almost entirely made up of cliche. Len Deighton, author of Berlin Game, knows every possible cliche in the spy thriller writer's handbook. Indeed, if there was such a handbook, he would have written it! Deighton has a string of worldwide best sellers to his name - The Ipcress File, Billion Dollar Brain, and XPD to name but a few - and Berlin Game does not disappoint the reader who goes to Deighton for the 'traditional stuff.'

In the world of cliches characters exist as stereotypes. Here in Berlin Game we have Bernie Samson, stalwart 'field man' of the British Secret Service, used to going 'under the wire' but now stuck behind a desk in London. Samson, it seems, comes from a long line of British Secret Service men - all jolly chaps of course - and the poor man is also married to a spy! Strain is evident in their marriage from the beginning of the novel, due, no doubt, to their stimulating bed-time conversation that reads like a CIA cryptogram.

Both Fiona (Samson's wife) and her sister hop around from one spy's bed to another like a pair of nymphomaniac bunnies. Secrets, it becomes apparent, are difficult to keep between the sheets, especially if there is a hot Russian between them too! Samson thus has all the stress needed to give him a humongous ulcer, but being British he keeps a stiff upper lip and thinks of England.

Deighton's portrait of Samson makes the stereotype nevertheless a very real stereoptype. Bernie comes across as an introverted even pathetic hero. In a landscape of jumped-up Oxbridge twits who thrill to the crackle of neatly-typed Foreign Office memos and always call the Director General "the Old Man," Samson is a likeable fellow. It's a hard life being a spy, and even more difficult when everyone in the family is a spy, too!

The style of writing is simple and informal. Berlin Game is written in the first person and the treatment is in effect very cinematic - a constant point-of-view shot with frequent 'voice-overs' as Samson confides in us what he really thinks of the pretentious idiot smiling over his tea and muffins on the other side of the desk. There is a sort of 'sighing' humor in the novel as the weary hero anticipates every command and intimates the state of play, always a few moves ahead.

Although we are drawn from the outset towards the real battleground of the novel - Berlin - the book is as much about the battle of snobbery and deceit inherent in the British governmental hierarchy, where the uniforms are the 'old-boy's tie' and everyone is a 'spiffing chum.' It is this aspect of the novel that held my attention most. The world Deighton describes, despite all the cliches is a very real, very complex and very corrupt world. It provides an interesting background against which the 'web of intrigue' (cliches anonymous) unfolds, and in which the quiet, but sinister Samson can conform and react, ever growing closer to uncoverieng the maggot in the apple.

Berlin Game is a novel which exists within a very rigid structure, that of its genre. This genre demands the use of the 'old faithfulls' - the cliches that make a spy thriller a spy thriller. As Deighton himself puts it, in Chapter 8;

He liked cliches. They were, he said the best way to get simple ideas into the heads of idiots.

But, if Berlin Game is a prostitute novel, giving the customer what he wants regardless of any literary value, its the best prostitute of its kind. This is a great book for reading in bed, or on the bus. Simple, fun and easy. Bernie Samson should read Deighton's novels in bed, rather than talk shop with his wife; she might be a little less bored, and stop galavanting around with half the Secret Service. Berlin Game is an above average novel of the 'light reading' category and well worth a read.

Neurosis and the state of new music

By GERALD COSLOY
Collegian Staff

Still grasping and grasping on this end; straws are for frappes, "love is the sops" (The Outcasts, 1980). Do I really believe it? An EMPHATIC NO. Cynicism and self-doubt, portrayed as "romantic" by certain pathetic individuals, do little more than provide fodder for bad "progressive" music. The New Scene (Fleshtones, 1983): neurosis is NOT NOT an act of rebellion or a natural guideline. Filled with despair for lack of better subject matter? SNAP OUT OF IT!

THE GO-BETWEENS-"Man O'Sand To Girl O'Sea" (Rough Trade 45)-- While US outfits like R.E.M. or the Bongos have been relatively successful at building their own grass-roots following, Australia's Go-Betweens remain largely unknown. After 3 45's and 2 LP's (including this year's woefully underrated Before Hollywood, the Cleverest Dylan parody yet), the Go-Betweens have honed their unpredictable rhythmic shifts and taut wordplay to their sharpest point. 45 #4, "Man O'Sand To Girl O'Sea" nearly collapses in its mad rush, vocal call-and-response that might get blurred if it weren't for the song's quick change of moods--exhuberant to somber and back again. Like two other sadly unappreciated pop giants, the dB's and the Soft Boys, the Go-Betweens tend to cram more lines, more great ideas into too short a tune for some listeners (and more than a few programmers) to handle. When this band falls short (and they rarely do), it seems more out of aiming their sights too high than a lack of creative drive; even their failures (one of which "Man O'Sand isn't) have a greater spark than the successes of many. (The Go-Betweens will be making their US debut in Boston on 12/28, and in New York on New Year's.)

NO TREND -Too Many Humans (No Trend LP)---"We play hardcore shows because a lot of the people that are into the hardcore scene are supposedly open minded...humans are basically just mindless sheep, waiting to be led in one direction or another, and most hardcores are no better..."--Jeff, vocalist for No Trend, interviewed in Flipside.

Admirable sentiments, yeah. Original, not quite. Y'see, No Trend seem to view themselves '(as their cliched name would suggest) as the ULTIMATE non-conformists, the counter-culture that hates the counter culture. A shame then that they resort to typical Flipper/PiL noisemaking to get their "point" across. We've heard it done better. And we'll probably hear it some more...

CABARET VOLTAIRE-"The Dream Ticket" (Some Bizzare 12")
CABARET VOLTAIRE-Theme From Johnny Yesno (Doublevision EP)---

"The Dream Ticket" is the Cab's latest attempt at expanding on their recent dance-disc change in direction. Where The Crackdown was a healthy, if not a groundbreaking merger (like the move from Fear of Music to Remain In Light), "The Dream Ticket" just marks time, a dance pulse that couldn't have taken more than 5 minutes to compose. Not a total disaster or anything: Cabaret Voltaire at their weakest are still more challenging than the Simple Minds of Clock DVA can ever hope to be. It's just that we've come to expect more...like this. Johnny Yesno, recorded in 1981, catches Cabaret Voltaire in the transitional period between Red Mecca and 2X45, the first signs of a faint industrial pulse being brought closer to the mainstream...and later infecting the whole river. Johnny Yesno shows Cabaret Voltaire growing, "The Dream Ticket" is hopefully a temporary nap.

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50
Wed. Dec. 14 - Sat. Dec. 17
The Story of Adele H 7:15
Shoot the Piano Player 9:00
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

Located in the S.U.B.

UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

Christmas Cards, Wrap and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of the Student Union Building
Christmas Wraps & Trims

Deck your gifts
in the season's finest!

Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE

Artwork ©1983 American Greetings Corp. ® Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. American Greetings Corporation

Hypercurricula

25-PLUS CLUB MEETING AND SOCIAL - Meet with older students; Election of officers will be held. UWW, IWW, Grad. and Undergrad. students and new members welcomed. Refreshments served. 8 p.m. Commuter Area Governments' Off. - 404 SU

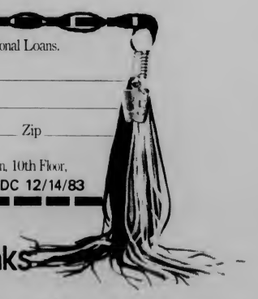
UMASS ITALIAN CLUB - will celebrate the Feast of Santa Lucia with a spaghetti dinner. Everyone is welcome to join in the festivities. For more info. call John Hadley at 6-5588 or Nancy Generelli at 6-7317. 7 p.m. 3rd Floor Lounge, Herter Hall

BROWN BAG THEOLOGY - You are invited to bring a lunch and join others dedicated to the pursuit of wide open conversation on various issues of theological import. 12:15 p.m., 428 Student Union

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL MEETING - Semester wrap-up. 7 p.m., Hillel Office (302 SU)

SUMMER SESSION IN SAPPORO, JAPAN - Informational meeting for students interested in 1984 one-month summer program at Hokkaido University. Theme: "Contemporary Japan." Optional registration for six UMass credits. 4 p.m., Rm. 1620 Tower Library

ATTENTION E.M.T.s - The Five College Chapter M.A.E.M.T. is sponsoring a continuing ed. seminar entitled "Isolated Head Injury" by Raymond F. Conway, M.D. This program will be held from 7-10 p.m. in Conf. Rm. A C.D.H. O.E.M.S. approved for 3 cr. hrs. 7-10 p.m., Cooley Dickinson Hosp.



CONCERT: UMASS FACULTY RECITAL - Percussionist William Hanley is the featured performer. The program touches on classical, jazz and contemporary styles with guest artists Nadine Shank, piano; Lynn Klock, alto saxophone; David Sporny, trombone; and Melinda Spratlan, soprano. FREE 8p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

For those whose toughest scholastic achievement is paying the tuition.

It takes more than just a lot of hard work to get through school these days. It takes money. More than people have on hand. So Shawmut offers several tuition loan programs like the Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP), Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS), Equity loans and others to meet specific needs.

Get an education on how Shawmut can help you go to school. Ask for complete information. Call 1-800-882-1008 or send in the coupon below.

Please send me more information on Educational Loans.
Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Return to: Shawmut Banks, Marketing Division, 10th Floor, One Federal Street, Boston, MA 02211. MDC 12/14/83

Shawmut Banks

Look to us for direction.

Members FDIC Equal Housing Lenders.

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00* (with this coupon!)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah
76 University Drive
Amherst MA 549-1610

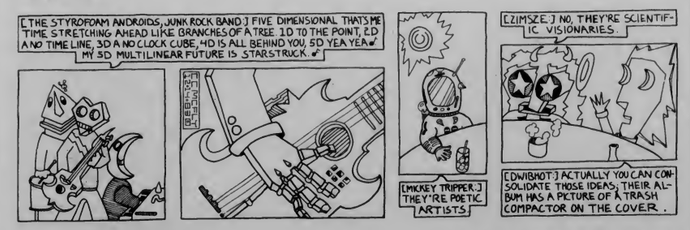
TIRES
A-78-13 Polyester Blackwalls $32.00

Size	PRICE
E60-12	37.00
P155 80D13	34.00
A78 13	32.00
B78 13	34.00
C78 14	36.00
E78 14	38.00
F78 14	39.00
G78 14	42.00
H78 14	45.00
G60 L15	38.00
G78 15	42.00
H78 15	45.00
L78 15	48.00

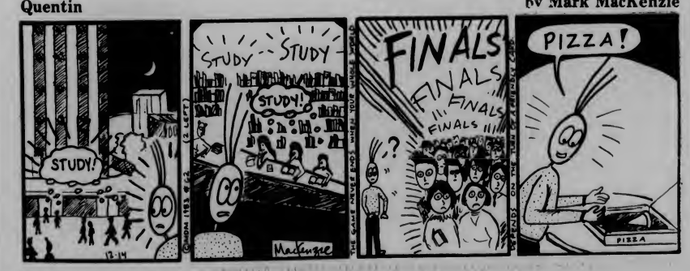
Plus F.E.T. 1.42 to 2.78 per tire. Prices include mounting & trade-in, white-walls 2.50 per tire additional.
10% Off Additional* with a CASH purchase of a set of 4 tires with this ad
OR
5% Off Addn'l one Additional with a CHARGE of a set of 4 tires with your MC VISA AX with this ad
MASS APPROVED INSPECTION STATION
MICHELIN TIRES SPECIALLY PRICED
North Amherst Tire & Auto Center
"FULL SERVICE TIRE STORE"
78 Sunderland Rd.
No. Amherst, MA across from Wetroba's Store
549-4704

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

Scrod — Dan DeBellis



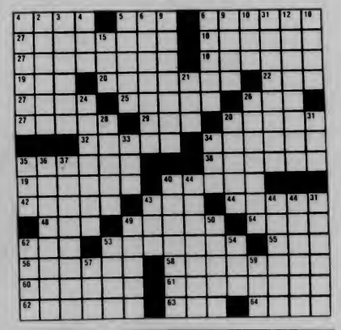
Superbad — by G.H.



After The Fall — by R. Miller

Wilson Low — by C.C. McFly

Quentin — by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Last word
5 Supplement to a book: Abbr.
8 Uncertainties
14 Refinished
16 German vowel marking
17 Exaggerated
18 Hackney
19 Celtic Neptune
20 Edith, to Archie
22 Chess piece: Abbr.
23 Sled of a kind
25 Pepys's product
26 Theology deg.
27 Heidi's creator
29 Bad ——, German spa
30 Tepee homemaker
32 Obliterate
34 Part of the city scene
35 Name for sweet girl?
38 Eccentric
39 Immortal Colt
40 Befall
42 "—— a Grecian Urn": Keats
43 GI address
44 Harvard ——
48 Gazetteer abbr.
49 Correct
51 Piece of candy
52 Color: Abbr.
53 Composer Key
55 Kind of cure or cycle
56 LaSalle or DeSoto
58 Assume control
60 —— Nevada
61 Catch up with
62 TV offering
63 Draft or grant endings
64 Fuegian Indians

DOWN
1 "—— House": Ibsen
2 Advance
3 Important issue
4 Saul's grandfather
5 Eschew
6 "—— From Heaven"
7 Kind of sports interview
8 15th cen. Low Countries composer
9 Leave undone
10 Diminutive suffix
11 Inverted musical ornament
12 Check or reverse
13 Galley direction
15 Bizarre
21 Parts of cities: Abbr.
24 Structural workman
26 Fit (with "with")
28 Western part of New Guinea
30 Garden feature
31 Exclamation of surprise
33 DDE's opponent, 1952
34 FDR project
35 Pair
36 Support
37 Remain subject
40 Feature of a sandal
41 Rounded and hollow
43 Early chalice
45 Capital of Armenia: Var.
46 Midwestern capital
47 Church features
49 French tapestry center
50 Embankments
52 Tweed, for one
53 Cabbie's concern
54 Indian weight
57 Le dernier ——
59 Native American

DC Menu

LUNCH
Royal Zucchini Beef Parmesan
Grilled Cheese Sandwich

BASICS LUNCH
Hearty Latin Stew
Grilled Cheese on Wheatberry

DINNER
HOLIDAY DINNER
Roast Prime Rib of Beef/Au Jus
Breaded Chicken Breast Steaks/Whole Cranberry Sauce

BASICS DINNER
HOLIDAY DINNER
Stuffed Baked Eggplant
Breaded Chicken Breast Steaks/Whole Cranberry Sauce

Weather

Today, a few morning showers, otherwise cloudy. Highs in the 40s to near 50 along the south coast. Tonight, cloudy, chance of rain late at night. Lows in the low to mid 40s, except mid to upper 30s in the western hills.

Todays puzzle answer

Problems for UMass gymnasts contribute to Syracuse loss

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

Problems have plagued the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team in its first three meets including the latest, a 267.35-248.95 defeat at the hands of Syracuse University on last Saturday.

"I'm pretty disappointed," a confused Coach Roy Johnson said. "I'm not disappointed at not beating Syracuse because they're pretty good, but we've had three meets now and we haven't been able to hit our routines."

Bert Mathieson is one gymnast who has been hitting consistently this season for the Minutemen. The senior has improved his all around score from 52.85 (Army) to 53.0 (Lowell) to 53.85 against the Orangemen. Mathieson received his best score of the day on the high bar event, a 9.35.

"He was having a little problem in warm-up on high bar," Johnson explained of Mathieson. "Seconds before he went up on high bar we figured out what the problem was. He made a real quick adjustment. That just shows how skillful he is. I don't think you could say that to too many athletes and have them adjust."

Sophomore Joe Demarco, who sat out the Lowell meet to rest his bad ankles, posted a 9.25 on the floor exercises to tie for the top spot with the Orangemen's Gary Simon. Floor was the Minutemen's best event as Syracuse just nabbed UMass 45.15-44.5.

UMass photographic services

LOOK MA, ONLY ONE HAND—Bert Mathieson is shown here on the pommel horse in which he scored a 9.15 in the Minutemen's loss to Syracuse.

Phil Gorgone, another consistent performer this season for UMass, posted a 9.15 score on his way to a second placing in floor.

The Minutemen had their worst pommel horse score of the season with a 36.85. Mathieson was the only gymnast who scored well (9.15) and placed in second. Johnson was pleased with the first performance of freshman Steve Bain who scored a 7.9, the second best score for UMass.

"He did an excellent job," Johnson said. "He had clean form, swung pretty well, and just had a little trouble with his dismount."

Mathieson finished third in the still rings event with a 9.15, and Demarco had a clean routine and added a swift cover-up to one trick on his way to an 8.75 score. The scores of Eric Ciccone, sidelined with a bad back, were missed in the meet, according to Johnson.

The vaulting scores improved about a point with Gorgone leading the pack. The sophomore finished second with a 9.45 and Johnson said with a little more height he could score a 9.65. Tri-captain Jim Corbett had a nice vault (9.3) and Tony Sbarra notched a 9.1 vault.

Mathieson (8.5) finished best for UMass with Corbett and Ken Dougherty performing 8.25 routines on the parallel bar event.

Mathieson won the high bar event while Sbarra returned to his usual flair scoring a 9.25.

"We'll try to concentrate more on conditioning than skill development," Johnson said of the plans over intersession break. "I just think coming up with some exercises that are a little more specific with their routines."

The Minutemen are off until January 28th when they compete in their first home meet against Navy.

Summer of "84"

Summer staff wanted for large Girl Scout resident camp in Tolland, Mass. Positions available for General Counselors; Nurses; Specialty Staff: Waterfront, Smallcraft, Riding, Gymnastics, Arts & Crafts; and Cooks. Salary with Room & Board for 9 or 10 weeks.

For applications write: Timber Trails, Star Route 158, Tolland, MA 01034 or call 1-413-258-4592

TONIGHT SPECIAL
DYNASTY
NIGHT 8-10 pm
T.O.C. COCKTAIL PARTY
COSTUME CONTEST
10 PM ALEXIS FALLON BLAKE
CANCELLED
Giveaways!
Michelob Prizes
TOP of the CAMPUS
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
11th Floor • Campus Center • UMass

All items make lovely gifts for Christmas, Weddings, Showers, Anniversaries, Hanukkah, Home Warmings or a Surprise
SAVE BIG
50%-70% off
Arrangements have been made this year with Commonwealth Distributing Co. a wholesale outlet, passing us reduced prices on luggage, bags, electronics, cameras and various gift items
Direct from the factory prices .... SAVE! SAVE!
SALE
Don't Miss This
GIANT SAVINGS
SAVE 70% off
THIS WEEK ONLY
SHOP NOW FOR CHRISTMAS
TIME: 9-3
DATE: DEC. 14-16 WED.-FRI.
LOCATION: next to Reading Room
DIRECT FROM FACTORY BELOW WHOLESALE PRICES
Sponsored by: WMUA 91.1 FM

 CAMERAS ***

Item & Description	Reg List	Your Price
DISC CAMERA, motor driven - for Kodak Disc Film	49.95	20.00
DISC CAMERA, motor driven w/flash - for Kodak Disc Film	59.95	26.00

 LUGGAGE ***

Item & Description	Reg List	Your Price
TRAVEL BAGS, Llama Skin, Metal Zippers, shoulder strap, ideal for many uses.	64.95	20.00
SHOULDER BAGS, several compartments, sim-tex, leather crafted, great	74.95	23.00
GARMENT BAGS, ideal for men or women	84.95	29.00
BRIEFCASES & LEATHER PORTFOLIOS for school or business	110.00	28.00
LEATHER WALLETS, a great gift idea	25.00	10.00
BACKGAMMON, deluxe model, felt lining, fully padded	59.00	15.00
LUGGAGE, shoulder bags, tote bags, gym bags, garments	SAVE—	70%

 MISC. ***

Item & Description	Reg List	Your Price
40 PIECE SOCKET WRENCH SET, industrial quality	62.95	18.00
INDUSTRIAL PLIER SET, many many uses	49.95	15.00
CARVING SET, professional quality	64.95	18.00
STEAK KNIVES, 8 piece set, surgical steel	54.95	18.00
ELECTRIC SHAVER, cordless, perfect for travel	29.95	18.00
BEAR RUG, for home or dorm	49.00	18.00

 ELECTRONICS ***

Item & Description	Reg List	Your Price
CASSETTE TAPES, (Pkg. of 10)	44.00	19.00
STEREO HEAD PHONES, with adapter for use with portable or home stereos	19.95	9.00
MINI-SPEAKER SYSTEM, make a walking stereo or cassette into a desk top stereo	19.95	9.00
STEREO, FM/AM with detachable walking stereo cassette player w/headphones	119.00	59.00
WALKING STEREO CASSETTE PLAYER, with headphones	49.95	23.00
WALKING STEREO AM/FM RADIO, with headphones	49.95	20.00
WALKING STEREO CASSETTE RECORDER, with headphones	59.95	28.00
WALKING STEREO CASSETTE, w/FM radio & headphones	59.95	29.00

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.

Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL

- Learn the causes of low back pain.
- Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
- Learn exercises to care for your low back.
- Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.

Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge

Amherst Chiropractic Center
190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation.

SWEETIES
FINE CHOCOLATES AND CONFECTIONS
Over 100 Kinds of Candy
Secret Santas
Christmas gifts and gift certificates
Quality Chocolate
Tins, Glassware and More
Downtown Amherst 253-5589 and 68 Main St, Northampton 586-4180

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

1972 Dodge Dert good running condition low gas milage asking $400 call 546-7898

Must sell 1980 Mazda 626 2 dr 5 spd stereo only $4600 546-6033

1975 Plymouth Fury. Runs well excellent interior, snow tires, stereo. $500 549-2872

76 Honda Civic Wagon 4 speed $1000 negotiable moving sale 665-7530

74 Toyota Corolla gd. cond. 4 spd Rm 20 Goess. Lab - days/533-3687 - eve 750/BO

71 VW Bug 80,000 miles. No rust, heater works. Excellent mech. condition, must be seen. $1250 253-7396

BIKE IN FLORIDA

UMass Bicycle Club's January Florida junket is in the meking: for information call Frank Olbris @ 545-2778 or come to the club meeting Wednesday evening (see CC meeting sheet for time and place).

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

CRANSTON FOR PRESIDENT?

Come and learn what Senator Alan Cranston's presidential campaign is all about. Everyone welcome to meet in the Hatch at 7:00 this Wednesday, December 14.

ENTERTAINMENT

Rackadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

FOR RENT

Two spaces in Brittany Manor Apt for spring semester starting in jan or Feb with option for next year. Call Dan or Steve 256-1280

Intersession room cheap close to campus everything furnished 549-4067

One bedroom available in spacious five bedroom house near bus stop. Rte 9 Hadley $145.00 + call 586-3936

Two rooms available in spacious Sunderland house 665-2939

Large Room in 2 bedroom available for Feb. Sublet - on bus rt. Sunderland 665-7756.

2 spaces Available in Brittany Manor for Spring Semester call 256-8656.

Intersession: sublet, 2 bedroom, Colonial Village. On bus route, near convenience & liquor stores. $150 253-3082

Room available begin Jan or Feb 2 mi. past Rolling Green bus rt 253-3517

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Leaving country must sell rare Cinnamon Cockatiel $100 or best offer 1-863-8510 weeknights Sat & Sunday

Portable Panesonic AM/FM stereo cassette recorder. Model RX5030. $100 call 546-6302

Need X-mas presents? Alpaca sweaters at low prices call eves 253-9494

HELP WANTED

Temporary full-time help needed pre & post Xmas in textbook warehouse in Waltham. Call Mike Canavan (617) 899-7154

Housepersons needed next semester for local sorority. Kitchen help in exchange for meals. If interested contact Paula M. 549-7538, 256-6874

Full & Part-time student advocates for Wintersession & Spring semester at Commuter Area Gov't. Organizational, leadership & writing skills needed. Apply 404 SUB 545-2145 deadline 12/16 AA/EEO

Jobs for intersession. Do something for a change! Paid Holiday jobs with Masspirg. Come work with us on acid rain and toxic waste this intersession call Terry at 256-6434.

JULIE & PILA

Looking for epartment near campus starting Feb 1 call 546-6425 or 546-6414

LAST CHANCE FOR A GREAT GIFT

Hoky Carpet Sweepers $17.60***
Gourmet Trays $8.00
call Deve or Paul nights 10-12 pm
for more info 546-5232******

LOST

Lost Wed Dec 7 9-10 PM Poor Dicks mohair scarf by Bar great sentimental value reward please call 253-3339

Pub Saturday Night - black wool coat need desperately no questions call 546-9578

A peir of glasses in a soft blue case please call 549-5811

PERSONALS

College*Spring*Break***
Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe Motor Coach Transportation
ocean front accommodation 7 night
Welcome Party with FREE BEER
Make reservations Now and Save $20
Check out our table in the CC Concourse or call 546-5422
D*A*Y*T*O*N*AB*E*A*C*H**

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Housing available for Spring Semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Keppe Kappa Gamma invites all university woman to a celebration of the Holiday Season Thursday Dec 5 3:00 - 5:30 545-0320.

Somehow I wes hoping it would end like this. But I wouldn't mind starting it over again, and again, and again and. . .thanks, RMB

Boomer - The rumors are flying - I don't know if they're true, but just remember something - I'll always love you. P.S. I trust you. Louanne

Bari Spielmen - Here's a personal for my best buddy; thanks for the memories esp. our talks. Good luck during exams and be good until I see you. Love, Glenn

Steve A. You stood us up again! Not only parties but dinner too! P & B

Coolidge staff (and Kirk) Happy Holidays. Thanks for everything. Love ML

Coolidge 21. Thanks for a great first semester. I love you all. ML

Panache, La tua amiciza vale molto a me. Se caso ma, avrati bisogno del mio aluto ci saro' per te. Mary

To 4 North Field - to the best floor any CRA could ever want. I will miss you all. Happy Holidays. Danno

T.J. Bryant, Thanks for a beautiful month. Tu es beau. Love Tuffianio

★ Supple ★ The thing is, and here's the thing, I really love you guys, a lot. But, the best thing is, you really make me feel loved. Take care and good luck on finals. - We'll do it up in New York -

Simon - Can I borrow your rape whistle in a big way? - Moana

Budman, Happy Birthday! Love the U-Mass Women's Ski Team

Mark, I'm so sorry it couldn't end as friends. Wendy

$5.00 Off Sugerbush Week Trip for someone to take my place! 323-4080

Pam, Happy 19th. Try to stay out of trouble! The Little Ant

Margy and Sheri Heres to a fresh start. . .Happy Holidays! K

If you enjoyed "The Adventures of George and Earlene" you'll also enjoy the soon-to-be-published sequel: "George and Earlene Go Skiing!"

Dena from Wheeler: I've watched you for two fall semesters. I only wish I knew you better! Have a great intersession - Mary's friend in Math

Bert B Happy Graduation. I'll miss you. Let's still get married. Love Marcie M

Joanne - I'm sorry about being one of them on Monday night, but at times some of us have to. P.S. I'm psyched that you're also in Boston next semester Chris

PETER BUCKLEY

Good Luck in the jungle! I miss you already love, Jenny

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

PUNX UNITE

From San Francisco, CA, Crucifix, Outpatients, CIA, Dec 17 5 PM Grange in Greenfield Allages more info 6-6262

RIDE WANTED

To New York/North Jersey Area Dec 21 afternoon call Karen 6 - 9534.

Northbound for Christmas. Vermont or Canada. will share expenses. Call Blake 546-5336.

One woman and luggage (not a lot) need a ride to New Jersey on Tue 12-20 / after 4 pm on Wed 12/21 anytime will help pay gas. Jill 6-7277

ROOM WANTED

Responsible adult looking for single room to rent in or around Amherst please! Call Amy 584-2814

2 male roommetes wish to trade room in Sylvan for same in Southwest for next semester 6-4043

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share room in Brittany starting January. Quiet Student preferred. Call Beverly 256-1335

Female roommate wanted to share one bedroom apt starting January 546-5754

Roommate needed Amherst Center apt full kitchen call Patrick 253-5298

Roommate wanted to share rm w/1 other F in 2 br Twnhse apts call 549-4585

Townehouse female roommate wanted for Spring take over lease Jan 1 call 549-7690

Responsible female to share room in Brandywine, $118-heat included call 549-1405

Apt mate wanted, own bedroom Presidential Apts. 150/month + util. 549-0886

Female Roommate wanted to share Southwood Townhouse Apt Jan 1st 256-8471.

Male Roommate wanted to share Southwood Townhouse apt 256-0095 Rob.

2 female (nonsmoking) roommetes wanted for spring in Brandywine call 549-3892

Rolling Green - lg. bedroom in 4 bedroom townhouse. Avail Jan 1 on bus rte, AC, pool. 143.75, inclusive call 256-8261

Female apartmentmate wanted for January and spring semester , own room 549-3720

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Professional Typing 253-9582 after 3 p.m. M - F Anytime weekends.

SOFABED

Sofabed in fair condition for sale. $25 or best offer. Call Jim after 11 p.m. 549-6308.

TO SUBLET

1-3 People for Jan in Duplex in No.Hampton Center, 120 + call Steve 546-8198.

Amherst CTR 1 Room Avail in 4 bdrm apt starting Feb Call 253-5298.

2 bedrm Colonial Apt to sublet Jan 1 - Sept 1 253-5288

TRAVEL

SKI SWITZERLAND********
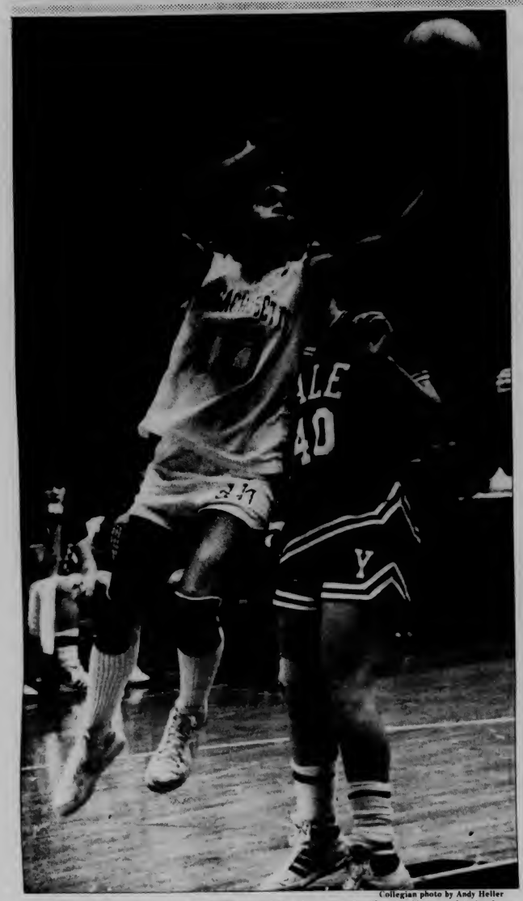
low cost ski tours to the Alps
everything included one low price
tour information and slide show
Wednesday 7:30 pm Campus Ctr Rm 903

WANTED



Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Sports

More sports on page 18

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

AIRBORN—Senior guard Wendy Ward controls the ball in midair in last Saturday's match against Yale. Ward scored 12 points in the SC loss.

Women stopped by SC, lose intensity in defeat

By ADAM NAZIMOWITZ
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team, attempting to climb above the .500 mark for the first time since last season, were stopped by a tough Southern Connecticut squad in New Haven by a 68-52 count.

Barbara Hebel led the Minutewomen offensively with 18 points, and captain Wendy Ward also played well in contributing 12 points of her own. Gina Depeane led Southern by pouring in a game high 23 points from her guard position. Cindy Boudreau added 14 for the Lady Owls.

"We didn't play our game in the first half, but were able to stay with them and only be down by two points at halftime. We had a good chance to come out and control the second half, but we got into foul trouble and they lost their intensity, which hurt them down the stretch," Assistant Coach Jody Lavin said.

In the first few minutes of the game it was close, but with about 13 minutes left to play in the first half, Southern went into the penalty bonus and shot a lot more foul shots. UMass had only one free throw in the first half, and that was on a three point play converted by Rebecca Kucks. Southern had 13 attempts, of which they hit on nine of them. But the Lady Owls only led 29-27 at the half.

The Minutewomen could not get back on track in the second half, as Southern remained in the bonus situation and continued to dominate the free throw line.

With about six and a half minutes gone by in the half, the Lady Owls began to score consistently each time down the floor, while the Minutewomen went into periods of several minutes at a time when they just couldn't get the ball in the hoop at all.

At about the nine minute mark of the second half for most of the rest of the way, Southern kept around a ten point lead. UMass cut it to six at one point with about six minutes remaining in the game, but the Lady Owls were in the one-in-one situation at the foul line and began to hit their shots. They connected on nine out of 12 during the half, while the Minutewomen hit a more respectable five out of six from the charity stripe.

Southern outrebounded the Minutewomen by a considerable amount, and UMass poor shooting percentage helped account for the final score.

The Minutewomen return to the familiar confines of the cage on Friday night as they host Springfield College at 7:30. Lavin would like to see them improve on their shooting percentage, control the game from the outset and keep intensity vs. Springfield.

Basketball notebook

By DAN LEBERFELD
Collegian Staff

The college basketball season is once again upon us and once again parity is the name of the game. As each season passes, more and more teams improve. The reason for this is that as each year passes the high school talent graduating into the college ranks becomes better and available to more schools. This is especially true in the world of Eastern basketball. Let's delve into the wonderful world of Eastern basketball and see whats goin on...

The three biggest conferences in the East have to be The Atlantic Coast Conference, The Big East and the Atlantic 10. There are no clear favorites in any of these conferences and there should be upsets left and right...

...In the ACC any one of the eight teams could walk away with the title. On paper North Carolina seems like the logical choice with the Tar Heels as talent laden as ever. They return two All-Americans in 6'9" forward Sam Perkins and 6'6" guard Michael Jordan. Also returning is 6-8 senior forward Matt Doherty who lends stability to the starting line up. The Tar Heels also recruited the nations two premeir high school big men a pair of 6-10's in Joe Wolf and David Popson. Thier bench players could start for most schools in America. Unfortunately for the Tar Heels, basketball games are not played on paper and all the other teams in the ACC are out for their necks.

Wake Forest returns its starting five and much of the bench. They also have two players coming in to help out in 6-8 Kentucky transfer Todd May and 6-7 high school All-American Mark Cline. They will be tough, as will Maryland featuring the stupendous 6-8 forward Adrian Branch. Clemson, Virginia, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State, and Duke are all rebuilding but what their rebuilding with is great and could be worthy of an ACC championship for any of them. Look for NC and Wake Forest to be at the top, but anything can happen.

The majority of the teams in the Big East are rebuilding. The team hurt least by graduation is Georgetown and thus they have been picked by most to win it. They have 7' foot junior All-American Patrick Ewing manning the middle. This fact alone puts them in the upper echelon of the basketball world. The cast around him isn't shabby either. They have an all senior backcourt in Gene Smith and Freddie Brown. Joining Ewing up front is the nation's premier high school player last year, 6-7 forward Reggie Williams out of Balitmore who can just do it all. The bench is strong and many different individuals should break into the starting lineup.

The Atlantic Ten progresses more each year. The favorites this year are Temple and St. Josephs but not clear favorites to say the least. Temple features the nations most under publicized player in 6-5 guard Terrence Stansbury, who tossed in 25 points a game last season and can just shoot the lights out. Rutgers, St. Bonnaventure, Duquesne, West Virginia, George Washington, and Penn State are all rebuilding. Our UMass Minutemen have a big question mark next to their chances. They could take the title or they could finish last. If the question mark becomes I's stability, they will make a lot of teams miserable on the court.

The East's entrees for college basketball player namer of the year are Napolean Lightning of St. Francis, Fitzgerald Bobo of Duquesne, and Sir John Collins of Seton Hall...

...UMass is on the verge of (signing) 6'5" shooting guard Matt Ryan out of Long Island but it will have to wait until the Spring signing period...Enjoy the season

Sports Log

By TONY BETROS
Colegian Staff

Just a few final thoughts...

Here we are, in the middle of December, one game left, and the Patriots are still in the playoffs. All they have to do is beat Seattle and hope Cleveland loses to Pittsburgh. Or, if Cleveland, Buffalo, and New England all win, the Pats have a good chance, depending on the net conference points. But the fact is that they are still in the thick of things. Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus...With so many playoff spots open, the best thing to do is let the computer spit out the results and wait 'till Tuesday...Odds on favorites has to be the Redskins for the Super Bowl. They pounded the Boys down in Dallas, 31-10. Rumor has it that Tom Landry has more than a headache, he has an Exedrin headache...again. Frank, Howard, and Dandy Don witnessed another travesty of a Monday night. They should rename Tuesday morning The Day After.

Larry Bird and co. wasn't too happy with the floor conditions in Hartford, so I don't know if we'll be seeing too many more games outside of the Garden...Meanwhile, the Celts have the 'gum on the shoe' Knicks on their tail. They just can't get rid of them...I see Magic is renegotiating his contract. It seems 25 million just doesn't buy what it used to.

On the ice, the Canadiens just aren't what they used to be. Fighting Hartford for the last spot is sad enough, but tying Pittsburgh 3-3 makes for plenty of jeers north of the border...The Bruins, however, show the mark of a good club by not getting into any kind of losing streak. After losing to Buffalo, they didn't let up and defeated Winnipeg. They may just yet bring the Cup back to Boston.

The bowl games are just around the corner, with Nebraska having the inside track to number one. It's a shame that they won't play Texas for the real championship...In college hoop, it looks like another exciting season with plenty of good clubs around, the early choices being Kentucky and North Carolina. But with so many teams that are high caliber, it should be fun in March and April. And I have cable--now I'll never get any studying done.

UMass lost big to Duke, but the big thing is that they are on the schedule. We must play good clubs to get people to come here. Recruiting is our first step in forming a successful franchise. It may mean a few losing seasons, but in the long run, it just may pay off...

On other notes: Will "Hitman" Easler fill the void of the left-handed power hitter the Red Sox need? The Sox gave up a good pitcher in Tudor, and I don't think Eckersley is going to have the year Ralph Houk thinks...Finally, are we in for another fight of the century? Possibly, if Sugar Ray Leonard goes all the way and fights Hagler. Now, that will be a fight.

Have a terrific Christmas...

No more need be said.

Intramural hockey finals under way

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

Last year's defending intramural ice hockey champions, Yukon Jack, advanced to the finals on Sunday when it out-hustled the top-placed Nads 5-2. In the best two out of three finals, which began last night in Greenfield, Yukon Jack will tackle Mass Confusion which edged out What the Puck 4-3.

Joe Bellini scored the winning goal for Yukon Jack, who finished fourth in the league with 17 points. After picking up the puck behind the Nads net, Bellini shifted around and stuffed the puck inside the post. Mat Lions played a fine game while contributing two goals to the upset victory.

"Yukon Jack just showed more spirit," manager of the league, Scott Andrews said. "They just outplayed the Nads. They looked like they wanted the win much more."

The Nads blasted Yukon Jack earlier in the season, 4-0 and 7-2, but Yukon came back and got its revenge in the semi's.

Mass Confusion (third, 18 points) is a favorite to win on paper, however Andrews said there could be some surprises.

"Mass Confusion has the better team but I think Yukon Jack might want the win a little more."

The second game of the finals will be played tonight and if necessary, a deciding game will be Thursday night.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 66 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, December 15, 1983

A review of the Senate

By JOHN O'CONNELL
Collegian Staff

It has been a semester of resignations for the Undergraduate Student Senate.

Nearly every committee chair has resigned this semester. The most recent two, Paul Gosselin of the Public Policy Committee and Cindy Lehmbeck of the Rents and Fees Committee, both cited "burn-out" from the raging Student Government Association internal politics as the main reason.

News Analysis

And the resignation of Dakin Ferris from his position as temporary student attorney general in October was merely the high point in a controversy that began in the early summer and split the SGA leadership this semester.

In the middle of that controversy, SGA co-President Charlene Allen's threatened resignation in November seemed ready to throw an already tumultous SGA into a new, more intense round of politicking.

Amid all the infighting, the senate did manage to get considerable work done on a new constitution (although many will contend that politics have prevented final passage of the charter), and members also worked to stop Chancellor Duffey's proposed tuition increase.

But the most obvious characteristic of the SGA this semester was the seemingly endless debate over any issue that came before it.

The fall senate elections added a new dimension to the usual debate in senate meetings, and perhaps the best indication of new trends in the senate were the two votes to reject a motion condemning the United States invasion of Grenada.

The senate elections on Oct. 5 drew barely enough candidates to run for the available seats, and 8 percent of the undergraduates voted in probably the most conservative senate in years.

The debates between these senators and the senate leadership, who were elected on a progressive platform last spring, might have been interesting, but it often seemed the senate would exhaust their energy on the more emotional, politically charged issues and pass over the usual day-to-day business on campus.

Senate Speaker Chris Sullivan said the semester "has been full of difficulty and trying to a lot of people, but I'm not sure there is going to be a semester that's not like that."

After the senate voted not to condemn the U.S. invasion of Grenada on Nov. 2, SGA co-President Tom Ahern placed a suspensive veto on that vote, and brought the issue up again the next week. He said he would limit debate to 25 minutes, but the senate went over it for two and one-half hours.

continued on page 5

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

SETTLING THE DUST — A University farm employee wets the sawdust on the floor of Grinnell Arena yesterday in preparation for an upcoming dog show. Built shortly before World War I, the arena has hosted animal shows for decades.

Amherst alumni to discuss fraternities' fate

"They (the alumni letters) cover the range from people who feel strongly that fraternities ought to be sustained and strengthened, to people who feel significant change is called for," said Richard Spies, chairman of the Alumni Council.

By PAUL BASKEN
Collegian Staff

With students strongly opposed and faculty strongly supportive, alumni of Amherst College are scheduled to meet tonight with trustees to give their opinion on a proposal to eliminate their century-old fraternity system.

The future of the liberal arts college's 624-member fraternity system was questioned earlier this year in a white paper written by Amherst's late President Julian Gibbs and recirculated this summer by his successor, G. Armour Craig. The college's trustees, now seeking comment on the subject from interested parties, plan to vote on the matter next month in time to cancel next year's rush if the system is eliminated.

At a specially called meeting last month, Amherst College faculty voted 90-29 to "abolish fraternities at the end of the academic year."

Last week, however, an Amherst Student poll of 1,174 members of the about 1,500 member student body found 85 percent supported keeping fraternities in some form.

As a result, students expect tonight's meeting in New York City of the Alumni Council's executive committee and the trustees' specially formed ad hoc committee on campus life will provide a large key to the future of fraternities.

"They probably have the heaviest ballot," Interfraternity Council (IFC) President Hal Ball said of alumni, and "we don't know which way it's going to go."

Although refusing to state either his or his committee's position, chairman Richard Spies said the Alumni Council has received letters from more than 400 graduates.

"They cover the range from people who feel strongly that fraternities ought to be sustained and strengthened," Spies said of the letters, "to people who feel significant change is called for."

However, Spies said he found "no clear-cut and overwhelming alumni view," and that with more than 14,000 graduates, it is "a little bit hard to generalize about the entire alumni view."

Political science professor George Kateb, who at last month's faculty meeting introduced a resolution calling for a phaseout of the system over a two year period, said "in general, I sympathize with the project of abolishing fraternities, but I think those now living at Amherst College should be allowed to finish their college career with the fraternities intact." The resolution, introduced by Kateb on behalf of a faculty committee, was subsequently defeated.

English professor Benjamin DeMott argued unsuccessfully before the faculty vote that the group was "un-

continued on page 5

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

FRATERNITIES IN TROUBLE — Amherst College students relax in the living room of Psi Upsilon yesterday. The future of the fraternity system has come into question at Amherst.

Inside:

Doctoral student proves you are as young as you feel ..... p. 3
The unanswered questions of asbestos ..... p. 9
Two O'Casey plays are well-received ..... p. 11
A Christmas wish list by the sporting types ..... p. 14

"This be madness, yet there be method in't,"
— in Hamlet by William Shakespeare (speaking of finals?)

Digest

AROUND THE WORLD

Syrians blasted by New Jersey

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The American battleship New Jersey fired its 16-inch guns on positions in Syrian-held hills east of Beirut today — the first time it had opened fire since arriving off the Lebanese coast in September, U.S. officials said.

The officials did not specify the targets, but said the shelling by the New Jersey, the only operational battleship, was in response to attacks on a U.S. reconnaissance flight earlier in the day.

They had no details on fire directed at U.S. reconnaissance jets.

The projectiles from the 16-inch guns, the largest conventional artillery afloat, weigh up to 1,900 pounds a piece. The New Jersey has three batteries, each with three of the big guns.

Spokesmen for the U.S. Marine contingent and for the U.S. Embassy confirmed the New Jersey had fired its big guns.

Officials in Washington said the destroyer Tattnall and the guided missile cruiser Ticonderoga joined in the shelling.

AP Laserphoto

HEY MOM! — A jubilant Brazilian high school senior phones home after learning this week she passed the first round of nationwide college entrance exams for next year. The results were published in area newspapers.

Reagan wants no war in Syria

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today America has no interest in going to war against Syria and suggested that U.S. forces in Lebanon would be withdrawn if all hope vanishes for achievement of their goal — a stable Lebanon free of foreign forces.

Speaking hours after American naval gunpower came into play in Lebanon for a second consecutive day, Reagan defended his decision to strike back against Syrian gun positions that fired on U.S. warplanes.

"I'm never going to send our men any place where they aren't allowed to defend themselves," the president declared, but added, "We're not there to shoot first."

At the same time, he suggested the need for an international peacekeeping force, of which the 1,600 U.S. Marines are a part, would vanish if all hope collapses for withdrawal of Syrian, Palestinian and Israeli forces from Lebanon and for a stable central government in that troubled country.

In that case, Reagan said, the Marines would come home.

"There would be no reason to stay," he said.

But Reagan repeated the rationale for keeping the Marines on duty since September 1982 — to create a climate for stability that would allow a Lebanese government to take hold.

AROUND THE NATION

Discrimination suit nets $225 M

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A federal judge Wednesday ordered Washington state to spend an estimated $225 million over the next two years to end pay discrimination against its women employees.

U.S. District Judge Jack Tanner also ordered the state to work with an already appointed special master to start implementing his order granting back pay to Sept. 16, 1979. The master, Tacoma lawyer Edward Lane, will work out the details of back pay.

Lawyers have indicated the total settlement could reach $1 billion.

The state said it would immediately file an appeal, which would stay the order from taking effect.

Tanner held Sept. 1 that the state violated federal civil rights laws by paying less for jobs held predominantly by women than for those held predominantly by men and requiring the same skills and effort.

His decision could set a precedent for similar lawsuits around the country, union officials have indicated.

Acid rain's severity questioned

CHICAGO (AP) — Acid rain may not be increasing as rapidly as thought because experts have been comparing the problem to an "abnormal meteorological period" in the 1950s, an Illinois State Water Survey researcher says.

Researcher Gary Stenslund told a meeting of the American Meteorological Society on Tuesday that the common scientific comparison of recent acid rain levels to those of the 1950s may result in an overstatement of the increase.

A drought in the early 1950s increased the amount of earth dust in the atmosphere and that dust found its way into the rain and snow, Stenslund said.

The dust led to abnormally low readings of acidity in the rain and snow because it contains calcium and magnesium, two alkalis that tend to counteract acid content, said Richard Semonin, the water survey's assistant chief and Stenslund's coresearcher.

AROUND THE REGION

Teenager admits sex game murder

SPRINGFIELD, (AP) — A teen-ager faces sentencing next month after admitting he caused his roommate's death by letting him hang from a sheet during a sexual game.

Donald Tremblay, 18, of Springfield pleaded guilty Tuesday in Hampden Superior Court to manslaughter for the Jan. 24 death of Alan Masciadrelli, 22, of West Springfield. The pair formerly lived together in West Springfield.

Judge Charles Alberti scheduled sentencing for Jan. 4. Manslaughter carries a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison.

Tremblay originally told police the death was a suicide, but Medical Examiner Bruce Dziura reported Masciadrelli died during a sexual game.

Transplant patient outraces doctor

BOSTON (AP) — One heart transplant patient has recovered so well that he ran a 12-mile race faster than one of his doctors.

The example of "a high level of physical rehabilitation" was reported in a letter in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine.

The 48-year-old patient underwent the transplant in August 1982. Four months later he began taking long walks and in January he spent a week skiing.

Last June, he told his doctors he wanted to take part in a jogging competition in Belgium.

They gave him an exercise test and then, "under close medical supervision," let him compete in the race in Brussels while wearing portable heart monitoring equipment.

He finished 12,031 in a field of 16,000 runners.

"Although patients with transplants generally regain a normal level of physical performance," the doctors wrote, "this patient was able to outrank both his (untrained) physical therapist and a member of the surgical team in an official competition."

AP Laserphoto

INDICTMENTS ANNOUNCED — U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb yesterday announced the indictments resulting from "Operation Greylord," an investigation of the Cook County, Illinois judicial system. Three present or former judges were indicted.

Reagan aware of welfare cheats

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today a White House aide's remarks on hunger were taken "totally out of context" but added that, because there are people who try to cheat the welfare system, he assumes some also try to obtain free food they're not entitled to.

Meeting with reporters in an informal session in the White House press room, Reagan also said that "if there is one person in this country who is hungry, that is one too many."

The president's prefaced his comments by saying he had hoped someone would ask him about the statement last week by White House counsellor Edwin Meese III.

In an interview, Meese said he had seen no evidence there were hungry children in America and commented that some people go to soup kitchens because "the food is free and that's easier than paying for it."

Volpe urges drinking age hike

BOSTON (AP) — Former Gov. John A. Volpe said Wednesday he believes it is possible to pass legislation in the coming year that would raise the legal drinking age in Massachusetts to 21. The current drinking age is 20.

"We will be making a very concerted campaign for passage," Volpe told a news conference to outline the recommendations made by President Reagan's commission on drunken driving, which Volpe headed.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Bill Wall
Copy Editor — Elizabeth Ann-Michelle Luciano
Layout Technician — Paul Basken
Photo Technician — Drew Ogier
Production Supervisor — Hot Shit Atkins
Production — Laura Zigman, Amy Keefe, Lissa Kierman, Tim Riviere, Lesley Clark, J.P. Shanahan, John Wielgus

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Doctoral candidate and futurist Phyllis Rodin.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers.

Older student looks forward to future peace

By D. KIRKWOOD SUMMERSBY
Collegian Staff

At 70, future studies major Phyllis Rodin is one of the oldest students at the University of Massachusetts, but age can be deceiving. She is one of the most active people around.

"I do aerobics and yoga every day. I am in good shape," said Rodin, a feminist, psychotherapist, self-proclaimed planetary citizen and now a doctoral candidate at UMass.

"Very few people can keep up with me. I find people in their twenties are older than me. They are scared," she said.

Rodin's life in all 24 countries she has lived and worked in has always taken her in the direction of peace and progress on earth. While continuing those commitments, she has now turned to the future; the space age.

Her dissertation is called "Space Communities: Penal Colonies or Paradises," in which she examines the potential of future scenarios of life in space.

"We study future scenarios by looking for ways and means for all the eventualities that come out of a situation and choosing the one that does the greatest good for the greatest number of people," she said.

"'Star Wars,' 'Planet of the Apes,' these are future scenarios. Which one do you pick?"

"We are going out into outer space. Think of it," she said.

As a feminist and a peace activist Rodin's actions have been endless. For a time in the 1940s she helped remove the psychosomatic effects of radiation of people living in Hiroshima, and in the 1970s, helped initiate programs and rallys to help women in the early days of the women's movement.

More recently, Rodin spent time at the Seneca Women's Peace Encampment, and was the oldest person to climb the fence of the Seneca Army Depot, which resulted in her arrest.

"I was not scared of that. What can happen to us that is worse than 'The Day After,'" she said.

Rodin is quite critical of President Ronald Reagan and the attitudes of people in power.

Women On Campus

"If the Russians and the United States could get over the enmity and look towards the future we could have a millenium on Earth," she said.

"If they could only change their goals from killing people to helping people," she said.

"My favorite theory about what has happened is that these people who are driving us towards war are aliens who have taken on human bodies and are intent on destroying the human race. Like 'Star Trek,' she said.

Despite her apparent youth, Rodin said the future lies in the hands of young students.

Turkish students respond to quake

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

Responding to a massive earthquake that hit the mountain province of Erzurum, Turkey, a group of seven native Turkish students raised almost $1150 in the Amherst area towards the relief of homeless villagers.

"The money was mailed to Red Crescent, the Turkish equivalent of the Red Cross, two weeks ago," said Gonull Kaletunc Gencer, a University of Massachusetts student who participated in the fundraising.

"The money will be used for medicine, blankets, food and medical personnel. Many people were left without shelter and the climate is harsh in that mountain region," Gencer said.

Turkish officials say the earthquake, which struck on October 30, killed 1,126 people and injured 534 others. The earthquake was so severe that it left 44 out of 50 villages struck without a single building standing and 25,000 people subsequently left without homes or shelter.

Three weeks ago, the group of seven University students set up a collection table in the Campus Center Concourse for two days. The students took turns working the table.

In addition, another booth was stationed in the Hampshire Mall for one day that week. Several western Massachusetts groups and one company also made outright donations with money collected from employees and management.

The Lesnow Manufacturing Co. in Easthampton raised $250, the Western Islamic Society in Springfield raised $250 and the UMass Graduate Student Senate donated $350 Gencer said.

"Many native Turks across the country also sent money to Red Crescent," Gencer said. "The earthquake was devestating and was followed by severe weather.

"The Islamic Society at UMass let us use their name to raise money, and we would just like to express our gratitude to everyone who donated money. People were very receptive to responding to this disaster; we'd like to thank them," Gencer said.

University employee dies in collision

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

Memorial services will be held today for Lucy Gromaski, a University of Massachusetts employee who died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a car accident.

Observances are to be held at the Lipinski Funeral Home in South Deerfield from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. with a memorial service scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Gromaski, 54, of Whately, had been working as a custodian on the sixth and seventh floors of Dickinson dormitory in the Orchard Hill residential area. She died Tuesday afternoon of massive traumatic injuries after the car she was driving collided with construction equipment early that morning.

Monday night, students on the two floors had decided to donate money for a holiday gift for Gromaski, money which will now go to a charity in her name, said sixth floor resident, Ken Levinson.

"All she talked about was wanting the best for other people. She understood what we were going through and thought we should make the most of the opportunity," Levinson said of the deceased woman. "She thought it was great that we had a chance at a higher education."

Gromaski, a graduate of Smith Academy of Springfield, leaves her husband, John, of Whately, and a son, David, of West Springfield. She also leaves three brothers, two sisters, one grandchild, and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Holy Name of Jesus Church in South Deerfield, where Gromaski was married in 1949. She will be buried in the Holy Name of Jesus Cemetery.

Everywoman's Center selling gifts

By MAURA DARE
Collegian Correspondent

Students who are scurrying around looking for that last minute Christmas gift for their special someone do not need to go any further than the University of Massachusetts Everywoman's Center.

Since 1972, The Everywoman's Center has sold inexpensive holiday gifts relevant to women. Since that time, the center has expanded and changed, and so has the gift section, said Sandy Mandell, coordinator of resource and referral program.

The gift section is "very small because of extremely little space," but there are quite a few gifts available, Mandell said.

Some of the gifts the center has are books on women's health issues. Four books by the Boston Women's Health Collective, and "Our Children's Ourselves," are available in English and Spanish.

Other gifts include rape whistles, bumper stickers, an Everywoman's Center Herstory manual, calendars, and Trilluim, a directory of local services by and for women.

Buying the gifts is "a way of expressing concern by giving information which can be helpful to others in their life," Mandell said.

The cost of the items ranges from five cents to a few dollars. The center does not make a profit on the items and considers the price paid for them donations to the center, she said.

Buying the gifts is a way of simply giving someone a gift and supporting the Everywoman's Center at the same time," she said.

The Everywoman's Center, which is located on the second floor of Wilder Hall, is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Wednesday from 12 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Cashin dormitory is struck by fire

With only two days remaining in a semester destined to be remembered for small suspicious dormitory fires, another flaming trash can caused the evacuation of Cashin Dormitory last night.

"I thought it was over," said second floor resident Betsy Marr, a senior from Acushnet, after Cashin's ninth such fire this semester, but the first in almost a month, was found in a trashroom at the end of the hall by a friend visiting her.

University spokesman Arthur Clifford said the 9:18 alarm is "under investigation" by police.

Three students have been arrested this semester in connection with the more than 40 fires this semester in University of Massachusetts dormitories.

Jones Library holding 'no-fines' days now

The Jones Library in Amherst announced no fines will be collected on overdue materials returned between today and January 14. The library staff encourages people to bring in all overdue materials without fear, and start off the new year on the right foot. Students are especially requested to bring in materials now, before leaving for intersession.

The library also announced it will be closed all day December 24, 25 and 26. The library will also be closed January 1 and 2.

Collegian photo by Jim Powers

A REAL GAS — Workers unload cylinders of helium gas at Hasbrouck Lab yesterday. After being supercooled, the helium is used for experiments in liquid form. From left to right, Rick Wilkey, Ed Kelleher, Mike Doney and Jake Govin.

Friday at the CC Concourse
SUNGLASSES
All styles - Great X-mas gifts

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

BUB'S
BAR - B - QUE
Complete Dinners from $5.95
Includes Bub's Famous Hot Bar & Soup
"If you like Bar-B-Que, You'll LOVE Bub's!"
Hours:
Daily 4-10 p.m.
Sunday 1-9 p.m.
Route 116
Sunderland, Mass.

University of Massachusetts
Student Federal
Credit Union
The largest student run Credit Union in the country will be open for INTERSESSION
* starting Jan. 4, 1984
we will be open Mon, Wed, Fri 10 am - 3 pm
Happy Holidays
Conveniently located in the Student Union
545-2800

Barsie's
43 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, MA 01002
Hours: 11:30 AM - 1:00 AM 7 days
AMNESTY MUG NIGHT!
Thursday 12/15/83
BRING BACK TO BARSIE'S A "BORROWED" MUG.
WE'LL FILL IT WITH A FREE BEER TO CHUG.
WHEN YOU GO, LEAVE THE MUG HERE,
COME BACK AND USE IT AGAIN NEXT YEAR!

SAVE BIG
50%-70% off
Direct from the factory prices .... SAVE! SAVE!
SALE
Don't Miss This
GIANT SAVINGS
SAVE 70% off
Friday is the last day
SHOP NOW FOR CHRISTMAS
TIME: 9-3
DATE: DEC. 14-16 WED.-FRI.
LOCATION: next to Reading Room
DIRECT FROM FACTORY BELOW WHOLESALE PRICES
Sponsored by: WMUA 91.1 FM

A Christmas Checklist
Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone
Give a Gift of Warmth
Legwarmers
Assorted Colors and Styles
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4
Located in the Cape Cod Lounge
UNIVERSITY STORE

★ SGA senate

continued from page 1

This debate was equal in length with many debates in the senate this semester, but in emotional intensity it was unsurpassed. Highlights had to include Southwest Residential Area Senator Bill Collins "I am angry" speech, and Sullivan's plea for senators to "think about death."

Collins had to stop and compose himself several times during his speech, in which he said "the invasion of Grenada was a positive thing."

"I have a right to say that, but I don't feel I have a right to impose this on the student body," he said.

"I don't know how the rest of you felt," said Sullivan, his voice cracking. "But when I first heard about the invasion my first reaction was, 'God, I hope a lot of people didn't die.'"

The motion failed by four votes, an indication of the even division in the senate over many issues.

But the senate was not divided on political views alone. Last spring, a group of young senators joined with some graduating seniors to elect Ahern and Allen, Sullivan and SGA Treasurer Eric Nitzsche. As Lehmbeck said in her resignation letter, "We all had similar political views and we had common feelings about the direction which the SGA would take in the future."

This did not last. First, there was a controversy over Ahern's failure to appoint a permanent attorney general. Ferris' attacks on Ahern behind the scenes gradually became more open until he resigned, and explained the resignation in two Collegian EDITORIALS, WHERE HE ALSO CONDUCTED A GENERAL ATTACK ON THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE.

The split of the SGA between the presidents and the officers also affected the progress of the new SGA constitution.

A task force had worked on the document through the summer, but as little work got done on it during the fall and Chancellor Joseph Duffey presented the SGA with an en-of-the-semester deadline for finishing it, Sullivan and Nitzsche took it upon themselves to complete the document. In their revision, they transferred many powers from the President to the speaker or the senate.

Ahern said the constitution, which has been tabled until next semester, "got farther than it has in a long time." He said he feels "people got carried away" with the attorney general controversy, and acknowledged that the leadership did not work together much this semester.

"It's evident that we're not going to finish with the same close-knit agenda that we all started with," Ahern said.

★ Frats

continued from page 1

qualified and unempowered" to make such resolutions on student life, and was in effect saying "students are children."

This month, the IFC sent a 13-page letter to Charles Longsworth, chairman of the trustee's ad hoc committee, complaining about the lack of student input in a decision process they feel "has been tainted with biased attitudes and unfair practices."

Police report accidental dormitory fire

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts police and the Amherst Fire Department responded to a report of an accidental fire in Pierpont dormitory shortly after 7 p.m. Tuesday, said Art Clifford, director of the Office of Public Information. Clifford said a student apparently had inadvertently plugged in a hot water immersion heater, thinking he had only plugged in his desk lamp, thereby igniting the box containing the heater. While the student extinguished the fire, the head of residence called the police and fire departments, Clifford said. The building was not evacuated and damage was very slight, Clifford said.

In other police action:

Police received a report of larceny at 8:32 p.m. Tuesday from a woman in Curry Hicks Cage. A Seiko watch, valued at $150, was stolen from the women's locker room, police said. There are no suspects.

A ski jacket, valued at $80, was reported stolen from NOPE gym shortly after 7 p.m. Dec. 13, police said. There were no witnesses.

Police said a necklace, watch and three 14 kt. gold rings, valued at more than $400 were reported stolen from the women's locker room in Boyden gym at 3:44 p.m. Tuesday. The complaintant apparently left the items in a bag leaning against a locker and after returning from a short absence, found the jewelry missing, according to police.

Police received a report of larceny in Melville dormitory in the Southwest residential area at 7:27 p.m. Tuesday. Police said a wallet and its contents, valued at $90, and $15 cash were taken from a student's room while she was gone for a short period. The door had been left unlocked. There are no suspects.

UMass Express/Locals
New Location
PeterPan
MBTA - Riverside
Newton Mass
For reservations and information call
(617) 965-7040

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22 - 27

YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW
Last Chance Deadline sign-up Dec. 16
TABLES Wed-Fri Dec 14-16
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH

Located in the S.U.B.
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

Christmas Cards
...make the season merry, and show you've remembered someone special!
AMERICAN GREETINGS

Open M-F 9-5 Sat 11-4
Located in the Student Union Ballroom
UNIVERSITY STORE
American Greetings with Rose Design® © MCMLXXXIII American Greetings Corporation
Ziggy © MCMLXXXIII Universal Press Syndicate

IMPORTANT HOUSING INFORMATION
Reminder Notice

It is important for all students planning to live in the residence halls for the Spring 1984 semester to remember the following important policies. Please read this information carefully and be sure you understand and are aware of each of the following obligations.

1. SPRING SEMESTER BILLS ARE DUE JANUARY 6, 1984. As always, financial obligations must be met by all students who wish to retain their assignments for the up-coming semester. Failure to pay your bill by the indicated initial due date will immediately cancel your housing assignment for the Spring. If you lose your assignment for failing to pay your bill, you will be required to remove your belongings from your room during intersession, prior to the beginning of Spring Semester.

2. Residence halls close for the fall semester on Friday, December 23, 1983 at 8:00 pm. No student will be allowed to remain beyond that time. Make certain that you follow indicated "check-out" procedures to avoid any unnecessary inconvenience or charges.

3. Residence Halls open for the Spring 1984 semester on Sunday, January 29, 1984 at 12:00 noon. No one will be allowed to return to the residence hall system prior to that time.

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT

THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Franklin	Intro. to Language 3/e	$8.50
Gleitman	Basic Psychology 2/e	$11.00
Goldfeld	Economics of Money and banking 8th/e	$13.00
Greenfield	Using Microprocesses and Microcomputers	$15.00
Hare	Basic Programming 2/e	$9.50
Harmatz	Human Sexuality	$10.50
Honour	Visual Arts: A History	$10.50
Krech	Elements of Psychology 4/e	$12.50
Kotler	Marketing Management 5/e	$15.00
Louderback	Managerial Accounting 3/e	$15.00
Mansfield	Principles of Macroeconomics 4/e	$7.50
Neter	Applied Statistics 2/e	$14.25
Peebles	Probability, Random Variables. . .	$14.75
Purver	Business Law	$14.00
Riddell	Economics 2/e	$8.00

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The pleasure of being a bouncer

Strolling through the Campus Center one day I noticed the nicely dressed gentlemen in the Blue Wall. They were all dressed in spiffy black pants, sparkling white pressed shirts, snazzy dark ties, and the always fashionable athletic sneakers. Instantly I identified with them. I noticed the way they walked and talked. They spoke in very distinct voices and concentrated carefully before uttering the phrase which is their trademark: "Look Pal, I ain't tellin' ya again — you get the $!$ outta here, you freaking scum-bucket!" I realized as I witnessed this event that college wasn't just dumb old books, and cold, unfriendly resident halls. I could really have fun — I could be a bouncer for the BLUE WALL!

Dodi B. Levenson

Things for an idealistic freshman are never easy though. I tried to be arrogant and self-centered, which was a good start, but I needed more. Day after day I sat in the Campus Center and picked up little pointers. I needed to learn the proper way to throw around the teeny tiniest bit of authority as though it were the Titanic.

Just as I had hoped, one of the Blue Wall bouncers had taken notice of the way I bumped into people and pushed them out of the way without even a glance of apology.

I tried to become friends with him, slowly. I mean I couldn't just be friends with him, that would mean showing compassion and understanding for another human being--a big no-no in the Blue Wall bouncer business.

So he eventually took me on as a kind of apprentice. He began teaching me how to pick out people who were small and harmless, since they couldn't or wouldn't do anything back.

Naturally I was a quick learner, and soon it was getting to the point where I could give folks a hard time and not even let on how much I was enjoying it. He said there was one more thing I needed before I could get this job. He called it "personal relations," but I liked to call it "brown-nosing," since it was more accurate. He taught me to let the really pretty girls and their friends in for free or with at least some privileges--free passes for some other night, etc... He said we do that, so if we see girls again we can talk to them or say "hi" since they owe us.

Once I had mastered brown-nosing, I was accepted to the staff, or "gang." I mean it really was a gang, since no matter how stupid or moronic the decision I make or action I take, I know I can count on my fellow Blue Wall bouncers to support me 100 percent.

Well, the big day finally happened. I was now a member of the elite. As I put on my slick black pants, pressed white shirt, and that menacing black tie, I realized few men get to see their life's dreams come true, and I was so glad I had realized mine. Now, if I can just remember which ones to give a really hard time to...oh, what's the differences?

Dode B. Levenson is a UMass student.

Editor's note: Dode Levenson has never been a Blue Wall bouncer. He was, however, thrown out of the Blue Wall for no apparent reason.

It's way too late to procrastinate

Why is it that whenever I think of great ideas I never write them down? Why is it that I always think of these great ideas the second I am about to pass into the unconscious REM dream state? Or when I'm in a lecture trying to concentrate on Truman's policies during WWII?

Why is it that I, a fourth semester journalism major, can't get my act in gear to sit down and type out all of these immaculate ideas?

A freshperson on my floor declared herself as a JS major and as of today she's not written anything so I don't feel too bad, but that's no excuse for me. Okay, so I am carrying a heavy 15 credits--, okay, so I played Ultimate Frisbee every day and traveled on weekends. Okay, so I'm exhausted at the end of each day, but who wouldn't rather sleep than tiptoe on a bunch of milimeter sized keys with their fingertips?

Taara Eden Hoffman

I think the main problem here is time management, or more likely, my lack of it. People make all kinds of peachy-keen excuses for why they haven't gotten various tasks done. From blowing off homework to skipping practice to not writing articles, I pour out excuse upon excuse to justify these slips.

Is it lack of motivation? Nooo. Is it lack of desire? Nooo. Is it lack of discipline? Nooo. It is purely and simply a poor understanding of time management.

Procrastination is a nasty , nasty habit (though sometimes it can be fun, but that's another tale...), but, unless we quit wasting time, none of us will ever feel that glorious sense of accomplishment.

How do we do that, you ask? Its simple--make a list. How will we ever taste the thrill of achievement if we don't elliminate items from our "lists"?

Now, mental lists are always inscribed on our psychological blackboard, but for those of us whose blackboards are never erased, a piece of paper is much more useful. Try to avoid ripping a shred off yesterday's Collegian for the list; outlines of this sort have a tendency to blow with the wind. Decide whether you're making a list of daily doings or a long-range roster. This will put your future time into perspective.

Let's get it together, folks. Intersession is just around the corner. Let's get in gear, wake up, turn on the lights, and all those other faddy expressions--before it's too late! If we had only put in those valuable two hours a day during the whole semester...

Whether it's writing articles, getting to the library, completing unfinished letters, doing some laundry before your whole wardrobe is in your laundry bag, going food shopping before you starve, studying for finals before they start, or just dreaming, partying, and sleeping--start by making a list.

Good Luck on finals and have a jazzy January!

Taara Eden Hoffman is a Collegian correspondent.

Birth control is for men too

Have you ever wondered how many of the thousands of sexually active men at UMass share birth control responsibilities with their partners?

I would venture to say that a huge majority of men enjoy the pleasures and convenience of modern birth control methods without really thinking about their responsibilities regarding birth control.

Before 1960, when "the Pill" first made its debut in the United States, and before women had legal access to contraceptives, men were forced to think about birth control seriously. They either used condoms or they didn't have sex. But now that women have more contraceptive choices, the common complaint from men is that the condom, which is still frequently used, "takes away from the sensation," and robs men of "true sexual fulfillment.

Miriam Zoll

Since all of the new birth control devices that are marketed are designed for women, many men have bowed out of their responsibilities when it comes to birth control. Some women argue that this doesn't matter because women are the only ones who should decide what type of method to use. Other women, and very few men that I know, argue that men should learn about the individual methods and discuss uses and side effects with their partners. Men should also help pay for the expensive costs of gynecological exams and some of the birth control paraphenalia.

A lot of men assume correctly that their partners are using the pill, or some other form of birth control. But too often, say on a one night stand, men expect the woman to be using something, and there are probably some men who don't even bother asking whether or not their partner is protected.

While it's true that a large number of sexually active women today use birth control, the high rate of teenage pregnancy and abortions proves that all women don't. It's unfair to blame male partners for these unwanted pregnancies because there are other factors involved, like the lack of sex education, but if more men concerned themselves with the important issue of unprotected sex, then maybe some of these unwanted pregnancies could be avoided.

I imagine that many men think modern birth control is easy and simple to use, which often times it is, but there is more to it than just taking a pill every day or renewing a prescription. Even the simplest and easiest method requires a certain degree of effort and dutiful committment from women who use it effectively. Just because the new and more effective methods have cut down on the rate of unwanted pregnancy when used correctly, women who loyally use a certain method still worry about becoming pregnant because so far none of the methods are guaranteed 100 percent to prevent pregnancy.

Women also worry if, in twenty or thirty years, scientists will discover that the pill, or contraceptive spermicides and foams will cause new kinds of cancer or birth defects in future generations. Women have to deal with the side effects of most contraceptive methods, which may include increased blood pressure, infections, cramping or minor irritations. Obviously men can't be expected to feel guilty because they don't experience any of these discomforts, but judging from the conversations I've had with women friends, it seems like many men tend to distance themselves from the problems and daily hassles related to contraceptive use or misuse.

Some men may be embarrassed to talk about "women's problems" with their partners. But in general, I would say that most women would be pleased and appreciative if their partners made an effort to understand and help out with birth control responsibilities.

Birth control isn't just a "woman's problem," or issue anyway. Both women and men should be concerned with sharing the sexual responsibilities that have to exist along with the sexual freedoms our generation has had the opportunity to enjoy.

Miriam Zoll is a Collegian columnist.

Board of Editors

Editor in Chief	Joel Myerson
Managing Editor	Ray Beauchemin
Production Manager	J.P. Shanahan
Business Manager	Andrew May
Editorial Page Editor	Joshua Meyer
News Editor	Anne McCrory
Women's Issues Editor	Michelle Hyde
Women's Issues Editor	David Summersby
Arts Editor	Doug Muise
Arts Editor	Lisa Mosley
Black Affairs Editor	Yadira Betances
Sports Editor	Gerry deSimas
Photo Editor	Drew Ogier

Controversy

In the case of Yvette Henry

Dear Dean Field,

Because of the recent incident concerning the Yvette Henry case, your attitudes concerning a specific population have resurfaced. The manner in which you handled this case and the controversial suspension has raised some serious questions. Your actions in this dilemma have illustrated to me and countless others your insensitivity to women, Third World students and the student population in general.

In the case of Yvette Henry, you have clearly demonstrated what many consider to be racist attitudes. Yvette, a black Resident Assistant, was harassed for several days before being arrested and charged with setting one of the "Crampton Fires" (what about the other 17?). Here are some of the facts which I'm sure you are familiar with having taken part in them:

— On December 2, 1983 Yvette was brought into the detective trailer behind the university police station for a "voluntary" interview. The approximate time was somewhere between 5:00-5:30 p.m.

—Despite the fact that this was a "voluntary" interview Yvette was held incommunicado from 5:00-8:30 p.m. During that time, neither faculty, administrators nor students knew of her specific whereabouts. Another student informed the group she had observed Yvette being taken from an unmarked police vehicle to the station handcuffed.

—Yvette was not allowed to call her mother until 8:30 p.m. the approximate time of her arrest.

—The University officials did not assist Yvette in getting appropriate legal counsel. Rather their posture was to defend the University.

— You along with Denny Madson and Joe Zannini (Mr. Civil Rights), panicked and abused Yvette's right to due process by suspending her and issuing a no tresspass notice that barred her from campus, without the benefit of a hearing. You further defamed her good character by releasing a statement to the local and national press prematurely.

I am outraged at these facts because I know that in similar cases and circumstances, your office has been more supportive of white male students who are charged with crimes. Your inconsistency is apparent; for, in this case, a Third World Woman is forced to face the maximum criminal charges and university sanctions, based purely on circumstantial evidence that no one wants to reveal. At the same time a white male student charged with the violent crime of raping a child under age 15 is protected from the media and harsh university sanctions.

Your use of rarely used university regulations to justify your violating the civil rights of students has been a common practice when dealing with Third World students. If there is a consistency in your actions and policies, it is the abuse of Third World student's rights and privileges and a lack of commitment to protect those rights no matter what the cost.

In the four years that I have attended this university I have never seen or heard of anything positive for students, Third World students specifically, coming from your office. Instead of assisting students I think that you have become somewhat of a menace to the student body.

However, your actions of the late have created national concern about the quality and safety of life faced by students here on the Amherst University of Massachusetts campus. Likewise, your actions have created a statewide suspicion of this university's commitment to protect the students it recruits and brings to this residential setting.

In the fact of these liabilities, for which you are in great part a responsible agent, I ask that you resign your office and step aside. I ask that you step aside so that a Dean who is sensitive to contemporary social issues, considerate of student rights and compassionate of the unique circumstances and problems faced by Third World students and women may be installed in your position. I do not ask that University policy or rules be overlooked; I demand that University policy and rules be administered fairly. You may have acted out of these concerns when you first took office in the early 1950's. However, it is clear that in this twentieth plus year of your reign, your actions are a danger to some which is a danger to all.

Step down; Allow us to grow as a community
Step down; Take a well deserved retirement
Step down; The futures of my peers and, perhaps, the future of this growing University are at stake
Step Down.

Glenn A. Silva
Asst. Student Atty. General

In Howard Glantz's article, "Anti-Semitism still touches nerves," the author felt that the comparison of Nazi Germany to Israel sometimes made in the media is an example of anti-Semitism. The fact that Jews were systematically exterminated because they were Jews separates it from the also horrible deaths occuring in Lebanon today. This portion of his article was deleted.

Don't breathe until you read this

The recent investigation into the asbestos hazards and removal in the Concourse and the University Store has raised more questions than it has answered. The more we look into the problem, the more disturbing it becomes. Frankly, we're scared. Maybe Collegian access to accurate and complete information on the subject is against the better interests of the University. In this case we certainly think so, because we definitely have been given a run around. Asbestos is a much more serious problem than many administrators are letting on. There has never been a safe level of contamination established. A few tiny asbestos fibers in your lungs are more than enough to cause cancer, and since the particles float for 80 hours or more, there's plenty of opportunities to breathe them in.

John O'Connell & Josh Meyer

Moreover, the University, a public building, is not even required to comply with government regulations. While administration officials are quickly covering up any evidence of negligence left behind since the first time the Asbestos Commission came to UMass in 1978 and found serious problems on the very immediate horizon, they're keeping mum on present removal procedures too, much to the dismay of everyone else involved.

As a federal book about removal in public schools states, "until recently, exposure to asbestos was generally considered an occupational hazard for asbestos workers,...we have now learned of an equally serious exposure problem that can occur in all types of buildings in which certain materials have been used." Materials just like the ones in the various ceilings at UMass.

The report says matter-of-factly that "Asbestos can be released from these materials and contaminate the building environment. Individuals who are then exposed to the asbestos could develop lung cancer or cancers of other parts of the body." The problem is that the "lag time" between exposure and cancer is ten to 20 years. These are very comforting thoughts to people who work, study and hang-out in the Campus Center, where central ventilation systems like the HVAC system at UMass can spread the deadly fibers all over the entire building.

School officials' standard reply is that only high levels of exposure are dangerous, or that there really isn't any danger at all. That's what they said about radiation too. So while people are in all probability ingesting carcinogenic (cancer-causing) particles every day, and buying things in the CC that "have this grey dust" all over them, the official response has been to hush things up, and quickly try to remove the asbestos from the ceiling. They'll worry about the rest of the campus later.

The most upsetting thing about the asbestos problem is that if the Collegian hadn't been "tipped-off" about the whole removal process and its implications, NO ONE would have heard about it at all. The manager of the University Store said that the first he knew of air samples being taken, and of the potential hazards themselves was "when someone in my office said he read about it in the Collegian." The people lower down along the line had even less of a clue. No memos were issued saying there was a "potential problem" under investigation, or even to tell them the levels had been determined to be safe. Once the Collegian started asking questions of administrators like Campus Center manager William Harris, all we heard was, "Why are you asking so many questions?"

And why are we asking so many questions? Is it just because pesky reporters have nothing better to do? Why should we want to know why the University Store just spent $500,000 for a complete renovation last summer, for rugs that will be ripped up next week, less than seven months after they were put in? And why was the ceiling on the fourth floor of the Student Union and the Blue Wall suddenly replaced with no explanation recently?

And why, after removal estimates of $500,000 were given, has the administration apparently accepted the lowest bid, of $274,000 without investigating the company first? (The federal and state asbestos removal reports state that bids must be accepted under "advisement," meaning that the companies involved in the bidding process must be carefully checked out, to prevent situations in which "the harassed school principal...often seeking the quickest and cheapest contractor services may create a potential for significant exposures and contamination." And we all know how careful contractors are — just look at the Library Tower, and the Campus Center itself, both shining examples of carefully-executed, safe work.

And why should we care if there are no regulations protecting building users once the contractors leave?

The problem of asbestos exposure, even on the smallest level, is potentially a deadly one. While it's too late to worry about previous exposure, it is imperative that we know that our university administration is, and has been doing everything it can to make sure the area is safe (this includes informing those who must bear the consequences of any negligence.) One University Store employee who will be working in the U-Store basement over intersession said, "it would be nice to know that the administration is as concerned about our safety as it is about its image."

That's the understatement of the year.

John O'Connell and Josh Meyer are Collegian staff members.

Letters

Staging a political rope-pull

To the Editor,

I think that it's about time that us liberals and conservatives stopped the bad mouthing and started getting around to some positive interaction. We need to sharpen our understanding of the complex world we live in by getting some facts (are there any true facts?) that support our arguments. We need to learn how to actively listen to each other, not just hear what the other side is saying. We all especially need to bring our fellow students into the political forum to find out what they think.

I have a suggestion: when there's lots of mud in the spring, let's hold a rope pull between the conservatives and the liberals. We can hold the weight on each side to 1800 pounds to make it fair, and have a blast!

After the tension was released between the two groups, and a sizeable crowd had gathered, we could all move into the Student Union Ballroom (that is, if the store is out of there) and have a debate in true academic style. What 'ya think?

Jamie Stirling
Amherst

Money talks, freedom walks

To the Editor,

A while ago, Collegian editors told an audience of 200 at their conference on "Social Conflict and Freedom of the Press," how the Collegian strives to present both sides to an issue, remain neutral by way of "objective reporting and journalistic ethics," and achieve independence from outside interests and pressures, such as the administration and student government. To become independent, one editor explained, the paper had ended its financial relationship with the S.G.A. and now raises all its monies from advertising.

As I pointed out at the conference, there are serious questions whether or not outside funding assures freedom of the press. Is it a move towards independence in fact, or does it restrict press freedom by making it totally dependent on advertising? Are these advertisers not the real outside interests and pressure? Two of the leading advertisers are alcoholic beverages and the military. To what degree do these vested interests contribute to the quality of life on campus?

One of the slogans in the newspaper world lately is "money talks, bullshit walks." The truth is that when money talks, freedom walks. While the S.G.A. is forced to question its priorities, no one seems to be concerned about the assault on our civil liberties by allowing war-makers and money-makers to dominate the media.

To what degree this situation exists because of manipulation of the media is questionable. There are many factors involved in the growing military presence at the University of Massachusetts: the current federal administration, the political and financial pressures put upon the university administration, the changing student profile in the 80's, the failure of the academic community to respond, etc. But that the media is serving a clearly political program by allowing the military to undermine media integrity by highly sophisticated recruiting techniques is not in question. One merely has to look through this paper.

Instead of lip service and a mock defense of self-proclaimed "independence," I urge the Collegian to take a good, hard look at itself, in the form of a community review of its advertising policies. When the almighty buck rules, freedom is the slave.

Charles Francis Carroll
Amherst

Crampton resident speaks

To the Editor,

I am a resident of Crampton House. After reading articles in the Collegian, The Boston Globe, and listening to all the news media, I feel the need to write myself.

First, I was acquainted with Yvette Henry and was shocked at the news of her arrest. I do feel there was a reason for her arrest and it was not some "act of hysteria" (as reported recently in the Collegian). The investigators are well educated and professionals and would not act without justification. I feel bad that it was Yvette because from what I had seen of her she was very nice, intelligent, and had a lot going for her but I do believe it would be unfortunate for anyone possessing those positive qualities whether black or white, male or female.

Secondly, no one can rightfully speculate the reasons behind Henry's arrest without substantial facts. We as residents of Crampton have not been given access to the information concerning her arrest.

The last point I want to make is that I do not feel the University acted in a fair manner by their immediate suspension of Ms. Henry. She is innocent until proven guilty and there is no one individual on this campus that has the right to try her before the courts do.

Why not drop the issue until everyone has heard the factual evidence and then make your decisions.

Gina Jeansonne
Crampton

Budweiser®
KING OF BEERS

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

Congratulations Volleyball Champions:

CO-REC Last Chance (10-0) defeated AASA (9-1). 15-12, 11-15, 15-10,. Melissa Drogden, Michelle Selicious, Bonnie Synder, Merizy Stuart, Mike Blanchard, Peter Berwold, Kenneth Loo, Juan Maldonado, Wilfredo Quinones, David Simeone, Cheryl Verkade, Lown Teresa.

WOMEN: Patriotas III (7-0) defeated the Pretenders, (6-2) 15-11, 15-13,. Leticia Acevedo, Brenda Buxeda, Anabel Fosas, Teresa Martinez, Maria Portela, Anna Scappetia, Dagmarie Velez, Susana Cardona, Marily Monserrate.

MEN: Patriotas III (8-0) defeated Persapolis (6-3), 15-13, 15-9. George Carreras, Javier Lugo, Ramon Borges, Mickey Ros, Bernado Agebal, Juan Pagan, Wilfredo Quinones, Enrique Caballero, Jose Racheco, Javier Ubarri, Angel Cruz, Francisco Guitierre.

BASKETBALLA very, very few slots remaining. Play begins February 1st.

ICE HOCKEY Playoffs in progress, best two of three. Yukon Jack leads Mess Consumption 1-0.

RACQUETBALL MEN Richard Opton, Residence, undefeated, defeated James Jarzynieski, Independent, (5-2)

*GOOD LUCK*DURING FINALS*

HAPPY AND SAFE HOLIDAYS

*SEMESTER BREAK. . GLADLY CHANGE PLACES. . .SEE YOU IN FEBRUARY. . .

GENUINE GENUINE

this Bud's for you!

CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE
WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY

Hello gorgeous!

They say that making up is hard to do. But at Edie, we know that's not true. Applying makeup like a pro is easy, once you know how. That's why, when you buy Makeup or skincare products at Edie, we'll do more than just wrap them up — we'll show you exactly how to use them. And we guarantee that everything we sell you will be right for you.

Come try the personalized approach to beauty at Edie. And find out how easy it is to be beautiful.

Edie

At Discount Prices on Cosmetics, Fragrances and Beauty Supplies arriving

Dec. 15. 16. 19, 20, 21

Fine cosmetics, perfumes, toiletries and accessories. For men and women.

sponsored by

WMUA-FM

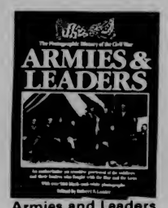
A Christmas Checklist

Plan ahead now so you won't forget anyone

Some of our best ideas for Christmas have just been shelved.

HISTORY

Civil War Art
List $35.00



Mary Queen of Scots
List $17.95

Middle East Conflicts

The Calvery

Armies and Leaders

Decisive Battles

There are hundreds of subjects to choose from. We have everything from the most timeless classics to the most recent best sellers.

And wait 'til you see our prices. We have bargains that are just as impressive as the selection.

So bring your Xmast list to the University Store. Some of our best ideas are just waiting to be picked up.

Located in the S.U.B.

Open M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

Limited quantities on selected titles

SPECIAL VALUE
Civil War Histories
$8.98 each

UNIVERSITY STORE

Arts

live wire
by David Chevan

Okay, lets get it over with quickly. There are some good bands at the clubs this weekend, but I can't see them; I've got a final Monday morning at 8 a.m., so I have to study. Hey, if I've gotta suffer, so do you. If you want to see anyone this weekend, look 'em up in the Advocate, I'm sure you'll find out everything you want to know.

Can you believe that Michael Jackson guy? Whew. That Thriller video is going to give him another number one, that's almost a certainty. Its almost the biggest selling album of all time, bar none. A friend of mine who plays in a top forty band told me that the band knows and plays the entire album at every gig. I guess that might say something for the popularity of an artist. In the meantime, there have been several new artists on the scene cashing in on Michael's crossover sound, notably local guitarist Michael Gregory Jackson, now called Michael Gregory to denote a difference. While his is not a bad album, the shadow of Michael Jackson looms over it in the distance, and Michael Gregory's vocals are not yet mature enough to hold their own.

Albums for Holiday gifts. In a world of hundreds of thousands of LP's, which one do you buy for your favorite music freak ? My personal all time favorites go right across the board. For the pop, Paul Simon's Still Crazy After All These Years is still one of my faves, same goes with Bowie's Ziggy Stardust or Diamond Dogs. The best Stones' album is still Exile on Main St...and Bob Dylan's Basement Tapes makes Infidels sound like Infantiles. Probably the finest "obscure" album by a major artist is the Pete Townsend-Ronnie Lane collarboration Rough Mix. And the nouveau artist in me still digs Eno's Music for Airports, and the Fripp 'n' Eno collab, No Pussyfooting.

Don't bother getting anyone Thriller, 'cause they already have it, but anything by Marvin Gaye is solid or maybe the Mary Jane Girls debut album. For jazz anyone will appreciate a fresh copy of Mile Davis' Porgy and Bess, Bill Evans' Explorations, or the collected recordings of Lester Young on Columbia. Big band fans will enjoy Basie's Superchief, or any pre-sixties Duke (though he did do some brilliant stuff then too), but if you buy for a true big band aficion, do not get anything by Buddy Rich. From my experience, classical fans will appreciate you for what you don't get them. Don't buy them Beethoven's Ninth, Bach's Brandenberg Concertos, or the 1812 Overture.

The winners of the Great Holiday Trivia Contest and Album Giveaway are: First Prize: Jim McManus, Second Prize: Elizabeth Langlois, and Third Prize: Ellen McCollough. Honorable Mention goes to Maria Restive for the most amazing answers. Congrats to all who entered. And to all you swell readers, have a great holiday, and have a wonderful time during vacation anticipating reading Livewire once again next semester.

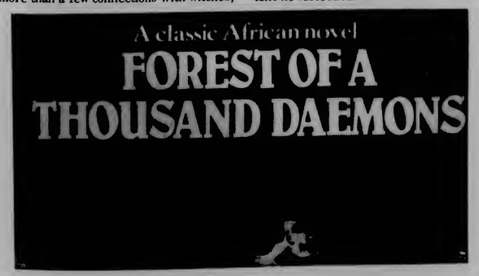
Photo by Ray Beuchman

Photo by Ray Beuchman

Even though it doesn't say so in Live Wire, the Stompers will grace the Rusty Nail on Dec. 30.

A triumph of imagination

FOREST OF A THOUSAND DAEMONS
By D.O. Fagunwa, translated by Wote Soyinka
Random House, 140 pages, $12.95



By CHRISTINE MARINI
Collegian Staff

Ogboju Ode Ninu Igbo Irunmale is a classic African novel written in Yoruba by the late Chief Fagunwa in 1939. Fagunwa, a gifted storyteller, wrote a tale that beautifully combines the historical and legendary past with the present by mingling the Yoruba oral tradition with its emerging written style. Thanks to Wote Soyinka's meticulous yet flexible rendition of the tale into English as Forest of a Thousand Daemons, a much larger audience can now appreciate both men's literary talents.

The novel is an episodic fantasy narrated by Akara-ogun, a great hunter who has more than a few connections with witches, monsters, and "ghommids." Akara-ogun tells of his adventures hunting in Irunmale, the Forest of a Thousand Daemons. Fagunwa combines satire, horror, and allegory into a remarkable novel meant to teach as well as to entertain.

Soyinka's translation is clear yet poetic. One gets a sense of Fagunwa's prose as well as his meaning in Forest of a Thousand Daemons, Old Akara-ogun tells his story in sweeping, colorful language, full of description and metaphor. He wants to share the lessons of trust, loyalty, and wisdom that he has learned under duress in the enchanted Forest. Forest of a Thousand Daemons is truly spellbinding.

As much as he emphasizes the past and the unreal in his novel, Fagunwa still had a clear conception of the present, and was concerned about his country's role in it. This concern is what elevates Forest of a Thousand Daemons above the level of mere fairy-tale. Fagunwa sought to prove that the lessons of the past can help a nation on the brink of modernity, and to a large extent he succeeded.

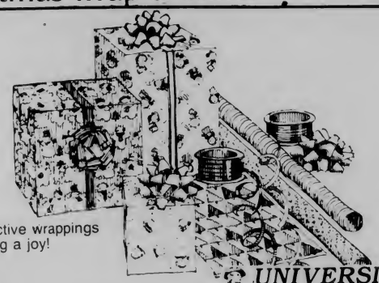
The luck of the Irish
O'Casey plays delight audiences

BEDTIME STORY and
THE SHADOW OF A GUNMAN
Rand Theater
December 1-3, 7-10

By CHRISTINE MARINI
Collegian Staff

Theater-goers were treated to two skillful interpretations of Sean O'Casey's Dublin last week as the University Ensemble Players presented Bedtime Story and Shadow of a Gunman at the Rand Theater. The two plays showed O'Casey's satiric sense of humor as well as his more serious side, and displayed once again the wide range of talents in the Theater department.

The first play, Bedtime Story, is a more or less light-hearted look at moral hypocrisy. Andrew Dolan played John Jo Mulligan, the typical good Irish Catholic boy, and Christen Lenard was Angela Nightengale, the "loose" woman that lead John Jo to his downfall. Dolan's John Jo was played with a delightful mixture of passion and contrition. Lenard's wicked Angela was also well-done. Things got a little clumsier when the rest of the cast joined in the antics, unfortunately, but overall Bedtime Story was an effective and entertaining piece.



The Shadow of a Gunman, a more complex play, focuses on the effects of fear and hostility on a wide range of characters. Director Edward Cohen handled his large cast well in some difficult scenes. There were many good performances in The Shadow of a Gunman, particularly Lawrence Devine's Donal Davoren, Todd Thacher Cash's Seumas Shields, and Alan Arenius' Adolphus Grigson. The whole cast worked well even those cast with difficult parts, such as Moira Driscoll as Mrs. Grigson.

As usual, the sets (by Harold McCay Jr.), the costumes (by Nancy Wilkinson) and the lighting and sound (by Mary Tarantino) at the Rand added to the production without overshadowing the players. All in all, the O'Casey plays were the kind of well-rounded entertainment one has come to expect from the University Ensemble Players.

Watch for Andy Gordon's TRAILERS every Friday!

Christmas Cards, Wrap, and Gifts
Are Now Available
in the Ballroom of
The Student Union Building
Christmas Wrap & Trims

Discover the distinctive wrappings that make gift-giving a joy!
AMERICAN GREETINGS
UNIVERSITY STORE
Open
M-F 9-5
Sat 11-4

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

"Hypercurricula" notices not submitted on the standard form and not submitted by the Friday before the week the event will take place will not be run. Due to space limitations, the Collegian cannot guarantee printing of all "Hypercurricula" notices. Priority will be given to UMass organizations.

CONCERT: MERIDIAN STRING QUARTET – The program will include works by Schuman, Bartok, Hadyn, and Beethoven. The Meridian String Quartet is the University's Post-Graduate String Quartet-in-Residence. FREE! 8 p.m. Bezanson Recital Hall.

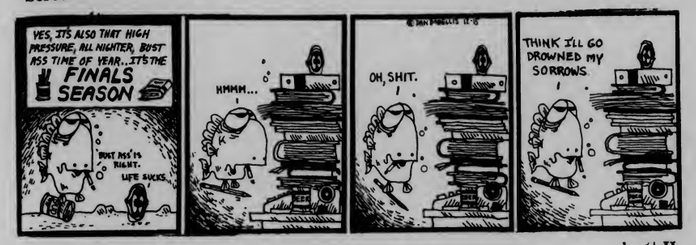
KABBALAT SHABBAT – Creative welcoming of the Shabbat. 6:30 p.m. 72 Triangle St., Amherst.

SHABBAT SERVICES – 7 p.m. Dukes Room, S.U.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
FROM THE ENTIRE STAFF AT YOUR UNIVERSITY STORE
UNIVERSITY STORE

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
Beat the Clock
$.75 drinks 8-9
$1 drinks 9-10
$1.25 drinks 10-11
Kickoff Lounge
Bruins v. Whalers
$.35 drafts

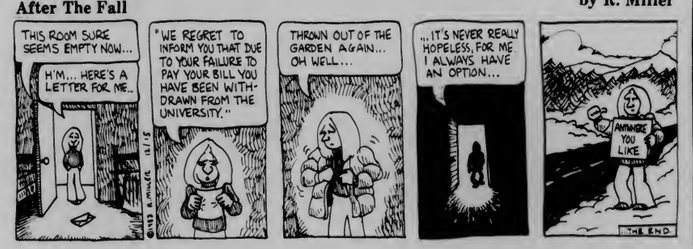
Memo To Faculty:
We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.
Jeffery Amherst Bookshop



Christmas Special
25% Discount
ON SPRING SEMESTER MEMBERSHIPS
(includes Jan. Break)
regular $45.00 NOW $33.75
BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden.
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
Call IDB 'S for info 545-1555 Dec 12 to Dec 22 only

BARN BASH!!!
"DANCE ALL NIGHT"
Tues. - Sat.
NO COVER
8 PM TO CLOSING
ENTERTAINMENT!!
by D.J. Midrange Productions
Hayloft Lounge
UPSTAIRS AT THE RED BARN STEAKHOUSE
ROUTE 9. 1/8 mile PAST ROLLING GREEN APTS.
All Night Happy Hour 50¢ DRAFTS

Bloom County by Berke Breathed



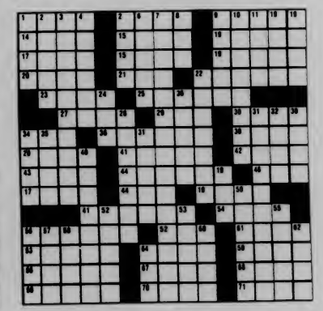
Scrod by Dan DeBellis

Superbad by G.H.

After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

Quentin by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Something to fill in or out
5 Take a catnap
9 Strike with wonder
14 Region
15 Weather word
16 Four-time Wimbledon champ
17 Observed
18 Made do (with "out")
19 City in western New York
20 Something to hail
21 Do an archeologist's job
22 Sounds from the zoo
23 Hill's companion
25 Likeness of a sort
27 Playwright Connelly
29 One, in Bonn
30 Rialto personage
34 Cuckoo
36 Cookout needs
38 Tiny amount
39 Swiss psychiatrist, associate of Freud
41 Confuse
42 Bohemian
43 Mideast gulf
44 Do a lawyer's job
46 —— pasa? (What's the matter?)
47 Make over
48 Buddhist of Thailand
49 Spiritual guide
51 Magician's stock-in-trade
54 Important paper
56 Let up
59 Game towards rubber
61 "Famous" cookiemaker
63 Pay, in a way
64 Iranian coin
65 Hemingway's nickname
66 Choose
67 Place for a chapeau
68 Ideal place
69 Cheeky
70 Being
71 "—— of Our Lives"

DOWN
1 Rapid
2 Mountain nymph
3 Want over again
4 Pacific capital
5 —— Scott
6 Jack of film fame
7 Entertainment of the good old days
8 Finale
9 As a companion
10 Far Eastern land
11 Claim
12 Farvency
13 Sea raptors
22 Medicinal root
24 Work unit
26 "La —— du Regiment," Donizetti opera
28 Held tenderly
31 Inquisitor General of Spain, circa 1483
32 Aleutian island
33 Martha of the movies
34 Slightly open
35 Type of painting
37 Perfect
40 Certain Christians of old
45 Ineffective person or thing
50 Harvested
52 Small-minded
53 Ushers
55 One of Snow White's friends
56 War god
57 Lugosi
58 Iowa college town
60 Delight
62 —— souci
64 Map abbr.

...walk out of any doorway feel your way
feel your way like the day before maybe you'll find direction around some corner where its been waiting to meet you what do you want me to do to watch for you while you're sleeping
then please don't be surprised when you find me dreaming to look into any eyes
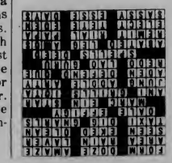
you'll find you can see clear to another day ...



DC Menu

LUNCH	DINNER
Ham Grinder Broccoli and Cauliflower Casserole	Cheese Lasagna with Tomato Sauce Chopped Beefsteak Special
BASICS LUNCH	BASICS DINNER
Falafel Pocket Sandwich Broccoli and Cauliflower Casserole	Stir Fry Vegetables and Tofu Cheese Lasagna with Tomato Sauce

Weather

Today, cloudy with a chance of showers. Highs mid 40s to lower 50s. Tonight, mostly cloudy with a chance of some rain east coastal sections and the chance of a few showers or snow flurries in the interior. Lows 40s to 45 along the coast, in the 30s in the interior.

Todays puzzle answer

Sports

Guess what these guys want from ole Santa this Christmas

By RUSS WHINNEM
Collegian Staff

Dear Santa:
I'm only asking for a couple of things this year. The obvious is a playoff spot for my Patriots. I think we deserve it. Oh, we have made mistakes here and there but the guys are real young and you know what they say, "Boys will be boys." But anyway I won't badger you about this because I know about 10 other coaches are asking for the same thing.

What I really want is a guy who can kick field goals. So far I've gotten rid of John Smith cause he lost his touch, Freddy Steinfordt because he had trouble getting the ball in the general area of the goalposts, and now I'm dealing with this guy who's name I have trouble spelling. I think its Zendejas. So far he's 0-1.

So what do you say, huh. I've been pretty good. My players even tolerated me this year.

RON MEYER

Dear Santa:
How's things? I've only got one request for you. Can you please get me my job back? You see I know I was what you would call a "bad little boy" last week but really, Santa, it was only a joke. I didn't mean that thing I said about the Louisville basketball team having a total IQ of 40. I was just joshin' around but they went and took my job away. They say I can't broadcast the Eagles - Cardinals football game next week. That's gonna be a classic.

Can you see what you can do? I'd really appreciate it, and I promise I won't say stuff like that anymore on the air. I think they just all took it too seriously, don't they like a little humor in the booth?

TOM BROOKSHIER
FORMER CBS SPORTSCASTER

Dear Santa:
No request here Mr. Claus, just a note of thanks because you've brought our Christmas early by returning our real referees to the NBA. Those rookie guys tried hard but they just couldn't cut it. I mean, our collective Grandmothers could have made better calls than some of these guys. So thanks for the regulars, even though we'll probably think they're incompetent too after a month. Say hello the the Mrs.

THE NBA COACHES

Dear Santa:
How about a couple of real football teams to play for?

EARL CAMPBELL
WALTER PAYTON

Dear Santa:
I was wondering if I could have about five BoBo dolls specially made with arms sticking up straight, and dressed in Washington Redskin uniforms. Then I could rock them together and when their hands are about to touch in that stupid "Fun Bunch" thing, I could knock them all down.

MICHAEL DOWNS
DALLAS COWBOYS
(TEARS STILL WET)

AP Laserphoto

USA, USA, USA....— Scott Biugstad, of Olympic hockey team, exhaults after scoring early in the third game of the US-Russian select series in Richfield, Ohio. The US won 4-2.

★ More winter meetings

Continued from page 16.

corps; 2. Texas rescuing slugger Gary Ward from Minnesota and in return, banishing pitchers Mike Smithson and John Butcher; 3. the Cubs acquiring Scott Sanderson from Montreal in a three-team deal that also included San Diego, who traded pitcher Gary Lucas to the Expos and received three unknowns from the Cubs.

Undoubtedly, the team that helped itself the most at these meetings was Oakland. Through trades with the Mariners, Expos, and Orioles, the A's dramatically improved their relief pitching by acquiring respectively, Bill Caudill, Ray Burris, and Tim Stoddard, who was dealt for third baseman Wayne Gross. On top of that, Tuesday they signed Joe Morgan, who had been released by Philadelphia, and earlier had signed free agent Bruce Bochte. Oakland also acquired catcher Jim Essian, who will provide quality backup to Mike Heath and now are on the brink of getting Dusty Baker from the Dodgers for a couple of minor-leaguers.

More deals in Nashville: The Brewers, after much speculation, finally acquired Jim Sundberg from the Rangers for Ned Yost, who only threw out 8 of 63 baserunners last year, and a minor leaguer....The Phillies unloaded Tony Perez to Cincinnati and Ron Reed to the White Sox...The Dodgers dealt Joe Beckwith to the Royals.

Free agent signings: Dave Parker inked a $1.3 million deal with the Reds...Frank LaCorte, although only 22-42 with a 4.88 ERA in his career, agreed to a $1.3 million contract with the Angels.

Major League ballplayers have discovered a new way to strike gold: Just threaten to enter the free agent market. One of the many teams victimized by this scheme has been the Angels, who in the days before the draft, signed potential free agents Doug DeCinces to a three-year, $2.7 million deal, Bob Boone to a three-year, $2.75 million contract, and Brian Downing to a three-year, $2.025 pact. The average salary on the Angels is now $500,000.

★ IM hockey

continued from page 16

The second of the three game series was played last night and the third game, if necessary, will be played tonight. Yukon Jack will try to take its second straight championship, after winning the title last spring.

It was almost an upset in itself that Yukon Jack and Mass Consumption are in the finals. Yukon Jack, seeded fourth in the four team playoffs upset top seeded Nads, 5-2 to gain the finals. Yukon Jack really hustled to gain their finals berth.

Mass Consumption was seeded third in the playoffs and they upset What the Puck, second seed, 4-3.

Scott's TREE FARM
Sunderland, MA
take Rt. 47
to 252 Hadley Rd.

Christmas Trees
Balsam Fir $12.
Scotch Pine $14.
Wreaths $4.
665-4791

OOPS! Now's the time to call
North Amherst Motors
Expert repairs & reconditioning.
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

Graduate Student Position Available

Departmental Assistant/Coordinator of Southwest Woman's Center.
Educational, cultural and research activities. $5.95 per hour for 20 hr./wk. 03 position carries no benefits.
Forward letter of application, resume, proof of enrollment in graduate school, three letters of reference to:
Pamela S. Dice
Residence Director, John Quincy Adams
Southwest Residential Area

4:30 - 7 PM Steak Board plus $2.00
Holiday Greetings from THE WEEKENDER
Sundays at Worcester A Hampshire

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00* (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah
(A University Drive Amherst MA 549-5610

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUTO FOR SALE

Must sell 1980 Mazda 626 2 dr 5 spd stereo only $4600 546-6033

71 VW Bug 80,000 miles. No rust, heater works. Excellent mech. condition, must be seen. $1250 253-7396

1973 Saab good condition many new parts must sell $950 or BO call 665-4801

68 Plymouth Fury dependable $450.00 546-3218

BIKE IN FLORIDA

UMass Bicycle Club's January Florida junket is in the making: for information call Frank Olbris @ 545-2778 or come to the club meeting Wednesday evening (see CC meeting sheet for time and place).

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

ENTERTAINMENT

Reckedisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Disc jockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

Frenk Marcen: Congrats on Act IIIII It's a terrific start for an awesome playwright. You really are my favorite! Billie

FOR RENT

One bedroom available in spacious five bedroom house near bus stop. Rte 9 Hadley $145.00 + call 586-3936

Large Room in 2 bedroom available for Feb. Sublet - on bus rt. Sunderland 665-7756.

2 spaces Available in Brittany Manor for Spring Semester call 256-8656.

One Badroom in Brandywine for 1 or2 people. 260/ month, heat included. Starts February 1 M/F call eves. 549-4750.

Intersession: sublet, 2 bedroom, Colonial Village. On bus route, near convenience & liquor stores. $150 253-3082

Room available begin Jan or Feb 2 mi. past Rolling Green bus rt 253-3517

Puffton Village one bedroom apartment available for Intersession 549-7864 call now

2 bedroom apt in duplex house Sunderland on bus route 665-7148

Female needed to share a room in N. Amherst during intersession. $120.00 includes utilities. Call Marj 549-0813 11:30 pm - 1:00 am

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheap Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10 -$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Portable Penasonic AM/FM stereo cassette recorder. Model RX5030. $100 call 546-6302

Need X-mas presents? Alpaca sweaters at low prices call eves 253-9494

Televideo computer terminal model 910+ for sale $350 or best offer excellent condition 253-3728

HELP WANTED

Full & Part-time student advocates for Wintersession & Spring semester at Commuter Area Gov't. Organizational, leadership & writing skills needed. Apply 404 SUB 545-2145 deadline 12/16 AA/EEO

HEY PINEBOX!

Move out, move off, move on, enlist, transfer, drop out - you deadweight, Piff

I NEED A ROOM

Clean/neat senior female seeking a room in an apt. or private home for spring semester. . .preferably close to campus. Carol 546-4803

KRISTA AT SEA

Kris, This is a sincee apology for not writing to you until Turkey. Hopefully I'm forgiven. Even from halfway across the world you're there to pick me up when I'm down. (say toyboat 3 times fast!) is that friendship or what? I think a week should be long enough to catch up with the news of the past 3 months. Say hi to all your buddies at sea for me! See ya soon! Love, Lori

LAST CHANCE FOR A GREAT GIFT

Hoky Carpet Sweepers $17.60
• Gourmet Trays $8.00 •
• call Dave or Paul nights 10-12 pm •
for more info 546-5232*****

LOST

A pair of glasses in a soft blue case please call 549-5811

In Boydan parking lot Sat night Dec 10 women's tweed blazer. Reward if returned. Call Annette 549-2638

Round glasses & brown case Dec 12 on campus call 256-6849

PERSONALS

* College * Spring * Break ****
• • Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe •
• Motor Coech Transportation •
• • ocean front accommodation7 night •
• • Welcome Party with FREE BEER •
• Meke reservations Now and Seve $20 •
• Chack out our teble in the •
• CC Concourse or call 546-5422 •
D*A*Y*T*O*N*A B*E*A*C*H

The Collegian will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Housing available for Spring Semester! Good food, friendly atmosphere--all interested females call 545-0162

Kappa Kappe Gamma Invites all university woman to a celebration of the Holiday Season Thursday Dec 5 3:00 - 5:30 545-0320.

Hey D.C. Loser. . .you ruin my dinner. Get the hint?

Happy B-day Rica! To the X-mas baby of the 14th floor we all love you Maureen

Margaret Henault, Happy Birthday Margaret. Signed, an old friend

Spring Semester Housing. Any women interested in boarding at a local sorority in the spring semester. Call 545-0527 for more info.

Janet - Behold, a personal! For theel I would like to take this opportunity to publicly express that I love you! XXOO Steve

Dan as promised. Happy Birthday. All my wishes for happiness and for never feeling neglected. Best always Devra

Mary, Here is your damn personal. Only kidding really. Sorry you are leaving us. Good Luck with whatever you do. Kevin P.S. Where is mine

Question-answer period: What would soccer be without a red-head who has a fear of flying objects?

$5.00 Off Sugarbush Weak Trip for someone to take my place! 323-4080

The toad said to the frog "Just one more chocolate chip cookie" They ate one then they ate one more Happy Bday Trace

Peg okay you'll graduate with a personal. Enjoy your time left in the "fake" world. Good luck at Med school love, Elena

SISTERS OF AXO You guys are great! I really appreciate everything you've ell done for me! Thanx love, Billie Jill - We finished your paper, though it took all night. Here's to another fantastic semester. I love you forever, David P.S. Happy Anniversary!!

Suzanne 12/09/63; not Sue. Maybe your roomie was right. Ask her

3-S Grayson It's been different! Hope your Christmas is sooo good ok. Watch out for spiders and look forward to a better semester (we hope!) Love, The Herd

A-Sorpresa! Io sperare questo fare tua giorno. Come va? Piacierel Sei mia numero uno bambino e una metal lo volunfa sicuramente perdere tua malamente ogni volta che io aver bisogno una massaggio. Giusto scherzil Arriverderci, Americal Amore, Z

RMB - Just wanted to let you know I'm really going to miss you next semester - it's been lots of fun at work. . .and at play. I hope there are more good times to come. . Thanx for the personal - it was my first (the personal that is!) And congratulations on a job well done. . .Misty

J.P. Wicket - Thanks for all the moral support this semester. Everyone needs a warm fuzzy. Animal - I love you too! (in the paper even) While we're at it - Hi Josh, Ethan, and Moon.

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

PUNX UNITE

From San Francisco, CA, Crucifix, Outpatients, CIA, Dec 17 5 PM Grange in Greenfield Allages more info 6-6262

$ REWARD $

I lost my blue knapsack in the parking lot behind Judy's last weekend. Books and notes are needed desperately before finals! Reward. No questions asked call Danny 256-1279

RIDE WANTED

To New York/North Jersay Area Dec 21 afternoon call Karen 6 - 9534.

One woman and luggage (not a lot) need a ride to New Jersey on Tue 12-20 / after 4 pm on Wed 12/21 anytime will help pay gas. Jill 6-7277

ROOM WANTED

Responsible adult looking for single room to rent in or around Amherst please! Call Amy 584-2814

2 male roommates wish to trade room in Sylvan for same in Southwest for next semester 6-4043

2 responsible non-smoking students looking for quiet apt call Rob 545-0182 Rich 549-1816

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female to share room in Britteny starting January. Quiet Student preferred. Call Beverly 256-1335

Roommate wanted to share rm w/ 1 other F in 2 br Twnhse apts call 549-4585

Townehouse female roommate wanted for Spring take over lease Jan 1 call 549-7690

Apt mate wanted, own bedroom Presidential Apts. 150/month + util. 549-0886

Male Roommate wanted to share Southwood Townhouse apt 256-0095 Rob.

2 female (nonsmoking) roommates wanted for spring in Brandywine call 549-3892

Rolling Green - lg. bedroom in 4 bedroom townhouse. Avail Jan 1 on bus rte, AC, pool. 143.75, inclusive call 256-8261

Female epartmantmate wanted for January and spring semester , own room 549-3720

male roommete wanted to share room in Brittany Manor apt spring semester call 253-2298

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Professional Typing 253-9582 after 3 p.m. M - F Anytime weekends.

Typing special $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

2 SOUTH PATTERSON

Although we'll be seperated by distance, we'll always stay together, thanks for being the best! We love you! Signed, 2 of the 8 DM and SS OHIYHADFT!

TO SUBLET

1-3 People for Jan in Duplex in No. Hampton Center, 120 + call Steve 546-8198.

Amherst CTR 1 Room Avail in 4 bdrm apt starting Feb Call 253-5298.

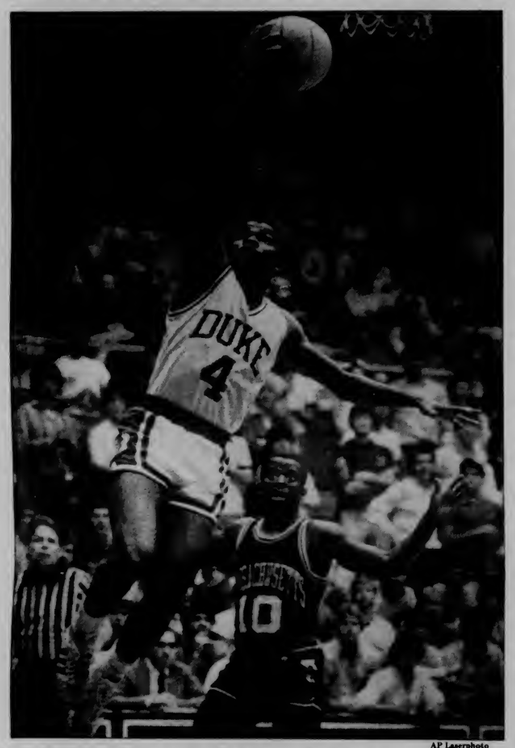
2 bedrm Colonial Apt to sublet Jan 1 -Sept 1 253-5288

Private room completely furnished for Intersession asking 100+ (negotiable) Pete 549-7612

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT



2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

Two bedrooms in apartment or house for January Linda 546-5973 Steve 546-4081

2 bedroom apt in Amherst call evenings leave message 584-4308

Sports

Minutemen host rival Connecticut

AP Laserphoto

I DIDN'T SEE HIM FLY BY ME — Carl Smith looks in shock as Duke's Tommy Amaker goes in for two in the Blue Devils romp over UMass, Monday.

"We've done a nice job inside. We have done a good job on the offensive rebounds and with defensive rebounds...we've held our own. That put us in the position to win."
— Coach Ron Gerlufsen

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

After a trip to the lions den in Durham, North Carolina, and a very sobering loss to Duke, the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team returns to the friendly confines of dusty, old Curry Hicks Cage tonight to start a two game home stand.

Being at home, where the team does not have to deal with 26 straight road defeats, won't guarantee a win for first year coach Ron Gerlufsen's team, where UMass is undefeated thus far this year.

Tonight, the University of Connecticut, of Big East fame, and an old New England rival faces, UMass in a 7:30 p.m. game, which will not be on any television as was previously announced at the last home game.

UConn, who is coming off a 75-47 pasting of Brooklyn College on Tuesday, is led by the sophomore guard Earl Kelley, who was the Big East player of the week after scoring 71 points in UConn's three wins.

"Earl is a real scoring threat," Gerlufsen said. "He will be a focal point defensively for us." Kelley, who was the Big East rookie of the year last year, hit for 37 against Boston University last weekend.

And at the other guard is senior Karl Hobbs, who runs the UConn offense with precision. Don Perno's team is 5-1 on the year having won their last four after a loss to Ohio State.

Massachusetts, who hasn't beaten UConn since 1977, is 2-3 after two season opening wins. The Duke game was the only one that UMass was out of. Against the Blue Devils, the Minutemen had everything that could go wrong do that.

"We have to be more consistent with our efforts," Gerlufsen said. "We have to function as a team." In the previous four games, UMass was in a position to win, explained the coach. "We've done a nice job inside. We have done a good job on the offensive rebounds and with defensive rebounds, even though we are a bit smaller, we've held our own. That put us in the position to win.

"We just didn't shoot the ball well in key situations," Gerlufsen said referring to the Houston Baptist and Georgia Southern losses. "I'm confident that our shooters will break out of their scoring slump soon." Forward John Hempel has been a little under average.

If UMass entertains any chance of beating the Huskies, not only will they have to break their scoring slump but they will have to stop Connecticut, and Gerlufsen is concerned about UConn's transition game.

"The main thing defensively will be to keep Connecticut out of their good transition game. A high percentage of their shots are off of the transition. We have to be able to get back strong and stop the easy baskets," Gerlufsen said.

If the Minutemen can stay close and not turnover the ball too much, the Huskies could be surprised. If UMass can get their act together offensively, they'll be in the game. The thing that hurt UMass in the past three games was at least one of the starters had a sub-par game and no one really picked up the slack.

MINUTEMAN MUMBLINGS — Edwin Green, who had 20 points against Georgia Southern, leads the team with nine blocks. Don Russell, the other co-captain with Green, leads the team in steals, 10. Horace Neysmith, the team's leader in rebounding with 44 shares the scoring lead with Hempel, 13.6.

Yukon Jack takes 1-0 lead in intramural hockey finals

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

A goal late in the third period by Joe Beelini pushed defending champion Yukon Jack past Mass Consumption, 2-1, in the first game of the intramural hockey championship finals Tuesday night in Greenfield.

Beelini, who also scored the winning goal in the semi-final game against the Nads to send Yukon Jack into the finals, shot the puck between the pads of Mass Consumption goalie Rich Hanlon.

The game was as close as the score indicated with both teams playing aggressively for the win.

"I think the reason Yukon Jack won was because they were much more patient than Mass Consumption," Scott Andrews, manager of the league said. "Mass Consumption was making much too long passes from defense to offense (due to the absence of the red line in the league play). The defense for Yukon Jack just seemed to break up their passes."

Paul Marmai started Yukon Jack on the way to its win in the first period when he tipped the puck into the net, for a 1-0 lead.

Yukon Jack's goalie Bob Montanna turned every shot by Mass Consumption until early in the third period. Defenseman John Hart played well in breaking up Mass Consumption's plays.

Brad Tercho scored the lone goal on Montanna to even the score in the third period until Beelini broke the tie. The win gives Yukon Jack the 1-0 lead in the best of three series.

"Yukon Jack wasn't looking for that pretty play," Andrews explained. "They just dumped it (the puck) in and went in after it, Bruins style."

continued on page 14

Comeback Shea wins picks

It was an amazing comeback in the last week of picks as Bill Shea roared out of second place and took the Collegian NFL picks championship for 1983. Last week, Shea went 11-3 and far outdistanced the rest of the field. Scott Hood, who entered last week with a one game lead, faltered going 8-6. The rest of the field of Tony Betros, Kevin Deluca and Gerry deSimas went 7-7.

With the 11-3 mark, Shea, a graduating senior, tied Hood for the best weekly mark of the season. Thus, the first season of NFL picks comes to a close. Hope you enjoyed them. Happy Holidays.

Finals Standings

1. Bill Shea 104-63 (.622), 2. Scott Hood 102-65 (.610), 3. Tony Betros 98-69 (.586), 4. Kevin Deluca 94-73 (.562), 5. Gerry deSimas 91-76 (.544).

Baseball fans nightmare: Five days in Nashville

By SCOTT HOOD
Collegian Staff

If they were to make a movie of last week's winter baseball meetings, a most appropriate title would be "A Baseball Fan's Nightmare: Five Days in Nashville." And that's being nice. Hey, what else can you say when the biggest deal involving "somebody" was Gorman Thomas and Jack Percente to Seattle for Tony Bernazard. It's all downhill from there, boys and girls.

There were, of course, other deals that merit mention, but none that will send chills up the spines of even the devotest and willingest patients of baseball fever.

For Red Sox fans, we give you Mike Easler, possessor of a powerful lefthanded bat in return for Boston's winningest pitcher in 1983, John Tudor. For Yankee fans, the Bronx Bombers acquired shortstop Tim Foli from the Angels for Pitcher Curt Kaufman and cash, and then improved their relief pitching corps by getting Mike Armstrong from Kansas City for Steve "Bye-Bye" Balboni and pitcher Roger Erickson.

Other wheeling and dealing in Music City, USA included 1. Toronto sending Barry Bonnell to Seattle for left-

AP Laserphoto

ON THE ROAD AGAIN — Joe Morgan will be in Oakland next year after leading the Phillies to the series.

thanded hurler Bryan Clark, already outstanding and who will certainly be a young, Blue Jay pitching welcome addition to the

continued on page 14

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIII, Issue 67 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Friday, December 16, 1983

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

OLD MEETS NEW -- This modern sculpture by Russell Jaques appears to move in many directions at once around the Amherst College chapel steeple.

Senate questions Duffey

By LAURA YEE
Collegian Staff

A University of Massachusetts faculty senator questioned yesterday whether racism and the violation of student rights were involved in the arrests of students accused of setting several dormitory fires on campus.

Afro-American studies professor Chester Davis told the faculty senate one question that remains unanswered in regard to the procedures of the arrest and interrogation of Yvette Henry is "a question of incompetence on behalf of the office of Dean of Students and of racism," he said.

"There is the question of the implication of racism. But the matter is that it should be looked into because it could bring unfavorable publicity to the University," Davis said.

However, Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said he could not remember a time when outside authorities were forced to take action.

"I think the arrest and interrogation procedures were entirely proper in preserving the life and safety of the community."

Duffey said after meeting with the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Blacks and Minority Students (CCEBMS), that the University needs a statement and a policy for the responsibilities of the University when outside authorities are involved.

"The code of student conduct needs to be examined but I am not pursuaded to believe that there was improper conduct. It was a bad and hectic time for all involved," Duffey said.

Davis said, "We must avoid even the impression of the violation of student rights and even more so the impression of racism," Duffey said. "I'm not prepared to discuss in either way details in question. There is a criminal process in prosecution. The disciplinary board will review the case," he said.

In other business, the faculty senate, the athletic council and the campus physical planning committee unanimously passed a motion that "supports the additional appropriation of $3 millon for the planning ad construction of a multi-purpose sports facility." The senate also approved "the planning for the facility to take into consideration the need to improve the quality of life for the students as well as the need to provide a service to the communities in the surrounding area."

Even though an agreement was reached by the committees, mixed feelings are being expressed by some professors.

Athletic Council representative George Urch said he believes, "There is a feeling of support after talking to students and the administration. We are here to serve both the alumni and the students."

Environmental science professor Linda Lockwood and history professor Mary B. Wickwire said they still question where additional funding will be found if needed.

"If more money is required to complete the construction, where will it come from?" Wickwire asked.

Vice Chancellor of administration and finance John L. DeNyse said there are presently no funds for the construction of the facility since the 1984 capital outlay budget has been rejected by the senate ways and means committee.

UMass polymer program striving to be the best

By KEN BAZINET
Collegian Staff

When a plastic product stronger than steel was developed, polymer science was recognized worldwide as a field with limitless potential.

These durable plastics are a fairly new development for polymer researchers worldwide, but after playing a major role in the creation of these materials, scientists at the University of Massachusetts say their contribution is minor.

It is not that the faculty and graduate students who are a part of the Center for UMass Industry Research in Polymers, the largest polymer program in the country, are necessarily humble, it is that they are striving today to have the best program in the world.

UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey, Massachusetts Secretary of Economic Affairs Evelyn Murphy, U.S. Rep. Edward Boland, D-Springfield, and UMass scientists Thursday joined representatives from industries to renew and explain UMass' committment to polymer research.

The group held a press conference early Thursday in Springfield, and later attended the opening of the Polymer Laboratories, a private firm, in Amherst.

"We are grateful for this expression of confidence which Polymer Laboratories has made by coming to Amherst," Duffey said to more than 40 people gathered in the lobby of that plant located in the Amherst Fields Research Park on Route 9. "We look forward to the relationship."

Polymer Laboratories was formed in 1976 to develop and commercialize polymer products. It is based in the United Kingdom, where its three parent plants are located.

Collegian photo by Dave Dreher

"We are here to show the committment the state has to the Pioneer Valley."
- Evelyn Murphy, Mass. Secretary of economic affairs

"I look very much forward to working with the University faculty," said Frank Warner, director of the Amherst plant. "The UMass polymer faculty formed the basis for our decision to move here."

Warner is not new to the area; he met with UMass scientists seven years ago to discuss and exchange ideas on polymer research.

"We are here to show the commitment the state has to the Pioneer Valley," Murphy said. "The opening of this exciting new company is the first establishment of a polymer-related business in Amherst and will add significantly to our efforts to expand the plastics industry in the region.

"It is a proven center of excellence that has achieved international acclaim," she said of the UMass polymer science program, which operates at a cost of $4.5 million yearly.

Boland said the federal government also has an interest in polymer research, although their contribution has been limited. Earlier this semester Gov. Dukakis proposed $6 million in state monies be earmarked for a new expanded polymer research facility.

"Congressman Silvio Conte and myself agree that support for this program is necessary," Boland said in an interview following the press conference. "UMass is a leader in current competition for federal money."

Boland said some industry has been diminishing in the U.S. and polymer research may be the way to rejuvenate those industries.

"Hopefully there will be additional funding," Boland said. "The very fact that this firm has opened here signifies a very fruitful and important relationship."

DA's office to announce decision on Briggs today

The Hampshire District Attorney's office said Thursday an announcement would be made today on whether or not charges would be dropped against a University of Massachusetts student charged in connection with a recent rape on campus.

Although UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said Thursday he was unaware of the announcement today, last week he told a Collegian reporter he had been told by a reliable source the victim "has requested the court to withdraw charges" against Michael E. Briggs.

David Angier, of the district attorney's office, said an announcement was scheduled for this morning on the status of charges against Briggs, who was arrested two weeks ago and charged with indecent assault and battery with attempt to rape in an incident at MacKimmie dormitory.

William A. Norris, lawyer for Briggs, confirmed there would be an announcement concerning his client but said he does not know what will be decided.

"We're just waiting until (today) to see what happens."

A pretrial hearing was held Wednesday between the prosecution and the defense in the case. Neither Norris or Angier would give specifics about the outcome of the meeting.

Briggs is a MacKimmie resident from Oxford, Conn. and a starting offensive tackle for the UMass football team.

-- RITA MURPHY

Inside:

UMass mails letters to parents concerning recent fires.....p.3

Accidental fire reported in Brown.....p.3

UMass coach will help train the U.S. Olympic women's field hockey team.....p.16

See Special "photos of the semester" insert.

Education is what survives when what has been learnt has been forgotten.
-- B.F. Skinner

Digest

AROUND THE WORLD

Columbian cargo jet explodes

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A Colombian cargo jet with mechanical problems exploded in the air while trying to make an emergency landing at Medellin and flaming debris set fires in five factories. The coroner said 14 people were killed.

The Tampa Airlines Boeing 707 was on its way to Miami for repairs Wednesday when it exploded and crashed, airline officials said.

All three crew members in the plane and 11 people on the ground were killed, Medelin coroner Humberto Sierra told the Associated Press.

In a statement, Tampa said the plane had tried to take off in the morning when it was loaded with cargo, but had been forced back by mechanical difficulties. The cargo was unloaded and the jet took off, the airline said.

But the pilot immediately asked permission to return and make an emergency landing, a spokesman for Colombia's Civil Aeronautics Agency said in a telephone interview.

"The plane made a turn to try to get back to the runway and was just 50 meters (60 yards) short of the runway when it exploded," said the spokesman, who did not give his name.

Police kill nun held hostage in Lima

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Police opened fire on prisoners trying to escape from a jail, killing eight convicts and an American nun they were holding hostage, a Roman Catholic church organization said Thursday.

The Episcopal Commission of Social Action in Lima said the nun, Joan Sawyer, 51, of the Missionary Saints of St. Columban, was hit by four bullets when police fired on a prison ambulance fleeing Wednesday with her and five other women hostages.

The convicts, armed with knives, seized the women during the presentation of the annual Christmas program at Lurigancho Prison. Prison authorities made the ambulance available to 10 convicts holding the hostages when the prisoners threatened to kill them.

The mission's headquarters in Chicago said Sister Sawyer, a U.S. citizen, was originally from Belfast, Northern Ireland, and had lived in Boston and Chicago for nine years before going to Peru.

DEIR EL-KAMAR, Lebanon -- Israeli troops in tanks and armored personnel carriers watch over the evacuation of besieged Christian refugees Wednesday in the town square of Deir El-Kamar. The town had been cut off by the Druse militia which had surrounded them for three months.

AP Laserphoto

Missile components reach Comiso

COMISO, Sicily (AP) — Components of cruise nuclear missile systems, including four missile launchers, have arrived at a NATO base outside this Sicilian town, U.S. officials reported Thursday.

Joe Johnson, the U.S. Embassy spokesman in Rome, said parts of the missiles were sent to the base from a U.S. naval air station in Sigonella near Catania on Dec. 9 "without any incident."

He said in a telephone interview that it was the latest in a series of shipments of missile components to reach Comiso, 45 miles southeast of Sigonella.

Under a NATO plan, Italy has agreed to deploy 112 cruise nuclear missiles in Comiso. The first batch is expected to be operational starting this spring when contruction is completed at the Comiso base.

AROUND THE NATION

AP Laserphoto

MICKEY'S FRIEND -- Trine Engebretsen, who doctors say has only several weeks to live, hugs Mickey Mouse in her Miami home Thursday. The two-year-old is expected to die of kidney failure unless a donor can be found for a transplant.

Job opportunities to increase in 1984

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Job opportunities for college graduates will increase next year more than 20 percent, ending a two-year decline, according to Northwestern University's annual 1984 Endicott report released today.

The report is based on a national survey of 262 large and medium size business and industrial firms. It is regarded as an important indicator of employment opportunities for graduating students.

"The better prospects for graduates reflect the economic advances reported by respondents for 1983 and their continued optimism for 1984," said Dean Victor R. [illegible], author of the report and director of placement at Northwestern.

[illegible] that 57 percent of the firms reporting from 20 states reported their [illegible] and improved in 1983, and half of them expect even more improvement in the coming year.

Overall 71 percent of all companies reported business would be better despite a nagging concern about the federal deficit and high interest rates, said Endicott.

The survey indicated that employment will increase 20 percent for graduates with bachelor's degrees and 28 percent for those with master's degrees.

Kuwait asks for toughened security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Embassy in Kuwait asked the State Department for toughened security measures in September, but the department delayed approving them because it didn't have the money, its spokesman said Thursday. The approval finally was sent on the "eve of the bombing," one official said. Monday's blast left six people dead.

John Hughes, the State Department spokesman, said the embassy took some modest steps of its own to improve security after its September request, but that "the main package was not implemented" because the money was lacking.

"I'm not suggesting nothing was done ... but the main package was not done," he said.

AROUND THE REGION

Dukakis signs housing package

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Michael Dukakis signed a $196 million housing bond package into law Thursday, saying it will create "decent, sound, affordable" housing for the poor, the elderly and the handicapped.

"This nation is failing in its responsibility to its citizens — particularly those of low and moderate income, the elderly and the handicapped," Dukakis declared. "Thanks to Congress, we are beginning to see a recognition of that fact."

Dukakis spoke at a bill-signing ceremony held at Beacon House, a recently renovated apartment building a block from the Statehouse that was hailed as a model of public-private cooperation in the creation of housing.

The governor was joined by Senate President William Bulger, House Speaker Thomas McGee, Secretary of Communities and Development Amy Anthony, housing advocates, developers and key legislators, including the chairmen of the Housing and Urban Development committee, Joseph Timilty, D-Canton, and John Cusack, D-Arlington.

Deliberations begin in AVCO trial

LOWELL, (AP) - A six-member jury began deliberating the case today of seven political activists accused of vandalizing the [illegible] System Division plant in Wilmington to protest nuclear missiles.

"[illegible] up to you to convict or acquit and no [illegible] behind it," [illegible] Court Judge Edward [illegible] charging the jury.

[illegible] the seven include [illegible] as vandalism related to a July 14 invasion of the plant.

Three of the defendants said during the trial they used hammers and nursing bottles filled with human blood to damage equipment as a form of civil disobedience, based on the anti-Vietnam War writing of the Rev. Daniel Berrigan.

River may be spared from sewage

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — There's a chance the city of Springfield, Mass., might alter its plan to dump 80 million gallons of raw sewage into the Connecticut river, according to U.S. Sen. Christopher Dodd.

Springfield plans to dump the sewage into the river while it makes repair to its sewage treatment plant, a proposal that has been strongly opposed by Connecticut officials.

Dodd met privately Wednesday with Michael R. Deland, regional administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, who last month approved the dumping scheduled for March.

"I made some suggestions to him and asked him to take a look at some things," Dodd said, although he declined to detail his proposal until Deland has a chance to review it.

"There's some indication there's a ray of hope here," Dodd said in an interview with the Journal Inquirer of Manchester.

Springfield plans to divert about 80 million gallons of raw sewage to the river over eight days in March while maintenance is performed at its York Street pumping station. The work would cost $215,000.

Today's Staff

Night Editor	Cris Schuster
Copy Editor	Mary Anne Been
Layout Technician	Steve Anderson
Photo Technician	Drew Ogier
Production Supervisor	J.P. Shanahan
Production	John Widger, Lynne Gottlieb, Martha Stevens, Jane Hirshberg, Ellen Waxman, Dode Levenson, Faye Whitney-Lussier, Marcia Wilcox, Gail Tanzer, Laurie Frank

Subscription Rates

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS [illegible]) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $[illegible] at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

SUN WATCHING -- An unidentified man watches the approaching winter solstice while looking through the "sighting loop" at Merrill Center. The loop is used to line up important sites on the horizon.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

Letters mailed to calm students' parents

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts has mailed more than 11,000 letters to parents of students living in the residence hall system in an effort to ease anxiety over the rash of fires which have plagued the campus this semester.

Dennis L. Madson, vice-chancellor for Student Affairs told the Faculty Senate Thursday the letters were mailed out earlier this week.

The letter explains to parents the problem the fires have caused on campus, especially in Crampton House, the victim of 16 suspicious fires.

The letter, signed by both Madson and Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey, states, "While the events of the past few weeks have caused concern, anger, and frustration among all of us who live and work on the campus, we have worked together to limit the extent to which the actions of a few individuals can disrupt the on-going life of the campus."

At the senate meeting, Duffey said each fire on campus has been set by "individuals who for whatever motive, have played Russian roulette with the lives on this campus."

In battling the fires and the publicity surrounding them, the University has gone "through a very difficult time when the rights of students to be free of harassment," have been in jeopardy at times, Duffey said.

Duffey thanked the faculty for their "considerate" response to the academic problems of those living in dormitories which have had numerous fires, specifically Crampton.

The letter sent to parents also states, "Cooperation among students, faculty, a staff, and outside agencies has been critically important." Duffey said administrators, staff and faculty members who have been on campus for a number of years "cannot remember a time" when a situation has been so drastic to warrant a "turnover to civil authorities," as was the case this semester with the fires.

Since the arrest of Yvette I. Henry on December 2 in connection with one of the fires in Crampton, criticism has been levied against the administration, particularly the Dean of Students office, for possible civil and/or student rights violations. Duffey said, "students rights and the rights of citizens in society do not exactly coincide."

In other Faculty Senate news, Duffey announced that Bonnie R. Strickland, associate to the chancellor, will be stepping down from her position in January. Strickland took over her current duties last January.

Duffey gave no reason for why Strickland was stepping down. However, she had only signed a one-year contract. Strickland will return to the ranks of the faculty where she is a psychology professor, he said.

Duffey said Strickland has "with extraordinary skill, good humor, and patience...been of great service to this University."

Duffey did not say who, if anyone, would replace Strickland, but he said he "plans to experiment with a lighter staff" next semester.

Budget, asbestos removal in plans

By RALPH ROBERTS
Collegian Staff

The Campus Center Board of Governors (BOG) of the University of Massachusetts will be "busier than ever" throughout winter session, said BOG chair Mike Reilly, Thursday night at the final meeting of the semester.

Reilly said among the board's most important assignments will be to maintain close watch on the asbestos removal project, create an efficient budget proposal for the University administration, evaluate the present use of space within the Campus Center and the Student Union Building and to build a formal contract with University officials regarding the BOG's powers.

"While most students are home relaxing over vacation, many board members will be up here busting their butts," Reilly said.

Asbestos removal will begin Dec. 21, and must be completed by January 30 if the Campus Center wishes to open on time for selling school goods etc.," Reilly said.

"We're going to keep the pressure on the administration to keep the pressure on the asbestos removal contractos," he said.

The BOG must also "hammer out" a budget proposal for the University. While no figures have been released, Reilly said school officials have told him that students fees would not be rising in 1985 from this year's $84 figure.

"After reviewing our records, we've found that there is no reason for student fees to increase," Reilly said.

Besides working on the budget, Paul Agranaut, space allocations coordinator, said he will be conducting a complete evaluation of student office space at UMass.

"We've received some information that some student groups haven't used their offices to their fullest potential. It's time we've cleaned house around here," Agranaut said.

But before the BOG takes any action against any of the groups, Reilly said he wished to find out "how far the board's power stands."

"Once we have our powers more outlined, we can take more direction to represent the students. All we want is to have the formal power that we used to have, " Reilly said.

Accidental fire in Brown 'poses no threat'

Brown Dormitory in the Sylvan Residential Area was the site of an accidental fire Wednesday, which was probably caused by an unextinguished cigarette, University of Massachusetts police reported.

Director of public safety, Gerald O'Neil, said police found some papers which were accidently ignited when a cigarette was thrown into a box at approximately 9:54 a.m.

O'Neil said the fire was immediately extinguished, and the Amherst Fire Department was not dispatched. He said the fire posed "no threat" to students in Brown.

In another incident, police reported that a woman was observed driving her automobile recklessly on the access road to Lot 21, near the Southwest Residential Area at 1 a.m. Thursday.

A 20-year-old resident of Marshfield was arrested and charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle, and operating without a license in her possesion.

In another arrest, a 22-year-old South Deerfield resident was stopped at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday for possible motor vehicle violations. When officers ran a check on the suspect, it was found that he had an outstanding warrant issued on him by the Brookfield Police. He was turned over to Brookfield authorities, police reported.

After 6 years, colonel reunites with family

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Eight years ago, Kham Minh Nguyen said goodbye to his wife and four daughters as he put them on a U.S. transport plane in Saigon. "I will see you in a few days," he said.

Three days later, on April 30, 1975, Saigon fell to the North Vietnamese.

Last week, after nearly six years in Communist re-education camps and 16 failed escape attempts, Nguyen survived a typhoon on a small boat with 134 others and eventually reached this small college town and his family.

Nguyen, 48, a Roman Catholic who left Hanoi in North Vietnam before the partition in 1954, rose to the rank of colonel in the anti-communist army backed by the United States. He was imprisoned after American support ended and Saigon fell.

While Nguyen was in prison, his wife, Lucy earned her doctorate at the University of Massachusetts and raised four daughters. She now teaches French at Amherst College.

"We were all so excited we couldn't say anything. All we could do was cry," said Mrs. Nguyen.

"When I saw him I recognized him from far away, but the children didn't recognize him at all. He cried like a baby," she said. "It was the first time that I ever saw him cry."

In a copyright story published in Thursday's editions of the Daily News in Springfield, Nguyen described his odyssey that began with the morning radio broadcast announcing that Duong Van Minh had surrendered Saigon to the rebels.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier and Jim Powers

MOTLEY CREW -- Collegian staff members (many of whom are missing from the above photo) wish everyone a happy holiday and good luck with finals. See ya next semester!

Emergency Medical Technician Course

130 hr. course Tuition $200.00 Lab Fee $50.00
Classes begin 2/2/84, meets Tues. and Thurs. 6:30 - 10 PM. For more information or to register call 584-2391 leave message.
Sponsored by UMass Fire & First Aid Unit

Memo To Faculty:
We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.

Jeffery Amherst Bookshop

Seasons Greetings from the Ski Club

See you at Sugarbush table in front of Hatch today

"What did Reagan know about the rescue mission and when did he know it?... This question is as terrible as those asked of Nixon and Kissinger about the manipulation of the Paris peace talks for political gain. A terrible question of treason."
–Don Freed

in the premier issue of The Rebel at your local newsstand

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50

Fri. Dec. 16 - Sat. Dec. 17
The Story of Adele H. 7:15
Shoot the Piano Player 9:00
Sun. Dec. 18 - Tues. Dec. 20
Tess 7:00
starring Nastassia Kinski
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

家酒園南湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant
"The Best Chinese Food"

MENU

BUFFET
Mon - Thurs
5 pm - 8 pm
Sunday Brunch
11:30 am - 3 pm
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$5.25 per person

Hot & Sour Soup, Chicken Fingers, Pan Fried Ravioli, Beef with Green Pepper, Chicken Fried Noodles
Sweet & Sour Chicken, Pan Fried Rice, Chinese Barbequed Pork, Broccoli in Oyster Sauce, Chicken Wings

Luncheon Special & Take-Out Service
Full Cocktail Menu
Sun - Thurs 11:30 am - 10 pm
Fri & Sat 11:30 am - 11 pm
10 Belchertown Road
at Rte 9, Amherst
256-0251

Graduate Student Position Available

Departmental Assistant/Coordinator of Southwest Woman's Center.
Educational, cultural and research activities. $5.95 per hour for 20 hr./wk. 03 position carries no benefits.
Forward letter of application, resume, proof of enrollment in graduate school, three letters of reference to:
Pamela S. Dice
Residence Director, John Quincy Adams
Southwest Residential Area

FOURSEASONS
Location: On Route 9 in Front of Mountain Farms Mall
Just a quick jaunt from free bus stop at Hampshire Mall

LABATTS.....beer or ale bts.....cs.$10.99
MILLER.....12 pack btls.....cs. $9.99
BUSCH.....bar btls.....cs. $8.99
ST. PAULI GIRL.....bts.....cs. $14.99
GENESSE BEER.....bar bts.....$6.95

VODKA & GIN.....1.75 L.....$7.99
RUM.....1.75.....$9.49
SOUTHERN COMFORT.....1 L.....$8.99
KALUHA.....750 ml.....$10.49
AMARETTO DI SARONNO....750 ml....$11.99

* Lots of Specials and Christmas suggestions all around the store including...
• wine gift sets • hard liquor gift sets
• new supply of Tee-Sweatshirts
• favorite liquors in gift boxes

IT's RAFFLE TIME AGAIN - Come in and fill out the form. No purchase necessary - I've got mirrors, clocks, a radio, large beer bottle, wall plaques and tee shirts - only to mention some of the prizes.

* Free Gift Wrapping

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
KEGS 584-8174 FREE DELIVERY

GOING TO BE ON CAMPUS IN JANUARY?
WHERE ARE YOU GOING TO EAT?

~ Worcester Dining Commons will be open Lunch and Dinner ~ Monday ~ Friday

~ Choose any of the five meal plans and SAVE! 20-25-30-35-38
From $72.00 To $130.00

~ SIGN UP: DEC. 1~20.
MEAL TICKET OFFICE ~ FRANKLIN COMMONS

Offering Soup, Sandwich, Casserole, Self-Service Salad Bar, and Homemade Desserts for Lunch.
Dinner two Entrees, Self-Service Salad Bar, some Vegetarian Selections, Homemade Breads and Desserts.
All this and more for less than you would pay anywhere in the campus area.

WHY NOT TRY IT OUT!

Alternative to an Intersession Board Plan
Pay Cash or Buy Strip Tickets

Bongos are still there

THE BONGOS
December 8
Blue Wall

By GERARD COSLOY
Collegian Staff

It could be the Great American Pop Revival; simplistic, unpretentious, fun and intelligent music being played by homegrown American bands, like Boston's Neats, LA's Rain Parade or New York's Individuals. But where most of these groups appear mired on the risky independent circuit, Hoboken, New Jersey's Bongos have broken out. From their early 45's on Britain's Fetish label to last year's excellent debut LP, Drums Along the Hudson (Jem/PVC), the Bongos have displayed a bursting, bouyant appeal, based more on the wry, yet hopeful lyrics of vocalist/guitarist Richard Barone, than on any calculated marketing push. On vinyl at least, they haven't given in, the brand new Numbers With Wings EP(RCA 12") featuring their strongest compositions to date, like the brilliant weaving title track, or the brooding "Sweet Blue Cage".

But with a move to a major label, it seems that some compromise has resulted. Playing at the Blue Wall last Thursday (in what can only be called one of UPC's sharper bookings this year), the Bongos' precise rhythmic foundations seemed uncluttered as ever, the anchored, loping bass lines of Rob Norris and the whiplash drumming of Frank Giannino setting a firm pattern for principal guiltarists/vocalists Barone and Jim Mastro to jab around (clearly, the current 3 month tour has left the Bongos in better command of their musicianship). What was infuriating was the way the band's stage presence has undergone such a severe faceiift; aside from the fact that the Bongos played a set absolutely identical to their last New England appearances (Boston and Providence in October), complete with standard arena-rock signatures like highly choreographed jumping and flailing (something they've yet to master; in Providence, Barone slipped and crashed into the drum riser, at the Blue Wall, Mastro smashed himself in the head with his guitar neck), many disconcerting guitar effects (not to mention a fair amount of pointed-guitar stadium gesturing). Then again, the same facets of the Bongos live set that left me yearning for the days when their sound was more raw and spontaneous might have been the elements that got the Blue Wall audience on its feet (or as Rob Norris said to me, "it's really nice to play a place like this where there's no pressure"). While contemporaries like R.E.M. have retained their amateur charm in the face of big-time success, the Bongos want the snake's fruit and they want it now.

Not to be totally cynical, the songs are still there, the sly pacing of "The Bulrushes" or the cool detachment of "my Sin" reminding us that the Bongos are still amongst the best songwriters we've got. Now, the only question is if the Bongos' move to RCA will pay off; will Podunk, USA (or Amherst, MA) dig the Bongo beat? Talking to bassist Rob Norris after the show, I was told that RCA will be releasing "Barbarella" as a 45 off the EP, and a video of said song has just been released to MTV (but will it be played? Norris: Depends on how much money RCA is willing to pay off MTV with."), and there are plans for a 12" remix, supervised by NYC mastermixer John "Jellybean" Benitez (New Order, Freez). (Wouldn't the Bongos be a bit out of Benitez' league? Norris: "Well, he's done Pat Benetar"). Plus, there are chances of a tour with U2 early in the new year. Only time will tell if the Bongos' recent gambit has been successful; I'm hoping it will, but I'm still left wondering where all the energy went.

Trailers by Andy Gordon

A very short TRAILERS this week. What with finals and all, I don't have time to write it and you probably don't have time to read it. Not that you could read it anyway, lately this column has been looking more like a jigsaw puzzle than a movie article. You had to be a mindreader to follow last week's.

So what's new? Last semester I reported that John Landis, as a result of problems concerning his accidental manslaughter of Vic Morrow (Oops), lost the rights to Dick Tracy, which he wanted to star Clint Eastwood. Walter Hill at that time picked up the rights and tentatively signed Warren Beatty to the project. Apparently Paramount and Universal, who are co-producing the feature, didn't appreciate Hill's proposed 25 million plus budget, and gave him the old seeyalaterbye. Richard Benjamin has now been signed to direct, but with his 12 mil budget it's doubtful that any really big name will star. Benjamin meanwhile is finishing shooting on a buddy picture called Racing with the Moon, starring Sean Penn.

Landis' Thriller video is still seeking theatrical distribution as a short (for which it will undoubtedly be nominated for an oscar), but is meanwhile being shown on MTV every twenty minutes. Starring Michael Jackson and Playboy playmate Ola Ray, the short is classic Landis, and features such recurring Landis jokes as a plug for See You Next Wednesday, a fictional film which has turned up in just about every one of his flicks.

Sahara is scheduled for release next month. Brooke Shields stars as an heiress who drives in the grueling trans-Sahara car race. The film is set during the twenties. Could beat out A Night in Heaven as shittiest film of the year starring someone from The Blue Lagoon.

Local best BETS: Everything looks good. Go see everything. Wait; of special note is Koyaniqatsi at the Pleasant St. theatre. Mickey's Christmas Carol is coming soon to the mall for you freshmen. But Roger and Gene panned it big time. Ain't that a kick?

TRAILERS Trivia: No question this week. The answer to last week's question was Ola Ray, Cathy St. George, Tracy Vaccaro and Sondra Theodore, all former Playboy playmates and all appearing in The Man who Loved Women, starring Burt Reynolds and Rolf Budd.

Mickey Mouse in Christmas Carol.

Christmas Special
25% Discount
ON SPRING SEMESTER MEMBERSHIPS
(includes Jan. Break)
regular $45.00 NOW $33.75

BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden.
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
Call IDB 'S for info 545-1555 Dec 12 to Dec 22 only

boot SALE
shoe SALE
boot SALE
shoe SALE
boot SALE
shoe SALE
boot SALE
shoe SALE

the SHOE BIN
up to 50% savings
all fall boots and shoes
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Do You Know That Over 16,000,000 Americans are treated for low back pain daily.
Don't become a statistic! Attend the LOW BACK WELLNESS SCHOOL
• Learn the causes of low back pain.
• Learn the everyday movements that cause or aggravate low back problems.
• Learn exercises to care for your low back.
• Learn how to consult and use the Doctor of Chiropractic for your health care service.
Call 256-6700 To enroll at no charge
Amherst Chiropractic Center
190 University Dr., Amherst, MA 01002
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C. Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Chiropractic is covered by most major health insurance, personal injury and automobile insurance and workers compensation.

FINANCIAL AID OFFICE
Important Notice

All Undergraduate Dormitory Residents will receive their financial aid forms (FAF) via campus mail in their dorms during the week of December 19th 1983.

Off Campus and Graduate Students can pick up FAF's during this time period at the Financial Aid Office - 243 Whitmore, and the second floor lobby information desk in Whitmore.

The FAF filing deadline for academic year 1984-85 is March 1, 1984

Happy Holidays from the Collegian

The Collegian would like to express its sincere best wishes to the University and the Amherst/Northampton area for this Holiday (and finals) season.

We would also like to express our thanks to the Collegian staff for a job well done.

BOARD OF EDITORS

Joel Myerson, Editor in Chief

Ray Beauchemin, Managing Editor

Josh Meyer, Editorial Page Editor

James P. Shanahan, Production Manager

Andrew May, Business Manager

Anne McCrory, News Editor

Michelle Hyde Women's Issues Editor

David Summersby, Women's Issues Editor

Yadira Betances, Black Affairs Editor

Lisa Mosley, Arts Editor

Doug Muise, Arts Editor

Gerry DeSimas, Sports Editor

Drew Ogier Photo Editor

NEWS

John O'Connell, associate news editor
Peter Abraham
Ken Bazinet
Larry Bouchie
Lisa Marie Cantwell
Sean Casey
Mary Cresse
Jim Finkle
Risa Freeman
Stephen Howe
Tom Kelley
Jill Lang
Julia Maycock
Tom Middleton
David Muniz
Camden Pierce
Ralph Roberts
Daniel Sobel
Rebecca Thatcher
Virginia Warfield
Laura Yee

PRODUCTION

Paul Belval
Tami Borton
Cris Schuster
Bill Shea
Bill Wall
Mary Anne Been
Greg Brown
Alice Klingener
Elizabeth Luciano
Tricia Yacovone
Mat Atkins
Steve Anderson
Susan Bankert
Paul Basken
Meredith Carlson

EDITORIAL

Brooke States
Miriam Zoll
Steven P. Barrett
John Kenney
John Gilman
Dan Burgess

WOMEN'S ISSUES

Rita Murphy, associate women's issue editor
Diane Lane
Mary-Shiela Loughlin

ARTS

Peter Wissoker
David Chevan
Andy Gordon
Gerard Cosloy
Ed Been
Chris Marini
Jim Fein
David Taylor

SPORTS

Ellen Richard, associate sports editor
Ed Cunningham
Tom Scollins
Ed Hayward
Adan Nazimowitz
Kevin DeLuca
John Badger
Mike Levine
Russ Whinnem
Tony Betros
Dan Leberfeld
Rich Brunelli
Ariel Fowler
Michele Dolan
Scott Hood
Martin Murray
George Martins
Jay Holtzman

PHOTO

David Deuber, associate photo editor
Jim Powers
Andy Heller
Ann Lamery

NIGHT GRAPHICS

Marianne Walsh, associate production manager
Peter Peck, runner in the night
Kenneth Kalinowski
Joyce Haglund
Ed Tausky

Pete Soderberg
Doug Chapman
Lesley Clark
John O'Hern
Larissa Potapchuk
Ellen Waxman
Leigh Heywood
Tim Riviere
Merrianne Hrycin
Martha Stevens
Laura Zigman
Pam Smith
Lynne Gottlieb
Joanne Gaudette
Jane Hirshberg
Tracy Lang
Vicki Spagnoli
Leslie King
Brenda Ling
Lisa Kiernan
Dode Levenson
Amy Keefe
Norm Achin
Ansel Zinther

DAY GRAPHICS

Laurie Frank
Babs Wilcon
Gail Tanzer
Lynn Eisenberg
Martha Conners
Joy McCarty
Mark Rodin
David Rath
and Faye Whitney-Lussier

BUSINESS

Elizabeth Young, associate business manager
Glenn Cameron

ADVERTISING

Jeff Taylor, advertising manager
Eric Mann, associate ad manager
Chris McManus
Janet Morgenstern
Lori Silver
Kathy Kelley
Stacy Schott
Mike McDonald
Joel Cantor
Caren Orlick
Jon Levy
Liz Zwerling
Russ Jones

FINANCE

Amy Krasilovsky, finance manager
Michael Altneu, finance manager

CIRCULATION

Gerard Harvey, circulation manager
Elizabeth Chiasson
Steve Gogonis
Joe Garrasi
Tom Haley

FRONT OFFICE

Gail Kleinman
Andrea Pugsley
Johanna Linneham
Jennifer Saccone

SPECIAL THANKS

Cathy Chilson, clerk joker
Maureen Majerowski, accounting clerk
James Ristuber, business advisor

AND

Pat and Mike Turley, Jack Meade, Turley Publications and Ware River News.

The Collegian

Start your day refreshed with the Collegian

Merry Christmas
Happy New Year

STADIUM
UMass
Amherst
LIQUORS

Mal Traceski
Tom McLellan
Rob Henderson
Dave Gaudet
Dana Gentes
Kevin Fitzsimmons
Ned Fitzgerald
Chris Kouniontis
Brian Beaulieu
Sandy and Gene

Mark Becker
Paul Danello
Joe Weisse
Brian Sullivan
Mike Skroski
John Lapinski
Bob Gardner
Scott Romero
Phil Doherty
Butch Roeder
Jeff Connors

Max

253-5595 10 a.m. til 11 p.m.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

It's over and we survived

Michele Dolan

She so desperately wanted to go home she was aching inside. She knew that the Christmas lights were up all over the neighborhood. There was a tree in her living room. Her friends were all home from school by now. It was time for Christmas, friends, eggnog, and all the good things that make the holiday so special. Not exams. The last thing Christmas was for was to sit in a dingy classroom until 3:00 and 4:00 in the morning trying to absorb the past three chapters of a textbook and all her notes since the last test. All the while looking around the room, wishing it was easier, wishing someone would give it to her, christen her with the knowledge and stop the pressure. But she had to study hard. Doing well was important to her and she pushed herself constantly.

In the lobby of her dorm they were watching "How the Grinch Stole Christmas". She passed through on her way to the library. A few more hours, a few more pages memorized, a little bit closer to being home. She reasoned with herself that getting good grades was part of her responsibility at college. She didn't send cards or buy presents because she was too busy. She wanted to skip the hell of preparing for exams and excel at happiness. It seemed a season of happiness was evading her and she feared missing it. She wanted to be bouncy and excited, but was restrained by her conscience, a conscience that always told her what she SHOULD be doing.

On the day of her last exam she had to fight to keep her concentration. She was living in a cloud of exhaustion; an exhaustion that had crept up on her from studying a great deal in a short period of time. But the other exams had gone well. This one came and went and the semester was over. It had been a fun one. There were football tailgates, some great times with friends, and one excellent snowball fight at the end. But the end crunch had challenged her to survive the pressure, resist getting caught up in the holiday spirit, and do well on all her exams.

But it was over, suddenly. The end gave her great relief. The exhaustion she felt was borne of the challenges she had been forced to meet. But the same feeling of inescapable fatigue filled her with a sense of accomplishment and gave her a gratifying feeling.

She had done well. She had stayed up nights, resisted partying, and studied in the way that finals demanded. She felt good. Knowing that all the studying had paid off she smiled in satisfaction. Then she laughed. The laugh was of the kind of happiness that no one can take away. She slept all the way home in the car. Her family met her at the door and everyone talked at once. "How were finals?", her mother asked. "You look tired."

She stood for a moment in front of the tree, watching its bright lights blink on and off. She felt a sense of freedom, the kind one had after surviving a struggle. She sat with her family and drank eggnog. Tomorrow was Christmas. She wouldn't miss a thing.

Michele Dolan is a Collegian Columnist.

Asbestos just won't go away

The asbestos problem in the Campus Center has received a lot of attention lately -- particularly the lack of administrative feedback concerning the issue,

People who have been in the Campus Center, and plan to be during and after the removal process have been extremely worried about exposure to carcinogenic asbestos-fibers. They have received little assurance from the officials in charge.

And now the semester ends, and the removal begins. Are we going to have assurances that even the lowest standards of conformity to federal and state standards are met? These standards themselves have proved to be unsafe, as NO level of asbestos has been proven to be safe. And the air sample tests that determine levels of exposure have been described as inaccurate, and a waste of effort by industrial hazard experts, on campus and off.

So we at the Collegian will remain uneasy. We will continue to work in the Campus Center (right under the removal area), breathing in air that comes from all over the building. And then, when the workers are done, we'll walk through the rest of the Campus Center, and hope to God the contractors have done a good job.

We at the Collegian would like to see air samples taken, and we'd like to see the results. We want to see concern on the part of the administration, and we don't want to be treated as ignorant kids. We'd like to see evidence that the contractors are researched carefully, and that safety measures are taken during removal and after. We ask this because we've heard of places where asbestos has been removed on campus already, only to create more contamination than before.

We also ask this because we'd like to sleep a little easier at night.

Policy editorials reflect the majority opinions of the editors.

What's it all about UMies?

Dani Burgess

Only a few more days and then -- freedom. A sigh of relief, a break, a chance to earn that much needed income or take more classes, a graduation, a career, unemployment. These are just some of the different environments awaiting us. At any rate, practically everyone on this campus will feel the effects of winter break in one way or another.

But what have we really done this semester? Did we learn what we wanted to? Did we 'party' enough? Did we learn more about ourselves? Did we come closer towards our perceptions of where we would like to be after UMass? Do we feel more or less threatened by nuclear war? Did we work on any social issues? Do we have new friends? Do we have new outlooks on life?

What have been the significant changes in us since we began the semester? What changes do we feel good about and will we take these with us on our voyage through life? What changes do we feel not so good about, and what, if anything, are we planning to do about that?

There are so many questions to be asked about this past semester's experience. We certainly have had no shortage of national and local issues of high import. For instance the Korean Jumbo Jet tragedy, the massive earthquake in Turkey, the defeat of the insensitive $50.00 tuition hike, the removal of James Watt (about time!), the unfortunate defeat of Mel King in Boston, the U.S. Invasion of Grenada (what ever happened to "Self-Determination"), the continued use of death squads in El Salvador, the successful prevention of the Massachusetts version of the Solomon Amendment, the unfortunate defeat of a proposal for Cambridge to become a Nuclear Free Zone, the defeat of the bill to raise the drinking age to 21, the showing of the film The Day After and a fire plagued campus are just some of the major issues that have occured since September.

What thoughts pervade our brain about the future? What do we want to do with our lives? Will Nicaragua be invaded by U.S. troops? Will the draft be implemented? What will happen in Lebanon and Grenada? Are we sure that we want to be engineering majors and not Women's Studies majors? Are we safe enough to think about our careers when nuclear war is so conceivable? Will we go to war with Syria? Will the ERA ever become a reality? Will we have to endure Ronald Reagan for another four years? Will we ever decide to register to Vote? Will the senseless fires on this campus end? Will we survive UMass? Will we be 'successful' in the world?

These are some of the questions I am sure that many of us ask ourselves, usually without an answer. How can we proceed without answers? I don't know. I do know that my "question" list is constantly growing. Should we question so much? I find that I can't help it, unless I blind myself to the world's reality. I hope that when we ask these questions that the answers or glimpses of the answers will help direct us in our decisions in life. No one knows all the answers, but at least we can question, no one can take away that right.

Dani Burgess is a Collegian columnist.

Collegian

Board of Editors

Editor in Chief Joel Myerson
Managing Editor Ray Beauchemin
Production Manager J.P. Shanahan
Business Manager Andrew May
Editorial Page Editor Joshua Meyer
News Editor Anne McCrory
Women's Issues Editor Michelle Hyde
Women's Issues Editor David Summersby
Arts Editor Doug Muise
Arts Editor Lisa Mosley
Black Affairs Editor Yadira Betances
Sports Editor Gerry deSimas
Photo Editor Drew Ogier

Associate Editors

Paul Belval, Tami Borton, Cris Schuster, Bill Shea, Bill Wall, Associate Managing Editors; Elizabeth Young Associate Business Manager; Brooke States, Bill Wall, Associate Editorial Page Editors; John O'Connell, Associate News Editor; Rita Murphy, Associate Women's Issues Editor; Rhonda Swan, Associate Black Affairs Editor; David Deuber, Associate Photo Editor; Ellen Richard, Associate Sports Editor; Marianne Walsh, Associate Production Manager.

Business Staff

Jeff Taylor, Advertising Manager; Eric Mann, Adrienne Newman Assistant Advertising Manager; Amy Krasilovsky, Michael Altneu, Finance Managers; Gerard Harvey, Circulation Manager.

Letters

Asbestos - groty to the max

To the Editor,

The recent asbestos articles in the Collegian have stirred a bit of paranoia around the campus.

Should we wear masks while strolling by the university store? Was the ceiling replaced in the southwest munchies coffee shop for visual effects? What was all that grey powder that covered the tables? If deadly asbestos fibers are spread through the Campus Center and other buildings, why weren't students warned? If we have been exposed to asbestos, don't we have the right to know?

Questions such as these are not cheerful ones to take home over intersession. Does someone have answers?

Tricia Hadley
Southwest

Bouncers bounce back

To the Editor,

In response to Dode Levenson's column of 12/15 we, the staff of the Blue Wall, would like to respond.

We are ready to accept constuctive criticism as this would be helpful to us in the completion of our tasks. But Mr. Levenson's unsubstantiated attack that we singled him out "for no apparent reason" and forced him to leave the bar is as groundless as is the rest of his column. His sweeping general statements lack any kind of fact that could make his column anything more than the wild ramblings of one bent on revenge. In short, Mr. Levenson's column makes good fiction but poor journalistic reportage.

One of the facts Mr. Levenson fails to point out is that he is under the legal drinking age in Massachusetts. He also fails to consider that we do not have to let such people in the bar. We do, however, because we believe we should serve all students and give them a place to enjoy themselves.

This policy, enacted by Campus Center Food Services, is a gamble and we are entrusted with the responsibility of insuring this policy doesn't backfire in the form of the loss of the bar's alcohol license. With the recent changes in the state's laws concerning alcohol we can be held liable not only for serving underage patrons, but also for any damages resulting in alcohol-related accidents.

We, "the elite," openly invite Mr. Levenson to put on his "slick black pants, pressed white shirt and that menacing black tie," and join us for a Friday night shift when 18-19 year olds are allowed inside. We can guarantee that by the end of the shift he will not be an "idealistic freshman" but an aware, conscientious and understanding student who will think twice about making statements not based on fact.

Blue Wall Supervisors and Staff

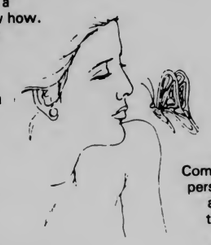
Great Gifts

Clothing Earrings
Stocking Stuffers
Posters Cards

Mugs Rugs Vases
Tree Ornaments
Crystals Calendars

Stuffed Animals Toys
Boxes, Tins, Mobiles, etc.
Candy Tea Tea Sets

SALE up to 30% OFF selected
Blouses, Skirts, Dresses
Sweaters, Jackets



Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM

THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS – GREAT PRICES

CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE
Today and Next Week

Hello gorgeous!

They say that making up is hard to do. But at Edie, we know that's not true. Applying makeup like a pro is easy, once you know how. That's why, when you buy Makeup or skincare products at Edie, we'll do more than just wrap them up – we'll show you exactly how to use them. And we guarantee that everything we sell you will be right for you.

Edie

At Discount Prices on Cosmetics, Fragrances and Beauty Supplies arriving
Dec. 15. 16. 19, 20, 21

Come try the personalized approach to beauty at Edie. And find out how easy it is to be beautiful.

Fine cosmetics, perfumes, toiletries and accessories. For men and women.

sponsored by
WMUA-FM

The Committee cordially invites you to a pre-back-to-school mixer for

WELLESLEY/U.MASS AMHERST

Tuesday, January 24, 1984

STUDIO 54
254 W. 54
New York City
Doors open 9:30pm

Complimentary admission for two until 10:30pm with this ad
After 10:30pm–$8 p.p.

Dress: Jackets required.

STUDIO 54
254 W 54
NYC 10019

clip this ad for admission
clip this ad for admission

Black Affairs

United we stand

By YADIRA BETANCES
and MARILYN BOU
Collegian Staff

As of today, the fall '83 semester is one step closer to being officially over. For many students and faculty members of the University of Massachusetts the end of the semester means relief from strenuous pressures like exams, professors, and the university itself.For the Third World community on the other hand, a semester full of struggles and frustrations lingers on.

It all started when on December 2, 1983 sister Yvette Henry was detained by police in connection with the rash of fires in Crampton Dormitory.

The Third World community is once again molested by that monsterous creature which has been haunting the lives of every Third World member --racism since their encounter with the white men.

This is the same creature "killed" by a law which promised "equal rights" blatantly exercised in America. This is also the creature envisioned in the minds of many as a ghost or sometimes a make-belief creature.

Racism is alive and well at the University, and Henry's is not the only case that can be cited.

The Third World community, even though it has been battling with this monster for quite some time, has over the years proven itself a united community. This past semester has proven how very true this bond of unity exists on this campus.

One subject which will be largely discussed over the holidays will be the fires on campus. For some it will be a thing of the past.

While the Third World community will not let this be a part of history. It must be a burning ember within our hearts.

As a result of being a united community, on January 26, 1984 at the Northampton District Court, we can take one step forward on actually killing that monster.

Editorial

There was a tremendous pressure to find someone to blame. And what better target than someone black and female?

Umass, being the state university of the commonwealth needed to save face nation wide to maintain its reputation as a good institution.

They then thought they had it made: phone calls from worried parents would stop and the fire would cease. But, they were wrong.

Stereotypes cleared

By JULIE BARALDI
Special to Black Affairs

"Puerto Rico? Sure, I know where that is. It's off the coast of Spain somewhere...Or is it down near Cuba?...I don't know. Where is Puerto Rico anyways?" one student answered.

Eighty students on campus were asked a few questions about the island of Puerto Rico and only 30 percent knew Puerto Rico is located between the southern tip of Florida and the northern coast of Venezuela. According to some of the UMass students polled, Puerto Rico is located somewhere betweeen the California coast and the Mediterranean Sea.

Although most knew Spanish was the island's native language, students polled did not know English is common in the capital city of San Juan, and is taught in all the school systems.

Only one person polled said Puerto Rico is a commonwealth which means Puerto Ricans have American citizenship, but are not entitled to vote in U.S. elections. Some students responded saying, "Puerto Rico is a territory of the U.S." or "We own them."

Many UMass students polled said Puerto Rico is a tropical island with beautiful beaches, warm weather, and many palm trees. Many said they did not realize that the island is extremely crowded and suffers from extreme poverty in some areas, and in other areas is similar to an American town or city.

Many students' responses discussed poverty and the lack of education.

"There are lots of oppressed women," said one student, "and the men are sometimes lazy."

It is obvious from reviewing the survey which described the native Puerto Rican as only having dark skin and dark eyes, with coarse black hair or as being short and skinny with a heavy accent, that very few students realize the Puerto Ricans are as diverse a people as Americans.

The melting pot concept so prevalent in American thought can also be applied to Puerto Rico. Spanish, Indian, African, as well as French, Lebanese, German, English, American, Irish and even Chinese contributed in making the Puerto Ricans a varied ethnic group rich in both art and culture.

FUNDING FOR INDIVIDUAL PROPOSALS

umass Arts council
545-0202

The deadline for the next UMass Arts Council funding period is Feb. 8, 1984. Applications may be picked up in Herter Hall 125, Monday through Friday, 9-5.

1984 FUNDING PERIODS

Period 3 Proposal deadline--2/8/84
Council vote--2/14/84

Period 4 Proposal deadline--3/30/84
Council vote--4/10/84

Period 5 Proposal deadline--4/30/84
Council vote--5/14/84
(for Sept. '84 events)

DELANO'S

our December Special
Twofer One Kronenbourg
Proper ID a Must
57 N. Pleasant St.
253-5141

Daisy's
Breakfasts, Lunches & Dinners.
Dinner at Daisy's

VEGETABLE PASTRY fresh vegetables sauteed, wrapped in swiss cheese and baked in a flakey pastry shell 5.95

NEW YORK SIRLOIN - 8 oz. and broiled to your liking 10.95

Served with parsleyed potatoes or rice pilaf, homemade poppy seed bread and salad. Plus 8 Other Delicious Entrees To Choose, At A Price You Can Afford!

AT THE LIGHTS IN NORTH AMHERST 549-6642
We're open 7 days a week 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

SPRING CATALOGS ARE IN

Pick up your copy at the Division of Continuing Education University Library

Dinner for Two Enjoy
any two entrees
with salad bar and a complimentary n/a beverage
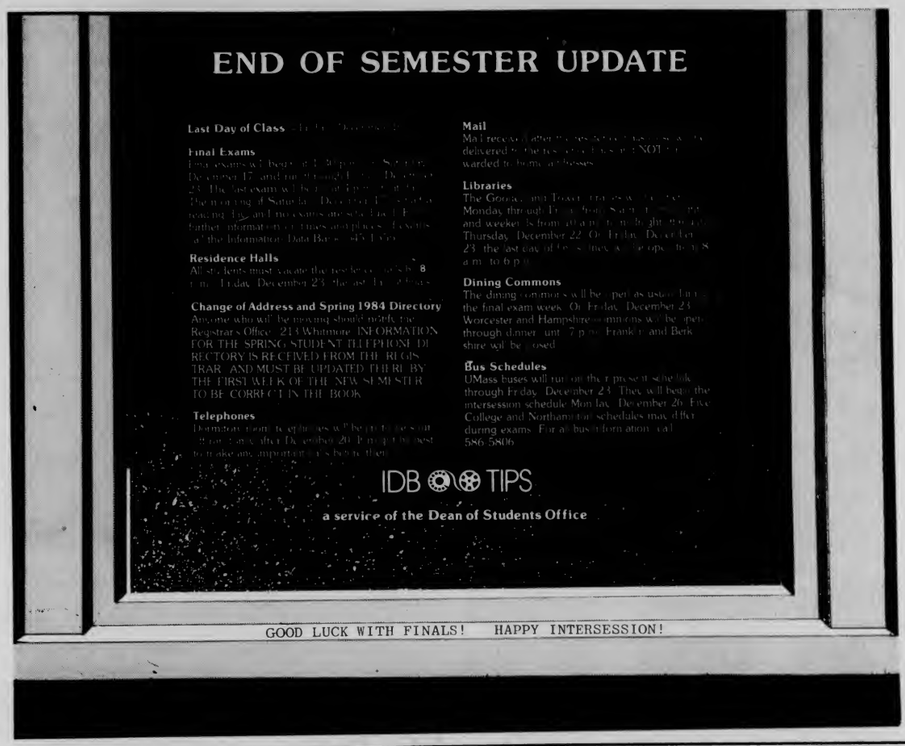
12.95
Every Friday

TOP of the CAMPUS

COMPUTERIZED BUY-BACK

CASH FOR BOOKS

ONLY AT THE TEXTBOOK ANNEX



Dec. 5- 9 9:00-4:00
DEC. 12-16 9:00-4:00
DEC. 19-22 9:00-4:00

I.D. REQUIRED

FAST • EFFICIENT • RELIABLE

These are some of the titles we are buying

Author	Title	We Are Paying
Rubin	Worlds of Pain	$4.25
Scanlon	Sixty-Five Two Software Design	$6.75
Schewe	Marketing	$12.50
Smith	Food for Sport	$3.50
Stanford	Management Policy	$13.00
Streetman	Solid State Electronic Devices	$17.00
Womacott	Intro. to Microeconomics 2/e	$9.50
Morrison	Organic Chemistry 4/e	$18.00
Kaufman	Financial Institutions. . .	$12.50
Graebner	American Record Vol. I	$5.00
Gordon	American Family in Socio-Hist Persp 3/e	$6.50
Royer	Educational Psych '84	$11.00
Goldfeld	Economics of Money and Banking 8th/e	$13.00
Berman	Retail Management 2/e	$14.00

HOW TO SERVE A BUFFALO.

INTRODUCING CALGARY CANADIAN BEER.

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
Study Break!
TODAY
With... CLIFF MYERS
3-6 P.M.
(Last HAPPY HOUR of the Semester!)

RENT ONE OF OURS
Car • Truck • Van
North Amherst Motors
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00*
(with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 12/31/83
Please Call for an Appointment
*For new clients only
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Styles by Deborah
56 University Drive
Amherst MA/549-5610

TIRES
A-78-13 $32.00
Polyester
Blackwalls

	PRICE
E60-12	37.00
P-155 60D-13	34.00
A78-13	32.00
B78-13	34.00
C78-14	36.00
E78-14	38.00
F78-14	39.00
G78-14	42.00
H78-14	45.00
600-L15	38.00
G78-15	42.00
H78-15	45.00
L78-15	48.00

Plus F.E.T. 1.42 to 2.78 per tire. Prices include mounting & trade-in, white-walls 2.50 per tire additional.
10% Off Address OR 5% Off Address
Additional with a CASH purchase of a set of 4 tires with this ad
Additional with a CHARGE of a set of 4 tires with your MC-VISA-AX with this ad
MASS APPROVED INSPECTION STATION
MICHELIN TIRES SPECIALLY PRICED
North Amherst Tire & Auto Center
FULL SERVICE TIRE STORE
78 Sunderland Rd.
No. Amherst, MA across from Wetroba's Store
549-4704

Scott's TREE FARM
Sunderland, MA
take Rt. 47
to 252 Hadley Rd.
Christmas Trees
Balsam Fir $12.
Scotch Pine $14.
Wreaths $4.
665-4791

OOPS!
Now's the time to call
North Amherst Motors
Expert repairs & reconditioning.
Rt. 63, No Amherst
549-2880

Your Typewriter and Calculator need a Holiday cleaning!
Drop them off at Pioneer Valley Data Equipment, Inc.
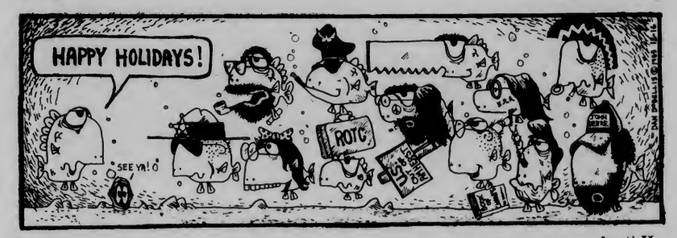
for cleaning and repairs
They'll be ready
after intersession
259 TRIANGLE ST. AMHERST, MA 01002
CINDY FOURNIER 413-549-1017



GIFTS
Hats, Gloves, Socks & Scarves
Active Wear for women & men
by Boston Traders & Lee
The itty bitty book light
Ornaments
Wood
Brass
Glass
Ceramic
Ted D Bear
SUNDAY 12-5
Pasta
DEEP DISH PIZZA PAN
WOK
Marble Rolling Pins • Coffee Makers • Mugs
Espresso Pots • Vacuum Jugs • Tea Kettles
Pasta Makers & Pizza Accessories • Baskets
a complete assortment of bar accessories
Kitchen & Bar
Gift Boxed Glass Ware
Champagne
Brandy • Pilsner • Wine
The Soap Cart
bubblebaths • moisturizers
soaps • soaps for kids
loofahs • brushes • sponges
sachets
Toys to Stuff your Stockings
Rubber Duckies
Windup Toys • Puzzles
Kaleidoscopes • Kazoos
Maze Books and
Stocking Stuffers Galore
Plush Animals
Big Bears, Little Bears, Seals, Lions, Monkees
Hairbands Jewelry Cosmetics Unique Accessories
Mon-Fri 'til 9 Sat 'til 6
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
VISA
Downtown Amherst

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH
UMASS SKI CLUB
SUGARBUSH VALLEY
SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22-27
YOU NEED A VACATION
SIGN-UP NOW
Last Chance Deadline sign-up Dec. 16
TABLES Wed-Fri Dec 14-16
IN FRONT OF THE HATCH

Bloom County by Berke Breathed

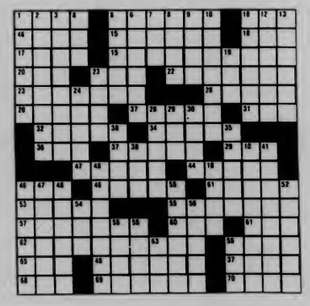
Scrod by Dan DeBellis

Superbad by G.H.

After The Fall by R. Miller

Wilson Low by C.C. McFly

Quentin by Mark MacKenzie



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1983 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Arabian Sea gulf
5 Actress Blake of "Gunsmoke"
11 Right off the ——
14 Hoarfrost
15 Impressionist painter
16 Baseball stat.
17 Among
18 City slicker, to a cowboy
20 Popular game
21 Wild ox of Tibet
22 Endless
23 Term in billiards
25 —— Coeur, Paris landmark
26 Forty-——
27 Racing vessel
31 Fatigues, for short
32 Moment in the theater
34 Barbecue
36 "Leave —— to Heaven"
37 —— Bill of the Old West
39 Type of curve
42 Emulated Smiley
44 ——-cochere, large entrance
46 Patriotic gp.
49 Parts of a Texas spread
51 Small amounts of liquid
53 Cowpokes' transportation?
55 Indigenous
57 Kindled
60 Romaine lettuce
61 Popular at a luau
62 Western personage
64 Mother of Apollo
65 Collection of table talk
66 Moving parts of a motor
67 Tennis term
68 Exclamation of surprise
69 Member of a Palestinian sect
70 Mos.

DOWN
1 Catherine of ——
2 Make smaller
3 Distinction
4 Old uncle ——, of song
5 Moroccan weights
6 In a gentle manner
7 Massachusetts cape
8 Predicament
9 Formal assembly
10 Nips in the bud
11 Mustang
12 Ready to sail
13 Property rights
19 Brother
21 Tale
24 Partly provender
28 —— Triomphe
29 Bill's partner
30 Fastener
33 Majestic
35 —— Haute, Ind.
36 Poetic "always"
40 Disaster on the range
41 Symbolistic
43 Herd's place
45 Probability
46 Certain bandages
47 City north of Fort Dodge, Iowa
48 Airstrip
50 Discriminate in thought
52 Descendants
54 Swindle: Slang
56 Scandinavian
58 Slaughter of baseball
59 Certain papers: Abbr.
63 Cultivate
64 Teenager

COLLEGIAN GRAPHICS

Well we made it. I never thought this semester would end but it did. I want to thank all of you who rose to the occasion when things looked bleak.

Kalo and Joyce you really put out; no wonder you're in production. It's just too bad that you'll be leaving.

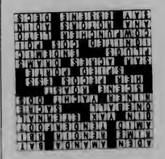
Thank you all and good night! (Can you believe I'm writing this at 2:30 in the $&%970* mourning?)

J.P. Shanahan

DC Menu

LUNCH
Chicken Cheese Puffs
Spanish Shrimp and Rice Casserole

BASICS LUNCH
Garbanzo Vegetable Bake
Chicken Cheese Puffs



DINNER
Savory Beef Strudel/ Mushroom Sauce
Baked Fish with Herb Crumb Topping

BASICS DINNER
Vegetable Squares/Light Mushroom Sauce
Baked Fish with Herb Crumb Topping

Weather

Today, partly sunny, highs in the 40s to near 50 along the coast. Tonight, fair and colder, lows in the 20s except in the teens in the western hills and around 30 along the coast. Saturday, sunny, highs in the lower 30s to lower 40s.

Todays puzzle answer

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

AAAH!

This is it. It's been fun; it's been shitty; but now it's done and things are just titty. Lotsa luck with the paper next semester. Ray

AMHERST JOURNALISM REVIEW

Announcing the winner of the Amherst Journalism Review's First Annual "Roommete of the Year Award"!--Tomi B.
(but don't expect too big a check) the committee would like to thank all those who tried out this year, and reminds all new entrants to have their application in before finals.
Kerr'end M.B. -- Have a Merry Christmas and an abnormal New Year - Paul

ANNE, MAUREEN, & KATHIE IN CASHIN

Just thought I'd wish you a very Merry Christmas and an excellent New Year! We'll have to go out during Intersession! Love, Renny

ARE THEY BORED?

EXCITE THEM with genuine Bausch and Lomb Raybans this holiday. Call Bruce 549-2879

AUNTIE PORTLY

How's Doug? Break any tables lately? What's up with Rosemary? No more cake, 5 pieces is enough! The Yahoo Girls! One will never be the same. Love, Renny

AUTO FOR SALE

71 VW Bug 80,000 miles. No rust, heater works. Excellent mech. condition, must be seen. $1250 253-7396

1973 Saab good condition many new parts must sell $950 or BO call 665-4801

68 Plymouth Fury dependable $450.00 546-3218

73 Comet - 77k mi, stereo, great condition. Call Rick, 549-3679

Pontiac Catalina 1972 runs well, lots left $350 Jim 773-3998 late morning

1974 AMC Hornet body is in mint condition runs excellent AC AM/FM $1000.00 253-3568

1985 Plymouth Veliant rebuilt motor good condition $500 Jeff evenings

BIG GUY

Yes its me again (see Stud) I wish to extend a warm greeting to all my women friends and a special thanks to Glen my EUNUCH! 5466689 Andrew!

BIKE IN FLORIDA

UMass Bicycle Club's January Florida junket is in the making: for information call Frank Olbris @ 545-2778 or come to the club meeting Wednesday evening (see CC meeting sheet for time and place).

BOSSES

What a difference a dey makes, 1 day associates, next the bosses! Thanks for putting up with my jokes, moods, drinks, etc. We did the best job ever; you 2 are to blame. Michelle, viva la France, David, viva la Collegian. Thanks for the memories, stories, the W-Team shall live on forever. Rita M

CATHY "THE GOOB"

Yes, we are going to miss your sick sense of humor, be happy (in other words stay w/Nick) and that'll be 50 cents (and a note from your mother!) Yahooo! Love your great workers, Andrea & Goobski!

COLLEGIAN BORED OF EDITORS

It's been fun,
It's been shitty-,
But now it's done,
And things are just titty.
I'll miss Andy's notes,
And abstaining from votes-,
So Goodbye, Joel, James, Lisa, and Doug,
Gerry, Anne, Josh, Michelle and Dave,
Yadira, I owe y'all a hug.
(poems are a drag when they rhyme, eh?)

COLLEGIAN BUSINESS TYPES

Heppy Holidays to the best business staff at UMass!! And now, a few words from our sponsor. . .Do any of you understand what "Double-Cash" means? Is there anything else I can get for you Andy? Hey Liz, get a clue! Front counter - I can't understand this message! Jim, Maureen, Cathy, thanks for all the help. Amy, when are office hours? Take care everyone, Mike

CRIS

Heve a great holiday in Arizone, see you in January. In case I forget (which is impossible), have a great birthday. Looking forward to more lunches and hearing about the mail. Cathy

CHRISTMAS TREES

Balsam Firs, Scotch Pines 4-6 ft $12-14 252 Hadley Rd Sunderland 665-4791

CLUELESS

Yes, that's you Mary-Beth! Have an awesome birthday, we love ya Lisa & Shari

DAVE, PAT, CHRIS & JEFF

I hope you all have heppy holidays and a great, relaxing Intersession! Johanna

DAVID NAHOR

Heppy Birthdey! Have a "great" day and celebrate lots!

DEBBIE

Heppy Birthdey me cherie, happy 19th, I love you, Chris

DUSTBUNNY

3 in the Flet, 3 in the bed Thanks for all the late night pizzas, where-to talks, Sesame Street routines, and all the other good times. Good luck in California. Hurry up and come back before the wax dries! We'll miss you. Love always, the mature WOMEN Dustbunnies

6-EAST DICKINSON

6-East Dickinson---(also the walk-ons, Pam, Tim, Beaver, and Tom) Happy Holidays and good luck on finals. Have a great Intersession. See ya in January - Mike and Pat (Let's go Knicks!!)

ENTERTAINMENT

Rockadisc Entertainment Agency Inc. Discjockeys and bands from dorm parties to major concerts guaranteed 256-0739

3rd FLOOR BROOKS

Heppy Holidays! Good Luck on finals and have a great intersession. Love, Adrienne

FOR RENT

Room available begin Jen or Feb 2 mi. past Rolling Green bus rt 253-3517

Puffton Villege one bedroom apartment available for Intersession 549-7864 call now

2 bedroom apt in duplex house Sunderland on bus route 665-7148

Femele needed to shere a room in N. Amherst during intersession. $120.00 includes utilities. Call Marj 549-0813 11:30 pm - 1:00 am

Two large rooms evelleble for spring semester in house in Sunderland. One minute from bus stop. 665-2512

FOR SALE

ATTENTION Women's Shoes Cheep Top name running shoes $12. Leather jazz shoes $10. Fashion shoes & boots $10-$12. If interested please call 549-0533 Mon 5-7 PM & Thurs 3-5 PM only

Portable Panasonic AM/FM stereo cassette recorder. Model RX5030. $100 call 546-6302

Need X-mes presents? Alpaca sweaters at low prices call eves 253-9494

Bike for sale 1981 Puch Pathfinder, 10 speed, 25" frame excellent condition $155.00 or BO call Mike 256-1347

Dresser, 3 draws call Ann 549-0505

2 new 13 in. rediels $35 Jim 773-3998 late morning

Ski Boots - Nordice women's size 8. Call Petti wkdys 5-0616, eves 586-2949

Aider Menuel Typewriter excellent condition. Must sell, make an offer call Lisa 617-867-7189 after 7:00 PM

Smith Corone electric typewriter like new w/case. $70 or BO 6-5982

Just the car you've been looking for! 1972 VW Super Beetle, runs well, good cond. snow tires, tools. $900 call Alexis 549-4600 x317 lee. mess.

FRONT COUNTER STAFF

I want to thank you all for a pretty good semester, (this inlcudes Gail, Johanna, Andrea and Jennifer). Have a good holiday and relaxing break to prepare for next semester's work. Cathy PS Andrea---I hope you're not as shy and quiet next semester!!

GOOBER-RASINET

Thanks for all the xtra help this semester. Gonna miss you if you don't come back to us next semester, but remember: late, late night calls, I'm gonna sell you, and of course it could only happen to Jennifer Sacconel!

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Merry X-mes and a happy new year to my good friends Jim, Dan, Maura, Kara, Brian and Barbara. I wish the rest of 7S an excellent holiday. . .I love Jill

HELP WANTED

Full & Part-time student advocates for Wintersession & Spring semester at Commuter Area Gov't. Organizational, leadership & writing skills needed. Apply 404 SUB 545-2145 deadline 12/16 AA/EEO

Experienced reliable childcare sought for 4 yr old car needed call 253-3162

Could you teke care of my kitten over Intersession? Starting 12/23 will pay Jody 546-4349

HEY LAURIE

Laurie "It's my birthday! Maybe I like it alright!"

I NEED A ROOM

Clean/neat senior femele seeking a room in an apt. or private home for spring semester. . .preferably close to campus. Carol 546-4803

JASON

I went for you should heve congrats on your bar-mitzvar such expensive pastry Love Jenny Honey

JENNIFER SACCONE

Jenn, it's been great working with you! We'll have to go shopping in Boston, Yahoo for Boston, Charlestown, and South Boston. Keep in touch guess who?!?

18 JOHN ADAMS

18 John Ademe Happy Holidays and good luck on finals! A special congratulations to Rick - knock em dead out there! Love, Liz

KING KRETIN

(also B.P.A.) - Blue Wail, T.O., etc. won't be the same without you. UMass will be "lame"! I'll miss ya! - Guess Who?!?

KJP

The little Canedien boy in the Dairy Queen: Thanks for adding pizzazz to a drab semester. Meet me in the Alps and we'll type papers and learn dirty French words. You are so special. Michelle

LBE

'Come on girl, rock your boy'? Oooh. That almost sounds obscene - but we know better, eh? It's more like 'rolling like thunder, under the covers' and I'm sure that's why they call it the blues! Here's hoping that the miles don't separate a wonderful pair of aces - Love ya, RMB

LIKE YO, DAY GRAPHICS

Goodbye, Good Luck, Take Care, Take it Easy, Keep Calm, Keep the Faith, Stay Warm, Stay Dry, and other motherly advice. The Boss

LOST

A pair of glesses in a soft blue case please call 549-5811

In Boyden perking lot Sat night Dec 10 women's tweed blazer. Reward if returned. Call Annette 549-2638

Round glasses & brown case Dec 12 on campus call 256-6849

Dorm key loet at Bongos on Broadwey ticket key chain reward 546-5195

Reward for the return of "Nastasha" 5 month old calico white, grey, tan kitten green collar with bells. Lost 12/10 East Pleasant Street/Chesnut St area call anytime 549-3535

Red ski ticket lost 12/10 if found please contact Kristen 546-8507

MALE ROOMMATE WANTED

Mill Hollow Apts for Intersession and or spring semester. On bus line 549-3967

MER, YOU SEX BOMB

Hey, didn't think I would, huh? Get ready for next semester in Noho - it's gonna be wild! Luv Liza

PERSONALS

 College Spring Break ******
 * Round Trip Jet Flight or Deluxe * ***
 * Motor Coach Transportetion * ***
 * ocesn front accommodation7 night * ***
 * Welcome Party with FREE BEER * ***
 Meke reservetione Now and Sevs $20 ***
 * Check out our teble in the * ***
 * CC Concourse or call 546-5422 * ***
 D*A*Y*T*O*N*A  B*E*A*C*H *****

The Collegien will be printing a weekly edition on Thursdays during Intersession. The Collegian Office will be open during January, Mon-Fri, to sell display and classified advertising.

Spring Semester Housing. Any women interested in boarding at a local sorority in the spring semester. Call 545-0627 for more info.

To the lust of my life Happy Graduation and Merry Christmas Love Rita XXOO

Doug - Thanks for an interesting and exciting semester things aren't the same w/o you love Jodi

Barb - Thanks for making this the best semester yet. Men with binoculars can only wonder how lucky I am! I can't wait to have intersession with you. I need it bad! Love, Doug

To the H-women Shiri end Deb. Thanks for everything this semester especially for giving me somewhere to live. I can't even walk down the stairs without laughing! I'm looking forword to the only weekend we heve to spend together this semester (no sarcesm!) from the confirmed non H-women Dlane - you're not an H-women either!

Hey Michelle we did it. can you believe it is over. It is time to get obliviated. Please don't spill any more drinks. Rita and I will miss you. Me especially, now I am the only one to get picked on. Go wild en Francais. What is feminism? Don't know but it's for men too. D Kirkwood Summersby

David. .Oh David. . .What?! Jesus Rita will you stop bothering me. . .no seriously, Rita you were the glue that held us all together and we never would of pulled through without you. You deserve that drink. D. Kirkwood Summersby

PJF Heppy Birthday!!! Terrier en celebrate! H.T.'s ice cubles, champagne and D.B.II Much love, little cuj

Dickineon Dorm Security - Lynne, Heather, Mary, Dave, Missy, Deanna, Wendy, Joan, and Carla --- Happy Holidays. Thanks for all your hard work this semester. Good luck on finals --- Mike Reuven is e wimp for not running in the election. What's the matter, your ego can't take it!! PS Reuven, Quiet Hours. . .Damn it!

M'el Even though you're moving - we're still sisters (FMITB) & best budies, so let's stay that way next semester! Love, Dijon

Happy Birthday Pat a month early Jan 18 I love you Dianne

Warning - A blue Deluder, the weed lady, a speed biter, the purple paintslinger, and a snapkicker will all be loose New Years Eve - the Vilest Member

Bouf kill those finals & live it up over Intersession, oh yeah . . .Happy Bday too - BJB

Yo, Grossie Here's your personal, Dude. Good luck with finals, get psyched for snow. Love, D

Heyl David Have a great January! Love, those H.Q.S on 18

Beverly - I guess our times together are coming to an end, but remember its a small world, don't be surprised if I see you on some unexpected dessert in the Mideast this summer. Thanks for all your enthusiasm and thoughtfulness. I'll always have you on my mind, your fantastic. Love, Joel PS Good luck on your exams

Chuck, What the. . .? Life's a bitch than you move to N.H. Psssyched remember. . .I'll miss you Chuck

Dearest Jesssehice: Thank you so much for letting me share a part of your life. I love you very much. Your Hello Kitty

Mother-Jin: Go for the dean's list. Your brother Dave

Three short Moore House, SWAG, and fellow SGA crazies - Happy Holidays - Bill

Feil 83 - HK, Toole, JC, JK, Slime - leave my door alone. 22ed quiet, conform no way. Philly and lack of study? So much to remember its a blur - women's soccer - you guys are a lot of fun - to all Merry Christmas and watch out for bikers. GGD

Thenx Mery for the help in JS. Happy Holidays.

The Big H looking for short unathletic women with lots of shoes

Happy Birthday Spanky!! Sweet dreams are made of these Love you much POOPIE

Anyone from Long Island going on the Sugarbush Ski Trip? Looking for car pool--- call 6-8978

Dskin - Tennis in January? My lob is getting stronger - watch out! H

DJ's FOR LESS - less because they don't show up! Contact Paul Friedman

The Sisters of AXO would like to extend warm congratulations to Karen Kochanek on her pinning to Bob Barrett of Lambda Chi Alpha. Hugs and kisses from all of us!

Lisa G. Look your very own personal! Thanx for everything and that's alot!!! Take care and tell Bob he's wrong - See ya! Debi

Bob You're wrong and you know it but have a good intersession anyway

Thanks to all women's issues reporters great job!!! Michelle, Rita, David

Arty & Elsine Merry Christmas as a newly engaged couple! Luv Elise

Grandma Suey Thanks for having a great family! Happy Holidays! Love your oldest namesake Sue PS Long live Tequila!!

Simon - Thanks for the memories, thanks for the laughs, thanks for the ride

Pentagon: We have been together through thick and thin. Love you all. Jacqui

Scendel, Tonite we drink to losers, after that we drink to us. Love, Sue

Eric K. - Happy early 19th Birthday! Have a great X-mas break! Love, Robin

Bo, Jacklyn, Jacklyn - To three wild women I'd be lost without. Here's to good times, good sex without being sluts (because we don't know their. . .) May we always be happy and enjoy life as much as we do now. Love Christie

Members of SAFA - Congratulations on another successful semester! Have a happy holiday and enjoyable vacation. Love Cindy

Hey Cok-a-holic and Amherst Amazon: Thanks for making the fall of 83 the best semester ever! Good luck on finals you dogfaces! Love, the clean machine

David, I want to thank you for making the past ten months together, the happiest. I Look forward to everyday and seeing you. We'll ring in the new year. Love you kiddo, Melissa XOXO

To all Collegian Columnists - Good job, great work! What would have happened if we hadn't been here? All hell might have broken loose (or is it the other way around?) Anyway, have a great intersession, and write lots of columns so we can cause even more trouble next semester! Don't do anything I wouldn't do over break - I need ya'll come February.
Josh

Christopher - Looks like we're going to make it through the "Third-year-doubts"! I knew we could do it! I love you more than ever - I'd even go through another gnarly year - if i could do it with you! Love always, Karen

To the Collegian Board of Editors:
Ray - Does it snow much in Holyoke?
Jim-You've done a great job as always. Andy-filled my shoes well!
Josh-It's fun to be in the middle, huh?
Anne-Fantastic job for a cheerleader!
Michelle-Bonne chance.
Dave-It took guts. Very impressive.
Doug-Good luck in the real world.
Lisa-Ya gotta have arts. Keep it up.
Yadira-Good job, especially alone.
Gerry-Consistently excellent.
Drew-Nice pics, as usual.
Looking forward to Sat night. Welcome to the Board, Bill. It should be a good spring. Watch out Holyoke and France! Joel

To the Collegian anchors. Jim, Maureen, Cathy and Faye. You led us through another semester. This place would crumble without the stability you provide. Thank you. Joel

Cherlene Sorry to see you go but I'll see you again next year. Good luck and have a good vacation. We'll miss you on the sixth take it easy Love Adam Mercel, Just wanted you to know that your personal was indeed personal - I read it before anyone else did, including the printer! Thanx for the mistletoe - when can we test it out? ?. . .if you don't know by now. . .never mind!

Brenda -- Are you alive? Hope the semester went well for you. Get psyched for a memorable spring ('they're always the best) and Merry Christmas! - St angel from

To Jodi and Kelly - You guys deserve something for putting up with a lazy, high and yes, neurotic roomie this semester. But it's almost over! Here's to a great spring --Anne

Rey - It was hard, it was long, it was tough, it was crazy--but we made it! Congrats and good luck - Pebbles Joel-just wait and wonder

Here we go, Collegian staff - to a wild news staff and wilder associate (good luck in Greenfield!), much needed breaks in the darkroom (thanks Drew), Paul - you ended things on an ambiguous note(!) but you were great; Ken - you weren't but at least my slang improved and Mary - next semester is a new one. Good luck Tami and Bill - Collegian grads! Happy Holidays to all! News Ed

Herolyn - You finally made it nine semesters on the sixth floor wow! Congratulations and good luck always take care Love Adam

Dear Tricia and Erin: Hope you had as much fun as we did Tuesday night. It gave us an excuse to wash our sheets. Love, the guys of 902

Teresa McCarthy Happy Graduation! We horrified UMass. . .Boston is not! Thanks for making this semester the best! Love you, Jules

Holly, Beth Schebowski Happy Birthday kiddo! At least now you won't have to be row an ID for the Hanger. Love the Westfield girls!!

From Russian Lover who are you swf?

Portugue, I promise, promise not to fall asleep in front of your fireplace! Merry Xmas Love Woof

Abby You are a great friend Happy Birthday! Paula

GVB I'll have a blue Christmas without you love PMR

Jennifer, from cheese doodles, to songs out window, unknown phone calls, "eye lash", Larry 1 and 2, "cuddling", "uh-oh", pretty, nice, Melissa & John, good know how to drive, Kip's burps, macho R.H, weather, Tom Collins, Mazda RX-7, strange metro, - amazing pizza, to a million others. I'll miss you so much next semester! I love you, Ann

Jen. Ellen, Sue, Michelle, Amy, Karen, Randi, Liz, & Mikey & Company, Thanks for such great times! I'll miss you all next semester! Love, Ann

Good Luck next semester: JA House staff, P.S.E.S., KKY, beloved UMMB members, and all my other UMass budies. if you're in DC stop by Happy Holidays! See you Fall 84 Michael J. Rosenthal

Chris Surprise! Smiling about you always. Love Leslee

To all may the coming year bring great things for you! Best Wishes Buck

To all Clubhouse members, etc, etc, Remember - one year leads to another - lets party like its 1999 Sat nite at my place! If you can't come have a great intersession and plen a road trip to NY next semester -hint, hint. Love, Laurie

Rabbit, Rand end others on JA 8 - Thanx for the extra push. ? This semester, 3.5 next. Snow

Lauren C. Yipee ya hoo & congratulations. You finally made it! No more sitting on your head. I'll miss you next semester. Friends Forever - Jodi

To the hooded werrior - another warning for boy gorgeous: have a great Christmas. Ja Security

Laurie - Happy Birthday! (early) how old are you going to be? Happy Graduation! Happy apartment looking! Hope you find your way in the big apple without me there - it could be trouble I'll miss you. Save me a place for next year. Love ya - Marsha

To 10th floor JQA: All of you are the greatest! Thanx for a great semester, look forward to more. Love, Peter

Idalyn and Ellen - It's official! Michael Jackson

Thom finally you got one happy six love you Killer Lamb

To the members of 2H and 2E, I love you all, you have made school very memorable and above all fun! Please plan on a visit to the Big Apple next semester, OK! Be good, I know, you're always good! Love, Laurie, Fenway, Bucket, Lauretta, etc. . .

Mr Menzon we have to stop not meeting like this!!

For Students Chi Rho House welcomes applications from single grad or undergraduate students seeking Christian living environment call 549-3596

Stacey Happy B-day to the best roomy Thanx for making this past year bearable I love ya Lisa

Rick (Beest) Good luck in the future come back and visit. The Budmen will carry on. Chris & Gary

Shwinkie I'll miss you and ssstuff 'em see we'll soon love ya Shwinkie

Staff Box: Laurie "Bucko" Frank, Marsha "it's official" Wilcon, Gail "Grafix" Tanzer, Lynn "Blueberry" Eisenberg, Martha "No Eat" Connors, Neil "doesn't eat either" Rhein, Joy "happy humidifier" McCarty, Mark "time to work" Roden, Dave "in a flash" Rath, Faye "honorary Bucko" Whitney-Lussier. It's been real. Love the graduating seniors.

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, ceses, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

PUNX UNITE

From San Francisco, CA, Crucifix, Outpatients, CIA, Dec 17 5 PM Grange in Greenfield! Alleges more info 6-6262

RAY B.

We've had our differences (boy have we had our differences) but I really want to wish you the best of luck. Let's put the past in the past. Rita PS I hope you find it someday

$50 REWARD

$50 reward for return of long black coat lost in Botany Department of Morrill no questions asked call Cathy at 6-2204 or leave coat at Botany Office by noon Friday to pick up $

RIDE WANTED

To New York/North Jersey Area Dec 21 afternoon call Karen 6 - 9534.

One women and luggage (not a lot) need a ride to New Jersey on Tue 12-20 / after 4 pm on Wed 12/21 anytime will help pay gas. Jill 6-7277

ROBERT REDFORD

You made it sophomore! Gonna miss you in Boston Merry and Happy Oregon love from 29 R'Affaire St - Beacon Hill

RONNY

Thanks for e speciel friendship, you've made all the difference in my semester love Sue-Z-Q

ROOM WANTED

Responsible adult looking for single room to rent in or around Amherst please! Call Amy 584-2814

2 responsible non-smoking students looking for quiet apt call Rob 545-0182 Rich 549-1816

Single room needed in house or apt call Rose 665-7930

Intersession room needed for 1 female desperate!!! call 546-6758 or 256-0347 leave message

ROOMMATE WANTED

Femele to shere room in Brittany starting January. Quiet Student preferred. Call Beverly 256-1335

Roommete wented to share rm w/1 other F in 2 br Twnhse apts call 549-4585

Townehouse femele roommete wented for Spring take over lease Jan 1 call 549-7690

Apt mete wented, own bedroom Presidential Apts. 150/month + util. 549-0686

Male Roommete wanted to share Southwood Townhouse apt 256-0069 Rob.

2 femele (nonsmoking) roommetes wanted for spring in Brandywine call 549-3992

Rolling Green - lg bedroom [illegible] townhouse. Avail Jan 1 or [illegible] AC, pool $143.75, inclusive call [illegible]

male roommate wanted to [illegible] Brittany Manor apt spring [illegible] call 256-2298

1 or 2 females for a house[illegible] for 4. On campus: $300. or $225 [illegible] and phone respectively 549-0221, 54[illegible]

Female roommate wanted st[illegible]an or Feb rent 85/mo + util Lan[illegible] Court Sunderland 665-4148 or 256-0051 [illegible]y!

Roommate wanted Southwood $116 + mo start anytime Gary or Ed 256-0051

SERVICES

TYPING fast professional. Stats, manuscripts, correspondence, dissertations, theses, etc. 665-3414 anytime

Professional Typing 253-9582 after 3 p.m. M - F Anytime weekends.

Typing special $1.00 page - single space $.50 page - double space pickup & delivery avail. 413-772-0694

SHARI FELDMAN

Happy Chenukeh Shari, and we all really mean it! Love, the third floor

SONDRA SOBERS

To the best roommate ever! [illegible] HOxo auntie? Holiday! Can I [illegible] sip? Only 5 more days, that 120 hours one will never be the same! Love Gail

STACEY LEVINE

Here's your birthday personal a little bit early! Happy 20th! Have a good break! Love, Robin & Sue!

STUD

I would like to take this opportunity to wish the university and its student body a very Merry Christmas!! Your enduring friend Andrew 5466689!

THE ROOMMATES

Tracy - Happy Hanukah Maura - Merry Xmas and to both a happy new year try to make it through 84 without killing each other Rita PS Muchas Gracias

TO 805 BROWN

Hey you guys, I'll miss you!!! Have a great vacation and a fun semester. Joyeux Noel. XOXO Michelle

TO SUBLET

1 3 People for Jan in Duplex in Northampton. Cellery, 720 + cal. Steve 584-0[illegible]

Amherst CTR 1 Room Avail in a 5 room apt starting Feb. Call 253-5296.

2 bedrm Colonial Apt to sublet Jan 1 -Sept 1 253-9288

Privete room completely furnished for Intersession asking 100+ (negotiable) Pete 549-7612

WANTED

Buying Class Rings, Gold and Silver Jewelry, Coins. Daniel Smith, 25 North Pleasant, Amherst, 256-0710

WANTED TO RENT

2 bedrooms in 4 bedroom apt available Jan-Aug Craig or Rory 256-0089

2 bedroom apt in Amherst call evenings leave message 584-4308

YAHOO

Meryenne, Peule, Petty, Cerol, Susan, Jeen, Josnne, snd Donns. Heve a very Merry Christmas and an excellent New Year! Keep in touch over January. Love Renny

ABOVE ALL, Annie, understand this time together meant a lot. Last night may have been the last for a while but feelings don't change much, you'll always be special. Me.

Dickinson 6-East. Thanx for the laughs and the headaches. You're all a great group of people despite the sports in the hallway and the water fights late at night. HAVE A SUPER Intersession. Love, Cris

Hey, 4th floor Webster, Have a good Holiday 'n' shit, It's been a "decent" semester. And all the "wild" partiers on 2-west. Don't go too too wild over intersession. See you all (even you Lizard) on New Year's eve in good ol' NYC. From your buddy in 219 and Joanne.

Bubbles, Janet, Spunky and Andy (A.J.) Gordon -- Have a great intersession. Doug, good luck on your internship. I'll miss you all. Take care Love, Rocky.

Elizabeth - (this is the first and last time I'll call you that). [illegible] put up with 3 semesters of bull [illegible]me and you've been the best room[illegible]ver. (Who am I gonna pick on next [illegible]ter??) Congrats (a bit early but I'm confident) on your Kappa-ship. All the [illegible]ck and wish Love, Martha.

CATHY - Thanks f[illegible] curiousity about my mail, the suppor[illegible] problems and the humor to keep [illegible]ughing through the semester. Let's [illegible]Gino's sometime soon, huh? Merry [illegible]mas and have a great intersession! [illegible] Cris

SPORTS STAFF -- [illegible]anx for a great semester. It was fu[illegible]reat job, Ellen. Glad to work with [illegible] Bill. Good luck Thanx for the supe[illegible] Jim and Dan. Have a great holiday [illegible] and I'll see you in the spring. -- Ger[illegible]

Barbara, or Misty, [illegible]ow who you are and if you don't...n[illegible]mind? There are advantages to seeing personals before (and after) they're in the paper. Check it out: I got the last [illegible]on (say what?) Anyway...just show me the way to that mistletoe. And make sure it's hanging in the right place. Ooooh. Love ya, Marcel.

Susan "Dancing Machine" Lynch and Mary Anne "Scoop" Boen are not advocates of tempera[illegible]

Even the Collegian [illegible]bician can pass this game: Vasch[illegible]glagool, Anne McCrory, BTS parties notwithstanding, and for Mimsi Sue. [illegible]ays knew, send me sorority news from Barthelona, Dough and Lisa, November group, the 12, and Aqua Net rule: MBean - really no intimidation intended! Will, don't die wondering; Ellen, we'll go live bands next time...MERRY CHRISTMAS!

To my good friends on 6 East and my pals at the Blue Wall: Miss you too! Good luck on finals! See ya next year! Love, Dode.

Chris Habel: Care to join me in a 7&7? Love, Annie

ZZZZ!

Don't think I wouldn't get the last word!
Moleman: Couldn't have served a better editor
Nosebleed: 'Try it, you'll like it.' Hmmmm
Pebbles: I'll miss ya kid. Love, BamBam
J.P.: Who would [illegible] thought the hollies'd line up?
Mr. May: Follow th[illegible] steps.
Bag: Good luck to ya[illegible] loves you.
Roomie: Larry loves [illegible]d so do I
Mademoisolle: Ecriv[illegible]s'll you pls
Kirkwood: Gone dr[illegible]g lately?
Ms. B: Stick to you[illegible]
Igen a esrever dna r[illegible]teg s'tel we [illegible]ll. I'll visit. P

UM coach to train Olympic field hockey team

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts field hockey and women's lacrosse coach Pam Hixon will be coaching the United States Olympic women's field hockey team as a second assistant coach this spring in Philadelphia.

This means that Hixon, who coached the women's lacrosse team to a national championship in 1981 and a fourth place finish in 1982, will not be behind the bench for the Gazelles this spring. Polly Keener and Paula Petrie will assume the reins.

"This is a professional improvement," Hixon said, "for myself and my team. It's a chance to upgrade my coaching and I can learn a new kind of game."

The United States team, which is said to have a good shot at a medal, is being coached by Bonnie Gros and the first assistant is Marge Watson. Hixon will be down with the team in Philadelphia (the main training site) during the months of February, March and April.

In April, the Olympic group that will be going to Los Angeles will be chosen and if Hixon will be going to LA as part of ths team, it will be decided then.

During the time Hixon will be with the team, they will travel to tournaments (10 day trips) in Australia and Germany, along with the daily training to pick the American team.

"The University supports me in this and this will be very helpful to the field hockey program (at UMass) in the future."

Hixon will still assume her managerial duties with both the UMass field hockey and women's lacrosse team. She will still be responsible for their recruiting, budgeting and the scheduling.

The field hockey teams, from both UMass and the US, look to benefit. UMass in the long run, the United States now.

Interestingly, Beth Anders, who was the coach of the Old Dominion field hockey team which won the NCAA title last month (beating UMass 3-2 OT in the semis), is a player on the team. Hixon and Anders have been friends for a long time, for they used to play on the same team, according to Hixon.

Hixon will also be reunited with UMass graduate Judy Strong, who was a leader on the UMass team that finished second in the NCAA championships in 1981. There are no college field hockey players on the US Olympic squad.

Sports

SPORTS NOTICE: All teams interested in intramural hockey, get your roster in by the end of the semester. Forms can be picked up at the intramural office in Boyden.

Hoopmen win thriller in OT and nudge UConn

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

With no time showing on the clock in overtime Donald Russell hit a driving layup over Karl Hobbs to give the University of Massachusetts a 67-65 victory over Connecticut last night before 4,200 screaming fans at the Cage.

Here's the scenario: UConn's Earl Kelley tossed up a nine footer with five seconds left in the overtime that bounded off the rim to Minuteman center Edwin Green. Green uncorked a downcourt lob pass to Russell who outraced Hobbs to the hoop before driving over him for UMass' sweetest win of the year.

Want more excitement? How about regulation. Carl Smith, a freshman point guard who makes a habit of these sort of things, (he won the New Hampshire game on a similar play) dribbled calmly around for nine seconds before tossing in a double-pump drive from the lane to send the game into OT tied at 61.

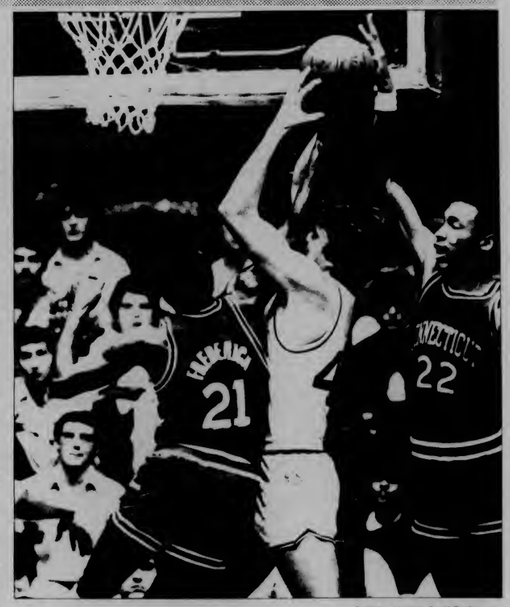
John Hempel started the overtime by canning an eight footer before UConn answered with a layup. Russell then picked up a loose ball and laid in his own duece to make it 65-63 UMass. UConn hit a layup off a fast break before Smith was called for a five second violation with only 1:43 left. Horace Neysmith then fouled the Huskies' Alvin Frederick who proceeded to miss both his foul shots, UConn got the ball back with a rebound before Kelley missed his jumper letting Green and Russell take care of the rest for the 3-3 Minutemen.

For the Minutemen the victory ends an eight game drought (back to 1978) against the Huskies and a three game losing streak this season. UMass is now even at 3-3 for the season.

"I'll tell you what, if Carl Smith was in the army he'd be a general," a jubilant UMass Coach Ron Gerlufsen said after this, the most pressure-packed game in his rookie season.

"He did the job on offense but his defense is what won it for us. He totally shut down Kelley."

That he did. Kelley, the Big East Player of the Week and holder of a 20-point scoring average, was held to only ten points by Smith and was not a factor in the game.



"Coach said that if we could stop their guards we'd win, I guess he was right," said Smith. "I kind of enjoyed playing Kelley, he was a challenge. But I had some good hoops of my own."

Kelley's backcourt mate Hobbs was held to nine as UMass' pressing man-to-man defense kept the two dynamos in check. Meanwhile, Russell and Smith connected for a total of 24 in the Massachusetts backcourt with Smith also handing out 11 assists.

For the game UMass got 18 from center Edwin Green who single-handedly kept them in the first half, which ended on a Horace Neysmith tap in at the buzzer for a 26-26 tie.

Green also ripped down seven rebounds and was his usual force on defense. Neysmith, Russell and Smith had 12 each with Hempel getting ten.

In the first half Green hit four hoops in a row to bring UMass from being down 14-10 to being up 16-14. Smith then hit a pair of foul shots to complete a run of 10 points and let the Huskies know they were in a game. Neysmith tied it at the buzzer to set the stage for a wild second half that saw six ties and seven lead changes.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

YOU CAN'T HAVE IT -- The Minutemen's Bobby Braun jumps up for a shot with two UConn players right beside him. UMass came up victorious in overtime, 67-65.

Yukon Jack prevails as champions in the intramural ice hockey finals

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

With almost an instant replay of the first game of the intramural hockey finals, defending champion Yukon Jack took the second game of the three game series with Mass Consumption Wednesday in Greenfield, 2-1, to ascend as champions once again in a "scrappy" and hard-fought match.

Joe Bellini gave the victors the win when he scored on a power play with 18 seconds left in the game. It was Bellini's third game winning goal this week as he scored on Sunday in the semi-finals to send his team to the finals, and again on huesday in game one.

Although Yukon Jack finished fourth in the eight team league, it was team determination and pride which led the team to the championship, according to Bellini.

"That was the climax of the whole season," Bellini said. "A lot of us are graduating this semester and next semester, and a lot of the younger teams get clocky and say it's time for us to steop aside. Well it's noh time for Yukon Jack to step aside. We won it with our hearts."

"We were gearing more toward the players rather than the season," Bellini continued. "The last four days no one could do homework. They were all thinking hockey."

Both teams had their eyes centered on victory but the puck bounced the right way for Yukon

Yukon Jack just played the way they've been playing all season," Scott Andrews, manager of the league, said. "I thought that Mass Consumption could beat them in the finals. Yukon Jack knew what they wanted to do. They just put their nose to the ground and scored."

Bellini's goal came after a controversial tripping call on Mass Consumption with 40 seconds left in the game. Mass Consumption goaltender Rich Hanlon, blocked a Jody Ferrelli slap shot from the blue line but before Hanlon could cover the puck up, Bellini pounced on it from right wing and slid it in behind the goaltender.

"Mass Consumption was moving the puck out of the zone but couldn't clear it (on that play)," Andrews said. "The slap shot was right on target and Bellini dove and slid it in. It was great effort on Bellini's part."

Paul Marmai, who started Yukon Jack off in game one, did it again in this game when he scored in the first period, slipping the puck through the pads of Hanlon on a wrist shot from 15 feet out.

Hoopwomen shooting to win, take on Springfield tonight

By ED CUNNINGHAM
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts womens basketball team will be looking to hop back on the winning track tonight. Following a three game winning streak, the good fortune ended Tuesday night at the hands of the Southern Connecticut Owls.

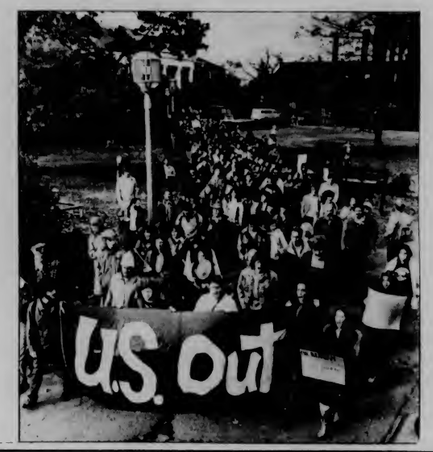
The loss dropped the UMass record to 3-4. The SC defeat was caused not by what the Owls did, but more so by the minutewomen themselves. UMass was hurt once again by foul trouble and a lack-luster performance offensively. The foul trouble allowed Southern to capitalize on the one and one situation in both halfs. Offensively, the team could not get inside against the Owls and were forced to shoot from the perimeter.

"We were taken out of our offense against them (Southern). We'll be hoping to come back and get the win," UMass coach Barbara Stevens stated.

Tonights game against Springfield College will be the final game before the women break for the holidays. Last year's contest was dominated by Springfield, as they breezed to a 76-48 score.

Coach Stevens will be looking for a more even match up this year. According to scouting reports, UMass should size up well against Springfield. The only mismatches may occur in the backcourt. Springfields starting guards are 5'8 and 5'10 respectively. The minutewomen start 5'4 Wendy Ward and 5'9 Barbara Hebel in their backcourt.

Inside, UMass should match up fairly evenly. The only concern is their habitual foul trouble. The game promises to be a close contest if UMass can keep everyone on the court for all 40 minutes. Forty minutes is a key number for the hoopsters.



Forty minutes is a key number for the hoopsters. The team must put together a complete 40 minute effort. UMass came out a little sluggish against Southern and never could get on track. To get back on the winning side again, the women will have to come out hungry and play that way until the clock reads:00. Tonight at the cage at 7:30 the forty minutes will begin.

Lookin' Back: The Semester in Photos

A Massachusetts Daily Collegian special pull-out

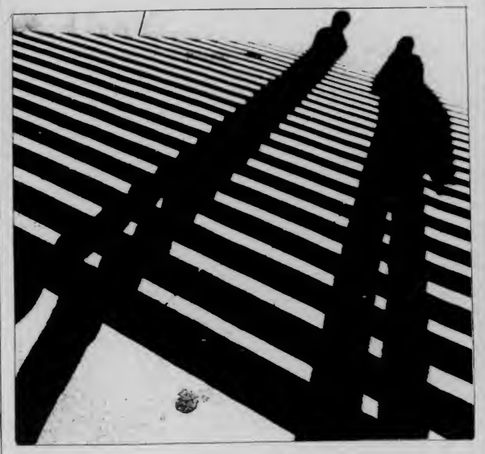
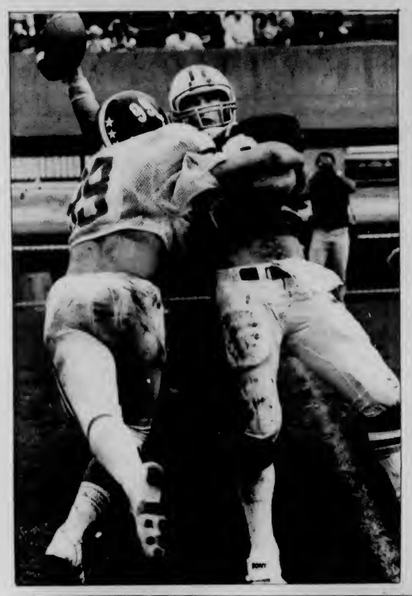
People in the news

Left to right, top to bottom: Supporters of Yvette I. Henry, charged with a fire in Crampton in early December, cloak the car she is a passenger in before her arraignment Dec. 5. Henry was the first suspect charged with the rash of fires that headed news pages across the country. University of Massachusetts students and others march on Whitmore in protest of the U.S. invasion of Grenada earlier this year. Entrepreneur John Dwork twists a frisbee on his finger. Jim Powers' photo of the Hampshire College frisbee major received wire play across the nation. UMass audiences were captured by Bloom County author Berke Breathed, comedian, author and Civil Rights activist Dick Gregory, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and author James Baldwin, (bottom right). Drew Ogier caught former University President John W. Lederle and Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey sharing a good laugh during the rededication of the Graduate Research Center in Lederle's name.



Collegian photos by David Deuber, Andy Heller, Drew Ogier and Jim Powers. Copy and layout by Ray Beauchemin.



Not necessarily the news

Left to right, top to bottom: The Quabbin Observatory towers over the man-made reservoir. Quabbin is a picnic-rest haven for many UMass students during the early fall. Drew Ogier's shadow cast upon Campus Center steps provides interesting looking. Jim Powers made national wire play again with his shot of this parachutist waving 'bye-bye' on his way 'out.' Pets are a familiar sight on campus and even more so in the Collegian but Andy Heller's shot here is a pet photo with an added dimension. Eddy Grant was one of many stars who graced UMass stages this semester. Rebecca Nordstrom solos in a performance of "That Voice/A Tribute to Edith Piaf" at Bowker Auditorium in October. Romantics (from Wordsworth to modern-day naturalists) must have enjoyed David Deuber's unique glimpse of the Connecticut River Valley from Mt. Sugerloaf. The Campus Pond provided hours of relief to many UMies including this raft-goer. The Homecoming Bonfire: warm, and beautiful. Cindy Wilson of the B-52s and David Johanson had two good shows during November. The Campus Pond was also used for rather challenging ROTC gimmicks including this rope bridge. Aaaahhh!

Lookin' Back, p. 4

The Sporting life

The trick in sports photography is timing and Collegian photographers Dave Deuber and Jim Powers are well aware of that.

From left to right, top to bottom: Deuber caught Jim Simeone on his way down as Holy Cross' Steve Raquet sacked him during the 17-0 UMass defeat in Sept. Chris Knoet fights for ball control with UConn's Janet Ryan and Laurie Decker (9) during a 1-1 standoff. Stickers made it to the Top Four in the nation. Nancy Connolly is the Minutewomen's 200-meter fly, but she couldn't elude the quick camera shutter of Jim Powers. Nadia Komarowski (4) vies for the ball in a 5-0 win over Springfield College. The women kickers made it to the Final Four as well. First year student Anne Tauger displays the material that made her the number two singles players of the tennis team. A 3-12-5 season might sound bad but Minutemen kickers (including Frank Neffinger) never gave up hope. Ann Ringrose (foreground) puts a ball back in play in a manner that put them in the forefront of the ECAC.

The Massachusetts Special winter weeekly Daily

NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume I, Issue 1 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, January 5, 1984

Collegian Photo by Kevin Fachetti

DANGER ZONE-Entrance to Campus Center by the Coffee Shop is blocked off as asbestos removal continues.

Workers fear asbestos contaminationin C C

By JOSH MEYER
Collegian Staff

Campus Center employees have been evacuated, and heating and ventilation systems shut off as a result of potential asbestos contamination throughout the Campus Center and Hotel.

Asbestos fibers detected in air samples taken Monday outside the removal area called for an immediate stoppage of asbestos removal.

The contamination occurred and spread the cancer-causing agent when "unknown leaks" in the removal areas and vent systems caused the airborne fibers to spread to the first, second, third, and possibly other floors of the Campus Center building. Although continuous air samples of work and adjacent areas were promised to CC employees, and daily posting of air qualities were guaranteed to start Wednesday, none have occurred. "Contractors in the CC have detected a trace amount of asbestos in the air while working on the removal containment project,. . . measuring .01 percent. This is considered an action level but it is not considered a dangerous level. The leak which caused the asbestos release is small and has not been found yet," according to an official statement by the Office of Public Information.

"Action levels that were found (above .01 per cubic cc) were very low, but indicative of a need to take certain action," said Donald A. Robinson, Director of Environmental Health Services (EHS). Robinson said that escalated levels of airborne asbestos fibers occurred on the first level near the escalators and in the third floor lobby of the CC hotel.

Fear of contamination of areas of the building which are open to the public and experience heavy pedestrian traffic have been expressed by employees and students alike, culminating in reports yesterday of "ten to fifteen asbestos-removal workers walking around outside confined areas in their contaminated protective gear and respirators," according to an Information Desk staff person who asked not to be identified.

"Two of the guys came out of the contaminated area, walked all the way down three corridors from the coffee shop to the Hatch, and went into the bathroom. They're not even supposed to leave the sealed off area with their suits on," said a Second Shift Building Operations employee, who was supported by all five other staff members, who were in the Hatch Tuesday evening at the time of the incident. "Their suits were covered with the crap, (asbestos) and they weren't the only ones who did this. People have been coming out of that area with their suits on all the time," he said.

Charles Morris, head contractor for Sermac, Inc., the company in charge of the removal, called the charges of contracted employees contaminating the Concourse "blatant lies."

"It can't happen. We're complying to the letter of the law, and then some," he said. "Someone is just trying to use the college newspaper to create an uprising."

"Workers on the Second Shift, Building Operations (working near the removal area) came to me with concerns about the asbestos leaks," said Alan Compagnon, a CC union shop steward. "There has been a definite disregard for peoples' safety - especially in suspected areas of contamination . . . the University likes to keep things like this as quiet as possible and they are willing to believe things are under control when they may not be," Compagnon said.

Whether the Campus Center is contaminated, and people being exposed to potent carcinogenic asbestos fibers or not, CC staff and employees have lodged complaints about the lack of information and apparent lack of concern by administration officials.

continued on page 2.

Conferences are cancelled

By JOSH MEYER
Collegian Staff

Problems relating to the removal of asbestos in the Campus Center have now closed down operations for the University of Massachusetts Conference services and all intersession conferences have been moved to area hotels, according to Ashok Ganguli, director of Auxiliary Services for the University.

"The decision to move conferences away from the Campus Center was purely for logistical purposes," Ganguli said. "Getting hotel guests up the stairs and into the building, and the icy conditions" were some of the factors influencing the Tuesday decision, he said.

Joel Weissman, director of the Student Center For Educational Research and Advocacy, located in the Student Union Building, said these reasons were "the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

Campus Center Director Bill Harris said the relocation of conferences was due to logistical problems such as transporting people to and from Conference sites and hotel registration desks through service elevators, as mandated by the on-going removal of asbestos from the Campus Center concourse ceiling.

"We would lose more through public relations through inconvenience (of conferees) than we would gain in profits (if the conferences were held as scheduled)," Harris said. "We have a responsibility to the groups that come here to give them the finest services available."

Some conference rooms are on the first floor of the Campus Center which was partly sealed off Monday, when airborne asbestos fibers were found in the area.

Lawsuit may be filed due to arrest

By TOM MIDDLETON
Collegian Staff

A Crampton dormitory resident assistant, against whom charges of setting a fire have been dropped, is now considering filing lawsuits against officials according to one of her lawyers.

Legal Services office attorney Charles DiMare said his client Yvette Henry may file two lawsuits against law enforcement agencies, UMass and its officials for alleged violations of her civil rights and laws.

Henry was arrested and charged with two complaints of "burning personal property of another" after being questioned by authorities on Dec. 2. She was held at the Franklin County jail in Greenfield for two nights and then released on $1,000 bail. Her pre-trial hearing was scheduled for Jan. 26.

"UMass as a whole would be a party (in the suit) and officials of various departments and administrators may be sued" as officials or both, said DiMare. "It's our firm position that there wasn't any evidence to begin with to warrant her arrest and subsequent prosecution," he said.

"Not only wasn't there probable cause for an arrest in my opinion, but there wasn't even reasonable suspicion. The evidence was so flimsy it was ridiculous."

Prosecuting District Attorney W. Michael Ryan stated to the court that due to insufficient evidence the Commonwealth of Massachuetts was unwilling to further prosecute Yvette Henry. The decision to drop the charges was "discussed for a couple of days prior" to the official Dec. 23 statement according to Assistant District Attorney Rosemary Tarrantino.

Henry, who was suspended immediately upon arrest, has been reinstated into the University and all actions have been erased from her record, according to UMass spokesman Art Clifford.

Since Henry's clearance, there are "no new suspects" in the investigation, according to Gerald O'Neil, director of the UMass Department of Public Safety. "There is nothing new I can report on the case since three weeks ago," he said.

UMass benefits in state budget

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

The recently approved state capital outlay budget contained $6 million for the Southwest Residential Area and the Polymer Research Institute at the University of Massachusetts.

Southwest steampipes, which have a 20 year life expectancy, are 18 years old. "The pipes have reached the end of their useful life and have sprung some leaks, which have been repaired," said H.J. Littlefield, director of UMass facility planning. "We're delighted to have the appropriation." The next step on repairs will be the closing of a contract, he said.

Funds for the Polymer Research Institute are designated for new facilities and equipment. The state grant was announced to the University at a Nov. 21, 1983 press conference held by Gov. Dukakis, UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey and Senate Ways and Means Chair Chester G. Atkins (D-Concord).

Three million dollars was appropriated for the construction of a multi-sports complex and ice skating rink on campus. Other appropriations include $5 million for Fine Arts Center roof leaks and renovations on Goessman laboratory, $2.5 million to find and implement a solution to the leaching of coal residue at the presently defunct coal burning facilities on campus. Another $1 million was appropiated for reserve equipment.

The $746.3 million state capitol outlay, the first since 1980, was passed Dec. 30, 1983 during an emergency legislative session called by Gov. Michael Dukakis.

The legislature also granted Gov. Dukakis the authority to set state license and service fees, which are expected to rise as a means of financing the outlay, said Greg Dillard, legislative aide for Rep. James Collins (D-Amherst) House chair of the Joint Committee of Education. Dukakis is expected to approve the new budget.

Inside:

Questions continue on asbestos removal... p.3

Men hoopsters are on the road..... p.4

Minutewomen hope the basketball keeps bouncing their way..... p.4

"In these times of contention, it's not my intention to make things plain."
-PETE SHELLEY

Some winter courses still open

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Interested in accounting, anthropology, art, astronomy, education, French, German, Hotel, Restaurant and Travel Administration, math, mechanical engineering, philosophy, sociology or management?

Some courses in these departments are still open this wintersession at the University of Massachusetts, and registration will continue through tomorrow. Spaces are also available in 22 credit-free workshops, offered on topics from public speaking to computers.

Tomorrow is also the last day of the wintersession add/drop period and the last day to select the pass/fail option. Monday and Tuesday, students who withdraw from courses will receive a 'W'.

Credit courses cost $55 per credit plus a late registration fee; the cost of the credit-free workshops range from $20 to $50, depending on length and amount of class time. Applicants should drop by the Continuing Education Office, on the first floor of the library tower between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Approximately 2,200 students have enrolled in courses this month, with business, accounting, economics and English courses especially popular, Gary Strong of the Division of Continuing Education, through which the courses are offered, said yesterday. That number is "about on par with last year," he said.

★Asbestos

continued from page 1.

"Basically, our problem now is getting access to the readings (determining the air quality of workplaces in the CC), said Kathy Murray, president of the Massachusetts Teachers Association/University Staff Association (MTA-USA).

"If we'd been given access earlier on, at least people would have known and been a lot less upset when they were told to 'get out of there.' Relocation without information scares people," Murray said.

As an example, Murray cited the example of two cashiers who entered an "alleged" contaminated area and worked for 45 minutes without seeing the Warning/Keep Out signs.

William Harris, director of the Campus Center, said that "They only stayed in there about twenty minutes, and I'll bet it was a negative air sample." (Negative air samples indicate an uncontaminated workplace.)

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male roommate wanted to share bedroom in Brittany Manor apt. winter sublet with spring option (413) 442-3852 ask for Gerard

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses, cases, papers, guaranteed acceptance, low rates, Nancy, 584-7924 evenings

FOR SALE

Shetland Wool Sweaters for women, 15.00 plaid blousse, 13.00, assorted colors and sizes, 549-8689

HEY STEVE SILVA

 Happy Birthday  enjoy yourself from JLM-428

amc THEATRES

$2.00 MATINEE & TWILITE SHOW REDUCED PRICES FOR STUDENTS & SENIOR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARDS

HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 MT. FARMS 4 584-9153

AL PACINO SCARFACE

CLINT EASTWOOD SUDDEN IMPACT

GORKY PARK

DEBRA WINGER SHIRLEY MacLAINE Terms of Endearment

WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS A Dickens of a package THE RESCUERS MICKEY'S CHRISTMAS CAROL

BARBRA STREISAND YENTL

Two of a Kind John Travolta Olivia Newton-John

The Man Who Loved Women BURT REYNOLDS

MIDNIGHT MOVIE MADNESS FRI & SAT at 12:15 a.m.

CITY HARPSWELL 4 584-7550 ALL SEATS $3.00

ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW

FIRST BLOOD

THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME

LIFE OF BRIAN

Memo To Faculty:

We are now processing course book orders for the Spring 1984 semester. Can we handle yours? No order is too big or too small.

Jeffery Amherst Bookshop

55 So. Pleasant St., Amherst

AMHERST CINEMA

DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50

Thurs. Jan. 5 - Sat. Jan. 7

Risky Business 7:15

Body Heat 9:00

Sun. Jan. 8 - Tues. Jan. 10

Trading Places 7:00

48 Hours 9:00

DOWNTOWN AMHERST

★Tuesday Beer Nite

Drafts 3 for a dollar bottles 1 dollar

★Thursday 2 for 1 all nite

★Weds Ladies Nite

Open Bar 9-10 and 11:30-12:00 also 95¢ drinks for everyone

★Friday and Saturday No Cover 2 for 1 8-10 PM

Poor Richards

DELANO'S

January Special

Twofer One Becks

Plus our Original Twofers & hors d'oevres

7 days 7 nights

4-6 pm 10-midnight

Proper ID a Must

57 N. Pleasant St.

253-5141

UTOPIA SPAS

175 University Drive, Amherst

Price Chopper Mall

A COMPLETE THERAPEUTIC & RELAXATION FACILITY

• Hot Tub Whirlpool Spas • Float to Relax Tank • Therapeutic Massage

• Suntan Lounge Rooms (Membership available) • All natural refreshments available

• Warm, comfortable lounge areas with wood stove

• A clean, safe and supervised environment

• Each area wired for your own favorite music or sounds ... AND MUCH MORE...

Call for reservations 253-SPAS (7727) (Walk-ins welcome)

Open 11 A.M. to 1 A.M.

SPECIALS

MONDAY 2 for 1 College Night 1st Student: Full Price 2nd Student: FREE good for Tub, Tan or Float BRING YOUR COLLEGE I.D.

TUESDAY DOLLAR NIGHT 1st person: full price 2nd person: $1 good for tub, tan or float (That's only $3.50 person for ½ hr. in a hot tub)

$1 OFF WINTER SPECIAL $1 OFF HOT TUB TAN or TANK GOOD THRU JAN. 1, 1984 WITH THIS COUPON ONLY

12th ANNUAL BUSH BASH

UMASS SKI CLUB SUGARBUSH VALLEY

SKI & PARTY WEEKEND

JAN. 27-29

This Trip includes

★Transportation

★2 Nights Lodging

★Meals

★2 Day Lift Ticket

★Welcome Party

★Hot Tubs & Sauna

*Tax & Gratuities included only $99

For more info call 545-3437

ALL SEASON RADIAL TIRES

All Season White Wall

Size	Price
P155/80-R13	45.00
P185/80-R13	54.00
P195/75-R14	62.00
P205/75-R14	65.00
P205/75-R15	65.00
P215/75-R15	67.00
P225/75-R15	70.00
P235/75-R15	73.00

All prices include Mounting, & Trade-In Tire.

10 % Additional Off with a CASH purchase of a set of 4 tires

SAVE or

5 % Additional Off with a CHARGE of a set of 4 tires with your MC-VISA-AX

MASS. APPROVED INSPECTION STATION

Michelin Tires also Specially Priced

North Amherst Tire & Auto Center

"FULL SERVICE TIRE STORE"

78 Sunderland Rd., No. Amherst, MA

Across from Watroba's Store 549-4704

COMPUTER WORKS

Amherst's Finest Computer Store

266 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MA 01002 253-5673

Wintersession Rentals $25.00

- 80 column CRT terminal
- fully compatible with Cyber
- includes 300 band modem

* does not include security deposit, sales tax, or optional delivery

Questions of asbestos have to be addressed

During the month of December, concerns about the asbestos removal in the Campus Center and the long-term effects of asbestos exposure were heightened by a series of stories printed in the Collegian. Administrators involved with the project were less than helpful when questioned by reporters, preferring to leave the University community up in the air, so to speak.

EDITORIAL

The removal began as scheduled, but within a week there were major problems. On Tuesday of this week, the lobby of the Campus Center hotel was evacuated because of a dramatic rise in the amount of asbestos found there. At the same time, half of the first floor of the Campus Center was evacuated and sealed off. According to Campus Center administrators, first-floor workers had asked for temporary office space after the heating system was shut off because it was interfering with the removal. This is a questionable explanation. The lobby of the hotel has since been reopened, but the elevators have been sealed. All conferences scheduled for the month of January have been cancelled.

It seems there is more to the current situation than the administrators are telling us. Supposedly, the Collegian was going to have to move its office for the next two weeks, one would assume because the office was asbestos infested. However, we have since been told that we would only have to move if the cold temperatures bothered us. We have been assured that even though the other half of the first floor has been sealed off (the Collegian office is on the first floor), the rest was perfectly safe. Although we are not "systems contemptuously, we do have doubts about the safety of our office.

Yesterday, there were reports of workers coming out of the contaminated work area and walking around the Student Union in protective suits. They aren't supposed to leave the sealed areas of the Campus Center. Some of the workers removing the asbestos are untrained students who are being paid $16 per hour; this is hardly skilled labor. Who is supervising this operation? Who will take responsibility when these mistakes result in serious illnesses in ten or twenty years? Why haven't air sample results been released? If there are contaminated areas why are people still working there? (Like the Collegian staff).

The University community should not tolerate the veil of safety being spread by the Campus Center administration. There have been too many past projects contracted out by the University which have turned out to be a dismal failure (Towe library, Campus Center garage Southwest, etc,). None has been as potentially hazardous to students' and workers health as the asbestos problem. Health hazards should not be brushed aside to prevent bad publicity or embarrassment. We deserve more than the administrators have given us. They must be held accountable for their actions, and for the actions of companies which are supposed to be solving problems rather than creating them.

One may hope things wouldn't have got ten to this point, but it seems that they already have.

Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the Collegian Board of Editors

We're Open! ... during Intersession.

Worcester Dining Commons:

open: lunch & dinner meals Mon.~ Fri.

→ Sign-up for meal plans:

→ Franklin Dining Commons Meal Ticket Office:

→ Pay Cash or Buy Strip Tickets

Hours of Service: Lunch: 11:30-1:30; Dinner: 4:30-6:00

Thirsty for news?

Read the Collegian

SHOEMAKER-KUSKO

LSAT/GMAT/GRE REVIEW

CLASSES BEGIN JANUNRY 21st FOR FEBRUARY 4th GRE EXAM

IN MASSACHUSETTS CALL: (413) 253-2996

OR WRITE: SHOEMAKER-KUSKO, P.O. BOX 426, AMERST, MA 01004

Sale

"20%-60% SAVINGS ON ALL WINTER BOOTS AND SHOES, BAGS."

GREAT BARGINS!

the SHOE BIN

187 n. pleasant st., amherst

People's Market

INEXPENSIVE WHOLESOME GOOD FOODS!!!!

At People's Market we have a variety of juices, fruits, vegetables, cheese, bagels, sandwiches, yogurt, grains, nuts, household items and much more!!!

Open throughout Intersession 9:30 - 2:30

LOCATION: Student Union Building by entrance near pond

Sports

Hoopmen hit the highway

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

It's meat and potatoes time for the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team as they dive head first into the Atlantic 10 slate with three consecutive road contests.

The Minutemen outlasted New Hampshire and Bentley before dropping three in a row on the road to Houston Baptist, Georgia Southern and Duke. Then UMass upset UConn in a superb effort and toppled Dartmouth in their last outing.

After piloting the Minutemen through their first seven games with a 4-3 record, rookie coach Ron Gerlufsen has led UMass to their best start since 1977-78 when Jack Leaman's team started off 8-0.

The Dec. 22 game at Marist was cancelled due to snow and rescheduled to Feb. 14. But that was all in the old year, 1983.

With the coming of 1984 come new challenges and Atlantic 10 competition. Massachusetts is away at Duquesne at 8 tonight (WHMP 1430 AM) and then travels to Rutgers for a contest against the conference favorite on Saturday at 2 p.m. That game will be televised on SportsChannel and on the TVS network.

And next Wednesday, Jan. 12, the Minutemen will visit the Palestra and Temple University will be the opposition (7 p.m.).

The trip to Duquesne will hopefully have the Minutemen break their 27 game losing streak on the road. The last time UMass won on the road, ironically, was at Duquesne by a 57-55 score two years ago on Jan. 9, 1982.

The Dukes (0-0 in conference) have struggled to a 2-6 start. Duquesne is coming off a 60-59 win over Detroit in which freshman Mark Beavers sank two foul shots with seven seconds left for the win. Emmett Sellers, the team's leading scorer averaging 18.8 points a game, sank 22 in the winning effort.

However, his Duke teammates haven't been helping out a lot. Duquesne ranks last in the league, shooting only 40 percent from the floor.

UMass, on the other hand, is only ranked seventh with 46 percent. Forward John Hempel is leading UMass with 14.1 points a game, followed by Donald Russell (12.4) and Horace Neysmith (13.4). Edwin Green is also averaging in double figures (10.7) and he leads the team with 18 blocks.

Collegian Photo by Dave Dueber

CEASE-Mary Marquedant blocks the path to the hoop during a December game against Yale. The Minutewomen face Central Conn. Friday.

Women up for more success

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

A three week layoff can do two things to a team. It can either be a help in giving a team a break, a chance to regroup, or frustrating if a team just started to roll before the layoff.

Such is the case for the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team as they prepare to open up their 1984 slate of games this week.

The Minutewomen, who lost their first three games of the year, rallied to win four of their last five games to end 1983 with a 4-4 record. After losses to UConn, Rhode Island, and St. Johns, UMass toppled Vermont, Harvard, Yale before bowing to a tough Southern Connecticut team on Dec. 13. Massachusetts defeated Springfield 86-73 on Dec. 16 to even up their slate.

"My main concern," said first year head coach Barbara Stevens, "is the three week layoff. We're looking to get our game back into gear." To help combat this, the team has been having double session workouts since January 1.

The Minutewomen are preparing for games tomorrow in New Britain against Central Connecticut, a tough Division II opponent. Then, UMass opens their Atlantic 10 slate with consecutive home games against defending Atlantic 10 champion Penn State and George Washington.

The Lady Nittany Lions visit the Cage on Sunday, January 8 at 2 p.m. Penn State is 6-2 (3-0) and is led by junior center Kahadeejah Hebert, who is sixth in the league in scoring with 16.3 points a game. Hebert is also Penn State's leading rebounder with 10.5 a game.

FOUR SEASONS
Location: On Route 9 in Front of Mountain Farms Mall
Just a quick jaunt from free bus stop at Hampshire Mall
SPECIALS

Bud	Suitcase cans	$9.99
Miller	bottles	$9.99
Labatts	Beer or ale	$10.99
Meister Brau	Bottles	$7.99
Genesse beer	Bottles	6.95
Vodka & Gin	1.75L	7.99
Rum	1.75L	$9.49
Wild Turkey 101	500ml	$6.49
Dewars	750ml	$9.49
Sebastiani Table Wines	3L	$5.99
E & J Gallo Varieties	1.5L	$4.99
California Cellars Table Wines	1.5L	$4.99
RUINITE Lambrusco, Rosato, Bianco, D'oro.	1.5L	$4.99

Dastardly Dans
ALL DAY, ALL NIGHT
Shot of Bar Liquor with draft chaser $1.25

READ THE SPORTS PAGE? ... YOU BET!

WINTER SALE
20 - 50% Off
Selected
Clothing Chinese Shoes
Rugs Bedspreads Gifts
January Hours
Amherst and Northampton
Mon-Sat 10-5
Weeknights 9 PM Dec 9-23
Sundays 12 - 5 PM
Daily 10 AM - 6 PM
THE MERCANTILE
Amherst Carriage Shops
also: 18 Center St. Northampton
GREAT GIFTS — GREAT PRICES

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
THE PARTY NEVER STOPS
SUPER
Beat the Clock
Every Night
8-9 $.50, 9-10 $.75, 10-11 $1.00, 11-12 $1.25
KICKOFF LOUNGE
CATCH THE ACTION
Sports or Movies
Every Night
$.75 12oz drafts

The Massachusetts Special winter weekly Daily
NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY
Collegian
Volume I, Issue 2 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, January 12, 1984

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

ICY HOTHOUSE — Although Frosty on the outside, the Bowdich Greenhouse maintains a toasty climate on the inside, providing shelter for its inhabitants throughout the long winter months.

Asbestos debate continues between UMass and unions

By JOSH MYERS
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts officials have allowed employees of the Campus Center/Student Union Complex to relocate to other areas on campus, while maintaining that no one working in the area has been exposed to unsafe levels of asbestos.

The decision, described by Campus Center Director William Harris as "meeting the unions halfway" was announced Tuesday morning in an informational meeting attended by union members, University administration officials, and representatives from the firm contracted to clean up the asbestos, an engineering consulting firm, and the UMass Environmental Health and Safety department (EHS).

Union leaders had expressed concern over the safety of their members, and had requested that the Campus Center/Student Union Complex be closed down for the duration of the removal process. While representatives from the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) Local 1776 and Massachusetts Teachers Association/University Staff Association (MTA/USA) were pleased with the compromise, they were not in agreement with the University position on contamination.

"We cannot guarantee that you have not been exposed but we suggest that you take the option and transfer to another location," said Ken Dietrich, business representative for AFSCME. "I can't tell whether you are going to get anything from this or not."

Kathy Murray, MTA/USA president agreed.

"There are so many unknowns. If you choose to stay, the administration says that it's safe and they might be right, but we recommend that you relocate," she said.

Union officials said that independent air sample tests will continue until the complex has been established as within the "safe" level of asbestos concentration (.01 fibers per cubic centimeter).

University officials said that all tests done by Hygeia Inc., the independent air-sampling and hygiene firm, had shown levels of mostly zero concentration.

Anita Serroll, a hygienist for EHS, said the first three floors of the Campus Center would remain closed for the duration of the removal process.

The three lower floors, including the hotel lobby, were closed last week when asbestos particles were found to have migrated from the second floor where removal was taking place, Office of Public Information Director Art Clifford said.

"Independent tests taken with funds allocated by the Student Government Association and the unions were taken the same day, and results are expected in a week," said Sue Boyle, a hygienist with HUB Testing, who set up monitoring devices outside the Hatch cafeteria and in the Student Union.

Also at the meeting, discussion focused on what union officials felt was a lack of concern and response by the administration.

"In their zeal to remain clean and maintain a good image for the University, they chose to have a hide-and-seek route instead of trying to have an informed public," said Alan Compagnon, a union shop steward for AFSCME.

"They should have arranged these meetings long ago. They (the administration) have created their own problems, and now it looks as though they're sinking in the quagmire of their own mess," Compagnon said.

Contractor Charles Morris, of Sermac Corporation, the firm contracted to remove asbestos, of Weymouth, said, "asbestos as a business as a whole is very sensitive — it's easy to blow things way out of proportion. The removal process is done, and no bulk asbestos remains. We're at the clean-up stage now, which is just like washing down a house."

Acid rain topic of UMass seminar

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

The status of acid rain and related legislation in New England and the nation was the focus of a seminar held at the Universi ty of Massachusetts Tuesday, despite the inclement weather.

Acid rain is a condition of low pH rainfall caused by sulphur emissions from business firms in the midwest and east, and nitrogen emissions from cars. Its impact on the environment includes a reduction in the ability of lakes and streams to sustain life, tree and vegetation damage and a reduction in visibility, said Stephen Howards, legislative representative for the National Wildlife Federation.

An acid rain monitoring project conducted under the guidance of Paul J. Godfrey, director of the Water Resources Research Center at UMass, found that in Massachusetts, six percent of the lakes and streams are too acidic to sustain life, and another 16 percent are in critical condition.

He explained that any given body of water's buffering ability — high alkalinity — that acts as a "biological rolaid" — decreases significantly once a certain concentration of acid is reached. Forty-one percent of Massachusetts streams and lakes are at or beyond that point, he said.

The Metropolitan District Commission spends $1.2 million annually in attempts to raise pH levels, Godfrey said. Adding lime to highly acidic water is the most widely used solution.

"This only buys time," he said, adding that additional environment impacts due to the lime are inconclusive at this point.

Acid rain promises to be the environmental issue for the upcoming presidental election, as 50 million tons of acid rain causing emissions each year are released into the atmosphere, Howards said. However, the importance of that issue will depend on who the final candidates are.

Howards sees Democratic presidential candidate support of acid rain legislation, as verified at a recent conference in New Hampshire, as symbolic.

On the other hand, "the Reagan administration has taken no stand on acid rain and will not do so until they have to," he said.

Howards expressed support of the U.S. Senate Stafford-Hart bill which calls for a 15 million ton reduction in emissions over the next 15 years, but feels the time period has to be tightened. He also expressed concern over the bill's political appeal in that if passed, it may cause a relocation of coal mi ners from the midwest where, high sulphur coal is mined, to the south, an area housing low sulphur coal.

"This may not appear to be a problem, but there are a lot of votes in the mid-west, and they will want to protect their coal industry," he said.

In Congress, Howards supports the Waxman-Sikorski Bill, which calls for a ten million ton reduction over ten years. Seven million tons must be reduced through technological means, such as "scrubbers" installed on emission-releasing smokestacks, to reduce the sulphur content.

The cost of such requirements will ultimately be borne by the consumer, he said, but the reduced threat to the coal industry makes the legislation more acceptable nationwide, he said.

He also supports a New England Caucus bill in Congress, which calls for an increase of emissions reductions from ten million to 12 million tons.

Funds for maintenance, sports center included in budget

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

The $25.8 million appropriated for the University of Massachusetts at Amherst from the state capital outlay budget will address maintenance and new projects, and create jobs for the community once it is signed, University officials said.

"The multitude of projects across campus signify a major public works program which will help the Valley's economy for several years," UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said at a recent press conference.

"We can't say when or what the Governor (Michael Dukakis) will sign, but we're fighting for the funds," said Kathleen Merrigan, aide to Sen. John W. Olver (D-Amherst).

The outlay, the first the state has seen in three years, includes funds of $6 million for the Southwest Residential Area steampipe repairs and replacements; $6 million for a Polymer Research Center, $5 million for deferred maintenance; $3 million for a multi-sports complex; $2.5 million for correction of a coal leaching problem on campus; $1 million for equipment; $500,000 for energy conservation and $330,000 for planning for the renovation of Marshall Hall on campus.

The Southwest steamlines, which are close to the end of their 20 year life expectancy, are top priority, Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance John L. DeNyse said.

But because of the administrative process of using outlay funds, the project will not be completed by next winter, when the pipes will be 20 years old.

"Within the $6 million, however, are funds for emergency repairs of the pipes," Director of Facilities Planning Jack Littlefield said, "But the 20 year life expectancy doesn't mean the pipes will stop working at that point."

Funding for the Polymer Research Center was announced at a press conference held by the Chancellor and Gov. Dukakis in early December. Duffey does not knowat this point, however, if the project will include a new structure.

Funds for the multi-sport complex, to include an ice skating rink, were not requested by the University.

"Language for the complex was written by the UMass alumni, probably involved in the hockey program the school once had," said Gregg Dilliard, aide to Rep. James Collins, (D-Amherst), who supported the legislation.

Plans as to the cost and location of the facility are still in the study stage, Duffey said.

Another $2.5 million will be used to address the leaching of a coal pile on campus which is contaminating the town's Taylor Brook.

"Part of the problem here was that standards have changed since the coal pile was created 25 years ago," Duffey said "The standards are now as they should be and we have a chronic, but not accute, pollution problem."

Parties involved can correct the problem in four to five years, DeNyse said.

The $5 million for deferred maintenance and the $1 million for equipment will be used for "a shopping list of problems," DeNyse said. Included within that are the repair of the leaky Fine Arts Center roof and the renovation of Goessmann laboratory on campus.

The senator and University officials do not know how much of a time lag there will be before projects can get underway after the Governor signs the bill.

FOUR SEASONS

Location: On Route 9 in Front of Mountain Farms Mall
Just a quick jaunt from free bus stop at Hampshire Mall

SPECIALS

Bud	cans	$9.99
Miller	bottles	$9.99
Strohs	cans	$9.99
Genessee	bar bottles	$6.95
Vodka & Gin	1.75l	$7.99
Rum	1.75l	$9.49
Myers dark	750ml	$7.99
Dewars scotch	750ml	$9.49

BIG JANUARY WINE SALE
January 13-January 28

*20% off any 12 (750ml)bottles 6 (1.5l) bottles
*15% off any 6 (750ml) bottles 3 (1.5l) bottles
*10% off any 3 (750ml) bottles

Corked wine only / cash and checks only no credit cards

The Collegian

Start your day refreshed with the Collegian

Jonathan Reid

JONATHAN REID Ltd. Fabulous50's sidewalk SALE
Entire stock of: suits, sportcoats & sweaters20%-50% off
January 11th-15th

Located in the Hampshire Mall Hadley

AmHerst CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50
Thurs. Jan. 12-Sat Jan. 14
Beau Pere 7:15
Pauline at the Beach 9:00
Sun Jan. 15-Tues Jan. 17
Children of Paradise 7:00
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

UTOPIA SPAS

175 University Drive, Amherst
Price Chopper Mall
A COMPLETE THERAPEUTIC & RELAXATION FACILITY

• Hot Tub Whirlpool Spas • Float to Relax Tank • Therapeutic Massage
• Suntan Lounge Rooms (Membership available) • All natural refreshments available
• Warm, comfortable lounge areas with wood stove
• A clean, safe and supervised environment
• Each area wired for your own favorite music or sounds ... AND MUCH MORE...

Call for reservations 253-SPAS (7727) (Walk-ins welcome)
Open 11 A.M. to 1 A.M.

SPECIALS

MONDAY
2 for 1 College Night
1st Student: Full Price
2nd Student: FREE
good for Tub, Tan or Float
BRING YOUR COLLEGE I.D.

TUESDAY
DOLLAR NIGHT
1st person: full price
2nd person: $1
good for tub, tan or float
(That's only $3.50 person for ½ hr. in a hot tub)

$1 OFF WINTER SPECIAL $1 OFF
$1 Off HOT TUB TAN or TANK
GOOD THRU JAN. 31, 1984
WITH THIS COUPON ONLY

DELANO'S

January Special
Twofer One Becks
Plus our Original
Twofers & hors d'oevres
7 days 7 nights
4-6 pm 10-midnight
Proper ID a Must
57 N. Pleasant St.
253-5141

Poor Richards

★ Tuesday Beer Nite
Drafts 3 for a dollar bottles 1 dollar

★ Thursday
2 for 1 all nite

★ Weds Ladies Nite
Open Bar
9-10 and 11:30-12:00
also 95¢ drinks for everyone

★ Friday and Saturday
No Cover
2 for 1 8-10 PM

amc THEATRES
$2.00 MATINEE & TWILITE SHOW REDUCED PRICES FOR STUDENTS & SENIOR CITIZENS WITH AMC CARDS
HAMPSHIRE 4 584-7550 MT. FARMS 8 584-9153

THE BIG CHILL In a cold world you need your friends
CLINT EASTWOOD SUDDEN IMPACT
GORKY PARK
Terms of Endearment
DAVID NAUGHTON SHANNON TWEED HOT DOG
BARBRA STREISAND YENTL
TO BE OR NOT TO BE MEL BROOKS
UNCOMMON VALOR GENE HACKMAN
MIDNIGHT MOVIE MADNESS FRI & SAT at 12:15 a.m.
ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW
NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD
THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME
LIFE OF BRIAN

EDITORIAL/OPINION

A wedding with all the trimmings

My friend Kara was always overly careful with her money. She's hardly on the brink of poverty; she's just obsessed. It's one thing to clip coupons, watch for sales, and buy generic tunafish, and quite another to wait until April to buy calendars at half-price, or split a Velamint four ways. Kara's upcoming nuptials haven't changed her attitude, either.

Elizabeth Luciano

"I want to get married as inexpensively as possible," she said. "Everyone wants a handout: the photographer, the band, the bridal shop. It's disgusting how capitalism takes the romance out of getting married."

"Are you going to hire a florist?" I asked.

"No," Kara replied.

"You're not going to have flowers at your own wedding?" I was appalled as any other true romantic.

"Oh, I'll have 'em," she assured me. "I'm going to make Kleenex bouquets. I'm very good at it; I was student council president in high school."

"Fake flowers?" I'm not usually so redundant, but I really couldn't get over that.

"Well, I was thinking of picking wildflowers," Kara admitted. "But my maid of honor has allergies. I don't want her sneezing all over the place while I say my vows."

"What are your bridesmaids wearing?" I almost hated to ask.

"They're borrowing cheerleading uniforms from a nearby high school," Kara said. "I wanted red and white, but the best they could do was black and gold," she sighed.

"Why don't they all wear their red-checkered dresses from Pasta Roma?" I joked. We'd all picked up a couple extra bucks waiting tables there occasionally.

"Sounds good!" Kara smiled, enthused. "And wait until you see what I'm wearing!"

"What?" I winced in expectation.

"A white, satin bedsheet with a hole cut out for my head," she said, "I'll look virginal, but sensuous."

I coughed. "Yes, you certainly will," I agreed. "What about the reception?"

"I'll probably have it at Mickey D's," Kara answered.

"Where's that?" I asked, picturing a classy restaurant. Kara shot me an odd look.

"McDonald's are everywhere," she said gently, "It's a very large fast-food chain," she paused, "I was thinking of having a potluck dinner or asking everyone to bring bag lunches, but I'm just not sure. McDonald's may not let me play the stereo box too loudly."

"Stereo box?"

"Instead of a band," she said.

"What about pictures?"

"Oh, my cousin Jim is taking care of that," she said brightly, "He got a Kodak Instamatic for Christmas." Oh, God. No!

"And where are you and Markus going for your honeymoon?"

"We've reserved a room with a view of the pool at the Econo-Travel," Kara answered, "We were going to ride there in a limo, but Markus said $37.50 was a ridiculous price, so we're borrowing a moped."

You know, I almost hate to admit it, but it looks like this was a match made in Heaven. Kara and Markus are as perfect for each other as the bride and groom on top of their Sara Lee cake.

Elizabeth Luciano is a Collegian columnist.

We have the right to know

To the Editor:

I would like to clear up any possible misconceptions that may develop concerning the role that students are taking in the asbestos situation. The reason that the Student Government hired a private sampler to test for asbestos in the Student Union was not to undermine the authority of the agencies involved, nor was it to create a negative image of the University. The sole purpose was the dire need to obtain crucial information that was not being made available.

To the outside observer, the culmination of events has created a justifiable concern. Looking at the situation, one can see that in less than two weeks, contamination has spread from one room to three floors of the Campus Center. The leaks were cited to have a location that was "unknown." The ventilation system had also been contaminated signifying the possibility of asbestos dissemination throughout the entire building. Moreover, employees and students were possibly exposed to dangerous levels of asbestos (their lungs may be permanently damaged).

Naturally at this point, anyone would become justifiably concerned about what appears to be acts of incompetance and carelessness. The speculation that the Student Union has also been contaminated cannot be considered to be far-fetched when so much contamination has already taken place. Moreover, attempts to have samples conducted in the Student Union were futile. No samples were taken and thus people's concerns grew. This inaction and disregard for employees and students forced the Student Government to look for outside help in order to discover if they were working in a safe environment.

It was and is crucial to know if our lives are being endangered. It is understandable that the project and those involved would prefer to avoid bad publicity, but it is our right to know. If information is refused to us (for whatever reason), how can anyone expect us to just ignore the fact that our lives could potentially be reduced to a mere twenty years?

Barbara Brodley
Student Government Association

Sale
"20%-60% SAVINGS ON ALL WINTER BOOTS, SHOES AND BAGS."
GREAT BARGAINS!
the SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Dastardly Dans
ALL DAY, ALL NIGHT
Shot of Bar Liquor with draft chaser $1.25

Were Open!
... during Intersession.
Worcester Dining Commons:
open: lunch & dinner meals
Mon. ~ Fri.
→ Sign-up for meal plans:
→ Franklin Dining Commons Meal Ticket Office:
→ Pay Cash or Buy Strip Tickets
Hours of Service: Lunch: 11:30~1:30, Dinner: 4:30-6:00

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
Accepting applications

The Amherst Campus is accepting applications for the position of University of Massachusetts Police Officer, in order to establish a listing of eligible persons for future positions. All applicants will be required and notified to take examinations appropriate to the position. These positions carry full fringe benefits. Beginning salary $277.09 per week. Applicants should apply to the Personnel Office, Room 167, Whitmore Administration Building, University of Massachusetts, 01003 by 5:00 p.m., Wednesday, February 15, 1984. An Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

KEYS LOST

Green plastic cowboy hat key chain with four keys lost Friday/Saturday in Amherst. (UMass keys). Reward! If found, please drop them off in the Student Activities Office in the Student Union and leave your name and number.

Classifieds

APARTMENT NEEDED

Apartment in Amherst needed rent/share spring '84. Bus route a must. Non-smokers. Cate 617-531-8864 collect.

ROOMATE WANTED

Male roomate wanted to share bedroom in Brittany Manor Apt. Winter sublet with spring option. (413) 442-3832. Ask for Gerard.

2 Female openings in Brandywine apartment Available February 1. Call 549-0116.

79 MALIBU CLASSIC

4 door a/c stereo & other extras. Excellent condition. Must sell. 50,000 m. $3200. 549-6054.

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, theses cases, low rates, on campus 584-7924 Nancy.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S EVENT

Proposals for International Women's Event are due on Jan. 1, in SCERA. Call 5-0341 for info.

A planning meeting will be held on Jan. 18 7:0 p.m. in Machmer E33.

Hoopsters hoping to win

By DAVID GOLDFIELD
Collegian Correspondent

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team (4-5) will look to snap a two-game losing streak when they travel to the Palestra in Philadelphia tonight to take on the Temple Owls and will then return home Saturday to host the Mountaineers of West Virginia.

Temple, who lost to West Virginia in the finals of the Atlantic Tournament last year, is currently riding on top of the conference with an 8-1 record overall, 3-0 in the league. The Owls, with five players who are averaging 10 points or more, are led by 6'8" junior forward, Granger Hall, a potential All-American a year ago before suffering a serious knee injury in the fifth game. Hall has returned in super fashion leading Temple in scoring, averaging 17.4 points per game, 7.4 rebounds, nine blocked shots and eight slam dunks. Last year's conference scoring champ and the tournament MVP, Terence Stansbury, 6'5" senior guard, is averaging 16.4 points per game. Stansbury also participated in the Pan American Game trials this past summer. Two-time Atlantic 10 Rookie-of-the-Week Nate Blackwell, 6'1" guard, is averaging 11.1 points per game and is the team's only freshman.

The West Virginia Mountaineers, who will invade the cage this Saturday for a 1 p.m. game, are currently in sixth place in the Atlantic Ten Conference with a 5-3 record, 1-1 in the league. West Virginia plays at Rhode Island tonight, as it opens a three-game road trip for coach Gale Catlett's squad. One of the youngest teams in the league and winners of the Atlantic Ten Tournament in 1983, West Virginia has only two seniors and one junior.

Massachusetts has struggled lately dropping both ends of a two game road swing vs. Duquesne and Rutgers last week.

"We did not play well in either game. Turnovers in key situations hurt us terribly (24 vs. Duquesne, 23 vs. Rutgers)," said UMass coach Ron Gerlufsen.

UMass was troubled by inconsistent play from their guards, junior co-capt. Don Russell and freshman playmaker Carl Smith. Russell, after missing nearly a week of practice with a sprained ankle hit on only one of four shots against the Dukes while Smith, the league leader in assists, had seven turnovers in the 69-64 loss, which evened the Minutemen's record at 4-4.

UMass connected on just 47 percent of their shots from the field. Sophomore forward John Hempel, the team's leading scorer with 15.7 points per game, led UMass with 16 points. Jackie Sheehan, a 6'3" freshman guard looked impressive in his first game as a Minuteman since becoming eligible over intersession after sitting out a year after transferring from Rider College.

In the 88-83 loss to the Scarlet Knights of Rutgers in New Jersey, Massachusetts' 29th consecutive road loss, the Minutemen again had problems with their backcourt as Russell could only manage 7 points. Despite jumping out to an early 7-0 lead, the Minutemen faltered late in the first half trailing 44-31 at halftime. After Rutgers (6-4) built a 15 point lead midway through the second half, UMass fought their way back into the contest with good pressure defense, going on a 30-9 surge to close to within 75-69 with two and a half minutes remaining. Once again costly turnovers by UMass killed any chance of a victory as the Minutemen fell to 0-2 in the league heading into tonight's clash with Temple. John Hempel once again led the Minutemen as he had a season high (for both himself and any UMass player) 0 with 27 points against Rutgers, while forward Horace Neysmith went four-for-four from the field against Duquesne and seven-for-seven against Rutgers for a perfect 11-for-1 week.

AP Laserphoto

JESSE TO BE HERE — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, seen here in Chicago recently being commended for the navy flier's release, will speak at 3 p.m. Friday at Helen Hills Chapel at Smith College as part of a Mass. campaign swing in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

COMPUTER WORKS
266 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MA 01002
253-5673
Amherst's Finest Computer Store
Wintersession Rentals $25.00
- 80 column CRT terminal
- fully compatible with Cyber
- includes 300 band modem
* does not include security deposit, sales tax, or optional delivery

People's Market
INEXPENSIVE
WHOLESOME
GOOD
FOODS!!!!
At People's Market we have a variety of juices, fruits, vegetables, cheese, bagels, sandwiches, yogurt, grains, nuts, household items and much more!!!
Open throughout Intersession
9:30 - 2:30
LOCATION:
Student Union Building by entrance near pond

SALE!
PRIME CUT
PRIME CUT, the pant you look at twice. A complete selection of current styles and colors. Priced from 18.95 to 32.95
Reg. 18.95
11.95
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst · Open Daily 10-6, Sunday 12-5

JUSTIN RYAN'S challenges you to BEAT THE CLOCK
JANUARY SPECIAL
Kickoff Lounge
starting at 7:00pm
BOTH FOOD & DRINK
7:PM .75 .50
9:PM 1.25 .75
10:PM 1.75 1.25
11:PM regular 1.75
JUSTIN RYAN'S
OPENS AT 8:00pm with .50 drinks

★★★★★Welcome Back!★★★★★
The Massachusetts Daily
NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY
Collegian
Volume CXIV, Issue 2 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Tuesday, January 31, 1984

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

NIGHT MARE — A lone horse gazes into the sunset as dusk settles on Tillson Farm.

Asbestos removal complete but controversy continues

By JOSH MEYER
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Campus Center is once again open, following a month-long project to remove asbestos from the second floor ceiling which at one time caused the evacuation of building employees.

Merchandise was expected to be back in the University Store by yesterday in time for spring semester, after it was transferred to locations in the Student Union Building during the removal period. The Campus Center Hotel remained open for business throughout the removal project despite its lobby's relocation when fiber counts registered higher than is safe. The loss of conference guests who were relocated to other area hotels was offset by the large number of asbestos workers who lived on the premises for the duration, according to Campus Center Director Bill Harris.

Contamination was first noticed in air samples taken Dec. 30th, and University officials were notified there was a leak in the supposedly airtight asbestos removal area. Air samples were posted January 6th, at least 11 days after the initial contamination.

The contamination level was as high as 1.53 in the first three floors of the Campus Center, more than 150 times the acceptable level of .01 fibers per cc, as required by contractor Sermac, Inc.'s specifications with the University.

"Action levels that were found were very low, but indicative of a need to take certain action," said Donald A. Robinson, director of the UMass Department of Environmental Health and Safety (EHS).

Robinson said elevated levels of airborne asbestos fibers were found on the first level near the escalators and in the third floor lobby of the CC hotel.

After extensive cleaning and removal procedures, the level dropped to .72 and .328 near the escalator connecting the two floors. At this time, a full day after the initial contamination was detected, a new barricade was installed, more vent systems were shut down, and the area was enclosed.

Employees working in the building expressed their concern over the contamination and lack of information to their union representatives. They were worried about the proximity of their offices to the removal areas and by reports that contracted asbestos-removal workers were not complying with mandatory decontamination procedures.

On Jan. 4, there were reports of "ten to 15 asbestos workers walking around outside confined areas in their contaminated protective gear and respirators," according to CC log book reports compiled by security personnel.

"Two of the guys came out of the contaminated area, walked all the way down three corridors from the coffee shop to the Hatch, and went into the bathroom," said a second shift Building Operations employee, who was supported by five other staff members.

"Their suits were covered with the (asbestos) and they weren't the only ones who did this. People have been coming out of the area with their suits on all the time," he said.

Charles Morris, head contractor for Sermac Inc., the company in charge of the removal, called the charges "blatant lies."

"It couldn't have happened. We were complying to the letter of the law, and then some," he said.

All intersession conferences scheduled for the Campus Center were moved to area hotels, the Lord Jeffrey Inn and the Hotel

continued on page 13

1984: has Orwell's vision arrived?

By JOSH MEYER
Collegian Staff

The word 1984 has become an expression that brings visions of Big Brother, doublespeak, thought police, and two-way telescreens, watching one's every move.

Now that the fateful year is upon us, it can safely be said that George Orwell's warnings about total control and tyranny haven't come true. At least according to UMass journalism professor Howard Ziff.

Ziff, who has written and lectured widely on the subject of George Orwell and his works, was also "in at the founding of the National Council of Teachers of English 'Committee on Doublespeak'". He has also just finished teaching a course on the noted English journalist and his vision of 1984, a course he has taught sporadically over the years.

"The key point of 1984 is its analysis of a totalitarian society and the ingredients in any large industrial society that could lead to it, regardless of the system — socialism, capitalism or whatever," Ziff said.

A central theme in the book 1984 is the notion that the truth can be manipulated, and that history can be completely rewritten for the political advantage of a few. The masses of people are anesthetized by propaganda and doublespeak, or words that mean the opposite — war is peace, freedom is slavery, ignorance is truth.

"Orwell was very strongly opposed to the notion that political and social truth was either individually or socially subjected — because he saw that idea being used in a tyrannical way."

continued on page 4

Sports complex included in budget

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

The $25.8 million appropriated for the University of Massachusetts at Amherst from the state capital outlay budget will address maintenance and new projects, and create jobs for the community once it is signed, University officials said.

"The multitude of projects across campus signify a major public works program which will help the Valley's economy for several years," UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said at a recent press conference.

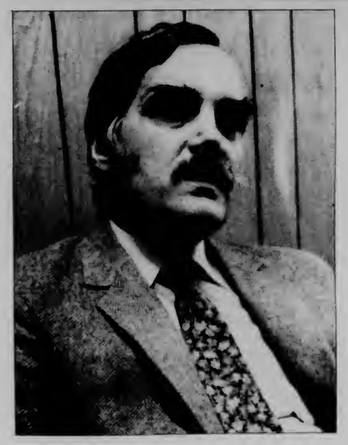
"We can't say when or what the Governor (Michael Dukakis) will sign, but we're fighting for the funds," said Kathleen Merrigan, aide to Sen. John W. Olver (D-Amherst).

The outlay, the first the state has seen in three years, includes funds of $6 million for the Southwest Residential Area steampipe repairs and replacements; $6 million for a Polymer Research Center; $5 million for deferred maintenance; $3 million for a multi-sports complex; $2.5 million for correction of a coal leaching problem on campus; $1 million for equipment; $500,000 for energy conservation and $330,000 for planning for the renovation of Marshall Hall on campus.

The Southwest steamlines, which are close to the end of their 20 year life expectancy, are top priority, Vice Chancellor for Administration and Finance John L. DeNyse said.

But because of the administrative process of using outlay funds, the project will not be completed by next winter, when the pipes will be 20 years old.

"Within the $6 million, however, are funds for emergency repairs of pipes," Director of Faculties Planning Jack Littlefield said, "But the 20 year life expectancy doesn't mean the pipes will stop working at that point."



Funding for the Polymer Research Center was announced at a press conference held by the Chancellor and Gov. Dukakis in early December. Duffey does not know at this

continued on page 13

Inside:

In the news:
The inevitable 1984 story.....page 1.
Henry files suits.....page 3.
Editorial/opinion.....page 10,11.
Spring semester schedule.....page 13

'Loved in the flesh but butchered in the mind.'
WIRE

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

David P. Kraft, director of University Health Services.

New U.H.S. director takes charge

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

It was the location that originally brought the western Connecticut native to the University of Massachusetts Mental Health Services from Washington D.C. in 1974 as a staff psychiatrist. Now, David P. Kraft, the former director of mental health services since 1978, has taken on new responsibilities he feels his psychiatric training will enhance – running the 27,000 member health facility as its executive director.

"In addition to health administrators, there's a need for clinicians who are good at administration to go into that," Kraft said. "There's nothing like having been through helping (people) to keep me sensitive over how to provide excellent health care still at a reasonable cost."

"I looked at it as an opportunity," he said of the job vacancy, which opened following the announced resignation of 15-year-director Barry Averill early last fall. Averill has accepted a position as executive director of the 55,000 member Michael Reese Health Plan in Chicago.

Kraft was one of 64 applicants for the job, five of whom were finalists, and one of two recommended to Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Dennis Madson for appointment. Kraft was chosen for the job because he "much more closely matched the qualifications of the job description" than the other candidates – a job "so specific" in nature because very few college health facilities are also health maintenance organizations, said Lawrence Benedict, chair of the position's search committee. "There are very few people who can do that," he said.

Kraft, who will continue his mental health practice one morning a week, said one of his goals is to "help my colleagues help each other help provide health care."

"As a director, I aim to maintain the high quality and aim to improve it as much as I can," he said. "I know the system enough, I know some of the places we can improve."

Collaboration of professionals from various specialties within the facility is one such concept, which has already been applied to patients with psychosomatic – mind-causing – illness, Kraft said. Here, physicians diagnose the physical pain, while mental health specialists work on the psychological aspect of the pain with the patient.

Kraft said he sees the health services staff – 120 professionals and 130 support staff – as a "support service of the University," with their employee health and preventative health care programs. Personnel seen to be having difficulty with their jobs because of personal or family problems are referred to the center for help before any actions are taken against them, while workshops seek to educate students and others about stress and other health related topics.

As an administrator, Kraft said he intends to be an integral part of the administration.

"I come from a certain vantage point that I think I can help make the (University) environment more humane," he said. "I want to do my part to help (administrators) remember we are dealing with people.

PAUMA officially recognized by administration

By TOM MIDDLETON
Collegian Staff

After ten years in existence, the Professional Association of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst (PAUMA), has achieved the goal of gaining official recognition from the University's Board of Trustees and administration.

"There was a legitimate concern that the professional staff were in danger of becoming the only unorganized group of employees on campus. It turns out, that is now true," said in reference to the fact PAUMA did not unionize but became recognized by the trustees.

A "Statement of Understanding" between the trustees and PAUMA, which recognizes the association "as the appropriate unit for articulating policy recommendations and advice to the administration and the board of trustees," was passed by the trustees at their Dec. 6 meeting.

PAUMA includes about 850 non-faculty and non-clerical staff from departments such as the Housing Office, Bursar's Office and the Division of Continuing Education. The two major concerns of the association are "the status of members as professional employees and the association's participation in search committees and resource allocation and generally the life of the university," PAUMA executive board member Rick Taupeier of the Division of Continuing Education said.

"Very early on, it (PAUMA) wanted to become a formal organization and was looking for governance status in line with other governance organizations such as the Faculty Senate and the Undergraduate Student Senate," former PAUMA senate speaker Pete Wozniak, of the Physical Plant, said.

According to the acting speaker Sally Ives, "many general frustrations" led to the need for a governance document.

"We had no clout, our recommendations were ignored," Ives said. "We need this document to ensure that people will listen to us."

According to the statement, the professional staff through PAUMA, "recommends policies and procedures affecting the profession status of PAUMA members, including appointments, reappointments, terms of appointment, evaluation, salary adjustments and other matters affecting the professional staff."

"This is a turning point that represents a new, more flexible arrangement between the University and the professional staff," said Taupeier. He added that "if it doesn't work, the only alternative is collective bargaining."

Since the formation of the association, PAUMA worked with four different chancellors. This constant change made agreement of the document "really just a time consuming process," said Wozniak.

"It was just a matter of getting it approved by all the bureaucratic parts of the process," Wozniak said. If one party didn't approve of a section of the document it would have to go through the process again. "So every time you'd go through it you'd end up spending six months coming and going back and forth," he said.

"There was a group, initially, who felt that they wanted something that would be a little more active and a little more aggressive than PAUMA was," former executive board member, Kevin Grennan said, noting that some members of

There have been two drives toward unionization since the formation of PAUMA, according to Grennan.

"The professional association was looking for governance (status) in hopes that unionization would not take place," Wozniak said. "Some of the people who looked to unionize were looking to do that in frustration of not having governance recognition. Then some people really felt it was a very necessary thing – regardless of the situation.

"I think the document we have now in theory is a very useful document," he said. "However the effects are what will make it useful or not."

UMass image getting boost

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Six months after its creation, the division of University Relations and Development is working to raise money and gain recognition for the University of Massachusetts in the national media, the department's vice chancellor said last week.

The division is composed of offices geared towards development – Alumni Affairs and Development – and University Relations – the Office of Public Information, State Relations, Community Relations, Contact magazine, Design and Production Service and Photographic Services. Budget funding is "modest," consisting mainly of salary and support accounts already allocated those offices before they were grouped together under Vice Chancellor Deirdre Ling. But, Ling says, the idea is to concentrate more on raising money than spending it.

Ling said a development plan is underway between alumni affairs and the chancellor's development council to "begin to look at fundraising policies," such as the creation of a chancellor's executive council for donors of "the next level of major gift" over $1,000. Currently, donors of $1,000 or more become members of the Chancellor's Council, but that number has now grown to more than 90 and a new incentive is needed, Ling said.

The telefund program, conducted through Alumni Affairs, will be concentrating on getting new donors next semester, Ling said, after raising almost $250,000 more in the fall than the same time a year before. More than 25,000 alumni have been contacted through the program, she said.

Where relations are concerned, the consulting firm Gehrung Associates has been hired to promote University accomplishments in the media. The firm, which compiles data on school research and teaching, acts as a sort of databank for media studying education, so, Ling says, UMass could be featured in the New York Times, as Smith College – another Gehrung client – was recently.

As the school's educators and researchers are recognized for their accomplishments in the national media, the coverage – articles, and news releases – will be displayed in new recently designed wood framed, glass encased bulletin boards on campus. They will be located in the Newman Center, the Faculty Club and the Top of the Campus Restaurant.

"What we, as students, faculty and staff convey to the outside community and world, will gradually have an effect on what is said about the University," Ling said. So it is imperative that professor's achievements be recognized at home, and not just elsewhere.

Vice Chancellor Deirdre Ling.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

Rev. Jesse Jackson

UMass is a stop on campaign trails

Two candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination will make the University of Massachusetts a stop on their campaign trails this week.

Former Sen. George McGovern, right, will speak at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Union Ballroom. McGovern, who won the Democratic nomination in 1972 and ran against then incumbent President Richard Nixon, has been out of national politics for several years but is returning to seek the office he tried for in 1972.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, left, will speak Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center. Jackson, a civil rights activist and Chicago preacher, visited Smith College two weeks ago following his return from Syria where he secured the release of captured Navy flier Robert O. Goodman.

These two candidates are the initial arrivals in what promises to be a lively campaign season in the Amherst area. Voter registration drives are tentatively scheduled to start up early in the semester to ensure a student vote in the upcoming elections.

AP file photo

George McGovern

Investigation of fires to continue until resolved

Henry filing suits

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

The investigation into last semester's series of suspicious fires at the University of Massachusetts has not ended, according to the Hampshire County district attorney.

"The investigation is continuing – it hasn't been solved or resolved," W. Michael Ryan said Saturday. "In that sense, it will always be continuing, unless someone is apprehended and convicted for setting the fires."

Ryan said his office is now compiling a report of the investigation to present to the Grand Jury, probably in February.

Ryan said investigators are "always looking" for more leads in the case, but "nothing significant has happened since all the students left."

The day students left for winter vacation, Yvette Henry, the Crampton House resident assistant charged with setting one of the 16 suspicious fires in her dormitory, had all charges dropped against her. Though her suspension, incurred immediately upon arrest, was scratched from her record and Henry will be returning to live in a residence hall, she's filing two lawsuits against law enforcement and administration officials, according to her attorney.

Charles DiMare of the UMass Legal Services Office said charges in the suits – one of which may be settled out of court – will include violation of rights, false arrest, malicious intent to inflict emotional distress and defamation. Racism, he said, is "an aspect of both."

"Only minorities were harrassed, accused, searched in the middle of the night, who were primary suspects at that time," DiMare said. While all dorm residents, white and minority, were subject to the police interrogations, only black and hispanic women came to his office prior to Henry's arrest, DiMare said.

"They were terrorized to the extent that we had to take steps to intervene and instruct (investigators) on prior consent and knowledge."

While Ryan said he had not heard of the racism charges, Assistant District Attorney Rosemary Tarantino said, "It's not true."

DiMare said his office was still working on representing other Crampton residents in possible rights violation suits and in obtaining a refund of dormitory fees for last semester, about which he was "optimistic."

On the administration side, Vice Chancellor for University Relations and Development Deirdre Ling called the situation "particularly frustrating."

"We took the situation so seriously because of the responsibility for the safety of students," Ling said. "If we had not taken it so seriously we would not have gotten so much attention.

"We attract a lot of attention because of our location in the state," she continued. And the media had "a tendency to characterize it as though the University were in flames.

"All we can do is be patient and try to explain the facts as we know them, and trust the good judgment of our constituents to be able to put the bad news in perspective," Ling said. "We can only hope the good news about the University will outweigh temporary problems on campus."

MUA mixes well in Campus Center

By RISA FREEMAN
Collegian Staff

Broadcasting from the new studios of WMUA, the University of Massachusetts' student radio station, will begin this Friday with a grand opening ribbon cutting ceremony, said Carl Lowman, the station's general manager.

Although only one of the three new studios will be operating, WMUA, which has been broadcasting out of the basement of Cashin House in the Sylvan Residential Area since its move from Marston Hall, plans to be in full operation by the end of the month, said William Stepchew, chief engineer.

In December of 1979, the staff of WMUA was informed by the engineering department that they would have to find other space for their studios, Stepchew said. The radio station was occupying space allocated to the engineering department (Marston Hall) which was in the process of expanding, said Robert Welch, assistant vice chancellor of student affairs.

A formal request was issued by former Provost Loren Baritz in October 1982, requiring WMUA to vacate the building by July 1, 1983, Welch said.

Construction of the new studios, located on the first floor of the Campus Center next to the Collegian office, began last October, after three years of searching for available space, necessary funding and finally a bid and design, Stepchew said.

"We did not ask for this mess," stressed Stepchew. It was difficult to find the new space, which was originally used as offices for student groups.

"We had to rip out existing walls to build the studio," he said.

The entire project, which cost just over $100,000, came to a halt in December when the construction company RAB of Chicopee, was "thrown out" of the Campus Center by the Physical Plant due to the asbestos removal project, Stepchew said. "It (asbestos removal project) really messed up our scheduling," said RAB President and Treasurer Ronald A. Berthiaume.

Funding for the new studios, which are equipped for studio production, editing and pre-programming, was allocated mainly by the Student Activities Trust Fund, Stepchew said.

"Vice Chancellor of Finance and Administration John L. DeNyse helped to get a large chunk of the funding from a returning Campus Center loan payment," Stepchew said. The rest of the funding came from the Student Affairs Office and a fundraiser held by WMUA in early December, he added.

The new format for the radio station will consist of non-commerical programming, "the kind of music that will eventually be on commercial stations," said Music Director James Neill.

"We are hoping that the construction of this new facility will increase the morale and professionalism of the staff of WMUA, and at the same time, upgrade our broadcasting operations," Lowman said.

"We hope to get more people involved in the station, people interested in media broadcasting," urged Stepchew. "We're happy being in the Campus Center. We'll have mutually beneficial interaction with the Collegian and other student groups. We're psyched!"

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

Kevin C. Myron, (top), program director, and Carl Lowman, station manager of WMUA select music for a radio show.

DA drops charges against student

By RISA FREEMAN
Collegian Staff

Charges against a University of Massachusetts student in connection with an alleged rape on campus last semester were dropped by the Hampshire District Attorney's office in December.

Michael E. Briggs, a MacKimmie House resident from Oxford, Conn. and a starting offensive tackle for the UMass football team had been charged with indecent assault and battery with attempt to rape in an incident at MacKimmie.

Hampshire District Attorney W. Michael Ryan said he dropped the charges because "there was an essential witness who wouldn't testify."

"The D.A. dropped the charges because he had no evidence," said William A. Norris, lawyer for Briggs.

"One witness, the alleged victim, wouldn't testify. It's very hard for a woman to stand in front of a jury, knowing the defense lawyer will tear her apart. If she doesn't feel strongly, she will back out," he said.

"Maybe she wasn't a victim at all," Norris added.

Charges were also dropped against Briggs' weekend guest, Clarence G. Hilton, also of Oxford, Conn.

Briggs declined comment last week.

Dormitory housing tight

By ANNEMARIE MALLEY
Collegian Correspondent

Dormitory housing will be "surprisingly tight this spring" at the University of Massachusetts, according to the director of the Housing Assignment Office.

Gerald Quarles said there are generally between 400 and 1200 room vacancies in the spring, but in the last four or five years, dormitory housing has been in high demand. It appears that graduates are staying in the area, and filling many of the off-campus vacancies, and as a comparative cost, "the dormitories have been more stable than the private market," Quarles said.

"We're looking at a full system," Quarles said. But, "while the situation is tight, we expect it to lighten up when the 'no show' count is determined," he said.

Despite the fires that plagued Crampton House last fall, students will be assigned there "like any other dorm," Quarles said.

"Only 30 Crampton residents requested reassignments this spring, and they were given priority," he added.

Last year, the office could not place 153 students in the residence halls due to a lack of space, he said.

Howard Ziff

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

★ Orwell

continued from page 1

Orwell, whose real name was Eric Blair, wrote in the turbulent post-first World War era, when fascist and tyrannical leaders like Franco in Spain, Hitler in Germany, and Stalin in Russia, were reaching the heights of their rule.

But Ziff disagrees that there is an emergence of totalitarianism, or total control by the state.

"In 1984, Orwell is predicting a society in which basic civil liberties and freedom of conscience are denied. And that's just not the case in Western societies. Even in the Socialist bloc things are better today than they were then," Ziff said, adding that, "There are terrible abuses of free speech and freedom of conscience throughout the world that have to be corrected."

On the contrary, the United States is experiencing more allowances for freedom of the individual than it ever has, Ziff said. In the nightmare world of the book 1984, people are taken away in the middle of the night and never seen again if the "Thought police" suspect them of having anti-Party thoughts, or even unorthodox thoughts or actions. Their names disappear from all records as though they never existed at all.

"Most Western democracies have a freer press today, as seen by our more liberal libel laws. Conventions of acceptable political discourse have been widely expanded," Ziff said. "There are several dozen self-avowed Marxist professors on this campus alone. That's a terrific improvement."

"We have to realize that perhaps the strongest thing that kept us away from this is our attitude towards human rights and freedom of the individual. It is a concept embodied in the whole complex of political practice and legal decisions," Ziff said. "Our weakness doesn't lie in our traditions — that is the source of our strength."

But the past few years have seen drastic cutbacks on our civil liberties and individual rights, Ziff said. "President Reagan's administration is far and away the worst, even worse than (President) Nixon."

The trend toward totalitarian control in the United States and elsewhere can be reversed. The problem is that many have given up the struggle, and accepted measures that restrict their freedom, Ziff said.

So what can be done by anyone interested in helping reverse the trend of decreasing civil rights and liberties?

"Read George Orwell. That's a good enough start for the year 1984," Ziff said.

Graduate student experiments with waste water treatment for thesis project

By TOM KELLEY
Collegian Staff

A project that uses micro-organisms to consume the organic matter in waste water and convert it to methane gas is underway at the University of Massachusetts and was explained recently by Michael Shapiro, civil engineering graduate student and project participant.

The process, called the anaerobic treatment of waste water, is not new but has seen renewed interest because of the rising cost of fuel in the last decade and the fact that methane is a direct and useable form of energy.

According to the 25-year old Shapiro, waste water is normally treated using an aerobic process — that is, oxygen is pumped into the polluted water using high amounts of electrical energy. The anaerobic process derives its name from the fact that the process uses no oxygen.

Methane producing bacteria, called methanagenic bacteria, are placed in an air-tight reactor through which polluted water is pumped. As the bacteria consume the organic matter in the waste water they produce a by-product of methane gas which is readily tapped as it comes to the surface. The process requires a temperature of 35 degrees Celcius. The process uses methane as a fuel as well as using it as a fuel for the pumping of the polluted water.

"There has been renewed interest in the process because of the favorable by-product," Shapiro said. "People are interested in alternate sources of energy and different ways of doing things."

Under Professor Mike Switzenbaum of the civil engineering department, a pilot study was done to treat waste water from Amherst with the anaerobic process. The results of the tests showed that the quality of the water was close to that treated with conventional means while the costs of the anaerobic process were lower.

Shapiro's concentration in the study of the anaerobic process has been the early stages of the development of the methanagenic bacteria in the reactor through which waste water passes through. Early Biofilm Development is the title of his thesis which will be completed in May.

Methanagenic bacteria originate for example, in the stomachs of cows or manure. They are placed in an air tight reactor to attach to a surface such as sand, plastic beads or ceramic and left to multiply. Methanagenic bacteria, being one of the most primitive forms of bacteria according to Shapiro, are slower growing and thus create a problem. Through his research, Shapiro has found that methanagenic bacteria growth occurs quicker initially, in a greater concentration of bacteria. This is new information in the study of the anaerobic process.

Shapiro, a Canadian citizen with a B.S. in biology from Concordia University in Montreal, came to UMass in the fall of 1981 to study pollution control in the environmental engineering program.

"I've really enjoyed myself here at UMass," said Shapiro. "I think it's a great school."

Apart from his studies, Shapiro swims and enjoys cross-country skiing, but when referring to his research he said, "I've worked pretty hard. Experimental work is very time consuming."

After completing his thesis, Shapiro plans to travel and begin looking for a job in a country that is interested in resource recovery in the recycling of waste material.

Mentioning Israel, China, Brazil and India as examples, he said, "These are countries where the benefits obtained by resource recovery would be important to that country's economy."

Back to School Specials

	regular price	SALE PRICE
3 subject notebook (120)	$1.99	$1.19
5 subject notebook	$3.35	$1.89
legal pads	$.95	$.59
mounting tape	$1.89	$1.59
soap dishes, toothbrush holders		$.35
distilled water (gallon)		$.89
lightbulbs (75 watt)		$.69
extension cords (6 ft.)		$1.25
pens		$.19

also a postal sub-station packages up to 4 lbs.

COLLEGE DRUG
9-9 weekdays/ 9-6 Sat./ 9-3 Sun.
4 MAIN STREET, AMHERST, Phone 253-2523

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441

HAPPY HOUR PRICING!!!

Bud & Bud Light 12 oz. cans. $10.95 case + dep
Stroh & Stroh Light 12 oz. cans ..... $9.95 case + dep.
Grizzly Canadian Beer .. $3.99 6 pack + dep.
Becks Beer..... $4.25 6 pack + dep.
Narragansett 16 oz. cans.... $2.50 6 pack + dep.
$9.80 case + dep.

Vodka or Gin 80°..... $4.99 L $8.49 1.75 L
Morello Lambrusco..... $1.99 750 ml.
$2.99 1.5 L

Barrelled Beer & Beer Balls
Always in Stock

EXTRA
VOL. 30
Special Edition

Plumbley's Times

Downtown Amherst 253-9586

99 ¢ DINNERS SMASH HIT!!

Runs Monday thru Thursday thru March 1, 1984 from 5 - 9:30 p.m.
Choose from one of our special entrees for $9.95
Receive the second for just 99¢

. . .Broiled sirloin w/cognac and peppercorn sauce
. . .Sauteed chicken Marsala w/rice pilaf
. . .Baked stuffed sole Florentine w/Hollandaise sauce
. . .Fresh filet of haddock w/baby shrimp and Newburg sauce

All dinners include salad, bread & butter, and potato.
(Not valid Tuesday Feb. 14, or Monday Feb. 20)

RIB-TICKLING PRICES ON SUNDAYS!

Prime Rib Dinner $7.25 served every Sunday in Feb. from 4:00 -9:30. Fresh Cut Prime Rib with potato, salad, bread and butter. PLUS. . .Your 2nd Cut of Prime Rib is only $4 more* and your 3rd is still only $4 more*
*Served per person only.
Now is the time to feast upon a superb dinner at Plumbley's: M-m-m-mouth-watering prime rib! We invite you to savor the succulence of this choice cut of beef. . .expertly prepared to delight your personal fancy. Whether you prefer its richness rare, medium rare, medium or well-done, Plumbley's prime rib offers you a wealth of extraordinary taste. . .at an appetizingly affordable price. Join us for a slice (or more) of the good life!

For Ladies Only. . .

Ladies Night all night every Wednesday. All bar drinks 99 ¢ including our famous frozen libations of Pina Colada, Strawberry Daiquiri, and frozen Margueritas. Only 99 ¢ from 7:00 - closing

And Not To Discriminate Against You Gentlemen. . .

Thursday Night is your night. Bass Ale and Heineken 99 ¢ Molson Golden, Miller Light, Budweiser, and Michelob all just 75 ¢ All night 7:00 - closing.

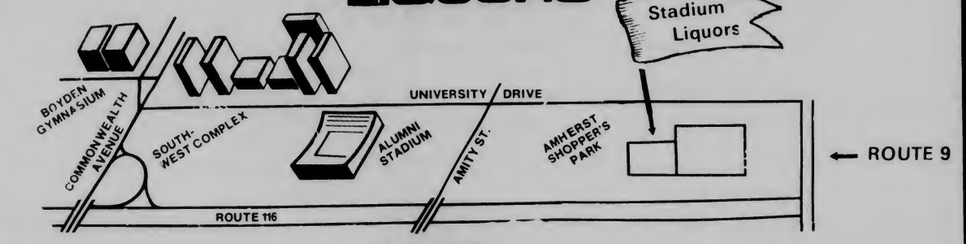
Indoor Sports Abound In Webster's Lounge!!

Backgammon Tournament every Monday beginning February 6. $150.00 cash prize. 30 participants to guarantee maximum payoff. $90. - first place, $40. - second place, $20. - third place. Minimum prize money paid will be $100.00 dollars. $70. - first place, $20. - second place, $10. third place. Double elimination - 2 chances to win. Match begins at 6:00 p.m. must sign up by 5:45 p.m. $5.00 entry fee. BRING YOUR OWN BOARD. Must be 20 years older. Mass. I.D. required.

CLASSIFIEDS

This Mon. night only all participants of backgammon receive complimentary bottle of Grizzly beer. After that 75 ¢ each.



Happy Hour Mon-Fri 4-7
50 ¢ off all drinks with light hors d'oeurves

STADIUM

253-5595

UMass Amherst

LIQUORS

Tuborg 12 pack bottles..... $4.95 + .80 12 pk.

Miller 12 oz. losse cans..... $9.95 + 1.20 case

Pabst 12 oz. bottles..... $8.80 + 1.20 case

Stroh 12 oz. bottles..... $8.99 + 1.50 case

Busch 12 oz. cans..... $8.95 + 1.20 case

Gallo Premiums 3 L..... $5.90

Almaden Premiums 4 L..... $6.99

Petri Wines 4 L..... $4.99

Masson Premiums 1.5..... $3.99

Sebastian Premiums 1.5..... $3.99

Jim Beam Bourbon 1.75.... $11.95

Gordon Vodka 1.75..... $9.99

Ron Roberto Rum 1.75..... $9.25

Canadian Rare 1.75..... $10.25

McGregor Scotch 1.75..... $10.99

Cossack Gin 1.75..... $8.99

10 a.m. til 11 p.m.

not responsible for typographical errors

SGA constitution draft tops semester agenda

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

The latest draft of the Student Government Association's constitution is expected to be presented at tomorrow night's meeting of the Undergraduate Student Senate, after a year of revisions and rejections by that body.

Senate Speaker Chris Sullivan, said he was optimistic the present constitution will be voted on by the second or third meeting of the semester. If accepted, the document will be sent to area governments for approval before going to the Board of Trustees.

Robert Teixiera, a Third World Caucus member, along with many other senate members, opposed the draft submitted to the SGA last semester because it did not "adequately represent the entire University community, particularly third world and women members." But Teixiera said that "those problems have been addressed over intersession."

Sullivan said more people have been involved in the development process of the document this past January, than previously.

"I think we now have a well-rounded, representative point of view," he said, noting that the constitution is important to the University population because "we need a strong, viable document to protect the rights of students."

Teixiera said the constitution gives students a "stronger voice and better control of their trust fund money," through its rhetoric and bylaws.

The third and latest revision will not, however, meet Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey's February 15 deadline. After initial approval by the senate, the constitution, according to existing bylaws, must remain in area governments for a four week review period before it is finally voted on.

Duffey has threatened to freeze SGA funding and submit his own document to the Trustees if his date is not met.

Sullivan said "this would be detrimental to students," if Duffey followed through with his plans.

Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Dennis Madson, who has been involved with the SGA and the constitution issue, said he predicts that "some revision of the latest draft would be forwarded by Chancellor Duffey, to the Trustees, if the deadline were not met."

In other business, the Public Policy committee has organized a voter registration drive which will enable students to register for the November presidential elections. Tables will be located at several dormitory and academic areas, and registration will be held February sixth through 14th.

A new bus route was also initiated through SGA efforts, which will run from Haigus Mall to Price Chopper and Stop & Shop on Wednesdays between 9 and 3 p.m. and Saturdays between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. SGA co-President Tom Ahern said his office is also trying to organize more late night and weekend PVTA busses.

Famous author speaks

Jong devoted to poetry

By MELISSA GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

Highly acclaimed poet and novelist Erica Mann Jong succeeded in completely captivating the audience with her honesty, sureness, and humor when she spoke at Mount Holyoke College last Thursday. She began with an explanation of her genesis — admitting that she started off as a poet and then "fell by accident into the novel." Her poetry sold millions of copies around the world leading to a tour of such places as Tokyo and Yugoslavia which encouraged her to begin writing novels.

When asked about the often erotic and bawdy nature of her work Jong candidly expressed her admiration for writers who express the unspeakable, where the unconscious speaks out on stage.

"That kind of writing can't be polite, and if a woman tries to write like that most find it totally unacceptable." Yet Jong has managed to make it not only acceptable but accessible to all who enjoy warmth and honesty in both the poetic and novel form.

Her first book, Fear of Flying (1973) was enormously successful, and this success led her to write How to Save Your Own Life, the second book in what Jong says "will be a trilogy." This book was denounced as a sequel, but Jong was not discouraged, turning instead to a dream of hers — writing an eighteenth century novel. Having received her Masters Degree from Columbia University in eighteenth century literature, it was only a matter of time before Jong began what took her four years to complete: a novel written in an eighteenth century voice like Swift or Fielding. The book also adopts the eighteenth century theme of an orphaned hero (heroine in this instance) cast into the world without an inheritance, which is later regained. This book, Fanny,(The True History of Adventures of Fanny Hackabat Jones) earned the praise of some critics as the "best modern eighteenth century novel."

Yet what Jong emphasized the most in her talk was her devotion to poetry. Her first volume "Fruits and Vegetables" was important in that she learned poetry "didn't have to be about Roman fountains", but could be written about anything. Jong then read a section from the poem "Fruits and Vegetables" describing the Onion:

"I think of despair when the onion sear-

Continued on page 16

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

PARALLEL BARS — An unusual jungle jim casts a unique pattern of angles and lines against the late afternoon sky.

UMass student found dead

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

A University of Massachusetts senior was found dead in a Townhouse of Amherst apartment bedroom, late Thursday morning.

Mary E. Diamond, a 21-year-old hotel, restaurant and travel administration major was discovered dead by her roommate Michele Patterson.

The cause of death is undetermined at this point, according to police reports.

Amherst police lieutenant David Jankowski said that although "there was no indication of foul play," an investigation is presently being conducted through the Northwestern District Attorney's Office. The case will remain closed until laboratory tests, which were sent to Boston last Friday, are completed, he said. The district attorney's office has not released any information.

Amherst police arrived at the apartment at approximately 10:45 a.m. after being notified by a neighboring resident.

According to a maintenance worker who wished not to be identified, Patterson ran into the hall upset and told him Diamond "looked like she was asleep but not breathing." Patterson entered Diamond's bedroom to wake her after a request from maintenance to move her car for snow removal.

Diamond, a Cashin dormitory resident, was living at Townhouse apartment 80 over intersession.

Funeral arrangments were conducted in her native town of Stoneridge, New York, and Diamond was buried in Angola, Delaware. Diamond leaves her father Robert Diamond, her mother Elizabeth, and her brother Robert Jr.

Collegian file photo

Firefighters leave Goessman Laboratory after explosion last semester.

Research assistant to be commended for quick thinking

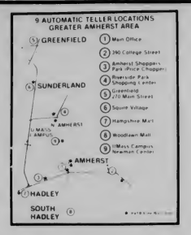
An award to recognize the quick thinking of a faculty member in emergency procedures followed when a chemistry student's experiment exploded last semester was scheduled to have been presented yesterday by Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey.

Richard Nethhorst, a research assistant, was passing through Goessman laboratory Nov. 2 when graduate student Christine Costello's toluene and sodium mixture exploded. Nethhorst's actions in extinguishing the flames and pulling an emergency shower reduced the possible extent of Costello's burns, said Karen Watson, a University spokeswoman.

Costello had received second degree burns on her face and hands and was taken to Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton following the incident.

Watson said Nethhorst would be commended for his actions and given a citation by the chancellor and Department of Environmental Health and Safety officials.

Apply for your ATM Card today!



If you need extra cash on a Sunday afternoon, you can get it with Heritage Bank's Plus 7-24 Automatic Teller Machine.

The automatic teller is on duty 24 hours a day, every day of the week for banking at your convenience.

With a push of a button you can make deposits, withdrawals, loan payments, even transfer funds between your NOW and statement savings accounts. Heritage ATMs do it all — quickly, easily and conveniently.

Chances are there's a Heritage ATM near you. Three new locations in: Amherst Shoppers Park (Price Chopper), Hampshire Mall, and Sunderland at Squire Village. Four additional locations in Amherst, East Amherst, North Amherst and South Hadley.

Stop by any Heritage Bank office today for your personal ATM Card. Money-time is all the time at Heritage.

"Money-time is anytime at the Newman Center."

7 CONVENIENT OFFICES:
Amherst, One S. Pleasant Street, 256-8116 • East Amherst, 390 College Street, 256-8116
Greenfield, 270 Main Street, 773-5477 • Greenfield, 208 Federal Street, 774-2271
• Hadley, 142 Russell Street, 584-8058
• South Hadley, 487 Newton Street, 536-3531 • Sunderland, Route 116, 665-4095

9 AUTOMATIC TELLER LOCATIONS: Amherst, One S. Pleasant Street • East Amherst, 390 College Street • North Amherst, Riverside Park Shopping Center, Route 63 • Amherst, Amherst Shoppers Park, University Drive • Greenfield, 270 Main Street
• Hadley, Hampshire Mall, Russell Street • South Hadley, 487 Newton Street • Sunderland, Squire Village, Route 116 • UMass Campus, Newman Center

U.P.C. presents UB 40

The Stray Cats and UB 40, a British reggae band, top the Union Program Council spring semester schedule so far at the University of Massachusetts.

Tickets for the Stray Cats go on sale today for the Feb. 6 concert in the Fine Arts Center for $11.50 and $12.50 for UMass students and $13.50 and $14.50 for the general public. UB 40, which will appear in the Student Union Ballroom March 14, will cost less than $10 to attend, said UPC program director Mike Akrep.

UPC is also planning a jazz series to start in February or March and end the last day of the Black Musicians Conference in late April. Six "low key, free" events will take place weekly in the Student Union Ballroom or Cape Cod lounge, Akrep said.

Plans for the spring event, which will be "the high point of the entire year's production" in early May, are still uncertain, Akrep said, and will depend on who is available and how much they cost. Concerts have been held near the campus pond the last several years, and stadium concerts have also been held in the past.

UPC has about 250 members whose leaders — production manager, business manager and talent coordinator — are elected each spring. The group is funded by the Student Activities Trust Fund, the Arts Council, and the Campus Center Board of Governors. Students interested in joining UPC can attend the first meeting of the semester at 6:30 p.m. today in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Skumway's
Wallpaper & paint store
. . .your complete home decorating center
256-6753
320 College St. Amherst

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
TUESDAY
Comedy Night
with
BOSTON COMEDIANS!
LIVE!
Only 99¢
Sponsored by GPC

TAYLOR RENTAL Center
Rt. 9 (next to Rocky's Hardware) Hadley 586-4250

AL-BUMS
FOR LATEST RELEASES AND LOWEST PRICES

$5.49
- Police
- Air Supply
- Def Leppard
- Stray Cats
- Flashdance
- and more

$5.99
- Duran Duran
- Culture Club
- Rolling Stones
- Linda Ronstadt
- Hall & Oates

DON'T FORGET WE BUY USED RECORDS
181 No. Pleasant Street, Amherst 253-7137

Things to look forward to...

Collegian file photos

The Creative Needle
FINE YARNS & NEEDLEWORK SUPPLIES
Mid-Winter Sale
20% - 50% off entire stock
Tues. Jan. 31 - Sat. Feb. 4
The Carriage Shops
233 N. Pleasant St. 549-6106

$ JOBS $
$ $
Student Note & Printing Service is now hiring for spring semester
Stop by and apply M-F 10-4
Student Note & Printing Service
403 Student Union
(upstairs)
545-2271

The staff at La Cucina Di Pinocchio welcomes you back to school

We would like to invite you into our restaurant to try varieties of Veal and Chicken, Homemade Pasta, Lasagna, and other dinner specials, all served with salad & garlic bread.

Full Bar • Wine List

A Free Glass of Wine is served, with our compliments, when you dine with us before February 14.

Our quality meals start at an incredibly low $3.75

We still deliver pizza and subs and now we deliver our quality dinners until 2:00 AM.

* Take out dinners don't include salad and garlic bread

1177 N. PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
FREE DELIVERY
549-3669

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Coming back to school — again

When we come back to school, we are always leaving something behind.

We come back with our stereos, our clothes, our popcorn, our IDs. We are psyched to see our friends and to meet new people.

When we pack up our cars and pull away from home early Sunday morning we know that our excitement to get back to school is balanced by what we leave at home. We think about our family, our home, our job. We consider

Michelle Dolan

UMass to be a place for studying, aspiring, and decision making. It is as if a transformation is necessary. We've got to become students again. Within a few hours of travelling we'll be back at school. Instead of getting up for work, we'll have to get up for class. Instead of putting on a uniform, or dressing carefully, we'll be grabbing whatever clothing is nearest to us and scrambling out.

For some, the adjustment to being back at school is hard. They are often reminded of what is so good about being home. School is just a place for studying. It is a place from which they will get a degree, and hopefully later a good job. They have not found UMass to be a special place. They go home every weekend because they want to.

For others, UMass is their own place. It is a place that offers perhaps more than can be taken advantage of. They recognize their opportunities, to learn more about other people, more about themselves. It is a place to "get ready" for the "real world." Studying hard is just what you do to earn the fun.

Having a long intersession is good and bad as well. For those who were lucky enough to work, it was a chance to earn those needed finances. For those who stayed at home and had to be "creative" so they wouldn't die of boredom, it wasn't so great.

The five weeks of intersession, whether we worked or rested, weren't easy for most of us. There were the good parts about being home. Familiarity. Family. Good food. Old Friends. Time. Sports teams. Hockey games. The Superbowl. A car.

There were also the not-so-good things. Parents getting bummed out if we got in at 3 a.m. A feeling of desertion when friends went back to school on the 16th, and the bars were full of high school kids for the rest of the vacation. Cleaning the house. Shovelling the driveway and having it snow again the next day. Paying for gas.

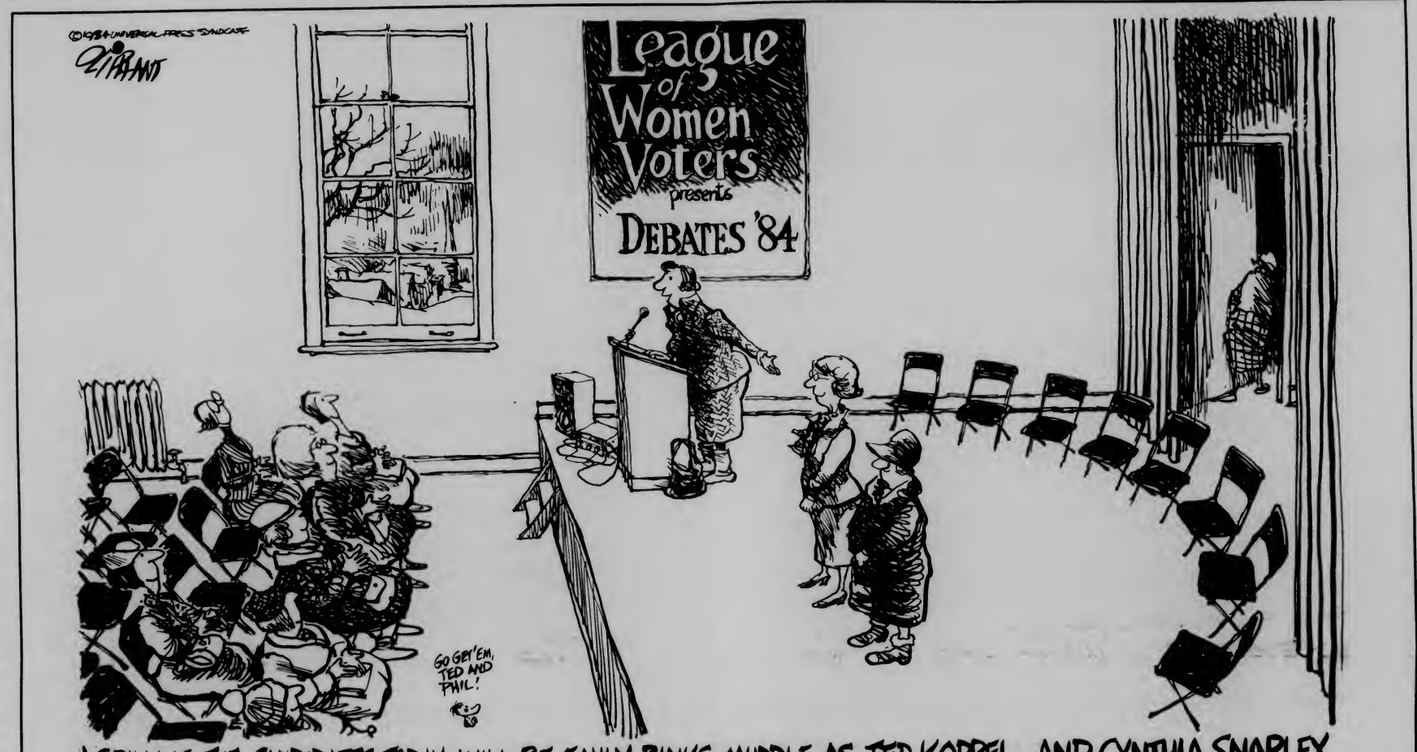
There is good and bad in everything, everywhere. Even at UMass. But no matter how we feel, we still have to adjust to being away again. Sometimes it takes a while. We are usually shocked into studying for that first exam, but when we sit down at the library we feel as if we've never left. We become busy and the semester goes fast.

UMass is a great place to be. There are so many things to do. You can leave home wondering what'll happen to you this semester, and pack up in the spring having tried something new and being totally psyched about it.

Going to a big school has its advantages. People say, "It's too big for me." It doesn't have to be. Don't get caught up in being someplace else. Get caught up in being here.

I suppose I was lucky in a way. Many of my friends were at home during this whole intersession. But they are still at home. They stopped going to school, for whatever reason. I wish it didn't happen because going to school is a great opportunity.

Like many of the students here, I come from a small town where everyone knows everyone else. It is hard to leave that place because it is so much its own world. The friends stay friends for a lifetime. The college kids meet at one of two bars. The high school kids hang out at the pizza place. The junior high kids go ice skating at the pond. You always know where people are.



So when I pulled out of the driveway at home, I was leaving a great deal behind. Things at home are familiar, and predictable. But I go to school at UMass. And I want to take advantage of the opportunities here.

There are a lot of people here from small towns. People who have left someone, something, behind.

UMass isn't too big for any of us. If we want to be bigger ourselves.

Michelle Dolan is a Collegian Columnist.

Letters for publication must be signed and include the writer's address and telephone number for verification. Please type triple spaced with 67 characters per line. Due to space limitation and the volume of mail, we regret that unpublished letters cannot be acknowledged. Letters are subject to editing for clarity, and should not exceed thirty lines.

Middle class mobility impaired

As we enter year one of the Orwellian calender, we should all pause for a moment and consider our own individual contribution to the establishment of George Orwell as a prophet or a misguided enemy of totalitarianism whose "1984" has no relevance to our times. This year will see the debate rage back and fourth, with the most relevant topics mistreated or ignored. With talk of telescreens, newspeak, perpetual superpower confrontations and the like, the crucial question of the individual will be relegated to the ash heap of the inconsequential.

John Gilman

In Orwell's "1984" the role of the individual is to be utterly subservient to the state, a submissive lump of abject misery. While this condition is analagous to the lot of many in other parts of the world, it is not true of the majority of Americans. But this all could change.

The role of the individual in the social fabric of this country has greatly changed in the last twenty years. Reaching its apex in the late 60's and early 70's, individuality has been on the wane ever since. Opposition by a large percentage of Americans to racial and sexual inequalities and the slaughter of the peasant societies of Indochina led to a raising of consciousness that was truly remarkable. It was also threatening to the people who benefitted from the old system.

Samuel Huntington, a professor of government at Harvard, wrote that these advocates of social change could best be rendered ineffective by reducing their freedom. He found that most of these alienated Americans came from middle and upper-middle class backgrounds that had the time and security to become an effective opposition to the status quo. They were essentially an economic class to Mr. Huntington's mind, that could be best dealt with by harming their economic standing. Coupling this with the construction of a "wartime mentality" among the populace to "fight this war amongst themselves" would alleviate the threat to the power structures in this country. Writing in 1975, he advocated inciting confrontations with the Soviet Union to bring this about.

Nine years down the road, it appears that many of Mr. Huntington's suggestions have been implemented. Inflation, unemployment, the abandonment of America's industrial base for a high-tech pie-in-the-sky, and increases in the cost of higher education have all greatly reduced the social mobility and economic well-being of the middle class. The increases in military spending, (justified through confrontation with the Soviets) and the emphasis on high technology has served to funnel most of the promising students from this formerly disgruntled class to politically safe positions in engineering, business, and the sciences. The result has been an acquiescent return to complacency and disregard for individual rights.

Viewed in this context, Orwell's "1984" presents an interesting question to students on American campuses. Why did you choose your particular field? Was it the monetary incentive, job security, or the open fields of opportunity? If so, a reassessment of the role of the individual in this country may well be in order, as well as the relevance of "1984" to the United States.

John Gilman is a Collegian columnist

Letters

Asbestos problems in the CC.

To the Editor,

I am a Campus Center employee, and a member of the Massachusetts Army National Guard specializing in Nuclear Biological Chemical decontamination procedures.

On January 10, 1984, I inspected the Campus Center Concourse which is undergoing the majority of the asbestos removal. I checked all seals, spot checked the scraping procedure, the disposal of the asbestos fibers, and the decontamination of the Sermac employees working in the Concourse area.

In my opinion the Sermac employees have used all possible safety measures in the removal of the asbestos insulation. All work areas were sealed to the public and dangerous exposure to the material was limited to Sermac employees who were properly protected for this type of work. All seals were checked at the start of each shift. Any leak from the work area was immediately and professionally rectified by Sermac employees.

Although all necessary precautions were taken for the protection of the Sermac employees, it was not the same for the employees of the State. My office, which is located between the Campus Center Concourse and the Hatch, remained open despite the recorded asbestos level from the nearby sealed work area. I was unprotected in a potentially dangerous work area with the consent of the University.

I personally question how and why the State can decide on keeping employees working in a situation that could be dangerous to its employees. Do the economics of closing the entire Campus Center outweigh the personal safety of the employees?

The administration of the University of Massachusetts must not lose sight of the human element. Whitmore must not forget their responsibility to the employees of the University. To endanger the health of its employees is to endanger the future of the University itself.

Francis S. Mazzei
Sunderland

...might be cleared up?

To the Editor,

The Campus Center/Student Union Board of Governors has monitored and participated in the development of the asbestos removal project from the initial stages. We're happy to announce that the work is finished and all areas involved are clean and safe.

Despite some problems with controlling the asbestos dust early in January, we'd like to commend all parties involved for completing the project on time and effectively cleaning the Concourse area and University Store. The Companies which did the work, as well as the University and Campus Center administration were very much concerned with the safety of students and University employees and took the necessary precautions when they felt a dangerous situation had arisen.

The project was an inconvenience for many people, especially because the University Store had to be relocated and access to the Campus Center was made difficult, yet it was work that was a necessity not a choice. If the project had been extended past the completion date and into the semester, we would have faced some serious problems in the Campus Center. For further information on the asbestos removal and current situation, please contact the Board of Governors at 545-0194.

Jeremiah Quill
Board of Governors

Who does SAFA represent?

A year ago, I wrote a column about Students Advocating Financial Aid (SAFA). In that column ("Student aid a political football" 2/9/83) I more or less exonerated the group from being a "group of glossy-eyed liberal dreamers." Unfortunately, I've come to the sad conclusion. I was wrong on that particular point.

Don't misunderstand me: students should lobby for whatever aid programs they can get from the government within reason — and at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers. But, I cannot sit back quietly and withold comment about things I've seen since my visit to Washington with SAFA in November of 1982, and my internship at the National Journalism Center (NJC) in Washington last Spring.

STEVEN P. BARRETT

While interning at the NJC, one of my assignments was to write an issue brief. Among several topics to choose from, I picked student loan programs since I had already studied into the issue before. (My findings about the defaults, etc., are certainly worthy of another column.) In this particular column, I wish to share some observations regarding the ideological battle which is also going on in the student loan program business.

One of SAFA's guiding lights in Washington is the United States Student Association (USSA). The title sounds fairly innocuous, but don't let it mislead you. USSA is nothing less than a pro-communist front outfit. While this description might send some people off demanding my head, or for the boys in white coats to pick me up; I certainly hope enough people will take a moment to read the following evidence and decide for themselves in a calm manner.

Janice Fine, USSA's National Chairperson, in August of 1981, gave this bit of political wisdom during her acceptance speech: "Reaganism spells racism, sexism and oppression. We must mobilize and come to Washington with labor and the masses in a united voice in opposition to the budget cuts." It's one thing to be opposed to budget cuts, it's another thing entirely to call for the mobilization of "labor and the masses." Wasn't the woman mouthing Marxist-style rhetoric?

Fine was elected during USSA's 34th National Student Congress which was held at the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus. According to a report written by a student who attended this gathering, the following luminaries had also graced the event with their reknown presence.

Tom Hayden was the keynote speaker, and he urged the group to become more activist and militant in their drive to change government policies. Let's bring back the good old days of tear gas and Sixties style rebellion in the streets! There was also Frank Jackalone, former president of USSA, (whom I might add, was elected at an annual congress which was held here in 1979.) Jackalone once wrote a letter in the communist newspaper Daily World (9/27/80) praising the Young Workers Liberation League on its 10th Anniversary, and for its work at the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students which was held in Havana. But, Jackalone and Hayden weren't alone.

Well now; there was the Peoples Anti-War Mobilization Movement, the Spartacus League, the World Federalist Association, the Young Workers Liberation League, the Voices of the Future, and the Democratic Socialist Organizing Committee. Lest I forget to mention, in attendance, there was also a representative from the Socialist Union of Polish Students. After giving his speech, which stressed among other things, "developing a strong working relationship between all communist student union," this lackey of the Jarulzelski government was given a standing ovation from over half of the audience!

Just at the end of last semester, College Democrats of UMass was getting off the ground. Many of its membership will come from SAFA's ranks. Alright, there's nothing wrong with a political club getting off the ground, especially one associated with a mainstream political party. (Well, the party's leaders might be to the far-left, but the Democratic Party, on paper, is still "mainstream.")

But I have a few questions to ask. Will SAFA continue its willing association with a leftist lobbying outfit in Washington — which in fact doesn't represent most students in America? Will College Democrats follow SAFA, or will its leaders recognize a danger to the Democratic Party's credibility by associating with USSA?

Perhaps some words of caution from Diana Jablonski, Legislative Director of College Democrats of America might help. According to Jablonski, USSA's 1981 annual congress "was dominated by left-leaning activists, many of whom were self-proclaimed communists," and she advised College Democrats across the nation to "refrain from working with the USSA."

Steven P. Barrett is a Collegian columnist.

WELCOME
from
CAMPUS CENTER
FOOD SERVICES
and

the hatch

So Much to Enjoy under One Roof

SALAD BY THE OUNCE

Salad Bar Monday-Friday
11:30 am-1:30 pm

Deli Garden

Sandwiches & Deli Meats
Open 7 days
11:30 am-6:30 pm

Deli Carryout
Monday-Friday
3 pm-6 pm
Saturday
11:30 am-5 pm

the MINUTE LANE

A Quick Breakfast Lunch or Snack
Open 7 days
8 am-10 pm

La Cuchina

Serving a Variety of Pasta Dishes, Pizza, and Italian Specialties.

Featuring the PASTA BAR: the Pasta of Your Choice Topped with Our Delightful Sauces

Monday-Friday
11:30 am-1:30 pm

Open 7 days
5 pm-11 pm

THE VINEYARD

Featuring the Best in Student Entertainment Most Nights

Monday-Friday
11:30 am-12 am

Saturday & Sunday
5 pm-12 am

WELCOME
from
CAMPUS CENTER
FOOD SERVICES

Coffee Shop

Monday-Friday
7 am-3 pm
Offering a Variety of Menu Items

- full Breakfasts
- Grill Items
- Salads
- Snacks

Monday-Friday
5 pm-10 pm
Offering a Limited Menu

QUICKIE LUNCH

Tenth Floor of the Campus Center
MONDAY-FRIDAY 11:30 am-1:30 pm

BLUEWALL BAR

Monday-Friday 11:30 am-1 am
Saturday: Group Rentals/ Private Parties
Closed Sunday

The Hottest Friday Happy Hour in Town

BLUEWALL CAFETERIA

Monday-Friday 11:30 am-1:30 pm

New York Style Deli
Hot Entrees Prepared Daily

TOP of the CAMPUS

RESTAURANT & LOUNGE

Luncheon: Monday-Friday/11:30 am-2 pm
Dinner: Tuesday-Thursday/5 pm-8 pm
Friday & Saturday/5 pm-9 pm

For Reservations, Please Call 549-6000, ext. 639
Ask about the T.O.C. Dinner of the Month Club

Lounge Hours:
Monday-Friday/11:30 am-1 am
Saturday & Sunday/4:30 pm-1 am

CAMPUS CENTER CATERING

Personalized Attention • Flexible Service
Off Premises Catering ... call 545-0418

MIKE'S KITCHEN HAS A NEW LOOK

Homemade luncheon's, the finest in homemade gumplings, stews, soups all reasonably priced

MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

and in a comfortable hometown atmosphere

For a 20" x 28" full-color poster of this ad, send $6.00 check or money order payable to Anheuser-Busch, Inc. Dept. 12-D, One Busch Place, St. Louis, MO 63118. Allow 4-6 weeks. Offer expires December 31, 1984. Void where prohibited. BUDWEISER ® - KING OF BEERS ® - THIS BUD'S FOR YOU ® ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC - ST. LOUIS point, however, if the project will include a new structure.

★ Budget

continued from page 1

Funds for the multi-sport complex, to include an ice skating rink, were not requested by the University.

"Language for the complex was written by the UMass alumni, probably involved in the hockey program the school once had," said Gregg Dilliard, aide to Rep. James Collins, (D-Amherst), who supported the legislation.

Plans as to the cost and location of the facility are still in the study stage, Duffey said.

Another $2.5 million will be used to address the leaching of a coal pile on campus which is contaminating the town's Taylor Brook.

"Part of the problem here was that standards have changed since the coal pile was created 25 years ago," Duffey said. "The standards are now as they should be and we have a chronic, but not acute, pollution problem."

Parties involved can correct the problem in four to five years, DeNyse said.

The $5 million for deferred maintenance and the $1 million for equipment will be used for "a shopping list of problems," DeNyse said. Included within that are the repair of the leaky Fine Arts Center roof and the renovation of Goessman laboratory on campus.

The senator and University officials do not know how much of a time lag there will be before projects can get underway after the Governor signs the bill.

★ Asbestos

continued from page 1

Northampton. Unionized CC employees were allowed to relocate to other areas of campus on Jan. 10. Thirty-one workers took advantage of the University's offer to allow them to relocate and work elsewhere on campus. University officials maintained that "no one was exposed to hazardous levels of asbestos, relocation (was) being allowed to allay worker fears about their safety," Public Information Director Art Clifford said.

That day, Anita Serrol of EHS reported that "all levels are now below the action level, and most areas have zero levels of asbestos." Independent air samples, paid for by the Student Government Association (SGA), were taken in previously untested areas. The results show that elevated levels of asbestos existed in public areas while they were open. The Hatch cafeteria, registered a .02 level, twice as high as specifications allow. The hallway outside the enclosed removal area showed readings of .05, yet employees continued to work there.

A representative of the AFSCME local 1776 has filed a class-action grievance against UMass. As the representative for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Alan Compagnon said that "the grievance is based on the principle that the University must be ultimately held responsible for the whole process. The University violated the contract specifications concerning the removal process by exposing Campus Center employees to levels of asbestos that they shouldn't have."

"The remedy we seek is that the University acknowledge its liability in the matter, and its responsibility of setting up free bi-annual screening programs for anyone who feels that they were working in contaminated areas," Compagnon said.

Scott Overing, of the Employee Labor Relations Board would not comment on the suits.

Other employees have filed workers' compensation claims.

"Other than that we're going to wait and see, concerning the possibility of taking legal action. People are deeply concerned with how their health has been affected, and with the lack of any University response," Charles DiMare, director of the UMass Legal Services Office said. "People were locked into contaminated areas and wonder why they weren't even warned."

A positive effect of the removal/contamination has been the establishment of a University Asbestos Commission, designed to research asbestos-related issues on campus.

"The cause (of asbestos-contamination precautions) has been helped greatly by this whole thing – even in terms of recognition by University officials. They're taking things a little more seriously, and will be more concerned about liability in the future," said Compagnon.

According to UMass spokesperson Clifford, "The one thing we learned from the experience is that people really became most fearful because there was a lack of effective communication and information-sharing between all parties as to what possible danger there was. Once efforts were made, people weren't nearly as anxious."

1984 Spring Semester

Mon Jan 30 Registration Day
Tue Jan 31 First classes
Mon Feb 20 Holiday
Tue Feb 21 Monday class schedule followed
Sat Mar 17 Spring vacation begins after last class
Mon Mar 26 Classes resume
Mon Apr 17 Counselling period begins (classes not suspended)
Wed Apr 18 Monday class schedule followed
Sat Apr 21 Counselling period ends
Wed May 16 Last classes
Thu May 17 Reading Day
Fri May 18 Reading Day
Sat May 19 Finals begin
Fri May 25 Last finals, semester ends
Sun May 27 Commencement
Wed May 30 Final grades due, 12 noon

Associated Dates: Good Friday Apr 20

HOT TUBS

UTOPIA SPAS

HOT TUBS

A Complete Therapeutic & Relaxation Facility

MONDAY
SPECIAL
COLLEGE NIGHT
First Student
Full Price
Second Student
FREE

TUESDAY
First Person
Full Price
Second Person
99¢

SUNTANNING
SPECIAL
30 days unlimited tanning starting day of purchase
$25.

A Division of Stress Management Inc.
Located at 175 University Drive
next to Stadium Liquor in the Price Chopper Mall
Open Everyday 11:00 am - 1:00 am
Phone 253-SPAS call for reservation or just walk in TAKE A DEEP BREATH AND RELAX!!!

charlie's
good food & drink

DRINK SPECIALS AT Charlie's

1 Pray Street, Amherst, MA 549-5403

charlie's
good food & drink

Super Happy Hour Daily 3-6 p.m.

"2 for 1" JUMBO DRINKS
(Everything but Bottled Beer)
FREE MUNCHIES

SUPER NIGHT SPECIALS
(8 p.m. until closing)

MONDAY
Molson Night
99¢ Bottles of Molson Golden Ale
75¢ Molson Ale Draft
$4.00 Pitchers

TUESDAY
Pizza and Beer Night
For $4.95 you get a Pitcher of Domestic Draft (Pabst or Miller) or Carafe of any wine and a Cheese Pizza
(a $8.90 value)
(while kitchen is open)
(add for additional items)

WEDNESDAY
Double Trouble Night—"2 for 1" Jumbo Drinks
(everything but bottled beer)

THURSDAY
Strohs Night
95¢ bottles

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Come in & Check Out Charlies

SUNDAY
Dollar and a Penny Night
Any Low Shelf One Shot Drink $1.01
(regularly $1.50)

We are open daily, 7 days a week, from 11:00 a.m.-1:00 a.m. We serve lunch, dinner, and we also have a late night menu. featuring pizza and sandwiches. Check out our daily food and drink specials. Come to our Happy Hour for "2 for 1" Jumbo Drinks and Free Munchies every day (3-6 p.m.)
Charlie's is a nice place to drink, the place where friends meet.
Pool table, video games, dartboard, jukebox, two color T.V.'s.
We make homemade pizza, even the dough is made in our kitchen.
Come check us out!

OPEN COURSE LIST

AFROAM 112 Intro Cley & Plas	MWF 9:05-12:05
AFROAM 112 Intro Cley & Plaster	TuTh 9:30-12:30
AFROAM 113 Aesth Afram Arthis	TuTh 4:00-6:15
AFROAM 131 African History II	M 4:00-18:30
AFROAM 188 Rev CNCP A-A Mus II	MWF 12:20
AFROAM 197 Bl&Blcgr & Res Afro Am	MWF 2:30
AFROAM 192A Sem-Blk Amer Lit I	TuTh2:30-3:45
AFROAM 212 Sculpt-Sheet Metal	TuTh 1:15-2:15
AFROAM 217 Cont Blk Img Mk	TuTh 19:00-21:30
AFROAM 251 Blk Amer Drama	TuTh 11:15-12:30
AFROAM 254 Intro African Study	Tu 19:00-21:30
AFROAM 280J Blk & Wh Wmn Writ	MWF 10:10
AFROAM 291A Sem-Hist Cvl Rights	Tu 11:15-12:30
AFROAM 291D Sem-Theatr 3rd Wl Am	F 9:05-12:05
AFROAM 291E Sem-Malcolm X Topc 3	By Arrgt
AFROAM 291Q Sem-Hist Civl Rights	Tu 11:15-12:30
ANTH 100A Intro to General Anth	MW 11:15
ANTH 100B Intro to General Anth	Tu 19:00-21:30
ANTH 102A Intro to Archaeology	MW 9:05
ANTH 102B Intro to Archaeology	M 19:00-21:30
ANTH 103A Intro Physical Anth	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ANTH 103B Intro to Physical Anth	W 19:00-21:30
ANTH 104A Intro Cultural Anth	MW 1:25
ANTH 104B Intro Cultural Anth	Th 19:00-21:30
ANTH 191R Sem-Pris/Microem Soc	Tu 19:00-21:30
ANTH 208 Culture Through Film	Tu 19:45-22:15
ANTH 234 Primitive Art	W 19:00-21:30
ANTH 270 N Amer Indians	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ANTH 271 Human Evolution	MWF 10:10
ARTHIS 110 Survey-Ren-Mod	MW 11:15
ARTHIS 307 Romaneque & Gothic	TuTh 11:15-12:30
ARTHIS 313 Ital Late Ren & Mann	MW 3:35-4:50
ARTHIS 317 Baroque Art in N Eur	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ARTHIS 321 Eur Art 1780-1880	MWF 12:20
ASTRON 100 Exploring Universe	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ASTRON 100 Exploring Universe	MWF 11:15
ASTRON 100 Exploring Universe	MWF 10:10
ASTRON 100 Exploring Universe	MWF 9:05
ASTRON 100 Exploring Universe	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ASTRON 103 Astronomical Obs	Th 19:30-21:30
ASTRON 105 Weather & Our Atmos	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ASTRON 222 Galaxies & The Univ	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ASTRON 234 History of Astronomy	TuTh 2:30-3:45
BIOCHM 205 Intro to Biochm	MWF 11:15
BIOCHM 205A Intro to Biochm	MWF 11:15
BIOCHM 211 Molecular Biochmtry	MWF 11:15
BOTANY 100 Intro Botany	MWF 11:15
BOTANY 101A General Botany	MW 3:35
BOTANY 101B General Botany	TuTh 2:30
BOTANY 180E Intro Biology II	MWF 11:15
CHEM 110 Gen Chem	MWF 11:15
CHEM 111 Gen Chem-Sci	MF 1:25
CHEM 112 Gen Chem-Sci	TuTh 9:05
CHEM 112 Gen Chem-Sci	TuTh 10:10
CHEM 241 Int Descr Inorg Chm	MWF 11:15
CHEM 250 Organic Chemistry	TuTh 9:30-10:45
CHEM 252 Organic Chem Lab	Th 12:20-3:20
CHEM 252 Organic Chem Lab	Th 2:30-5:30
CHEM 282 Organic Mon-Maj	MWF 11:15
CHEM 288 Organic Chem-Maj	MWF 9:05
CHEM 298 Org Lab-Maj	W 1:25-4:25
CHINSE 110 Non-Int Elem Chins I	MWF 11:15
CHINSE 110 Non-Int Elem Chins I	MWF 9:05
CHINSE 110 Non-Int Elem Chins I	MWF 1:25
CHINSE 154 Lt-Tale Sh Stry & Novl	MWF 10:10
CLSICS 102 Roman Civ	MWF 9:05
COINS 121 Intr Prb Solv w/Comp	MWF 10:10
COINS 123 Intr Prb Solv w/Comp	TuTh 1:00-2:15
COINS 201 Assembly Lang Progrm	TuTh 2:30-3:45
COINS 287 Data Structures	TuTh 9:30-10:45
COMLIT 101G Brave New World	MW11:15
COMLIT 110 Myth, Folk & Child Lit	MW 10:10
COMLIT 144 Japan Lit-Modern	TuTh 2:30-3:45
COMLIT 154 Lt-Tale Sh Stry & Novl	MWF 10:10
COMLIT 201B Politics of Pleasure	Tu 19:45-22:45
DUTCH 110 Elementary Dutch	MWF 1:25
DUTCH 120 Elementary Dutch	MWF 2:30
EDUC H 220 Intro to Juv Delqncy	Tu 19:00-21:30
EDUC H 291D Sem-In & Trn Alcoh Ed	W 2:30-5:15
EDUC H 316 Issues in Humn Serv	W 1:00-3:30
EDUC H 365 Intermed Sign Lang	By Arrgt
EDUC H 379 Value Clarification	By Arrgt
EDUC H 380 Hum Interact/Grp Dyn	By Arrgt
EDUC H 391G Sem-Intro Ed Handicp	TuTh 9:30-10:45
EDUC H 392D Seminar	By Arrgt
EDUC H 392E Seminar	By Arrgt
EDUC H 392F Seminar	By Arrgt
EDUC H 392G Sem-Soc Iss-Handicpm	By Arrgt
EDUC H 392H Sem-Soc Iss Hetersex	By Arrgt
EDUC H 392I Sem-Pgm Dupl & Fund	W 19:00-21:30
EDUC H 392J Sem-Oppsn & Soc Chg	By Arrgt
EDUC I 291C Sem-Writng Non-Nat Sp	TuTh 12:30-2:30
EDUC I 394 Intro Future Studies	Tu 19:00-21:30
ENGL 111 Basic Writing	TuTh 1:00-2:15
ENGL 112H College Writing	TuTh 11:15-12:30
ENGL 112H College Writing	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ENGL 128H Masrpce of W Lit	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ENGL 138 Nature and Lit	TuTh 1:00-2:15
ENGL 140 Reading Fiction	MWF 11:15
ENGL 140 Reading Fiction	TuTh 1:00-2:15
ENGL 141 Reading Poetry	MWF 11:15
ENGL 142 Reading Drama	TuTh 11:15-12:30
ENGL 152 Expository Writ/Rhet	TuTh 4:00-6:15
ENGL 163 Sci Fic-Masterworks	W 19:45-22:45
ENGL 197A Sptc-Black Lit I	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ENGL 202 Major Brit Writers	MWF 10:10
ENGL 222H Shakespeare	M 19:45-22:45
ENGL 272 American Romanticism	MWF 12:20
ENGL 285 Intro to Folklore	W 19:45-22:45
FRENCH 120 Elementary French II	MWF 2:30
FRENCH 120 Elementary French II	MWF 2:30
FRENCH 121 French Reading Knowl II	MWF 11:15
FRENCH 123 Ital & Fren/Voice Maj	MWF 11:15
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 10:10
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	TuTh 2:30-3:45
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 9:05
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 1:25
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 11:15
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 10:10
FRENCH 230 Intermediate French	MWF 9:05
FRENCH 242 Intermediate Oral	TuTh 11:15-12:30
FRENCH 244 Interm Fiction	MWF 1:25
FRENCH 244 Interm Fiction	MWF 11:15
FRENCH 244 Interm Fiction	TuTh 1:00-2:15
FRENCH 247 Intermed: Soc Sci	MWF 2:20
FRENCH 248 Intermed: Math & Sci	MWF 12:20
FRENCH 249 Intermed: Humanities	MWF 10:10
FRENCH 250 Language & Literature	MWF 10:10
FRENCH 251 Intermed Gram Rev	MWF 11:15
FRENCH 272 Conversation	MWH 12:20
FRENCH 272 Conversation	TuTh 2:30-3:45
FS&N 101 Struggle for Food	MWF 9:05
FS&N 101 Struggle for Food	MWF 3:35
FS&N 102 World Food Habits	MWF 12:20
GEOG 146 Physical Environment	TuTh 9:30-10:45
GEOG 155 Intro to Human Geog	TuTh 11:15-12:30
GEOL 101 Physical Geology	TuTh 11:15
GEOL 101 Physical Geology	MW 2:30
GEOL 103 Intro Oceanography	TuTh 1:00-2:15
GEOL 106 Face of the Earth	MWF 10:10
GEOL 107 History of Life	TuTh 9:30-10:45
GERMAN 110 Elmenrsy German	MWTh 9:05
GERMAN 110 Elementary German	MWTh 11:15
GERMAN 110 Elementary German	MWTh 10:10
GERMAN 120 Elementary German	MWTH 4:40
GERMAN 120 Elementary German	MWTh 9:05
GERMAN 230 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 10:10
GERMAN 230 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 9:05
GERMAN 230 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 12:20
GERMAN 230 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 11:15
GERMAN 240 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 10:10
GERMAN 240 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 9:05
GERMAN 240 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 12:20
GERMAN 240 Interm Reading Germ	MWF 1:15
GERMAN 242 Intermediate German	MWF 1:25
GERMAN 242 Intermediate German	MWF 9:05
GERMAN 245 Business German	MWF 2:30
GERMAN 250 Free Conversation	W 3:35
HEBREW 102 Elem Mod Hebrew II	MWF 11:15
HEBREW 102 Elem Mod Hebrew II	MWF 9:05
HEBREW 102 Elem Mod Hebrew II	MWF 12:20
HEBREW 202 Intermed Hebrew II	TuTh 11:15-12:30
HIST 100 West Thot to 1600	MWF 11:15
HIST 121 Latin American Civil	MW 12:20
HIST 141 Eur Hist 1815-Present	TuTh 11:15-12:30
HIST 143H Honors Modern Europe	M 19:00-22:00
HIST 150 Dev Amer Civ to 1876	MW 12:20
HIST 150 Dev Amer Civ to 1876	MW 1:25
HIST 151 Dev Amer Civ 1876-On	TuTh 4:00-6:15
HIST 151A Dev Amer Civ 1876-On	TuTh 2:30
HIST 153H Honors Amer Civ	Tu 19:00-22:00
HIST 197A Sptp-1619 to Civ War	TuTh 1:00-2:15
HUMDEV 210 Hum Dev Life Cycle	M 1:25-4:25
HUMDEV 270 Child Development	MW 3:00-4:15
HUMDEV 270 Child Developmer .	TuTh 2:30-3:45
HUMDEV 270 Child Development	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ITAL 120 Elementary Ital II	MWF 9:05
ITAL 120 Elementary Ital II	MWF 12:20
ITAL 120 Elementary Ital II	MWF 11:15
ITAL 120 Elementary Ital II	MWF 1:25
ITAL 126 Intens Elem Italian	MWF 10:10-12:05
ITAL 201B Pol Plesr/Ital Film	Tu 19:45-22:45
ITAL 240 Intermed Ital II	TuTh 1:00-2:15
JAPAN 110 Non-Intsn El Japan I	MWF 11:15
JAPAN 110 Non-Intsn El Japan I	MWF 9:05
JAPAN 144 Japan Lit-Modern	TuTh 2:30-3:45
JAPAN 246 Intens Elem Japan II	MTuWThF 10:10
JAPAN 246 Intens Elem Japan II	MWF 1:25
JUDAIC 102A The Jewish People II	TuTh 9:30-10:45
JUDAIC 102B The Jewish People II	TuTh 11:15-12:30
JUDAIC 102C The Jewish People II	MW 11:15
LATIN 110 Elementary latin I	MWF 9:05
LATIN 248 Intens Intermed Lat	MWF 8:00-9:55
LSB&R 100 Leisure Contmp Soc	TuTh 9:30-10:45
LSB&R 103 Field Experience I	M 19:00-21:30
LSB&R 104 Field Experience II	M 19:00-21:30
MATH 103 Precalc Trig	TuTh 2:30-3:45
MATH 104 Alg/Anal Geom/Trig	MWF 11:15
MATH 108 P-Cal Alg-Func & Graph	MWF 2:30
MATH 107 Anal Geom	MWF 12:20
MATH 120 Calc for Business	MWF 3:35
MATH 128 Calc Life-Soc Sci II	TuTh 1:00-2:15
MATH 128 Calc Life-Soc Sci II	MWF 2:30
MATH 128 Calc Life-Soc Sci II	MWF 11:15
MATH 133 Honors Calculus II	TuTh 9:30-10:45
MATH 235 Intro Lin Alg	MWF 2:30
MUSIC 100 Appreciation-Intro	TuTh 2:30-3:45
MUSIC 100 Appreciation-Intro	MWF 3:35
MUSIC 101 Literature of Music	MWF 10:10
MUSIC 103 History of Jazz	MWF 1:25
MUSIC 104 Piano Tuning & Tech	W 18:30-21:30
MUSIC 111 Theo Survey-Nonmaj	MWF 2:30
MUSIC 113 Harmony II	MWF 9:05
NAREST 100 Conserv of Natrl Res	MWF 10:10
PHIL 100 Intro to Phil	MW 12:20
PHIL 100 Intro to Phil	MW 10:10
PHIL 110 Intro to Logic	MWF 9:05
PHIL 110 Intro to Logic	TuTh 2:30-3:45
PHIL 160 Intro to Ethics	MWF 2:30
PHIL 160 Intro to Ethics	MWF 3:35
PHIL 160B Intro to Med Ethics	TuTh 9:30-10:45
PHIL 162 Man & The State	MWF 10:10
PHYSIC 100 Physics For Poets	MWF 2:30
PHYSIC 100 Physics For Poets	MWF 10:10
PHYSIC 117 Nuclear Energy	MWF 9:05
PHYSIC 139 Intro Physic-Hlth Sc	TuTh 4:00-5:15
PHYSIC 141 Phys-Life Sci Maj I	MWF 10:10
PHYSIC 142 Phys-Life Sci Maj II	MWF 9:05
PHYSIC 161 General Physics I	MWF 2:30
PHYSIC 162 General Physics II	MWF 11:15
PHYSIC 182 Physics II	MWF 10:10
PLSOIL 105 Soils	MWF 8:00
PLSOIL 120 Org Farm & Gardeng	TuTh 11:15
POLISH 120 Elementary Polish II	MWF 9:05
POLISH 240 Intermed Polish II	MWF 10:10
POLSCI 101 American Politics	WF 9:05
POLSCI 101 American Politics	TuTh 2:30
POLSCI 111 Comparative Politics	MWF 10:10
POLSCI 121 World Politics	MW 11:15
POLSCI 161B Study of War	MWF 1:25
POLSCI 208 Pol Parties & Elctns	TuTh 2:30-3:45
PORT 110 Elem Portuguese I	MWF 9:05
PORT 120 Elem Portuguese II	MWF 1:25
PORT 230 Intermediate Port I	MWF 11:15
PORT 240 Intermediate Port II	MWF 11:15
PSYCH 100A Elementary Psych	MWF 10:10
PYSCH 100B Elementary Psych	MWF 9:05
PSYCH 100C Elementary Psych	TuTh 9:30-10:45
PSYCH 100D Elementary Psych	TuTh 8:00-9:15
PSYCH 100G Elementary Psych	Th 1:00-3:30
PSYCH 110A Psych as Nat Sci	TuTh 8:00-9:15
PSYCH 110C Psych as Nat Sci	TuTh 1:00-2:15
PSYCH 110D Psych as Nat Sci	TuTh 2:30-3:45
RUSS 110 Elementary Russian I	MWF 10:10
RUSS 110 Elementary Russian I	MWF 1:25
RUSS 120 Elementary Russian II	MWF 12:20
RUSS 230 Intermed Russian I	MWF 12:20
RUSS 256 Mod Russ Writr Tmel	TuTh 9:30-10:45
SOCIOL 102 Age, Sex, Knshp in Soc	TuTh 11:15-12:30
SOCIOL 103 Social Problems	MWF 10:10
SOCIOL 103 Social Problems	MW 1:25
SOCIOL 104 Urb Life & Indet Soc	TuTh 1:00-2:15
SOCIOL 107 Cont Amer Soc	TuTh 1:00-2:15
SOCIOL 107 Cont Amer Soc	TuTh 9:30-10:45
SOCIOL 107A Cont Amer Soc	TuTh 11:15-12:30
SOCIOL 109 Population & Environmt	MWF 10:10
SOCIOL 110 Gen Intro Sociology	TuTh 2:30-3:45
SOCIOL 110 Gen Intro Sociology	M 19:00-22:00
SOCIOL 110 Gen Intro Sociology	MWF 10:10
SOCIOL 201 Theor & Perspectives	MWF 1:25
SOCIOL 211 Data Collect & Anal	TuTh 9:30- 10:45
SOCIOL 212 Bsm Statistics	TuTh 1:00-2:15
SOCIOL 220A Guns, Crime, Violence	TuTh 11:15-12:30
SOCIOL 222 The Family	WF 11:15
SOCIOL 241 Criminology	MWF 9:05
SOCIOL 241 Criminology	TuTh 9:30-10:45
SOCIOL 241 Criminology	MWF 10:10
SOCIOL 261 Population Studies	TuTh 9:30-10:45
SOCIOL 281 Society & Individual	MWF 11:15
SPAN 110 Elementary Spanish I	MWF 2:30
SPAN 110 Elementary Spanish I	MWF 2:30
SPAN 120 Elementary Spanish II	MWF 11:15
SPAN 120A Elementary Spanish II	MWF 2:30
SPAN 126H Elementary-Intensive	MWF 9:05
SPAN 230 INtermediate Span I	MWF 1:25
SPAN 230 Intermediate Span I	MWF 2:30
SPAN 246H Intermed Intensive	MWF 10:10
THEATR 100 Intro to Theater	MW 3:35-5:30
THEATR 110 Performance Mgt	By Arrgt
THEATR 140 Beg Tech in Perform	TuTh 8-10:45
THEATR 210 Rehearsal & Prod	By Arrgt
WOST 201 Foundations of WOST	MWF 1:25
WOST 291B Seminar	M 19:00-21:30
WOST 292M Mideast:Wmn,Hst&Dvl	W 3:35-18:35
WOST 295W Sem-Blk & Wt Wm Wrt	MWF 10:10
ZOOL 101 Intro Animal Biology	TuTh 11:15
ZOOL 102 Int An Biol/Sci Maj	TuTh 2:30-3:45
ZOOL 103 Biol of Social Issue	TuTh 9:30-10:45
ZOOL 200 Natural History	Th 10:10
ZOOL 236 Intro Physiology	MW 12:20

Lists courses with only 5 or more spaces. Excludes upper-level courses and/or courses for majors.
A more detailed list is available at CASIAC (see Machmer East lobby).

A service to students provided by the Student Government Association and the Collegian

Emergency showers in working order

All emergency drench showers on campus were tested last week by the Department of Environmental Health and Safety, and all were in working order, said senior fire inspector Dave Beaudin.

The showers, located in laboratories, are checked twice yearly for operational and shut-off problems and are also tested to flush them out. All showers were reported to be in working order, with the exception of a few which did not shut off properly, Beaudin said. Plumbers were dispatched to repair them.

★ Jong

Continued from page 7

ches its soul and finds only its various skins; and I think of the dried tuft of roots leading nowhere and the parched umbilicus, lopped off in the garden. Not self-righteous like the proletarian potato, nor a siren like the apple. No show-off like the banana. But a modest, self-effacing vegetable, questioning, introspective, peeling itself away, or merely radiating halos like lake ripples."

Jong finds a measure of her own soul in the onion, claiming the job of the poet is to "look at life afresh" and to reveal things that haven't been seen in their true light.

Anne Sexton was Jong's mentor, as was Colette, to whom Jong's book of poetry "Loveroot" is dedicated. For Jong, Colette was a figure to look up to, because there are "not many role setters for women writers, not many lived." Colette lived until she was eighty and "died with a pen in her hand." This was important to Jong, who said she was beginning to wonder "whether all women poets had to be suicides or spinsters."

Jong explained that when she went to college (she graduated from Barnard in 1963) college English meant Auden, Yeats and T.S. Eliot. She claims no one studied Dickinson as a woman poet but as a "man of letters." Great novels were clearly about men. Jong fought against these things when she began to write.

When she began publishing poetry in the early 1970's, her poems received a great deal of attention because "women were the rage," Jong laughed, "as if women go in and out of style!" Yet at the tail end of the sixties, according to Jong "the more you wrote about menstruation and rage the more you were applauded for it."

She wrote many poems out of a phase of her life where she was connecting with her own anger, but what kept them from being poems of pure anger was Jong's saving humor beneath that anger, a humor which makes all tolerable and remarkably sincere.

Important Phone Numbers

University Police and Fire	545-3111
Amherst Police and Fire	911
Health Services	549-2671
UMass Rape Hotline	545-2677
Student Phone Numbers	545-1515
University Operator	0 or 545-0111
Information Data Bank	545-1555
Bursar's Office	545-2368
Registrar	545-0555
Financial Aid	545-0801
Campus Housing	545-1960
Off-Campus Housing	545-0865
Dean of Students	545-2684
Dining Commons Menu	545-2626
PVTA	586-5806
UMass Transit	545-0056
Library Information	545-0150
Foreign Students Office	545-2843
Handicapped Student Affairs	545-0892
Collegian	545-3500
WMUA	545-2876
BCP	545-1987
Student Government Assoc.	545-0341
Textbook Annex	545-3750
Parking Office	545-0065
CASIAC	545-2191
CCEBS	545-0031

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN FT. LAUDERDALE - SPRING BREAK '84

TV SALE
19" Motel Color Portables
RCA XL-100 Solid State
Selling at the HOWARD JOHNSON MTR LODGE
Rte. 9, 401 Russell St., Hadley
Wed. Feb. 1 2 pm - 7 pm
Thurs. Feb. 2 11 am - 3 pm
MASTERCARD. . .VISA. . .ACCEPTED
RVM Associates
No Phone Calls Please
Sale held by RVM Sales Corp

"I wish I knew how I felt about being pregnant."
If you're facing an unwanted pregnancy, it's normal to have very mixed feelings. But talking to a Preterm counselor can help you figure out what you truly want. Call today. Because if you don't decide, your body will.
Preterm. 738-6210.
preterm
The most experienced reproductive health care center in the Northeast
1842 Beacon Street
Brookline, MA 02146

Sometimes The Dragon Wins
Fantasy Shirts
P.O. Box 92531-D
Rochester, NY 14692
Write for a catalog

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
Thurs. 2/2/84
Dance To The Funk Pop of Boston's Hottest Band!
'til tuesday
Winner of the 1983 WBCN Rock & Roll Rumble!

The Sub
33 E. Pleasant St., Amherst
Welcome Back Students
Delicious sandwiches served with the finest quality deli meats and fresh vegetables. For a treat try one of our tasty Tuna, Chicken, Egg or Crab Salad Sandwiches served on syrian or subroll.
FREE BOWL OF CHILI
with every double meat whole sub purchased
COUPON
549-5160

Birth control not a national priority

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

This past Jan. 22 marked the eleventh anniversary of the Supreme Court decision, Roe v. Wade, which made abortions legal in the United States.

Since 1973, however, specific legislation, restricting legal abortion and contraceptive access, has been proposed, and some implemented, by state and federal governments.

A majority of the abortion and contraceptive access restrictions affect female minors and lower income women, who are usually black and minority women.

In Massachusetts, according to Ellen Story of the Family Planning Council of Western Massachusetts, there is much "confusion" concerning Medicaid funding, which finances abortions for low income women.

"Medicaid does pay for abortions, and has never stopped paying for them in Massachusetts," Story said. "There is confusion about this because there has been a lot of publicity about the states that do not fund abortions."

In 1982, Massachusetts became the only state to pass the Abortion Parental Consent Law, which mandates that anyone 17 or under must have parental permission from both parents in order to have an abortion. If a young woman decides not to inform her parents, or if one parent says yes and the other says no, she must go before a judge and "prove" she is "mature" enough to have an abortion.

Story said most of the judges she has spoken with "feel, number one, that this issue doesn't belong in court, and they are sorry they have to be involved in it."

Family Planning Centers throughout the nation provide birth control and counseling for all women, but most clients are poor women who cannot afford the high costs of private health services.

"Women pay according to their ability to pay, and no one is turned away because they don't have enough money," Story said.

Fifty per cent of all Family Planning Program funding comes from Title X, which is federal financial assistance. In Fiscal Year 1981, 25 per cent of these federal funds were cut.

Story says the Reagan Administration is "attempting to defund Family Planning facilities nationwide" because the Administration has other "priorities," and believes Family Planning is "dispensible."

Back to School Edition
Spring, 1984

Managing Editor Bill Wall
News Editor Anne McCrory
Editorial Page Editor Josh Meyer
Living Editor Tami Borton
Arts Editor Lisa Mosley
Sports Editor Gerry DeSimas
Photo Editor Drew Ogier
Night Editor Michelle Murray
Advertising Manager Eric Mann
Advertising Reps Michael McDonald, Caren Orlick, Stacy Schott, Liz Zwerling
Cover Art Mark Rollins
Candidates Graphic Brian Sullivan
Production Manager J.P. Shanahan
Typesetting Laura Zigman, Tracy Lang
Production Norm Achin, Lynn Eisenberg, Joy McCarty, Sue Giannetti, Lesley Clark
Contributing Writers and Artists Camden Pierce, Tom Middleton, Miriam Zoll, Elizabeth Luciano, Annemarie Malley, Dave Goldfield, Tom Kelley, Matt Luczkow, Andy Gordon, Jim Fein, Melissa Graham, Ed Been, Lisa Marie Cantwell, Risa Freeman, Mark Rollins, George Hill, Jim Walsh, Dave Winmill and Rich Hancock.
Special thanks to...Joel Myerson, Jim Ristuben, Maureen Majerowski, Faye Whitney-Lussier, Cathy Chilson...Ware River News...and James P. and Michelle M. for enduring the deadline extensions...Deadlines, what are deadlines?

Add/drop continues through Feb. 13

Add/drop period began yesterday and will continue through Feb. 13, at which time both add/drop and pass/fail forms are due. Students must drop any course they do not intend to take, even though professors may now optionally drop students who do not attend the first two classes or make other arrangements. All forms should be returned to the information desk in Whitmore Administration Building.

SALE!
BEDSPREADS
WALL HANGINGS
LAMPS
BAMBOO WINDOW SHADES
RUGS
RECORD CRATE KITS
PRINTS
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

TEXTBOOK ANNEX
Mon. Jan. 30 - 9 am - 5 pm
Tues. Jan. 31 - 9 am - 9 pm
Wed. Feb. 1 - 9 am - 9 pm
Thurs. Feb. 2 - 9 am - 9 pm
Fri. Feb. 3 - 9 am - 9 pm
Sat. Feb. 4 - 9 am - 3 pm
Mon. Feb. 6 thru Fri. Feb. 10 9 am - 5 pm thereafter 9 am - 4 pm

DELANO'S

"Who loves ya! Baby?" We do
Welcome Back Twofers
2 for 1 Molsons
Plus Our Original twofers & hors d'oevres
7 days 7 nights
4-6 pm
Proper ID a MUST
57 N. Pleasant St.
253-5141
10-midnight

40 PLUS SHOPS RESTAURANTS

THORNES

Thornes Marketplace,
150 Main Street, Northampton
Open Daily 9:30-5:30 •
Thursday until 9 pm • Sunday Noon-5 pm

ROCK & ROLL BLUES SOUL CLASSICAL FOLK JAZZ

DYNAMITE RECORDS

MAXELL UDXL II 90	2.38 plus tax
TDK SA 90	2.38 plus tax
SONY UCXS 90	3.00 plus tax
MAXELL UDXL-S	3.75 plus tax

Thornes,
a marketplace plus!
150 Main St., Northampton
584-1580

Dancepower

FOR ALL YOUR DANCE FASHIONS

- Authentic Capezio® Jazz shoes
- Suspendar leotards & unitards
- Cotton dancewear by Dance Basics
- New Danskin styles
- Dance trunks and matching tops

PLUS
50% off selected leotards and warm-up wear

Thornes Market
150 Main St.
Northampton 586-8050

"THORNES, a marketplace plus"

CHONA

Sale

UP TO 50% OFF
WINTER
CLOTHING
Beginning Thurs.,
Jan. 19th
(Women's Clothing also on sale downstairs)

CONTEMPORARY FASHION FOR MEN

MEN 2nd FLOOR
THORNES MARKET
150 MAIN STREET NORTHAMPTON

open daily 9 30-5 30, Thurs eve til 9 Sun 12-5

Sale

UP TO 50% OFF WINTER

CLOTHING
JOHN HENRY, WILLI WEAR, BELLE FRANCE, FENN WRIGHT AND MANSON AND MORE

LINGERIE
LILY OF FRANCE, HANRO, HANKY PANKY, CHICAS AND MORE

SHOES
NICHELS, JAZZ, IMPO, THOM BROWN AND MORE

MENS
ALL WINTER CLOTHING (2nd floor)

Chona CHONA CONTEMPORARY FASHION AND SHOES

Beginning Thursday, Jan. 19th

THORNES MARKETPLACE
150 MAIN ST., NORTHAMPTON
open daily 9 30-5 30, Thurs eve til 9
Sunday 12-5

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45 3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yarmouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

HELP WANTED

Need cash? Earn $500 + each schoo year, 2-4 (flexible) hours per week placing and filling posters on campus. Serious workers only; we give recommendations. 1-800-243-6679

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

PRACTICE YOUR POLITICS this term! Join with MASSPIRG's political outreach staff to work on Toxics, Acid Rain, and energy policy in Massachusetts. Full and part-time positions, 2-10 pm. Call Terry, 256-6434.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust
Ft. Lauderdale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down
for more info 545-3437

Is it true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S. Government? Get the facts today! Call (312) 742-1142 ext. 5931-A

Cash for college available. Computer shows $16.5 million unclaimed. Results guaranteed - Send $1.00 (refundable) SDR-49 Downing Fall River, MA 02723

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
NON-MEMBERS WELCOME
FOR MORE INFO 546-3437

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, Theses, Cases, low rates, on campus 584-7924 Nancy

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male roommate wanted to share bedroom in Brittany Manor apt. winter sublet with spring option (413) 442-3832 ask for Gerard

SERVICES

Typing, Copies, Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0694 anytime

WANTED

Commission student travel sales representatives. Contact Greg Hogarth at Blyth & Company, 84 Yorkville Ave., Toronto, Ont. Canada M5R IB9 1-416-964-2569

WFCR-FM needs student interns for work in news reporting and station operations. Call the program director at 5-0100

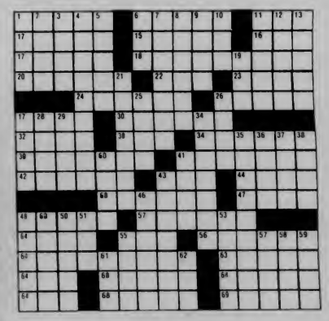
Bloom County by Berke Breathed

The UMass Zone Mark Rollins

Mass Phobia D. Winmill

The Strip Jim Walsh

Superbad



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Declivity
6 Nigeria's capital
11 Knock
14 "The Gold Bug," et al.
15 Small coin of Israel
16 Name in coaching
17 Happening
18 One club, e.g.
20 "Ring" composer
22 Mystery writer Josephine
23 Shade of green
24 Line on a weatherman's map
26 Toast, in Malmo
27 Unheeding
30 Popular condiment
32 ——— China
33 Cover ground
34 Indulge
39 Describing Hawthorne's "A"
41 To the right, Fr.
42 ——— crab
43 D.C. based agcy.
44 Actress Patricia
45 Classity
47 A Paris airport
48 Revise
52 Cricket
54 Stinging remark
55 Kingston's prov.
56 Cattle herder
60 Ball park hit
63 Infirm
64 Cosy spot
65 Pinnacle
66 Lombardy's metropolis
67 Time abbr.
68 Puts to trial
69 Cologne

DOWN
1 Hodgepodge
2 Elna output
3 Fashion name
4 Like a feather
5 Colorado's ——— Park
6 Palmas or Vegas
7 Kick around a political football
8 Dead ducks
9 Carousal
10 Gal of song
11 Proportion
12 Lavender, for one
13 Jury
19 BPOE member
21 Vestments like surplices
25 Temptation
26 Box
27 Menu choice
28 Suffix with refer
29 Month after Shebat
31 Modernized
35 Repetitious
36 Part of the waterfront
37 And others: Abbr.
38 Trust (with "on")
40 Teller of tall tales
41 Affected manners
43 Challenge
46 Scorches
48 Residence
49 Regular routes
50 Nottingham's river
51 Subside
53 Stuffs
55 Fairy tale character
57 Despicable
58 Spirit
59 Budget item
61 Statute
62 NFL players

Will 'Scrod' return ??

DC Menu

LUNCH	DINNER
Turkey Club Sandwich Fish in batter	Baked Ham/Fruit Sauce Green Bean Strata Baked Ziti
BASIC LUNCH Vegetable Grinder Fish in Batter	BASIC DINNER Green Bean Strata Ziti/Tomato sauce with Tofu and Mushrooms

Weather

Clearing today, Highs into the 30's.

Todays puzzle answer

S	L	O	P	E		L	A	T	G	I	O	S	R	A	P
T	A	L	E	S		A	G	O	R	A		A	I	A	A
E	V	E	N	T		S	I	N	G	L	E	T	O	N
W	A	G	N	E	R		F	E	Y		S	L	I	M	E
			I	S	O	D	A	R		S	K	O	A	L
O	E	A	F		C	A	T	S	U	P
I	N	D	I	D		H	I	T	E		P	A	M	P	E	R
S	C	A	R	L	E	T		A	D	R	O	I	T	E
H	E	R	M	I	T		O	T	A		A	N	E	A	L
			A	S	S	I	G	I	T		O	R	I	L	Y
A	L	P	H	A		U	N	I	S	E	X
B	A	N	T	S		O	N	L	Y		O	R	O	W	E	L
O	N	E	T	A	G	E	R		E	N	T	I	T	L	E
O	E	N		C	R	I	E	S	T	Y		M	I	L	A	N
E	I	S	T	Y		T	I	E	S	I	T	S		S	C	I	E	N	T

BACK to SCHOOL STEREO SALE

* Quantities Limited * No Rainchecks * MC, VISA, Amex & financing available

TURNTABLES

SAVE $30

$59.99

Technics BELT DRIVEN STRAIGHT ARM TURNTABLE

Akai B110 semi auto belt (79).....59.99
Akai D210 semi auto direct drive (119).....89.99
Pioneer PL2 semi auto belt drive (99).....69.99
Technics Q200 semi auto quart direct (109).....89.99
Akai Q310 auto quartz direct (149).....109.99
Technics BL3 linear tracking (179).....139.99
Technics P8 compact disc (600).....499.99
Empire 250 magnetic cart (39).....29.99
Audio Tech 33E nude elliptical cart (119).....69.99
Audio Tech 114S shibata cart (129).....69.99

CAR STEREO

SAVE $40

$59.99

ROADSTAR car in dash AM/FM stereo cassette player

6x9 40 oz speakers (50).....29.99
Jensen 6x9 20 oz coax speakers (69).....49.99
Pioneer X1 surface mount speakers (pair).....19.99
Alpine 356 18+18 watt power amp.....59.99
Pioneer 6904 6x9 20 oz coax (99).....59.99
Jensen 100 in dash AM/FM cassette (149).....89.99
Pioneer 4500 in dash auto reverse AM/FM cassette (225).....119.99
Pioneer 5500 super tuner AM/FM stereo cassette (250).....139.99
Alpine 7151 in dash AM/FM stereo cassette.....199.99
Pioneer KEX 20/GM12 60 watt AM/FM stereo cassette (449.99).....339.99
Jensen R250 in dash AM/FM stereo cassette (420).....329.99

CASSETTE RECORDERS

SAVE $60

$79.99

FISHER® Metal Dolby Cassette Tape Recorder

Technics 205 Dolby Cassette (129).....109.99
Akai HX1 Dolby Cassette (159).....129.99
Akai F-14 "Best Buy" Dolby (199).....159.99
Technics 227 Dolby & DBX cassette (199).....169.99
Pioneer CT5 "Best Buy" cassette (199).....169.99
Luxman 210 Dolby B & C cassette (249).....199.99
Akai F31 GX head with 17 year guarantee (299).....239.99
Harmon Kardon 91 "Our Best Value" Dolby.....249.99
Akai HX-R5 auto reverse Dolby cassette (329).....269.99
Harmon Kardon 401 deluxe Dolby (725).....459.99

RECEIVERS

SAVE $40

$119.99

SCOTT 25 Watt AM/FM Solid State Receiver

Technics 210 25 watt digital receiver (199).....159.99
Scott 349 45 watt receiver (249).....179.99
Technics 410 45 watt digital (249).....199.99
Luxman 5030 35 watt receiver (349).....249.99
Harmon Kardon 45 watt receiver (430).....359.99
Luxman deluxe 40 watt receiver (499).....419.99
Harmon Kardon 60 watt digital (650).....529.99

PORTABLE STEREO

Panasonic Portable AM/FM Stereo Cassette Recorder

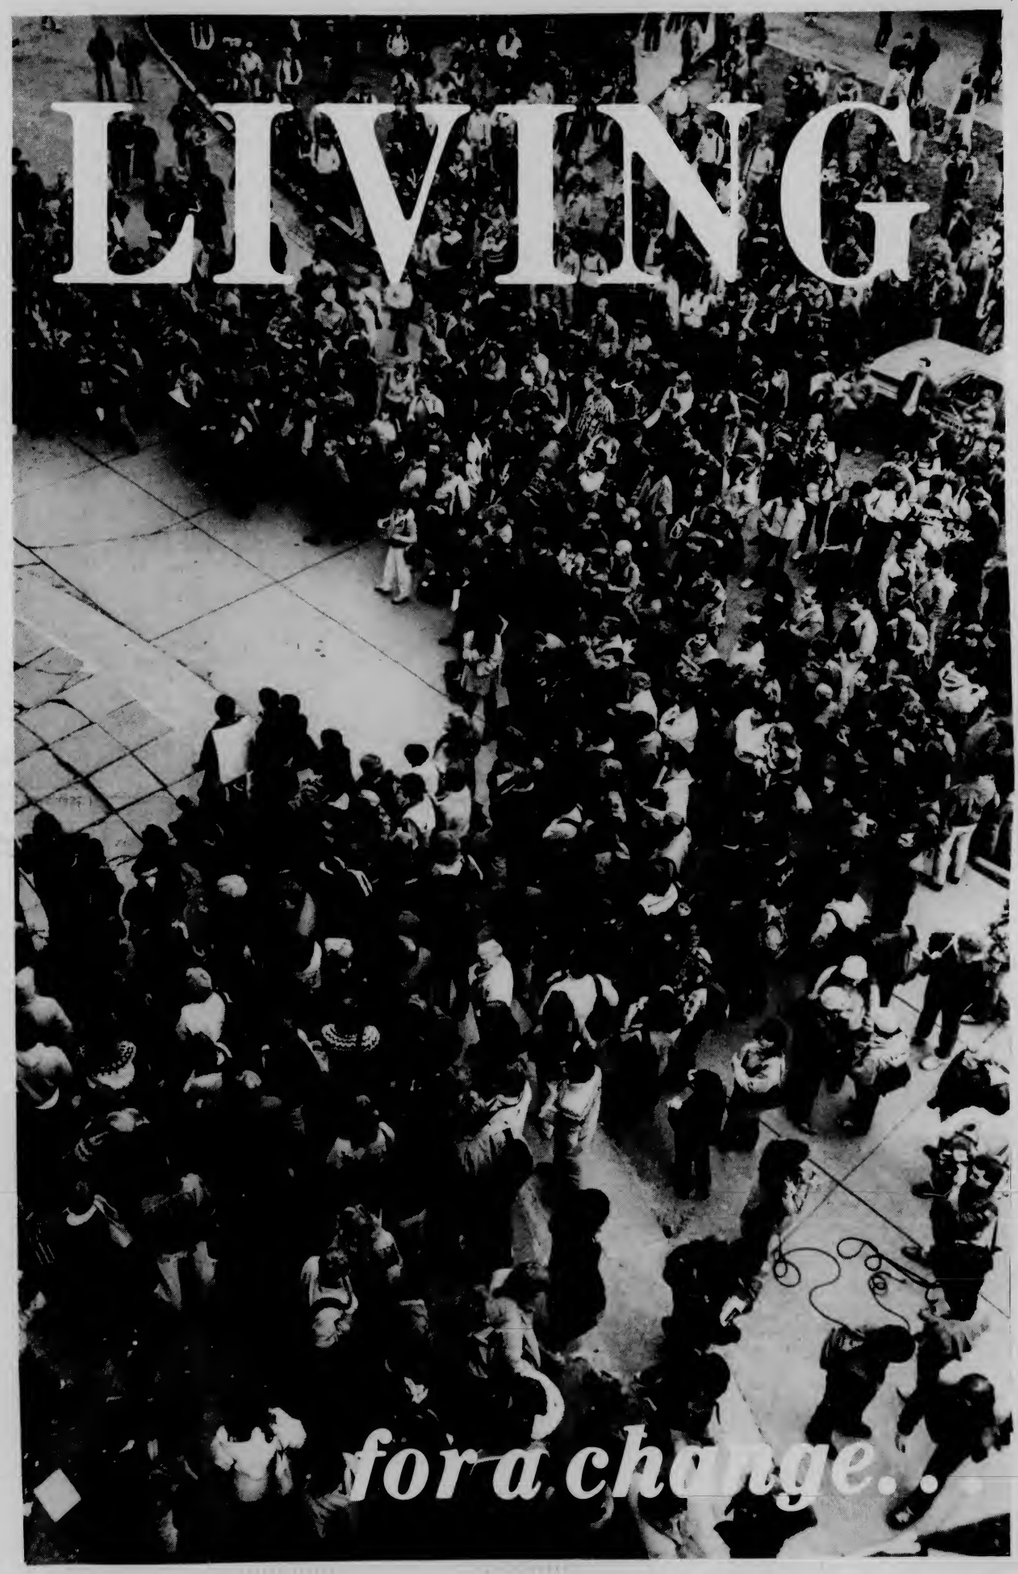
Emerson 808 3 piece AM/FM cassette (79).....69.99
Emerson 939 stereo FM dual cassette (109).....89.99
Hitachi 7800 AM/FM stereo cassette (219).....159.99
Panasonic 5150 4 speaker deluxe AM/FM stereo cassette (260).....189.99
Panasonic 45 AM/FM stereo 3 piece cassette (219).....189.99

WALKING STEREO

FM Stereo walking radio (15).....9.99
Panasonic RF444 AM/FM stereo walker (29).....24.99
Sony WM 8 walkman cassette (49).....39.99
Panasonic 1935 FM stereo walking cassette (79).....69.99
Sony WMF 5 sports FM stereo cassette walkman (150).....129.99
Sony WM7 Dolby auto reverse walkman cassette (169).....129.99
Panasonic 3 piece AM/FM stereo cassette (walking type) (169).....139.99
Sony WM R2 recording stereo walkman cassette (199).....159.99

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD!

TDK SAC 90 CASSETTES $1.99
Limit 3



SINCE 1961

The Sound Company

SPRINGFIELD Sumner Ave. at the X 736-3626
Mon., Thur. & Fri. to 9, Tues., Wed. & Sat. to 5:30

CHICOPEE Fairfield Mall near Caldors 593-5330
Open Every Evening til 9:30 P.M. Open Sunday 12-5 P.M.

AMHERST 201 N Pleasant Street 256-0744
Mon., Tues., Wed. 11-7, Thurs. & Fri. 11-8, Sat. 10-5:30

The buck starts with programs here at UMass

By JIM FEIN
Collegian Staff

As the semester begins, a student's immediate future, until the summer months, is certain. For those students with a declared major, their future, until graduation anyhow, is generally planned.

But what about after graduation?

It is quite easy to get caught up in the diverse microcosm that is the University of Massachusetts and not plan for one's future in the real world. For students with or without a specific major, and regardless of how close one might be to graduating, the time to start planning for a future in the 'real' world is NOW.

Regardless of how close one might be to graduating, the time to start planning for a future in the real world is NOW.

Beginning this process is not nearly as difficult as one might suspect. All one need do is take advantage of the counseling, guidance, and placement services provided by the University for students, all of which are free of charge.

For those students undecided on either a major or a career, a visit to the Counseling and Career Development Office, located at 123 Berkshire House, is recommended. The office is staffed by several state-licensed psychologists, who are specially trained to counsel undecided students. Career, academic, and personal counseling are among the services offered. Special workshops for students with undeclared majors will be offered in the spring. Any interested student should either visit the office or call 545-0333.

Students who are certain of their major but would like to add some work related experience to their education have two options, the most popular of which is an internship.

An internship is a part-time or full-time job for which up to fifteen graded, academic credits can be received. The job is related to a student's major and may be either paid or unpaid. Internships are arranged through and by the Internship Office, which has been quite successful, placing about six hundred and fifty students per year in jobs related to their major, on a local, national, and international level. Interested students should either visit the Internship Office at room 16, Curry Hicks, or call 545-0727.

Another way of gaining work experience related to one's major, and being paid for it, is through cooperative education. The Cooperative Education Program at UMass is relatively new, and places about one hundred students per year in either professional or pre-professional positions, which related specifically to a student's career goals or major.

Co-op jobs, which range in duration from a summer to several semesters, are not only a valuable learning experience, but are also a very feasible way of financing a college education. A Cooperative Education Job Fair, sponsored by the Office For Cooperative Education, will be held in the Campus Center on Wed., Feb. 15. Interested students should contact the office at 110 Thompson Hall, 545-2597.

For students certain of their major, and interested in obtaining a full-time job suited to their major upon graduation, a trip to the Placement Office is essential. Among the services offered are resume development workshops, interviewing techniques and strategies, on campus interviews with prospective employers, job referral and job search.

The latter is a recent addition to the services offered, having previously been available only through privately operated, fee-based, job search agencies. The Placement Office is open to all students and is located in room 102, Hampshire House (545-2224).

Photo courtesy of the News Bureau

COMPUTER WHIZ — An unidentified student familiarizes herself with the Plato system of computers.

Computers integral to UMass

By CAMDEN PIERCE
Collegian Staff

Steadily, computers at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst have become indispensable tools of students, faculty, and administrators and the trend will continue, school officials said.

Between 8000 and 9000 UMass students are active users of computers at UMass, said Conrad Wogrin, director of the University Computing Center at UMass. In the future, more students may use computers when teachers implement the machine as a teaching aide, he said.

The use of computers as teaching aides is in the developmental stage at UMass. Last semester, for example, quizzes in an introductory chemistry course were administered via computers, said Carol MacKnight, director of the PLATO system at UMass .

The response of the 55 students who took the course, chemistry 113, was generally favorable, said Roberta Day, associate professor of chemistry, who taught the course. Although some problems arose because the system was being used for the first time, Day said, she plans to use the PLATO system in her class this semester. Day expects science professors eventually will use computers more extensively in their own courses. "It's just a very natural direction for us to go," she said.

MacKnight said that by next fall, 2000 chemistry students may be using computers in their courses.

But using the computer isn't limited to the sciences, MacKnight said. Last semester, 20 to 50 students were required to use the PLATO system in an introductory French course. Most of the students found the exercises they completed on the computer to be beneficial, she said, adding "by next fall or spring we hope to have 1500 students" using the PLATO system as a part of their language courses.

Even students who never lay a hand on a computer keyboard are effected by computers at UMass.

The UMass Data Process Center, located in Whitmore Administration Building, keeps track of accounting and finance, including weekly personnel payroll. Further, it keeps track of student business such as registration, admissions, and housing, said Martin A. Smith, Director of the Data Process Center. "Every major administrative department is automated in some form," he said.

The administratin has used computers since the early 60's, Smith said. Since then, the expansion of computer usage has been "Phenomenal", he said, adding "it's difficult for us to keep up with demand" for computer time.

Watch for Camden Pierce's upcoming series on computers on campus.

Lift spirits, weights at the same time

By ELIZABETH LUCIANO
Collegian Staff

You've been slipping on ice and slogging through snow for weeks now, and Spring Break seems about as far away as the year 2,000.

But don't despair. There are quite a few effective remedies to lift your spirits, and some of them are good work-outs.

There are plenty of facilities right here at UMass that can give you a skinny waistline without a skinny wallet.

How about doing a few laps in one of the University's three pools? N.O.P.E., Boyden, and Curry Hicks are available for the flash of a valid I.D.

There are lots of ways for landlubbers to stay in shape, too. Try stopping into one of the weight rooms, or swinging at a ball on one of the University's raquetball or squash courts. Courts can be reserved on weekdays, 24 hours in advance, in the Intramurals Office in 215 Boyden. On weekends, it's first come, first serve, so be sure to get there early.

Students are also entitled to a locker, a towel, and a change of clothes, including socks, a tee shirt, and shorts. More information is available from the Athletics Office at 545-2342. That certainly makes it tough to come up with an excuse not to exercise, doesn't it?

And if you're one of those people who actually needs to pay money in order to become motivated to move, Umass

Continued on page 6A.

Twenties needn't be hazardous to health

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

Women and men in their 20s are not as immune to illnesses, injuries, and even death as some might think they are.

"The early 20s are the risk taking years—years of driving fast, drinking hard, indiscriminate sex, smoking, drug use and getting into trouble," says Earl Ubell, whose recent article, "How to Live Longer At Any Age," appeared in Parade Magazine last month.

According to the article, of the people who die in their 20s, only one out of five die of natural causes. Car accidents, homicide and suicide claim the lives of approximately 50,000 young people every year.

Bonnie Strickland, former chair of the University of Massachusetts psychology department who is studying gender differences in health care, says more men than women die from these three leading causes of death among young people.

"Men probably drink more, drive later at night and engage in more dangerous physical activities, like hunting, than women do," she said.

Men also have a higher rate of suicide than women. Women attempt suicide more often than men, but, in general, women do not succeed. Strickland suggests this is most likely because women often use reversible suicide methods, such as sleeping pills, while men tend to use irreversible methods, like jumping off buildings.

Ubell suggests that people in their 20s are better able to change poor eating and living habits than people in their 30s.

"In each following decade, changing your eating habits and exercise patterns becomes progressively difficult."

According to Ubell, by age 30 there is a downward trend in health, including conditions of the heart, lungs and body metabolism. Both men and women experience weight gain in their 30s; men because of lack of exercise and most women because of childbearing.

Help Hotlines

COCAINE HOTLINE.....1-800-COCAINE
ANOREXIA OR BULEMIA.....AN AS 259-9767
RAPE CRISIS: EVERYWOMAN'S CENTER.....545-0883
EMERGENCY RAPE.....545-2677
MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES.....545-2337 OR 549-2671
OFFICE OF HANDICAPPED STUDENT AFFAIRS545-0892
OR.....545-0665
PROBLEM PREGNANCY COUNSELING UMASS HEALTH SERVICES.....549-2671
GAY COUNSELING COLLECTIVE.....545-2645
ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS.....732-9283

Many people predicted that women entering certain high pressure professions would begin to develop stress symptoms equivalent to men in the same professions.

But, Strickland said, "recent studies showed that women in clerical jobs with low support systems suffer from higher rates of stress related heart disease than women who hold executive positions."

Elections stir issues, candidates, and (hopefully) voters

Jackson and McGovern to speak on campus

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

Political activism promises to run rampant at the University of Massachusetts this spring with the upcoming presidential election and student organizations' efforts to inform the public on issues and candidates.

These attempts will become visible this week when former Sen. George McGovern and Rev. Jesse Jackson, two of the Democratic Presidential candidates, speak on campus.

An extensive voter registration drive, national as well as on campus, is also underway at UMass.

"Getting people to register is the important first step in getting them to vote," said Kurt Norwood of Commuter Area Government, a member of the multi-organization coalition on campus sponsoring the event.

"By locating the registration tables at various places on campus, such as the dining commons and the Whitmore Administration Building as well as the campus center, we will reach a lot of people."

The campus effort is part of a national focus on getting people to vote.

"It's an important year to bring people together," said Rich McClintock, campus organizer for the UMass public interest research group (UMassPIRG), Pirg's nation-wide voter registration efforts include the linking together of student governments and campus news editors to initiate campus drives.

McClintock is actively preparing for a national voter registration conference in Boston.

The presidential candidates have been invited to attend the event, which runs Feb. 10 to Feb. 12, McClintok said.

"Once people are registered to vote, there will be a tendency for them to become educated on the issues," McClintock said.

"We are the most educated generation ever, but we need more power," Norwood said, "Half of our generation is not yet registered."

UMassPIRG is also part of lobbying efforts calling for legislation setting a state-wide cap on sulpher emissions, the main cause of acid rain, and a 50 percent reduction nationwide.

"Acid rain will be the environmental issue of the presidential election because of its national perspective," McClintock said, "But hazardous waste is very important on the statewide level."

"It's one thing to have acid water," he said, "quite another to have no water." Some state water supplies have already been contaminated," he said.

"We are beginning to see a sharpening of state and national issues with the election and the recent opening of (Sen. Paul) Tsongas's (D-Mass) seat," said Joel Weissmann of the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, "There are a lot of disenchanted voters, especially in this area."

McGovern, the South Dakota man who is running "because he doesn't like what any of the other candidates are saying," will be at the Student Union Ballroom Wednesday Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Jackson will speak in the Fine Arts Center at 8 p.m. as not only a presidential candidate, but as keynote speaker for the kickoff of Black History month. The speech will be broadcast over WMUA, 91.1 FM, and transmitted to video screens in the Campus Center Auditorium.

But if the other five candidates don't make it to campus, the Student Government Association Public Policy Committee will be publishing an informational pamphlet on the candidates and the issues, Norwood said.

Years of service provide 'island of warmth'

By ELIZABETH LUCIANO
Collegian Staff

He was very sorry, he said, about having so little time to talk in between fundraising efforts and a trip to Boston.

But Father Joseph Quigley of the Newman Center at the University of Massachusetts was calm and unhurried, despite the seeming whirlwind around him, as he reminisced last month about his 28 years in the priesthood, 24 of which have been at UMass.

"I was very shaky when I came here," he said, "I felt very naked, in a way. I felt inadequate — not that I'm very adequate now!"

Jokingly describing himself as "paunchy and bald and beaten by life," the 60-year-old "lace-curtain Irish" man from Marblehead and Ware served in Italy as a radio operator during World War II.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

HELPING HAND — Father Quigley has been on campus for years benefiting the UMass community in any way he feels he can. . .

Quigley, who spent a year in the pre-med program at American International College in Springfield before hostilities broke out, earned a bachelor's degree in business from Fordham University, "the only name college I could get into," in 1950. He then attended Boston College's Delayed Vocation School and Saint John's Seminary, and was ordained in 1956.

He came to Amherst's Saint Brigid's Church in 1960, after serving briefly in Saint Mary's Church, Westfield. Quigley was with the Newman Center when it opened in 1963.

"The '60s were terrifically unsettling. Young men and women were very angry. They were disenchanted by what had been done by their forebears," he said. "They wanted to burn down things here on the UMass campus." Classes were suspended as a result of the "emotional explosion," Quigley said.

The 1970s, he said, were a "cooling-off period" in which students "wanted to work within the establishment."

Quigley sees the 1980s as being "entirely different," he said.

"A student today wants to get ahead and get a good job. He's not as rebellious—at least you don't see it on the surface.

"This is an epic age," Quigley said. "Some people call it schizophrenia, but its more of a growing up."

The priest said the maturity of young people today is characterized by a willingness to make their own decisions and to take responsibility for themselves. The Church can be a key source of information when decision-making, he said.

"The Church has been in business a long time, and shouldn't be ignored, although other sources of information should be explored," he said, adding, "Not every priest feels that way."

"There's a scarcity of heart people, people with compassion," he said, adding that the Newman Center, although it is not open around the clock, tries to alleviate that problem by giving students a place to go.

"We try to be an island of warmth," he said.

Campus awareness needs improvement

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

School began a week later last semester to let Jewish people celebrate their new year, Rosh Hashana. Yet when a student tried to garnish the dorm tree with a Star of David this past Christmas, another donned a swastica arm band and burned the star.

Contradictions of this type perplex Rabbi Saul Perlmutter, of Hillel at the University of Massachusetts, as to the status of anti-semitism on campus.

"I'd like to think of Hillel as a Jewish Community center," Perlmutter said, adding that too much talk of anti-semitism associates the center with oppression. The center, housed in Student Union Building room 302, does provide personal counseling and other services to combat anti-semitism, but it also plans cultural, social and religious events.

"We're planning a sleigh ride and an arts festival this month," he said, "and events are open to the public."

But Hillel does pay special attention to Jewish issues. "We are part of a Jewish awareness and anti-semitism task force and involved in a National lobby effort to help Jews in Russia. Once they apply to leave the country, they lose everything and are just stuck there," Perlmutter said.

Perlmutter feels the general open atmosphere towards Jewish people is much more positive than in the past, but that cannot conclude that attitudes have changed or anything greatly different has happened in the way Jews are treated.

"I see different kinds of anti-semitism," he said, "hate of the Jewish image, and political hate. Impressionistically, there are fewer swasticas painted on doors; politically, maybe there's been a change in the system."

A nationwide trend towards the decline of anti-semitic incidents, as indicated by a recent audit, is not pertinent to anti-semitism at UMass, Perlmutter said.

Continued on page 5A.

Poor Richards

tues. $1.00 FOR BUD/LITE MILLER/LITE STROH'S AND OLD MILWAUKEE DRAFT'S 3 FOR $1.00 + $2.00 PITCHER

Wednesday OPEN BAR

Open BAR: 9:00 - 10:00 PM AND 11:30 - 12:00 MID

95¢ REGULAR WELL DRINKS

ALL NIGHT FOR EVERYONE

thurs. 2 FOR 1 DRINKS ALL NIGHT!

WEEKEND!

Friday AND Saturday

2 FOR 1 ON EVERYTHING 8:00-10:00 PM $1.00 cover.

MOLLY'S

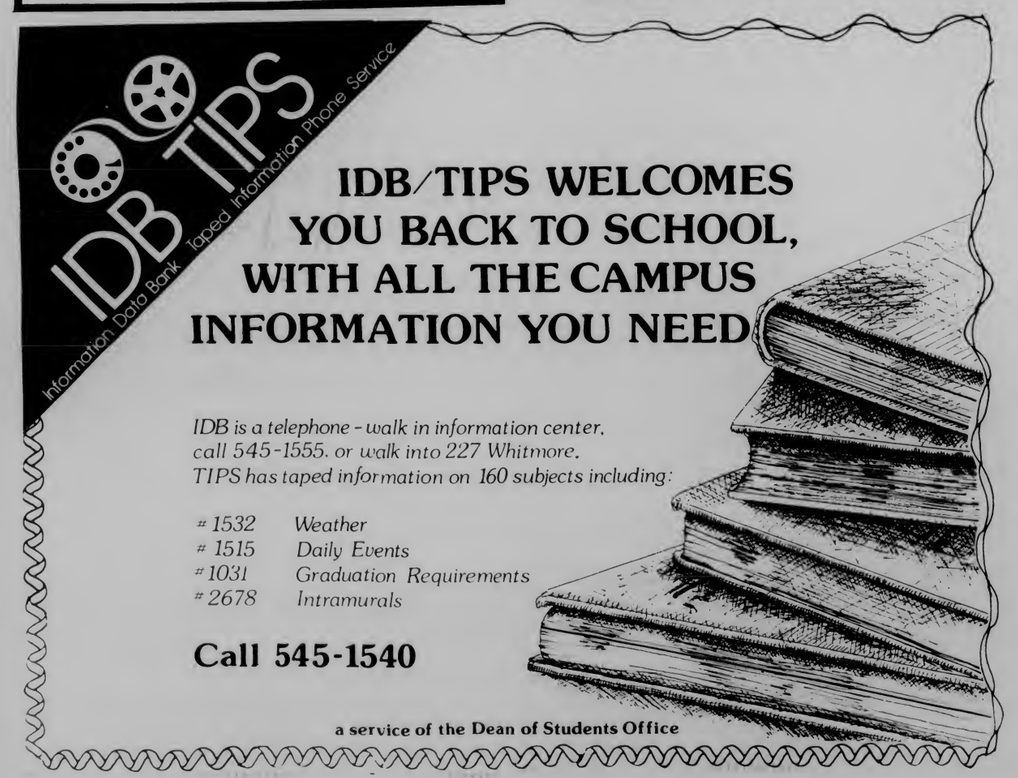
ANTIQUE & VINTAGE CLOTHING
THE CARRIAGE SHOPS 10:00 - 5:00

Sale

20%-60% SAVINGS ON ALL WINTER BOOTS, SHOES, BAGS AND GREAT BARGAINS!

the SHOE BIN 187 n. pleasant st., amherst

IDB TIPS
Information Data Bank Taped Information Phone Service



IDB/TIPS WELCOMES YOU BACK TO SCHOOL, WITH ALL THE CAMPUS INFORMATION YOU NEED

IDB is a telephone - walk in information center. call 545-1555. or walk into 227 Whitmore. TIPS has taped information on 160 subjects including:

1532 Weather
1515 Daily Events
1031 Graduation Requirements
2678 Intramurals

Call 545-1540

a service of the Dean of Students Office

Bottle bill cleans streets but inconveniences some

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

One need only look at the landscape across the state to determine that the year old bottle law is doing the job it was intended to do—reduce litter.

"The law has cut litter by 30 to 35 percent, and 80 to 90 percent of all containers are returned to bottlers," said Rich Hannigan of the Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MassPIRG), the lobby group responsible for the bill becoming law.

MassPIRG feels confident the state has accepted the legislation.

It's a chore, but we're dealing with it fine.

— Kelly Crutch, Delanos

"If the bottle industry wanted to get rid of the law, the first year would be the prime time to draft legislation," Hannigan said. "Nobody has."

And although area residents and merchants found the change an inconvenience, people are getting used to saving, storing and returning bottles and cans.

"Our apartment tries to return empties fairly regularly, to avoid smell and mess," University of Massachusetts student Lynn Hutton said. "It took some time to get used to it, but now it's second nature."

Not every consumer is that organized, however, said the manager of Russells Liquors in Amherst who wished to remain anonymous.

"We see a lot of abuse—different brands, out-of-state bottles, dirty, half full bottles," he said. "I have found dead mice-type animals in some bags (of empties)."

Under the law, stores do not have to accept empties of brands they do not sell, but often do so.

"We would rather absorb the loss than deal with angry customers," a representative from Stop and Shop supermarket in Hadley said. These bottles are then thrown out, making them eligible to be returned again, she said.

In spite of snags of this type, the situation is being adapted to. "We had no choice," said Russells, "but the customers are catching on and becoming more organized," he said.

Stop and Shop, which was remodeled over the summer, has plenty of storage space, but this isn't the case with all supermarkets, the representative said.

Delano's Restaurant has a two-for-one beer happy hour, so bottles accumulate quickly, said Kelly Crutch, general manager.

"We have anywhere from 50 to 200 cases at any given time," she said. "It's a chore, but we're dealing with it fine."

Beer and soda prices did go up during the first year, but all sources agreed the market did not decrease.

Additionally, they noted a "trade and buy" trend. "Up to 85 percent of the bottle receipts given out are used at that time," Stop and Shop said.

"The bottles and cans are great to have around when we run out of beer money," UMass student Ted Babbick said. "But the cases that have become our kitchen decor make the place smell like a brewery," he said.

Management seems concerned about the potentially unsanitary empties. "We had a lot of bugs over the summer," Russells Liquor said, "Which we don't want."

Stop and Shop agreed that the warmer weather summer brings creates unsanitary conditions in storage rooms.

"We haven't heard horror stories on the condition of storage spaces," Hannigan said, adding that MassPIRG has not yet studied the situation.

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

STOP & REDEEM — Cashier Shaun Jorden tosses a returned bottle into the appropriate storage bin at Stop & Shop supermarket, Hadley.

★Hillel

Continued from page 3A.

The 670 total incidents recorded in 1983, a 19 percent decline over the previous year, addressed vandalism and attacks against Jewish institutions.

"UMass has never reached that perspective," Perlmutter said. "We've never had our office vandalized. We have had swastikas," he said.

The study was released this January by the Anti-Defamation league of B'nai B'rith. Based on data collected from regional offices across the nation, it also noted a 41 percent decline in assaults against individual Jews.

"There is more to anti-semitism than such incidents—there are opinions and stereotypes," Perlmutter said. "I don't know if attitudes have changed."

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER

DON'T BE LEFT OUT IN THE COLD. . . COME IN NOW TO BOOK YOUR SPRING BREAK TRIP

Campus Center (2nd floor)
U of Mass Amherst 01003
545-0500

Amherst Chiropractic Health Center

Many Olympic and Professional athletes utilize chiropractic care to improve performance and overall health. Do you?

by appointment only - Call 256-6700

Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C.

190 University Drive at Rte. 9 (on the busline)

SALE!

BEDSPREADS
WALL HANGINGS
LAMPS
BAMBOO WINDOW SHADES
RUGS
RECORD CRATE KITS
PRINTS

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas

Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

★ Workout

Continued from page 2A.

has something for you, too. Body Shops are located in both NOPE and Boyden gymnasiums, and are available to students on a semesterly basis. Orchard Hill residents will be able to pump iron in the Orchard Hill Fitness Club, in Webster Dormitory, as if climbing up that hill a few times daily weren't enough exercise for a human being.

For those people who are really fed up with the University and need to get away from the campus, Hampshire Fitness Center on Gatehouse Road, Amherst, offers use of Nautilus equipment, an Olympic size indoor pool, tennis courts, saunas, and a Jacuzzi whirlpool at special student rates. It's right on the P.V.T.A. bus route, too, which is a plus for students without "wheels."

If you prefer to dance the blues away, Jazzercise in the Hampshire Mall, Route 9, Hadley, is also on the bus route, and will have you sweating and smiling for only $2.50 a work-out. So get out those Flashdance sweatshirts and get moving!

After you've flexed those muscles and gotten all the tension out of your system, why not treat yourself to a leisurely time-out in one of the Valley's hot tubs? Utopia Spas on University Drive, Amherst lets you soak to your own music, and has plenty of specials. Get in touch with them at 253-7727.

If Northampton is closer to home, check out East Heaven Tub Company, and try their rooftop tub oce the weather warms up. Call 586-6843 for reservations.

And whatever you do, hang in there. It won't be long before Fort Lauderdale is right around the corner.

Photo courtesy of the News Bureau

BODY SHOP — UMass Exercise science professors display the hydraulic fitness machine.

TAILORS House of Walsh INC. IMPORTERS

The finest in Mens and Womens clothing and furnishings since 1902

SEMI - ANNUAL WINTER
SALE
STARTS TOMORROW
FEBRUARY 1
ALL SALES CASH, VISA, M/C, AMEX ONLY

House of Walsh, Inc.
32 Main Street
Amherst, Massachusetts
Daily 9:00 to 5:30 253-3361

starting February 6th. . .
Professionally taught
DANCE CLASSES
For Adults
Beg. Ballet
Mon. 7:30
Inter. Jazz
Tues. 7:00
Inter. Modern
Tues. 8:00
Inter. Ballet
Thurs. 6:30
Beg. Jazz Fri. 3:30
Ten-Week Courses $50
Phone 549-1555
THE AMHERST BALLET CENTRE
29 Strong St.
(one block east of Butterfield Dorm across E. Pleasant St.

Archer Kent
Sale ends Feb 4
191 No. Pleasant St. Amherst
253-3534

Krazy Days SALE TIME

FOHO SHAMPOO 7 oz. $1.59 reg. $2.75
WELLA BALSAM CONDITIONER 16 oz. $1.44 reg. $2.19
Pond's CREAM & COCOA BUTTER 8 oz. $1.33 reg. $2.29
MURINE PLUS 0.5 oz. $1.33 reg. $2.35
ONE-A-DAY MAXIMUM FORMULA 60 tablets $3.69 reg. $6.05
STRI-DEX Medicated Pads 75 count $1.79 reg. $3.15

ENJOY GETTING IN SHAPE.

What makes Gloria Stevens' new 4-Phase Fitness Program special? It's fun, and it gets results.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER
6 weeks only
$25

1. AEROBICS
2. WEIGHT TRAINING
3. FLEXIBILITY
4. NUTRITION

Hampshire Mall, Route 9, Hadley 584-0105

Gloria Stevens™
WOW! WHAT A DIFFERENCE.

From Ye Ol' to the Seven O's, they've got the beer

By TAMI BORTON
Collegian Staff

The flavor of Ye Ol Watering Hole in Northampton is unmistakable. The 3,000 plus beer can decor and various artifacts provide a visual feast while the daily soup special often reads 'vennison stew.'

"We'll serve the stew whenever one of our regulars brings in a piece of meat," owner Al Drew said. In fact, bartender Mark Chase's wife recently shot an eight point buck, we learned when visiting the bar.

Drew has been collecting and trading beer cans for eight years. His collection, a world wide selection, each different, is the largest on display in the northeast. Last month Drew and his bar appeared on Evening Magazine.

The bar sponsors and endorses the Jimmy Fund and Muscular Dystrophy fund drives, as verified by the pictures of Drew with former Red Sox Carl Yastrezmski.

"We have a local type crowd, 98 percent regulars," Drew said. "We get some students, but not in the same proportions as other places," he said.

An extra large TV screen is turned to MTV most of the time, but "if the majority wants to watch something else, we oblige," Drew said, "We aim to please."

Charlies in Amherst is another area night spot with its own atmosphere.

"We're a comfortable place to eat and drink for a wide cross section of people, including many students, but the atmosphere is not super preppy," said general manager Ron Hadge.

The New York style pizza (an NY chef came to Charlies with the recipe) is a hit, especially on Wednesday when a pie and pitcher of domestic beer costs $4.95.

"We often give out pizza during our happy hours (two for one Monday through Friday, 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.), Hadge said.

"We're a cool, laid back place," he said, "We take care of our regulars."

Mike's Westview Cafe, also in Amherst, has a solid reputation among students for its Friday night all-you-can eat buffet, if not its sports minded atmosphere.

Mike's owner Joe Dinatale notices a local crowd during the day and students at night. "But anybody comes in, students, faculty and locals," he said.

The daily 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. happy hour peaks on Friday with the huge smorgasbord that has become somewhat of a tradition among UMass students. During the week, Mike's cuisine hits the road with 'Mike's Munchies on Wheels,' a food van frequenting area shops and construction areas, and UMass residential areas.

And for those wanting a final beer after closing, the Seven O's in Sunderland is still open to 2 p.m. on Fridays.

99 BOTTLES of beer on the wall...Bartender Mark Chase pours a pitcher of draft at Ye Ol Watering Hole, the largest displayed beer can collection in the Northeast.

Jojoba from head to toe.

Shampoo, Bath Gel, Bath Oil, Bath Seeds and a Soothing Cream. A complete range of jojoba toiletries to match our inimitable toilet soap. Jojoba (pronounced ho-Ho-ba) from Crabtree & Evelyn.

71 N. Pleasant St. Amherst
Hours: Mon-Fri 10 - 5:30
Sat 10 - 5:00
253-9561

Crabtree & Evelyn
LONDON

ON-CAMPUS JOBS
VALUABLE EXPERIENCE and TRAINING

I WANT YOU

If you are an upperclassman or a graduate student, we will train you to discuss the financial needs of your University with its alumni.

Telefund will pay $4-6 an hour for your time a few evenings a week. You will talk to alumni from all walks of life, from every type of profession about the University Alumni Fund.

Telefund is located at Memorial Hall. Stop in and pick up an application or call us at 545-3509 if you have any questions.

Catch the snow and excitement at Mt. TOM Ski Area
Rt. 5 Holyoke, MA

"SKI BUDWEISER" COLLEGE NIGHTS

EVERY THURSDAY:
- COLLEGE DISCOUNTS
- BUD GIVEAWAYS
- OUTDOOR PARTIES
- FREE BUS FROM U-MASS

CONTACT THE SKI CLUB FOR MORE INFORMATION 545-3437

INTERSTATE 91 • EXIT 17A • HOLYOKE, MA • (413) 536-0416

SOUND in MOTION
THE CAR STEREO SPECIALISTS
321 MAIN STREET • AMHERST MA 01002 • 253-9341

Auto Alarm Weekly Specials JVC

Crimestopper current & motion sensing Passively Arming $159.95 INSTALLED

16 watt AM FM Cassette with dolby & Metal Tape capability Separate Bass & Treble Speakers included

Whistler Q-1200 Radar Detector $139.95

$199.95 INSTALLED

Sound in Motion's
FREE INSTALLATION WEEK
with the purchase of any car stereo system
Get The Installation Free
253-9341
coupon good till 2/11/84

INTERNS WANTED

Hilltop Health Club, a multi-faceted fitness facility in the Orchard Hill Residential Area, is seeking interns for the Spring semester.

Interns should possess:
Knowledge of holistic health issues
Knowledge of principles & practices of cardiovascular fitness
Knowledge of weight training skills and equipment
Leadership and organizational skills

Complete job description & applications available at B 30 Baker House, Orchard Hill Residential Area.

Application deadline - Feb. 7, 1984

Welcome Back UMass ...
We're Ready To Go!!
Papa Gino's

College Pizza Specials

- The more Pizzas you order, the more you save...for pick-up or eat-in
- Great for Pizza Parties!

COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON Limit 1 Coupon - Not Good on Specials
Student must show College Identification Card to get discount.

Quantity Purchased	Discount	Quantity Purchased	Discount
1 Pizza	10%	3 Pizzas	20%
2 Pizzas	15%	4 Pizzas	25%
		Over 5 Pizzas	30%

Papa Gino's PIZZA & MORE Mts. Farms Mall Hadley, MA Call: 584-0220 Expires 3/18/84

SAVE
on Paperbacks
over 30,000 now in stock
on all subjects
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Fri
10-5 Sat 549-6052
12:30-5 Sun

Custom Designed Hairstyles that only look expensive!

At Great Expectations you'll leave with the style you had in mind ...at a price you can afford
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

SHAMPOO, PRECISION CUT & BLOW DRY STYLING... still only $12.50

Hampshire Mall
Hadley
Mon.-Sat.
10-9:30
586-6182

GREAT EXPECTATIONS
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

Trailers
by Andy Gordon

'Trailers' choice for one of the year's best, The Big Chill featured fine acting by Mary Kay Place and William Hurt in a very moving, emotional picture.

Welcome back, sports fans. It's a whole new year of movies and movie trends. Last year has come to a thankful end and wrapping it up is more a burden than anything else. The Screwballs/Joysticks/Getting It/Losing It/Spring Break/Spring Fever movies replaced last year's gore fests for the quickie audience and quality films were sorely lacking all around. Choosing the year's 10 best is a feat: 5 is more reasonable. The year had some good films, notably The Dead Zone, Scarface, Trading Places, Bad Boys and War Games, but I wouldn't feel right about putting them on a year's best list. Here is my list:

The Big Chill — One of the best films of this or any other recent year. The story of seven friends from the sixties mourning the death of an eighth, Alex — a metaphor for the social commitment of that era — is funny, touching and insightful. The film features excellent acting by William Hurt and Jeff Goldblum among others and an amazing script and directing job by Lawrence Kasdan. With a fantastic soundtrack.

Tender Mercies — A beautifully understated film from Australia's Bruce Beresford. Robert Duvall is a retired country singer and Tess Harper the lonely young widow he works for. The photography is stunning; so much so it gets distracting.

Local Hero — Peter Riegert as a go-getting young executive sent to buy up a Scottish coastal village to turn into an oil refinery. He, and we, are eventually won over to the beauty of the area. What a great film. Bill Forsythe (Gregory's Girl) directed this.

The Return of Martin Guerre — Well-done French film with Gerard DePardieu as a man whose identity is in question and Nathalie Baye as his wife who knows the truth. Great courtroom scenes.

Silkwood — Meryl Streep is without question the greatest actress working today. She's 180 degrees from Sophie here and just as fascinating. Mike Nichols' film remains true to the characters before the plot.

That out of the way, here is a mixed bag of questionable achievement awards;

Most overrated film of the year: Flashdance. Paramount took a great idea for a three minute music video and made it a two hour movie instead. Lame idea, lame movie. Though hugely successful, the film is pointless, plotless and thoroughly implausible. Will Alex (played by Jennifer Beals and Marine Jahan) make it into the Philadelphia ballet by bopping around in strobe? Ask me if I care.

The Justin Henry tearjerker award to Huck Fox, the younger son in Terms of Endearment. The sight of a child crying over the imminent loss of a parent is amazingly effective. Perhaps the single most effective image of Terms and Kramer vs. Kramer.

The originality award to Clint Eastwood and the line, "go ahead, make my day," from Sudden Impact. Clint pounded this message down our throats twenty times a day in commercials and coming attractions. Too bad it was stolen from the wretched 1982 film Vice Squad (see trivia question).

The Cheech and Chong dangerous drug award to both William Hurt as the pensive dealer Nick in The Big Chill, who in that film drinks, smokes, does coke, ludes and valium; and to Al Pacino, who at the end of Scarface inhales more coke than Southwest in five years. (Actually, it was dextrose).

The perpetuation of an art award to The Fez, an independent Canadian feature shot on location in Nantucket last summer by a professional cast and crew; with 10 film student interns from different Massachusetts schools assisting; but serving only to teach the students (et moi) how to make a racist, sexist, unfunny piece of crap. Look for it on HBO in March.

The "I forgot" award to Rodney Dangerfield, who forgot to say or do anything funny in Easy Money; to Scott Glen, who forgot to use diction in The Keep; to Francis Ford Coppola, who forgot to buy color film for Rumble Fish; and to John Landis, who forgot not to chop Vic Morrow's head off.

Most bizarre montage sequence: Karen (Diane Franklin) having an abortion while Gary runs around town trying to scrounge up money for it set to U2's I Will Follow — in The Last American Virgin. What were the filmmakers thinking?

Local Best Bets: Rear Window is at the Academy of Music. Silkwood and the new Steve Martin film are at the malls.

TRAILERS Trivia: Who played Ginger the hooker in the 1982 film Vice Squad. No prize this week, just the satisfaction of knowing you possess that knowledge.

UPC PRODUCTIONS presents
RAVE with the STRAY CATS
As seen on MTV MUSIC TELEVISION with Special guest the ALBERT OTIS BAND
MON. FEB. 6
F.A.C. UMASS
TIX ON SALE TODAY!
UMass Students: $11.50 & 12.50
Public: $13.50 & 14.50
Tickets available at all datatix locations at the Fine Arts Center, Springfield Civic Center, and Stop & Shops in Northampton, Greenfield, Pittsfield, Holyoke, and Hadley.
UMass I.D. required with student ticket. No cans, bottles, cameras, or recording devices

SPRING 1984: THE

Fine Arts Center

DIANA WALKER LEUCK, SOPRANO
Friday, February 3

MUMMENSCHANZ, SWISS MIME & MASK THEATER
Tuesday, February 7

GUARNERI STRING QUARTET
Saturday, February 11

STEPHANIE CHASE, VIOLIN
Thursday, March 1

LES BALLET JAZZ DE MONTREAL
Friday, March 9

JEAN-PIERRE RAMPAL, FLUTE
Friday, March 30

PHILLIP JONES BRASS ENSEMBLE
Sunday, April 1

MURRAY LOUIS MODERN DANCE COMPANY
Thursday, April 12

JOHNNY GRIFFIN, SAXOPHONE
CHICO FREEMAN, SAXOPHONE
Friday, April 27

JUDY COLLINS
Saturday, May 12

Seating in the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall will begin thirty minutes prior to performance time. The Fine Arts Center box office is located at the main entrance to the Concert Hall. Box Office hours are Monday-Friday 12 noon to 4 p.m. and one hour before performances. Tickets will go on sale at the box office for each event three weeks before the performance date.
For more information, call 545-2511.

The dapper-looking Guarneri String Quartet (above) will appear at the Fine Arts Center on Feb. 11.

SPECIAL EVENTS

FACULTY CHAMBER MUSIC SERIES IN BOSTON
February 18, 8 p.m.
March 3, 8 p.m.
April 1, 8 p.m.
Jordan Hall at New England Conservatory

MUSIC DEPARTMENT SCHOLARSHIP AUDITIONS
March 3
April 7
April 28
Contact UMass Music Department

NEW ENGLAND YOUNG PERFORMERS COMPETITION FOR WOODWINDS, BRASS AND PERCUSSION
March 10, all day
Music Department, FAC

NEW ENGLAND YOUNG PERFORMERS COMPETITION FOR STRINGS
April 14, all day
Music Department, FAC

NEW ENGLAND SAXOPHONE SYMPOSIUM
May 5, all day
Music Department, FAC

There will be an entrance or admission fee charged for all concerts and recitals listed above. For further information regarding these events, call the Music Office at 545-2227.

Soprano Diana Walker Leuck will open the Fine Arts Centers' Spring 1984 season with a concert at 8 p.m. on Feb. 3.

Five College Theater

Smith College

RASHOMON
February 17, 18, 24, 25
Theater 14, Northampton

TAKEN IN MARRIAGE
March 8-10
Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater, Northampton

WOYENGI
April 13, 14, 19-21, 26-28
Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater, Northampton

Tickets for Amherst College productions are $4.00 for the general public and $2.00 for students and senior citizens. For reservations and further information, call 542-2277.

Amherst College

THREEPENNY OPERA
February 3-5, 9-11
Kirby Theater, Amherst

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS FROM THE '30s:
"Waiting For Lefty"
"Pullman Car Hiawatha"
third play to be announced
Kirby Theater, Amherst

Tickets for Smith College productions are $4.00 for the general public and $2.00 for students and senior citizens. For reservations and further information, call 584-2700.

University Ensemble

RAND THEATER

'TIS A PITY SHE'S A WHORE
by John Ford
March 8-10, 14-17

OF MICE AND MEN
by John Steinbeck
May 3-5, 9-12

CURTAIN THEATER

LORCA: POET IN NEW YORK
February 21-25

A LOVELY SUNDAY FOR CREVE COEUR
by Tennessee Williams
April 3-7

FIFTH OF JULY
by Lanford Wilson
April 11-14

Tickets for Rand Theater productions are $4.00 for the general public and $3.00 for students and senior citizens.
Tickets for Curtain Theater productions are $3.00 for the general public and $2.00 for students and senior citizens.
Tickets and season subscriptions for University Ensemble productions are now being handled by the Fine Arts Center Box office. It is open weekdays from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. For more information call 545-3511.

ARTS AT A GLANCE

Department of Music and Dance

DAVID SPORNY, TROMBONE
Wednesday, February 1
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

JON HUMPHREY, TENOR
JOANNE TANNER, FLUTE
Sunday, February 5
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

LYNN LKOCKM, SAXOPHONE
Wednesday, February
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

FACULTY CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERT
Sunday, February 12
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

JEFF HOLMES, TRUMPET & PIANO
Wednesday, February 15
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

CHAMBER MUSIC WITH OBE
Wednesday, February 22
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

ESTELA OLEVSKY, PIANO
JULIAN OLEVSKY, VIOLIN
LEOPOLD TERASPULSKY, CELLO
Sunday, February 26
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

BRASS CHOIR, WIND ENSEMBLE AND SYMPHONY BAND
Wednesday, February 29
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

JAZZ SHOWCASE
Wednesday, March 7
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

THE WILLIAMS TRIO
Sunday, March 11; 3 p.m.
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

FIVE COLLEGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Monday, March 12
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

FACULTY CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERT
Tuesday, March 13
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

CHAMBER WINDS
Tuesday, April 3
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

FACULTY WOODWIND QUINTET
Wednesday, April 4
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

CHAMBER CHOIR
Wednesday, April 11
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

MICHAEL SUSSMAN, CLARINET
Wednesday, April 25
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

FIVE COLLEGE CHAMBER SOLOISTS
Thursday, April 26
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

CONCERT BAND
Sunday, April 29
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

FACULTY BRASS QUINTET
Sunday, April 29
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

JAZZ ENSEMBLE I
Wednesday, May 2
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

THE STRAY CATS
Friday, February 6
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

UB40
Wednesday, March 14
Student Union Ballroom

UPCOMING:
Solos and Duos Jazz series
Black Musician Month

For ticket information call UPC at 545-2892. See UPC story in today's first section.

THIRD WORLD THEATER

PROUD PAINT YOUR FACE ON THE DROWING IN THE RIVER
February 11
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

ARROW THAT KILLS WITH LOVE
and
A SUNDAY VISIT WITH GREATGRANDFATHER
March 10
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

GULLAH
April 5-7, 12-14
Hampden Theater, Southwest

All Third World Theater Series presentations begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are $3.00 for the general public and $2.00 for students. For reservations and further information, call 545-0190.

LEOPOLD TERASPULSKY, CELLO
Thursday, May 3
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

BRASS CHOIR, WIND ENSEMBLE AND SYMPHONY BAND
Friday, May 4
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

FIVE COLLEGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Saturday, May 5
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

YOUTH WIND ENSEMBLE
Sunday, May 6; 3 p.m.
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

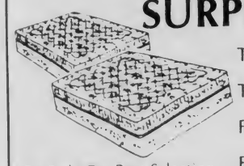
NADINE SHANK, PIANO
Sunday, May 6
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

VOCAL JAZZ AND AFRO-AMERICAN MUSIC ENSEMBLE
Monday, May 7
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL CONCERT OF MUSIC FOR PERCUSSION INSTRUMENTS
Wednesday, May 9
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall

CHAPEL JAZZ ENSEMBLE
Thursday, May 10
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC

OPERA WORKSHOP
Saturday, May 12
Bezanson Recital Hall, FAC



CHORALE AND CHORAL UNION
Sunday, May 13
Bowker Auditorium, Stockbrige Hall

The Spring Recital and Concert Series is presented by the faculty and student ensembles of the Department of Music and Dance at UMass. All recitals and concerts listed above are free of charge and begin at 8 p.m. unless otherwise noted.

PUBLIC NOTICE
2 Days Only
Selling At The

HOWARD JOHNSON MTR LODGE
Rte. 9, 401 Russell St., Hadley

HOTEL SURPLUS $48.00 AND UP

TWIN SIZE MATTRESS $55.00
TWIN SIZE FOUNDATION $48.00
FULL SIZE MATTRESS $68.00
FULL SIZE FOUNDATION $58.00

Be Early For Best Selection
No Phone Orders, Please

Not to be confused with bedding used in this motel, every piece is brand new, factory sealed in heavy clear plastic for your inspection and weather protection. Bring your car, truck or station wagon. We will load for you. SALE CONDUCTED INSIDE BUILDING.

MASTERCARD...VISA...CASH & CARRY
1 pm - 7 pm Thurs. Feb. 2 10 am - 3 pm

Leather Workboots
That take the Competition Seriously

Reg. $35.99 Now $27.
Reg. $34.99 Now $27.
Reg. $36.99 Now $27.

Be a top contender. Meet the challenge in Olympian's leather boots. They're crafted for style and durability of supple nubuck leather, extra soft cushioned Cambrelle® insoles, long-wearing Goodyear welt construction and oil resistant soles. Olympian's leather boots are ready to take on the toughest tasks. And make it easier for you. In Men's sizes 7-12
Sale ends February 11, 1984

OLYMPIAN
We thrive on competition.
Hampshire Mall, Rte. 9, Hadley.

REPLACE YOUR LOST OR DAMAGED CONTACT LENSES
Bausch & Lomb or AOSoft $25.
Price of other brands on request
We need your contact lens prescription and will have your lens in 2-3 days.
Norman Spencer MD
170 University Dr. 256-8561

FLAT STREET
ARE YOU 18?
We're Vermont's Largest Nightclub offering
The Area's Greatest Entertainment
Three Levels, Two Bars, Deli
Join the FLAT STREET Family only 35 minutes from Northampton positive I.D. required
17 Flat St. Brattleboro, VT
Vt. drinking age 18 (802) 254-8257

Every Tuesday
is Ladies Nite
at TJ's
From 4:00 - 10:00 p.m.

Draft Beers	$ .50
Domestic Bottled Beers	$1.00
Most Other Drinks	$1.00

TJ's located
1 Bridge Street
Northampton, MA 01060
(413) 586-1726
Open Daily 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 a.m.

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
ROUTE 5 RIVEROALE ROAD
WEST SPRINGFIELD 733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY FIRST SHOW ONLY $2.50
CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCES SATURDAY, SUNDAY AND HOLIDAYS

"...TRIUMPHANT FILM MAKING..."
– Sheila Benson, LOS ANGELES TIMES

"There are sequences in this movie that make your jaw drop open out of genuine amazement." – David Ansen, NEWSWEEK

"...a scary, exhilarating movie...I found it utterly fascinating..." – Rex Reed, NEW YORK POST

"A unique chiller thriller – the most absorbing and satisfying survival movie – and appealing hero – in years." – Judith Crist, WOR-TV

NEVER CRY WOLF
A TWO-FOOT

NOW SHOWING
PG
NEVER CRY WOLF – CHARLES MARTIN SMITH, BRIAN DENNEHY

BLUES IN THE VALLEY
A photo essay by Drew Ogier
Some of the legendary bluesmen who graced the valley last semester included (clockwise from top right) John Mayall, Albert Collins and Willie Dixon; performing at The Blue Wall, The Hangar One and The Rusty Nail respectively.

For 17 years the Best Pizza and Subs in the Pioneer Valley"

BELL'S Pizza

BELL'S PIZZA HOUSE

65 University Drive
Amherst, Mass.

253-9051 549-1311

new and used records on two floors

the area's largest selection of imports lp's and 45's

Main St RECORDS

weekly sales on lp's, cassettes and blank tapes
we now carry compact discs
586-5726 or 584-3130
213 MAIN STREET,
NORTHAMPTON, MA

invites Seniors of all Majors to submit their resumés for consideration for our Executive Development Program. If you are a creative individual with proven abilities and achievement who seeks challenge and excitement, Lord & Taylor, America's leading fashion specialty store, would like to see your resumé. Resumes should be given to the Placement Service no later than Friday, February 10th if you wish to be interviewed on campus on Tuesday, March 6th.

YOUR PLACE IN THE SUN

"COLLEGE SPRING BREAK '84"
We'll Take You Where You Want To Go!

Ft. Lauderdale
Sheraton Yankee Trader $189.
Days Inn $119.

Daytona
Jet Tour $279.
Bus Tour $175.

Bermuda
Complete Trip $289.

Bahamas
Nassau: Complete Trip $299.
Freeport: Complete Trip $279.

For Information and Reservations Please Call
IRA 546-5422 ROB 546-1201

Buy and Sell Used Books

at the Book Exchange

- Deposit Books on Table at Concourse Jan. 31st - Feb. 3rd
- Sale Starts Feb. 2nd in Rm. 165-169
- Sponsored by Gamma Sigma Sigma National Service Sorority

Scarface holds no punches

SCARFACE
starring Al Pacino directed by Brian de Palma

By ED BEEN
Collegian Staff

The latest effort from Al Pacino, a remake of the 1932 film Scarface that starred Paul Muni, offers no new ideas or insights into the world of two-bit hoods, and their avaricious rise to power. Handguns and bootleg whiskey have given way to submachine guns and cocaine, but the message remains the same, "there's no stoppin' me, I could go all the way to the top."

The story revolves around Tony Montana (Al Pacino), who after being kicked out of Cuba as a criminal during Fidel Castro's social reform, comes to Miami in the late 1970's, in search of a better life, or as he puts it, "I want what's coming to me." For the next three hours, the viewer sees Tony rise, stumble, and fall, brought down by greed and the search for power that was his reason for ascension in the first place. Just before his bloody end, he is seen with literally pounds of cocaine on his desk, wired, confused, and out of control. Crime doesn't pay - what else is new?

What makes this movie work is Brian De Palma's brilliant direction, especially his handling of the numerous scenes of violence. Originally Scarface was given an "X" rating for its massacres and the constant profanity. In one part of the film Montana's wife (Michelle Pfeiffer) yells, "Fuck! Is that all you know how to say?" After some heavy editing, the film received an R, and what results is a mindbender of visual assault. The violence abounds, it is a part of Montana's world. But what makes the viewer's stomach squirm, is what he doesn't see. The best example of this is the torturous chain-saw scene, in which Montana is forced to watch his friend being carved up in a shower stall. The audience doesn't have to see the gore. Pacino's facial expressions, coupled with the occasional spray of blood are more than enough.

Other aspects of the film bear De Palma's signature as well. His attention to detail shows, for example, in the placing of a picture of President Carter on the immigration office wall. He also paints a marvelously gaudy picture of heavily Cuban populated Miami, complete with gold Cadillac convertibles. The drug world itself is shown as a dirty backstabbing environment. As the film progresses though, it is not hard to deduce that Montana can double cross just so many people before he gets what is really coming to him.

Even with the predictable script, the film is a worthwhile experience, for De Palma's direction and Pacino's artful portrayal of a bad man gone worse. He takes the character of Montana all the way from a street living foreigner to a stuffed animal, on another planet via the snowball express.

The film constantly treads the thin line of emotions, that of total disgust for the gangland code of ethics, and the thrill of the power these warlords possess, complete with all the trimmings, beautiful women, sunken golden bathtubs, and all the coke one can snort.

Al Pacino stars as a "bad guy gone worse" in Brian De Palma's riveting remake of Scarface.

Steiger's

GREAT IDEAS!

Yours with 7.50 purchase

CLINIQUE'S THREE-STEP, THREE-MINUTE CLEANSING SYSTEM
Because good looks start with healthy-looking skin!
The system: 1. Soap-mild or extra strength to cleanse your skin...2. Lotion-in strengths 1, 2, or 3 to deflake, clarify & polish your skin...
3. Moisturizer-to replenish natural oils, keep your skin soft and young-looking!

YOUR LATEST CLINIQUE BONUS-"FULL OF IDEAS"
Yours at no charge whatsoever with any Clinique purchase of 7.50 or more!
Special try-sizes of five beauty helps!
In each: Dramatically Different Moisturizing Lotion, Greaseless Body Lotion, Currant Stain Semi-Lipstick, Honey Gloss Re-Moisturizing Lipstick and Glossy Black Brush-On Mascara.
Yours with 7.50 purchase. One bonus per customer.

THE CLINIQUE COMPUTER Programmed by a group of leading dermatologists, it asks 8 essential questions and analyzes the answers to determine skin type and the proper Clinique products and procedures for your skin.

The Clinique Counter. All Steiger Stores

ALL CLINIQUE PRODUCTS ARE ALLERGY TESTED & 100% FRAGRANCE FREE

CLINIQUE

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS

$7.00
(with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C

Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610

FREE CONSULTATIONS

the Hungry U
55 University Drive, Amherst
549-5713
under new management

TUESDAY
ALL DAY
2 for 1
ALL DRINKS
and Beer

WEDNESDAY
SPAGHETTI DAY -
All spaghetti dinners include a FREE glass of wine or beer
HAPPY HOUR
3-6 and 10-closing
$1.25 bar drinks
$.60 drafts
2 for 1
on blender drinks

UNIVERSITY OF MASS AT AMHERST
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Second Prize International American Music Competition
Diana Walker, Soprano
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 8 PM
TICKETS: $5.00

A GREAT EVENING IN THE THEATRE N.Y. Times
MUMMENSCHANZ
Swiss Mime-Mask Theatre
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 8 PM
TICKETS: $9, $7, $5

GUARNERI STRING QUARTET
WORLD'S MASTER OF CHAMBER MUSIC Time Magazine
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 8 PM
TICKETS: $11, $9, $7

Five-College Students Half-Price Tickets Available at Fine Arts Center Box Office, DATATIX Outlets and Springfield Civic Center Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

The Department of Dramatic Arts & Dance of Amherst College presents

The Threepenny Opera
by Bertolt Brecht & Kurt Weill
Directed by Walter Boughton
February 3, 4, 5 February 9. 10, 11
Kirby Theater
8:00 P.M.

General Admission $4.00
Students & Senior Citizens $2.00
Box office hours 1-5 daily
Reservations: 542-2277

AMHERST CINEMA
Film

LOOK FOR THESE GREAT FILMS AT THE AMHERST CINEMA THIS SPRING: DOUBLE FEATURES..
ONLY $2.50

All That Jazz
Clockwork Orange
Fanny and Alexander
The Rear Window
The Lady Vanishes
and many more!

DOWNTOWN AMHERST
253-5426

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST
PRICES

UMass Ski Club Goes Down
Call 545-3437 for info

PIERCE'S ART STORE
welcome back!
VISIT PIERCE'S FOR ALL YOUR FINE ARTS & GRAPHICS SUPPLIES

196 MAIN ST.
NORTHAMPTON
584-1207

Quinton's
7 ARMORY ST. NORTHAMPTON
586-6656

featuring
Continental, Nouvelle & Regional American Cuisine
Serving Dinner
Evenings, Tuesday-Sunday Six to Ten-Thirty

RACQUET and FITNESS CENTER
Sunbed $5. a visit or 6 visits for $30. (you get 1 visit free)
KEEP A TAN OR JUST START ONE
Located on Rt. 116
Amherst/Sunderland Line
3 miles from UMass on Umass bus line
Call 549-4545

SPORTS

Volume CXIV, Issue 2 Tuesday, January 31, 1984

INSIDE:

Men's hoop finds trouble on the road..... pg. 2
Women hoopsters confident and winning.... pg. 3
Alumni get money for UMass hockey rink.... pg. 5
Men and women swimmers train hard..... pg. 8
Massachusetts skiing gets underway..... pg. 10

'I love the school (UMass) and I love hockey.'
John M. Riley
Class of '78'

UM has trouble on the road again

UMass tops W. Virginia, Hawks sneak away

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Somewhere in the land is the secret formula for winning basketball games on the road. Tony the Tiger doesn't have that formula but if anyone knows where it is, coach Ron Gerlufsen and his University of Massachusetts men's basketball team would probably pay you big bucks for it.

It has been so (since the beginning some feel) since 1976-77 when UMass last had a winning record on the road, 8-7. Then the record began to tumble as UMass basketball fortunes did. On the road, UMass went 7-8 in 1977-78 followed by 4-12, 1-14, 0-15, 4-10 and 0-15 last year.

At press time, Massachusetts has a 33 game losing streak on the road. So far they have been perfect at home, 5-0, before the George Washington and Rhode Island games last weekend.

Over intersession, UMass had the chance and almost broke the long skein. Some say it was taken away down in Philadelphia against St. Josephs. More on that later.

The players, though Gerlufsen claims that they aren't bothered, have to be frustrated. Sophomore forward John Hempel averaged in double figures in six of the seven games during January. Hempel hit for 27 twice against Holy Cross and Rutgers. Last week, Hempel was ranked sixth in the conference scoring.

Horace Neysmith, the league's third leading rebounder, led the league shooting off the floor last week (.637). And Neysmith leads the team in rebounding with over nine a game.

Then there is Edwin Green, who has suffered enough losses. Green led the league last week in blocked shots with 31. Add to that he's fifth in the conference in rebounding at 13.4 points a game, and he's doing his share.

And Carl Smith leads the Atlantic 10 in assists, and is ranked sixth nationally. Earlier he was ranked fourth. At this writing, Smith has 112 assists in just 15 games. Last year, Ron Young led the team with 74 over 29 games.

Well, the players are capable of doing the job. It's just a matter of doing it all at once. The Marist game was cancelled and rescheduled for a February date. UMass faced Duquesne in Pittsburgh and lost a game they could have won. Emmett Sellers hit for 16 second half points to help the Dukes. Hempel hit for 16 while Green had 16 also and Bobby Braun scored 12.

Photo courtesy of UMass sports information

HEY, YOU OVER THERE — UMass floor general Carl Smith directs traffic for the Minutemen. Smith was named Atlantic 10 rookie-of-the-week early in January.

In New Jersey, Rutgers built an early lead and held off UMass by an 88-83 margin. UMass led in the first half but turnovers hurt.

"We did not play well in either game," Gerlufsen said. "Turnovers in key situations hurt us terribly (24 vs Duquesne, 23 vs Rutgers). We're not that far away from being successful. We have to win on the road."

Hempel scored 27, Neysmith scored 19 and got 13 rebounds and Green hit for 16 points vs. Rutgers.

After that UMass visited the Palestra and Temple University who promptly knocked UMass' block off with an 83-66 win.

Temple led by 20 after 17 minutes and led 42-26 at the half. The closest UMass got was 13 at 62-49 with 10:02 to play. Turnovers again hurt the common cause.

So with a 4-6 slate, UMass came home to the friendly confines of the Curry Hicks Cage and the not-so-friendly West Virginia Mountaineers. And well, they were a different team.

They fell behind quickly 12-9 but hung tough despite the slams of Lester Rowe. UMass took a 27-22 lead before West Virginia came back and it took a Hempel rebound to tie it up.

In the second half, before an excited crowd of 3644, UMass eased into command. A Neysmith layup gave UMass a 52-46 lead with 7:04 to go. After Hempel hit from the top of the key at 5:38, UMass didn't sink another field goal as UM outshot WVU on the foul line for the win.

Back on the road again, Holy Cross made Massachusetts play their way and UMass got into a huge hole that they couldn't get out of. Holy Cross outscored UMass 16-0 at one point in the first half and that in effect iced the game.

In a foul filled game in which Neysmith, Donald Russell and Carl Smith fouled out, the UMass offense sputtered. "We took bad shots and weren't patient," Gerlufsen said after the loss.

Hempel hit for 27 while Green sank 25. Russell had 12.

Determined to play better, Massachusetts stormed into the Palestra to take on St. Joseph's and end the losing streak once and for all. But this time, it was fate or as others would say a lousy official's call that took away the win from UMass.

Continued on page 3.

Nat'l rank

Carl Smith, Massachusetts freshman point guard, was ranked sixth in the nation (Division I) in assists according to the NCAA (up to Jan. 16 games). Smith, the leader in the Atlantic 10, had 112 assists in 15 games fora 7.5 average.

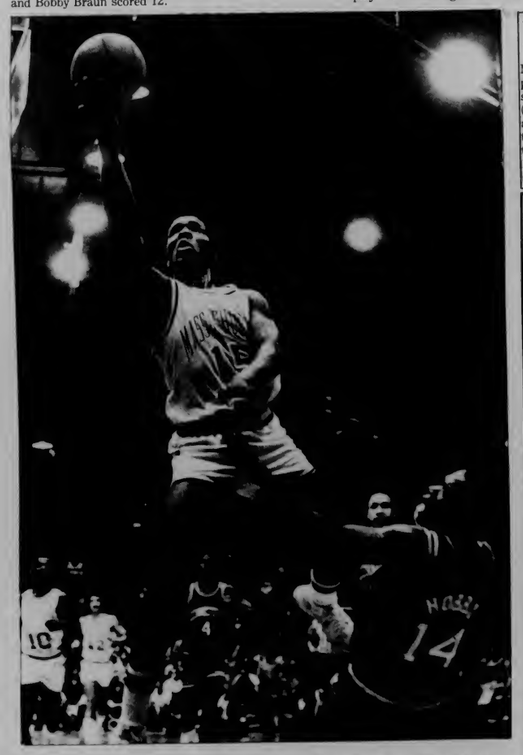

Photo courtesy of UMass sports information

BOWLS 'EM OVER — Horace Neysmith runs over Karl Hobbs in the UConn win at the Cage which is more friendly than the road to UMass.

Men's hoop

UMass 75 New Hampshire 73
UMass 80 Bentley 75
Houston Baptist 68 UMass 55
Georgia Southern 67 UMass 64
Duke 88 UMass 56
UMass 67 UConn 65, overtime
UMass 78 Dartmouth 75
Duquesne 69 UMass 64
Rutgers 88 UMass 83
Temple 83 UMass 66
UMass 71 West Virginia 60
Holy Cross 89 UMass 83
St. Josephs 67 UMass 66, double overtime
St. Bonaventure 81 UMass 64
Jan. 26 GEORGE WASHINGTON	Jan. 27 BOSTON UNIV.
Jan. 28 RHODE ISLAND	Jan. 29 at New Hampshire
Feb. 2 At Penn State, 8 p.m.	Jan. 31 at Providence, 7 p.m.
Feb. 4 at Rhode Island, 2 p.m.	Feb. 4 NORTHEASTERN, 2 p.m.
Feb. 9 ST. BONAVENTURE, 8 p.m.	Feb. 7 at Dartmouth, 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 11 PENN STATE, 7:30 p.m.	Feb. 11 MAINE, 5 p.m.
Feb. 16 ST. JOSEPHS, 8 p.m.	Feb. 14 at Boston College, 7 p.m.
Feb. 18 at George Washington, 2 p.m.	Feb. 16 ST. JOSEPH'S, 5 p.m.
Feb. 23 at West Virginia, 7:30 p.m.	Feb. 18 at West Virginia, 2 p.m.
Feb. 27 TEMPLE, 7:30 p.m.	Feb. 20 at Duquesne, 3:30 p.m.
Mar. 1 RUTGERS, 7:30 p.m.	Feb. 23 at Rhode Island, 7:30 p.m.
Mar. 3 DUQUESNE, 7:30 p.m.	Feb. 25 TEMPLE, 7:30 p.m.
Mar. 7-10 Atlantic 10 championship	March 2-4 at Atlantic 10 Championships

Women's hoop

UConn 74 UMass 68
Rhode Island 77 UMass 52
St. John's 71 UMass 64
UMass 62 Vermont 58
UMass 74 Harvard 57
UMass 73 Yale 56
Southern Conn 68 UMass 52
UMass 86 Springfield 73
UMass 76 Central Conn 57
UMass 67 Penn State 63
UMass 61 George Washington 54
Rutgers 86 UMass 51
UConn 82 UMass 65
Fordham 78 UMass 76, overtime

UM women hoopsters on winning track

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

When we last saw the University of Massachusetts women's basketball team, they were 4-5 and many still didn't believe that they were a better basketball team than the 5-22 squad of a year ago.

After all at the semester break last year, Massachusetts was a respectable 4-6. But then the bottom fell out and UMass won only one of their next eighteen.

"We didn't play well (in the first half). We were playing the mystique not the people."

Coach Barbara Stevens after UMass came from 16 points down at the half to beat Penn State.

DO NOT assume that of this year's edition, which has no desire to be anything similar to that. First year coach Barbara Stevens' squad has been no pushover for anyone.

After defeating a tough Springfield squad before finals by a 86-73 margin, UMass won their next three in a row. They toppled Central Connecticut, defending Atlantic 10 champion Penn State and George Washington.

However, UMass met up with a tough Rutgers team and lost. That was followed by a loss to Connecticut and a tough overtime loss to Fordham that left UMass 7-7 at press time.

"We're feeling pretty good," Stevens said. "Mentally, we have been a little unprepared at times."

Unprepared or not, Massachusetts has been performing admirably down the January stretch. UMass has been winning with a team effort.

And one of the most pleasant surprises has been the play of freshman center Karen Fitzgerald. Used most of the time coming off the bench, Fitzgerald had scored in double figures in six of the last seven games for the Minutewomen.

Fitzgerald led UMass with 19 points in the Penn State upset. Earlier in the week against Central Connecticut, Fitzgerald scored 14 points, and grabbed 11 rebounds. For these two games, Fitzgerald was named Atlantic 10 Rookie of the week for the week of Jan. 11.

Sophomore Barbara Hebel leads the Minutewomen in scoring with a 17 point average. Hebel scored 23 in the overtime loss to Fordham and added 17 against Penn State. Hebel, along with Karen Damminger has been very steady.

Senior captain Wendy Ward has "offensively and defensively totally in charge" according to Stevens. From her point guard position, Ward offers leadership and experience. In the Penn State game, Ward had 9 steals, four assists and six points.

Forwards Rebecca Kuchs and Jerrie Bernier have been consistent too.

To review what has happened in the last six weeks, one must start with the loss to Southern Connecticut 68-52 followed by the 86-73 win over Springfield just before finals in December.

Then the Minutewomen drew the task of facing CENTRAL CONNECTICUT for their first game in almost three weeks.

"It was an important win for us," Stevens said. "It was our first game back and we only had five days practice. You never really know how the team will react."

While Central went one on one, Stevens said UMass "played a team oriented game. I was really pleased." UMass recorded a 76-57 win.

Then came Massachusetts' third win in a row. A win over PENN STATE by a 67-63 score in the Cage. The Lady Nittany Lions, who have been ranked in the Top 20 this season, were on the last stop of a nation wide road trip.

"All the right situations were there for us to beat them," Stevens said. UMass lulled Penn State by playing flat in the first half and Penn State led by 16 at the half.

"We didn't play well (in the first half)," Stevens said. "We were playing the mystique, not the people."

Massachusetts opened the second half by scoring the first two hoops to narrow the lead to 12. With 13 minutes left, and down by 18, UMass made their move. And with two minutes to go, UMass tied it up and Penn State helped by missing the front ends of one and ones.

UMass capitalized on their mistakes to win.

"The win gave us confidence," Stevens said for a positive note. On a not-so positive note, it sort of swelled Umass' heads.

Against GEORGE WASHINGTON, UMass was a little flat but still had enough composure to come back and win after being down by seven at the half. Damminger and Hebel led the charge in the last two minutes.

The Cardiac kids, as UMass was getting known to be, kept people involved in the game said Stevens. It also gives coaches grey hairs.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

I DARE YOU — UMass' Mary Marquedant blocks the road to the hoop in a win over Yale. UMass won four in a row at one point in January, including one over Penn State.

With the win, UMass was 7-4 and faced RUTGERS, another top 20 team. "Rutgers had lost a couple of tough games and they were prime to beat somebody up," Stevens said. UMass didn't help themselves as they "didn't play well or up to our capabilities. We didn't play the way we have played."

And as a result, Rutgers blew out Massachusetts.

UMass traveled to CONNECTICUT for their next game and again met another struggling team. UMass fell behind by 10 early and never caught up. UMass also got into foul trouble.

"We realize that we haven't played up to par and have to play better," Stevens said after the UConn loss. "That's a sign of a team coming around."

Against FORDHAM, UMass struggled and lost in overtime. They led by three at the half but only shot 41 percent from the floor and despite Hebel's 23 points and 14 from Fitzgerald.

Massachusetts looks to keep themselves on the winning track despite some heavy competition in the very near future. And as their performance showed this January, they can do it.

Young Minutewomen get experience in competition

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Heading into the third fourth of their season, the University of Massachusetts women's track team is looking to pick up some momentum and head into the home stretch of their indoor season.

Coach Kalekeni Banda's young squad only has two more meets before the New England indoor championships and the team is striving for qualifying times.

Veterans Maureen O'Reilly and Leah Leftis lead a squad that includes many talented freshmen including Kayla Morrison, who has been outstanding so far this season.

Morrison won the 55 meter dash in the season's first meet at the Boston University relays in December and also won the event at the prestigious Dartmouth Relays. In Dartmouth, Morrison set a school record with a 7.20 in the dash.

At the BU Invitational in January, Morrison again ran well and won one of her heats. "Right now, Kayla is a class above everyone else," Banda said before the Yale Invitational and Greater Boston Track Club meets. Morrison has already qualified for the New England and Eastern championships. She is now trying for a shot at qualifying for the Nationals.

Freshman Barbara Cullian has also been turning in fine performances. Cullian was the top UMass runner in the 200m at Dartmouth and was the second UMass runner behind Morrison in the 200m at the BU Invitational.

The upper classmen have held their own, too. Leah Leftis won her heat in the 400m dash at the BU Invitational and sophomore Sue Bird was right behind in second.

In the longer distances, Dana Mikesell won her heat of 1500m at Dartmouth and Chris Pratt finished first at the BU Relays in the 3000m with Diedre Doyle taking second.

The field events cannot be ignored. Liz Patterson took first place in the shotput at both Dartmouth and BU Invitational.

High jumper Sharon Lassard is showing improvement and she took second at Dartmouth.

So the women, who have the Princeton Relays this weekend and their indoor season's only dual meet of the indoor season at New Hampshire next week, look to improve and peak for the New England and ECAC championships scheduled for the end of the month.

Collegian file photo by Jim Powers

MAN FOR ALL SEASONS — Rod Laflamme has been one of the leaders for the indoor track team. See story on page 5.

★ Men's hoop

Continued from page 2.

Hawk senior Kevin Springman was fouled at the buzzer and sank both ends of a one and one to give St. Joes a bitter 68-67 double overtime win over UMass. It was a very controversial call.

Springman was attempting to follow up a missed shot when referee Austin McArthur called a foul on Carl Smith. The UMass bench was up in arms. They thought the foul came after the buzzer.

"I felt that time had expired," Gerlufsen said. "Our kids played hard and deserved to win."

Tony Costner and James Flint fueled a 8-0 spurt that gave St. Joes a 59-56 lead. But Hempel tied it up with a three point play at 2:39. Smith missed the front end of a one and one with eight seconds left and it was overtime.

Maurice Martin hit with 4:34 to play in the first OT but UMass held the ball and Hempel's 25 footer at the buzzer tied it at 61.

Green's layup and a Russell foul shot gave UM a 64-61 edge with 2:18 to go but Costner's layup and Geoff Arnold's two free throws gave St. Joes a one point lead with 0:15 left.

Green hit a layup off a Neysmith feed with 0:09 before St. Joes scored with 0:00 on the clock.

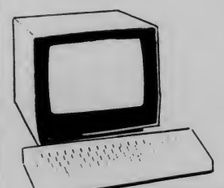
Unfortunately, St. Bonaventure was up next and they took care of UMass in a 81-64 loss. Massachusetts fell way behind early 14-2 before their one big run closed the score to 20-18. The equalizer wouldn't fall, though, and UMass just fell farther behind.

UMass never got closer than ten as they lost their sixth game in the last seven.

"The team doesn't feel like they've lost 30 in a row," Gerlufsen said before the St. Joseph game. "We feel as if we have lost seven. We want to do something about it. We've been working hard to turn it around.

"On the road, we seem to hit stretches of inconsistency and to win we just can't have that."

Hopefully, for UMass' sake they can come up with the formula for a win. They face Penn State Thursday in University Park and URI in Kingston on Saturday before returning home for six of their last eight games.



COMPUTER WORKS
AMHERST'S FINEST MICROCOMPUTING CENTER
MON-SAT 10:00-5:00
266 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002
253-5673

★★WELCOME BACK★★
Spring Semester Rentals

VIC-20
The friendly computer
Commodore Terminal Package
includes Computer, B & W TV, cassette recorder, 40 col. software, modem and more $100.* per semester

OR 80 col. 12" CRT,
300 baud modem,
numeric keypad
$135.*

OR
RCA-APT 80 col. terminal with built in 300 baud modem, printer interface, choice of 9" green or amber monitor, keypad, function keys, and more!
$150.*

* Rental prices do not include sales tax, security deposit or optional delivery charge.

Fall Sports News.....

Football alumni go pro

Garry Pearson, the number one ranked rusher in UMass history with 3,859 career yards, was cut by the New Orleans Breakers of the United States Football League, January 19. Pearson had been cut by the Seattle Seahawks as a free agent last August.

Other former UMass players trying to hook onto a professional team are Scott Lafond, a former guard who last played for the Minutemen in 1982 with Pearson, who is trying out with the USFL Birmingham Stallions. Max Jones, a former cornerback, is also trying out with Birmingham.

Not all is bleak for Massachusetts football alumni. Bruce Kimball ('76-'78) is a second string guard for the NFC champion Washington Redskins. Kimball was a co-captain on the 1978 UMass team. The Skins picked Kimball up on waivers from the New York Giants at the start of the season. Kimball didn't play in the Super Bowl but he still got a loser's share of $18,000 and a Super Bowl ring.

George Lewis, who last wore a UMass uniform in 1981, is trying out with the Philadelphia Stars.

Greg Landry ('65-'67) a veteran of the NFL Detroit Lions, Baltimore Colts and the USFL Chicago Blitz is now with the Arizona Wranglers.

Joe McLaughlin ('76-'78) saw time with the Giants this year and Mike McLaughlin ('76-'78) was a center with the Breakers last season. Former Massachusetts field goal kicker Sandro Vitiello ('78, '79) spent last season kicking for the USFL Washington Federals.

Photo courtesy of Sports Information
Garry Pearson

Soccer All-Amer. chosen

The University of Massachusetts women's soccer team finished third in the country this fall, thanks to their 1-0 victory over Connecticut in the Final Four. North Carolina won the title for the third year in a row with a 4-0 win over George Mason.

Massachusetts was voted the top team in New England for the first time ever. Three UMass players also made the All-American squad. Junior back Lori Stukes, and senior forward Stacey Flionis were named first team All-Americans. Junior forward Chris Taggart was named to the second team.

★Feinberg

Continued from page 8.

makes you stronger."

Another advantage to swimming is the opportunity to travel. She especially enjoyed the team's recent New Year's trip to Montreal where they trained in Olympic Park's 50 meter pool.

"It was tough. It was a character builder. By the time the New Year's came around, we were all too tired to celebrate," she said.

Feinberg will get the chance to travel again later this month when the Minutewomen compete in the New Englands at the University of Maine at Orono.

"It's a serious meet," Feinberg said. "It's the finale."

BUD suitcase....$10.95 + dep.	JIM BEAM 1 Liter.....$7.49
BECKS Lt or Dark.....$3.99 6 pk + dep.	PAUL MASSON Table Wine 1.5 Liter.....$4.49
PIEL'S Draft.$3.59 12 pk + dep.	VODKA 1 Liter.....$4.99
MICHELOB Light.....$12.99 + dep.	HEINEKEN Lt or Dark 6 pk.....$4.45 + dep.
ALMADEN MT. WINES 1.5 Liter.....$4.49	TAYLOR 1.5 L.....$4.75 Zinfandel, Chenin Blanc French Columbard

C & C LIQUORS
61 Main St.
"Across from Plumbley's"
All Specials in store only
Phone 253-3091 For Free Off Campus Delivery $15.00 Minimum

Alumni move to get money for ice rink

By TOM KELLY
Collegian Staff

Due to the efforts of University of Massachusetts alumni and two former UMass hockey players, hockey and recreational skating may be available to students in the near future.

Governor Michael Dukakis has signed a $700 million capital outlay budget that includes $3 million for the planning and construction of a multi-purpose sports arena including ice facilities.

The appropriation for the sports facility did not take the normal route by which requests to the state for money take. It was put into the capital outlay budget by a Somerville representative at the request of John Riley, a 1978 graduate of UMass, and Fran Guiliano, a 1959 graduate.

Riley, an account supervisor for the largest advertising agency in New England, Hill, Holiday, Connors and Cosmopulos of Boston, played goalie for the UMass ice hockey team from 1975-1978.

UMass was the division 2 National Champions in 1972 and Riley came to play in 1973 as one of the last players on scholarship. In his final year, Riley played on a team that missed the playoffs by losing the last game of the season. Riley saw his former team play to a miserable record the following year and the drop of the program in 1979.

Watching a program that he'd been a part of for four years go down the tubes prompted Riley to seek support for a rink on campus.

"I love the school and I love hockey," said Riley. "It has always been a dream of mine to see an ice rink at UMass. This is my way of repaying all the good things that happened to me at UMass."

Proposals for projects such as this generally follow a procedure that includes a feasibility and cost-benefit study done by the university and then are presented to the Division of Capital Planning and Operations. In this case it wasn't. After passing the House of Representatives, the proposal was knocked out of the Senate budget because it was not a request of the UMass administration. But when the General Court came back into session to attack the capital outlay budget under pressure from the federal government to spend money on state hospitals and schools for the retarded, it approved all the capital outlay budget projects of both the House and Senate.

Senator John Olver of Amherst pointed out that UMass benefited immensily from the overall budget which included $6 million for the establishment of a polymer science research institution at the University.

"The inclusion of the sports facility in the Capital outlay budget resulted in no direct loss of educational benefits," Senator Olver said. "This is needed and deserved by the University."

When the UMass rink was reported to be on the line veto list of Governor Dukakis, pressure was brought forth from Senator Olver and many prominent alumni including Riley and Guiliano.

"I was a student at RPI when they won the National Championship," said Senator Olver. "I happen to love Hockey. UMass is the largest public institution in New England and Massachusetts has one of the largest public and private skating programs in New England. It seems inappropriate that it should be without ice facilities."

John Riley cited support from students, the faculty and the administration in general and pointed out that support came from all types of alumni not only hockey enthusiasts.

"This is one of the biggest things to hit the university in twenty years," said Riley. "It'll be great. The rink will be in use not only by hockey players but by recreational and figure skaters 24 hours a day. It's the frosting on the cake and a very smart investment on behalf of the commonwealth."

The University must now prepare a feasibility study and present it to the Division of Capital Planning and Operations. Dean of Physical Education, David C. Bischoff who has been supportive of the rink, was unavailable for comment.

AP Laserphoto
HOCKEY ACTION IN AMHERST? — Ice hockey and skating could return to UMass if two alumni's plan works.

Tracksters on upswing

Rod Laflamme highlighted the month of January for the University of Massachusetts men's indoor track team as the Minutemen competed in three invitational meets. Laflamme won the 3000 meter run at the Dartmouth Relays in 8:27.8.

Coach Ken O'Brien's team is a young one which was highlighted by "outstanding individual performances" by Laflamme, an old hand on the squad. Laflamme also took fifth at the Boston University Relays (Jan. 14) in the two mile with a fine 8:21.6.

Freshman Rawle Crowley took fourth in the 55m dash at BU and "has been outstanding in his four meets," O'Brien said.

Two other UMass freshmen also performed well over intersession. Wayne Levi, a freshman from New Haven, Conn. set a UMass freshman record in the 3000m at a New Year's Eve track meet at BU. Paul Stanislawczk also set a UMass freshman record in the 1500m.

O'Brien is optimistic. "When we started the season (indoor) we only had four people back and a lot of question marks. After five weeks, enough questions have been answered and I think we'll have a solid team for years to come."

The Minutemen have twenty freshmen and sophomores who are new to the squad.

Like the women's team, the men have competed in just invitationals this month. While the lack of dual meets does hurt the development of some of the younger team members, O'Brien doesn't have the entire team here in Amherst to compete in dual meets either.

The members that were here got to look and compete on "outstanding tracks with blue chip facilities," according to O'Brien. Not to mention the good competition.

The Minutemen will travel to the Princeton Relays this Saturday and perform in two more competitions before the New England indoor championships at Boston University at the end of the month.

Brighten Your Room!!
Now 2 Stores! Amherst Carriage Shops
Northampton - next to Iron Horse

POSTERS
Largest Selection Ever

Bamboo BLINDS

BEDSPREADS
cover walls, furniture, windows from $7.95

Paper LAMPSHADES

RUGS & MATS
colorful, durable

CARDS
over 1400 designs

Greatly Expanded SKIRTS & BLOUSES
lots of comfortable cotton

Sterling and Gold Filled JEWELRY
Earrings, Ear Cuffs, Rings, etc.

CLOTHING SALE
20% - 50% OFF
SELECTED BLOUSES,
SKIRTS, DRESSES

THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
GREAT GIFTS — GREAT PRICES

JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
THE PARTY NEVER STOPS
SUPER
Beat the Clock
Every Night
8-9 $.50, 9-10 $,75, 10-11 $1.00,11-12 $1.25
KICKOFF LOUNGE
CATCH THE ACTION
Sports or Movies
Every Night
$.75 12oz drafts

Graduate into the fast lane.

Guarantee flight training after you graduate with the Marine Corps undergraduate Officer Commissioning Program. If you're a college freshman, sophomore or junior, you could qualify.

All training is conducted during the summers between school years and you'll receive your commission as a Second Lieutenant the day you graduate. You'll also receive $100 a month during the school year and qualify for free civilian flying lessons.

If you're a senior, you can still qualify for our graduate Officer Commissioning Program. In it, you'll complete your training in one 10-week summer session. You can also be guaranteed flight school after initial training if you qualify.

So, if you're looking for a chance to fly, to prove yourself amongst the best, check out the undergraduate and graduate Marine Officer Commissioning programs. They're your chance to graduate into the fast lane as a Marine Officer.

Marines

Maybe you can be one of us.
The few. The proud. The Marines.

See 1st Lt. C.J. Schiffer
in the Campus Center, on Feb. 27, 28, 29 10 am - 2 pm or call collect. . .(203) 722-2168

"Sub-Minutemen" keep up their intensive training routine

By TOM KELLEY
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's swimming team lost a tough meet Saturday January 21 to last year's New England Champion Williams College, bringing its record to 3-2. But the team was back in training Monday despite pleas from some of the swimmers to their coach during a Super Bowl party on Sunday.

Coach Russ Yarworth was pleased despite the 90-26 loss to Williams as he saw his team swim to thirteen seasonal bests.

"They swam well being as tired as they were," said Yarworth. The "Sub-Minutemen" as Yarworth calls his team, have been in training since September.

Most of the team's 23 swimmers played on the 18-9 UMass water polo team that finished third in the New England championships this fall. During intersession, the team swam twice a day and then lifted weights.

UMass is led by senior co-captains, Chris Porter and Phil Surette.

"Chris Porter is one of the better sprinters in New England," Yarworth said. "He's a real team leader and is doing a great job."

Coach Yarworth refers to Surette as "a little inhuman" in his approach to training.

"He's the hardest worker on the team," Yarworth said. "Phil has a good shot at making the top ten in New England."

Coach Yarworth hopes to improve upon last year's record of 4-8 and a tenth place finish in the New England Championships. He attributes earlier wins over Tufts, Lowell and Northeastern to not only first place finishers but to those swimmers that pick up points in second and third places.

UMass' strengths are junior Chris Clarke, butterflyer, fifth in New England in the 100 fly, sophomore Marc Surette in the backstroke, and freshman Michael Hoover in the breaststroke.

Speaking of Hoover coach Yarworth said, "He's a contender for a New England Championship."

Marc Surette, as a freshman, finished sixth in the New England Championships in both the 200 and 100 yard backstroke. He also maintains a 4.0 average in electrical engineering.

UMass lost earlier to Springfield, a team Yarworth feels is a legitimate contender for

continued on page 8

WOMEN'S LACROSSE TRYOUTS- Tryouts for the team will start on Wednesday Feb. 1st. Meet in the NOPE gym ready to play at 4 p.m. BE THERE!

JOIN THE 1984 SUMMER STAFF
CAMP RAMAH
in New England

outstanding camping in a traditional Jewish environment counselors and junior counselors

Judaic and Hebrew teachers camping activity specialists waterfront staff maintenance staff
kitchen and dining hall staff for information and applications, contact:

Dr. Gil Graff, director
Camp Ramah in New England
233 Harvard Street
Brookline, Ma 02146 617-232-7400

Sgt Alice M. Dotson

KNOWS WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT ARMY NURSING

What it's like being an Army officer. The lifestyle. Professional development. What your BSN is worth in pay and benefits. How you qualify. Travel. Advanced education. Special training. Promotions.

Any questions you have, the answers are worth knowing.

call SSG DOTSON (COLLECT)

at 261-8498 in Trumbull, CT.

from 9 AM to 5 PM, Monday through Friday.

ARMY NURSE CORPS.
BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

Campus Card.

No matter what your schedule or workload is, you can now do your banking at the X-Press 24 located in the Newman Center cafeteria. There's only one card that lets you do all your regular banking at more than 460 X-Press 24s around Massachusetts the BayBanks X-Press 24™ Card

To get your card, just visit our Amherst Office at 75 East Pleasant Street today

Try Something Better

UMASS ARTS COUNCIL

WE'VE GONE COMPUTERIZED, THAT MEANS MORE ATTENTION TO YOU !

OUR PURPOSE IS YOU

WE ARE AN ARTS EVENT FUNDING ORGANIZATION INTERESTED IN YOUR PROPOSAL(S) FOR AN EVENT.

DO YOU OR AN ORGANIZATION YOU BELONG TO HAVE AN ARTS-RELATED EVENT THAT SOUNDS INTERESTING ?

IF SO, THE ARTS COUNCIL WOULD BE INTERESTED IN TALKING WITH

* YOU *

INDIVIDUAL PROPOSAL DEADLINES ARE: FEBRUARY 8, 1984
MARCH 30, 1984
(for early Fall, 1984 proposals) APRIL 30, 1984

COME SEE US FOR DETAILS, WE ARE GLAD TO HELP YOU !

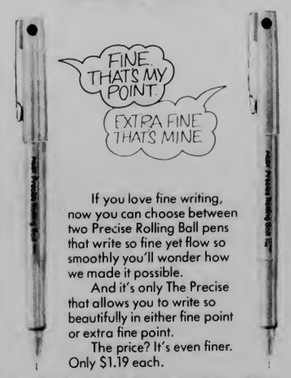
125 HERTER HALL 545-0202 MON-FRI 9:00am to 4:30pm

umass Arts council

湖南園本湖
Hunan Garden Restaurant

"The Best Chinese Food"

MENU



BUFFET
Mon - Thurs
5 pm - 8 pm
Sunday Brunch
11:30 am - 3 pm
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$5.25 per person

Hot and Sour Soup
Chicken Fingers
Pan Fried Ravioli
Beef with Green Pepper
Chicken Fried Noodles
Sweet and Sour Chicken
Pan Fried Rice
Chinese Barbequed Pork
Broccoli in Oyster Sauce
Chicken Wings

Luncheon Special & Take-Out Service
Full Cocktail Menu
Sun - Thurs 11:30 am - 10 pm
Fri & Sat 11:30 am - 11 pm
10 Belchertown Road
at Rte 9, Amherst
256-0251

UMASS SKI CLUB
THE SPORT OF SUN & SURF
FORT LAUDERDALE SPRING BREAK
SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
FOR MORE INFO 545-3437

NOW PILOT IS TWO POINTS UP ON THE COMPETITION.

If you love fine writing, now you can choose between two Precise Rolling Ball pens that write so fine yet flow so smoothly you'll wonder how we made it possible.

And it's only The Precise that allows you to write so beautifully in either fine point or extra fine point.

The price? It's even finer. Only $1.19 each.

PILOT PRECISE ROLLING BALL PENS.
2 OF THE FINER THINGS IN LIFE.

PILOT precise Rolling Ball

Located in the Campus Center
UNIVERSITY STORE

UM women swimmers continue to improve

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Ordinarily, the time from the end of finals to the beginning of January would be lost time for the University of Massachusetts women's swimming team. All the improvement gained in December would be put on hold.

However, this year the Minutewomen along with the UMass men's swim team traveled to Montreal for a week of intense training in the 50 meter Olympic pool on December 28- January 3.

"It was a lot of good work," Valerie Turtle, UMass women's coach said. "We got in an extra five or six days of swimming. It helped get our times down."

This was especially evident in the Jan. 17 meet over Amherst, which UMass won 71-61. The Minutewomen had a 2-5 record at press time. UMass lost to a tough Williams team, who are the defending Division III national champions 74-46.

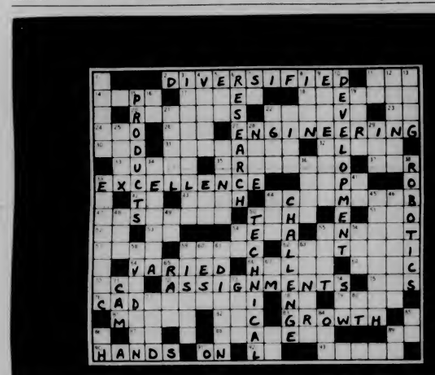
"We're going after the upset," Turtle said before the Williams meet. "We have nothing to lose and everything to gain."

Against cross-town rival Amherst, the fruits of the Canadian workouts came through. For example, Nancy Stephens has already topped her best times from the end of last season in the 50 and 100 meter butterfly and the 100m freestyle.

Colleen Martin dropped her time in the Amherst meet 13 seconds in the 500 freestyle, a huge drop. Martin also dropped six seconds in her 200 freestyle time.

"We've been working hard," Turtle said. "Intersession really allows us to do a lot when the team doesn't have to deal with academic pressures." The team swam double sessions all month.

The improvement continued against Williams. Elizabeth Feinberg won the 100 and 200 free while Jean Bushee swept the diving competition taking off the one and three meter boards.



Alison Uzzo set two records in a stellar performance. She first set a school record in the 500 free and then she set a pool and school record while winning the 1000 free in 10:49.84.

"This is the type of team that gives credit where credit is due," Turtle said. "But it takes more than one person to make up a team." This squad wins and loses together in an individualistic sport.

Improvement has been seen in everyone including freshman star Uzzo, who set a school record in the 500 freestyle against Amherst. Another fruit of victory was the women qualifying for the New England championships. Uzzo qualified in the 400 IM along with Caroline Freitas (400 IM), Janice Rowan (200 breast) and Feinberg.

"We're trying to be strong in as many events as we possibly can," Turtle said.

The Minutewomen have three more meets this month before winding up their season at the New England Championships at Maine on February 24-26.

What has 16 letters and means "exciting engineering"?

The answer is Hamilton Standard.

If you're the type of person who won't let go of a problem until you've got the answer, Hamilton Standard is your kind of place.

If your degree is in EE, ME, Aeronautics or Computer Science and you'd like to make your professional mark by creating new solutions to exciting engineering puzzles, then let's get together.

Hamilton Standard is coming on campus

Feb. 7th

Be sure to sign up for an interview.

UNITED TECHNOLOGIES

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Swimming....

Feinberg gets more from swimming than just wins

By ELIZABETH LUCIANO
Collegian Staff

Photo courtesy of Sports Information

Elizabeth Feinberg

According to Elizabeth Feinberg, of the UMass women's swim team, there are some women who just can't wash this sport out of their hair.

Feinberg, a junior from Lawrenceville, New Jersey, should know. She's the co-captain of the 17 member team here at the University.

"If you don't want to do it, it's agony, because it's a lot of time. It's a big time commitment," she said.

During the semester, the women attend mandatory practices from 3:30 to 5:30 every afternoon and may dive in for optional practices once or twice a week in the mornings. Over intersession, the team swam from 9 to 11:30 in the morning and again in the afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30.

A swim team practice, according to Feinberg, usually consists of swimming 10,000 yards, or approximately four miles. This is followed by a workout on the hydragym equipment in the UMass Body Shop. The equipment is similar to Nautilus, Feinberg said, but is more "specific to swimming."

Feinberg, an environmental science major, competes mainly in freestyle events. She swims in the 200 yard, 100 yard and 50 yard events and would like to train to swim the 500 yard event better.

"Coach Turtle (Valerie) tries to make us versatile swimmers," she said, "but we all have our specialties." And Feinberg's speciality is winning.

The junior has already qualified for the New England championships in the 50 free, 100 free, 200 free, 500 free and the 200 IM (where swimmers swim the backstroke, butterfly, freestyle and breaststroke).

In the UMass loss to Williams earlier this month, Feinberg won the 200 free and the 100 free. She came in second in the 50 free by four seconds.

"She is one of the stronger freestylers in New England," Turtle said. "When she really gets her mind going and wants the race, she's awesome and really gets going."

Against Maine, in December, Feinberg took three firsts in the 50, 100 and 200 free along with being the anchor leg of the winning 200 free relay.

However winning isn't the only responsibility Feinberg has as co-captain with Maura Sweeney. Feinberg said that her most important responsibility as captain is helping to motivate the team, which is primarily composed of underclassmen. This means having "good practice habits", arriving and being in the water on time and swimming the sets of laps the best that she can.

"Both (captains) are very dependable," Turtle said. "They are very responsible individuals voted in by the team."

Swimming has also helped out of the pool. Feinberg said that swimming has taught her to manage her time wisely because it is so limited.

"I'm probably a little more disciplined than the average student," she said. "I swim at a certain time and I have to do my work around swim practice. I have to make time to go out. But it has been an asset. It

Continued on page 4.

★ Men's swimming

continued from page 7

the New England Championship. Their diving team is strong as well as their swimming. The Minutemen diving team is in a rebuilding year and should improve with the addition of a new coach next year.

UMass had three tough meets in a row including Saturday's loss to Williams and has Rhode Island and UConn coming up.

Yarworth would be delighted with a fourth place finish in New England but feels they should be at least sixth.

"We should score a lot of points," said Yarworth, "and stay right up there with the top teams."

Coach Yarworth is continuing the heavy training schedule despite up-coming meets.

"Some teams rest up before dual meets but we don't," said Yarworth. "We keep them training and working hard."

Yarworth looks to the New England Championships as the true test of his swimmers. "We'd rather have them tired now," said Yarworth, "and key on swimming faster at the end of the season for the New Englands."

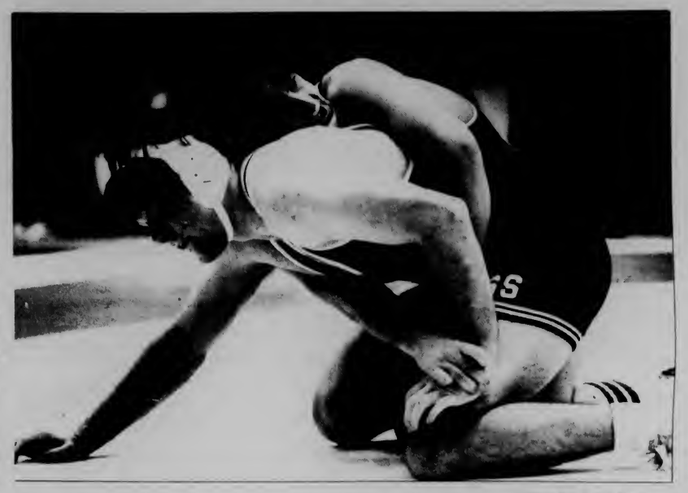
GRADUATING SOON?

You're Needed All Over the World.

Ask Peace Corps volunteers why their ingenuity and flexibility are as vital as their degrees. They'll tell you they are helping the world's poorest peoples attain self sufficiency in the areas of food production, energy conservation, education, economic development and health services. And they'll tell you about the rewards of hands on career experience overseas. They'll tell you it's the toughest job you'll ever love.

PEACE CORPS

SEE GREG NEWMAN IN 12 DRAPER HALL
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS/AMHERST
CALL 545-2105 FOR AN APPOINTMENT.



Young Minutemen wrestlers keep plugging away

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Wrestling is an individualistic sport. For a team to excell, there must be a winner in each weight class. The University of Massachusetts wrestling team's problem is the lack of bodies to even fill the weight classes.

Third year coach Rick Freitas' team faces the prospect of giving up twelve points every match due to forfeits and with freshmen laden team, those points are very difficult to make up.

"But now that intersession is over, UMass dives into 'the meat of the schedule' as Freitas calls it, with four matches in six days starting tomorrow."

Collegian photo by David Deuber

AT THE BOTTOM OF THE PILE — UMass' team record may be terrible but that doesn't mean the wrestlers aren't good. Dave MacDonald tries to get off of the bottom.

"We have no upper weights and that's been our problem," Freitas said. At press time, Massachusetts sported a 0-11 record after a loss to Maine.

There are winners on the Minuteman squad despite the team's dismal record. Senior captain Scott McQuaide is undefeated so far in dual meets with a 11-0 record and the captain also sports a 17-2 overall record.

Wes Beckwith, 142 lbs, is now 7-4 in dual meets and 11-6 on the year. Chris Lee, a freshman at 126 lbs, is 12-7 overall and has won two tournaments so far.

Mike Bossi is also doing well at 150 with a 6-4 overall slate.

The Minutemen spent intersession training hard and spent 10 days in Virginia training and wrestling against schools like Morgan State, George Mason, American and James Madison.

"The trip was a great learning experience," Freitas said. "It opened a lot of the freshmen's eyes. It was the best thing to happen to UMass wrestling since I've been here."

The wrestlers also competed in the MIT open tournament during January and UMass came in second as a team. McQuaide and Lee both took firsts while Bossi took third.

But now that intersession is over, UMass dives into "the meat of the schedule" as Freitas calls it, with four matches in six days starting tomorrow.

New Hampshire visits Boyden tomorrow at 7:30, after that UMass faces Springfield on Friday, and Boston College comes to Boyden on Saturday night. These will be important matches and these will help decide the seedings for the New England championships to be held here at UMass at the end of the month.

But the job now is to win. "I'm always optimistic," Freitas said. "But when you're giving up points they're all going to be tough."

College Supplies of all kinds
Notebooks
Greeting Cards
Newspapers & Magazines
at
A.J. HASTINGS
Newsdealer and Stationer
45 S. Pleasant St., Amherst

HEWLETT PACKARD CALCULATORS

41CX	$249.99
41CV	$199.99
41C	$144.99
HP 16C	$88.99
HP 15C	$88.99
HP 12C	$88.99
HP 11C	$69.99
HP 10C	$51.99
HP 75C	$749.99

CAMPUS REPS NEEDED
We need Sales Representatives on your campus to sell Hewlett Packard Calculators and other computer products. You'll make generous commissions selling only the finest quality name brands on the market. Call today to see if you qualify for a Campus Representative Kit. No investment is required.

COMPUTER MAIL ORDER
east 800-233-8950
In PA call (717)327-9575. Dept. 0134. Order Status Number: 327-9578. Customer Service Number: 327-1450. 477 E. Third St. Williamsport, PA 17701
west 800-648-3311
In NV call (702)588-5654. Dept. 0134. Order Status Number: 588-5654. P.O. Box 6689. Stateline, NV 89449

Heiden wins NCAA award

A petite All-American cross-country skier from the University of Vermont joins four All-American football players from Ohio State, Michigan, and Georgia and Brigham Young as winners of the highest academic-athletic award given by the NCAA - Top Five Award.

Beth Heiden (83), national champion in the 7.5 kilometer individual cross-country event last March received the award Jan. 9 in Dallas this month.

Heiden maintained a 3.4 average in math/physics since transferring from Wisconsin in 1981. Heiden made the UVM team in 1981 and finished 15th in the country. In 1982, she shocked the collegiate skiing world in her second varsity season.

Heiden, a former bicycling star, won a bronze medal at the 1980 Winter Olympic games at Lake Placid, New York in speed skating.

Accepting the award along with Heiden were Terry Hoague (Georgia), BUY's Steve Young, Stefan Humphries (Michigan), and John Frank (Ohio State).

HUGHES

An impressive technological journey began over three decades ago at Hughes Aircraft Company. Today, with more than 90 diverse technologies ranging from sub-micron electronics to large scale systems, you'll find Hughes people forging new discoveries, new futures.

Become part of the Hughes tradition of technological firsts, if your degree is in Electrical, Mechanical, Manufacturing or Industrial Engineering, Computer Science, Physics, Electronics Technology.

Requirements may vary. Check with your placement office about Hughes' company wide opportunities at any one of 12 Southern California locations and Tucson, Arizona.

Or contact Hughes Corporate College Relations, Dept. NC, Bldg. C2/B178, P.O. Box 1042, El Segundo, CA 90245.

Hughes representatives will be on campus February 6
(See your placement office for an appointment.)

Creating a new world with electronics
HUGHES
HUGHES AIRCRAFT COMPANY

Equal Opportunity Employer
Proof of U.S. Citizenship Required

ON CAMPUS

Amherst Chinese Foods
Best Mandarin Food
62-64 Main St.
Amherst
Closed Wednesdays
WE DO NOT USE MSG OR ARTIFICIAL COLOR
We use FRESH Vegetables from Our Own Farm
BEER & WINE LICENSE
SUNDAY BRUNCH
ALL YOU CAN EAT
$5.95
253-7835

Photo by Alan Taupier

FINE CUT — Bob Faigel takes a gate on Super Bowl Sunday as the ski teams started their seasons.

Minutemen skiers spend Super Bowl Sunday on the slopes

By MATT LUCZKOW
Collegian Staff

CHARLEMONT, Ma., - While many students sat home and watched the Super Bowl, the UMass ski team was trying to stay warm as their season got off to a good, cold start in sub-zero degree weather.

At Berkshire East the weekend of Jan. 21-22, UMass placed five men in the top twenty from a field of 75 competitors. Despite their strong showing in the slalom, the men settled for second place behind first place Plymouth State College. UMass' team time of 550.93 seconds just missed PSC's time of 549.46. Boston College took third at 554.51.

Both Jon Segal and Bob Faigel were outstanding for the Minutemen during the two-day competition. In the slalom, Segal finished in fourth place overall and Faigel came in eighth place. Skiing at his best on Sunday, Segal won the giant slalom race and teammate Faigel finished close behind to take second.

Also skiing well for UMass in the slalom were Matt Luczkow (10th), Tim Enright (13th) and Kris Vanderzee (16th).

Led by the one-two finish of Segal and Faigel, the Minutemen came back to take the victory from PSC in the giant slalom. UMass had eight men score among the top twenty in the race for a team time of 539.70 seconds. Also contributing to the UMass win were Dan Conway (6th), Andy Clarke (11th) and Kris Vanderzee (12th).

Second place went to Boston College (543.65) in the team standings, while PSC placed third (549.20).

The skiers have been training hard at Berkshire East since Dec. 27th and are preparing themselves for another successful season. Coach Bill MacConnell thinks the men have a good shot at extending their string of conference championships from 14 to 15.

Returning for the Minutemen are four strong veterans who MacConnell hopes will score frequently for UMass.

"Captain Tim Enright and Junior Dan Conway should win a few races for us," he said. "And Jon Segal and Bob Faigel should also finish among the top five for us consistently."

Freshman Andy Clarke, who spent three years of high school at Waterville Valley, should also be a great help to the team, said MacConnell.

The team has nine other outstanding Class A racers to give them probably the best depth of any college in the conference.

Once again, however, UMass expects tough competition from Boston College and Plymouth State College.

"Plymouth State is always strong because they train at Waterville Valley, Loon and Cannon," said the coach. "And it's funny," he said. "They regard themselves as big mountain men and us as flatlanders from the Valley."

Boston College has also improved its program by renting a ski chalet near Waterville Valley.

"Obviously," said MacConnell. "they also want to be big mountain men."

MacConnell is already looking forward to another winning season.

"Last year we won 9 out of 12 races," he said. "And we're hoping for good success this year."

Other strong teams in the New England InterCollegiate Ski Conference (NEISC) are Brown University, Amherst College, Army, UConn and Trinity College.

UMass has eight more races scheduled for the season and will face the seven other colleges at each tournament.

This weekend, the skiers will travel to Cannon Mountain (N.H.) for their next races.

Former University of Massachusetts racer Paul Suozzo took fourth place Dec. 18 in the Peugot Grand Prix-East tour at Hunter Mt., New York.

Suozzo disposed of Swiss ace Hans-Uli Bowesch and former national pro champ Wayne Wright in advancing to the semi-finals.

"It was a good race for me. I think I'll win one soon," he said.

Before turning pro, Suozzo was at UMass for four years and was one of the ski team's best racers.

UMass women skiers open season strong

By MATT LUCZKOW
Collegian Staff

The women's ski team of the University of Massachusetts continued their winning tradition by sweeping their first races of the season at Berkshire East on Jan. 21-22.

Outstanding freshman Alice Gigliotti skied extremely well both days and took top honors in the slalom and giant slalom. Also turning in a fine performance for UMass was captain and last year's league champion, Sue White. White finished second in the slalom and third in the giant slalom.

In Saturday's slalom, UMass posted a team time of 353.63 seconds. They beat second place Boston College by 15 seconds. BC clocked a time of 368.66 and PSC took third with a 372.01.

Also skiing well in the slalom were UMass freshman Lisa Tomack (6th) and Junior Sue Levy (11th).

In the giant slalom, led by Gigliotti and White, UMass took first place again over BC and PSC. The winning margin wasn't as great this time around, but again the women hung on for the victory. UMass' team time of 346.92 gave them first place, while BC had the next best score at 350.64. PSC finished third with a time of 361.31.

UMass Senior Bobbi Voll contributed to the giant-slalom victory with her seventh place finish. Teammate Sue Levy finished 12th overall.

For the past eight years, the UMass women's team has trained at the Berkshire East on the same courses as the men's team.

Over those eight years, according to head coach Bill MacConnell, the women have been even more successful in their win-loss record than the men.

"Last year," MacConnell said, "they won eleven out of twelve races."

This year, the women will be looking for their eighth consecutive championship. They compete in the Women's InterCollegiate Ski Conference (WISC) and face the same colleges as the men do. (With the exception that UConn has no women's team, but Smith College does.)

Strong competition for the women's team will also come from BC and PSC, according to MacConnell.

The women will travel to Cannon Mnt. in New Hampshire this weekend for their next race.

BUB'S
BAR - B - QUE

$3.95 - $7.95

Includes
Bub's Famous
Hot Bar & Soup

"If you like Bar-B-Que, You'll LOVE Bub's!"

Daily:
11:30 - 10:00
Sunday:
1:00 - 9:00

Route 116
Sunderland, Mass.

U.S. NAVY MEDICINE
MEDICAL SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Are you seeking a way to help finance your medical school education? The NAVY has a perfect opportunity in its Medical School Scholarship program.

BENEFITS
- Full tuition and educational fees
- $479.00 per month stipend
- Commission as a United States Naval Officer
- Internship & Residency training available upon graduation
- Practice at one of 23 hospitals nationwide or nine overseas locations

OBLIGATION
- A minimum of 3 years after graduation.
- 45 days of required annual active duty that can be spent in Navy clerkships, (required, elective, clinical or research) or at Officer indoctrination School.

BASIC QUALIFICATIONS
- U.S. citizen • Excellent professional references
- Accepted to an AMA approved medical school

APPLICATION DEADLINE:
MARCH 1, 1984

For further information, write or call:
LT. Dan Fahler
Medical Officer Program
135 Burnside Ave, Lower Level
East Hartford, Ct 16108
(203) 528-9988

Gymnasts win and lose

By DAVID GOLDFIELD
Collegian Correspondent
and GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Both the men's and women's gymnastics teams of the University of Massachusetts have both kept busy during January with arduous training and competitive meets.

The men's squad under coach Roy Johnson has a 3-2 record at press time and is coming off a fifth place showing at the Shenandoah Valley Invitational at James Madison University on Jan. 20, 21. It was UMass' first appearance down South competing against such schools as Georgia, James Madison, Navy, North Carolina State, Georgia Tech and winner Pittsburgh (257 points).

"In fact, in each meet this season, UMass has been behind after the vault and the bars. 'But we happen to...have outstanding tumblers and dancers,' (UMass Coach Ken) Anderson said."

Johnson said that since the Minutemen were considered "foreign" to the judges, they faced tough judging. But they still scored 236 points.

UMass got excellent performances from Bert Mathieson and Ken Dougherty in the finals of the pommel horse. Mathieson scored a 8.6 while Dougherty earned a 8.8 while scoring an impressive 49 in the all-around topping his personal best of 44.

Earlier in the month, UMass traveled to Raleigh, N.C. and won a tri-meet with NC State and James Madison. UMass was first with 246.8, NC State finished second with 236.7 and James Madison took third with 219.25. Mathieson won the all-around with a score of 52.

Mathieson and Dougherty, both fine all-around performers, were very strong on the pommel horse. It's rare for a team to have two strong pommel horse competitors since it is one of the most difficult events.

The men's team, after heavy traveling in January, will now settle down and host their next six meets at home beginning tonight against Dartmouth at 7 p.m. in Boyden Auxiliary Gym.

"All the traveling tired us out," Johnson said. "We're a lot more comfortable at home."

The women's team sports a 4-2 record at press time. Coach Ken Anderson's team has been hurt by some injuries. And it showed as UMass fell to UConn narrowly losing by a 170.15 to 169.7 score. At that same meet, UMass beat Towson State's 161.7.

Massachusetts also defeated Duke on January 14, their first meet since the UMass Invitational in early December, by a slim 170.25-167.20.

"The long layoff hurt a bit," Anderson said. "It hurt because a few girls were out of shape. But then it helped others who needed rest. We really had no choice."

The rest helped sophomore Yael Kantor, Masssachusetts top all-around last year, who strained ligaments in her shoulder. Chris Cloutier and Trisha Camus, who had a shoulder pull, are looking to return to the bars, the weakest event for UMass.

In fact, in each meet this season, UMass has been behind after the vault and the bars. "But we happen to be very proficient and have outstanding tumblers and dancers," Anderson said.

Massachusetts is especially strong on the floor. Lisa Griffin scored a 9.2 against Duke and a 9.15 against UConn. Robin Low (9.1 at UConn, Duke), and Tricia Harrity (9.0 at UConn) boost UMass.

On the beam, Harrity, Low and senior Barbara Lord have been scoring high eights and low nines. "The beam and floor are our strongest events," Anderson said.

Having competed in two meets in the past week, including a tough one at Maryland with Duke last Saturday, the Minutewomen face two more road dates soon.

"I'm expecting that we'll be a little tired by then," Anderson said. "But we should be OK.

"We are looking to get healthy and really go after New Hampshire and ride into the championships (Atl. 10)."

UM Winter Sports Schedule

MEN'S VARSITY INDOOR TRACK

Feb.	4	at Princeton Relays
	11	Eastern Intercollegiate A A at Colby
	18	at Dartmouth	1:00
	24-25	New England Championships at Boston University
Mar.	3-4	IC4A's at Princeton

Coach: Ken O'Brien

WOMEN'S VARSITY INDOOR TRACK

Jan.	7	at Dartmouth Relays
	14	at Boston University Invitational
	21	at Yale Invitational
	29	at Greater Boston Track Club
Feb.	4	at Princeton Relays
	18	at New Hampshire	1:30
	25	New England Championships at Bates
Mar.	3-4	E.C.A.C. at Yale

Coach: Kalekeni Banda

MEN'S VARSITY GYMNASTICS

Feb.	4	EAST STROUDSBURG	1:00
	7	SO. CONNECTICUT	7:00
	11	CORTLAND	1:00
	18	M.I.T.	7:00
	25	at Temple	1:00
Mar.	3	at Springfield	1:00
	16-17	EIGL at E. Stroudsburg	1:00

Coach: Roy Johnson

WOMEN'S VARSITY GYMNASTICS

Feb.	4	at Cornell	12:00
	11	at Springfield	1:00
	18	NEW HAMPSHIRE	1:00
	23	SO. CONNECTICUT	7:30
	25	at Yale	1:00
Mar.	3	at Rutgers	1:00
	9-11	Atlantic 10 Championships at Rhode Island

Coach: Ken Anderson

VARSITY WRESTLING

Feb.	1	NEW HAMPSHIRE	7:30
	3	at Springfield	7:30
	4	BOSTON COLLEGE	7:00
	6	CENTRAL CONNECTICUT	7:30
	11	at Brown/Princeton	12:00
	24-26	NEW ENGLAND CHAMPIONSHIPS at UMASS NCAA Qualifier

Coach: Rick Freitas

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S VARSITY SKI

Feb.	4-5	at Plymouth State Tournament
	11-12	at Brown University Tournament
	18-19	at Amherst College Tournament
	24-25	Eastern Championships
	25-26	NEISC/WISC Championships

Coaches: Bill MacConnell
Dale Maynard

MEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING

Feb.	1	CONNECTICUT	7:00
	4	at Vermont	1:00
	11	at New Hampshire	1:00
	13	AMHERST	7:00
	16-18	Atlantic 10 Championships at Penn State
Mar.	1-3	New England Championships at Springfield

Coach: Russ Yarworth

WOMEN'S VARSITY SWIMMING

Feb.	4	at Rhode Island	12:00
	11	NEW HAMPSHIRE	1:00
	14	at Mt. Holyoke	7:00
	24-26	New England Championships at Maine

Coach: Valerie Turtle

Amherst Chiropractic Health Center

Many Olympic and Professional athletes utilize chiropractic care to improve performance and overall health. Do you?

by appointment only - Call 256-6700

Dr. Virginia D. Harper, D.C.
Dr. Howard T. Ewert, D.C.

190 University Drive at Rte. 9 (on the busline)

HAMPSHIRE BUSINESS MACHINES
SALES TYPEWRITERS SERVICE
321-R Main Street (corner of Main & Dickinson)
Amherst 549-6177

WE'VE MOVED!

CLIP THIS COUPON
10 DAY SUPER SPECIAL
AIR CLEAN, OIL AND RIBBON

For portable typewriters 5 years old or under over five years - free estimates
OFFER EXPIRES 2-28-84 $14.95

KARATE

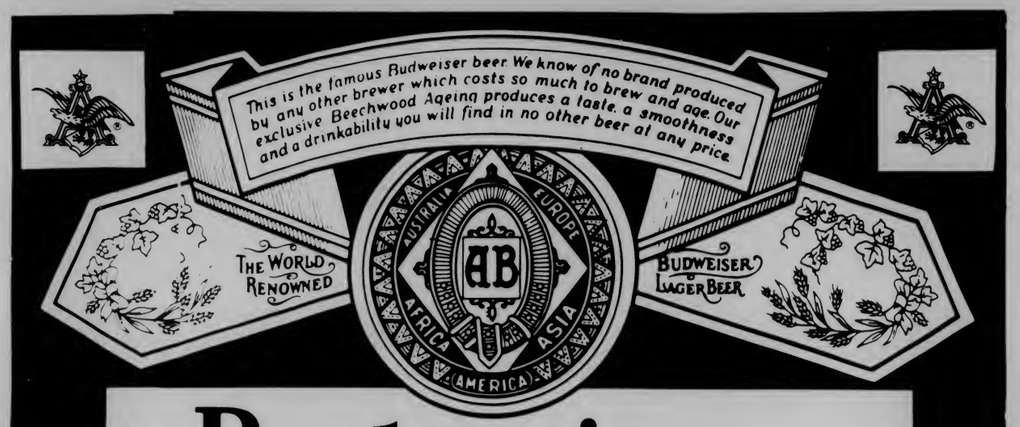
Donna Kelley
#1 New Eng.
1982-1983

Kirk Jenness
Black Belt

Larry Kelley
#1 New Eng.
1977-1982
#3 USA
1982

Full time, professional, well equiped facility

KARATE
Health Fitness Ctr.
460 West St. (Rt. 116)
S. Amherst (top floor)



256-0080 256-0080

Stop in to say Hello to your Friends
They'll be here

Two T.V.'s Time Out Free Popcorn

Happy Hour Daily 4-8
16 oz. Drafts 85¢ 16 oz. Giant Drinks
AMHERST'S BIGGEST LITTLE BAR
37 N. Pleasant St.

GENUINE

Budweiser®

KING OF BEERS®

INTRAMURAL HIGHLIGHTS

Men's and Women's Intramural Activities

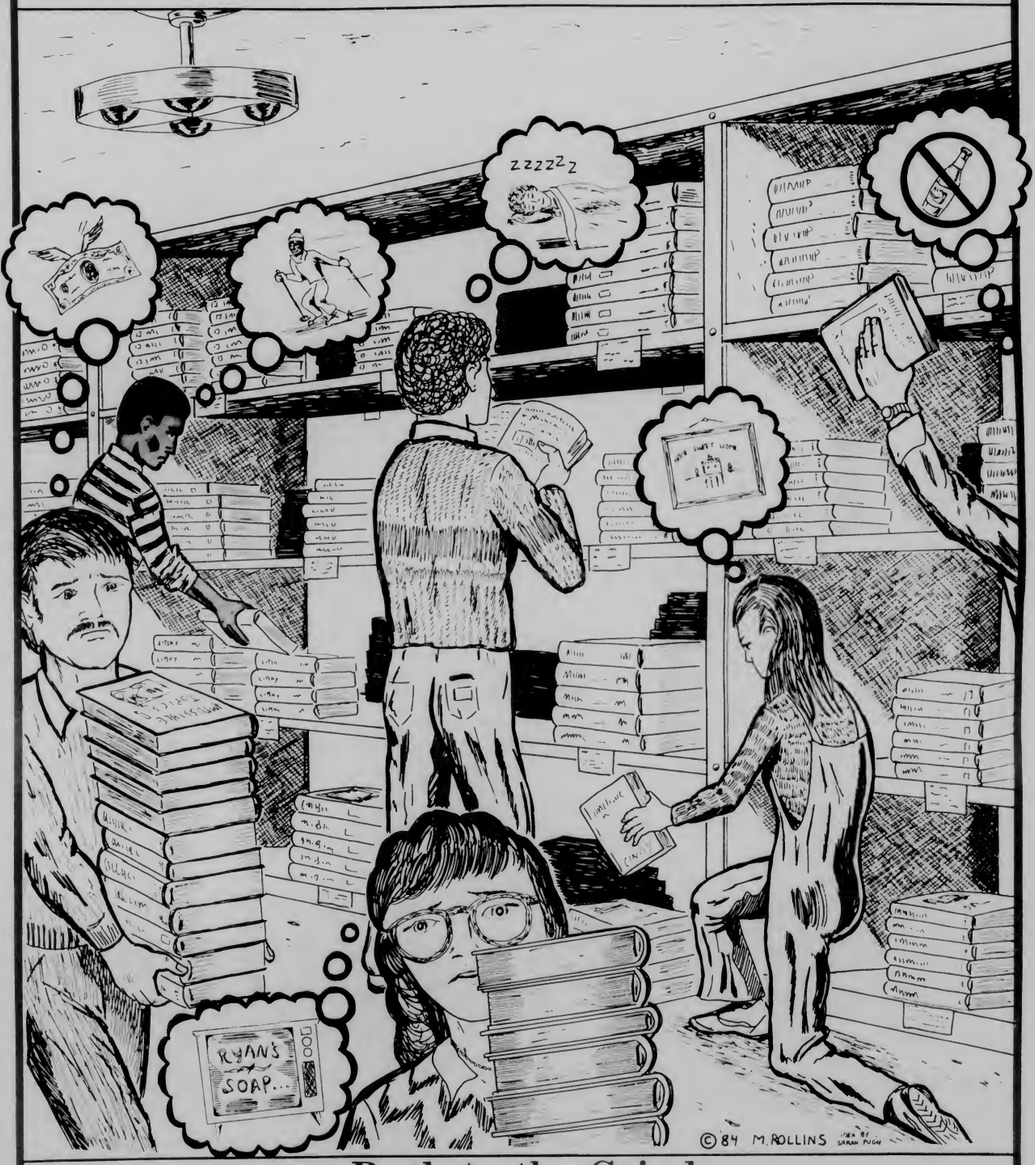
SPRING SEMESTER

Basketball	Entry Date	Starting Date
Ice Hockey * +	11/28/83	2/01/84
Squash *	12/08/83	2/01/84
Bowling +	2/01/84	2/13/84
Wrestling *	2/01/84	2/08/84
Soccer *	2/27/84	3/05/84
Softball	2/27/84	3/26/84
Badminton	2/27/84	3/26/84
Doubles	3/27/84	4/02/84
Track & Field	4/17/84	4/24/84

PLEASE NOTE: Each sport requires a team representative to attend a mandatory Manager's Meeting. Check with IM flyers or IM Office for date, time and location.

* Health Clearance Forms are required

+ Non-refundable entry fee is required



If you would like additional information or if you have questions, contact the Intramural Office at 545-2693 or stop by 215 Boyden. If you do not have a team but would still like to participate, attend the Manager's Meeting and we will attempt to find you a team.

this Bud's for you!

GENUINE

SPRING 1984

Massachusetts Daily Collegian January 31,1984

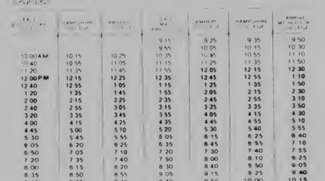
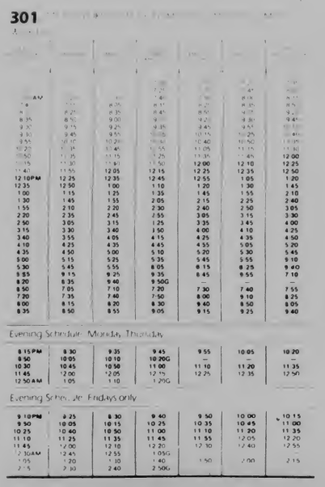
Back to the Grind
Spring 1984
News, Living, Sports, Arts and Editorial/Opinion



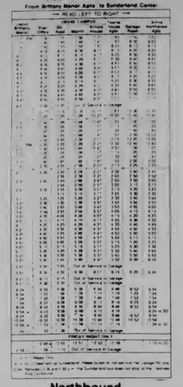
PIONEER VALLEY TRANSIT AUTHORITY

The Way To Go.



301

301



301

Northbound 380-Sunderland

From Brittany Manor Apts. to Sunderland Center

Northbound 360-North Amherst

From Rolling Green Apts. to Putton Village Apts

UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE

WEEKDAY SCHEDULE

effective

Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

For schedule changes or cancellations during inclement weather, please tune to WMUA 91.1 FM or WTTT 14.30 AM or call the UMTS Business Office at 545-0056.

Pets (except seeing eye dogs), food, drinks, alcohol, skis, bicycles, and smoking are not permitted on the buses.

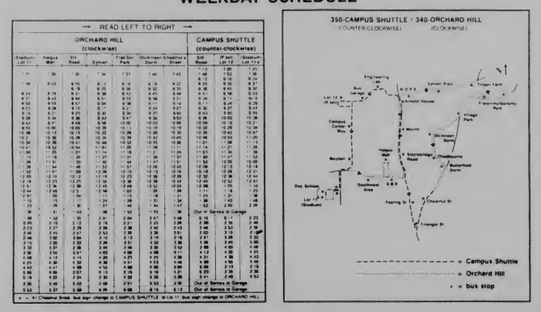
SCHEDULE INFO: 586-5806

UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE

WEEKDAY SCHEDULE

effective

Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

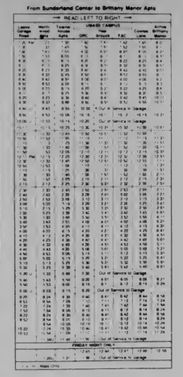


Operates on UMass class days only.
Refer to separate Weekend Schedule for weekend and non-class days.

Monday - Saturday Schedule
Holidays: Oct. 10, Nov. 11, Feb. 20, and Apr. 16
No Service: Nov. 24-Nov. 27, Dec. 26, Jan. 2

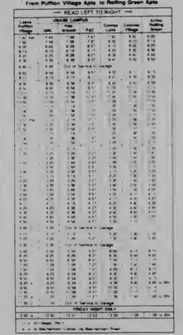
UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE

WEEKDAY SCHEDULE



effective

Sept. 12, 1983 - May 25, 1984



Southbound 330-South Amherst

From Sunderland Center to Brittany Manor Apts

Southbound 320-Belchertown Road

From Putton Village Apts. to Rolling Green Apts

Collegian photo by Steve Tigler

325-West Street

From UMass Campus to Orchard Valley and return

Bay Road

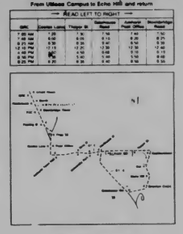
From UMass campus to DEEP South Amherst and return

SPONSORED BY
PVTA/UMTA
UMass Administration
UMass Undergraduate Senate
UMass Graduate Senate

UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE

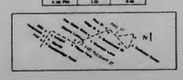
WEEKDAY OUTREACH SCHEDULE

effective



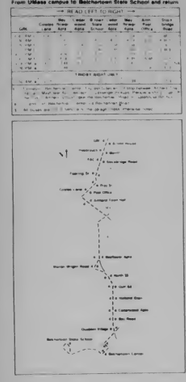
Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

SCHEDULE INFO: 586-5806



315-Gatehouse Road

From UMass Campus to Echo Hill and return



Pine Street

From UMass Campus to Cushman Center and return

310-Belchertown Center

From UMass campus to Belchertown State School and return

390-South Deerfield

From UMass campus to South Deerfield and return

UMASS TRANSIT SERVICE

WEEKDAY OUTREACH SCHEDULE

effective

Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

Operates on weekdays only.

No Weekend Service on Bay Road, Pine Street, Echo Hill and Gatehouse Road Routes.

Please refer to separate Weekend Schedule for weekend Belchertown Center and South Deerfield Routes.

Belchertown Center and South Deerfield buses operate on Saturday Schedule: Oct. 10, Nov. 11, Feb. 20, and Apr. 16.

No Service: Nov. 24-Nov. 27, Dec. 26, Jan. 2.

All service operates on Intersession Schedule: Dec. 27-Jan. 27 and Mar. 17-Mar. 25.

For schedule changes or cancellations during inclement weather, please tune to WMUA 91.1 FM or WTTT 14.30 AM or call the UMTS Business Office at 545-0056.

Pets (except seeing eye dogs), food, drinks, alcohol, skis, bicycles, and smoking are not permitted on the buses.

Lost and found, suggestions, and complaints call the UMTS Business Office at 545-0056.

Schedules available at the Campus Center Information Desk and on all UMTS buses.

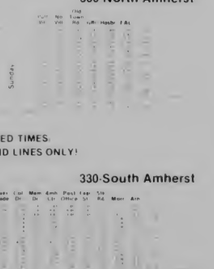
SCHEDULE INFO: 586-5806

UMass Transit Service

Weekend Inbound

Effective Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

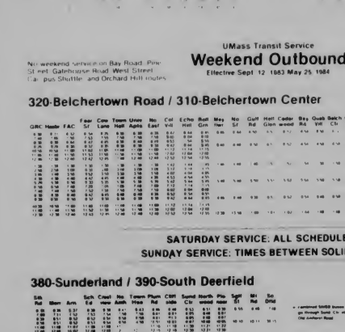
No weekend service on Bay Road, Pine Street, Gatehouse Road, West Street, Campus Shuttle, and Orchard Hill routes.



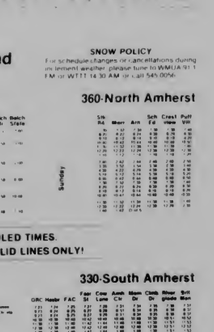
SNOW POLICY

For schedule changes or cancellations during inclement weather, please tune to WMUA 91.1 FM or WTTT 14.30 AM or call 545-0056.

310-Belchertown Center / 320-Belchertown Road



360-North Amherst



SATURDAY SERVICE: ALL SCHEDULED TIMES.
SUNDAY SERVICE: TIMES BETWEEN SOLID LINES ONLY!

390-South Deerfield / 380-Sunderland

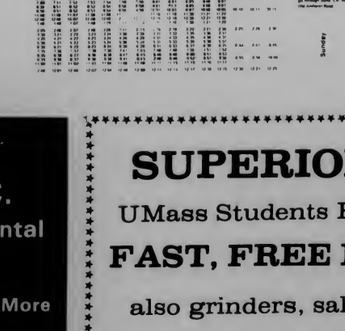
330-South Amherst

UMass Transit Service

Weekend Outbound

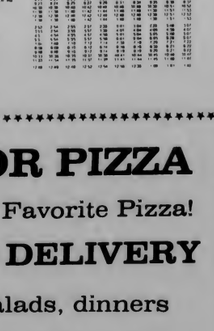
Effective Sept. 12, 1983-May 25, 1984

SNOW POLICY



For schedule changes or cancellations during inclement weather, please tune to WMUA 91.1 FM or WTTT 14.30 AM or call 545-0056.

320-Belchertown Road / 310-Belchertown Center



360-North Amherst

SATURDAY SERVICE: ALL SCHEDULED TIMES.
SUNDAY SERVICE: TIMES BETWEEN SOLID LINES ONLY!

380-Sunderland / 390-South Deerfield

330-South Amherst

EAST HEAVEN TUB CO
West St. Northampton
Private Hot Tub Rooms
Our Roof Tub Is
Open To The Stars!
For Reservations: 11am-1am 586-6843

KAYPRO II, $1595.
COMPLETE WITH SOFTWARE.

For $1595, a Kaypro II not only comes complete with all the hardware you need, it comes complete with all the software you need:
• Word Processing/Spelling
• Data Base Management (filing/reporting) • Financial Spreadsheeting. And with CP/M, Kaypro can run thousands of other programs for more specialized needs. Come in today for a complete demonstration.

KAYPRO
The Complete Business Computer.

1073 St. James Ave.
Springfield, MA 01104
413-737-4562

Mountain Farms Mall - Rt. 9
Hadley, MA 01035
413-584-3933

STUDENT and FACULTY DISCOUNTS AVAILABLE

Registered Trademarks of D.R.I. Digital Research Inc.

COMPUTER
ACCESS CENTER, INC.
On Site Microcomputer Time Rental
• Access to UMass Cyber
• Instant Print-Outs
• Complete Word Processing Equipment & More
• Reasonable Rates
79 SOUTH PLEASANT STREET
256-1213
(behind Peter Pan terminal building)
Open 7 days a week
Opening February 15 • Mastercard & Visa accepted

SUPERIOR PIZZA
UMass Students Favorite Pizza!
FAST, FREE DELIVERY
also grinders, salads, dinners
17 Montague Road
North Amherst
549-0626

The Skier's Choice!

Four chairlifts, snowmaking, and 1180 vertical feet.
21 trails and slopes.

Berkshire East Alpine Ski Program 339-6617

Feb. 8 - March 10
8 lessons from Beginner - Instructor

$79. for this complete season

Includes: lessons •use of lifts • practice time • transportation to and from ski area during program • free skiing mid-weekdays and nights Wed.-Sat. until the end of ski season.

Rental equipment only $32. for lesson period.
Offered Wed.-Sat. afternoons and evenings
Registration will be in Boyden, 9 am - 3 pm Jan. 30, 31 & Feb. 1, 2
Alpine Skiing G61 Section 1 Schedule # 598429 (1 credit pass/fail)
May be taken 2 years for credit.

BERKSHIRE EAST

35 minutes away
Route 2 West to Charlemont
(413) 339-6617

SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day.	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day
SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day
SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day.	SAVE $3. ON LIFT PASS Bring this coupon for $3.00 savings on skiing. Good anytime with Student/Faculty ID. $7. Off on Fri. during the day.

This offer cannot be combined with any other discount.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIV, Issue 1 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Wednesday, February 1, 1984

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

The Lone Jogger—Five inches of new snow was not enough to keep this unidentified man from excercising yesterday on Massachusetts Avenue.

Student and professor fees questioned by UMass Board

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees will meet today in Boston to discuss a proposal that would restructure student fees. The Board will also decide on a tentative agreement with the Massachusetts Society of Professors (MSP) concerning that unions' fee.

The proposed restructuring of student fees would benefit the UMass Building Authority and its plans to enact several improvement projects, including the renovation of Curry Hicks Cage.

The students hit hardest by the restructuring of the fees would be undergraduates living off-campus. This group would pay an additional $153, a rise to $396 from the current $243.

Students living on campus would pay $161 less and graduate students living in family housing would pay $702 less.

A University Resource fee would be added to the bills of students having Student Activities, Campus Center Athletics, Residence Halls, and Boarding Halls fees cut. In the case of off-campus undergraduates, the Campus Center Activities, and athletics fees would be cut by a total of $91 with the new resource fee being $244.

Student fees support the payment of debts for Authority projects and the proposal would create the resource fee to pay off these debts and fund a $21 million capital improvement project. These funds would be targeted at several projects including $9 million to repair the dorms, $2.5 million to renovate the Curry Hicks Cage and $9.5 million toward improvements in the Campus Center, the parking garage, and the North Village family housing area.

The Authority can presently borrow up to $100 million through bonds for building projects, for which it spends about $5.5 million yearly to pay them off. In order to refinance the Building Authority's payment of outstanding debts a restructuring of fees needs to be discussed by the Board.

Student Trustee and Student Government Association co-President Charlene Allen said yesterday that the streamlining of debt payments are directly related to the fee changes.

"It is not definite that the fees will go up for commuters or down for residents," Allen said. "This is just a proposal to help in refinancing the debt payment and is not going to be voted on from what I understand."

"I plan on asking questions and finding

continued on pg. 4

McGovern to speak at UMass

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination Geor[illegible]Govern will speak at the Un[illegible]ity of Massachusetts tonight following a rally to promote next week's student voter registration drive.

The rally, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom, will feature speakers from the Public Policy Committee of the Undergraduate Student Senate, which is coordinating the UMass effort in next week's nationwide drive to register student voters for the presidential primaries this spring. The Massachusetts primary will be held March 13.

McGovern is scheduled to speak at 8:30 p.m. (not 7:30 as reported in yesterday's Collegian.) The former South Dakota Senator won the Democratic nomination in 1972, when he ran against then incumbent President Richard Nixon.

A taped version of McGovern's speech will air on WMUA, 91.1 FM, at 10 p.m.

Speech by Jesse Jackson kicks off Black History Month

By YADIRA BETANCES
Collegian Staff

Democratic presidential candidate nominee Rev. Jesse Jackson, will deliver the opening address for the 1984 Black History Month celebration tomorrow at the Fine Arts Center at the University of Massachusetts.

This year's celebration will center around the achievements of blacks in the media and in politics.

"Jackson symbolizes an achievement in politics," said Sherwood Thompson, director of the Office of Third World Affairs. "People were influenced by his heroic act of freeing Lieutenant Robert Goodman . . . and by his historic human rights struggles," he said.

Thompson called the celebration one of the few which "are taken rather seriously."

"Like Christmas, blacks are aware of Black History Month," he said.

At the University, Thompson said a lot of attention is placed on the celebration from student organization.

"Very active Third World student organizations in turn put forward a tremendous amount of development," he said

Thompson also said because the University is supportive of multicultural events, Black History Month will draw a large audience this year. But he added, "Everyone should get involved, not only blacks and Third World people, but the total (university) community."

With this year's celebration, Thompson said Third World organizations want to bring about open communication between Third World people, bridge the cultural gap and encourage the campus, especially blacks, to take part in the celebration.

Black History Month was developed by Carter G. Woodson, founder of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. First celebrated on February of 1926, its goals were to commemorate the past achievements and present status of blacks in the United States.

"(Black History Month) is one of the many celebrations sponsored nationally to bring self-awareness to blacks, and point out specific achievements," Thompson said.

"It is so widespread it allows people to reinstate their attention on the achievements of blacks. Its symbolism is being fulfilled," Thompson said, "but one can only produce limited results (in one month). One should not lose sight of the ongoing active involvement of black people."

The schedule of events for Black History Month will go as follows:

Monday, February 6—Tribute to Harriet Tubman will be performed by Saundra Dunson Franks at 8 pm in Bowker Auditorium.

Saturday, February 11—"Proud" with Glynn Turman and Phylliss Bailey at 8 pm at Bowker Auditorium. Tickets are $2.00 students and $3.00 general public.

Thursday, February 16—Lecture by Vincent Harding. 8 pm Mahar Auditorium.

Monday, February 27—"An Evening with Geoffrey Holder" at 8 pm at Bowker Auditorium.

Programs are free, otherwise stated.

The Residential East Program Office will be sponsoring other programs throughout the month. For more information about these programs call 545-0422 or 545-3604.

Nominations taken out for Amherst posts

By DAVID LINTON
Collegian Staff

Nominations have been taken out for the nine offices and 80 Town Meeting positions to be decided in the April 10 Amherst town elections, Town Clerk Estelle Matusko said yesterday.

Two incumbents have announced they will seek re-election.

Selectman Richard Minear is seeking a second three-year term on the board. Minear, a Japanese history professor at the University of Massachusetts, has served as vice-chair since 1982.

Rosemary Sprague is seeking another term as an Elector for the Oliver Smith Will. She has held the post for the past eight years. Sprague said the office is one of eight seats in Hampshire County that awards cash gifts to brides, young tradesmen, nurses and widows. The gifts are distributed under the terms of a trust established in the will of Oliver Smith, a wealthy Hadley farmer who died in 1845, Sprague said.

Recently, Edith Wilkinson, chair of the Select Board, announced that she would not seek re-election which will leave that position open.

Other offices to be filled at the town election include: Town Moderator for a one-year term; one School Committee seat for a three-year term; a seat as Elector of the Oliver Smith Will for a one year term; two seats on the Jones Library Board of Trustees for three year terms; one seat on the Housing Authority for a five year term and one seat on the Redevelopment Authority.

continued on pg. 4

Inside:

The importance of sexuality awareness.....p.3
George McGovern's success in years past.....p.3
Charles Francis Carroll U.S. injustices in Guatemala.....p.5
Get up to date on the UMass men's hoop team. p.12

'Neither a borrower nor a lender be' —William Shakespeare

World and National News

U.S. foreign policy discussed by presidential candidates

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale likened U.S. covert action in Central America to the Vietnam War and Jesse Jackson called for "Palestinian justice" as Democrats staged a gentlemanly campaign debate on foreign policy last night.

Mondale, asked about when Americans troops might properly be committed to combat, said the "war in Vietnam was a classic example, as is the covert action in Nicaragua, of an effort that was totally without justification and counterproductive in the most fundamental sense."

The Reagan administration has been providing covert aid to guerillas fighting the leftist government in Nicaragua.

Jackson, outlining his Middle East policy, said American foreign policy should have three objectives: supporting Israel's right to exist, supporting "Palestinian justice" and normalizing relations with the Arab world.

He did not say what he meant by "Palestinian justice."

Mondale and Jackson were joined by five of the six other contenders — Sens. Alan Cranston, John Glenn, Gary Hart, Ernest Hollings and former Sen. George McGovern.

Alone among the contenders, former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew did not participate in the event hosted by Harvard's Kennedy School of Government and the Boston Globe.

In its early moments at least, the debate was free of the sharp exchanges that marked an earlier eight-way candidate confrontation this month at Hanover, N.H.

The seven Democrats scarcely mentioned one another, but several of them criticized Reagan.

McGovern, who based his unsuccessful bid for the presidency in 1972 largely on opposition to the Vietnam war, won applause from the audience with his assertion that American foreign policy of the last 35 years was based on a "tendency to embrace every tinhorn dictator ... who waved an anti-Communist banner."

"We get stuck with these oppressive dictators," he said.

The forum, one in a long series of face-to-face campaign confrontations, was arranged at a time when the pace of the campaign is quickening, with the lead-off Iowa caucuses less than three weeks away and the New Hampshire primary set for eight days later on Feb. 28.

AP Laserphoto

REHEARSAL PARADE—Yugoslavians carry various flags underneath the bowl of the Olympic flame in SaraJevo in preparation for the opening ceremony of the Winter Games.

AP Laserphoto

ASTRONAUTS REPORT—The crew for space shuttle flight eleven wave after arriving at the Kennedy Space Center yesterday.

Russians will be at Summer Games

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — The head of the International Olympic Committee said yesterday he was certain the Soviet Union and all other Communist countries would have teams at the Summer Games in Los Angeles this year.

Soviet sports officials as recently as this month refused to commit their athletes to the Los Angeles Games, accusing the American government of interfering with transportation plans.

But Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the IOC, said at a news conference that he had visited all Socialist and Communist countries in the last month "and I can assure you that they are all busy preparing their athletes for Los Angeles."

"Provided the Olympic Charter is observed, I am sure they will all be there," he said. "And I am confident the charter will be honored, because we have had a letter from President Reagan giving us that pledge."

Samaranch added that the United States government has promised a decision soon on Soviet plans to transport its athletes to L.A. in airline charters, "and I hope very much it will be positive."

The question of a Russian-led boycott of the L.A. Games has existed since the United States and some three dozen other nations stayed away from the 1980 Olympics in Moscow to protest Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

It surfaced repeatedly today, as Samaranch addressed reporters athered for next week's start of the XIV Winter Games.

The IOC president said he was pleased with facilities and preparations in Sarajevo, which has been hit by an unusual lack of snow in the city itself.

"I flew over the mountain sites, and there is plenty of snow," Samaranch said. "Even if we had no more snow during the coming days, there is enough to have wonderful ski competitions."

Judges custody ruling aids biological parents

BOSTON — A judge can "tip in favor" of a child's biological parent to settle a custody battle if the biological and foster parents are both fit to have custody, the state appeals court ruled yesterday.

The judges upheld a ruling regarding an infant who had spent the first several years of her life traveling to various states with a natural father who had a serious drinking problem and a mother who was twice hospitalized for psychological problems, the court decision said.

In May 1980 a Florida judge, noting that the biological mother was under the care of a psychiatrist, transferred custody of the young girl to a set of foster parents, the decision said. The foster mother was the former sister-in-law of the girl's biological father.

Teen-ager wins re-trial after judge makes error

BOSTON (AP) — A Boston teen-ager, who said he stabbed someone in self-defense during a street fight, was granted a new trial yesterday when the state appeals court ruled that the trial judge had erred.

The unidentified 16-year-old defendant had been convicted of delinquency by reason of murder following a scuffle in Boston's Dorchester neighborhood on March 27, 1982, the court decision said.

The incident began after the youth hurled snowballs at a girl and called her names, the decision said. The girl, sitting in a car with her family, later spotted the youth and told her brothers and sisters what had happened.

When the girl's brother confronted the defendant, he said, "Get out of my face," the decision said.

The brother punched the youth in the face while another brother left the car and approached, the decision said. A friend of the youth then yelled to "watch his back," the decision said.

Digest

By Associated Press

Hub shrink believes pesticide caused killing

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A Boston psychiatrist testified Tuesday he believes a lawn caretaker was mentally disabled by pesticides when he strangled a secretary last March 29.

"My opinion is that he was suffering from a mental disease or defect" that day because of exposure to organophosphate garden chemicals, said Dr. David M. Bear, professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School.

"I don't believe he was able to form intent," Bear said, adding, "My opinion is that the chemicals played a major role."

Bear was a defense witness in the seventh day of trial for David Garabedian, 23, a chunky onetime Chelmsford lawn care worker charged with murdering Eileen Muldoon, 34, in the back yard of her Dunstable home.

Defense Attorney Robert Mardirosian contends Garabedian's mind was clouded by the pesticides he used in his work, and he could not tell right from wrong when Mrs. Muldoon surprised him urinating in her back yard.

Under cross examination by Assistant District Attorney Thomas Reilly, Bear said he does not see private patients, and is not a toxicologist.

The slight, bespectacled psychiatrist said he drew his opinion from interviews with the defendant, his family and friends, study of case records and scientific reports about pesticide poisoning.

Bear told Reilly he ordered sophisticated brain wave and psychology tests for Garabedian and said that while the results were not completely normal, they were within normal limits.

Trouble-making bear moved to remote area

HATFIELD — Freida, a black bear whose romps in this rural town created traffic jams, has been moved miles away by researchers who hope she will do what other bears do in the winter: hibernate.

Freida was knocked out Monday by a tranquilizer and moved to a remote, man-made den in an undisclosed wooded area, said Wendell Dodge, a wildlife researcher at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

"It was just a question of time before she got into real trouble that might have ended in someone getting hurt. Some residents were getting antsy about Freida coming so close to their homes," Dodge said.

Freida, born in Hatfield, spent the last several weeks wandering through town along Routes 5 and 10 and in the backyards of homes. State police were summoned one weekend to direct traffic as researchers herded Freida away from curious motorists.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — David Summersby
Copy Editor — Ralph Roberts
Layout Technician — Paul Baskin
Photo Technician — David Deuber
Production Supervisor — Pete Soderberg
Production — Lynn Eisenberg, Marsha Wilcon, John Wielgus, Joy McCarty, Ansel Zinter, Marianne Walsh, Merrianne Hrycin, Sue Gianetti, Pamela Smith

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Collegian photo by Tom Kudla

VISIOUS DRIVE—14 year old Harry Santiago fires a slap shot on goalie David Ortiz on the Campus Center Monday as two friends watch.

Milton man arrested for car violations

University of Massachusetts police arrested a 26-year-old Milton resident Sunday and charged him with driving without a license or an inspection sticker and driving with defective equipment. The arrest occurred at 11:37 p.m. after the subject was observed driving on North Pleasant St. with no rear lights.

In other police action:

A 23-year-old Amherst resident was arrested at 1 a.m. Monday and charged with driving while intoxicated, police said. The subject was observed driving erratically when stopped by the police.

Police confiscated beer from three underaged youths at 4:30 p.m. Monday when they were observed carrying it in lot 49. After an identification check, police found all three were under 20.

— MARY ANNE BEEN

Registrar' Office running efficiently

By CRIS SCHUSTER
Collegian Staff

Despite an increase in undergraduate enrollment of more than 400 this spring, business is as usual for some members of the University of Massachusetts administration.

The Registrar's Office has been busy re-issuing schedules and grade reports to some students while giving out add/drop forms to others, according to Ralph Jones, undergraduate registrar.

"Traffic has been spaced out fairly well," Jones said, because "the highest number of students cleared their bills on time."

Eighty-four percent of the undergraduate students at the University paid their bills by the January 6 due date, he said. With an estimated eight percent no-show factor, only eight percent of the student body had to pay their bill after the due date, Jones said.

"Registering by mail cuts down a great deal on the wait in line," he said.

The College of Arts and Sciences Information and Advising Center (CASIAC) deserves the name "ZooMass" during the first weeks of the semester, said Julie Berwald, assistant to the dean of the college.

"At the beginning of the semester, it's always like that," Berwald said.

"It's very, very bad here (in the CASIAC office)," she said. "I'm laughing before I cry."

Berwald noted that students needing advising had almost a two hour wait yesterday before they could see an advisor. "Many students get discouraged and leave or just go to class," she said.

The waiting list for students at the CASIAC office was closed at 3:30 p.m. both Monday and Tuesday. With only two advisors usually working at a time, "we have quite a few students waiting," she said.

"Today we just don't have the normal schedule we will have once things settle down," she said.

The add/drop period will end February 13. Pass/fail forms must also be handed in to the registrar's office by that date.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

Heavy Traffic—Students traverse the ramp to the Whitmore Administration building yesterday during the first day of classes.

Sexuality program trains counselors

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

The Peer Sexuality Education Program (PSE), located at the University Health Center, has been training undergraduates to help students communicate about male and female sexuality since 1969.

According to Ron Mazur, Director of the PSE Program at UMass, "every program has a protocol with certain areas to be covered and certain methods to teach by."

PSE trainees currently specialize and conduct workshops on five specific sexual topics: Contraceptive Technology and Information, Men's Sexuality and Birth Control, New Facts and Fallacies About Sexuality, Sexual Orientation, and Focused Topics, such as herpes, rape awareness, and sexual harassment, he said.

"We view sexuality as a vital part of the total person. It's a valid health entity that shouldn't be ignored," Mazur said.

Sexuality is an issue which is rarely discussed in nursing or medical schools because, it is such a controversial issue and many people feel uncomfortable talking about it, he said.

The PSE educators communicate sexual topics, as well as dispense information about contraception, sexual responsibilities, and alternative sexual orientations.

Mazur said many women's issues are not confronted because there is lack of communication between men and women.

"Men joke about it," he said, "and this could be because there has been a "lack of modeling."

"In many homes there are discussions about everything but sex. Parents feel uncomfortable talking with adolescents about sex, and schools don't talk about it because it's so controversial."

Generally more women than men enroll in the PSE training programs, last semester 62 percent of the students who participated in the workshops were women.

"We are trying to involve men in sexuality and trying to go beyond the notion that contraception and sexual pleasures concern women only," Mazur said.

"Initially it's difficult to get men involved in the training programs. We really need aware men to be trained as educators. We need men to reach men."

Staff members of the Health Education Services at the University Health Center hold educational contraceptive sessions four days a week.

The session hours are:
Monday - 3 p.m.
Tuesday - 7:30 p.m.
Wednesday - Couples only - 7:30 p.m.
Thursday - 3 p.m.

Jackson tickets available

Tickets to see Rev. Jesse Jackson speaking tomorrow night in the Fine Arts Center (FAC) will be distributed at the FAC Box Office beginning at 10 a.m. today.

About 1000 tickets are available and one per person will be given out. Those unable to obtain a ticket to see the Democratic presidential candidate nominee in person can get tickets for a closed circuit screening to be broadcast live from the FAC to the Campus Center Auditorium.

Both events are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Speech on Soviet Jewry

William Korey, a leading authority on the condition of Soviet Jewry will speak at 7:30 p.m. today in the Wright Hall Common Room, at Smith College. His topic will be: "Soviet Jews: Their Desperate Plight."

Korey is a prolific writer of both popular and scholarly works and his most recent book was The-Soviet Cage: Anti-Semitism in Russia. His visit, open to the public, is being sponsored by the Jewish Cultural Center and the Smith/Amherst Binai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

Women, blacks & long-haired kids were McGovern's backbone

By KEN BAZINET
Collegian Staff

The supporters of George McGovern, the women, blacks and long-haired kids who surrounded the 1972 Democratic nominee, were students. They were the peanut butter and jelly sandwich cadre of loyal campaign workers who distributed leaflets from door to door, staffed telephone banks and did their best to give the former South Dakota Senator visibility

Massachusetts was the only state which chose McGovern over Nixon in '72, and students from schools including the University of Massachusetts, Harvard, and other politically oriented colleges and universities, participated in campaign activities which, it was hoped, would defeat the hawkish president who had brought the United States to its peak as a 20th Century police state.

But the image of the McGovern campaign set the American electorate back. McGovern was viewed by the '72 voters as a wishy-washy liberal, who threatened the national security. His '72 campaign managed by Gary Hart, then an aspiring Colorado Senatorial candidate, sought to register a wave of new supporters which would rebuild the Democratic party. The McGovern voter registration drive was an effective strategy during the Democratic primaries, but in the general election it could not compete with a well-financed establishment-backed Nixon organization.

Embedded in what has been called a "Democratic Market Society," the corporate media had more in common with Nixon than McGovern, and with little trouble were able to do their best to assist in creating a false image of the students involved in the Democrat's campaign. McGovern knows more about the press and presidential elections than any of his seven Democratic colleagues, but he has managed to remain a peace candidate in support of nuclear disarmament and human rights. He has not changed his approach.

He has also continued to register new voters wherever he goes, and he hopes to encourage UMass students to register tonight when he speaks in the Student Union Ballroom. McGovern is scheduled to speak at 8:30, but a voter registration rally will begin at 8.

"I thought the convention was great, but what came across on television, apparently, to many of these guys was they saw a lot of aggressive women, they saw a lot of militant blacks, they saw long-haired kids, and I think that comibination, which helped win the nomination for me, I think it offended a lot of them."

George McGovern in an interview with Hunter S. Thompson following his defeat to Richard M. Nixon in the 1972 Presidential election.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson another candidate for the Democratic nomination, has also had to encounter his share of bad press. The return of Lt. Robert Goodman was a media windfall for Jackson, who has since been criticized for accepting campaign donations from a nation considered unfriendly by the Reagan Administration. When Jackson appeared at a New Hampshire soup kitchen with bags of food for anyone who waited in line, he was accused of being an opportunist by members of that state's legislature, and the press gave the impression that there was more opposition to Jackson's food packages than support. But he also has learned to accept the politics of the corporate press.

Jackson is another candidate who has his strategy designed around voter registration. He spoke before an overflowing crowd at Smith College two weeks ago, and registered about 50 people at that time. He will speak at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Fine Arts Center, and again he will attempt to register new voters.

The Massachusetts primary is March 13, and our enrollment at the University of Massachusetts promises a front seat to the issues and the candidates. It is likely that all the Democratic candidates will speak on campus. Take advantage. You can't believe everything you read.

★ Trustees

continued from pg. 1

out what they (the board) plan to do," said Allen.

Also to be discussed and voted on today is a tentative agreement with the MSP teaching union concerning those University professors who choose not to pay that agency fee.

The proposed agreement between the University and MSP would mandate a one week suspension without gross pay for all professors and librarians who refuse to pay that year's fee.

James R. Boylan, MSP president and UMass professor of journalistic studies, said "Union bargaining teams have been working with the University throughout 1983 to draft this tentative agreement. Altogether, it took 45 sessions to work out this agreement.

"We'll be holding informational meetings on February 8 and 9 where bargaining unit members, regardless of their union membership status, will be able to vote on ratification of this agreement," Boylan said.

Previously, professors who did not pay the yearly union fee were subject to termination by the University. Despite this University administrators chose to suspend professors — the "Amherst 11" — who withheld payment during 1982 and 1983, and notify them of possible termination.

Ed Harrison, a professor of astronomy and an original member of the group notified of the original suspensions in 1982, previously said that, "Continued suspensions will only serve to hurt this university's academic future."

★ Amherst elections

continued from pg. 1

Also 80 Town Meeting member posts will be filled in the upcoming election. There are ten seats open in each of the eight precincts to serve for three-year terms. Students are permitted to run for Town Meeting representatives provided they meet eligibility requirements. According to Minear, 25 students presently hold positions.

Summer jobs for counselors

The new Students Program is now accepting applications for 30 summer counselor positions. Students with positive attitudes toward university life, counseling experience, academic success and high energy levels are encouraged to apply. Applications may be obtained from the new students Program in room 101 Berkshire House before February 10.

The Party Never Stops!

JUSTIN RYAN'S challenges you to BEAT THE CLOCK

7:00-9:00 | 9:00-10:00 | 10:00-11:00 | 11:00-CLOSE

50¢ Drinks 75¢ Drinks 1.25 Drinks 1.75 Drinks
75¢ Food 1.25 Food 1.75 Food Reg. Price-Food

Wednesday Night

starting February 6th. . .
Professionally taught
DANCE CLASSES
For Adults
Beg. Ballet Mon. 7:30
Inter. Jazz Tues. 7:00
Inter. Modern Tues. 8:00
Inter. Ballet Thurs. 6:30
Beg. Jazz Fri. 3:30
Ten-Week Courses $50
Phone 549-1555
THE AMHERST BALLET CENTRE
29 Strong St.
(one block east of Butterfield Dorm across E. Pleasant St.

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00 (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610
PRIME CONSULTATIONS

Welcome Back UMass ...
We're Ready To Go!!
Papa Gino's
College Pizza Specials

- The more Pizzas you order, the more you save...for pick-up or eat-in
- Great for Pizza Parties!

COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT COUPON Limit 1 Coupon - Not Good on Specials
Student must show College Identification Card to get discount.

Quantity Purchased	Discount	Quantity Purchased	Discount
1 Pizza	10%	3 Pizzas	20%
2 Pizzas	15%	4 Pizzas	25%
		Over 5 Pizzas	30%

Papa Gino's PIZZA & MORE Mts. Farms Mall Hadley, MA Call: 584-0220 Expires 3/18/84

Summer Jobs
UPWARD BOUND/
UMASS AMHERST
Positions Available:
Instructors (for College Prepatory Curriculum)
Counselor/Tutors (for residential component)
Pick up applications at
205 New Africa House
Deadline: Feb. 29, 1984
Internships also available

THE WORD IS OUT! "ROAD WARRIOR" IS A HIT!
THE ROAD WARRIOR
Date: Sunday, Feb. 5, 1984 CC Auditorium
5:00 - $1.00 7, 9, 11 - $1.50
sponsored by Washington Dorm

Charter Travel Time
For hassle-free group travel, call the experts . . . call Travel Time. Before your group plans its next trip—any size group—call us for a price quotation. We'll be happy to quote you our economical rates. No obligation!
Charter Service to all points in the U.S.A. and Canada.
Check out what we offer:
• Luxurious Highway Coaches • School Buses • Mini-Buses.
We'll also handle hotel, meal and sightseeing arrangements for your group. Our deluxe highway coaches are climate controlled and restroom equipped.
Travel Time Bus Lines Inc.
99 Arnold Street Springfield, MA
Call: General Office and Charter Service 783-0211
Toll Free in MA 1-800-322-0297

EDITORIAL/OPINION

'HEY, LOOK, WE'RE WARM, WE'RE DRY, WE HAVE A ROOF OVER OUR HEADS, ENOUGH TO EAT... SO WILL YOU QUIT WORRYING ABOUT THINGS WE CAN'T SEE.'

Union-reality as State of the it isn't

President Reagan's State of the Union address (Jan. 25) could have been inspiring. It could have been if his soothing tone and uplifting phrases had been matched for the past three years by parallel actions. Clearly, they haven't. This President is content to usher us through polished paragraphs of persuasion while thousands of Americans face the daily nightmare of homelessness, malnutrition and despair.

R. Jay Allain

These are not merely words—they signify a reality that I'm afraid the President, Edward Meese and we, who are not feeling it acutely, can scarcely comprehend. How many of us dare to hear the words of Shakespeare's King Lear? A man of great secular power, as is Mr. Reagan, he counsels "Expose thyself to feel what wretches feel." This insight comes to him during a howling tempest. Can our President, seemingly feel for the downtrodden, the students, the elderly and unemployed? This seems unlikely while he wanders in the intoxicating world of words he prefers over reality.

The content of his speech is certainly entertaining but not to be mistaken for the real world. While such flights of fancy may be excusable on the tube, they are frightening when revealed by the holder of our highest elected office. Yet, we are all conditioned to respect the speeches of our Chief Executive. Some citizens may even share the excitement of embarking on discoveries in outer space-unconsciously sensing that soon it may be the only inhabitable place. For even W. Averell Harriman, a former Ambassador to the Soviet Union, said this about our present foreign policy: 'This is the grim result of Reagan Administration diplomacy: If present developments in nuclear arms and United States-Soviet relations are permitted to continue, we would face not the risk but the reality of nuclear war.'

Our leader then resembles Big Brother—evading that which is by naming it the reverse. The widespread terror over the escalating arms race and poverty, forty percent of whom according to recent study, are children under eighteen, becomes "security needs" and "economic recovery." And despite his interpersonal suaveness, let us not neglect Hamlet's wisdom: 'A knavish speech sleeps in a foolish ear.' In these times, we need neither fools nor ostriches.

R. Jay Allain is a UMass graduate living in Easthampton

Is Guatemala same old story ?

On Monday, the Reagan Administration announced that they would sell the Guatemalan government two million dollars worth of parts for their military helicopters which were originally bought from the United States in the 60's, but have not been maintained since the 1977 stoppage of arms sales to Guatemala. The Administration claims that the transaction is not a violation of a 1983 Congressional ban on military assistance to Guatemala, but that it is merely a business deal.

Charles Francis Carroll

This double-dealing marks the death of the Carter doctrine of no military assistance to countries with rampant human rights violations by forces connected to their governments, a condition existing in Guatemala, which has been called the worst in the world by Amnesty International and even cited by the Kissinger Commission report as particularly brutal. It also marks the death of something more than a policy.

The helicopters reportedly would be used to pursue "rebels" in the highlands, but the fact is that most of the government murder is a planned program to exterminate the indigenous peoples and cultures of Guatemala in much the same way that the Native American peoples have been decimated by the U.S. Government, only with helicopters and machineguns instead of cavalry and Winchesters.

I became aware of this genocide while trakking through Guatemala a month in 1979. There was more fear among the Indians of the government than fear of the recent earthquake, which is understandable since far more Indians have been killed by the government than the twenty thousand killed in the earthquake. The genocide is perpetrated in the name of modernization. I found the culture of the Indios to be higher in every respect than the culture of the Modernes.

I found the Guatamatec people to be the most independent and their culture to be the most impressive I have encountered in my travels, especially in the places where the Spanish never reached. You would agree, I think, if you had walked with me along the road from San Lucas Toliman to Santiago Atitlan, and witnessed the fine weaving, the afternoon ballgames, the sauntering strides of the men, and the friendly smiles of the women from the doorways of their stone huts inhabited since the Mayans. Now, I have heard that Santiago is a military barracks and I know it will never be the same.

The rebels? Yes, I met many Americans and Communists alike along the way, but the Indians were not buying either system at the time, laughing off the propaganda as if it was only white man's lies. The history of Latin America, even Pre-hispanic America, is one of conquest after conquest and the people have learned how to live under outsiders' rule. But, if anything could convert the Guatematec people to communism, it would be their genocide by an American-backed military dictatorship.

Of course, this action should not come as a surprise. The first official act of the Reagan Administration's foreign policy was to end the prohibition of arms to Argentina in Reagan's first month of office. Argentina was to become our big stick in South America. Unfortunately, the Argentines invaded the Falklands with their brand new American guns. The recently disposed military government in Argentina hadn't had an election in over ten years. Neither has Guatemala. And yet we constantly hear these unpopular dictatorships referred to as "democracies." Guatemala is only another example of a U.S. supported dictatorship, not a "democracy."

The modern history of Guatemala bears out the grim fact that not only is it a dictatorship supported by the United States, but a dictatorship put in place by the United States when the CIA wages a covert war in 1954 to overthrow the progressive democracy of President Jacobo Arbenz, who was elected in the first free elections ever to be held there. The reason for the coup executed by the CIA was supposedly to stop "communist influence" in Central America. Sound familiar? But the real reason was to stop the divestment and nationalization of American economic interests in Guatemala, particularly United Fruit.

Is history repeating itself? The profits of United Fruit are a pittance compared to those of the lucrative coffee business developed in Guatemala over the past decade. Along with a budding oil industry there is more than enough incentive for the U.S. involvement. The Reagan Administration's new committment to the Guatemala government, itself a product of am ilitary coup in 1963, represents an attack against democracy, not a defense of democracy. But what does the Administration have to say about it? Business as usual.

Charles Francis Carroll is a Collegian correspondent

Letters

Satellite Center at UMass

To the Editor,

The recent Collegian story on activities of the University's Remote Sensing Center ("Satellites will Transmit to Hasbrouck,") carried an erroneous report of recent action taken by the University's Board of Trustees.

The article stated that the Remote Sensing Center "has received $140,000 from the University's Board of Trustees to start a research corporation."

This is not the case. What the UMass Board of Trustees has done is to set aside a total of $150,000 to study the commercial viability of a technology developed by scientists at the University's Remote Sensing Center.

This study is still in preliminary stages, and its findings are far from complete. Thus, while it is fair to say that the University's Board of trustees has decided to take a serious and systematic look at the commercial feasibility of a private venture, it is wildly off the mark to state that they have decided to fund such a corporation. Clearly, such a corporation does not now exist nor are there any current plans to begin receiving data transmissions from satellites.

Dallas L. Darland
Director of Development

Militant feminism a scourge?

To the Editor,

Militant feminism is destroying America as the scourge of decency and civility. In the last two decades we have seen a dramatic increase in broken homes, spouse and child abuse and sex crimes, which has just about kept pace with women's decision to wear the pants.

Jude 16 in the Bible prophetized of militant feminists as follows: "These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, having men's persons in admiration because of advantage."

Deuteronomy 22:5 is God's admonition against uni-sex and Jude 6-16 is the shameful result. Jesus strove against feminism and even said to His mother: "Woman, what have I to do with thee?" And for His crucifiers He said: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

We can rebuild America with the only true word of God, the 1611 King James Bible, or we can continue to let TV hype lead us to the slaughter. But our salvation can only come about through believing that Bible prophecy was meant for the latter times—NOW. (I Timothy 4:1)

Wayne L. Johnson
San Diego

Letters Policy

All letters must be signed and include the writer's address and telephone number, which will not be published. Please type double spaced at 67 characters per line. Due to space limitations and the volume of mail, we regret we are unable to acknowledge unpublished letters. All letters are subject to editing for clarity and length.

HEAD FOR THE MOUNTAINS

UMASS SKI CLUB
Thurs. Night Skiing
Feb. 2 at Mt. Tom
$9. includes lifts, refreshments & transportation

for more info 545-3437

PUBLIC NOTICE
2 Days Only
Selling At The

HOWARD JOHNSON MTR LODGE
Rte. 9, 401 Russell St., Hadley

HOTEL SURPLUS $48.00 AND UP

TWIN SIZE MATTRESS $55.00
TWIN SIZE FOUNDATION $48.00
FULL SIZE MATTRESS $68.00
FULL SIZE FOUNDATION $58.00

Be Early For Best Selection
No Phone Orders, Please

Not to be confused with bedding used in this motel, every piece is brand new, factory sealed in heavy clear plastic for your inspection and weather protection. Bring your car, truck or station wagon. We will load for you. SALE CONDUCTED INSIDE BUILDING.

MASTERCARD...VISA...CASH & CARRY

1 pm - 7 pm Thurs. Feb. 2 10 am - 3 pm

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
FRI. 2/3
ROBIN LANE and The CHARTBUSTERS
A Boston Rock & Roll Tradition!

SAVE
on Paperbacks
over 30,000 now in stock
on all subjects
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Fri
10-5 Sat
12:30-5 Sun
549-6052

presents
RAINBOW with the STRAY CATS
with Special guest the ALBERT OTIS BAND
MON. FEB. 6
F.A.C. UMASS
Tickets available at all ticketrix locations at the Fine Arts Center, Springfield Civic Center, and Stop & Shops in Northampton, Greenfield, Pittsfield, Holyoke, and Hadley
TIX ON SALE TODAY!
UMass Students: $11.50 & 12.50
Public: $13.50 & 14.50
UMass I.D. required with student ticket. No cans, bottles, cameras, or recording devices

Give us the Business
Just a selection of the stuff we're made of!

	orig.	OURS
Anthropology For the Eighties - Cole	13.95	7.00
Elements of Econometrics - Kmenta	31.95	16.00
Methods of Social Research - 2nd edit.	21.95	10.99
The Western Heritage - Kagan	20.00	9.99
The Nature & Properties of Soil - 8th edit.	27.95	13.98
Norton Anthology of Poetry		5.99
Creative Mental Growth - 7th edit.	24.98	12.50
Sister Carrie - Dreiser	2.25	1.00
The Prince - Machiavelli	1.95	.99
Souls of Black Folk - W.E. Dubois	2.50	1.25
Parzival - Von Esenbach	5.95	2.99
Leviathan - Hobbes	3.95	1.99
Four Major Plays - Ibsen	2.25	1.00
The Forest People - Turnball	3.95	1.99
The Varieties of Religious Exper. - James	3.50	1.75

Hurry while the supplies last. . . Open: This week Mon-Sat 10-8

We also carry a full line of Shakespeare signet classics $1.00-$1.25. We carry everything from computer and medical books to bestsellers and university press releases. Come see!

The Reading Remedy
NEW BOOKS AT HALF PRICE

Stop in to say Hello to your Friends
They'll be here
Two T.V.'s Free Popcorn
Time Out
Happy Hour Daily 4-8
16 oz. Drafts 85¢ 16 oz. Giant Drinks
AMHERST'S BIGGEST LITTLE BAR
37 N. Pleasant St.

Arts

Milk and Honey: a final gift

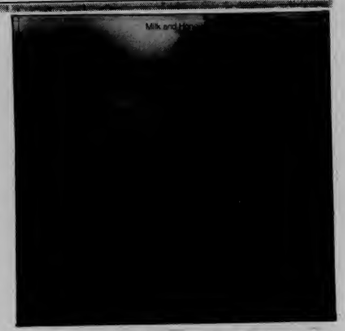
MILK AND HONEY
John Lennon and Yoko Ono/Polydor Records
By ED BEEN
Collegian Staff

It is difficult to approach this album without becoming emotional. For all practical purposes, it is the last studio album from John Lennon the world will be blessed with. To separate the music from the image, the history, and the memories is no easy task.

Over three years have past since Double Fantasy was released, and the twelve tracks on Milk and Honey were taken from the same sessions as the previous work, but the new album is different. The format is the same, John and Yoko trade off songs about love, life, and the world at large. Milk and Honey, however, is decidedly more upbeat, with lighter instrumentation, which produce an enjoyable, stripped down pop album. But there is more to this album than appears at first glance.

Song titles like "Don't Be Scared," "I'm Stepping Out" and "Grow Old With Me," make for another chapter, (perhaps sadly the last), in the John Lennon/Yoko Ono love affair. The songs themselves offer sharp, to the point, observations: neat little capsules one can take to heart.

In Lennon's "I Don't Wanna Face It," he takes a stab at hypocrites and sings "Say you're looking for a place to go/Where nobody knows your name/You're looking for oblivion/With one eye on the Hall of Fame."



He speaks of the need for individuality in "I'm Stepping Out," when he croons "If it don't feel right don't do it/Just leave a message on the phone and tell them to screw it/After all is said and done/You can't go pleasing everyone." Lennon shows his comical and cynical sides as well in the single "Nobody Told Me" with lines like "Everybody's talking and no one says a word/Everybody's making love and no one really cares/There's Nazis in the bathroom, just below the stairs." And the video is a lot of fun too.

Although Yoko Ono's vocal approach has always taken some getting used to, her lyrical insight cannot be missed. In "Don't Be Scared" she sings, "If your hearts are lit/Drop your survival kit/Then you never have to run or split." In "O'Sanity" she observes, "It's only sane to be insane/Psychotic builds a castle/Neurotic lives in it/I don't know what to do with my sanity/When the world's at a verge of calamity.

The music on the record ranges from straight pop to reggae. Highlights in this department are Yoko's orientally flavored "Your Hands", and the great opening guitar riff on Lennon's "I Don't Want To Face It". The last song on the album, Yoko's "You're The One", has the powerful musical texture and tone that Stevie Nicks would die for. Another treat is Lennon's frequent rapping about pimples, Seasame Street, taking care of the kids, and staying out at night until "one or two or three."

John and Yoko in one of the last photographs taken of the two.

The list of musicians is lengthy: Hugh McCracken and Earl Slick (guitars), Andy Newmark (drums), and Carlos Alomar (vocals), to name a few. The entire album however, even with the large cast of characters, is amazingly coherent, slick but relaxed, and as always, done with maximum professionalism.

The emotional apex of Milk and Honey, (subtitled A Heart Play), is in the exchange of the songs "Grow Old Along With Me", and "Let Me Count The Ways", ideas taken from poems by Robert and Elizabeth Barret Browning. It is a communication between friends and lovers, it is not overindulgent, and Lennon and Ono make it accessible. On the liner notes, Ono writes "John and I always thought, among other things, that we were maybe the reincarnation of Robert and Liz."

Lennon's "Grow Old With Me" is a truly beautiful love ballad with lovely chords calling to mind Johnny Beatle's work on the White Album. When he woos "Grow old along with me/Whatever fate decrees/We will see it through/For our love is true/God bless our love," the listener has no choice but to be moved.

The album itself is beautifully packaged with extensive notes from Yoko, and a wonderful color cover of John and Yoko about to kiss, and unlike on Double Fantasy they are smiling. On the inside of the jacket is a photo of a naked John on top of a naked Yoko, and they are again smiling, the two virgins, a little bit older, and a little bit wiser.

Each song on Milk and Honey is a statement from an artist, providing insight into that art, from a lover, providing proof of that love complete with its resulting joy. Repeated listenings offer new insights about what that love must be like. It is a thrilling experience. Thank you for that experience John and Yoko. God Bless.

ANNOUNCING: Peer Education Recruitment
University Health Services offers Spring 1984 credited course work as:
★ Peer Sexuality Educators
★ Peer Alcohol Educators
★ Health Aides and
★ HealthReach Workers
Training and working with others to round out your University experience:
INQUIRE OR APPLY AT
HEALTH EDUCATION / 549-2671 ext. 181

What did happen on the Cahulawassee River?
Deliverance
DATE: Feb. 2, 1984
TIME: 4:15, 6:30, 8:45, 11:00
Sponsored by Hamlin Dorm

CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED
For Summer Camps in the Heart of Adirondack Mountains State Park, N.Y.
Top salaries, accomodations & benefits for experienced, professionally minded men & women to lead well-balanced skill development programs. Openings exist for: All Water Sports (WSI), Sailing, Land Sports, Phys Ed, Tennis, Archery, Water Skiing, Tripping, Photography, Arts & Crafts, Drama, Pianists. Minimum Age required 19
Travel assistance provided
Call or write: Jerry Halsband 914-833-0170
140 Larchmont Ave., Larchmont, N.Y. 10538
RAQUETTE LAKE CAMPS
Separate Boys & Girls Camps Established 1906

BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
$7.00 off
regular $45.00 NOW $38.00
up to 17 weeks of workouts
$7.00 off
15% Discount
Spring Semester Memberships

NOPE		Bring this ad to the	Boyden
M-F	Sat	BODY SHOP	M-F
7:30-9 am	1-4	for 15% discount	7-9 am
12-1 pm		offer expires on Feb. 7 (9 pm)	12-1 pm
4-6 pm			4-6 pm
7-9 pm

CONTRACT MEETING
NOON, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1
CAMPUS CENTER 101
An informal meeting to discuss and explain the new faculty/librarian collective bargaining agreement will be held at noon on Wednesday, February 1, in Campus Center 101.
Massachusetts Society of Professors

TEXTBOOK ANNEX

Wed. Feb. 1	9am - 9 pm
Thurs. Feb. 2	9 am - 9 pm
Fri. Feb. 3	9 am - 5 pm
Sat. Feb. 4	10 am - 3 pm
Mon. Feb. 6 thru Fri. Feb. 10	9 am - 5 pm

thereafter 9 am - 4 pm

C. Bernard Jackson's Proud, a story of the witnessing of the police beating of a youth, will open the Third World Theater Series' Spring '84 season, and will be presented on Feb. 11 in Bowker Auditorium.

TV SALE
19" Motel Color Portables
RCA XL-100 Solid State
Selling at the HOWARD JOHNSON MTR LODGE
Rte. 9, 401 Russell St., Hadley
Wed. Feb. 1 2 pm - 7 pm
Thurs. Feb. 2 11 am - 3 pm
MASTERCARD. . .VISA. . .ACCEPTED
RVM Associates
No Phone Calls Please
Sale held by RVM Sales Corp

MSP/FSU/MTA/NEA
NOTICE OF RATIFICATION

Ratification meetings to vote on the proposed collective bargaining agreement between the Massachusetts Faculty Staff Union/MTA/NEA and the Board of Trustees of the University of Massachusetts/Board of Regents of Higher Education will be held on the Amherst and Boston campuses of the University. The Amherst campus voting will take place as follows.

Wednesday, February 8, 1984 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Memorial Hall
Thursday, February 9, 1984 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Memorial Hall

The proposed agreement contains an agency fee provision. If the agreement is ratified by a majority of those present and voting, the agency fee provision will require each bargaining unit member who elects not to join or to maintain membership in the Union to pay to the Union on an annual basis as a condition of employment an amount equal to the regular dues paid by Union members.

All employees in the bargaining unit who are covered by the proposed agreement are eligible to vote at the ratification meetings, regardless of their membership or non-membership in the Union. Bargaining unit members are advised to bring identification with them to the polls.

Tabulation of the Amherst ballots will be held after 2 p.m. on February 9, 1984, at Memorial Hall. All bargaining unit members are welcome to observe the tabulation.

JOINT COORDINATING COMMITTEE
MSP/FSU/MTA/NEA

Bloom County by Berke Breathed

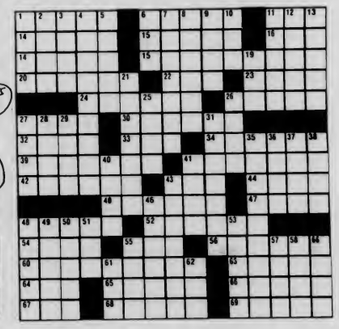
Superbad

The UMass Zone Mark Rollins

Mass Phobia D. Winmill

The Strip Jim Walsh

Shagnasty O.T. Derringer



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Declivity
6 Nigeria's capital
11 Knock
14 "The Gold Bug," et al.
15 Small coin of Israel
16 Name in coaching
17 Happening
18 One club, e.g.
20 "Ring" composer
22 Mystery writer Josephine
23 Shade of green
24 Line on a weatherman's map
26 Toast, in Malmo
27 Unheeding
30 Popular condiment
32 —— China
33 Cover ground
34 Indulge
39 Describing Hawthorne's "A"
41 To the right: Fr.
42 —— crab
43 D.C. based agcy
44 Actress Patricia
45 Classify
47 A Paris airport
48 Revise
52 Cricket
54 Stinging remark
55 Kingston's prov
56 Cattle herder
60 Ball park hit
63 Infirm
64 Cosy spot
65 Pinnacle
66 Lombardy's metropolis
67 Time abbr.
68 Puts to trial
69 Cologne

DOWN
1 Hodgepodge
2 Etna output
3 Fashion name
4 Like a feather
5 Colorado's —— Park
6 Palmas or Vegas
7 Kick around a political football
8 Dead ducks
9 Carousal
10 Gal of song
11 Proportion
12 Lavender, for one
13 Jury
19 BPOE member
21 Vestments like surplices
25 Temptation
26 Box
27 Menu choice
28 Suffix with refer
29 Month after Shebat
31 Modernized
35 Repetitious
36 Part of the waterfront
37 And others: Abbr.
38 Trust (with "on")
40 Teller of tall tales
41 Affected manners
43 Challenge
46 Scorches
48 Residence
49 Regular routes
50 Nottingham's river
51 Subside
53 Stuffs
55 Fairy tale character
57 Despicable
58 Spirit
59 Budget item
61 Statute
62 NFL players

Collegian
Recruitment Meeting
8pm—9pm
Feb. 8
Wednesday

DC Menu

Lunch	Dinner
Hamburg on Roll	Roast Top Round of Beef
Eggroll	Mushroom Sauce
Fried Rice	Baked Cod with Lemon Slice
Duc Sauce	Eggs with Sharp Cheese Cold Plate
Soy Sauce
Basics Lunch	Basics Dinner
Golden Burgers
Eggroll	Creamed Vegetable
Fried Rice	Croquettes with Sauce
Duc Sauce	Baked Cod with Lemon Slice
Soy Sauce	Eggs with Sharp Cheese Cold Plate

Weather

Today sunny and cold. Highs in the 20's. Tonight, clear and cold. Lows in the teens. Tomorrow, sunny and not so cold.

Todays puzzle answer

Hypercurricula

"Hypercurricula" notices not submitted on the standard form and not submitted by the Friday before the week the event will take place will not be run. Due to space limitations, the Collegian cannot guarantee printing of all "Hypercurricula" notices. Priority will be given to UMass organizations.

Today

WEEKLY MEDITATION CLASS—Wednesdays a four week class on meditation and yoga offered by Amanda Marga an international social service and relief organization call 253-9553 for information. 6:30 CC 168

MINORITY GRADUATE STUDENT ASSOCIATION MEETING—There will be an organizational meeting for a possible Minority Graduate Student Association. Bring lunch. 12:00 noon GRC A-221

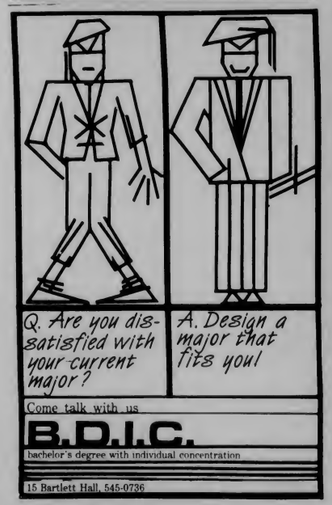
CONCERT: TROMBONIST DAVID SPORNY—A program of classical and jazz works will feature faculty artist David Sporny, Trombone, accompanied by pianist Nadine Shank. Free 8pm Bezanson Recital Hall

IMPORTANT MEETING STUDENTS FOR CRANSTON '84—Everyone invited to learn more about Senator Alan Cranston's presidential campaign. Upcoming events, activities will be discussed. Only six weeks until the Mass. Primary. 7:00pm Hatch

BOOK EXCHANGE—Buy and sell used textbooks. 9:00—4:00 CC Rm 165-169

Tomorrow

SLEIGH RIDE SIGN-UP—Sign up for Hillel Sleigh Ride to Westhampton on Sunday, Feb. 5 in Hillel Office. Hillel 302 Student Union



HILLEL SOCIAL COMMITTEE MEETING—Help plan spring semester's events! 7pm Dukes Rm. Student Union

Greek Life

- an experience
- a reward
- a lifetime

SORORITY RUSH
Register Now!
Campus Center Concourse
for more information call Greek Affairs
call 545-2711

TERADYNE

From TERADYNE
A Very Large Scale Invitation from a Technology Leader

In electronics, the era of very large scale integration (VLSI) has arrived, leaving many companies with products suddenly obsolete and engineering staffs struggling to catch up.

But not Teradyne. Thanks to $62 million spent on R & D in 1980-1982, Teradyne was ready and waiting for VLSI.

Ready with VLSI memory testers, logic testers, analog testers, board testers.

Ready in Boston, Ma. and Woodland Hills, Calif., where Teradyne develops ATE for the electronics industry.

Ready in Deerfield, Illinois, center for Teradyne's telephone system testing operations.

Ready in Nashua, New Hampshire, where Teradyne produces backplane connection systems and state-of-the-art circuit board technology designed to meet VLSI packaging requirements.

This kind of technology leadership spells growth. Excitement. Challenge. Career opportunities you just can't find anywhere else.

Teradyne. A company ahead of its time, looking for some good people to keep it ahead.

For more information, see your Placement Counselor.

WE MEASURE UP.

TERADYNE

Morrison exells at GBTC, UMass relay teams do well

By M.E. MURRAY
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's and women's track squads, continually on the road in this the indoor season, landed in Cambridge Sunday and competed in the Greater Boston Track Club Invitational at the Harvard University oval.

It was a prestigious gathering as some Olympic hopefuls were on hand, notably 1983 Boston Marathon champ Greg Meyer and former UMass star Randy Thomas. That duo finished 1-2 in a sluggish mile event.

Meanwhile, Maryland's Mike Pascuzzo lept into the '84 summer Olympics with his qualifying high-jump mark of 7-4 and a quarter; no one else got within four inches of him.

UMass' Kayla Morrison continued to dominate her premier event, coming in second overall in the 55 meter sprint, in just over seven seconds. The talented freshman from Hartford has shown steady improvement over the course of this short indoor season, qualifying for the New England Championships and hoping to earn a spot at the nationals.

The men's mile relay team turned in their fastest time of the year, capturing the fourth position in 3:24.5. The two-milers also recorded a fourth-place finish.

The women's mile relay grabbed an impressive second-place as Leah Loftis, running a 57.8 anchor leg, brought the team back after trailing in the fourth spot. The South Hadley junior had a good afternoon as she also made it to the 400 meter finals along with teammate Debbie Smith.

With the return to classes, both squads will begin to taper off from the double-sessions of winter-break. Coaches Ken O'Brien and Kalekeni Banda seem pleased with the performance of their teams so far as they head into the meat of their schedules.

★ Gymnastics

continued from pg. 12

had a tremendous meet. He's hitting his double back on floor, his side horse is coming together, he's starting to work rings again and he's landing on his feet in vaulting."

In his second meet performing in the all around, Dougherty placed second with a 51.1. The highlights of his all around performance were a smooth pommel horse routine (9.1) in which he performed two circles on one pommel and a strong high bar routine (9.05) in which he performed some difficult moves.

"The last few meets I've been shakey on pommel horse, but thanks to Roy and John (Macurdy, assistant coach) today I had a good performance," Dougherty said. "They made me think of relaxing and think of having fun instead of worrying about it. I've been improving so well with the help of the coaching and everybody on the team."

Dartmouth was no competition for the Minutemen as they lost three events by over 20 points. Despite bad ankles, Joe Demarco placed first in the floor exercises with an 8.85. Dougherty won the pommel horse event and Mark Quevillon had another strong showing scoring 8.15 and Bert Matheison, who took third in the all around with a 49.9, scored a 9.3 with a smooth ring routine. Eric Ciecone also performed well on rings, taking second with a 9.05. He displayed his strength by performing an inverted cross and a planche, which are difficult strength moves.

Stevens won vaulting and Dougherty took the parallel bars event with a 9.05. Mathieson wrapped up high bar with his highest score ever on the event, a 9.45. After having had some earlier problems on the pommel horse and vaulting events, Mathieson needed the strong finish.

Boyden not yet fixed

The intramural basketball schedule will be cut from five games to four this season due to the renovation of the Boyden Gymnasium floor.

The floor has been under repair since December 20 and should be finished by February 13, according to the intramural office. The repairs were originally set to end January 30.

The intramural schedule should start on Feb. 13. All intramural team managers should pick up a revised schedule, which will be available Feb. 8, at the intramural office at 215 Boyden.

CORRECTION: Some of the intramural dates listed in yesterday's Collegian were wrong. Here is the list again.

	entries due	starting date
sport	11-28-83	2-1-84
basketball	12-8-83	2-1-84
ice hockey	2-1	2-13
squash	2-17	2-22
Bowling	2-27	3-5
Wrestling	2-27	3-26
Soccer	2-27	3-26
Softball	3-27	4-2
Badminton	3-12	3-27
Tenn Doubs.	4-17	4-26
Track-Field	3-5	3-5

★ Hockey

continued from pg. 12

sticks held high above their shoulders as they skated. They practiced falling by tumbling across the ice and getting up again as quick as they could.

The first drill they did was one which involved three players. One player got between the other two and tried to intercept their passes to each other.

Next, they practiced shooting. They received passes from in front of the goal from across the circle and from just inside the blue line as their shots swept towards the goal.

Finally, they did scrimmaging, changing shifts according to the color jersey they wore.

And interspersed within each phase of practice was speed work. They skated hard from end line to blue line and back, from end line to red line, to blue to blue to red, to opposite end line. Again, and again, and again.

It may have been a typical practice routine for them. But for the people who came to watch, it was something more. It was special to the spectators because it was for them; it was purely American. They saw the concentration, the dedication, the simplicity of excellence in the attitude of every player. They saw the simplicity borne of a united effort toward one thing. They saw energy and excitement. The Americans who came to the Nassau Coliseum spent an afternoon getting to know their Olympic ice hockey team, and it was an important experience for them.

The players welcomed and shared the enthusiasm that the crowd emitted. But they were not overcome by it. Later, they even signed autographs and answered questions. But they didn't lose themselves in the admiration surrounding them. They weren't thinking about 1980. They were anticipating working hard to win their own gold. You could see in their faces that they cared most about playing the best that they could.

There are two divisions in the 1984 Olympic tournament. The Blue division consists of the United States, Czechoslovakia, Canada, Norway, Austria, and Finland. The Red division consists of the Soviet Union, Sweden, West Germany, Italy, Poland, and Yugoslavia. Each division will send two teams to the final four medal round, which will be played on February 17th and 19th.

Although the 1984 Olympic ice hockey team is different from the 1980 team, it is similar in character. The team seeks excellence, but does not take it for granted.

Someone at the Nassau Coliseum wished Pat LaFontaine "Good luck." He stood for a moment and smiled, then said, "Thank you." You could tell he really meant it.

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45 3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yarmouth, Dennis: Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

ENTERTAINMENT

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets - ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739

FLASH DANCE

To Kelly of Grayson's Seven South: Check this spot every Wednesday for a special message just for you. -- Your secret admirer

FOR SALE

Used Sanyo Refrigerator 4 cubic ft woodgrain finish $100 call Carol 256-0348

Pentax ME Super 35mm Camera with 50mm F2 lens and Pentax auto-winder 6 mos. old with all packaging $225.00 see Andy at the Collegian Photo Dept.

Large Dorm-Sized Fridge $125 or best offer 546-9648 early AM or late PM keep trying

5 cubic ft. frig like new $125. call 549-6219 keep trying

FOUND

Woman's class ring found last semester in SUB. Call 546-7192. Describe it correctly and it's yours.

HELP WANTED

Need cash? Earn $500 + each school year, 2-4 (flexible) hours per week placing and filling posters on campus. Serious workers only; we give recommendations. 1-800-243-6679

Driver Wanted to make late night deliveries. Apply at the Collegian between 5pm-6pm. Ask for James.

Typsetter Wanted. The Collegian is looking for a typsetter. If interested apply Mon. or Wed. 7pm-8pm in the Graphics Dept. Ask for Marianne.

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Consulting Experience - Accredited Course - School Education, working with student run businesses. Applications at E.D.O. 409 S.U.B. due by Feb. 8.

Jobs available at Earthfoods student run restaurant collective. Work 8-20 hours, depending on your class schedule. $3.50 hr. MANDATORY non-paid hours include 2-4 hours per week management work and Monday night meetings. Work study O.K. Workers MUST be full-time UMass students. Application deadline: Friday February 3 at 5 p.m. Applications and more information available at Earthfoods Kitchen, 3rd floor, Student Union, around the corner from the ride board. EOE, affirmative action employer

Weekend cook wanted at local sorority. Experience wanted. Call 545-0527 for more info

Kitchen help wanted in exchange for meals (great working conditions!) call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

Position available -- Coordinator -- UMass Men's Center. Duties include: coordination of: administrative, programming and outreach, budget & evaluation. 10-15 hrs. week @ 3.35 committment to social issues/awareness a must.

On campus non work study jobs M-F mornings call 549-6364 ask for Herbert

Counselors: CAMP WAYNE, northeastern Penna. Co-ed children's camp. Interested in Resident Assistants and other students who really love children. Our specialty is our warm and caring atmosphere. 12 Allevard St, Lido Beach, NY 11561 (include your telephone number)

INSTRUCTION

Know your car. Basic Automobile Workshop. Classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-2098

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust
Ft. Lauderdale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down
for more info 545-3437

Cash for college available. Computer shows $16.5 million unclaimed. Results guaranteed - Send $1.00 (refundable) SDR-49 Downing Fall River, MA 02723

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
NON-MEMBERS WELCOME
FOR MORE INFO 545-3437

Juniors, Seniors, Grad Students! Enjoy the convenience of your own credit cards at leading department stores, oil companies, and banks. No cost to apply. If you are a Junior, Senior, or Graduate Student, you're eligible. Call TOLL FREE 800-232-1100, M-F, 9 am - 6 pm College Card Corporation "The Most Trusted Name on Campus."

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, Theses, Cases, low rates, on campus 584-7924 Nancy

REFRIGERATORS

2 Refrigerators - dorm sizes: Cube $50, 3' tall $100. call 549-4585 good condition

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Boston every Thursday after 2 or Friday AM. Return every Sunnday PM or Monday. 546-4316

RIDERS WANTED

To Los Angeles Spring Break leave March 17 - brand new luxury car call Ilisa 549-5920

LOST

Lost: Gold earring between Lot 25 and South College. Reward. Call Alison 5-0885

ROOM WANTED

One male looking for an apartment call Gary 546-9762 leave name and number

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male roommate wanted to share bedroom in Brittany Manor apt. winter sublet with spring option (413) 442-3832 ask for Gerard

Male, one room in two bedroom apartment Brittany Manor 256-1374

Two Amherst Fields condos $125 plus utilities 256-6691 after 7:00 pm

SERVICES

Typing. Copies, Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0694 anytime

Holiday clothes need hemming? Area's lowest rates. Experienced seamstress. Joan 549-5548

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley, Instructor. First class meets Wednesday 4 p.m. February 8th. Cost: $55 per semester (includes shirt) Beginner and intermediate karate students welcome. Call 256-0080

WANTED

WFCR-FM needs student interns for work in news reporting and station operations. Call the program director at 5-0100

Sports

UMass hoop splits with GW and URI

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Well, one streak was broken this past week for the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team. It wasn't their 33 game losing streak on the road. It was their undefeated record at home as the Minutemen split their last two games in Curry Hicks, losing to George Washington by 73-68 score last Thursday and defeating Rhode Island with two seconds to go, 77-75 on Saturday.

Massachusetts now has a record of 6-10, 2-6 in the Atlantic 10, good for eighth place at the present time.

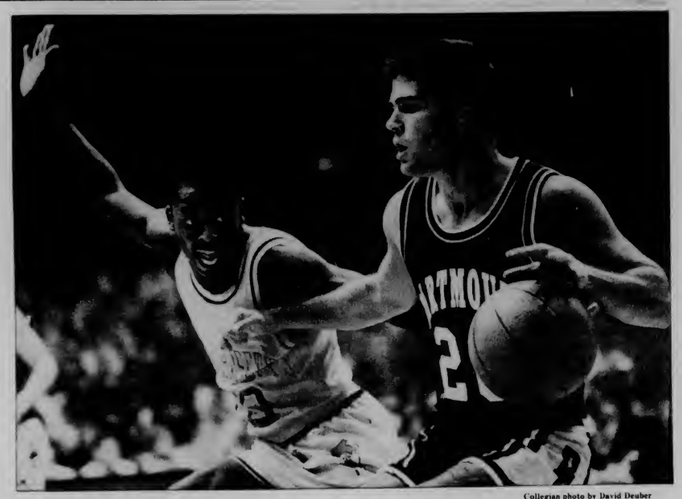
Home wasn't such a magical place against George Washington as the Colonials Mike Brown, their 6'9 big man, awoke from his slumber in the first half, and scored 21 second half points to break the game open for George Washington.

UMass started off well and led 7-2 after two Horace Neysmith hoops and a Carl Smith foul shot. After a Smith stop and pop jumper with 9:28 to go in the first half, UMass led by five, 21-16.

But George Washington came back to take the lead at the half 31-30 on a Bernard Woodside jumper with six seconds to go. At that point, Brown had only nine points.

In the second half, the big man took control as he scored 21 points and GW held off a late UMass rally for the win.

"It's tough to contain him," UMass head coach Ron Gerlufsen said after the loss. "Brown did a great job. He's the best offensive center in the East."



Against Rhode Island, things went UMass' way a little more. But it still took a 10 foot hook shot by freshman guard Carl Smith with three seconds left in the game to secure the win for the Minutemen.

It was the third time this year that Smith has scored the game winner or the tying score with under three seconds left. Smith won the UNH game and tied the UConn game which UMass won in overtime.

Overshadowed by the speedy point guard's actions was the 25 points of Edwin Green, which tied a career high for the 6'7 center.

URI led at the half thanks to a 10-2 spurt midway through the first half. UMass fought back to open the second half and the score was tied 12 times thereafter.

Ram Marc Upshaw tied the game at 75-75 with two free throws with 18 seconds left. But then Smith brought the ball upcourt, cooly and calmly as the clock ran down.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

MAGIC MAN—Carl Smith scored the game winning hoop for the second time this year in a 77-75 win over URI Saturday in the Cage. Smith also leads the team in steals, 27, thanks to D like the above.

US Olympic hockey team shows their stuff on L.I.

AP Laserphoto

EYE OF THE TIGER—US Olympic hockey captain Phil Verchota spars with Alexandr Michetov of the Soviet selects earlier this year in preparation for next week's games.

By MICHELE DOLAN
Collegian Staff

LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK — In the 1980 Winter Olympic Games, the United States won the gold medal in ice hockey. It was a great team and a great story. The Americans had overcome their branding as the underdog team by beating the Russians en route to the medal.

Those players became American heroes. Mike Eruzione, Jim Craig, and Mark Johnson, were hometown boys, 100 percent American. They represented the work ethic in this country, that anyone can succeed if he works hard enough. For their effort and courage we hailed them.

Herb Brooks, 1980 Olympic coach, had been the head coach at the University of Minnesota. He was famous for his techniques of motivation. The members of that "golden team" probably would not have called their victory a "miracle on ice." Brooks did everything he could to make those 20 men into a team which could work together and win, against great odds.

When we anticipate the opening of the 1984 Winter Games, the memories of 1980 must be set aside. This year the Winter Games will be in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia, not Lake Placid. There will be a different team on the ice, and it will be a different story.

On January 25th, the 1984 Olympic ice hockey team left New York for Vienna, Austria. On February 1st and 2nd, they will meet the Austrian team. On February 7th they will play their first game of the Olympic tournament against Canada. Their pre-Olympic record against Canadian competition is 5-4-3.

"I really don't feel that there is a lot of pressure from 1980," said Phil Verchota, one of the two returning players from the 1980 gold medal team, and the 1984 team captain. "The people closest to us understand that this is not the team that won the gold medal. This is a totally new team," he said, on the day before their departure.

His returning teammate from 1980 is forward John Harrington.

During the 63 game pre-Olympic tour, team USA compiled an overall record of 37-18-8. Their record was 4-4-1 against Soviet competition. When asked about the attitudes of the Russian players toward the US team members, US Forward Gary Sampson rejected the idea that the Russians may play "chippier" against the USA. He mentioned only that the Russian players are older, saying, "The average age for our guys is 20. For the Russians it is 26."

In the pre-Olympic tour, the US team compiled a record of 13-1 against Division I Collegiate competition. Against the NHL, their record was 3-3-1.

There are 21 men on the US squad which will compete in Yugoslavia. The coaching staff includes head coach Lou Vairo, from Brooklyn, New York, as well as four Assistant Coaches. Four members of the squad are just out of high school, including David A. Jensen, from Lawrence Academy High School, in Needham, Mass.

More than half of the team has already been drafted by NHL teams. Forward Pat LaFontaine, of Pontiac, Michigan, will join the New York Islanders after the Olympics. LaFontaine is Team USA's leading scorer. In 56 games during the pre-Olympic tour he had 55 goals and 54 assists. He will turn 19 on February 22nd.

On January 24th, team USA practiced at the Nassau Veterans Memorial Coliseum in Uniondale, Long Island in a practice session open to the public. There were some 2,500 spectators, taking pictures, clapping, whistling, and cheering. At the beginning of the practice, the team came to the center of the ice and raised their sticks to the crowd. They were saluting their fans and their country. They were showing their intent to play well at these Olympic Games.

They were dressed in green, purple, blue, and orange, jerseys. Their warm-up consisted of slow laps of the ice at first. They did routine stretching, with their

continued pg. 11

Gymnasts sunk by Navy, squash Dartmouth by 95

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

"Hit or die."

When the going gets tough, the tough get going. Or they die. At least that's the way it is with the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team this year. The Minutemen's new motto, 'hit or die', was placed on a piece of paper behind the bench before last Saturday's meet against a flashy Navy team, which although the Minutemen lost 260.95-251.5, they still scored their highest total of the season.

In UM's blowout of Dartmouth last night, 249.55-154.6, Willie Stevens and Ken Dougherty stayed alive as they hit and with the exception of eight scores, the rest of the scores were above 8.0. Scoring a 260 total is what the Minutemen are striving for.

"When we don't have any sixes and sevens on the team, then we'll have a good score," coach Roy Johnson said. "I think that this team could average 8.5 across the board. They're 10 points lower than what they could perform."

Stevens had his second fine meet in a row as he won all around against Dartmouth with a 51.65. He had outstanding performances in long horse vaulting (9.25) doing a handspring front in a tucked position and the high bar event (9.1) for Stevens, who said he was pleased with his performance, it was the first time he competed in the all around this season due to an injury.

Coach Johnson was also happy with Steven's performance in both the Dartmouth and Navy meets. "Willie Stevens

continued pg. 11

SPORTS NOTICE

ATTENTION: All Collegian Sports staff and anyone interested in writing for the illustrious Collegian sports section—there is a meeting tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. sharp at the sports desk.

The Massachusetts Daily
NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY
Collegian
Volume CXIV, Issue 2 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, February 2, 1984

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

Presidential candidate George McGovern spoke last night at the University of Massachusetts.

McGovern denounces 'gunboat diplomacy'

By BILL WALL
Collegian Staff

Criticizing the Reagan administration's foreign policy and budget priorities, Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern last night at the University of Massachusetts called for peace abroad and economic justice at home.

McGovern covered a wide range of issues in his speech to a crowd of more than 750 people in the Student Union Ballroom, including U.S. intervention in Central America and Lebanon, the escalation of the nuclear arms race, U.S.-Soviet relations and the unequal distribution of the tax burden.

While acknowledging legitimate U.S. concerns in Central America, McGovern denounced President Ronald Reagan's "crude gunboat diplomacy" in solving foreign policy questions.

"We do have economic, cultural and security interests in Central America but those interests can best be served by common sense diplomacy rather than the crude, gunboat diplomacy we have been using to address the problems," he said.

McGovern who ran as the Democratic presidential nominee in 1972 and lost to Richard M. Nixon, suggested the problems of Central America were more deeply rooted in the history of Central America's struggles for freedom and economic justice than in any Soviet or Cuban intervention in the region.

"If every Russian and Cuban disappeared overnight, there would still be revolution in Central America...We do not serve our best interests if we support miserable dictators. In the name of anti-communism we have been embracing every scoundrel who waves a flag saying, 'I'm anti-communist, send guns,'" McGovern said.

McGovern related the revolutionary struggles of the United States in gaining its independence to that of the peoples of Central America saying, "We have to ask which side we are going to be on — the side of the oppressors or the side striving to break free."

The former U.S. senator form South Dakota urged the use of imagination and compassion in U.S. foreign policy. "The (policy) course that we are taking is no way to win friends and influence enemies in Central America," he said.

McGovern also stressed his opposition to the continued presence of U.S. Marines in

Continued on page 5

Trustees approve student fees, faculty contract

Trustees approve new contract

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

BOSTON - After more than a year of negotiating, the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees and the Massachusetts Society of Professors, (MSP), yesterday reached a consensus on a collective bargaining agreement.

The contract, which was a tentative agreement reached by the University administration's negotiating team and MSP (the Amherst campus union) last December 16, must now be ratified by the union members (faculty and librarians on the Amherst as well as on the Boston campus) before being sent to the Board of Regents. From the Regents, it will go to the Govenors Office of Employee Relations.

James Boylan, president of MSP, said the union was "gratified" the Trustees approved the contract. The union and the University had held 45 bargaining sessions before finally coming to an agreement.

The contract calls for faculty and librarians to receive a five percent across the board salary increase retroactive to September 1983, and other salary and merit pay raises periodically until June, 1985.

UMass Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey said the contract is a "good contract for all."

The trustees approved the contract in executive session which meant no members of the press were allowed to sit in on the session which lasted over an hour.

One significant part of the contract includes an affirmative action plan which enables faculty and librarians to file discrimination charges against the University.

Boylan said the MSP is "very pleased" that they received that plan in the contract. While the union is pleased with the contract, Boylan did say it is not everything they wanted it to be.

"Like any contract, it represents compromise," he said.

One compromise the union made was in giving greater control to the University deans in the distribution of merit pay. Another was the continuation of the policy of librarians receiving less money when promoted than faculty, Boylan said.

"We regard librarians as fellow members of the academic community." The University "absolutely insisted" however that the policy remain the same, Boylan said.

One thing the new contract calls for is a suspension for one week, without gross pay, of faculty and librarians who fail or refuse to pay an agency service fee. Previously, union members faced termination for failure to pay.

Fees restructured to fund repairs

By RITA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

BOSTON - The University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees unanimously passed yesterday a proposal restructuring student fees to enable the Amherst campus to fund nearly $21 million in bonds for deferred maintenance with no increase in the total cost of student fee trust funds.

The restructuring, which will not take place until 1986, will decrease both on-campus undergraduates and married graduate student fees while increasing off-campus undergraduate student fees.

The money for deferred maintenance will, however, be used as early as this summer for renovations on the Curry Hicks Cage, which has been the subject of controversy in the past several years as to whether or not students should face an increase in fees to renovate the 50 year-old building which houses the UMass basketball teams.

John L. DeNyse, vice-chancellor for administration and finance, said renovations for the cage will begin as early as this summer.

"We'll be starting right away with plans, designs, the whole bit, but it'll be the better part of two years before anybody starts to really see anything happening," DeNyse said.

Beginning in 1986, on-campus undergraduates can be expected to see a $161 reduction of their total fees, much of which will be due to a decrease in the Campus Center fee from the current $84 to just $12. Other fees which will be reduced include room and board, student activities, and the athletic fee.

new $244 resource fee, but will have their rent decreased by $859. The Campus Center fee and Graduate Student Senate fee will both be reduced by $72 and $15 respectively.

Undergraduates living off-campus are the only students who will see an increase in fees as a result of the restructuring. They will have the same fees reduced as students living on campus but will not, because they don't pay for campus room and board, receive a reduction in that fee. They face a $153 increase.

The $21 million bond package will help the university renovate not only the Cage, but also the Campus Center, North Village, and dormitories. Andrew C. Knowles, a trustee and chair of the committee on budget and financial affairs that drafted the proposal said the money will go to improvements which "will go a long way to enhance the campuses (Worcester campus also received money for the construction of a $10 million parking garage)."

Knowles said the Amherst campus had "become less than modern," and badly needed the money.

DeNyse said the repairs would take about 4 years, after which people will be "able to walk into Campus Center without being dripped on."

Knowles said "I doubt that you'll recognize Amherst" after all the repairs are completed.

Jackson arriving tonight

By BILL WALL
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts will play host to yet another Democratic presidential candidate when Rev. Jesse Jackson arrives to speak at 8 tonight in the Fine Arts Center as a keynote speaker for Black History Month's initial presentation.

But Jackson's speech will be more than campaign rhetoric, it will focus on black culture, history and social change, said John Ruddock, a leader of the Students for Jesse Jackson, a new recognized Student Organization on campus.

"(Jackson's) speech is going to be on black history, political and social changes that have been made in recent years, and the need for these changes to continue, both on the University campus as well as with students in general," Ruddock said.

According to Ruddock, Afrik-Am, the Office of Third World Affairs, the Student Government Association and the Board of Governors, and others, are sponsoring the event.

"There are obvious political ramifications...I think the main thrust of the speech (is to make people) aware of their cultural, social and political responsibility both to themselves and to their community and how they can actualize this responsibility through actions such as voter registration and actually voting," he said.

"We are bringing him under the Black History Month auspices because he is a historical monument in that he was a civil rights leader (and) one of the most prominent black figures in society," Ruddock said.

Inside:

Chinese New Year begins today ..... p. 3
McGovern's policies receive student support ..... p. 5
Three SGA committee chairs resign. ..... p. 3

"Isn't fun the best thing to have?"
— Dudley Moore in Arthur

World and National News

Democrats call for withdrawal of troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats gave overwhelming support Wednesday to a resolution calling for prompt withdrawal of U.S. Marines from Lebanon, but President Reagan said he would not pay any attention to their demands.

No vote was taken in the closed meeting of the Democratic majority in the House, but Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said, "Everybody was pretty much in agreement."

House Majority Whip Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., said no date was set for floor action, but it could come before Feb. 10, when Congress takes an 11-day recess.

O'Neill told reporters, "There is no excuse for the president. Somewhere, they have messed up. The Marines ... were over there for diplomatic purposes and now they are over there huddled down defending themselves.

"I think we all unanimously agree with the fact that the president has failed in his policy."

Reagan, posing for photographs with Yugoslav President Mika Spiljak, was asked to comment on the resolution and replied, "It's too happy an occasion to talk about anything the Democrats are doing."

When reporters pressed him for his views, Reagan said, "I'm not going to pay any attention to it."

Asked to comment on the president's remark, O'Neill said: "The onus is on the president of the United States. We tried to build a bipartisan policy, but when it fails we have a responsibility to speak out against it. We would be derelict if we did not."

The speaker said he telephoned Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and told him that the leadership would like to have the resolution on the floor next week if possible. The committee began consideration of the measure Wednesday afternoon.

Earlier, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes accused the Democrats of "playing politics" with the issue and urged them to "close ranks" behind Reagan. He said the president will keep the Marines in the multinational Lebanese peace-keeping force as long as necessary.

AP Laserphoto

DUSTY DAYS — Beirut, Lebanon — Five dusty marines stand before the entrance to their base as a CH-46 helicopter lands at the Beirut International Airport.

South Africa disengages troops

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — A remarkable mix of diplomacy and military muscle has imposed a kind of peace along South Africa's borders with its neighbors, and opened vistas for U.S. policy in the region which seemed impossible a few years ago.

The two-pronged strategy, carried out by South Africa for the past 14 months, culminated Tuesday with its announcement of a "disengagement," leading to a possible cease-fire, of the forces it keeps in southern Angola to fight guerrillas seeking independence for South-West Africa, commonly known as Namibia.

South Africa also has scored gains since December 1982 in relations with Mozambique, Swaziland and Lesotho, three neighbors it has considered particularly troublesome.

"I can see a possibility that we are entering a new era of realism in southern Africa," Prime Minister P.W. Botha said. "... southern Africa stands at the crossroads between confrontation and peace."

Western diplomats observing the parliamentary session where Botha announced the disengagement reacted cautiously. They pointed out that the principal obstacle to a Namibian settlement — South African and U.S. demands for the departure of 25,000 Cuban soldiers from Soviet-backed Angola — remained.

Also remaining is the underlying cause of conflict between South Africa and all its black-ruled neighbors — the white-minority government's insistence on apartheid, or systematic race-segregation. South Africa continues to emphasize that apartheid is non-negotiable.

But diplomats said the first publicly declared disengagement in the sporadic, 17-year Namibian war, however limited, represented the most significant diplomatic advance since the United States took charge of Namibian negotiations seven years ago.

CIA blames Islamic groups for bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA and other intelligence reports cite a Lebanese financial emissary and 13 others as the principal parties responsible for the Oct. 23 bombing that killed 241 U.S. servicemen in Beirut, The Washington Post reports in today's editions.

Quoting reports compiled by the CIA, and the French, Lebanese and Israeli intelligence services, the Post said others involved in planning the bombing included a former security officer of the Palestine Liberation Organization, an Islamic fundamentalist cleryman from Beirut, and Syrian members of the Syrian-controlled Saiqa Palestinian terrorist group.

The newspaper reported that three days before the suicide truck bombing, a Lebanese financial emissary named Hassan Hamiz received a check or voucher for $50,000 that could only be cashed at the Iranian embassies in Beirut or Damascus.

Intelligence reports indicate the $50,000 was cashed in Damascus a few days after the bombing and was the main financial link that set the attack in motion.

Soon after the incident, an unknown group calling itself the Islamic Holy War claimed responsibility in telephone calls to news agencies. But intelligence officials said they are virtually certain no such operational group exists, and that it was a psychological measure aimed at covering the terrorist acts of various Islamic groups, according to the Post.

Parents ignored in asbestos cover-up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local school officials, worried about their budgets or about "panic and hysteria," are widely ignoring a federal law requiring parents to be notified about dangerous asbestos in their school buildings, a government study says.

The study by the Environmental Protection Agency said that of 275 schools inspected by EPA, 190 were found to be violating the federal law on asbestos insulation. Of those 190, the EPA said, 134 had violated the requirement that parents be notified of the excess levels.

"Consequently, we can conclude that the parents of students exposed are in many cases unaware of the existence of such a hazard," the study said.

In many cases, the study said, school officials did not want to notify parents because of the money the school district would have to spend if forced to clean up the asbestos hazard.

School officials "are reluctant to notify parents because they believe this will result in a redirection of limited operating funds and-or create unnecessary panic and hysteria," the study said.

But whatever the reason, the EPA study added, it is undermining the program to get rid of hazards from asbestos that face millions of schoolchildren.

"The success or failure of the asbestos in schools rule, which relies heavily upon public involvement, is the degree to which information is communicated to the public," the study said. "... Poor public awareness has resulted in only slight activity on the part of the parent groups in schools."

The finding are included in an internal program review requested by EPA Deputy Administrator Al Alm and completed in December. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

The study involves asbestos insulation that once was widely used in schools and other public buildings. Health officials now say that some types of asbestos can flake into microscopic particles that can be inhaled, causing lung cancer or other lung diseases. There is no known safe exposure level.

Under federal law, school officials are required to inspect their buildings for hazardous asbestos and to notify parents and school employees if it is found. It is then up to the local officials to decide what to do.

State Supreme Court to look at death penalty

BOSTON — The state Supreme Court agreed Wednesday to review the constitutionality of the state's year-old death penalty law before the trials of three men charged with murdering a state trooper.

The court agreed to consider whether the death penalty law is legal under the state and U.S. constitutions.

Worcester District Attorney John J. Conte raised questions about the law in order to resolve the issue before the three men go on trial for the Feb. 26, 1983, death of state Trooper George Hanna.

Conte has indicated he may request the death penalty in the case if the three Worcester men are found guilty in the shooting death of the trooper in the parking lot of an Auburn liquor store.

To date, no one has been executed under the statute which restored the death penalty to the Bay State Jan. 1, 1983. The last execution in the state was in 1947.

"We're trying to get it decided before we proceed," Conte said when he first requested the review. "The best way is to do it beforehand, before you have someone sitting on death row."

He could not be reached at his office late Wednesday afternoon for further comment.

In arguments filed with the court, assistant District Attorney Daniel F. Toomey said the state Supreme Court is the appropriate forum to resolve the questions.

"By reason of the extremity of (the law's) consequences, (it) is deserving of the attention of this court," he argued.

Richardson may run for United States Senate

BOSTON — Elliot Richardson, former Massachusetts attorney general and a member of the Nixon and Ford cabinets in Washington, says he is moving toward a possible race for the U.S. Senate this fall.

Richardson said Tuesday night he is "very, very seriously" considering a bid for the Senate seat being vacated by Democrat Sen. Paul Tsongas.

"It would be fair to say that I am inching forward toward the candidacy," Richardson said during a private fund-raising party for President Reagan.

Air Force develops new defense network

HANSCOM AIR FORCE BASE, — Technology used to scan the nation's skies for attack has entered the video game era. The Air Force has developed a miniaturized computer network to help make sure U.S. defenders don't overlook intruders — or attack friendly craft by mistake.

"We've gone from vacuum tube to solid state technology," says Maj. Roger G. Longenbach, the program manager for the Air Force's Electronics System Division at Hanscom.

The $200 million Joint Surveillance System replaces two antiquated defense systems first installed in the 1950s to spot enemy aircraft. The SemiAutomatic Ground Environment and the Backup Intercept Control systems — known in Air Force parlance as SAGA and BUIC — used cumbersome equipment that filled quarteracre sites around the country.

The new system of computers developed by Hughes Aircraft Co. takes up the space used by a few vending machines.

Located at seven air bases in this country and Canada, the defense network uses existing radar stations to monitor the 20,000 commercial and military planes that fly over the nation's borders each day, looking for flights that don't belong there.

Digest

By Associated Press

Resident found dead on Cuttyhunk Island

CUTTYHUNK ISLAND, — A "newcomer" to this winterbound island has been shot dead, and detectives set out Wednesday to untangle the whodunit by questioning Cuttyhunk's entire population — about 30 people.

The body of Raymond Cooper, 41, was discovered on a beach Monday night, a day after he was reported missing on an outing to dig clams and hunt birds.

Police said he had been shot once in the abdomen with one of two weapons he had with him, a replica Colt .44-caliber cap-and-ball pistol.

Five State Police troopers and Assistant District Attorney W. James O'Neill were met at Cuttyhunk's main wharf Wednesday by Jimmy Nunes, the police chief and lone officer on the 2-mile-long island.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Cris Schuster
Copy Editor — Stephen Howe
Layout Technician — Steve Anderson
Photo Technician — Katie Watters
Production Supervisor — Lesley Clark
Production — Lynn Eisenberg, Marsha Wilcon, John Wielgus, Joy McCarty, Dave Rath, Martha Connors, Tim Riviere, Lisa Kiernan, Ansel Zinter, Amy Keefe, Marianne Walsh

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

Collegian photo by Michael Margolis

FROZEN FALLS — Waterfall at Puffer's Pond is encased by ice Tuesday after the snowstorm.

SGA constitution debated

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night voted to delay the passage of the most recent draft of the Student Government Associations (SGA) constitution and accepted three committee chair resignations.

Dispute between senate members over changes which were made to the document, this past January caused the delay.

Jay Flynn, a commuter area senator, said he and other senate members needed time to review the changes in the original draft which was rejected last semester.

The changes were made by a task force over intersession to address "the concerns of Third World and women members of the UMass community" which were not adequately represented in the previous document, SGA co-president Charlene Allen said.

"It was very loud and very clear that those groups needed some real input," and this was achieved over January, she said.

The senate last night also accepted the resignation of Paul Gosselin, chair of the public policy committee. Gosselin said "personality conflicts within the senate" have distracted him from the time "I should have spent doing public policy work." Gosselin said he still plans to participate in certain projects the committee is working on.

Eugene Bull, chair of the budgets committee for the past two years, also announced his resignation from that post last night. "I've done all I can with my committee and I feel that it's time I move on to other work," he said.

Cindy Lemhbeck, who announced her intent to leave her position as chair of the rents and fees committee last semester, said she was "tired of the senate," and formally resigned last night.

The resignation of Mary Palazzo, the affirmative action officer, was also announced. Palazzo said the job demanded too much of her time and she "would like to concentrate more on school."

Peter DeLiso, chair of the academic affairs committee, said that although the resignations will "create problems with transitions, I don't think any senate member would resign without leaving the committee in stable hands."

The senate has appointed Fran Pheeny to the public policy chair position and Jaime Sterling to the rents and fees post. Palazzo said a search is underway for her replacement which should be complete "in a few weeks."

Olver will address faculty

By LAURA YEE
Collegian Staff

State Sen. John Olver (D-Amherst) will speak today on "how to make the University of Massachusetts a flagship university" in an address to the first Faculty Senate meeting of the semester.

Olver will present his ideas on possible improvements that can be made to upgrade UMass as a whole and will pay special attention to the faculty's response to the speech, said Kathleen Merrigan., an administrative aide to the senator.

Atuned to the needs and the advocacy of higher education, Olver will speak on the importance of the work conducted at the Polymer Research Center, Merrigan said. He will also speak on ways to enhance the reputation of the University and its role in the community, she said.

Senate Sec. Robert E. Jones said Olver is the second ranking democrat on the Senate Ways and Means Committee, which "makes him particularly important to the budget of the University."

Merrigan, said the Ways and Means Committee is "the purse strings of the Commonwealth. All appropriation of funds must pass the Senate, and since the welfare of the University is very important to him (Olver), he sees his role as a mediator between UMass and the Senate for this purpose."

Before becoming a politician 15 years ago, Olver was a chemistry professor at UMass. He is also the chair of the taxation committee.

Two leave 'Contact' staff

By JILL LANG
Collegian Staff

The editor of the University of Massachusetts publication Contact, has accepted a position at Amherst College.

Citing the need for a change, Terry Allen, editor of the UMass public relations periodical since its creation in 1975, is now the associate secretary for public affairs at Amherst.

"A new editor can bring fresh vision to the magazine," Allen said yesterday, "and eight years is a long time to be with a University publication.

"They're a super staff, and I continue to be attached to the publication," Allen said. "There are wonderful things going on there."

According to Deirdre Ling, vice chancellor for University relations and development, a search committee is being formed to hire a new editor; hopefully by June. In the meantime, the staff will work cooperatively to absorb the editor's responsibilities.

"We're all set for the academic year," said Elizabeth Pols, a graphic designer for the UMass publications office and a Contact staff member. "I am on the phone almost daily with Terry, and so far things are going fairly smoothly."

Pols said Contact has also lost its staff writer, Ken Gewertz, who accepted a position at Washington University in St. Louis. Contact began as a newspaper tabloid, and the staff had wanted to change to the current magazine format for a long time, Allen said. But there was always money trouble.

"The administration was happy using the magazine as a public relations tool," said Pols, "and they decided it was worth putting some more money into the project to make it a little more permanent."

"The original idea behind the magazine was to 'contact' parents, to tell them some good things about the University," Allen said. "With the old format, we used to be put in a pile and go out with the Sunday papers. Now, people pay more attention and we stay on the coffee table."

Faculty to get ethics code

By LAURA YEE
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts, A Code of Professional Ethics for the Faculty will be distributed this week to all faculty members by the Faculty Senate.

"The obligation to exercise critical self-discipline and judgement in using, extending, and transmitting knowledge" and "to encourage the free pursuit of learning in their students" are a few of the many rules noted in A Code of Professional Ethics.

"The code of ethics tries to cover various aspects of faculty responsibility to the University, the students and the community," Senate Sec. Robert E. Jones said.

"It (the Code of Ethics) is sent out every year to all members of the faculty because it makes no sense if no one sees it," he said.

A Code of Professional Ethics for the Faculty was drafted by the Academic Personnel Policy Committee in 1979 and amended in May 1980, Jones said.

Secretary of the Faculty Senate at the time of the drafting, Political Science Professor Anwar Syed said a code of ethics was needed because of "the rumblings of unethical behavior of some faculty members."

"The Ombud's Office began to investigate the reported unethical acts and then collaborated with the Faculty Senate to adopt some type of code to protect both faculty and students," Syed said.

"The American Association of University Professors (AAUP) had a code of ethics and we also found that other universities had one. This was examined and then served as a base for making our own code," he said.

Syed said that since the faculty has accepted the code, "it is incumbent of them to follow it."

"The code gives the Ombud's Office and the administration the power to take moral and legal action if it's violated," he said.

Today is the first day of the year of the rat

It's New Year's Day

By MARY-SHEILA LOUGHLIN
Collegian Staff

Chinese-Americans at the University of Massachusetts and elsewhere will be celebrating the first day of the Chinese New Year today, in the year of the rat.

Professor Shou-hsin Teng, chairman of the department of Asian languages and literatures at UMass said, "One of the few festivals remembered by Chinese in the United States is the Chinese New Year."

For the Chinese people, who rarely take days off, this is a time of rest and festivities. The festivities, which last from three to five days, include eating, visiting relatives, and parades with lion and dragon dancers and fire crackers, Teng said.

There are 12 animals that move in a cycle and represent each New Year. They are the rat, oxen, tiger, rabbit, dragon, snake or serpent, horse, lamb, monkey, rooster, dog, and pig.

"The year of the rat is a neutral year," Teng said. "The rat is neutral because it is not as popular as the dragon, which is an imperial sign, and it is not as unpopular as the pig. The rat holds a high status to the Chinese people because it is small but very smart and a little sneaky," he said.

Because the dragon is an imperial sign, it means children born that year will become emperors and empresses. In the last year of the dragon, which was seven years ago, there was a population boom in China, Teng said.

The color red is very important to the Chinese New Year, Teng said, because it is associated with joy. In China, wedding gowns are red — white represents sadness and death — and on a child's first birthday, red dyed eggs are given out. On the eve of the New Year, children are given a red envelope containing money, he said.

"Although individual birthdays are celebrated in China, the New Year is considered to be everyone's birthday," Teng said. "The Chinese people turn one year older together."

No one is supposed to do manual labor during the New Year's festivities so all cooking is done before the festivities begin, he said. This is so knives cannot be used because they are associated with murder, he said. Also, the house cannot be cleaned until three to five days into the New Year, he said, because it is a bad omen to use a broom or a duster during the holidays.

"February 15, the first month of the lunar calendar, is called the lantern festival," Teng said. "This day closes the New Year festivities."

Collegian photo by Katie Watters

COLD DUCKS — Ducks rest yesterday near the edge of the Campus Pond not yet frozen.

If your computer didn't come with a road map...

Find your way to the DCE

Division of Continuing Education University of Massachusetts at Amherst

We provide computer instruction for both BEGINNERS and PROFESSIONALS in a broad range of courses TO SUIT YOU!

MICROCOMPUTERS — Study Areas

Introduction to Microcomputers
Learn the vocabulary and concepts for computer literacy, text editing, and performing routine maintenance functions on an IBM PC with PC DOS.

Word Processing/Electronic Filing
Create and edit professional looking documents with WORDSTAR ™

Graphics
Introductory and advanced sections of one of the most popular applications for microcomputers.

Statistical Analysis
Evaluate performance or data easily by using a sophisticated software package.

The BASIC Language
Introductory and advanced sections take the mystery out of computation, matrices, and data file programming.

Information Management
Using dBase II™ or LOTUS 123™ learn to organize large amounts of information, and to create, query, and update a data base for fingertip access to the information you need.

Spreadsheets
Use VISICALC ™ an electronic worksheet, for financial analysis.

PROFESSIONAL LEVEL PROGRAMMING

The Computer Science Certificate Program is a six-course professional development and career enhancement course of study that can start you on a new career path or set you apart from others in your field.

Requirements include intensive study of these CEU accredited courses:
- Assembly Language
- Data Structures
- Programming Methodology
- Information Systems

plus elective courses for developing expertise in your unique area(s) of interest.

Introduction to Problem-Solving Using the Computer, COINS 121
Learn the Pascal language, which is increasing in popularity for many applications, and problem-solving techniques. 4 undergraduate credits.

The C Language
A language increasingly in demand for professional programmers. Taught in the Division of Continuing Education's Instructional Microcomputer Facility. CEU accredited.

For more information on any of these, call
545-2484

DCE
DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

New England Telephone Co.

Career Information Session

Tuesday, February 7, 1984
CC Rm 804 6:30-8:30 pm

Representatives will discuss the divestiture of the bell system and engineering opportunities in management employment. Graduating Seniors getting a BS or MS in Electric Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Industrial Engineering, Computer System Engineering and/or COINS are invited to attend.

Candy it ain't!

Mr. Boston Schnapps.

Look for Mr. Boston's two new cookbooks, the Cordial Cooking Guide and the Spirited Dessert Guide
Available at bookstores or through Warner Books
75 Rockefeller Plaza Special Sales Dept. B New York, New York 10019

Mr. Boston Schnapps 54, 60 and 100 proof. Produced by Mr. Boston Distiller Owensboro, KY Albany, GA © 1982

Registration rally preceeds speech

UMass leaders urge registration

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Students must vote in the upcoming elections to voice their interest in financial aid, equal access to higher education, Central American foreign policy and the government deficit — campaign issues which concern them and their futures, Student Government Association (SGA) leaders said last night at the University of Massachusetts.

At a voter registration rally preceding the appearance of Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, SGA representatives urged the crowd to take advantage of next week's registration drive on campus to register to vote in the Massachusetts presidential primary March 13.

"Nineteen eighty-four is supposed to be a time of change and student voices will be heard nationwide," said Paul Gosselin, former chair of the Undergraduate Student Senate's Public Policy Committee. "As a group, students haven't used the vote at all as a tool. During Vietnam, students rallied and fought hard in opposition of the war. As our brothers and sisters did 15 years ago, we must work politically to do the same today."

Fran Pheeny, current chair of the Public Policy Committee, said historically, 25 percent of the nation's unregistered voters are between 18 and 24 years old.

"I'd like to see this change," said Pheeny, expressing concern that students are under-represented in Congress and in legislatures across the country. "We know what's going on and we care about what's going on."

Stations to register voters will be set up across campus next week through Feb. 14, the last day to register and be eligible to vote in the presidential primaries. Watch the Collegian tomorrow for times and locations for voter registration.

★ McGovern

Continued from page 1

Lebanon and called for their immediate withdrawal and replacement with international forces without vested interests in the region.

"The problem with sending superpower troops is that instead of acting as peacekeepers they become lightning rods which aggravate the tense situation. If their only function is to stay alive and to defend themselves, they can do that better in the U.S.," McGovern said.

He went on to express his concerns over U.S.-Soviet relations and their effect on the continuance of an "open-ended" arms race. He spoke of the necessity of negotiation to reduce the dangers of accidental nuclear war caused by the recent introduction of first-strike nuclear weapons in Europe and the apparent inability of the Reagan administration to lessen the superpower tension.

"Calling them (the Soviet Union) the 'empire of evil' is not the kind of statement that opens the doors to negotiation with a country that already is suspicious of us," McGovern said.

The prevailing tax system also drew McGovern's criticism because of what he called 'an unequal shift of the burden' by Reaganomics from the rich to the poor. He charged that since the beginning of the Reagan administration, $55 billion has been given to the upper classes while $17 billion has been taken from the poor and working classes.

"I ask any fair-minded person if that is a proper sense of justice for a great country such as the U.S.?" McGovern said.

He closed his speech with an attack on the most recent Reagan administration budget which calls for a $111 billion defense increase and a $50 billion cut for social programs.

"These are the kind of priorities I find unacceptable for a great country such as ours," he said. "What we ought to aim for...is peace abroad and justice at home."

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

LISTEN UP — McGovern makes a point during his speech last night.

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

SRO — A Student Union Ballroom standing room only crowd listen to George McGovern speak last night.

Students Polled

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts students had mixed views on Democratic presidential candidate hopeful George McGovern following his hour long presentation at the school last night.

While most students randomly polled said they supported some or all of McGovern's campaign views, many were unsure whether they would vote for him or whether he has a chance of winning the Massachusetts primary March 13.

"I support a lot of his politics," said Debra Hoffman, a 21 year old senior majoring in psychology. "I think he's the best person who's running for president, but not that he would make the best president."

"I agreed with almost everything he said, but I really don't know (if I'll vote for him)," said Brian Thomas, an 18 year old freshman.

"I like him — his whole view," said Greg Mitchell, 18, a freshman business major.

"I support him," said Pam Shein, a 21 year old political science major who was undecided who she would vote for.

"He had some good points (on Central America and Beirut) but I don't think he's the man for the job," Alex Cuyler, 20, a mechanical engineering major said.

"He said he wanted to bring issues out in the forefront," said Tom Sullivan, 25, a senior finance major. But, "In doing that he stressed one side of the issues," with "misleading" statistics like the $55 billion tax reduction McGovern said went to upper income people, Sullivan said. "How does that figure relate to the gross national product?"

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
Thurs. 2/2/84
Dance To The Funk Pop of Boston's Hottest Band!
'til tuesday
Winner of the 1983 WBCN Rock & Roll Rumble!

SALE!

BEDSPREADS
WALL HANGINGS
LAMPS
BAMBOO WINDOW SHADES
RUGS
RECORD CRATE KITS
PRINTS

FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst /Open 10-6, Mon.-Sat.

starting
February 6th. . .
Professionally taught
DANCE CLASSES
For Adults
Beg. Ballet
Mon. 7:30
Inter. Jazz
Tues. 7:00
Inter. Modern
Tues. 8:00
Inter. Ballet
Thurs. 6:30
Beg. Jazz Fri. 3:30
Ten-Week
Courses $50
Phone 549-1555
THE AMHERST
BALLET CENTRE
29 Strong St.
(one block east of Butterfield Dorm
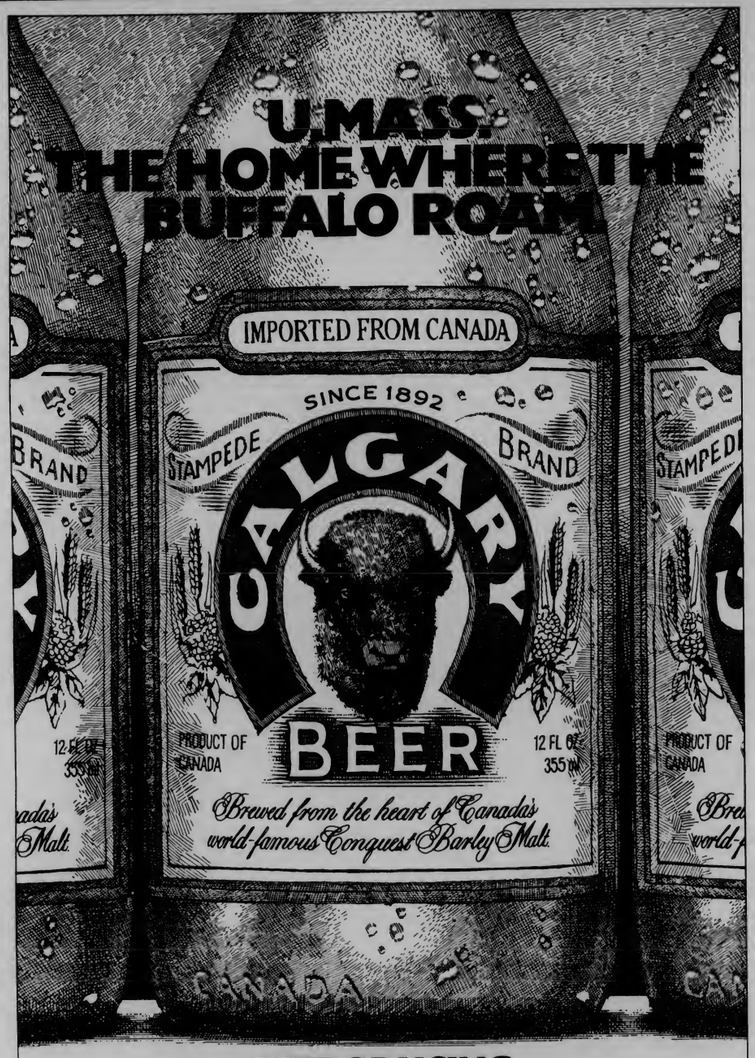
across
E. Pleasant St.



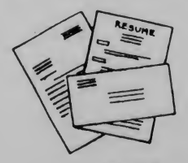
HAPPY HOUR
7 days a week!
3-7 p.m.

Tuesday Night ...
LADIES' NIGHT
— draught beer 50¢
— domestic beers $1.00
— most mixed drinks $1.00
(3 p.m.-10 p.m.)

• pizzas • grinders • burgers •
• salads • soups • chili •
• calzones • steak sandwiches •

1 Bridge St., Northampton
586-1726
Hrs.: 11 a.m.-1 a.m. daily

U.MASS.
THE HOME WHERE THE BUFFALO ROAM

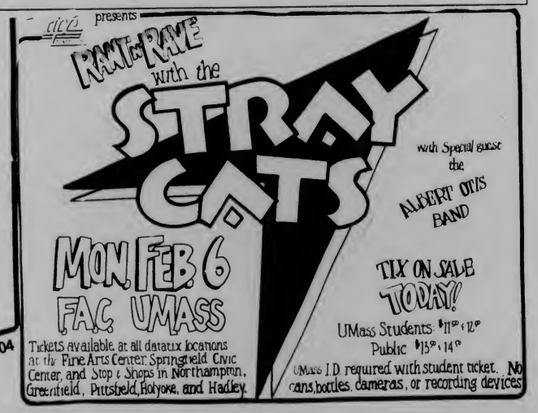


INTRODUCING
CALGARY CANADIAN BEER.

Calgary Canadian is a rich, hearty-tasting beer brewed from the heart of Canada's world-famous Conquest Barley Malt. Ask for it at your favorite watering hole.

Imported by Miller Brewing Company, Milwaukee, WI • 1983

Return of the. . .
JOB APPLICATION PACKAGE



- Letter
- Resume
- Envelope

matching papers & typestyles

Word Processing can help you get a job

549-6310 wordpro 358 N. Pleasant, # 104 Amherst

UM grad may host show

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Susan Roche used to have "this constant thing" with her mother about submitting an entry to a local Boston television program's contest to co-host the show for a night.

"Finally, (I thought) she's not going to do it, so I'll do it," said Roche, who used the family joke to compose her 25-word-maximum entry and is now one of four finalists in the Evening Magazine contest.

Roche, a 1981 graduate of the University of Massachusetts whose maiden name is Scollins, will debut on the WBZ-TV show tonight, when auditions of the final four are broadcast at 7:30. Final selection of the guest to co-host the nightly show Feb. 13 will be made by the audience, who can call in their votes to a toll-free number to be announced during the show.

Roche's entry, sent in the form of a Western Union telegram, was one of 12 selected from 7,000 submissions, said Jane Stevens, the Evening Magazine production secretary. It read, "Mother considers hosting show necessary rite of passage stop If I'm not selected will shall be redrawn stop I stand to lose a fortune stop."

"This just gives me another outlet to broaden my horizons in communications," said the communications studies graduate who now works for a Hingham advertising firm. "It's great. I'm very excited."

Roche auditioned Saturday with show co-host Barry Nolan after being given a script to prepare in advance. Judges Norma Nathan, gossip columnist for the Boston Herald, Harry Ellis Dickson of the Boston Pops and Lisa Lipps of radio station WXKS 108 FM then selected the four whose screen tests will air tonight.

Roche will vie for the guest spot with other entrants Pru Bonham, Barry Katz and John Allen.

Doors adjusted for disabled

By JOYCE RINES
Collegian Correspondent

Adjustments were made last week to doors in Brett House dormitory which were found to be inaccessible to handicapped students last semester when the doors were installed.

The process to adjust the dormitory's side doors, which did not comply with handicapped height and mechanism regulations, began three weeks before intersession. The doors can now be opened automatically by a switch box, which operates like a an automatic garage door opener. Students take controls with them, instead of a key, and by pressing a button the door is unlocked automatically for 30 seconds.

"With the old doors, the student would turn the key in the lock with one hand and push the door with the other," said Daniel Curley, resident director of Brett.

"Obviously, this can't be done in the case of a handicapped student.

"I believe it is an experiment," Curley said, "to see if this particular system should be used in all the dorms which house handicapped students."

According to Paul Appleby, director of the Handicapped Student Affairs Office, the new system will be quite costly.

"Although it will be expensive, there is a definite trade-off here," Appleby said. Ideally, handicapped students will eventually have electric sliding doors in most of the University's larger buildings, such as the Campus Center, he said.

Cliff Kerr, a handicapped Brett resident, said that when dormitory security began at 8 p.m., he was forced to enter the building through the main entrance, where it could be slippery.

"With the new system, handicapped students can enter through the back door which is a lot safer," Kerr said. "It (the door opener) is easy to work, and is definitely a more intelligent solution to our problem."

Kerr said he is happy with the effort made by the University to settle the issue.

"Curley talked to each of us individually to ask what we thought of the situation," he said.

While he is happy with his dormitory's accessibility, Kerr said he feels the doors in the Campus Center and Student Union Building should be changed.

"Right now, I have to go through the hotel and take the elevator down to get into the Campus Center," he said.

POSITIONS: Anchors News Writers
Reporters Camera Operators
WHERE: Campus Center Room 803
WHEN: Friday, Feb. 3, 1984 3 P.M.

BODY SHOP

$7.00 off
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
$7.00 off
regular $45.00 NOW $38.00
up to 17 weeks of workouts

15% Discount
Spring Semester Memberships

NOPE
M-F 7:30-9 am 12-1 pm 4-6 pm 7-9 pm
Sat 1-4
Bring this ad to the BODY SHOP for 15% discount offer expires on Feb. 7 (9 pm)
Boyden
M-F 7-9 am 12-1 pm 4-6 pm

Greek Life
- an experience
- a reward
- a lifetime
SORORITY RUSH
Register Now!
Campus Center Concourse
for more information call
Greek Affairs call 545-2711

PERSONALIZED
STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00 (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610
FREE CONSULTATIONS

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
FRI. 2/3
ROBIN LANE and The CHARTBUSTERS
A Boston Rock & Roll Tradition!

EDITORIAL/OPINION

The truth about Jackson

Jesse Jackson's bold and audacious bid for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency has excited much press coverage and discussion. Yet, or perhaps for that reason, it is widely misunderstood and misrepresented. This is unfortunate, because as I shall show, it is potentially the most important development in the entire campaign. Certainly, it gives students — and because of the timing of the state primary — students in Massachusetts, a remarkable opportunity to influence the Democratic Party and the course of the nation, if they choose to take it.

Michael Thelwell

For this reason it is important that we understand exactly what this candidacy means to the political life of the nation through the potential effect of the movement he calls the Rainbow Coalition. First, look at what we have. "For young people in the morning of their lives" as Rev. Jackson is fond of saying, the behavior and attitudes of the Reagan administration cannot be reassuring. What are we to make of a President in his first term — knowing he had to face the electorate again — who has:

- Fought inflation by creating a depression which put nearly ten million of his countrymen out of work?
- Mortgaged our futures — after solemnly promising to balance the budget by 1984 — by creating the largest federal deficits in history?
- Unleashed a James Watt to rape the wilderness reserves and bring the environmental cleanup program to a virtual halt?
- Reduced corporate taxes, while cutting every program including financial aid to students that helped poor people climb out of poverty?
- Created a profound sense of national insecurity by a foreign policy which restores military draft registration while deploying American servicemen to the Middle East, and Central America, invading Grenada, and deploying nuclear missiles to Europe?
- Cuts economic, cultural, educational and agricultural programs to the Third World while increasing military aid to countries that need schools and tractors more than tanks and guns?
- Supported oppressive and murderous dictatorships while abandoning the human rights initiatives of the previous administration?

These actions suggest that the administration is totally insensitive to the concerns of America's young, or the needs and suffering of America's poor. Expecting us to vote for him again indicates that he has no respect for either our intelligence or our political ability. If Reagan could do all this knowing he has to face reelection, can you imagine what he will do if we are foolish or apathetic enough to allow him a second term when he will be unaccountable to anyone? Really think about that.

As Rev. Jackson says, "Reagan has made the country and the world a more dangerous and painful place. If America is standing tall, it is standing on very thin ice." And to all this the Democratic response has been timorous and ineffectual. That is why he has entered the race, to raise the issues in a powerful and clear way and because "nearly half of the voting age population are so disenchanted they think voting is worthless."

We must remember that Reagan was elected by less than 25 percent of the voting age population. Most Americans did not vote for him, they voted against the unfortunate Jimmy Carter or stayed home. It was the smallest turnout in recent presidential elections. For example, in Massachusetts Reagan won by a margin of 2,500 votes, less than the graduate student population of this school. There were more than 20,000 unregistered minorities and God knows how many unregistered students in the state. In Mississippi where Reagan's margin was 7,000 there are over 50,000 discouraged and turned-off blacks who are not registered. And so it goes, Reagan won thirteen states where the number of unregistered blacks alone was more than double his margin of victory.

By his candidacy Jackson is giving those unregistered black Americans a reason and inspiration to enter the political process. He has brought lift, energy, enthusiasm and hopefulness to those communities that is of an intensity not seen since the heroic days of the Civil Rights Movement. He is giving students a reason to enter also. This is important not only for blacks, minorities or students, but for the Democratic process of the entire nation. We must keep it going.

But Jackson has the potential to do much more than that. To the extent that students, women, blacks, hispanics and all other excluded people come together, register, vote and send Jackson to the convention at the head of a great coalition of new voters we will be sending a clear and unequivocal message to both parties. The message is, "we, the people whom Reagan discounts are the margin of victory. We may not be able to select a president, but we can determine who he will not be. United we are a powerful force in the nation's politics. WE MUST BE TAKEN SERIOUSLY," something neither party has done before.

Because this is a predominantly white state with an early primary, our students can have a disproportionate influence in keeping this movement going. The students of this school joining with other students around the state can show the nation that Jackson is more than the candidate of black America, and the Rainbow Coalition more than a dream. We really have that opportunity. Here is what Jackson said in a letter to you:

Every generation has the challenge to creatively address the cutting social, economic and political issues of its day. The year 1984 ushers in an opportunity to redirect the course of this nation. Just as the student leaders of the 60's sat-in and fought for civil rights and against an unjust war in Vietnam, you as a student leader of the 80's have the opportunity to stand up and fight for social, economic and political justice.

I seek the presidency to serve the nation at a level where I can restore a moral tone, a redemptive spirit, and sensitivity to the poor and dispossessed of this nation. I want this nation to again become the hope of the free world..... to encourage nearly half of the voting age population who are so disenchanted that they think voting is worthless to again believe in the promise and performance of the democratic process. Finally, I seek the presidency because of the urgent need to inspire the young to hold fast to the American dream and assume their rightful place in the political process.

...Because young people are an integral part of the future of this nation and should help in the growth and development of it."

Michael Thelwell is a professor of Afro-American studies at UMass

Editorial Notes

On Election '84 Teach-ins

For concerned members of the UMass community, I have a suggestion for a logical first step in encouraging increased student participation in this crucial election year.

It is: To organize a teach-in devoted to exploring extensively the range of issues involving election year, 1984.

Now the teach-in concept has, of course, proven to be quite useful in the context of broadening the academic community's involvement in the social and political events of the times, most notably around crucial issues like the Vietnam War, and more recently, the threat of nuclear war.

In this tradition, the reason for a UMass teach-in on election year 1984 is quite simple. The first step in getting people involved with the issues that affect their lives is getting them interested. Getting them interested, in turn, often involves simply educating them about how seemingly abstract or distant decisions affect their lives.

A teach-in on election year 1984 would be an excellent forum to discuss and debate a whole range of important contemporary issues. It could be divided into two sections, education and action.

In the education section, workshops and panels could be held on such topics as contemporary American political history, nuclear politics, the current state of the Civi Rights and Women's Movement, the direction of U.S. foreign policy, and a history of student political participation.

In the action section, workshops could deal with how to organize and participate in voter registration drives, how students can become involved in local, state, and national level political decision-makinl, and possible careers in government service or politics.

To make things interesting, the teach-in could kick-off with a big debate between, say, proponents of the Democratic and Republican Party philosophies. The planners of the teach-in would have to work out some sort of format for the inclusion of third party representation. Also, the teach-in should probably focus on the issues and competing political philosophies in contemporary American politics. It shouldn't focus on the specific personalities involved in running for office, except in appropriate forums such as a panel on the Reagan years. An election year teach-in is not a candidates' forum.

Such teach-ins, if they were held all over the country, could serve the important function of increasing the political awareness and general knowledge of this generation of students. This in turn would most assuredly lead to an increased level of student involvement, for it is cynicism fed in large measure by ignorance, rather than apathy, that has greatly contributed to the political alienation which we all know is so prevalent today.

by Jackson Katz
UMass class of '82

How we can help you... and how you can help us

One would like to think a new semester starts with a clean slate. Hopefully, for most of us, the fall term set the groundwork for a constructive, positive year in the academic and social environment of the state's largest public university--but if not, now is the time to start anew. But there are some for whom it will be virtually impossible to really start over, to escape the stigma of past injustices that will follow them throughout their college career.

Yvette Henry is one such person. After being charged with setting one of the 16 minor, suspicious fires in her dormitory last semester, her name became a household word. The charges against her were eventually dropped for lack of evidence--on the last day of the semester, no less--and her suspension scratched from her record. But the harm--the humiliation, degradation, shame--has been done.

Michael Briggs is another such student. He was accused of attempting to rape a young woman, but his charges were also dropped. But he too is now infamous--if only within the University community, whereas Henry went national--for a crime of which she was legally cleared.

The media, the Collegian included, had a lot to do with informing the community of these arrests. Some people say we convicted the suspects by using their names and making their arraignments big news. That was not our intent, nor is the allegation true.

As the student newspaper on this campus, our goal is to inform the public of prominent news events affecting the lives of people of the University--the bad news, as well as the good. It is unfortunate officials found it necessary to seek charges against those accused before having sufficient evidence for prosecution--moves which resulted in damaging the reputations and self-respect of those individuals charged. But crimes of such magnitude as arson during an arson crisis and attempted rape must be reported to the public which they affect.

Well, another semester is underway, and we can all expect a fun — and controversy-filled time. Issues both local and national demand our attention from the UMass budget to asbestos, and from nuclear war to the Presidential primaries.

It is the purpose of the Collegian (particularly the editorial page) to generate discussion on these issues so that we may all understand them better, help influence issues that affect us.

In order to do this, we must hear from you. If you see something, in the paper, or just in your daily activities that catches your attention, drop us a letter or a column. You don't necessarily have to disagree--write about things you agree with or support as well. We're just as interested in presenting the good news as we are with the bad.

If you are really interested in what's going on come down to the Collegian. Be a reporter, a columnist, a photographer, or a member of the business or graphics department. With over 200 people working here every semester, you can find lots of interesting things to do and meet interesting people, both on the staff and on assignment. Most of all, you'll gain a sense of accomplishment from participating in the news organization on campus and the five-college area (We're also the biggest college daily in New England). Just like the Marines, we're looking for many good people.

This is the year 1984, as everyone knows. Unlike the book of the same name, we still have the ability to speak and think freely, without fear of recrimination. But things are getting worse, thanks in part to a growing tide of conservatism in the country, a country whose president calls a nuclear missile "a peacekeeper." It is up to us to put an end to it - doublespeak - by speaking out for what we believe, and by attacking the encroachment of control that restricts our individual freedoms. Last semester, we all saw "The Day After." This semester, we all should start thinking about how to prevent it.

Jackson and his vision

Like a lightening bolt from the sky Rev. Jesse Jackson's bid for the presidency of the United States has struck the American establishment. The first black man ever to run for president has already challenged the militarist foreign policy of the Reagan administration by securing the release of Navy pilot Robert Goodman from the Syrians. He has challenged the Democratic Party structure assuring that his "Rainbow Coalition" of the disenfranchised, women, blacks, hispanics, young people and senior citizens, will at the very least force a re-organization of the party hierarchy to include all of us in this country's decision making process. Jesse Jackson has stirred hope in many people because he has boldly re-introduced many of the fundamental issues that we all face back into the conventional, sterile forum of American electoral politics.

Paul Hetznecker

Like many of the other Democratic candidates, Jackson supports the de-escalation of Reagan's nuclear arms race. But unlike most of the others, he calls for unspecified but significant cuts in defense spending, which would not only decrease the threat of nuclear war but reduce federal deficits as well. This position swiftly undercuts the cold war paranoia which has been used for decades to further the interests of the military-industrial complex while at the same time exposing the major reason for billion dollar deficits and the only practical solution to the problem.

Jackson's use of diplomacy over militarism in the Middle East may have helped to decrease the Reagan Administration's inclination to maintain U.S. occupational forces in Lebanon. More importantly, his mission has awakened this country and the world to an alternative U.S. approach toward world politics. Jackson has stated that there are too many factors involved in the Middle East to simply rely on a military solution. A broader perspective would better serve U.S. interests in the Middle East, as it would in Central America. He cites poverty, injustice and the struggle for self-determination as important factors in world politics that must be recognized by the United States government, both here and abroad.

Across the board all the issues are united by a common one, and that is the issue of power and decision making. According to Jackson the crisis in American politics is a conflict between democracy and technocracy and the only way out is full participation of Americans, the disenfranchised millions in the electoral process. This is where he comes up short. It would be naive to believe that a restructuring of American society with the outcome a more equitable and just society can occur simply through the ballot box no matter who is running,. That, however, is not really the intent of Jesse Jackson's campaign. His intent is to mobilize the majority of Americans into participating in the American establishment.

Jesse Jackson is a man with a vision, a humanist. He is a man who has infused values into the framework of twentieth century Superpower politics. He is one who has challenged all Americans to take another chance, maybe the last chance, to create change within the system. His call may be too late, and his quest naive, but his vision is good. So over the course of the next few months, listen to him, watch the ripples that occur, and give it some thought. For he speaks the truth, or as near to the truth as it can be spoken by any of those who bid for power in this country.

Paul Hetznecker is a Collegian correspondent

Ignorance in the classroom

She was early — give her that. Carolyn wasn't. Carolyn evidently was the girl she was supposed to have come to class with, but she couldn'ta come, Debbie said, 'cause she hadda go to some economics professah and talk about her grade.

Mary Cresse

Diane listened but said nothing. She nodded.

This is an easy A if I evah sawr one, don't you think, Diane. Huh.

Diane nodded her head and checked her compact mirror to see if her bangs fell over her left eyebrow.

Diane. Diane.

Sssshhhhh, Debbie, he's tryina speak. Lemme listen.

Debbie nodded her head.

Debbie looked at [illegible]'s notebook and tried to [illegible]

[illegible] was [illegible] by a moving hand. it had no rings and the thumbnail needed to be filed.

"fantasy must be rooted in reality," Debbie wrote.

"In that kind of literary structure," the professor was saying, "it is imperative for the character to show basic sensual emotions."

"Basic sensual emotions," the hand wrote.

Debbie looked at the notebook again. She couldn't quite see. "Basic sexual emotions," she wrote.

Twenty more minutes. Diane. Hey, Diane.

What? I'm tryina listen.

Tonight's Pub Mug Night. Fifty-cent drafts. Wanna go? Yeah. Pause. Nod. Yeah. Nod. Nod.

"And for the required reading," the professor said, "we'll touch mainly upon children's literature and stories, among them Curious George, Pippi Longstocking, and Amelia Bedelia...Maybe five of these a week, accompanying criticism..."

Debbie pulled out a stick of Wrigley. She dipped a finger on the sugar and licked it off, then broke the slice and ate it. The foil was wrinkly. Debbie smoothed it out, pulled apart the green cover wrapper and matched up the pieces until they formed a square. She thought of making a chain but she only had four pieces. She crumpled up the paper and stuck it between two ridges of the radiator. She pointed her toe and looked at her feet.

"Class dismissed."

Diane.

Yeah.

Forget this crap. I'm gonna take this pass/fail. I can't take all that readin'. Let's go for some coffee.

Yeah.

Mary Cresse is a Collegian staff member

Letters

SAFA criticism was unjust

To the Editor,

Mr. Barrett, let me assure you that SAFA is in no way affiliated with a Communist organization, nor are we "a group of glossy-eyed liberal dreamers," as you have suggested.

Though we do work with USSA to a certain extent (a USSA representative was one of many who spoke before our group), by no stretch of the imagination are they our "guiding light."

As a campus-based organization, we believe that our lobbying efforts benefit the majority of students at UMass, as 85 percent of them receive some type of financial assistance.

You revolve your article around USSA and the faults you believe they have. Mr. Barrett, SAFA and USSA are two separate organizations. Our focus is on students seeking financial assistance.

While SAFA might seem like a microcosm of USSA, I can tell you it is not. SAFA, Students Advocating Financial Aid, is working so that all students may continue their education. We are proud of what we have accomplished.

Our office at 428 S.U.B. will be opening up for the semester early next week. Our phone number there is 545-0306. Please call me if you have any further questions.

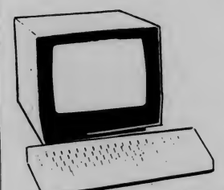
Cynthia Howland
Acting President
Students Advocating Financial Aid

We need columnists Come on down!

Letters Policy

All letters must be signed and include the writer's address and telephone number, which will not be published. Please type double spaced at 67 characters per line. Due to space limitations and the volume of mail, we regret we are unable to acknowledge unpublished letters. All letters are subject to editing for clarity and length.

COMPUTER WORKS
AMHERST'S FINEST MICROCOMPUTING CENTER
MON-SAT 10:00-5:00
266 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 01002
253-5673



★★WELCOME BACK★★
Spring Semester Rentals

VIC-20
The friendly computer

Commodore Terminal Package
includes Computer, B & W TV, cassette recorder, 40 col. software, modem and more $100.* per semester

OR
80 col. 12" CRT,
300 baud modem,
numeric keypad
$135.*

OR
RCA-APT 80 col. terminal with built in 300 baud modem, printer interface, choice of 9" green or amber monitor, keypad, function keys, and more!
$150.*

* Rental prices do not include sales tax, security deposit or optional delivery charge.

guaranteed lowest price!

Permalens®
Extended Wear Contact Lenses

$99 now just

Buying contacts and eyeglasses is easy as AVC.

And now, American Vision Centers has made buying Permalens® Extended Wear contact lenses even easier. We've lowered the price to just $99. That's the lowest price we've ever offered and it's the lowest price in the city. We guarantee it!

New purchases only • Limit one pair per customer • Cannot be used in conjunction with other discounts or specials

Permalens® Extended Wear Contact Lenses
$99
Regular $149
"The lenses you can sleep with" 30 day trial wearing plan • Full credit within 30 days on lenses only if not satisfied • Eye exam, professional and fitting fees not included • SPH lenses only
Coupon must be presented at time of purchase
Expires 2/29/84 DC

Soft Contact Lenses
$55
A full refund on the cost of the lenses if not satisfied • Professional and fitting fees not included.
Coupon must be presented at time of purchase
Expires 2/29/84 DC

SAVE
33⅓% on frames
With purchase of complete pair of eyeglasses
50% OFF FRAMES
on second pair of eyeglasses (not to exceed value of 1st pair) with purchase of complete pair.
Coupon must be presented at time of purchase
Expires 2/29/84 DC

AMERICAN VISION CENTERS
great eye care · great eyewear
Hampshire Mall, Hadley • 584-7958 • Open M-Sat 10-9
Major credit cards accepted

IBM

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
0 SENIORS
0 GRADUATE STUDENTS
0 ALL ENGINEERING AND SCIENTIFIC DISCIPLINES, INCLUDING: ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, COMPUTER SCIENCE, COINS, MATH MAJORS WITH DATA PROCESSING SKILLS

Announcing IBM's Technical Career Information and Sign-Up Day

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1984
11:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.
CAMPUS CENTER, ROOM 101

COME INFORMALLY ANY TIME DURING THE HOURS INDICATED ABOVE AND LEARN ABOUT TECHNICAL AND MARKETING CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN IBM FROM MANY DIFFERENT LOCATIONS. THEN SIGN-UP ON PERMANENT INTERVIEW SCHEDULES OF YOUR CHOICE FOR FORMAL INTERVIEWS TO TAKE PLACE ON FEBRUARY 9 AND 10, 1984. THIS WILL BE YOUR ONLY OPPORTUNITY TO SIGN-UP FOR SPRING IBM SCHEDULES.

BRING 3 COPIES OF YOUR RESUME AND TRANSCRIPT FOR ADMITTANCE

CITIZENSHIP OR PERMANENT RESIDENCE REQUIRED FOR INTERVIEWS

IBM is an equal opportunity employer

Arts

To be or not to be...

JOURNEY TO BE
by Albert Krassner
133 pages. $12.95. Hardback
Veridon Editions

By DAVID TAYLOR
Collegian Staff

There seems to be a strong literary tradition in America which supports a transition for middle-aged business from their involvement in tertiary industries into the world of poetry. In ostensibly the same vein as insurance-salesman Wallace Stevens, Veridon Editions have entered the publishing stakes by offering us Albert Krassner, "successful lawyer, father of five children, owner of a home in suburbia, pilot of his own airplane--and still restless, unsatisfied."

From deep discussions with his secretary, Krassner it seems began attending discussion groups and meditation classes to search for a meaning to life. As a means of expressing himself he turned to poetry - "short, pithy poems about his innermost feelings and concerns about his growing relationship to God." By 1981 he had amassed fourteen hundred poems or so, and after editing it is these poems which form Journey To Be.

Essentially then, Journey To Be would appear to be a valuable documentation of an American's spiritual self-discovery. What better medium than 'pithy' poetry to convey what Mr. Krassner felt as he followed his quest for the meaning of life? But unfortunately, Krassner approaches his medium as a lawyer, not a poet. The verse is crass to say the least:

I'm a loner — apparently Doing my thing — purposefully
Do I want to? Do I agree?
It doesn't seem to matter...
It's beyond me.

The style would be almost juvenile but for the constant painful rhymes between four or five syllabled words. The poetry itself shows no growth or development alongside Krassner's experience--from beginning to end it is flat, drab and awkward:

Pity man
Man — what a pity!
Caught up
In life's nitty-gritty!

Can't see the larger play
Thinks it's only the mind to obey!

Alongside the poetry are quotes from Tennyson (!), the bible and assorted pearls of wisdom from Krassner's guru.

As a literary work or even the documentation of an experience for the solace of others Journey To Be fails miserably. But the volume does have a saving grace--it is perhaps one of the best exercises in slick graphics to be produced for a long while. Veridon Editions used Arcorisis, an award-winning graphics studio in Mexico, to layout the book.

An integration of text a monochrome photographs within a square gray grid on each page makes the book visually interesting and gives the volume as a whole an appeal which by far surpasses its subject. It is a shame that other, more valid poets do not exploit a similar presentation approach, because Krassner's doodlings are definitely unworthy of such a captivating design. Alas, Mr. Krassner should have kept to writing lawsuits for his talent lies elsewhere than in literary expression.

artslines...

Auditions will be held for Obotunde Ijimere's Woyengi for black men and women on February sixth and seventh from 4:30 to 5:30 and 7:30 to 9:30 in the Hallie Flanagan Studio Theater at Smith College.

●

Auditions will be held for Tennessee Williams' A Lovely Sunday for Creve Coeur, with roles for four women, on February sixth and seventh in room 08 of the UMass Fine Arts Center.

●

Also on February sixth and seventh, in room 204 of the Fine Arts Center, auditions will be held for Fifth of July by Lanford Wilson. There are roles for four men and four women, and those wishing to audition must sign up for a time on the sheets posted outside the main office of the Department of Theater.

The extraordinary self-proclaimed "barroom, danceband pianist" Dave McKenna will pounce on the Ironhorse cafe Sunday night. There will be two shows, at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tickets are $7.00, available in advance from the Ironhorse, or at the door.

Now more than ever

REAL PEACE
by Richard M. Nixon
Little Brown & Co.,
107 pages, $12.95

By STEVEN BARRETT
Collegian Staff

Since war and peace will be a paramount issue in this year's election, former President Richard Nixon's latest book Real Peace should be given a close look.

When Nixon originally published this book early last Fall, he did so privately. Alarmed about the deterioration of U.S. - Soviet relations, and the constant flow of misinformation surrounding and often clouding this issue, Nixon decided to by-pass the publishing houses at first. He was impatient, and in a hurry to influence those in high government positions, the media, and academia who could best understand how to shape and direct foreign policy decisions.

After reading this short, yet well-written book, I began to wonder how many people would take his message seriously; especially here in an academic environment. (Nixon was never popular on college campuses, particularly at campuses in the Northeast, including U-Mass.)

For many in the media and academic circles, Nixon is often remembered for widening the Vietnam War, secretly bombing Laos and Cambodia, the Christmas bombing of Hanoi in 1972 (which his critics have an extremely difficult time admitting helped to end our involvement in the Vietnam War), and the near show-down with the Soviets during the climatic moments of the Yom Kippur War in 1973.

Is this the kind of background you would expect to find in a man who had just written a book about achieving peace? Perhaps not; no more than you would expect to learn that Mahatmas Gandhi was an unabashed militarist and pro-British imperialist in South Africa before his run-in with the government in that former British colony. Both men, however, would feverently address the war and peace issue later, each in his different way.

What kind of a peace do we seek or need? Is it a just peace--or just any peace? Do we seek real peace--or a perfect peace? In the first chapter, Nixon surgically dissects the difference between what he defines as "real" peace and "perfect" peace.

"Because of the realities of human nature, perfect peace is achieved in two places only: in the grave and at the typewriter.

Real peace, on the other hand, will be the down to earth product of the real world, manufactured by realistic, calculating leaders whose sense of their nation's self-interest is diamond hard and unflinching."

This sound rationale might not set well with the more dreamy-eyed members of the so-called "peace movements." Nonetheless, Nixon's observations can be backed up by reviewing history, which according to the author, "is a pathetic junkyard of broken treaties."

Throughout real Peace, Nixon strongly advocates a "hard-headed detente" (one combined with a credible deterrance); summitry with the Soviets (but not without extensive preparations first); good relations with the People's Republic of China; and to "address ourselves to the conditions in the Third World that bring about conflict and war." (Nixon believes the greatest threat to peace will come from this area.)

After reading Real Peace, I couldn't help wondering if the many people who completely misjudged Nixon for being an unremitting and narrow-minded "cold-war warrior" in the not-so-distant past, would feel the same toward him after reading this book. Consider his opening sentences, and judge for yourself:

"There can be no real peace in the world unless a new relationship is established between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"The two superpowers cannot afford to go to war against each other, at any time or under any circumstances. Each side's vast military power makes war obsolete and an instrument of national policy. The cost to both sides of a full-scale conventional or nuclear war would far exceed any conceivable results."

Real Peace has only two flaws--yet both are totally understandable. Nixon vigorously stressed the need for a summit between Presidents Reagan and Andropov.

But this was written before Andropov's "illness" became more serious and widely known. (No one can, nor should blame Reagan for not going to the summit with a man who is gravely ill, and whose grasp of control is shaky at best.)

Secondly, this book is too short. (Perhaps I am just too used to good ideas contained in longer and more formal books that I can't recognize a gift horse or book when I see one.)

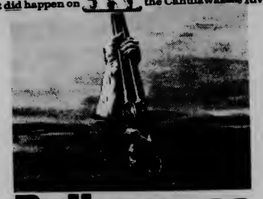
Real Peace is, however, a gift--a gift of reason, hope and foresight. Despite whatever "sins" Nixon committed in the past, his book should be considered as must reading for any serious student of political affairs.

UNIVERSITY OF MASS AT AMHERST
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall

Second Prize International American Music Competition
Diana Walker, Soprano
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 8 PM
TICKETS: $5.00

"A GREAT EVENING IN THE THEATRE" N.Y. Times
MUMMENSCHANZ
Swiss Mime-Mask Theatre
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 8 PM
TICKETS: $9, $7, $5

GUARNERI TRING QUARTET
WORLD'S MASTER OF CHAMBER MUSIC Time Magazine
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 8 PM
TICKETS: $11, $9, $7



Five-College Students Half-Price Tickets Available at Fine Arts Center Box Office, DATATIX Outlets and Springfield Civic Center Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

REPLACE YOUR LOST OR DAMAGED CONTACT LENSES
Bausch & Lomb or AOSoft $25.
Price of other brands on request
We need your contact lens prescription and will have your lens in 2-3 days.
Norman Spencer MD
170 University Dr. 256-8561

HEAD FOR THE MOUNTAINS
UMASS SKI CLUB
Thurs. Night Skiing
Feb. 2 at Mt. Tom
$9. includes lifts, refreshments & transportation
for more info 545-3437

SAVE
on Paperbacks
over 30,000 now in stock on all subjects
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Fri
10-5 Sat
12:30-5 Sun
549-6052

What did happen on the Cahulawassee River?

Deliverance
DATE: Feb. 2, 1984
TIME: 4:15, 6:30, 8:45, 11:00
Sponsored by Hamlin Dorm

ANNOUNCING: Peer Education Recruitment

University Health Services offers Spring 1984 credited course work as:
★ Peer Sexuality Educators
★ Peer Alcohol Educators
★ Health Aides and
★ HealthReach Workers
Training and working with others to round out your University experience:
INQUIRE OR APPLY AT HEALTH EDUCATION/549-2671 ext. 181

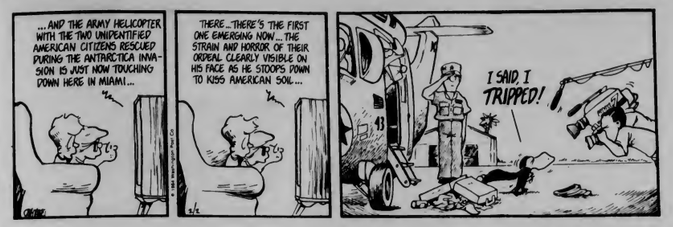
The Department of Dramatic Arts & Dance of Amherst College presents
The Threepenny Opera
by Bertolt Brecht & Kurt Weill
Directed by Walter Boughton
February 3, 4, 5 February 9, 10, 11
Kirby Theater
8:00 P.M.
General Admission $4.00
Students & Senior Citizens $2.00
Box office hours 1-5 daily
Reservations: 542-2277

Emergency Medical Technician Course
130 hr. course Tuition $200.00 Lab Fee $50.00
Classes begin 2/2/84, Chenoweth Lab Rm 227, meets Tues. and Thurs. 6:30-10 PM. For more information or to register call 584-2391 leave message.
Sponsored by UMass Fire and First Aid Unit

SALE
20 - 50% off most winter clothing
20 - 30% off selected Chinese shoes
Posters Mugs India Prints Bedspreads - Rugs - Valentines
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
GREAT GIFTS — GREAT PRICES
Open Daily 10 am - 5:30 pm

KAYPRO II, $1595. COMPLETE WITH SOFTWARE.

For $1595, a Kaypro II not only comes complete with all the hardware you need, it comes complete with all the software you need:
• Word Processing/Spelling • Data Base Management (filing/reporting) • Financial Spreadsheeting. And with CP/M, Kaypro can run thousands of other programs for more specialized needs. Come in today for a complete demonstration.
KAYPRO The Complete Business Computer.
1073 St. James Ave. Springfield, MA 01104 413-737-4562
Mountain Farms Mall - Rt. 9 Hadley, MA 01035 413-584-3933
STUDENT and FACULTY DISCOUNTS AVAILABLE
Registered Trademarks of CP/M - Digital Research Inc.



Give us the Business
Just a selection of the stuff we're made of!

	orig.	OURS
Anthropology For the Eighties - Cole	13.95	7.00
Elements of Econometrics - Kmenta	31.95	16.00
Methods of Social Research - 2nd edit.	21.95	10.99
The Western Heritage - Kagan	20.00	9.99
The Nature & Properties of Soil - 8th edit.	27.95	13.98
Norton Anthology of Poetry		5.99
Creative Mental Growth - 7th edit.	24.98	12.50
Sister Carrie - Dreiser	2.25	1.00
The Prince - Machiavelli	1.95	.99
Souls of Black Folk - W.E. Dubois	2.50	1.25
Parzival - Von Esenbach	5.95	2.99
Leviathan - Hobbes	3.95	1.99
Four Major Plays - Ibsen	2.25	1.00
The Forest People - Turnball	3.95	1.99
The Varieties of Religious Exper. - James	3.50	1.75

Hurry while the supplies last. . . Open: This week Mon-Sat 10-8
We also carry a full line of Shakespeare signet classics $1.00-$1.25. We carry everything from computer and medical books to bestsellers and university press releases. Come see!
The Reading Remedy
NEW BOOKS AT HALF PRICE
71 N. Pleasant St.

Bloom County- by Berke Breathed

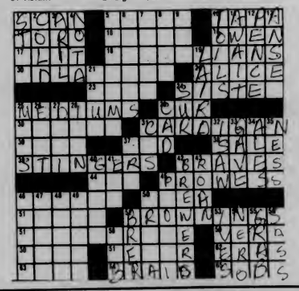
Superbad G.H.

The UMass Zone Mark Rollins

MASS PHOBIA Winmill

The Strip Bert Saveriano and Jim Walsh

Shagnasty



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

© 1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Examine carefully
5 Part of a garment
10 Bark cloth
14 Four-legged performer
15 As —
16 Author Wister
17 Let out
18 Madrileños, for example
20 Ore used to make ornamental objects
22 Shade of blue
23 Layers
24 Novelist Teresa
25 Seance callers
29 Mutt but not Jeff
30 Household adjuncts
31 Sweater type
36 Jeanne d'Arc's vision
37 Poseidon
38 Bargain hunters' paradise
39 Apian defense
42 Ball team
44 Old French coin
45 Expertise
46 Total possessions
50 Tea genus
51 Vibrant
52 Robert and Elizabeth
57 Italian comestible
59 — Cruz
60 Eastern name
62 Historic times
63 Eyrie
64 Plait
65 Sounds of grief

DOWN
1 Staunch
2 Dormant state
3 Seed covering
4 — chance
5 Perfumed accessories
6 Brides' followers
7 Popular colors
8 Der —
9 American architect
10 Works hard and long
11 Expect
12 Part of a pound
13 Goose genus
19 Landowner, along the Clyde
21 Facial feature
24 Big —, Cal
25 Foundation for a ranch house
26 Loblolly, for one
27 "Picnic" author
28 Ruffs
29 Bounder
31 Tooth
32 What "vidi" means
33 Donated
34 Stout and porter
35 Habitat of a "monster"
37 Widebeast
40 Places for berets
41 Diamonds, to a yegg
42 Milwaukee team
43 Paddock dweller
45 Calls
46 De Valera
47 Soft, moist earth
48 Namesakes of Louise
49 Ward off
50 Treasure
52 Title in dialect tales
53 Composer Charles
54 Pianist Peter
55 Type of bag
56 Lip
58 Explosive

Collegian
Recruitment meeting
● Experience
● Involvement
● Excitement
● Open to all majors
Wednesday
Feb. 8
8 pm-9 pm
Room 805 C.C.

Weather

Today, sunny with some afternoon high clouds. Not as cold. Highs mid 20s to mid 30s. Tonight, clouding up with a chance of a few flurries in the interior, a flurry or shower along the coast. Tomorrow, mostly cloudy with a chance of afternoon showers. Milder. Highs upper 30s to mid 40s.

Todays puzzle answer

Charter Travel Time

For hassle-free group travel, call the experts . . . call Travel Time. Before your group plans its next trip—any size group—call us for a price quotation. We'll be happy to quote you our economical rates. No obligation!

Charter Service to all points in the U.S.A. and Canada.

Check out what we offer:
- Luxurious Highway Coaches
- School Buses
- Mini-Buses.

We'll also handle hotel, meal and sightseeing arrangements for your group. Our deluxe highway coaches are climate controlled and restroom equipped.

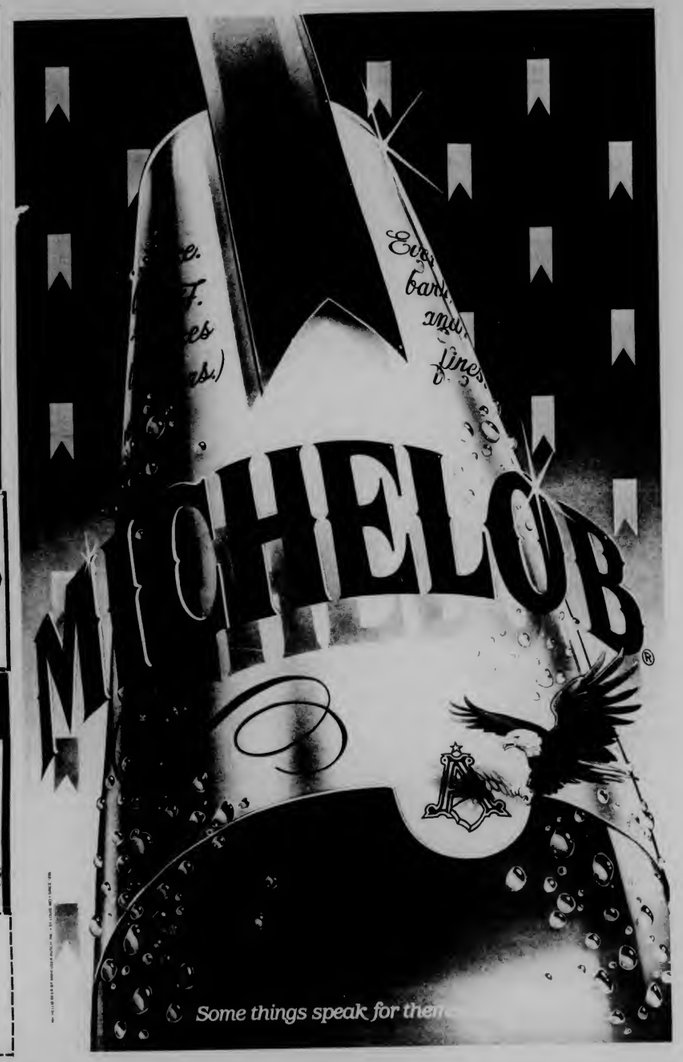
Travel Time Bus Lines, Inc.
99 Arnold Street Springfield, MA
Call: General Office and Charter Service 783-0211
Toll Free in MA 1-800-322-0297

THE WORD IS OUT!
"ROAD WARRIOR"
IS A HIT!

THE ROAD WARRIOR
R

Date: Sunday, Feb. 5, 1984 CC Auditorium
5:00 - $1.00 7, 9, 11 - $1.50
sponsored by Washington Dorm

SOUND in MOTION
THE CAR STEREO SPECIALISTS
321 MAIN STREET • AMHERST MA 01002 • 253-9341



Weekly Specials

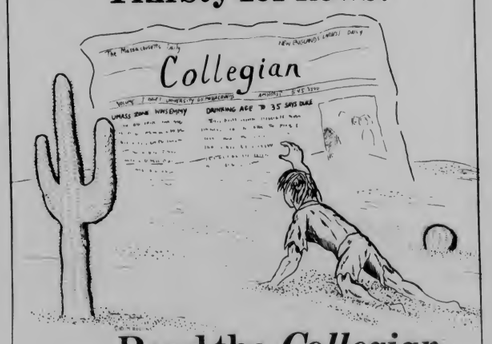
Auto Alarm
Crimestopper current & motion sensing. Passively Arming $159.95 INSTALLED

JVC
16 watt AM FM Cassette with dolby & Metal Tape capability Separate Bass & Treble Speakers included
$199.95 INSTALLED

Whistler Q-1200
Radar Detector $139.95

Sound in Motion's
FREE INSTALLATION WEEK
with the purchase of any car stereo system
Get The Installation Free
253-9341
coupon good till 2/11/84

UNIVERSITY OF MASS AT AMHERST
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall



Second Prize, International American Music Competition

Diana Walker, Soprano

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 8 PM
TICKETS: $5.00

Five-College Students Half-Price Tickets Available at Fine Arts Center Box Office DATATIX Outlets and Springfield Civic Center Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

Thirsty for news?

Read the Collegian

Women take a first, second

By SUE LEVY
Collegian Correspondent

PLYMOUTH, N.H. — The University of Massachusetts women's ski team traveled to Waterville Valley this past weekend winning the slalom by a large 18 second margin and taking a close second to strong Boston College team on Sunday in the giant slalom.

Saturday, UMass dominated the hill by placing four skiers in the top ten out of a field of 45 racers. Laura Hourihan from Boston College won the slalom with a time of 116.21. UMass captain, Sue White (116.73) led the Minutewomen with a second place finish. Teammate Alice Gigliotti followed close behind to take third place. Also skiing fast for UMass were Lisa Tomeck (5th) and Sue Levy (9th).

In Sunday's long giant slalom race, the Minutewomen were just nipped by Boston College 474.83-472.18. Sue White placed second by only one one-hundreth of a second to be the top finisher for UMass. Amy Glackin from Boston College took the top honors to the day. Alice Gigliotti (5th), Lisa H. Tomeck (7th), Bobbi Voll (8th), and Lisa Luczkow (9th) were also steady in the gates for UMass.

The UMass women's ski team races in the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference (WISC). Other teams racing in the WISC include Amherst College, Army, Boston College, Brown University, Smith College, and Plymouth State College. The Minutewomen have been league champions for the past nine years. Thus far in the season the UMass women are ahead with three first place finishes and one second place finish under their belt.

This coming weekend the UMass skiers will travel to Cannon Mountain, New Hampshire where they hope to extend their lead in the league standings.

★ Men's skiing

Continued from page 16

The men lost a close one to PSC in Sunday's giant-slalom, but UMass' Conway skied real well to win the individual title. Conway was in third place after the first run but had the fastest second run of the day for the best combined time. He beat out PSC's Karwoski by less than a second. Teammates Faigel and Segal took 5th and 6th place in their strong finish, while Andy Clarke and Vanderzee also did well for UMass, taking 12th and 14th place.

Overall, UMass lost to PSC by just three-tenths of a second. PSC's team score was 724.53 seconds, UMass had a 724.88 and Boston College took third with a time of 731.83.

AP Laserphoto

RINGING IN THE GAMES — Olympic dancers rehearse in Kosevo Stadium in preparation for next week's opening ceremonies.

Weekend Home Schedule

TONIGHT, Feb. 2
men's basketball - at Penn State, 8 p.m.
SATURDAY, Feb. 4
men's basketball - at URI, 2 p.m.
women's hoop - NORTHEASTERN, 2 p.m., Cage
wrestling - BOSTON COLLEGE, 7 p.m., Boyden Auxiliary Gym
Men's Gymnastics - E. STROUDSBURG, 1 p.m., Boyden Auxiliary Gym.

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ATTENTION: WE'RE HIRING DJ'S

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT is hiring qualified DJ's. Experience preferred, good personality and knowledge of music required. Reply to: Box 48, Amherst, MA 01004

AUTO FOR SALE

Chrome mag rims 14x6 good condition $55 for pair Neal 549-6138

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yermouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

ENTERTAINMENT

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets -ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739

FOR RENT

Mature female, nonsmoker, to share two bedroom apt. on bus route, pool, tennis courts. Rent $185 month includes utilities 665-3031

Parking available 496 No. Pleasant St. next to Newman Center 253-9015

FOR SALE

Pentax ME Super 35mm Camera with 50mm F2 lens and Pentax auto-winder 6 mos. old with all packaging $225.00 see Andy at the Collegian Photo Dept.

5 cubic ft. frig like new $125. call 549-6219 keep trying

Computer terminal, standard type must sell immediately $375 call Rob 586-6889

Twin Mattress and Boxspring, good condition, $20. call 256-0983, weekdays 8 to 10 AM

Refrigeretor for sale. 4.5 cu. ft. twice the size of regular dorm fridges. Only two yrs. old. Excellent cond. $90 or BO call Tom 253-7373

TI - 30 Calculator call Rob at 546-4705

FOUND

Woman's class ring found last semester in SUB. Call 546-7192. Describe it correctly and it's yours.

HELP WANTED

Need cash? Earn $500 + each school year, 2-4 (flexible) hours per week placing and filling posters on campus. Serious workers only; we give recommendations. 1-800-243-6679

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Consulting Experience - Accredited Course - School Education, working with student run businesses. Applications at E.D.O. 409 S.U.B. due by Feb. 8.

Jobs available at Earthfoods student run restaurant collective. Work 8-20 hours, depending on your class schedule. $3.50 hr. MANDATORY non-paid hours include 2-4 hours per week management work and Monday night meetings. Work study O.K. Workers MUST be full-time UMass students. Application deadline: Friday February 3 at 5 p.m. Applications and more information available at Earthfoods Kitchen, 3rd floor, Student Union, around the corner from the ride board. EOE, affirmative action employer

Weekend cook wented at local sorority. Experience wanted. Call 545-0527 for more info.

Kitchen help wanted in exchange for meals (great working conditions!) call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

On campus non work study jobs M-F mornings call 549-6364 ask for Herbert

Position available -- Coordinator --UMass Men's Center. Duties include: coordination of: administrative, programming and outreach, budget & evaluation. 10-15 hrs. week @ 3.35 committment to social issues/awareness a must. Applications and job description available Brett Rm 130

Recycling Coordinators needed for dorms. Earn a credit & a letter of recommendation for volunteering. Recycle newspaper & glass in your dorm! 545-0618, 306 SUB

Kitchen help needed in exchange for free meals Beta Kappa Phi call 253-9071 ask for Stevie D

Waitresses, General Laborers, apply at Rusty Nail, 3 to 5 weekdays

Attention kitchen help needed. Earn $550 in D.C. rebate while gaining full access to fraternity meal plan! For more info call Pike between 9:30-5:00 pm. Ask for Jim. 545-2150

Work for meals and enjoy great company! Sorority needs houseboys call Linda 549-4159

Wanted - underclass Accounting/Business majors for part-time job in a collectively run food store. If you would like to develop practical accounting and organizational skills, apply to Peoples Market, in rear of Student Union by 5 pm Fri, Feb 3. We do not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, national origin, sexual preference or physical handicap.

People's Market, a student-run food store in the rear of the Student Union is now accepting applications for employment. If you would like to work in a collectively run business, gain valuable skills in a friendly atmosphere, pick up an application at the Market by 5 pm Fri, Feb 3. We do not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, national origin, sexual preference or physical handicap.

Experienced reliable childcare sought for 4 yr old call Carolyn 253-3162

Sorority looking for help in kitchen. Lunch & dinner. Call anytime at 545-0320/1. Ask for Peg or Mary.

Earn credits tutoring High School students! For info call 545-2584

INSTRUCTION

Know your car. Basic Automobile Workshop. Classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-2098

LOST

Lost: Gold earring between Lot 25 and South College. Reward. Call Alison 5-0685

Lost during intersession on pr. grey suede leather gloves w/rabbit fur lining. Please call Dave 253-7658

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust
Ft. Lauderdale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down
for more info 545-3437

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
NON-MEMBERS WELCOME
FOR MORE INFO 546-3437

Juniors, Seniors, Grad Students! Enjoy the convenience of your own credit cards at leading department stores, oil companies, and banks. No cost to apply. If you are a Junior, Senior, or Graduate Student, you're eligible. Call TOLL FREE 800-232-1100, M-F, 9 am - 6 pm College Card Corporation "The Most Trusted Name on Campus."

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, Theses, Cases, low rates, on campus 584-7924 Nancy

REFRIGERATORS

2 Refrigeretors - dorm sizes: Cube $50. 3' tall $100. call 549-4585 good condition

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Boston every Thursday after 2 or Friday AM. Return every Sunnday PM or Monday. 546-4316

RIDERS WANTED

To Los Angeles Spring Break leave March 17 - brand new luxury car call Lisa 549-5920

ROOM WANTED

One male looking for an apartment call Gary 546-9762 leave name and number

Single room wanted in house or apt call Rosie 586-7230

Older student seeking reasonably quiet room off campus preferably N. Amherst. Call 549-1168 and ask or leave message for Bob please my igloo is bound to melt sooner or later

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male, one room in two bedroom apartment Brittany Manor 256-1374

Room for two people in in Amherst Fields condo $125 plus utilities 256-6691 after 7:00 pm

SERVICES

Typing. Copies. Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0694 anytime

Holiday clothes need hemming? Area's lowest rates. Experienced seamstress. Joan 549-5548

TYPING fast, reliable, professional. Manuscripts, stats, correspondence, etc. Reasonable rates 665-3414

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley, Instructor. First class meets Wednesday 4 p.m. February 8th. Cost: $55 per semester (includes shirt) beginner and intermediate karate students welcome. Call 256-0080

WANT TO BE A DJ?

WSYL Radio 89.7 needs DJs 1st meeting 2/6 8 pm Ceshire Bsmt call 6-6262 for more info

WANTED

WFCR-FM needs student interns for work in news reporting and station operations. Call the program director at 5-0100

WANTED TO RENT

How does 150$ sound for your apartment for May 26th to June 3rd, help us on that months rent before your summer sublettors come. Call 549-1168

WORK-STUDY HELP WANTED

The Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Comm. has one work-study position for an office assistant. Applicants should have organizing skills, research and writing skills. Deadline for application is Feb 8th 5:00 WMLASC is an AA/EEO employer. Applications available in WMLASC Office 404 Student Union Bldg

Sports

Minutemen out to snap their 33 game road streak

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

At first it was just a statistical curiosity, and now people are starting to notice it with greater frequency - the University of Massachusetts men's basketball team has lost 33 road games in a row.

If there was ever a chance to break this less-than-memorable streak it may come tonight against Penn State as the Minutemen face the Nittany Lions in an Atlantic 10 Conference game.

UMass, 6-10 overall and 2-6 in the league, last won away from the Curry Hicks Cage in January of 1982 with a 57-55 win at Duquesne. Since then...

"I don't let it bother me much," said Coach Ron Gerlufsen. "But I think there's a chance that we can win on the road against Penn State and then build on that victory against the next few teams on our schedule. We need to win this game to have any hope of getting back into the thick of the conference standings."

Penn State will not be any cakewalk for UMass. The Lions have, according to Gerlufsen, "A solid, well-balanced team that plays us tough." The stats back him up.

Penn State has a solid backcourt with senior Wally Choice (14.1 points-per-game) and junior Craig Collins (13.8). The center spot is filled literally by 6-11, 230 pound Dick Mumma, who hauls down close to six rebounds a game.

"They're a space ahead of in the conference, (3-5), so a win would tie us with them and yes, break the streak," Gerlufsen said.

UMass will counter the Lion guards by playing full court pressure defense, unless foul trouble dictates falling into a zone. Center Edwin Green and forwards Horace Neysmith and John Hempel will have to stay clear of trouble if the Minutemen want to keep up the pressure.

Penn State is expected to come out with a full court zone press, employing traps, a 1-3-1 zone and even a man-to-man at times.

"We've got to get them to shoot under 50 percent," noted Gerlufsen. "If the other guy shoots say 50-55 percent you have a hell of a time beating him, that's what we've been stressing this week - defense."

UMass, coming off a home court, (what else?), 77-75 win over Rhode Island, whipped Penn State 84-62 at home last year but managed to drop a 59-57 decision in Pennsylvania.

Gerlufsen will start Green, Hempel, Carl Smith, Neysmith, and Donald Russell. "We plan to use the regular subs, especially if there's foul trouble, I want to keep the pressure on them," said the coach.

MINUTEMAN MUTTERINGS- State has won four of its five games at home, that's not a good omen. Carl Smith is ninth in the nation in assists with 117, Neysmith is 15th in the nation, in field goal percentage at .617. Hempel is the leading UM scorer with 16.0 points a game, Green is at 14.4 and Neysmith 13.4. Green also has an Atlantic 10 leading 36 blocks. UMass is 6-1 at home. Skip Connors will not make the trip due to a bad ankle. The game can be heard on WHMP-AM, and WSPR-AM and seen, if you are lucky enough to have cable, on Sportschannel. Green needs six points to go into fifth place on the all-time UMass scoring list.

Collegian photo by David Deuber

HEAD BUTTS — Phillipe Durant (right) battles with UNH's Steve Russel in a 134 lb. match in UMass 33-9 loss last night.

UMass grapplers fall to New Hampshire 33-9

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

After ending a ten match losing streak by defeating Maine (27-22) two weeks ago, the UMass wrestling team dropped another decision to the University of New Hampshire last night 33-9.

At the 118 pound mark, UNH's Dave Beaulieau outscored Minuteman Mike Hanlon 7-2 to give the Wildcats a 3-0 lead.

UMass went up 6-3 when freshman sensation Chris Lee pinned New Hampshire's Dennis Perkins at 2:08 of the first period.

Cat's Steve Russel tied the score at six by winning a three point decision over UMass' Phillipe Durant at the 134 bracket.

At the 142 mark UNH's Paul Schwern won a come from behind victory over Wes Beckwith, 6-4, after being down 4-0. UMass' scored their last points of the evening when 150 pounder Mike Bossi outpointed Wildcat Colline Sullivan 7-5 to bring the home team into a short lived 9-9 tie.

It was all UNH after that as Minuteman Paul Hardy dropped a 6-5 decision to Tim Curley at the 158 pound class before the main event began. UNH's Dave Yale, last year's 158 pound conference champion, moved up to the 167 bracket to battle UMass captain Scott McQuaide, who went into the match with a 17-2 record overall and a 11-0 dual meet record.

Yale struck first, scoring a two point takedown in the first period and remained the aggressor until the second period when McQuaide got on the board with a one point escape. UNH's star managed to take McQuaide down again for a 4-1 lead before the Minuteman captain turned on the after burners. McQuaide escaped once more and spent the rest of the match chasing Yale.

When McQuaide managed to catch up with his opponent the match began to resemble a street fight. Two of the finer athletes,at their sport, began tossing each other around and even the referee found himself thrown off of the mat at one point.

McQuaide moved within one as Yale was penalized a point for stalling. With time running out in the match McQuaide continued his pursuit of Yale and finally managed to bring him to the mat with two seconds left, however could not secure a take down and the match was lost 4-3.

With most of the crowd filing out and UNH sporting a 15-9 lead, UMass' Brian Shaughnessy was pinned by UNH's Pete Weckworth at the 177 pound mark. UMass forfeited the 190 spot before Minuteman heavyweight Tony Gaeta had his shoulders pressed to the mat by Wildcat Con Madigan.

UMass (1-11) travels to Springfield for their next match Friday night.

Women's basketball....

Providence extends UM losing streak with victory

By ADAM NAZIMOWITZ
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team has fallen into a rut as of late, losing their last six games, including a 83-50 pounding by Providence Tuesday night.

UMass, who hatl won seven of their first eleven, now sports a 7-10 record. Their latest three losses have come against some of the best teams in New England. This is due in part to UMass' falling into a slump due to poor shooting and the lack of any real offensive threat.

Providence, the best team in the East according to Stevens, extended their winning streak to 15 games in improving their record to 16-2, while UMass fell to 7-10. The Minutewomen fell behind early, trailed at halftime 42-23, and never got back into it.

"We were outrebounded (39-32) because of height. We have been working on our rebounding and it has helped a little bit. But when you are that small, it is difficult," said Stevens.

The Minutewomen shot 38 percent from the floor and didn't help themselves from the free throw line by shooting 53 percent.

On the contrary, Providence shot an impressive 57 percent from the floor and put together a devastating fast break.

Barbara Hebel led the hoopwomen with 16 points, and Jennifer Todd, playing in place of the injured Damminger, who has limited mobility, added 11 points at forward. Kathy Finn led a fine Providence effort with 14 points and six of her teams 23 assists. Britt King added 12 points and 10 rebounds to lead three others in double figures.

The Minutewomen dropped their first game in the Cage since a loss to another East power St. Johns back in November. Boston University ended their home winning streak at five by defeating the hoopwomen 74-56, last Friday.

The Minutewomen trailed throughout the first half and fell behind by 10, 35-25 at halftime. They cut it to five to start the second half, but that was as close as they would get. BU built on that lead and UMass never really got back in it.

"We weren't really getting much offensive output from our regulars. We only shot 38 percent from the field and a lack of an inside game has hurt us too," said coach Barbara Stevens.

The Minutewomen were led by Rebecca Kucks with 15 points and eight rebounds. Wendy Ward played a good all around game by scoring 10 points, pulling down seven rebounds and adding four assists. Stephanie Rahming, a strong inside player, led BU with 23 points and 15 rebounds.

Then, last Sunday the Minutemen didn't fare too well as the University of New Hampshire crushed UMass 72-40. That news itself is bad enough, but one of the team's most consistent players, Karen Damminger was injured during the game and has been used sparingly since.

"We didn't get much help from the bench. We felt our performance was not anywhere near what we are capable of doing," commented Stevens.

A balanced scoring attack for UNH was led by Corinne Galas with 16 points and Gail Jackson, who had 13 points and 11 rebounds in just 14 minutes of action. The Wildcats outrebounded the Minutewomen only by a 46-44 count despite Umass' size.

Unfortunately, rebounding did not decide this contest. UMass only shot 29 percent from the floor and was led by Jerrie Bernier, who played a good game, scoring 11 points and grabbing nine rebounds before fouling out. Kucks also had a strong game with 10 points and eight rebounds. But is was not nearly enough.

UMass men skiers win

By MATT LUCZKOW
Collegian Staff

PLYMOUTH, N.H. - The UMass Men's Ski Team raced to their second victory of the season last weekend at Waterville Valley in New Hampshire by placing five men among the top fifteen in the slalom.

Minutemen Dan Conway and Bob Faigel took second and third place in the seventy-man field, while teammates Jon Segal, Kris Vanderzee and Jay Dube came in 5th, 10th and 13th place respectively. Doug Karwoski from Plymouth State College (PSC) won the race.

UMass had a team score of 552.70 seconds to finish way ahead of Amherst College (588.59) who took second. UConn was third at 607.65. Continued on page 15

photo by Alan Taupier

SHARP TURN — Dan Conway, UMass' top skiier, turns in a race last weekend at Waterville Valley.

SPORTS NOTICE

MORE SPORTS ON PAGE 15

Attention: Anyone interested in writing sports for the Collegian and for old staff, there will be a short meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. at the sports desk.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIV, Issue 3 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Friday, February 3, 1984

Jackson attacks Reagan's budget, arms policies

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

Democratic presidential hopeful Rev. Jesse Jackson told a crowd of over 1,500 at the University of Massachusetts last night that America must, "ban the bomb, cut the budget, and give peace a chance."

Jackson was the keynote speaker at the Fine Arts Center for a ceremony to kick-off Black History Month. The eloquent minister, one of eight campaigning for the Democratic nomination, used the occasion to attack President Ronald Reagan's policies dealing with human rights, U.S. troops overseas and health care.

Jackson implored the crowd to register to vote in the upcoming election, saying, "If you're eligible and you're not a registered voter, you're voting for Reagan to cut education grants--you're a space walker. Come November you can send a message and you can retire somebody."

Jackson attempted to have registrars present at the speech, but due to a rule saying there must be 14 days notice, his campaign organization only gave ten, they were not present.

On foreign policy, Jackson criticized Reagan for not taking into account that America's population makes up only six percent of the worlds'.

"Most people in the world are black, brown, yellow or red. They are non-christians, can't speak English and are poor. We must respect these people. Human rights are what is important. We cannot expect to rule using nuclear threats," said Jackson.

Reagan's appointment of close friend and personal advisor Edwin D. Meese III to replace William Frence Smith as Attorney General came under heavy attack by Jackson as he said, "We must not let Meese take over in the Justice department,"

"We must change the course of our nation," commented Jackson. "There must be education for the poor, they cannot be denied just because they don't have money. Healthy minds will safeguard democracy."

Jackson's speech is the second in as many nights at UMass by a Democrat campaigning for the presidential nomination. Senator George McGovern spoke last night in the Student Union Ballroom.

"This is a man against hungry children, against equal rights for women, his positions are well known. We must stand tall against him and resist and protest to our fullest means."

On the topic of nuclear war, Jackson stirred emotion in the crowd saying, "This generation must freeze nuclear weapons. We must ban the bombs, the madness must stop."

In the beginning of his speech Jackson compared the cost of preventative health programs to the cost of receiving government aid.

"It is cost inefficient to keep on ignoring these needs of our country. I shudder when I think of our leadership lack of conscience, I shudder for the leadership, I shudder for our country."

Jackson was flanked on the stage by members of his "Rainbow Coalition" including students from the Five College area running his campaign at their schools. Chancellor Joseph Duffey was also on the platform and along with Jackson's campaign manager joined hands with Jackson at the end of the speech in a victory pose.

The theme of the "Rainbow Coalition" was one throughout the speech. "a developed mind is our first line of defense," said Jackson. "Everybody is somebody, God gave us the chance to make choices...we have the power."

The crowd at the FAC interrupted several times during the talk to applaud Jackson, a minister who was active in the civil rights movement of the 50's and 60's and is running for elective office for the first time.

"If the foundation of our country cracks, then those on top go down with the whole building," said Jackson, in one of his frequent analogies. "Those at the bottom are those who count. We must come together as one."

In an obvious slight of Reagan's plan to develop a manned space station by the end of the decade Jackson said, "The new frontier is not space, it is the education of our children, the human race must be put over the nuclear race, that's the new frontier."

Collegian photo by David Deuber

REV. JESSE JACKSON

"I am somebody"

UMass to receive computers

By LARRY BOUCHIE
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts was recently selected to take part in a research project, which exchanges 100 computers at a reduced rate for a year of research by the University.

The project, called Partners for Advancement of Computers in Education (PACE), is sponsored by Digital Equipment Corp. of Maynard.

Professor of electrical engineering Walter Kohler said, "Not all of these computers will be used for the three research projects we're doing for Digital. Some of the computers will be used to supplement various ongoing University projects.

"The projects that we're doing for Digital are software design for microwave applications, headed by Professor Robert McIntosh of the ECE Dept., software design; for heat-transfer problems, headed by Professor Ed Sunderland from the Mechanical Engineering Dept., and computer aid for tutoring in PASCAL, headed by Professor Edward Riseman of the COINS Dept.

"In exchange for doing this research, Digital will sell the University 100 computers at a 65 percent discount of their retail price. We have the option of buying 75 or more of their professional 350 computers, and less than 25 of their Rainbow 100 computers. The Professional 350 retails for about $5000 to $10,000 and the Rainbow 100 retails for about $4,000 to $8,000, depending on the options ordered," Kohler said.

Arthur McCaffrey, Digital's PACE manager, said that proposals to take part in the research program were solicited from colleges and universities nationwide last summer. Altogether, 14 schools were accepted, including Carnegie-Mellon, Case Western Reserve, Northwestern University, John Hopkins, and others, he said.

Birth control methods taught

By MELISSA GRAHAM
Collegian Staff

Men and women interested in learning more about contraception need not look further than the University Health Center.

The Contraceptive Information Sessions offered there provide students with convenient and comprehensive birth control information.

"The Contraceptive Education Session is considered compulsory for those who are new contraceptive users, those who have perhaps used another method such as the Pill in the past, but are new here, those who wish to change methods, and anyone else who just wants information," said Pam Gonyer, Coordinator of the Contraception Education program.

Each session, lasting a little over an hour, begins with a slide-tape about contraception, and is followed by a discussion and a question-answer period.

In order to acquaint women with what to expect at a GYN-exam, handouts and materials are distributed, and a film explaining the tests and procedures of breast and pelvic exams is shown.

The priority of the session, according to Gonyer, is "to provide women with information so they can make an informed decision on what kind of contraception to use."

She said the decision to use a contraceptive is "an important one that merits careful consideration ahead of time."

The four methods available and recommended by the Health Center are: the Pill, the diaphragm with cream or jelly, the IUD or Intra Uterine Device, and condoms with foam.

Women who may be on the Pill or other prescriptive contraceptive now and have their prescriptions filled at home, must see a University practitioner before their prescriptions can be refilled at the Health Center.

Only one visit with a practitioner is required if a woman is receiving the Pill or a diaphragm, depending on medical circumstances. However, other methods, such as the IUD, requires more than one appointment.

UMass could improve with increased funds

By LAURA YEE
Collegian Staff

Because of increased state funding, the University of Massachusetts at Amherst now has an opportunity to become a top-notch college, according to a local state legislator.

Sen. John Olver, D-Amherst, told the UMass Faculty Senate Thursday that the school can begin to "surge ahead in academic excellence."

"The legislature has clearly established higher education as a priority (and) we have increased funds 25 percent in the past years," Olver said.

He said the state must get the money needed to "get the best education to turn out the best students," and suggested five main areas of potential concentration.

"We must expand alumni support," he said. "It is below par and we can no longer use the excuse that the alumni are too young and not established.

"Secondly, we must improve primary and secondary education by having better paid and better trained teachers," Olver said.

Olver said the University needs to identify other areas of excellence "whether it be linguistics or computers," while anticipating the research to be done at the school's future Polymer Research Center.

"I feel the legislature will support such units as the polymer research and other research units," Olver said.

Olver also stressed the need to extend the graduate program at UMass by 25 percent by seeking funds from private industry as well as from the legislature. His last area of concern was the need to actively support "entrepreneurship."

"There is no reason why centers of excellence cannot develop here at UMass. This is a time for opportunity and we will offer and hope you will seize that opportunity," he said.

Despite Olver's belief that UMass "has emerged along with the strong economy," some faculty senators did not share similar sentiments.

English professor Walker Gibson said "there has been an erosion of student aid" and "students are having trouble getting into majors of their choice" because of the lack of funds.

English professor Thomas Ashton said he was "disgusted" at the physical appearance of the University due to the lack of proper maintenance.

Olver said he was not in charge of "where the money goes or what is to be done. It's up to the administration."

Inside:

First New England heart surgery performed.....p.2
UMass professors named to state acid rain group.....p.3
Buddy Holly remembered.....p.11
UMass catcher tries for Olympics.....p.16

"Friends don't let friends drive drunk."
-- anonymous

World and National News

First N.E. heart transplant completed

BOSTON (AP) - A team of surgeons completed the first heart transplant in New England Thursday on a 43-year-old Chicopee druggist, using a heart removed from a Connecticut nurse who died from injuries suffered in an auto accident.

"Late Wednesday evening, a potential heart was found," said Dr. John J. Collins Jr., chief of chest and heart surgery at Brigham and Women's Hospital. "The operation was performed this morning.

"The patient is presently listed in critical but stable condition."

The patient is Gerald Boucher, 43, of South Hadley. Collins told a news conference that Boucher had suffered for several years from heart muscle deterioration, which cut the ability to pump blood.

"The cardiac transplant team at Brigham and Women s agreed this past Monday that he met the qualifications for a heart transplant," he said. "Mr. Boucher and his family concurred with this decision."

Collins said the surgery went off without a hitch, and that statistically, "his chances of being alive in one year are about 80 percent. His chances of being alive in five years are, we hope, in excess of 50 percent.

"Without the operation, there is less than 5 percent chance that he would be alive in one year."

EPA to ban cancer-causing pesticide

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Environmental Protection Agency is scheduled to announce a tightening of its ban on EDB, a cancer-causing pesticide, on Friday and issue guidelines to help state officials decide whether to take EDB-tainted products off grocery shelves.

Last September the agency ordered an emergency ban forbidding about 90 percent of EDB's use as a pesticide.

Officials said Thursday that the emergency ban will be extended to forbid further use of EDB as a fumigant for combatting insect infestations in grain already harvested.

Although there are no documented cases linking EDB, ethylene dibromide, with cancer in humans, it has produced tumors and caused sterility and birth defects in laboratory animals.

The September order, in effect, allowed grain mills and elevators to continue using EDB, although most elevator and mill operators switched to other pesticides. It also gave the citrus industry until September 1984 to phase out its use of the chemical.

"We're having to hold back on further action on citruses at this time," Fitzhugh Green, head of EPA'a international office, said Thursday. "We want to protect people but without hurting trade, if we can."

After traces of EDB began turning up in grain products last month, particularly cake and muffin mixes, state governors began pressing EPA to establish guidelines on what could be allowed in food.

Green said officials were still meeting late Thursday on the guidelines.

"They're still in the potato peeling machine," Green said of the numbers. "But they should be ready by the time of the announcement Friday."

AP Laserphoto

FOREIGN PROTEST -- A sidewalk chalk picture of President Reagan as a fanged vampire is displayed briefly in Frankfurt, Germany before city maintenance personnel erased it.

US, Soviets may resume arms talks

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Reagan administration believes the Soviet Union is looking for a way to return to arms control negotiations with the United States in Geneva, but doesn't expect it to happen for a while yet, a senior administration official says.

The official said Soviet officials have privately indicated in meetings in Stockholm that they want "to get on with the dialogue." The official, who insisted on anonymity, briefed reporters on a meeting here Wednesday between President Reagan and Yugoslav President Mika Spiljak.

The official said the Yugoslavs have also been talking with the Soviets and, "They have the same sense that we do that the Soviets are looking for a way to be able to return to the arms control talks."

"There is a certain flexibility in some of the things they have been saying lately," the official said of recent Soviet statements.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Stockholm two weeks ago. While the two leaders have said little about the meeting, other U.S. officials have tried to portray the meeting as foreshadowing an easing of superpower tensions.

Edward Rowny, the chief U.S. negotiator for strategic weapons, said after a meeting with Reagan at the White House Monday that there is the basis for a "breakthrough" in the negotiations if the Soviets will agree to resume them.

Reagan said Wednesday he hopes the arms control talks, broken off by Moscow after the deployment of new U.S. missiles in Europe last year, will resume in "the near future."

Nicaraguan says US planning war

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - One of Nicaragua's top leftist leaders, in Venezuela for today's presidential inauguration, says the Kissinger commission secretly advised President Reagan to order an invasion of Nicaragua and El Salvador - a charge denied today in Washington.

Daniel Ortega, coordinator of the Sandinista junta, made the accusation after arriving Wednesday for the inauguration of Jaime Lusinchi, who became Venezuela's president in ceremonies this morning.

Shannon announces Senate candidacy

BOSTON— U.S. Rep. James Shannon of Lawrence, promising to improve economic opportunities for Massachusetts residents, on Thursday became the fifth major Democrat to announce his candidacy for U.S. Sen Paul Tsongas' seat this fall.

Shannon, 31, a protege of House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'neill of Massachusetts, said he decided to abandon his promising House career because he could be more effective in the Senate.

AP Laserphoto

EVER SO GENTLY -- Mama Bear Cindy carries her one-pound, one day old cub by the scruff of its neck from her den outside the home of Mabel and Martin Kreider, her owners, in Wakefield.

Digest

By Associated Press

Springfield dean attacked with knife

SPRINGFIELD— Like scores of other students at Springfield Technical Community College, he strolled into Dean William Manzi's office unchallenged. But instead of seeking help, school officials say he attacked Manzi with a knife.

Manzi escaped serious injury in the attack Wednesday because the knife broke when it struck his head. And Manzi and John Stefferud, the dean of students, quickly overpowered the man and held him for campus police.

Richard Belanger, 30, whose address is a stone's throw from the urban campus near downtown Springfield, was arrested in Manzi's office by police who responded to the call. Belanger was charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon and was held pending arraignment in Springfield District Court.

Dukakis plans state-run teacher training center

SALEM - Michael S. Dukakis, opening the first Governor's Conference on Educational Excellence, announced plans Thursday for a state-run center to help Massachusetts public school teachers sharpen their skills.

Speaking to a crowd of more than 200 teachers, students and administrators on the Salem State College campus, Dukakis said he hoped the proposed center would send "an essential and valuable message to teachers" about their worth.

In his new budget, Dukakis included $500,000 to create a Massachusetts Field Center for Teaching and Learning. The center, for working teachers, is intended to be a public-private partnership drawing on the state's colleges and universities to assist public school teachers in mid-career.

Murder witnesses question poison's effect

CAMBRIDGE - A lawn caretaker who says pesticide poisoning led him to strangle a secretary acted just like his normal self shortly after the slaying, a witness testified Thursday.

David Garabedian, who is on trial in Middlesex Superior Court for murder, has admitted garotting Eileen Muldoon, 34, a Lowell City Hall clerk in her Dunstable backyard last March.

The prosecution called two rebuttal witnesses Thursday in response to Garabedian's contention that he was poisoned by lawn chemicals and did not know what he was doing.

The first, Vuy Lambert of Boxborough, who worked at Old Fox Lawn Care Co. with Garabedian last year, testified that the defendant appeared to be his same energetic self after the killling on March 29.

Garabedian took the stand last week and admitted he strangled and threw rocks at Mrs. Muldoon after she caught him urinating in her yard, but contended he did not comprehend his actions. He said he then returned to Old Fox and made customer telephone calls.

Lambert said Garabedian was one of the best employees in terms of customer relations. "He got on a very personal level with the customer. He would just make the customer feel at ease," said Lambert.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Paul Belval
Copy Editor — Mary Anne Been
Layout Technician — Steve Anderson
Photo Technician — Tom Kudla
Production Supervisor — Ed Tausky
Production — Lynn Eisenberg, Marsha Wilcon, John Wielgus, Neil Rhein, Joy McCarty, Martha Stevens, Lynne Gottlieb, Leslie King, Dode B. Levenson, Ellen Waxman

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

UMass professors chosen to serve acid rain council

By RODMAN R. SNELLING
Collegian Correspondent

Three University of Massachusetts professors have been named to the Massachusetts Scientific Advisory Council on Acid Rain, established to make recommendations on research projects and measures to reduce acid rain.

Paul Godfrey, director of the Massachusetts Water Resources Center, Donald L. Mader of the University's Department of Forests and Wildlife, and Richard Yuretich of the Department of Geology and Geography join 14 other members of the panel, assembled by the State Department of Environmental Quality and Engineering.

Most of the council's members are from state and private consulting agencies, and independent research institutions, including three colleges: Harvard University, the University of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Our purpose," Yuretich said, "is to address three principle areas: the effects of acid rain on aquatic resources, its effects on terrestrial systems, and its effects on cultural materials such as buildings and statues. Our first recommendations will consist of two categories: first, a plan to research the effects of acid rain on these resources, and second, to plan for protective strategies."

Recent findings in a report by the Water Resources Research Center indicate that while Massachusetts received near-record rainfall in 1983, the acidity level was down unexpectedly from the previous year.

Analysts at the center beleive that this was due to unusually low rainfall in the summer when acidity is highest.

On the panel's formation, Godfrey said, "This is an exemplary response to put the research community together to assess research needs of the state and to coordinate the activities of state agencies with ongoing state research. The timing is perfect."

Noting that research panels such as the Inter-Agency Task Force of Acid Rain already exist on the national level, Yuretich explained that the need for this panel, the first in the state, is that "there are differences in the effect of acid rain in Massachusetts that wouldn't be addressed by national finding. Most of that information concerns New Hampshire and the Andirondak Mt. region."

"This is an exemplary response to put the research community together to assess research needs of the state and to coordinate the activities of state agencies with ongoing state research."

-- Paul Godfey
Massachusetts Scientific Advisory Council on Acid Rain

The three University professors agreed that there are two schools of thought on just what kind of measures should be taken.

"There are two factions developing," said Godfrey, "One holds that the research done has been adequate and that we now need to proceed with action. The other believes that there has not been enough research."

As to how that division will affect the panel's recommendations, Mader said, "I think we can expect to see some sort of compromise."

The council's first recommendations for fiscal year '85 are scheduled to be presented in two months.

Collegian photo by Kate Watters

DEAD OF WINTER -- A dormant bush sits at the edge of the Campus Pond on a cold February day.

Grant funding decreasing

By JILL LANG
Collegian Staff

Federal financial aid regulations changed significantly in 1983, forcing students who had previously recieved grants to find jobs or apply for loans to finance their college educations.

For fiscal year 1982/1983, much of the federal grant funding previously available to students has been replaced with loan and work aid monies, according to a report issued by the Undergraduate Admissions and Financial Aid services departments.

"More and more often, we are finding grants are becoming a less important source of funding for students, in favor of both loan and work-study programs, " Arthur Jackson, director of financial aid services said yesterday.

"Students are becoming more dependent on these (other) programs," he said.

This trend coincided with the concentration of federal funds which go into loan and work-study--82 percent of UMass' federal aid is tagged for these two programs.

Jackson said there is a "dilemma starting to occur" because more students are taking out loans without understanding the importance of their future obligations to both the University and the lending agent.

"Later this semester, we will be running some debt counseling workshops in order to address the problem concerning the rate of indebtedness of students at the University," Jackson said.

These sessions will be question and answer, Jackson said, with the concentration on "showing students how they can become better consumers while they are still in school."

Jackson said although the amount of federal funds coming into his office has been decreasing over the past several years, the amount of state funds has moved in the opposite direction.

The state scholarship program has increased 60 percent for fiscal 1983/1984 over the previous year, and other state programs are being expanded as well, Jackson said.

"Governor Dukakis continues to support state assitance to students," Jackson said, "and that is a good thing."

Childgrowth racially different

By DIANE LANE
Collegian Staff

Psychological research now indicates that the process by which development of a child's sense of self and autonomy takes place differs substantially for black and white children.

In a lecture Thursday night at Smith College Dr. Dorcas Bowles, Associate Dean of the Smith School of Social Work said although the theory is not completely evolved to predict how racial and ethnic self emerges, her research shows there is a difference in the timing of black children's growth through developmental stages.

"While majority children have achieved separation and individualization by the age of 36 months, black children, especially women, have additional developmental steps to achieve," Bowles said.

Bowles studied 25 black mothers with toddlers ranging in age from 9 to 22 months and coming from all economic backgrounds. Her goal was to examine the effect of culture on black mothering and child-rearing methods. While all mothers considered the bonding process important, in which mother and child develop a deep sense of attachment towards one another, Bowles found black mothers to consider bonding especially crucial.

"The mothers want to insulate their child with extra love from assault in a society which they feel doesn't consider her worthy or acceptable," Bowles said.

According to Bowles, bonding becomes critical with the mothers growing awareness that as her child grows her sphere of influence over the child's reality will lessen.

"This emotional generosity exhibited by mothers is a deliberate strategy which provides an anchor of positive self regard which makes it possible for them to make it and survive in a racially oppressive world," Bowles said.

AFL-CIO, union members give Mondale power

Some local union members, helping out Walter Mondale's presidential campaign along with the national AFL-CIO, have given the Mondale effort a big boost with money and people power.

The money has meant that the Mondale campaign has been free of the financial problems that have plagued some of the other candidates. More important has been people power. The endorsment of the AFL-CIO has meant access to union membership lists through phone calling, with union members doing the calling. In addition it has provided him with an already organized cadre of support throughout the country.

"His senate record was good on labor and he has an excellent record on the enviornment, women, and civil rights. I think labor looked at his senate record. He has the experience to do the job and the credibility to get elected," said Herb Bryan, as a delegate for the Mondale caucas on the labor slate in the first congressional district. The district is Hampshire, Franklin, and Berkshire counties. He is also on the executive board of local 1776, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME). AFSCME represents about 1200 workers at UMass.

"There was a meeting of western Massachusetts organized labor in Springfield last Thursday. The Governor Michael Dukakis, Lieutenant Governor John Kerry, and the head of the State AFL-CIO was there. He urged local leaders and members to get involved and be active in the campaign. There will be state-wide phone banks and mailings to labor's organized members." Bryan said.

"Many people have seen the effects of Reaganomics. Friends are still out of work, plants have closed and moved. Mondale or any other Democratic candidate will have to overcome the image of being a big spender. It will take a very persuasive campaign to show people that four more years of Reagan will hurt them" Bryan said.

"Mondale has the best chance of winning the endorsement but it will be difficult to win the election. If anybody can do it Mondale is likely to be the one." said Kathy Murray, president of the University Staff Association (USA). USA represents 1200 workers on campus and is the local affiliate of the Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA). Members of MTA will be going to the caucas and voting, Murray said.

"Because we have members who are Reagan supporters and members who support other candidates we did not endorse Mondale as a local. The MTA did a survey statewide of it's members, including the USA. Mondale was the favorite of the majority of membership. The MTA does not contribute directly to political campaigns. They have a vote bank which does canvassing for money on their own. We are also working on phone banks with other MTA members" Murray said.

The 63 unions of the state AFL-CIO have 400,000 members in Massachussetts. Both the state AFSCME and the MTA endorse Mondale.

"The state democratic comittee allocates a certain number of deligates to each congressional district. The first congressional district has six people and two alternates. All candidates who have caucases and elect delegates will have them run in the democratic primary. In the primary the candidates have to get at least 14 percent of the vote to get a delegate who will then go to the convention in San Francisco." said Floss Frank, Amherst Democratic chairman.

The Caucas for Mondale will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday at the Northampton High School, Floss said. It is open to the public.

Brooke States is a Collegian staff member.

LABOR & POLITICS

UMASS ARTS COUNCIL

WE'VE GONE COMPUTERIZED, THAT MEANS MORE ATTENTION TO YOU !

OUR PURPOSE IS YOU

WE ARE AN ARTS EVENT FUNDING ORGANIZATION INTERESTED IN YOUR PROPOSAL(S) FOR AN EVENT.

DO YOU OR AN ORGANIZATION YOU BELONG TO HAVE AN ARTS-RELATED EVENT THAT SOUNDS INTERESTING ?

IF SO, THE ARTS COUNCIL WOULD BE INTERESTED IN TALKING WITH

* YOU *

INDIVIDUAL PROPOSAL DEADLINES ARE: FEBRUARY 8, 1984
MARCH 30, 1984
(for early Fall, 1984 proposals) APRIL 30, 1984

COME SEE US FOR DETAILS, WE ARE GLAD TO HELP YOU !

125 HERTER HALL 545-0202 MON-FRI 9:00am to 4:30pm

umass Arts council

Freidan, Schlesinger to visit campus

By DEBBIE NEUBAUER
Collegian Correspondent

Feminist and author Betty Friedan and Arthur Schlesinger Jr., presidential advisor and historian, are among the visitors scheduled to speak on campus this semester by the Distinguished Visitors Program (DVP).

DVP, co-chaired by Mark Zuckerman and David Falk, is a student-run organization which works to attract guest speakers on campus.

Friedan, author of The Feminine Mystique, will be the first guest of the semester. She is scheduled to speak on women's issues at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Union Ballroom.

DVP brings Geoffrey Holder, famous for his diverse theater talents, Feb. 27. Holder, who has acted in 7-Up commercials and the movie Annie and has worked on Broadway productions, will dance, lecture and finally field questions from a Bowker Auditorium audience.

"It should be a great program," said Zuckerman.

On March 13, Jeremy Rifkin, noted social theorist and author of Algeny, Entropy, Who Should Play God, and The Emerging Order, is scheduled to speak on the dilemma of genetic engineering in the SUB.

Schlesinger served as an advisor under President John F. Kennedy and has authored several books including A Thousand Days and The Imperial Presidency. Schlesinger will lecture on politics in the 80's April 10 in the SUB.

Finally, Dr. Ruth Westheimer, hostess of the radio call-in program, Sexually Speaking, is scheduled to offer sexual advice and speak on "sexual literacy" May 1. Westheimer has appeared on the Tonight Show and Late Night with David Letterman.

DVP schedules speakers at least one semester prior to appearances and works through agencies primarily in the New York and Boston area.

In the past, the organization has attracted such figures as Vincent Price, Andrew Young, George McGovern, Jean Kilbourne, Art Buchwald, John Dean and G. Gordon Liddy.

The organization is funded primarily by the Student Activities Trust Fund, from which DVP receives 75 cents per student each semester. In addition, it receives interest from an endowment account and is allowed to charge an admission price for one lecture per semester.

DVP funds one outside proposal each semester from other organizations on campus looking to attract a specific speaker to lecture.

Signs for meetings are posted on the door of the DVP office each week in (Room 415, SUB.)

"It is an extremely rewarding experience, working with the DVP, one in which a very small time commitment is necessary," says Zuckerman. "We are always looking for interested people. The door is always open."

Talented students sought to perform

By KATHY HART
Collegian Correspondent

The Governor's Program Council (GPC) at the University of Massachusetts is looking for talented students who want to become involved in University activities.

GPC, a recognized student organiztion, both recruits students and brings in outside performers for art events and entertainment in the Campus Center.

Julie Slavitt, GPC coordinator, says her main goal is to get more students interested and involved in GPC, including musicians, jugglers, and comedians.

Slavitt said past events sponsored by GPC have been very successful, such as comedy night at the Blue Wall, jazz singers in the coffee shop and mimes entertaining students on the concourse.

The events are usually free or have a small charge, such as 99 cents for comedy night.

This spring GPC has many events planned, including an open forum with Dr. Ruth Wesheimer, hostess of the radio program Sexually Speaking, on May 1. The High-Heeled Women three comedians are planned for the end of May.

All events are held in the Campus Center Concourse unless otherwise noted, and the GPC is funded by the Campus Center Board of Governors. Interested students who would like to become involved in GPC can drop by the GPC office at 415A Student Union, or contact Julie Slavitt at 545-2733.

Summer Jobs
UPWARD BOUND/
UMASS AMHERST
Positions Available:
Instructors (for College Prepatory Curriculum)
Counselor/Tutors (for residential component)
Pick up applications at
205 New Africa House
Deadline: Feb. 29, 1984
Internships also available

THE WORD IS OUT!
"ROAD WARRIOR"
IS A HIT!
THE ROAD WARRIOR
R
Date: Sunday, Feb. 5, 1984 CC Auditorium
5:00 - $1.00 7, 9, 11 - $1.50
sponsored by Washington Dorm

Richard Pryor
LIVE ON THE SUNSET STRIP
The critics agree...
Richard Pryor is the funniest man in America.
"Richard Pryor Live on the Sunset Strip' is a rare experience of its kind, often hilarious and very moving. He is one of our great originals."
"Almost nobody but Pryor can be so funny and so honest at the same time."
"Richard Pryor Live on the Sunset Strip' realizes — better than we have seen before — the range, heart and acerbic brilliance of America's best and most original comic actor."
"For anyone interested in witnessing a performance by the greatest stand-up comic alive. A performance that turns stand-up comedy into art."
"Richard Pryor in 'Sunset Strip' is the funniest man in America."
"Richard Pryor Live on the Sunset Strip' is hysterically funny."
"Pryor's gifts as a comic are so extraordinary that now, with the added emotional depth that he brings to his routines, he's near overwhelming."
"Outrageously funny... an exhilaratingly entertaining hour and a half with a brilliant comic actor."
"★★★★ Richard Pryor is older, wiser, funnier... better than ever."
"Superb... Pryor paints brilliant sketches of life's absurdity."
"Richard Pryor is unrestrained in a spirited, uncorrigibly funny Sunset Strip ser."
Filmed Before A Live Audience
Time: 5, 7, 9, 11
Admission: $1.00 at 5 $1.50 at 7, 9, 11
Date: Fri. Feb. 3, 1984
Place: S.U.B.

UNIVERSITY OF MASS AT AMHERST
Fine Arts Center Concert Hall
Second Prize International American Music Competition
Diana Walker, Soprano
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3. 8 PM
TICKETS: $5.00
A GREAT EVENING IN THE THEATRE N.Y. Times
MUMMENSCHANZ
Swiss Mime-Mask Theatre
TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 8 PM
TICKETS: $9, $7, $5
GUARNERI STRING QUARTET
"WORLD'S MASTER OF CHAMBER MUSIC" Time Magazine
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 8 PM
TICKETS: $11, $9, $7
Five-College Students Half-Price Tickets Available at Fine Arts Center Box Office, DATATIX Outlets and Springfield Civic Center Call (413) 545-2511 or 1-800-243-4842

Students support Jackson campaign

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

Collegian photo by David Deuber

PACKED HOUSE -- More than 1,000 people cram into the Fine Arts Center last night to hear Presidential hopeful Rev. Jesse Jackson.

While admitting his chances of winning the Democratic Presidential nomination are slim, many of the people in attendence at Rev. Jesse Jackson's speech at the Fine Arts Center at the University of Massachusetts last night said the fact that he was just running for the position was important.

Jim Hesson, a senior social thoery major said although he doubts Jackson wil win the presidency, he believes the campaign will bring more third world people into the political process, "and that in itself is a very positive step."

"I think it is important to support him. He is doing a great job of mobalizing political power," Hesson said.

Sue Johnson, a graduate student in education, also said she supports Jackson. "He adresses important issues concerning human rights, and he speaks more to the working class than the other democratic candidates." she said.

Johnson also said that Jackson's campaign will bring more black and white voters together, by defying the notion of a "polar America." He brings across the message that America is for all people," she said.

Several students said they preffered Jackson to other domocratic presidential hopefulls because of his commitment to issues.

Laura Riggs, a sophomore women's studies major at Mt. Holyoke college said "he is the only candidate who takes a firm stand on things like disarmament and women's issues."

Rev. R. Leroy Moser, a Northampton minister, said Jackson is a "a good man," and compared to the other candidates "he is the most passionate. He has a strong sense of justice."

The impact Jackson's presence at UMass last night will have on the student population will be "very positive," said Monica Vazquez, a senior french major.

"I think this will make students think more about the issues, especially human services," she said.

Tony Bullock, a senior management major said events like these "will help motivate students to get involved in the political process."

Chris Shields, a junior legal studies major, said "being here and at events like these have made me more open minded."

I come from a pretty racist community, and I'm sure this will bring a lot of awareness to people," he said.

Guitar, drill among items stolen

An electric drill valued at $130 was reported stolen from the construction site on Campus Center Way, University of Massachusetts police said. The drill was taken between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Jan. 31 from an unlocked tool box, police said. There are no known suspects.

A guitar, a digital clock radio and a television set were reported stolen from a locked motor vehicle on the 3rd floor of the Campus Center garage, according to police. The items, taken between 4 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. Jan. 31, were valued at more than $400, police said. There are no suspects.

In other police action:

Police responded to a report of a suspicious person in MacKimmie dormitory shortly after 8 p.m. Jan. 31. The subject, a male close to 60 years of age, was found sleeping in a laundry room, police said. The subject was issued a trespass notice and transported to the center of Amherst, according to police.

-- MARY ANNE BEEN

★CONTRACEPTIVE

The contraceptives sold at the University pharmacy are much cheaper than those sold in the area. This is because all students are covered by the prepaid health insurance plan which entitles them to free use of the Health Center and its services.

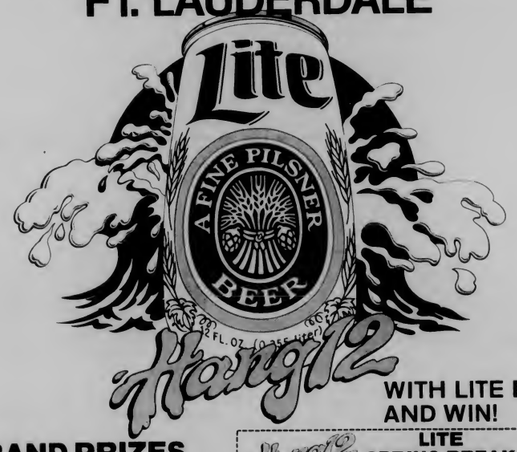
For those women who leave pregnancy to chance, the effectiveness rate is ten percent. That means 90 percent of all women who hope they won't get pregnant, do.

Men's sex role film to be shown

The Orchard Hill Men's Center is sponsoring an open introductory meeting tomorrow in the Campus Center in room 804-805, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The film, "Positively Men," which deals with the lives of several male friends and embraces male sex roles, will be shown.

The Men's Center, an outgrowth of the Northeast Regional Men's Movement, will examine sex roles, men's culture and the kinds of political action men can collectively take to eliminate discrimination against women and other minority groups.



SALE!
SATURDAY & SUNDAY ONLY
Reg. 8.95
100% Cotton
Turtlenecks
In a dozen dazzling colors
$6.95
3/19.95
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst • Open Daily 10-6, Sunday 12-5

SALE!
SATURDAY & SUNDAY ONLY
PRIME CUT
PRIME CUT, the pant you look at twice. A complete selection of current styles and colors. Priced from 18.95 to 32.95
Reg. 18.95
11.95
FACES
A Store-full of Ideas
Downtown Amherst • Open Daily 10-6, Sunday 12-5

MIKE'S MAD MUNCH-OUT
FRIDAYS
$1.00 will get you all you can carry
Beer and Drink specials too - Served promptly at 5:30
The greatest assortment of hot and cold buffet style food in town
MIKE'S WESTVIEW CAFE

SAVE
on Paperbacks
over 30,000 now in stock on all subjects
VALLEY BOOKSHOP
Carriage Shops
Downtown Amherst
10-5:30 Mon-Fri
10-5 Sat
12:30-5 Sun
549-6052

ENTER THE
LITE SPRING BREAK SWEEPSTAKES
AND WIN A TRIP FOR YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS TO
FT. LAUDERDALE

WITH LITE BEER... AND WIN!

3 GRAND PRIZES
Live it up with a vacation in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida for you and three friends during your school's Spring break. This eight day, seven night trip includes round trip air fare, hotel accommodations, $1,000 spending money and dinner with a Lite All-Star (subject to All-Star availability).

5 FIRST PRIZES
Lite "Hang 12" Windsurfer.

100 SECOND PRIZES
Lite "Hang 12" T-Shirt

2,000 THIRD PRIZES
Lite "Hang 12" Poster

Great Taste... Less Filling

Miller Brewing Co., Milw., WI

Hang 12 LITE SPRING BREAK SWEEPSTAKES Lite

OFFICIAL ENTRY FORM — NO PURCHASE NECESSARY
Please Hand Print:

Name
Address (where you can be reached during the school year)
City State Zip
Telephone Age S M L XL T-Shirt Size
School Name

I state that I am of legal drinking age in my state of residence and hold no interest in an alcoholic beverage license.

Mail this entry form to:
Lite Spring Break Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 4136E, Blair, NE 68009

OFFICIAL RULES
1. On an Official Entry Form or plain piece of 3" x 5" paper hand print your name, address, phone number, age, t-shirt size and the name of your college or university.
2. MAIL ALL ENTRIES TO: Lite Spring Break Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 4136E, Blair, NE 68009. Each entry must be mailed separately. All entries must be received by February 10, 1984. Winners will be determined in a random drawing from among all entries received under the supervision of the D. L. Blair Corporation, an independent judging organization whose decisions are final on all matters relating to this offer.
3. This sweepstakes is open to residents of the United States who are of legal drinking age in their state and who are attending a college or university on a full or part time basis at time of entry. The Miller Brewing Company, Philip Morris, Inc., their distributors, affiliates, subsidiaries, advertising and promotion agencies, retail alcoholic beverage licensees and employees and families of each ARE NOT ELIGIBLE. Sweepstakes void where prohibited by law. Limit one prize per family. Taxes on prizes are the sole responsibility of prize winners. All Federal, State and local laws and regulations apply. The odds of winning a prize depend upon the number of entries received. For a list of major prize winners, send a SEPARATE, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Lite Spring Break Winners List, P.O. Box 4151N, Blair, NE 68009.
4. The Grand Prize winner must agree to depart, along with his or her three friends selected, to Ft. Lauderdale, Florida during the winner's school's 1984 Spring break. Trip includes round trip air fare, eight (8) nights hotel accommodations, $1,000 spending money and dinner with one or more Lite Beer All-Stars (subject to All-Star availability). Grand Prize travellers must agree to depart and return on dates specified by the Miller Brewing Company. No substitution of prizes is permitted. Grand Prize travellers must be at least 19 years of age by the departure date of the trip. Prize winners will be obligated to sign and return an Affidavit of Eligibility within 10 days of notification. In the event of non-compliance within this time period, an alternate winner will be selected. Any prize returned as undeliverable will be awarded to alternate winners.

Auditions for Paid Choir
Tenor and Basses
Mount Holyoke Abbey Singers
Feb. 3-6
call MHC Music Dept.
538-2306

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00 (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610

starting February 6th...
Professionally taught
DANCE CLASSES
For Adults
Beg. Ballet
Mon. 7:30
Inter. Jazz
Tues. 7:00
Inter. Modern
Tues. 8:00
Inter. Ballet
Thurs. 6:30
Beg. Jazz Fri. 3:30
Ten-Week Courses $50
Phone 549-1555
THE AMHERST BALLET CENTRE
29 Strong St.
(one block east of Butterfield Dorm across E. Pleasant St.

Black Affairs

Jackson burns down the house

By MARILYN BOU and YADIRA BETANCES
Collegian Staff

A kaleidoscope of people waited close to three hours outside the Fine Arts Center last night to hear Democratic presidential hopeful Rev. Jesse Jackson kick off the Black History month celebration with his keynote address.

Primarily speaking to the young people in the audience, Jackson said "We must develop minds before developing missles...education equals defense mechanism."

Jackson mentioned the many obstacles in the past keeping minorities from exercising their civil rights, but today, he said, minorities "have the power to set the course... we can survive without each other but we can not win without one another."

"Just because you were born in a slum doesn't mean the slum is born in you," He said.

"It was our turn then, it is your turn now" Jackson said of the Civil Right Movement.

"Your enthusiasm, your expectation your drive your will can make a difference, he said."There has always been resistence to student power and resistence to youth," said Jackson.

"We must do more than survive. If you wake up the nation will wake up." he said.

This generation must freeze the weapons, or burn the people and freeze the planet," he said.

"Rev. Jackson has shown through his own preseverence the power that we students have through voting on the many issue that face us today," said John Ruddock, president of the Student for Jackson at the UMass campus.

Charlene Allen, Student Government association co-president presented Jackson with a silver coin donated by Sherwood Thompson, director of the Third World Affairs "to inspire him on his campaign trail." The coin, made in 1952 bears the faces of George Washington Carver, and Booker T. Washington, and was made to preserve democracy.

Jackson ended his speeech by leading chants of "Ban the bomb, save the people, stop the war, I am somebody, respect me. He urged all to register to vote and to exercise that power on election day.

Collegian photo by David Deuber
Democratic presidential hopeful Rev. Jesse Jackson at the FAC delivering a spirited and moving speech as part of Black History Month.

BODY SHOP
Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout
$7.00 off
$7.00 off
regular $45.00 NOW $38.00
up to 17 weeks of workouts
15% Discount
Spring Semester Memberships

NOPE		Boyden
M-F	Sat	M-F	Sat
7:30-9 am	1-4	7-9 am	12-3
12-1 pm		12-1 pm
4-6 pm		4-6 pm
7-9 pm

Bring this ad to the BODY SHOP for 15% discount
offer expires on Feb. 7 (9 pm)

Stop in to say Hello to your Friends
They'll be here
Two T.V.'s
Time out
Free Popcorn

Happy Hour Daily 4-8
16 oz. Drafts 85¢
16 oz. Giant Drinks
AMHERST'S BIGGEST LITTLE BAR
37 N. Pleasant St.

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS
18 Main St. Downtown Amherst 253-5441
HAPPY HOUR PRICING!!!

Bud & Bud Light 12 oz. cans	$10.95 case + dep
Stroh & Stroh Light 12 oz. cans	$9.95 case + dep.
Grizzly Canadian Beer	$3.99 6 pack + dep.
Becks Beer	$4.25 6 pack + dep.
Narragansett 16 oz. cans	$2.50 6 pack + dep.
	$9.80 case + dep.
Vodka or Gin 80°	$4.99 L $8.49 1.75 L
Morello Lambrusco	$1.99 750 ml.
	$2.99 1.5 L

Barrelled Beer & Beer Balls Always in Stock

Sale
20%-60% SAVINGS
ON ALL WINTER
SHOES, BOOTS AND BAGS
GREAT BARGAINS!
SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st. amherst

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents
BETTY FRIEDAN
Feminist and Author
Wednesday, Feb. 8, 1984
Student Union Ballroom
8:00 p.m. Free

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

University of Arizona offers more than 40 courses anthropology, art, bilingual education, folk music and folk dance, history political science, sociology Spanish language and literature and intensive Spanish Six-week session July 2-August 10, 1984 Fully accredited program Tuition $410 Room and board in Mexican home $435

EEO AA

Write
Guadalajara
Summer School
Robert L. Nugent 205
University of Arizona
Tucson 85721
(602) 621-4729

DELANO'S

our February Special

Twofer One
Molson
Golden

Proper ID a Must
57 N. Pleasant St.
253-5141

By Bellini - this perfect little all leather flat, is available in 6 exciting colors. This is just the beginning of our fun collection for spring. Come see!

SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st. amherst

2nd Semester Refrigerator Rentals
Delivery date - February 15th
Locations: outside J.Q.A. dorm 3 pm outside Webster-Field Parking Lot 3:45 pm outside Cashin 4:30 pm

1.7 cubic foot units
$19.05 + tax and $10.00 deposit
total $30.00

2.8 cubic foot units
$30.48 + tax and $10.00 deposit
total $42.00

CAMPUS RENTALS, INC.
Call 586-1430
orders must be placed no later than
Feb. 8

Greek Life
- an experience
- a reward
- a lifetime
SORORITY RUSH
Register Now!
Campus Center Concourse
for more information call
Greek Affairs call 545-2711

Information Data Bank
IDB
545-1555

OFF-CAMPUS STUDENTS WHO WISH THEIR NAMES BE DELETED FROM THE SPRING STUDENT PHONE DIRECTORY, CONTACT THE DEAN OF STUDENTS OFFICE, 227 WHITMORE, NO LATER THAN FEBRUARY 7.

a service of the Dean of Students Office

545-1540
TIPS
Taped Information Phone Service

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS
FRI. 2/3
ROBIN LANE and The CHARTBUSTERS
A Boston Rock & Roll Tradition!

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Life and times of an RA: isn't easy

Elizabeth Luciano

My life at UMass has changed dramatically since last semester. I live in the same dorm (Webster), and have the same major (journalism). What's happened is I've become a new R.A., and it's really one hell of an adjustment.

To begin with, my key ring, which used to be embarrassingly empty, is now full. The damned thing jingles like Santa's sleighbells everytime I unlock my door. I also have a key to the cluster office. As for the other half-dozen keys, I have absolutely no idea what strange and wonderful doors they're supposed to open for me. In any case, I finally returned my mother's extra freezer key, and my brother's skate key from second grade. They just don't fit on the ring anymore.

Perhaps I should mention having sailed through R.A. training with my usual elegance; or lack thereof. The highlight of that fun-filled action-packed few days was becoming adept at the use of fire extinguishers. Our group's adrenalin was flowing, and we were going to reign supreme over those flaming, paper-filled barrels, no matter what. I grabbed the hose of my water extinguisher and charged assertively. I meant business, damn it, and wasn't going to take any crap from a life-threatening fire.

Unfortunately, my aim was off. The man from Enviornmental Health and Safety, who'd been standing behind the barrel, was really very nice about the whole thing, and my fellow R.A.s had the good taste to pretend they hadn't noticed.

Working the sign-in desk when the students returned last Sunday was kind of tough, too. Everyone had to be checked off on the alpha list and the floor plan, sent to us courtesy of the double-secret powers that be, at Whitmore. Then students' signitures were required on the "I-Swear-Not-to-Trash-the bathroom" form and the "I-Will-Not-Put-Lounge-Furniture-in-My-Room" form. All the lists and forms were confusing, and my resident director was very understanding.

"I think community development may be your strong point, Liz," was the way he put it.

Then I checked off a young man's name on one of those multitudinous computer print-outs and I realized he was one of my floormates. I stuck out my right hand in greeting.

"Hi, I'm Liz, your roomate," I said brightly. He got a very strange look on his face, although I'm not sure whether it was pleasure or loathing. His father shifted and coughed.

"Well, maybe I'm a bit old-fashioned, but these co-ed dormitories are a bit too much, I think," he commented quietly, before I explained my faux pas.

My first floor meeting was interesting. Just about everybody humored me by reading the cute little signs and stopping by.

"Hi, my name's Liz, and I'm going to be your cruise director this semester," I joked. Nobody laughed. Oh God.

"So, where are you all from?" I tried to redeem myself.

"Twenty minutes north of Boston," a dozen floor members said in unison.

Then we played this cutesy game that helps you remember people's names. In short, it's a thrilling contest in which you pick a food that corresponds with the first letter of your name. Whoever recalls the most names wins.

The problem with this is you wind up having conversations like the one I had yesterday, with Sue Souffle.

"Where's Barry?" I asked her.

"Barry Broccoli or Barry Blueberry?" I asked her.

"Barry from Brookline," I said.

"Well, Barry Blueberry's from Boston, but Barry Broccoli's from Brookfield, not Brookline. Maybe you mean him," she said.

"Must be," I agreed.

Despite all these little obstacles, though, things are going well, and there is but one small cloud on my rosy horizon: Who do I go to if I lock myself out of my room?

McGovern: talking sense in 1984

He is a voice of reason in a time filled with all too much confusion. He speaks of the future in terms of peace and dialogue rather than aggression and arms build up. In the midst of rhetoric that inevitably accompanies a presidential election he proposes sound ideas. In a time of vague promises he has the ability to analyze problems without being negative. He is George McGovern and he is running for president of the United States.

In a low, calm voice he tells people all across this country what our problems are, why they are, and what we can do about them. His ideas are simple and level-headed, and yet they sound different...because they make sense.

John Kenney

He talks of pulling US soldiers out of a land literally torn apart by thousand year old wars we simply do not understand, that we should not be part of. He points out that originally these US soldiers were part of a peace keeping force but that their mission has changed, that now they are there to keep safe. George McGovern believes that these young men could stay a lot safer at home.

Through eyes that have seen bitter defeat in 1972 he looks out at people who want answers, who want jobs and the security that comes from piece of mind, the very essence of what America stands for.

He talks about the chaos that hovers over Central America and of how we supply guns that inevitably fall into the hands of terrorists. He says we should stop sending guns to Central America.

He addresses the economy and its problems. He sees one problem as overtaxing the poor and middle classes, that the president refuses to tax fairly the wealthy. And that the major costs of running this country are not the elderly and the poor, but rather, the arms race, and defense spending.

And most importantly he believes that the two most powerful nations in the world should engage in constructive dialogue. Because, there is no more important issue than peace.

Unlike the president, George McGovern sees the Soviet Union as a nation of people, who laugh and cry and have problems, like all people. And that we only worsen an already bad situation by burying missiles in West Germany that can reach the Soviet Union in five minutes.

He does not see the Soviet Union as an intrinsically bad nation. He sees a country that is perhaps just a little scared and just a little paranoid -- just like us. He does not believe that it is right for the president of the United States to refer to the Soviet Union as an "empire of evil." He sees an alternative.

We must, George McGovern believes, negotiate and exchange ideas, we must be intelligent and imaginative. We must work for peace abroad and justice at home.

He believes that we must all vote. That, whether we vote for him or someone else we must not ignore this priviledge.

He sees a torn and weakened democratic party that must come together in the name of peace and of people.

He is George McGovern and he is running for president.

John Kenney is a Collegian columnist.

Letters

SAFA represents students

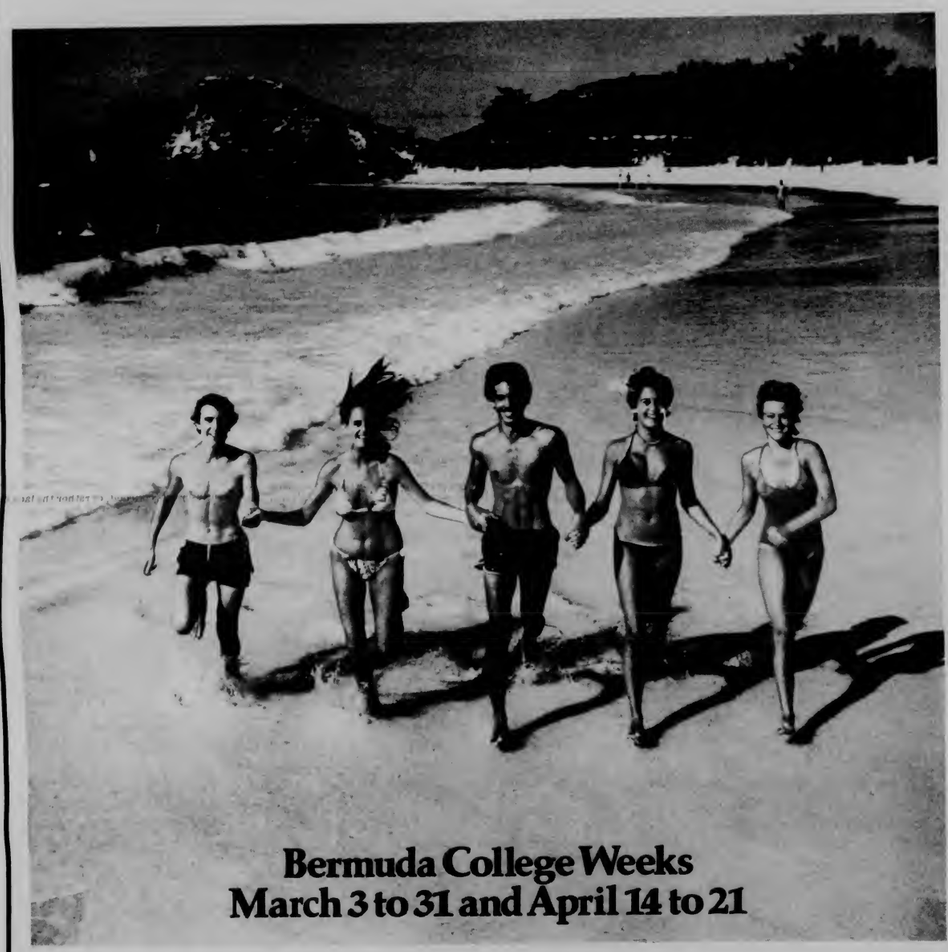
To the Editor,

I am a former president of Student's Advocating Financial Assistance and currently a member of it's executive committee. I feel obligated to respond to Steve Barrett's editorial on Tuesday January 31st. This editorial would be worthy front page material for such prestigious publications as The Enquirer or The Star. This was truly a sad attempt at journalism. Not only was the story incoherent, it was centered on character assassinations and based on false innuendos and heresy. I would like to respond to the following concerns: 1)clarifying SAFA's connection with USSA 2)what constituancy SAFA does represent 3)what SAFA has accomplished in the last two years 4)defend the integrity of SAFA's members. Finally, I will ask Mr. Barrett why he chose to tarnish the reputation of such a non-partisan group as SAFA when the obvious main intent of his editorial was to publicly express his displeasure with the USSA.

I have been to Washington D.C. five times with SAFA lobbying groups. I was president for four of those trips. I was very involved in determining who was our "guiding light" (as Mr. Barrett labeled them) in Washington. Among some of the professionals who would consistently speak to our group was Dallas Martin, the National Executive Director of the Financial Aid Administrators, Lobbyist Ann Wexler (wife of UMass Chancellor Duffey), and staff members of the House Sub Committee on Education. On a couple of occasions the USSA Legislation Specialist has spoken to SAFA. Her subject matter was strictly confined to financial aid legislation. USSA's primary assistance was providing SAFA with the Financial Aid voting records for all the members of Congress. I am sorry to report that she did not approach such subjects as abortion, bussing, communist student groups, or "Tear Gas" lobbying.

Next I would like to take issue of how Mr. Barrett titled his editorial, "Who Does SAFA Represent?" SAFA is concerned exclusively with financial aid, or more simply put -- students ability to pay for school. We are of course primarily concerned with funding here at UMass. Presently, according to UMass Financial Aid Director Art Jackson, more than 80 percent of the UMass Undergraduate and Graduate students receive some form of financial aid. This translates into over 20,000 students. This is SAFA's constituency. Furthermore because of our success and an almost universal concern for finanacial aid, our funding is provided from such a wide cross section of the college community as Chancellor Duffey, Vice Chancellor Madson, President Knapp, the SGA, Graduate Senate, and some area Governments. If I was to employ Mr. Barrett's "McCarthy-like" defamations I would have to assume that all these contributors have a "willing association with a leftist lobbying outfit."

What success has SAFA had in the last three years? When President Reagan came to office, he proposed to cut financial aid by 33 percent. Due to the efforts of student groups, such as SAFA, and the outcry from college and university presidents, financial aid has been cut only 6 percent in three years. This is still very short sighted when considering how vital education is to our society. I believe that these activities are "within reason" and "at a reasonable cost to the taxpayers". As a group SAFA has always had the reputation of being well informed on technical issues, and conducting itself in a professional manner. Speaker of the House Tip O'Neil has labeled SAFA "The most effective student lobbying group of its kind". In addition, SAFA has provided over 300 students with an opportunity to actively participate in the democratic process. For a lot of students this was a valuable experience.



I would also like to make clear to Mr. Barrett that SAFA membership is open to anyone in the five college community. The composition of our group is quite diverse. There is no political philosophy standard for admission. This is quite evident since Mr. Barrett was once a member himself, and surely would not want to be indiscriminately accused of leftist associations. SAFA's executive council even has a few members of The National Republican Committee. It would be difficult to suggest that we are "a group of Glassy eyed liberals".

It seems apparent that Mr. Barrett's true intent was to discredit the United States Student Association. I simply ask why didn't the editorial deal strictly with that subject? Why did the editorialist have to resort to unsubstantiated mud-slinging against a respected lobbying group that truly represents over 20,000 students here at UMass and their ability to pay for their education.

Jim Quinn
Sunderland

Sound off with your letters to the editor!!

A week of pink Bermuda beaches and warm Bermuda sun. Are you tough enough to take it?

Bermuda College Weeks
March 3 to 31 and April 14 to 21

One of our previous college visitors described this event as "a week of wretched excess." An exaggeration perhaps, but not altogether inaccurate.

Your week begins with a Sunday night Get Acquainted bash at one of our hotels, clubs or discos—meeting old friends, making new ones. The next morning, the tough part begins.

Spending day after sun-drenched day on soft, pink beaches. Swimming, tanning, body-gazing, imbibing our special libations. Enjoying free beach buffet lunches, free calypso and steel band waterside concerts, even a free cruise—all courtesy of the Bermuda Department of Tourism.

What will you do with your free time? What won't you do! Bermuda is famed for its snorkeling and sailing, tennis and golf. For its fine restaurants, discos and British pubs. And for its fabulous mopeds—everybody's favourite way to tour the island.

Think you can handle a week of this? Talk to your campus friends, and see your Campus Travel Representative or your Travel Agent for complete details.

For more information, including a Bermuda College Weeks brochure, contact your Campus Travel Representative or your Travel Agent.

Couldn't you use a little Bermuda this spring?

Bermuda

Arts

Today the music died

By DON NAREY
Collegian Staff

I can't remeber if I cried when I read about his widowed bride, but something touched me deep inside the day the music died.
-Don Mclean

That morning there wasn't much of a headline on page 66 of the New York Times: "Iowa Crash Kills Three Singers." There were no documentries or t.v. specials, no cover story in Time or Newsweek, no tabloids offering new accounts of the story. The young widow dedicated no monuments that year and there were no pilgrimages to the family homestead. Then, it wasn't considered especially newsworthy but on this day 25 years ago Buddy Holly died along with Richie Valens and J.P. (The Big Bopper) Richardson when their chartered plane crashed into a frozen Iowa corn field.

Years after his death Holly's genius would be realized again and again. The Rolling Stones, The Beatles and Linda Ronstadt all scored top ten hits with his songs. His influence upon them and others remains immeasurable. His innovations: the four piece rock band and over dubbing have become commonplace, and his music, with it's driving beat, has laid the foundation for 25 years of rock and roll.

Charles Hardin Holly was born in Lubbock, Texas in 1936. Raised on country sold on rhythm and blues, he would become part of a new generation of young musicians. In he early days, the teenaged Holly and a few friends would play all the local dances, keeping with the style of the day and play the popular country ballads. Holly, however, had other ideas. The force of R&B had taken hold and he was eager to write his own music to what would soon become known as a rock 'n roll beat.

His ideas were not welcomed at Decca records where he signed in 1956. The session producers at Decca insisted upon backing Holly with a full band of strings. After convincing the people at Decca to let him act as his own producer, Holly only appeared to prove them right. The two singles released from those sessions were commercial failures. After studio owner Norman Petty took an interest in Holly's music, the two returned to Petty's studio in Clovis, New Mexico. Out of that session came the music that would make Buddy a rock music legend. His first two singles, "Peggy Sue" and "That'll Be The Day" each sold over a million and a half copies and were followed by a chain of classic hits like "It's So Easy," "Maybe Baby," "Everyday," and "Not Fade Away."

After performing a show in Clearlake, Iowa, Holly, Valens and Richardson boarded a twin engine plane for the next stop of their extremely successful winter '59 tour. The plane had been airborne barely 5 minutes when it came crashing down into a frozen corn field, leaving no survivors. His influence remains immeasurable, his songs, classic and his spirit unassailable.

"Self" and "Bower" are two of the sculptures featured in an exhibition of work by Martin Puryear, which will be on display at the University Gallery from Feb. 4 to March 6. Call 545-3670 for gallery hours and further information.

Silkwood: a must see

SILKWOOD
Starring Meryl Streep
Directed by Mike Nichols

By CHARLES FRANCIS CARROLL
Collegian Correspondant
and the Associated Press

Silkwood, the recently released Mike Nichols film starring Meryl Streep as Karen Silkwood, has received so much press, both good and bad, that I found myself compelled to see it as soon as possible, regardless of the price. So I did, and in spite of the hype and my high expectations, I wasn't terribly disappointed: the semi-documentary drama is worth the cost of admission.

Meryl Streep's moving portrayal of nuclear martyr Karen Silkwood is one of those rare accomplishments in cinema biographies, such as Ben Kingsley in Gandhi, in which an actor/actress truly becomes the subject of their acting. Perhaps, such fine character rendering is the verve of this Academy Award-Winning actress, but, with Silkwood, Streep has given us her most sensitive and insightful interpretation yet, portraying Karen Silkwood in so convincing a manner that by movie's end we have frogotten the dazzling Streep and are thoroughly absorbed by the maligned Silkwood. I mention this because it is this very point which places Streep in an acting class by herself: when we see the great Katharine Hepburn on the screen, we never forget we are watching Katharine Hepburn. No doubt, Meryl Streep will win an Oscar for Best Actress as Silkwood.

The myth of the peaceful atom explodes as this drama unfolds about a Kerr-McGee nuclear plant worker whose detatched Sixties hipness sobers when she and other workers are repeatedly exposed to plutonium, the deadliest known substance on earth. Then, she must really get hip as she uncovers the wickedly crooked ways of the corporation in covering up safety records and their cancerous effects on the unknowing workers who are deliberately kept in the dark about the dangers of radiation exposure.

We watch while Silkwood becomes hopelessly entangled in the web of her fate at the hands of unscrupulous weavers, and yet we are unabashedly absorbed by Silkwood, not merely as martyr, but as empowered woman, for we witness a woman transformed from a passive worker more or less only concerned with her wages to an aggressive union activist about to turn over incriminating evidence to the N.Y. Times. We are reminded of the vital role women have had in the American Labor Movement by Silkwood-- a social consciousness film. with the dramatic quality of a Greek tragedy. Silkwood is a modern Antigone, her fate the misfortunate resolution of her actions, a tragic heroine. She should be a symbol for workers, women, activists, and all people of conscience. And yet to some viewers it will appear that Karen Silkwood got what she was asking for.

The movie ends with the end of Karen Silkwood's life, an ending which we are left to evaluate for ourselves, for we do not witness her controversial death. The scene, which is largely left to our imaginations, follows an earlier scene where Karen hits a deer with her car. She screeches to a stop, rushes out of her car and over to the dying deer--a doe--on the side of the road, and begins to weep. It is an innocent scene where an innocent animal is killed by an unintentional act of violence, an auto accident.

Karen Silkwood was also an innocent victim, but this is where the parallel ends, for it is not clear in the movie whether her death is an accident or not. It may be that her frightened looks at the headlights in her rear-view mirror make an implicit reference to a crime; however, when the crash occurs, more than her consciousness blacks out on the screen, but ours as well. In effect, justice is blinded also. Karen Silkwood's death remains an unsolved mystery. Obviously, the intent of the film is simply to raise the question.

Were I not satisfied that the purpose of the film is to put the Silkwood story into a human perspective out from under the more sensational aspects of the case, I would have been disapointed about the conclusion of Silkwood, or rather the lack of a conclusion. If I am at all disappointed by the film, it is that the film is not a powerfully political, anti-nuclear film as the press would have us believe, only that the Silkwood scenario occurs in a nuclear setting and her death my have been an assasination. It is disappointing that the movie merely implicates by suggestion, rather than by expose, Kerr-McGee's role in both the deliberate contamination and murder of Karen Silkwood.

Karen Silkwood was extremely frightened at the time of her death and she had good reason to be frightened. The movie Silkwood is frightening and we should be frightened by the rampant irresponsibility of the nuclear industry as depicted in Silkwood.

RT. 47 SUNDERLAND
You must be 18 to enter
Open 'til 2
665-4937
24 Hour Taped Message

The rusty nail Inn PROUDLY PRESENTS

Tonight
MAX CREEK
music of the Grateful Dead

Sat Night
Only Area Appearance of JONATHAN EDWARDS

SALE
20 - 50% off most winter clothing
20 - 30% off selected Chinese shoes
Posters India Prints Bedspreads
Mugs
- Rugs - Valentines
Open Daily 10 am - 5:30 pm
THE MERCANTILE
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
GREAT GIFTS – GREAT PRICES

The MEN'S CENTER presents
A film by an area men's group
"Postively Men"
Feb. 4 10 am - 1 pm CC 805-809
MEET TALK LISTEN EAT
PLAN SHARE LAUGH...

Hypercurricula

SEMINAR ON MEDITATION. Dada Moksananda, a visiting yogic monk will teach meditation and discuss his experiences and service work in Central America. Personal instruction available. For information 253-9553. 4 p.m., CC 801.

FACULTY RECITAL. Tenor Jon Humphrey and flutist Joanne Tanner will perform songs by Charles Griffes, and works of J.S. Bach, Rameau, and Kahlau. Free. 8 p.m., Bezanson Recital Hall.

KABBALAT SHABBAT. Creative welcoming of the Shabbat. 6:30 p.m., 72 Triangle St. Amherst.

CUBAN POSTER ART. Slides and discussion on Cuba and Cuban culture by John Brentlinger and others at 4 p.m. -- Poster sale by Antonio Maceo Brigade. 3-6 p.m., Frame Shop Gallery, 18 Main St. Amherst.

STUDY ABROAD IN GREAT BRITAIN. Representative of Beaver College Programs in the U.K. and faculty from Surrey University and University of Wales will be available to talk to students wishing to study in Britain next year. Semester or year programs. International Programs Office, 239 Whitmore, 3-5 p.m.

SHABBAT MORNING SERVICES, 10:30 a.m., Dukes Room, Student Union.

HILLEL SLEIGH RIDE. Sleigh Ride in the Westhampton countryside. Leaving Haigis Mall (FAC bus stop) at 3:30 p.m.

RECITAL BY DIANA WALKER, SOPRANO. International competition winner, Diana Walker, will perform works by Handel, Schubert, Brahms, and Debussy at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall. 8:00 p.m., Fine Arts Center Concert Hall.

EUROPE by CAR
RENT or BUY
LOWEST PRICES
FOR STUDENTS, TEACHERS
EUROPE BY CAR
One Rockefeller Plaza
New York, N.Y. 10020
Phone (212) 581-3040
Mail this ad for Special Student/Teacher Tariff.
RENTAL LEASE PURCHASE

MEN.... ATTENTION.... WOMEN
MODELS WANTED***
A major manufacturer of professional hair care products needs models to show the latest hair styles at a professional hair stylist beauty show. Models receive a consultation from the internationally known stylist who will be conducting the demonstration. This is an excellent opportunity to have your hair styled by one of todays finest hairdressers. We need models to show the latest styles including permanent waves, color and newest cuts. For more information and registration please call Robbins Beauty Supply, out of town use toll free 1-800-332-9550; ask for show department: or come directly to model call on. . .
Sunday, February 12th, 1984
Holyoke Holiday Inn (Ingleside Exit Rt 91)
Lobby Area 12:00 noon
. . .look for Mr. Patrick Parenty of the Nucleic A Company
The show will be held at the Holyoke Holiday Inn on Monday February 13th, 1984.
For further information from the manufacturer call Patrick Parenty at 201-531-1705.

ANNOUNCING: Peer Education Recruitment
University Health Services offers Spring 1984 credited course work as:
★ Peer Sexuality Educators
★ Peer Alcohol Educators
★ Health Aides and
★ HealthReach Workers
Training and working with others to round out your University experience:
INQUIRE OR APPLY AT
HEALTH EDUCATION / 549-2671 ext. 181

SHOWCASE CINEMAS
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE ROAD
WEST SPRINGFIELD 733-5131
BARGAIN MATINEE DAILY FIRST SHOW ONLY $2.50
CONTINUOUS SHOWS SAT., SUN. AND HOLIDAYS - LATE SHOW FRI. AND SAT.
ONE OF THE YEAR'S TEN BEST
"One brunning blockbuster of a motion picture. Powerful, harrowing, deeply affecting, shocking, disturbing, unforgettable" New York Post
STAR 80
BOB FOSSE'S "STAR 80" with MARIEL HEMINGWAY ERIC ROBERTS CLIFF ROBERTSON CARROLL BAKER ROGER REES DAVID CLENNON ALAN HEIM SVEN NYKVIST WOLFGANG G. KNITES KENNETH UTT
BOB FOSSE
STARTS TODAY
"TRIUMPHANT FILM MAKING" LOS ANGELES TIMES
"There are sequences in this movie that make your jaw drop open out of genuine amazement." NEWSWEEK
NEVER CRY WOLF
NOW SHOWING

Take Charge At 22.

In most jobs, at 22 you're near the bottom of the ladder.

In the Navy, at 22 you can be a leader. After just 16 weeks of leadership training, you're an officer. You'll have the kind of job your education and training prepared you for, and the decision-making authority you need to make the most of it.

As a college graduate and officer candidate, your Navy training is geared to making you a leader. There is no boot camp. Instead, you receive professional training to help you build the technical and management skills you'll need as a Navy officer.

This training is designed to instill confidence by first-hand experience. You learn by doing. On your first sea tour, you're responsible for managing the work of up to 30 men and the care of sophisticated equipment worth millions of dollars.

It's a bigger challenge and a lot more responsibility than most corporations give you at 22. The rewards are bigger, too. There's a comprehensive package of benefits, including special duty pay. The starting salary is $17,000—more than most companies would pay you right out of college. After four years, with regular promotions and pay increases, your salary will have increased to as much as $31,000.

As a Navy officer, you grow, through new challenges, new tests of your skills, and new opportunities to advance your education, including the possibility of attending graduate school while you're in the Navy.

Don't just take a job. Become a Navy officer, and take charge. Even at 22.

NAVY OPPORTUNITY INFORMATION CENTER W 341
P.O. Box 5000, Clifton, NJ 07015
☐ I'm ready to take charge. Tell me more about the Navy's officer programs. (OG)
Name (First) (Please Print) (Last)
Address Apt. #
City
State Zip
†College/University
Age ‡Year in College ♦GPA
▲Major/Minor
Phone Number (Area Code) Best Time to Call
This is for general recruitment information. You do not have to furnish any of the information requested. Of course, the more we know, the more we can help to determine the kinds of Navy positions for which you qualify.

Navy Officers Get Responsibility Fast.

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

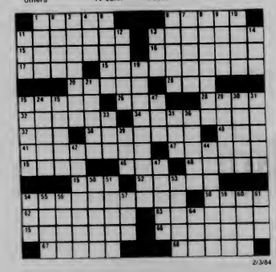
Superbad — G.H.

The UMass Zone — Mark Rollins

MASS PHOBIA — Winmill

The Strip — Bert Saveriano and Jim Walsh

Shagnasty — O.T. Derringer



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Popular mystery movie 1944
6 The Man Without a Country
11 Award in a sport
13 Beach area of New England
15 Sluggishness
16 Marjoram's cousin
17 Admission receipts
18 Begins
20 Saint of January 21
22 Concorde
23 Indians of British Columbia
26 Bambi's mother
28 Name for a colleen
32 Sweater pattern
34 Someone esteemed as rare
37 Naught
38 Issued (from)
40 Caviar
41 Industrial center of Brazil
43 Charlemagne's paladin
45 Chemical ending
46 Adams of the Conning Tower
48 Tomlin and others
49 Snake
52 Graven images
54 Pieces of bad luck, old style
58 — the world
62 — Place, Toronto tourist mecca
63 Give a bad name
65 Gardner and Babilonia
66 Brown coal
67 Menu items
68 Comforts

DOWN
1 Horne
2 Dill herb
3 Like Einstein of old
4 Hairpiece
5 Charged atom
6 Nostril
7 Begins
8 Envoys
9 — may look at a king
10 — but the brave
11 Farm denizen
12 Ascertained weight of 13 Gear tooth
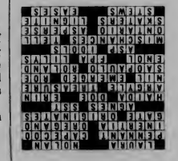
14 John — Passos
19 Like some crystals
21 Part of the calyx
23 Merchant guild of yore
24 Indo European. Var
25 Abode of a sort
27 Unit of work
29 Pastoral
30 Sarcasm
31 Requires
33 Flightless bird
35 Alter auction or profit
36 — 3 House" by Ibsen
39 Mythical being
42 Appease
44 Heeds
47 Let's make —
50 Shakespeare's Kate
51 Sorts, in a way
53 Actor Davis
54 Calendar units Abbr.
55 Signs (with "in")
56 R.B.I. for example
57 Integers Abbr
59 Histonic canal
60 WWII ships
61 Grant or Marvin
64 Golfer's group Abbr.



2/3/84

Collegian
Recruitment meeting
● Experience
● Involvement
● Excitement
● Open to all majors
Wednesday
Feb. 8
8 pm-9 pm
Room 805 C.C.

Weather

Today mostly cloudy, breezy and mild. A chance of showers, especially during the afternoon, highs in the mid 40s. Tonight and Saturday, mild with periods of rain or wet snow likely. Temperatures remaining in the 30s.

Todays puzzle answer

Could Finland goalie be DQ?

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) - Eric Heiden took five gold medals away from the 1980 Winter Olympics and returned little or nothing to speed skating, a former teammate charged Thursday.

Controversy was a key word in Sarajevo, which sat ready for the 1984 Winter Games to begin in five days. On the official level, the International Olympic Committee dealt with an issue involving the Los Angeles Olympics this summer and prepared to take up the sticky matter of eligibility in ice hockey.

The United States and Canada have been sniping over possible Canadian plans to include players who have minor-league contracts on their Olympic roster. And on Thursday, the eligibility questions touched the Finnish team.

Willi Daume, chairman of the IOC's Eligibility Committee, said he would question at an IOC eligibility meeting the status of Hannu Kamppure, firststring goaltender for Finland, who played in one game for the Edmonton Oilers of the old World Hockey Association in the 1978-1979 season.

"He did not follow the rules," Daume said. "He played in a professional league."

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE YOU AN ACCOUNTING MAJOR?

I need a tutor for Accounting 202 Please call 546-7035 and ask for Michael if interested (call eves)

ATTENTION: WE'RE HIRING DJ'S

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT is hiring qualified DJ's. Experience preferred, good personality and knowledge of music required. Reply to: Box 48, Amherst, MA 01004

CAPE COD

Housematas wanted for 6 bedroom house in Harwich half mile to beach 546-5851

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yermouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

ENTERTAINMENT

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets -ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739

Singer/Songwriter John Cruz this Fri & Sat night at TOC. Acoustic guitar/vocals pop, soft-rock, originals

PROFESSIONAL DJs FOR LESS. 4 years of Quality Disc Jockey Service at UMass. Why pay more? 256-1393

Wicked and Wild DJ's for hire. Quality sound at the lowest price. Call 584-6712

FOR RENT

Parking available 496 No. Pleasant St. next to Newman Center 253-9015

Lrg room in log cabin in Leverett wood heat 6 miles from campus beautiful location 549-4497 Laura or Stu

FOR SALE

Pentex ME Super 35mm Camera with 50mm F2 lens and Pentax auto-winder 6 mos. old with all packaging $225.00 see Andy at the Collegian Photo Dept.

5 cubic ft. frig like new $125. call 549-6219 keep trying

Computer terminal, standard type must sell immediately $375 call Rob 586-6889

Refrigeretor for sale. 4.5 cu. ft. twice the size of regular dorm fridges. Only two yrs. old. Excellent cond. $90 or BO call Tom 253-7373

Beseler Enlerger for Photo Derkroom use. Ex. cond. only $100.00 contact Drew or David at the Photo Dept/Collegian Campus Center Rm 113 545-3500.

VIC-20 computer system, modem, disk extras. Call 549-4696 after 5 pm

Dorm size refrigerator $75 or BO new kitchen table with two matching chairs $60 or BO ironing board BO 549-6109

Guild Electric Guiter with case $225 brand new Scamper Amp $110 call Gary 665-3013

Seers Commentator electric typewriter with corrector, excellent condition, $225 includes cover and case. Lynda 253-3950

Cube Fridge - keep it cool in your room why rent when you can buy $49 549-3535

FOUND

Drame Text, in parking lot, call to identify.

FREE KARATE DEMO

Challenge Fighting, Musical Forms, Dueling Kicks. Featuring Larry and Donna Kelley, "Americas #1 Black Belt Couple". 7 February, 6:00-7:00 p.m. S.U.B.

HELP WANTED

Need cash? Earn $500 + each school year, 2-4 (flexible) hours per week placing and filling posters on campus. Serious workers only; we give recommendations. 1-800-243-6679

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Consulting Experience - Accredited Course - School Education, working with student run businesses. Applications at E.D.O. 409 S.U.B. due by Feb. 8.

Jobs available at Earthfoods student run restaurant collective. Work 8-20 hours, depending on your class schedule. $3.50 hr. MANDATORY non-paid hours include 2-4 hours per week management work and Monday night meetings. Work study O.K. Workers MUST be full-time UMass students. Application deadline: Friday February 3 at 5 p.m. Applications and more information available at Earthfoods Kitchen, 3rd floor, Student Union, around the corner from the ride board. EOE, affirmative action employer

Weekend cook wanted at local sorority. Experience wanted. Call 545-0527 for more info.

Kitchen help wanted in exchange for meals (great working conditions!) call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6867

Position available -- Coordinator --UMass Men's Center. Duties include: coordination of: administrative, programming and outreach, budget & evaluation. 10-15 hrs. week @ 3.35 committment to social issues/awareness a must. Applications and job description available Brett Rm 130

Recycling Coordinetors needed for dorms. Earn a credit & a letter of recommendation for volunteering. Recycle newspaper & glass in your dorm! 545-0618, 306 SUB

Kitchen help needed in exchange for free meals Beta Kappa Phi call 253-9071 ask for Stevie D

Weitresses, apply at Rusty Nail, 3 to 5 weekdays, no experience necessary general office help MS 1-6 daily

Attention kitchen help needed. Earn $550 in D.C. rebate while gaining full access to fraternity meal plan! For more info call Pike between 9:30-5:00 pm. Ask for Jim. 545-2150

Work for meals and enjoy great company! Sorority needs houseboys call Linda 549-4159

Wanted - underclass Accounting/Business majors for part-time job in a collectively run food store. If you would like to develop practical accounting and organizational skills, apply to Peoples Market, in rear of Student Union by 5 pm Fri, Feb 3. We do not discriminate on the basis of race, creed, national origin, sexual preference or physical handicap.

People's Market, a student-run food store in the rear of the Student Union is now accepting applications for employment. If you would like to work in a collectively run business, gain valuable skills in a friendly atmosphere, pick up an application at the Market by 5 pm Fri, Feb 3. We do nor discriminate on the basis of race, creed, national origin, sexual preference or physical handicap.

Experianced reliable childcare sought for 4 yr old call Carolyn 253-3162

Sorority looking for help in kitchen. Lunch & dinner. Call anytime at 545-0320/1. Ask for Peg or Mary.

Earn credits tutoring High School students! For info call 545-2584

Airlinas Hiring! Stewardesses, Reservationists! $14-39,000. Worldwide! Call for directory, guide, newsletter. 1-(916) 944-4440 X U Massachusetts Dir.

Cruiseships Hiring! $16-30,000! Carribean, Hawaii, World. Call for guide, directory, newsletter. 1-(916) 944-4440 ext. U Massachusetts Cruise

Counselors: Camp Weyne, Northeastern Penna. Co-ed children's camp. Interested in Resident Assistants and other students who really love children. Our specialty is our warm and caring atmosphere, 12 Allevard St. Lido Beach NY 11561 (include your telephone number)

Dorm residants for Frankies new food delivery service to UMass dorms. Excellent potential for income. Requirements: automobile and desire to make money call 256-0858 for more information or apply in person at Frankies Restaurant directly in front of Stop and Shop on Rt 9

Test Yoursalf: Are you an effective time-manager? Can you work 2-4 hrs/wk consistently? Are you success-oriented? Earn base + performance-based bonuses. 1-800-243-6706

INSTRUCTION

Know your car. Basic Automobile Workshop. Classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-2098

Bass and guitar lessons $8/hr for more info call george 584-0708

LOST

Lost during intersession on pr. grey suede leather gloves w/rabbit fur lining. Please call Dave 253-7658

One pair of brown leather gloves. They were a gift. Please call 6-7197 or 5-4208 leave a message for Steve.

On 1/30/84 - mens gold ring initials on face reward call 546-9893

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust
Ft. Lauderdale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down
for more info 545-3437

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
NON-MEMBERS WELCOME
FOR MORE INFO 545-3437

Juniors, Seniors, Grad Students! Enjoy the convenience of your own credit cards at leading department stores, oil companies, and banks. No cost to apply. If you are a Junior, Senior, or Graduate Student, you're eligible. Call TOLL FREE 800-232-1100, M-F, 9 am - 6 pm College Card Corporation "The Most Trusted Name on Campus."

Me Stecker, live it up while you're still young! Happy Birthday! Love, Yum & Shara

Need help with your 1984-85 financial aid form? Call perfect forms 584-6868 for personalized assistance at a nominal fee

Sheperd-Collie, 5 years old, needs foster home until August. Jessie is affectionate, playful, well-trained, loves kids. We will subsidize. 256-0404

Happy Birthday Smoothie, I love you. Your Sexy Turnip

Like they say at the Pub, Happy Birthday Amy Bial. Old enough to drink but not yet old enough for using a mastercharge! Happy 20th! Love Wendy Scholastic Quiz Teem Meeting! Saturday, Noon CC Rm 917 all encouraged

PROFESSIONAL TYPING SERVICE

Dissertations, Theses, Cases, low rates, on campus 584-7924 Nancy

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to Boston every Thursday after 2 or Friday AM. Return every Sunnday PM or Monday. 546-4316

RIDERS WANTED

To Los Angeles Spring Break leave March 17 - brand new luxury car call Ilisa 549-5920

ROOM WANTED

One male looking for an apartment call Gary 546-9762 leave name and number

Single room wanted in house or apt call Rosie 586-7230

Older student seeking reasonably quiet room off campus preferably N. Amherst. Call 549-1168 and ask or leave message for Bob please my igloo is bound to melt sooner or later

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male, one room in two bedroom apartment Brittany Manor 256-1374

Room for two people in in Amherst Fields condo $125 plus utilities 256-6691 after 7:00 pm

Roommeta wanted to share 2 br. Cliffside Apt w/1 female call Robin or Ellen at 256-0958

SERVICES

Typing, Copies, Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0694 anytime

Holiday clothes need hemming? Area's lowest rates. Experienced seamstress. Joan 549-5548

TYPING fast, reliable, professional. Manuscripts, stats, correspondence, etc. Reasonable rates 665-3414

SPRING BREAK 84

84 SPRING BREAK 84

Daytona Beach 259 price includes round trip jet 7 nights hotel Quality Inn ReefFree rent a carunlimited mileage

Ft Lauderdale 259 round trip jet 7 nights hotel Days Inn Broward Blud Free rent a carunlimited mileage Montreal Spring Breal Weekends

from $49.00
price includes round trip luxury motor coach 3 days 2 nights Quality Inn Downtown
Welcome Party at the Old Munich Restaurant. All above prices do not include tax & service charges

College Town Tours
482 Main St Malden MA 02148
617 321 3993
Beachcomber Tours Daytona Beach $338.00
does not include car jet from Boston

Village Tours Ft Lauderdale $389.85
does not include car hotel: Days Inn
jet from Boston

College Town Tours Daytona 318.00
including free rent a car unlimited mileage jet from NY add $20 from Boston

Ft Lauderdale $338 jet, hotel, Days Inn free rent a car unlimited mileage
jet from Boston
all above prices include tax + services

make your own choice

TO SUBLET

1 br in house near UMass and Am Center for spring. Call now 549-0159

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley, Instructor. First class meets Wednesday 4 p.m. February 8th. Cost: $55 per semester (includes shirt) Beginner and intermediate karate students welcome. Call 256-0080

WANT TO BE A DJ?

WSYL Radio 89.7 needs DJs 1st meeting 2/6 8 pm Ceshin Bsmt call 6-6262 for more info

WANTED

WFCR-FM needs student interns for work in news reporting and station operations. Call the program director at 5-0100

WANTED TO RENT

How does 1506 sound for your apartment for May 26th to June 3rd, help lessen that months rent before your summer sublattors come. Call 549-1168

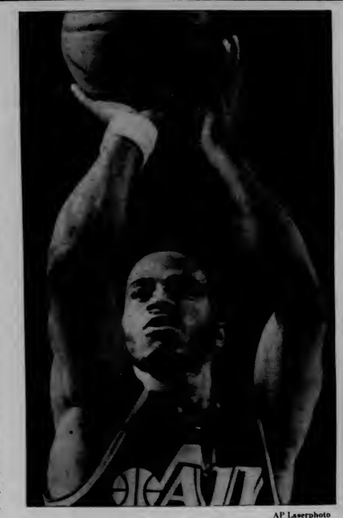
WORK-STUDY HELP WANTED

The Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Comm. has one work-study position for an office assistant. Applicants should have organizing skills, research and writing skills. Deadline for application is Feb 8th 5:00 WMLASC is an AA/EEO amployer. Applications availeble in WMLASC Offcie 404 Student Union Bldg

Surprise, Surprise It's the Utah Jazz

By SCOTT HOOD
Collegian Staff

"The first shall be last, the last shall be first"
-Jesus Christ



It may have taken some 2,000 years (or 730,000 days or 104,000 weeks, whichever you prefer), but the Big Guy has finally been proven right, in this the year of George Orwell. What is the magic moment that fulfilled this prophecy, uttered many moons before the birth of guaranteed, no-cut, million dollar contracts? None other than the meteoric rise of a pro basketball team that resides in a desert paradise (well, Brigham Young thought so) occupied by thousands of Mormons.

It is one of the most contradictory nicknames in corporate sports: The Utah Jazz. Unless the Mormon Tabernacle Choir has changed their image and sound, there is nary a jazz note ever heard in Salt Lake City. Half the population probably has never seen a saxophone, let alone heard one. However, Jazz is the newest sensation in Utah, only this Jazz is twelve tall guys who play basketball very well. So well in fact that they presently are entrenched in first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, a phenonmenon that has never occurred in the history of the franchise that dates back to New Orleans in the early 1970's (now you know why they're called the Jazz). In fact, the franchise's past is so bleak that an NBA team nicknamed the Jazz has never made the playoffs, even in this modern era of everyone and their grandmother capable of qualifying for the post-season frolics.

The players sparking this new-found prosperity include scorer deluxe Adrian Dantley, who is in a back-and-forth battle with Dallas' Mark Aguirre for the scoring lead, jump-to-the-moon guard Darrell Griffith, who is the leading three-point shooter in the league, 7-5 center Mark Eaton, the league's leading shot-blocker, much maligned John Drew, the best points-per-minute scorer in the NBA, and Ricky Green, who is first in steals and fifth in assists.

What these players have accomplished is transforming the Jazz from perennial losers to the NBA's elite. In the three previous campaigns in Utah (they moved there prior to the 1980-81 season), the Jazz won 30, 28, and 25 games. This season they are 27-16, three games ahead of second-place Dallas and eight games ahead of disappointing San Antonio. They own the Western Conference's best record and coach Frank Layden, who also serves as GM, was recently rewarded for his outstanding job by being the conference's All-Star coach in the game last Sunday in Denver.

For Dantley, the success is especially sweet. As a 6-5 rookie power forward in 1976-77 for the Buffalo Braves, Dantley tore up the league and was named the rookie of the year. The next season was nightmarish. After his rookie season he was traded to Los Angeles. After playing a few games for the Lakers, he was shipped to Indiana. In the summer of 1979 he was traded to Utah. That's four teams in one calendar year for a player considered one of the league's best young players. Now, for the first time in five years in Utah, he is playing on a winner. He won the scoring title in 1980-81, but the team finished fifth, only because the expansion Dallas Mavericks won only 16 games.

AP Laserphoto

SHOOTING FOR THE PLAYOFFS -- Darrell Griffith is leading the Utah Jazz as they lead the Midwest Division.

Women host NE

By ADAM NAZIMOWITZ
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's basketball team will try to break a six game losing streak tomorrow as they host Northeastern University, one of the top teams in the Northeast, who beat nationally ranked Rutgers last month.

Sophomore Karen Damminger will see limited action due to a bruised coccyx, and another sophomore, Kelly Collins is out for the season due to injury and will be red-shirted.

Barbara Hebel leads the Minutewomen in scoring with a 16.3 average. Damminger is scoring 9.6 points per game and pulling down 4.2 rebounds a game.

Jennifer Todd who started in place of Damminger against Providence will probably fill that role again. Jerrie Bernier has been picking up some of the slack with 7.8 points and 5.4 rebounds a game, but UMass will still need more rebounding.

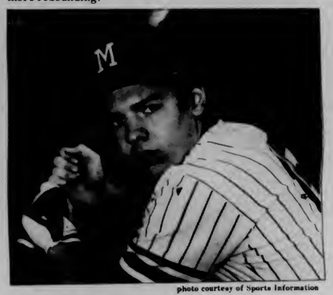


photo courtesy of Sports Information

Todd Ezold....Olympic prospect.

★Catcher

Continued from page 16

demonstration with the tournament to be held in 50,000 seat Dodger Stadium. The finals are already sold out.

So Ezold has a legit shot at the team and if he does make the US team, he would join former UMass pitcher Lou Colabello, 34, who pitched for Massachusetts in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Colabello has spent the last nine years playing ball in Italy and is now an Italian citizen and a member of the Italian team.

FOUR SEASONS

Location: On Route 9 in Front of Mountain Farms Mall
Just a quick jaunt from free bus stop at Hampshire Mall

MEISTER BRAU	cans	$7.99
MILLER	cans	$9.99
LITE	cans	$9.99
STROHS	bar bts	$8.99
SCHAEFFER	bar bts	$7.99
GENESSE BEER	bar bts	$6.95
VODKA & GIN	1.75 L	$7.99
RUM	1.75	$9.49
WILD TURKEY 101°	500	$6.49
DEWARS SCOTCH	750	$9.49
AMARETTO DI SARONNO	750	$11.99
RIUNITE	Lambrusco, Bianco, Rosato, D'ord 1.5	$4.49
ANDRE CHAMPAGNE	white, pink, cold duck 750	$2.99
GALLO TABLE WINES	1.5	$3.99
E & J VARIETALS Chenin Blanc, French Columbard, Rose, Jo. Riesling, Sauvignon Blanc 1.5		$3.99
LIEBFRAUMILCH	750	$2.99
FRENCH RABBIT	red & white 750	$2.99

Beer Balls - Kegs - Cups

Free Delivery

Sports

Minutemen break the road jinx, 75-60

By BRIAN MURPHY
Collegian Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK, Penn. -- The streak is over!

The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team had lost 33 consecutive games on the road. But last night at Rec Hall on Joe Paterno's hallowed grounds, the Minutemen defeated Penn State 75-60.

"A lot of people had made a big thing about this being a road win," UMass head coach Ron Gerlufsen said. "But we look at it as an Atlantic 10 win."

Credit this victory to the Minutemen front line. They outrebound Penn State 37-24 in the game, including 12 offensive rebounds. Horace Neysmith led the board bangers with 11 and Bobby Braun came off the bench to haul in nine rebounds.

Edwin Green continued his hot spree as he had 20 points, nine rebounds, and four blocked shots. Donald Russell also supplied some offense as he scored a season high 18 points.

"I've been pleased with the front line all year," Gerlufsen said. "We're strong there."

UMass 7-10, 3-6 in the conference, started the game in rare fashion exploding to a 17-9 lead. But Penn State, now 5-11, 3-6, came back outscoring the Minutemen 14-1 to take a 23-18 lead. It was a see-saw battle the rest of the way. The half ended with Penn State holding a slim 33-32 advantage.

The second half was all Massachusetts as John Hempel and Russell pushed UMass to a 46-37 lead and then Green went to work.

A dunk-you-very-much stuff by Green and two short jumpers gave Massachusetts a 52-39 lead with 10:05 left and it was time to head for your local watering hole.

UMass shot 67 percent (16-24) from the floor in the second half and in conjunction, Penn State shot an icy 28 percent (8-28) from the floor and the 2800 hard cores waited for the fall, Beaver Stadium and Joe Paterno.

Oh, by the way, UMass has a streak going. One straight on the road.

MINUTEMEN MUTTERINGS -- Penn State's 6'10 center Dick Mumma was limited to two rebounds and 10 points. Meanwhile, freshman guard Carl Smith, at 5'11, grabbed seven rebounds. Smith also had eight assists and currently is ranked eighth in the country. Carl Smith was also named co-rookie of the week last week.

MASSACHUSETTS (75) Neysmith 3-4-10, Hempel 5-2-12, Green 8-4-20, Carl Smith 3-0-6, Russell 6-6-18, Braun 2-1-5, Young 2-0-4, Sheehan 0-0-0, Ramming 0-0-0, Shaw 0-0-0, Craig Smith 0-0-0.

PENN STATE (60) Choice 4-3-11, Griffin 3-1-7, Mumma 4-2-10, Gibson 4-4-12, Collins 1-2-4, Forjan 2-0-4, Grier 2-2-6, Graves 0-0-0, Murphy 2-2-6.

Barn-burner at Boyden for men's gymnastics

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

Hot is the only word to describe the meet in Boyden gym Saturday at 1:00 between the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team and Division II champion East Strousburg. The Minutemen are looking to be in top form as the meet will be a close one and will contain top gymnastics performances.

"It's going to be a barn-burner of a meet," assistant coach John Macurdy said, "only we're going to be doing the burning."

The Minutemen are coming off of a 95-point crunching of Dartmouth on Tuesday night in which they scored their second highest team total of the season, 249.55. UMass will need consistent performances from all team members since East Strousburg is scoring in the high 250's.

Event by event, the floor exercises will be the closest. East Strousburg's Devot Garrett is one of the top power tumblers in the country. Coach Roy Johnson said he will be looking for strong performances from tri-captain Willie Stevens, Joe Demarco and Phil Gorgone to beat the scores of Garrett and top all around John Ribeiro, from Brazil, who is the leading all around in division II competition.

With the exception of Ribeiro, East Strousburg has a weak pommel horse team.

UMass has been improving its horse team and with top performances from Mark Quevillon, Ken Dougherty and Bert Mathieson, the team should win the event.

The still rings event should fall in the Minutemen's favor with Eric Ciccone trying to outmuscle Ribeiro in one of his best events. Strousburg's strongest event is long horse vaulting and UMass will have to do some hard concentrating to take the event.

"We can stay with East Strousburg," Coach Roy Johnson said. "We've got to land on our feet (in vaulting). We've got to concentrate on performing with technique."

The parallel bars event will be close between the two teams, with deciding factor being the high bar event. UMass will look for strong routines from Mathieson and Stevens.

Tri-captain Jim Corbett will be back in the lineup after missing the Dartmouth meet due to illness. Corbett will add extra points to the team score as he competes in floor, rings, vaulting and parallel bars.

"Whoever lands their dismount in highbar should win the meet," Johnson said. "I think this could be the best meet of the year for us because of the competition."

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

FLYING -- Phil Gorgone grabs the rings as he flies through the air against Dartmouth. The gymnasts host E. Stroudsburg tomorrow.

False start helps UMass men swimmers to victory

By ED HAYWARD
Collegian Staff

A new Atlantic 10 Conference rule helped the University of Massachusetts men's swimming team defeat the University of Connecticut 60-53 in the last event of their meet held at Boyden pool on Wednesday.

Holding onto a narrow 56-50 lead going into the final event, the 400 freestyle relay, the UMass foursome of Paul McNeil, Jeff Piaget, John Piazza, and Brian Semle was in for a tough battle with a UConn team that Minutemen Head Coach Russ Yarworth felt was strong enough to win the race. A first place finish would have given the visitors seven points and a 57-56 victory.

However, Connecticut's lead swimmer Brian Gibson jumped the starter's gun. According to a rule brought into effect this season; one false start and a swimmer, or in this case a relay team, is disqualified. With the competition removed from the blocks UMass swam to an easy victory.

Of the final event, Yarworth said, "They have a good relay team and they probably would have beat us. But it's part of swimming. If you can't start properly..."

UConn mistakes are not the only things that helped the Minutemen win the meet. Yarworth estimates that his swimmers set 15 to 20 "personal best" times.

The 400 medley relay team finished another victory. Chris Porter finished first in the 100 yard freestyle and second in the 200 free. Mike Hoover finished first in the breaststroke, second in the 100 individual medley, and third in the 50 free. Phil Surrette won the 200 I.M., placed second in the 200 breast, and third in the 200 backstroke.

"This is a 22 man team and I believe it takes everyone to win. Today all the guys swam well. I'm really pleased with the way we're progressing," Yarworth said of his team's effort. "I was worried until today. Now after this meet, I feel good about the rest of the season," he added.

The diving team also played an important role in the victory. John Macurdy turned in another fine performance as he won both the one and three meter competitions. John Findley and Pat Mullen also contributed as Massachusetts divers wallopped UConn by a score of 16-2.

UMass was without the services of freshman standout Rick Bishop, who is out with a bad shoulder. "It's been bothering him for a while and he really messed it up in the Rhode Island meet. With him we would have won the freestyle events (the 1000 and 500). We miss him, " Yarmouth said. It is not known how long Bishop will be out.

UMass's record improves to 4-3 while UConn's drops to 5-6. The Minutemen travel to Vermont this Saturday for their next meet.

UMass catcher has a shot at the Olympics

By GERRY deSIMAS
Collegian Staff

Even though there is still snow on the ground, the University of Massachusetts baseball team is already planning on getting ready for their 1984 season.

And for one of the team's players, this season will hold a special significance. Judging on what he does this season, junior Todd Ezold may be selected to play on the 1984 United States Olympic baseball team.

Ezold, a junior catcher who batted .272 for Dick Bergquist's Minutemen last spring, is one of the 44 athletes that the US coaching staff will watch this season.

"He is under consideration," said Bergquist, who assisted in the organizational work of the US baseball federation to get the tryouts under way. "He has come a long way to get this far. But he'll be facing some stiff competition."

But the chance is there. He earned his chance by starting out at one of the 65 Olympic tryout camps last September. Ezold was selected as the best candidate at the Springfield College tryout and he went to Louisville along with the top candidates from the other tryout camps.

In October at Lousiville, after going through three days of throwing, hitting, fielding, and running drills, Ezold was chosen to be one of the 44 who will be watched.

In late May, 25 finalists will be selected and after a six week tour of the country, 20 will be selected for the Olympic team that will compete in a six team tournament in Los Angeles.

Besides the United States, Cuba, Nicaragua, South Korea, Taiwan, and Italy will compete in the

Continued on page 15

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXVI, Issue 2 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Monday, February 6, 1984

Feminists debate deployment of U.S. missiles

Western European panelists applaud at end of nuclear missile discussion Friday.

By CHRIS ARROLL
Collegian Correspondent

British-born actress and activist Julie Christie joined seven other western European feminists at Hampshire College Friday night in condemning the United States' planned deployment of Pershing II and Cruise medium-range nuclear missiles in Italy, Belgium, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

The panel discussion, entitled "Whose side are you on?" focused on the planned deployment of the U.S. missiles and their counterparts, the Soviet SS-20 nuclear missiles already based in Eastern European countries'.

Christie, who has been active in the disarmament movement in the United Kingdom for three years, said the majority of people in Western Europe were not consulted about the scheduled deployment of the Euromissiles.

"We're not anti-American nor anti-communism," Christie said. "We are anti-hundreds of missiles deployed in our country."

Because the arms race is a contest of two superpowers, Third World countries are forced to align with either the United States or the Soviet Union, and this forces popular opinion into the background, she said.

"A new European alliance has been created rather than this fraudulent alliance called NATO," she said, referring to the European peace movement. "No other issue for the last 40 years has caused as much anger in Europe."

Over the past four years, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's presence in West Germany has added "new dimensions" to the question of war and peace, according to Hannegret Hones, a member of the West German parliament representing the Green Party.

"The time has come to no longer become loyal to the governments but to become loyal to the peace movement itself," Hones said.

Hones explained that the recent deployment of the Euromissiles has "affected the balance of terror" between the United States and the Soviet Union by adding arsenals to "an already ridiculous number of nuclear weapons" on NATO's side.

Italy's anti-nuclear movement is centralized at the Comiso Peace Camp in Comiso, Sicily.

"Do you think Sicily will be a pleasant place to live in this place that President Reagan calls his unsinkable submarine?" Francesca Piatti, a leader at the peace camp at Comiso, said.

The camp is buying land surrounding the intended missile site in Comiso, and renting this land to other disarmament groups and individuals in an attempt to prevent the installation of 112 nuclear missiles and 6,000 NATO troops throughout Italy.

Some of the people most opposed to the deployment of the Euromissiles are the peasant farmers of Comiso.

"The products which they grow are going to get a very bad name," Piatti said.

Frouwke Laning, physician and member of the Netherlands parliament, told an audience of more than 300 that "nobody who wants peace prepares for war."

She warned that science should be more responsible and cautious about its new technologies and said the "idea of an enemy should be disposed and replaced with trust."

Danielle Grunbert, national coordinator of the Women's Peace Alliance and a member of the European Nuclear Disarmament Coordinating Committee, said military spending aggravates worldwide socio-economic problems.

The American Friends Service Committee, the Women's Studies Department at UMass, Women Against Militarism, and the Women's Center at Hampshire College, and Hampshire College and the Five College International Security Council sponsored the panel.

Drive held this week to register students

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

Today is the first day of "UMass Big Vote '84," a coalition effort to register University of Massachusetts students in time for the March 13 Massachusetts presidential primary.

The five-group coalition hopes to register at least 4,000 students here by conducting an intensive seven day voter registration drive, with registrars to be on campus today through Tuesday.

Voters must be registered Democrats or Independents by next Tuesday to be eligible to vote in March's Democratic primary.

This registration drive is non-partisan.

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis and Secretary of State Michael Connolly have proclaimed the week of Feb. 7-14 as student voter registration week.

"Young people could be the decisive element in elections around the country if they get out there and register," Dukakis told a group of student leaders in his statehouse office Thursday.

There are more than 400,000 students attending universities and colleges in Massachusetts, about 50,000 of whom are registered to vote. Nationally, an estimated 28 million young people who are eligible to vote are not registered.

"I think a lot of people are intimidated to vote because of lack of information," said Fran Pheeny, chair of the Undergraduate Student Senate's Public Policy Committee and a drive organizer. "They don't realize how simple it is to register, and they think it will be too much of a bother. This is one myth we're trying to break."

Any student can register by filling out an index card with their name, address, and age. No identification is required.

Kurt Norwood, commuter advocate for the Commuter Area Government, said it is important for students to show political candidates that the student voting block is powerful and should not be ignored.

"Registering to vote and voting gives us the power to push the ideas and values we think are important into local, state, and national politics," he said.

The theme of this week's voter registration drive is "Education and Registration," because, Pheeny said, part of students' learning process should also be registering to vote, making a decision, and voting.

"The theme stems from two ideas," Norwood said. "First, we can look at our generation, as students, and say that we are the most educated ever. Unfortunately, we don't influence within our town, states, or nation to take this education and put it to use."

There have been at least two voter registration drives in the past two years at UMass. A one day voter registration drive, held during a Nuclear Freeze Rally in 1982, which featured speeches and music by U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass), James Taylor, and others, successfully registered more than 1400 students.

Last semester, the Public Policy Committee registered 600 students the same day presidential hopeful Sen. Alan Cranston (D-CA), spoke at a Nuclear Freeze Rally in the Student Union.

Groups working on the UMass drive include the Student Center for Educational Research and Advocacy, the UMass Public Interest Research Group, the Public Policy Committee, the Student Government Association President's Office and the Commuter Collective.

Voter Registration locations and times:
Today 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Campus Center concourse

Human Relations looks at discrimination

By ROBIN MANDEL
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts Office of Human Relations will begin a series of forums this week to discuss racism, anti-semitism, and sexism problems confronting both students and faculty in the University.

An outgrowth of the 1981/82 Year Toward Civility, the Human Relations Office serves to encourage prevention and early intervention involving problems of interest to human beings.

According to Judy Davis, office coordinator, and Grant Engel, office process consultant, the creation of the forum is necessary to allow people to come together and share their experiences and ideas with one another.

"The forum allows the people from different parts of the campus to meet those people who they would not ordinarily meet and allow them to talk with and respond to each other's problems," Davis said.

The idea of an open forum where no one knows in advance who is attending the meetings is an excellent way to confront issues in such a huge and diverse university like UMass, she added.

The first forum, scheduled to meet from 12 to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Campus Center room 804, will be used as a preliminary meeting to gather data for the future.

Problems brought into the arena at this meeting will set the topics for discussion for the semester, both staff members said.

Both Engel and Davis agree that big organizations usually have problems dealing and communicating among different areas.

"Most decisions are made from reports and analyses and tend to get filtered out, confused, and mixed up. The forum prevents this from happening. It softens the system of bureaucracy, opening up the channels of communication, and broaches the topics realistically and effectively," Engel said.

The forum, which Engels described as a "village square" is just another vehicle for information to be transported across the campus, allowing people to make connections. In the past, human relation activities have included meetings to coordinate responses to sexual harassment acts, meetings to help improve facilities for homosexuals, and meetings to select and hire anti-Semitism and Jewish awareness trainers. The office was also intrumental in completing the Victim Assistance Resource Directory, a list compiled to establish what resources were available to deal with racial, sexual, and anti-Semitism harassment problems.

Future forums will be held Feb. 22, March 7, April 4, April 18 and May 2 in locations to be announced.

Collegian staffer Ken Bazinet also contributed to this article.

Inside:

Jury selection for Big Dan's rape trial begins . . p. 2

Sisters of Survival create anti-nuclear art . . . . . p. 3

Conflicting Views of Rev. Jesse Jackson . . . . . p. 7

"What's so funny about peace, love and understanding?"
— Nick Lowe

Mondale successful in Dem. caucus in Mass.

BOSTON - More than 18,000 Massachusetts Democrats plunged into presidential politics yesterday as party activists met in caucuses around the state to begin selecting delegates to the upcoming national convention.

Despite a chilly rain, an estimated 18,000 to 21,000 Democrats appeared at the 99 caucus sites around the state.

As a test of organizational strength, the caucuses showed that former Vice President Walter Mondale has done the best job in the field in Massachusetts. More than 7,000 of his supporters turned out at the 11 Mondale caucuses statewide, according to Democratic state party Chairman Chester Atkins.

"It would appear that Mondale commands the greatest organizational strength by far," Atkins observed.

Under the rules of the state and national Democratic parties, Sunday's caucuses are the first step in selecting 68 members out of the 116 Massachusetts delegates who will attend the presidential nominating convention in San Francisco in July.

The remaining 48 spots will be filled by party and elected officials, plus delegates elected at-large.

Judge assures fair trial in Fall River rape case

FALL RIVER — Eleven months after a half-naked woman ran from Big Dan's tavern with a story of terror, jury selection begins today in the trial of six men accused of raping her while bystanders cheered.

The case has drawn national attention, and Judge William Young and the squad of defense and prosecution attorneys have taken some extraordinary steps to assure a fair trial.

Police said a 21-year-old mother of two was raped on a pool table in Big Dan's for two hours on March 6, 1983. Others in the bar made no attempt to come to her aid, but shouted encouragements to her attackers, authorities said.

Six men were arrested and charged in the rape. Within days of the attack, 2,500 people staged a candlelight vigil in New Bedford's City Hall Plaza to protest the attack.

To counter pre-trial publicity, Young has ruled that some defendants must be tried separately from others. To rule out the possibility that publicity from one trial would affect a later one, he has decided to seat two juries for two trials at the same time.

All the evidence will be presented twice. One jury will hear morning testimony against John Cordeiro, Victor Raposo and Virgilio Medeiros, all 23, and Jose Medeiros, 22. Another jury will try Joseph Vieira and Daniel Silvia, both 26, in the afternoon.

Digest

By Associated Press

AP Laserphoto

SARAJEVO — While restaurant visitors to the top of Mt. Bjelasnica have their drinks on the table, an unidentified downhill competitor gets off the starthouse on the roof of the restaurant. The start for the race had to be set up on the roof of to get the required height and length of an Olympic downhill course.

U.S. loses informants to Salvadoran rightists

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Embassy in El Salvador has lost two key sources of information about rightist military violence over the past three years, with one informant possibly murdered because of what he knew, administration officials say.

The officials said the loss of those sources — and not an intentional cover-up by the Reagan administration — has prevented action against Miami-based exiles allegedly tied to right-wing death squads or against rightist leader Roberto D'Aubuisson.

Last week, Robert E. White, former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, accused the administration of concealing evidence implicating D'Aubuisson in the 1980 murder of that country's Roman Catholic archbishop. White also said the administration had done little with information on six wealthy Salvadorans in Miami who, he charged, directed death squad activity.

Cabinet resigns to allow new government to form

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan and his eight-man Cabinet resigned yesterday, and President Amin Gemayel said he might scrap the May 17 troop withdrawal agreement with Israel as demanded by his opponents.

Wazzan, a Sunni Moslem, said he was stepping down to allow formation of a national coalition government that might help end Lebanon's factional bloodshed.

After accepting the resignations, Gemayel, a Maronite Christian, called for a cease-fire and said he was inviting Lebanon's warring Moslem and Christian factions to Geneva for reconciliation talks Feb. 27.

"The agreement (with Israel) has put us in an embarassing impasse that led me to refrain from ratifying it," Gemayel said in a speech broadcast on nationwide television. "I see it necessary to continue all efforts to find a formula that would guarantee the complete withdrawals (of foreign troops) from all Lebanese territories to safeguard Lebanon's independence and sovreignty."

Cranks harass woman in space shuttle search

CLAREMONT, NH - A Claremont woman whose phone started ringing off the wall Friday with calls intended for outer space said Sunday she was frightened at first because she thought a crank caller was trying to figure out when her children were alone.

But after a sleepless night, Lucille Giguere noticed that the local newspaper had published a telephone number for people to call the astronauts as they sped through space in the shuttle, Challenger, and it was suspiciously similar to her own number.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — John O'Connell
Copy Editor — Mary-Sheila Loughlin
Layout Technician — Ellen Waxman
Photo Technician — Drew Ogier
Production Supervisor — Pete Soderberg
Production — Laura Zigman, Lissa Kierman, Mike Lennon, John Wielgus, Jane Hirshberg, Ansel Zinter, Leigh Heywood, J.P. Shanahan

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

Betty Friedan

Author of "The Feminine Mystique"

Co-founder of N.O.W.

"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"

Wednesday, February 8, 1984
8:00 P.M. Student Union Ballroom
Free

$150. CASH PRIZE

Backgammon Tournament
every Monday Night. . .
Beginning Tonight
30 Participants to guarantee maximum payoff.
* $90 First Place
* $40 Second Place
* $20 Third Place

TONIGHT ONLY!
all participants receive a complimentary bottle of Grizzly Beer

Minimum prize money paid will be $100.
Double elimination - 2 chances to win!
Match begins at 6 pm
must sign up by 5:45 pm
$5 Entry Fee
BRING YOUR OWN BOARD

Grizzly Beer 75¢ all night

Plumbley's off the common
30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst
253-9586

Feminists show art at UMass

By ILONA STURM
Collegian Staff

Combining performance and graphic artwork with politics, Sisters of Survival, S.O.S., an anti-nuclear feminist art group will show a documentation of their artwork today through February 24 in the Student Union Art Gallery.

Since Fall 1981, the group of four feminist artists have been augmenting their exhibition as they tour through Western Europe and North America. Their purpose is to generate a dialogue between Western Europeans and North Americans around the issue of nuclear threat.

S.O.S. member Jerri Allyn said the tradition of art concerned with social issues is not a new thing and when artists are active and concerned with their culture and society, it is reflected in their artwork and they are more open to the audience's response.

"Artists do not create out of a vacuum. The image of the 'isolated artist,'" Allyn said, "only promotes the idea that some know about art, and others are stupid if they don't."

"Artists must not be isolated for creativity's sake but must be active in their culture and society." Allyn said.

She spoke critically of the art history taught in art schools and said she was not taught about the history of art concerned with social issues. Allyn spoke about Spanish painter, Francisco Goya, as an artist who reflected major political themes of his time in his artwork, and said this was barely mentioned in her training.

The Art Exhibition, titled "End of the Rainbow," now showing at the Student Union Art Gallery, is the culmination of the Sisters of Survival three part project which is opposed to the idea that people should not become "involved" or ask questions at a gallery,she said.

Allyn said the potential of art as a political force is fantastic and has really grown. There are art communities all over the world and S.O.S. is a member of the first national network of community art groups, The Alliance for Cultural Democracy, Allyn said.

Sisters of Survival has collaborated with many groups and individuals, and has staged public actions in Los Angeles, a dance performance at the largest U.S. demonstration ever held, on June 12, 1982 in New York City, and has collaborated with Asian Americans to commemorate the 37th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in a community art project in Los Angeles.

In Europe, they toured key landmarks of political activity, such as the Greenham Common Women's Peace encampment, located at the US missile base in Greenham, England, as well as other locations in Holland, West Berlin, Malta and England.

Tuesday, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Student Union Gallery, there will be a reception. On Friday, from 11:00 to 8:00 p.m., Allyn will present slides and a lecture about S.O.S. in 104 Thompson Hall. Both events are free and open to all.

POLITICAL ART — Jerri Allyn, a member of the Sisters of Survival, hangs signal flags in the Student Union Gallery Saturday in preparation for a group art exhibit which opens Tuesday.

Smith is granted $25,000 to encourage faculty research

In an effort to help retain members of the science and math faculty General Telephone and Electric Corporation (GTE) has awarded Smith College a grant of $25,000.

Smith will receive $10,000 now and another $15,000 in December through the national corporation's Focus Program. Smith was one of 15 institutions across the country to receive the funding.

Katherine Robertson, Smith's assistant director of Corporation Foundations, said last week that GTE designed the program to "ensure the faculty in natural sciences and math remain strong."

"Smith can't compete with private industry for faculty," said Robertson. "Faculty members are lured away with research opputurnities without having to be tied to teaching responsibilities."

The funds, to be administered by the Dean of Faculty, will be distributed in three ways; by offering reserach assistance to junior (untenured) faculty members, by allowing research time, and by helping reserach to "get off the ground" and gain eligibility for government grants.

Other schools in the region receiving funding from GTE include Holy Cross, New York University and Tulance University.

JOHN YONCE

Collegian photo by Kevin J. Fachetti

GRAND OPENING — The management board and some staff members of WMUA pose Friday afternoon during the opening of their new studios in the Campus Center. Remarks by Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey highlighted the ceremony which included ribbon-cutting and tour of the studios.

Women's Forum

Women's Forum is a weekly listing of events relating to Women's issues. Notices should be sent to the Women's Issues editor, care of the Collegian, the Friday preceding the event.

Everywomen's Center at the University of Massachusetts is looking for volunteers and interns to staff the resource room at EWC for the Spring. University and community women are invited to apply. Interns and volunteers provide information about area services and events; medical and legal referrals; do crisis intervention; and update and maintain resource and referral information on many topics of concern to women.

Credit is available for this work for most Umass under-graduate students. College work-study may be available for the spring.

Applications must be received by Friday, February 10. For more information call EWC — 545-0883.

Tuesday — The Women's Leadership Project will meet at 4:15 p.m. in Student Union room 415 to make plans for a conference on Anti-Pornography.

Wednesday — Betty Friedan, feminist and author, will speak at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Friedan is author of The Feminine Mystique and was the first President of the National Organization for Women. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Thursday — Diane Ravitch, educational historian and author of The Troubled Crusade: American Education, 1945-1980 will lecture on her book at 8:00 in the Browsing Room in Neilson Library, Smith College. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Rhonda Copeland will speak on "Feminism, The Limits of Privacy" at 8 p.m. Hampshire College.

The University of Massachusetts has two hotlines for victims of rape and other victims of violence. The Crisis Intervention Hotline number is 545-0800. The UMass Public Safety Emergency Rape number is 545-2677.

D.C. plans specials for spring

By ERIKA KLEIDERMAN
Collegian Correspondent

Mardi Gras night, Easter dinner and the California salad bar are among the special events the University of Massachusetts dining commons has planned for this semester.

Between the monthly specials, the dining commons will feature smaller specials weekly, such as the bread bar, make-your-own-sundae or top-your-own pizza. The Weekender, served on Sundays in Worcester and Hampshire Dining Commons, will also continue, alternating each week between Chinese, steak and Italian meals.

Because of its success, no changes will be made in the current Weekender menu, said Director of University Food Services Marie Cappadonna. Assuming the weather conditions are appropriate, unlike last year, food services will attempt the annual campus barbeque at the end of the semester.

Meal schedules are made up months in advance, based on the past history and success of special events, Cappadonna said. The D.C. tries to serve one special a month, with this month's treat being the country western breakfast, featuring a rich breakfast pie, waffles and fresh blueberry and strawberry sauces.

Cappadonna believes that meals such as the country breakfast stress the importance of a good breakfast each day. She also noted that the D.C. tries to stick to basic American-style cooking rather than trying different styles, which most students tend to be less receptive to.

If a meal has been served in the past and students approve of it, that dinner is usually kept on the menu, Cappadonna said.

Democratic candidates fail to address the issues

By JOSH MEYER
Collegian Staff

As the 1984 presidential race heats up, candidates for the Democratic nomination have increased their politicking in the area in preparation for the March 13 Massachusetts primary.

Last week both George McGovern and Reverend Jesse Jackson spoke at the University on why they should be the one to have a go at the Republican incumbent Ronald Reagan.

Both candidates attacked the politics and policies of the Reagan administration as being dangerous and detrimental to anyone earning less than $50,000 a year. The two candidates concentrated on making Reaganomics the central issue of the election, and in doing so, both failed in varying degrees to successfully address the issues in a pragmatic manner.

While Rev. Jackson urged that the United States strive for the human race over the nuclear race - for a "New Frontier," and that "this generation must ban the bomb and give peace a chance," he never supported specific legislation or proposals. For example, Jackson said he went to a toxic waste dump in New Hampshire and "watched the death of the Earth," yet he never mentioned changes in environmental policy he would enact as president.

Candidates on Campus

Jackson's strength of emotional appeal and his attacks of injustices against blacks, women, minorities, the handicapped and the young, have earned him a 13 percent rating in the latest Associated Press Poll, well ahead of other longshot candidates like Sens. Gary Hart and Alan Cranston. On Thursday night, Jachson did electrify a packed Fine Arts Center crowd with his fiery brand of speech, getting the crowd involved by having them chant with him, "I am somebody - respect me, protect me, right on."

More than any other candidate, Jackson has the ability to galvanize people into registering to vote--not only for him, but for candidates of any political office who support progressive causes.

McGovern, who spoke Wednesday night in the Student Union Ballroom, urged a standing-room-only audience to look carefully at Reagan's record.

Citing the proposed $111 billion increase in defense spending and $50 billion cut in human services funding in Reagan's fiscal 1985 budget as an example, McGovern said, "I ask any fair-minded person, 'is that a fair sense of justice?'"

McGovern used the same sort of rhetoric and slogan-slinging as Jackson. He stressed "peace abroad, and justice in our own society."

But McGovern was more specific than Jackson about his approach to handling issues such as foreign relations and domestic social spending. He offered an Economic Conversion Planning Capabilities program, to transfer funding of research and development away from the military to peace-time activities such as improving the railways and other transportation systems.

McGovern warned the audience to look through the rhetoric and Reagan's "political genius in convincing the middle and working classes that taxes are high because of taxes to the poor."

McGovern's more concrete, less exhortative style of rhetoric has gained him no staute in the polls--he is running solidly near the rear of the pack.

Hundreds of people were turned away from both speeches due to lack of space--a sign that interest in the political future of the country is increasing.

TALK TO DRAPER

Monday, February 27, 1984
University of Mass./Amherst

Graduates—join some of the nation's most imaginative, inventive people at Draper Laboratory. As the world renowned research center, located in the Technology Square complex in Cambridge, Massachusetts, we're leading the industry while breaking new ground in fascinating and rewarding technologies including:

Control Systems Design
Software Development/ Evaluation
Analog/Digital Design Engineering
Spacecraft Dynamics
Manufacturing Systems
Guidance and Navigation Analysis
Electronic Systems Engineering
Robotics/Automation
Structural Engineering
Optics

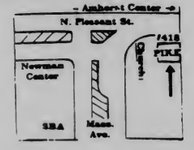
At Draper, we handle a volume of more than 130 million dollars each year and employ over 1775 people throughout the Laboratory, many of who hold advanced degrees.

If your background is in Manufacturing Systems, Robotics/Automation, Computer Science, Analog/Digital Design, Control Systems or Electronic Systems, look into being a part of our hands-on "working laboratory" environment.

To arrange an interview, visit your Placement Office, or send your resume to Dr. Daniel E. Gladkowski, Dept. C, The Charles Stark Draper Laboratory, Inc., 555 Technology Square, Cambridge, MA 02139. We are an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, M/F.

The Charles Stark Draper Laboratory, Inc.

Pi Kappa Alpha



We are. . .
- the Campus and Greek Area Athletic Champions
- the fraternity that does not haze
- the house that raised over $42,000 for Multiple Sclerosis

PIKE - we could be for you

RUSH PARTIES

Mon.	Feb. 6 at 9 pm
Tues.	Feb. 7 at 9 pm
Wed.	Feb. 8 at 9 pm
Mon.	Feb. 13 at 9 pm
Tues.	Feb. 14 at 9 pm

Pi Kappa Alpha

TEL. 545-2150

Free Refreshments

IBM

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

0 SENIORS
0 GRADUATE STUDENTS
0 ALL ENGINEERING AND SCIENTIFIC DISCIPLINES, INCLUDING: ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING, COMPUTER SCIENCE, COINS, MATH MAJORS WITH DATA PROCESSING SKILLS

Announcing IBM's Technical Career Information and Sign-Up Day

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1984
11:00 A.M. - 5:00 P.M.
CAMPUS CENTER, ROOM 101

COME INFORMALLY ANY TIME DURING THE HOURS INDICATED ABOVE AND LEARN ABOUT TECHNICAL AND MARKETING CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN IBM FROM MANY DIFFERENT LOCATIONS. THEN SIGN-UP ON PERMANENT INTERVIEW SCHEDULES OF YOUR CHOICE FOR FORMAL INTERVIEWS TO TAKE PLACE ON FEBRUARY 9 AND 10, 1984. THIS WILL BE YOUR ONLY OPPORTUNITY TO SIGN-UP FOR SPRING IBM SCHEDULES.

BRING 3 COPIES OF YOUR RESUME AND TRANSCRIPT FOR ADMITTANCE

CITIZENSHIP OR PERMANENT RESIDENCE REQUIRED FOR INTERVIEWS

SE-M-0193-0C

IBM is an equal opportunity employer

Arts

Crimea: island of the mind

THE ISLAND OF CRIMEA
By Vassily Aksyonov
Random House, 369 pages, $16.95

by DOTTY STEIN
Collegian correspondant

Imagine, if you will, that Crimea (a peninsula in the southwest Soviet Union jutting into the Red Sea) was an independent, democratic island nation plagued with Western decadence and excesses, living in the shadow of the USSR as Taiwan does with Communist China. Picture this thriving sub-tropical island occupied by the wealthy, jet-setting descendants of White Russians who sought refuge there after the 1917 Revolution. Welcome, as Mr. Rourke would say, to a different kind of Fantasy Island--Vassily Aksyonov's Island of Crimea.

Far from being a "peaceful island paradise," Aksyonov's Crimea (referred to by its Russian initials, "O.K.") is crawling with tourists, celebrities, Soviet spies, and various home-grown loonies who split the tiny nation into dozens of political parties that span the ideological spectrum. One group, the Common Fate League, has a spiritual vision of reunion with the "Historic Motherland" (now the Soviet Union) despite rabid opposition from most islanders and the Kremlin's lack of interest.

The novel follows Andrei Arsenievich Lushnikov, the most visible and influential member of the League, as he travels the world spreading his seemingly suicidal gospel of reunification with the mainland. Luchnikov, publisher-editor of the Russiand Courier newspaper and grandchild of the aristocracy, tries to ignore his personal problems with family and friends while burying himself in his self-appointed mission, and ends up losing on both counts. His vision of a new Russian future simplifies the issues and disregards reality; thus it is no surprise that when his dream comes true it is a Gogolian nightmare.

Aksyonov's prose is flippant, fast-paced, ironic and always highly personal. His cosmopolitan sophistication is tempered by wary idealism. He deplores his characters greed--both the sated lusts of the overfed Luchnikov and the avid, if unfullfilled, materialism of his Soviet mistress. Aksyonov seeks to balance the political world in favor of humanity, but finds that irony and absurdity have permanently tilted the scales.

Always Read artslines . . .

WMUA 91.1 FM

1st General Station Mtg.
Monday, February 6, 1984
at 7:30 pm
in Campus Center Rm 168
All are welcome to attend!!

Charter Travel Time

For hassle-free group travel, call the experts call Travel Time. Before your group plans its next trip—any size group—call us for a price quotation. We'll be happy to quote you our economical rates. No obligation!

Charter Service to all points in the U.S.A. and Canada.

Check out what we offer:
- Luxurious Highway Coaches
- School Buses
- Mini-Buses

We'll also handle hotel, meal and sightseeing arrangements for your group. Our deluxe highway coaches are climate controlled and restroom equipped.

Travel Time Bus Lines Inc.
99 Arnold Street Springfield, MA
Call: General Office and Charter Service 783-0211
Toll Free in MA 1-800-322-0297

Contact Lenses replaced
Bausch & Lomb or AOSoft $25. each
Price of other brands on request
We need your contact lens prescription and will have your lens in 2-3 days.
Norman Spencer MD
170 University Dr. 256-8561

HATS

A TRIBUTE TO HARRIET TUBMAN

A ONE WOMAN SHOW ABOUT THE FAMOUS UNDERGROUND RAILROAD LEADER

Feb. 6, 1984 Bowker Auditorium 8:00 PM Free

Starting February 10, Stanley Kaplan will be located at 358 North Pleasant St. from 264 North Pleasant St.
March, 1984
GMAT & LSAT classes enrolling now!

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

253-5108

When you're in a tight spot, good friends will help you out.

When you pulled in two hours ago, you didn't have this problem. And with a party just starting, the last thing you wanted to do was wait around another two hours.

Neither did the rest of the guys. So when they offered to give you a lift, that's exactly what they did, proving not only that they were in good shape, but that they were good friends.

So show them what appreciation is all about. Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.

© 1983 Beer Brewed in U.S.A. by Miller Brewing Co. Milwaukee, WI

Auditions for Paid Choir
Tenor and Basses
Mount Holyoke Abbey Singers
Feb. 3-6
call MHC Music Dept.
538-2306

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00 (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610

"If it isn't better by my next period, then I'll go."

One of the worst things a woman can ever do to herself is fail to get a gyn exam as soon as she senses something is wrong. If you think you have any problem, make an appointment with Preterm and find out. Now. Because the time to act is the minute things is when they're still minor. Preterm. 738-6210

preterm

The most experienced reproductive health care center in the Northeast.
1842 Beacon Street
Brookline, MA 02146
we have gentle hearts, are fast, but not rushing

BODY SHOP

Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout

$7.00 off — $7.00 off

regular $45.00 NOW $38.00
up to 17 weeks of workouts

15% Discount
Spring Semester Memberships

NOPE		Bring this ad to the BODY SHOP for 15% discount offer expires on Feb. 7 (9 pm)	Royden
M-F	Sat		M-F	Sat
7:30-9 am	1-4		7-9 am	12-3
12-1 pm			12-1 pm
4-6 pm			4-6 pm
7-9 pm

DELTA UPSILON
OPEN RUSH
Tues. Feb. 7th
Wed. Feb. 8th
9:00 P.M.
Free Refreshments
NOPE
North Pleasant
Delta Upsilon
Grad Twr
778 N Pleasant St
549-3831

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Point — Jackson

He came, he spoke, he left. A crowd of 1,500 people waited and waited for an hour and a half last Thursday night inside the Concert Hall of the University's Fine Arts Center.

Paul R. Banks

Finally, at around 9:30, Jesse Jackson appeared on stage. He spoke with concern and conviction:

"We must serve our day and address its agenda," he said.

"We are not perfect servants, we are public servants, and we must give our leaders latitude enough to not be perfect. But when we see leadership with a lack of conscience and values, I shudder for my country."

It was clear to me that he was speaking of Ronald Reagan. His outrage seemed to grow and grow until it was apparent to all who had gathered to listen. He spoke loudly, and with force.

"We cannot measure progress by the economic index on Wall Street," he said. "We cannot be satisfied until we end the misery index and the danger index."

I strained to hear every word. The man behind the podium is no average politician running for President in 1984, and it was a night I will long remember.

"This generation must freeze the weapons," he said. "The challenge to this generation of Americans is to cut the budget, ban the bomb, and give peace a chance." He repeated again, "This generation must go another way."

He spoke about education. "We need power," he said, "but we need more than power. There is nothing more powerful in the world than a mind with values." He said, "Education remains our first line of defense. We must choose to develop minds over missles." He asked if we want education for the elite, and the aristocratic, or if we want public education for the masses--the will to learn and the ability to learn as sole determinant of who receives higher education, or the will of money.

He talked about healthcare: "Healthcare must be based on sickness and need and not on wealth," he said.

He talked about pollution: "I went to a toxic waste dump a couple of days ago in New Hampshire," he said, "and watched the death of the earth. I went to the earth's funeral. The environmental movement can no longer be viewed as a fringe movement. It's main-line now."

Jackson talked about foreign policy: "We must have a foreign policy based on mutual respect, negotiation, and human rights," he said. "One eighth of the world's population is African, one-half is Asian. The population of the United States is 6 percent of the world's total. That means 94 percent of the worlds population is "the rest."

We need to realize that, "Most people in the world are black, brown, yellow, or red, Jackson said. "They are non-Christian, can't speak any English, and are poor." He id,"We make the mistake in foreign policy in always focusing on East-West, and never North-South." He said again, "This generation of Americans must go another way."

He spoke of social justice, what the "New Frontier" means to him. He spoke of, "The New Frontier to lift our brothers and our sisters. The New Frontier to end the slums, to have leadership which will choose the human race over the nuclear race."

He spoke of the power of the individual, the power to make choices and decisions, the power to make a difference, the power to change our lives and our world.

He spoke of the power of the ballot box, how the right to vote can be powerful, if exercised. He said the minorities of yesterday--blacks, hispanics, women, youth, the elderly, are the majorities of today. He said that united together and organized politically--participating in the democratic process, we could change the course of American history and alter forever the state of politics in America.

"We cannot assume that we have the power to change things absolutely," he said, "but surely one step in the right direction is better than none at all."

With this all said, Jesse Jackson was done. He had finished all that he had come to say. He left the podium and sat down.

The audience, which had been listening intently throughout, rewarded him with a three minute standing ovation. They had interrupted him on occasion with applause throughout his speech.

Jesse Jackson asked the students present to help him, to volunteer to help him campaign in New Hampshire at the end of this month. He asked them to help campaign in Massachusetts. He asked them to register and to vote.

The lights went up and people began to leave. Jesse turned away from the crowd, to face the stage, to walk across it to his next destination. I stood and watched as a Civil Rights activist, friend of Martin Luther King, Reverend, Founder of the Chicago based organization P.U.S.H. (People United To Save Humanity), and candidate for the Presidency of the United States, left.

Paul R. Banks is a UMass student.

Letters

Feminism is not a scourge

To the Editor,

In Wayne Johnson's 2/1/84 Letter to the Editor, he claims that ... "(m)ilitant feminism is destroying America as the scourge of decency and civility", by blaming the increase in broken homes, spouse and child abuse, and sexual abuse — on feminism)"women's decision to wear the pants"). Additionally, he attempts to support this contention with nebulous biblical references.

Johnson correctly sees that in expressing our independence and autonomy, we are abused and exploited. He dangerously concludes, however, that we cause this to happen, rather than holding our abusers accountable, or examining why our independence poses a threat to those who attack us.

It is with anger and tiredness that we read your letter — anger for what you perpetuate with your suggestion through mass exposure — tiredness at this type of spewing and grunting.

Diane Arsenault
Kate McGarry
Mary McGarry
Amherst

It's hockey, not boxing

To the Editor,

Wednesday's Collegian picture of the Olympic hockey captain "sparring" with a Russian player not only perpetuates our ignorant views of the U.S. — U.S.S.R. relationship, it does not demonstrate a proper view of the sport. Let's get off our macho kick from the 1980 gold and get back to the real art of playing hockey.

Chris Warren
Sunderland

A not so funny fire joke

To the Editor,

I am writing this letter in regard to the comic strip by Mr. O. T. Derringer — "Shagnasty," of Feb. 2, depicting a student smoking a cigarette in front of his dorm and then being doused with water by two firefighters.

First, I would like to say that I did not find Mr. Derringer's cartoon humorous or even mildly amusing. As a student who is, and was concerned about the arson problem on campus, I feel that making fun of the events that took place on campus last semester is in poor taste. Not only did the situation cause stress and psychological trauma for the women in Crampton, but it could also have been a fatal situation.

Second, if Mr. Derringer is poking fun at the paranoia of the University in handling the arson problem, I feel that this too is inappropriate. As a student living in the residence facilities, I understood and appreciated the measures that the school took in order to protect the women in Crampton. Whether or not the school handled the conclusion of that situation properly or not, is not for me to decide. I only know that the women were feeling safer after the school implemented the drastic security measures.

Lastly, as Co-President and resident of Kennedy Tower, I fail to see the necessity of incorporating the name 'Kennedy' into the comic strip. If it was meant as a 'cut' directed at the dorm, then it should not have been allowed past the editors of the Collegian. If it was meant just to signify a dorm, I feel that in this highly intelligent strip, it was unnecessary to use any name at all. As someone who is trying to change the image of an underrated dorm, slurs such as the one found in 'Shagnasty' are of absolutely no help.

Allan E. Dines
Kennedy Tower

We need columnists!
Drop by with a piece, CC 113

Counterpoint

Man vs. myth

I went to hear Reverend Jackson speak last night. I had gone to see a Presidential candidate. Instead I got the feeling that I was listening to a pitch from a traveling salesman who had perfected the ultimate in wonder drugs. The Good Reverend Jesse Jackson's Cure-All for a Sick World Tonic.

Stephen C. Erickson

It alleviates the nagging pains of war and strife, gives peace a chance, relieves economic hardship and does away with the unpleasant spasms of injustice. Moreover, Jesse's tonic goes down just so smoothly. In fact, many folks were lining up to buy it. It was being sold on a buy now--pay later basis. I wonder if anyone knows just how much Jesse's tonic will cost or whether it will really do all it's supposed to.

I wonder how Jesse's medicine is going to cut the budget and at the same time provide for his increased funding for Medicaid, Medicare, welfare, job training, socialized medicine, etc. Is he going to stifle our economy with taxation? In the Boston Globe it says that Jackson would freeze defense spending at present levels which leaves little room for increased social spending. However, last night he implied that if elected, he would "ban the bomb." Just what does he mean by that? Is he talking about unilateral disarmament? Would there be a defense budget?

Perhaps Jackson thinks he can take the same "humanitarian appeal" he supposedly impressed President Assad of Syria with and give it to the Soviets. Maybe they will see the evil of nuclear weapons and disarm if Jesse explains it to them. Maybe the Easter Bunny really exists.

Jackson is fond of reminding us how, unlike himself, Reagan has never been to Africa or the Middle East. Someone should remind Jackson that visiting a foreign country does not necessarily make one a foreign policy expert--only a tourist. Assad was not touched by Jackson's "mission of mercy" (Assad has murdered thousands of his countrymen) but by political benefits he hoped to gain in the U.S.

Perhaps what Jackson said that was most startling was his statement that it was time to collectivize the means of production." What does he mean by that? It sounds a lot like Socialism. What industries does Jackson want to nationalize? Does he have a program? What would he do differently than the socialist Prime Minister Mitterand of France whose policies have done serious damage to the French economy?

There are black candidates and candidates who happen to be black. Jackson is of the former. He makes an issue of the color of his skin, implying that in some way, because he is black, people should feel more motivated to vote for him.

This kind of thinking is also reflected in racial quotas, a policy that Jackson supports. Such an attitude runs contrary to Martin Luther King's noble dream that a man not be judged by the color of his skin but "by the content of his character."

Jackson's rhetoric is entertaining, well delivered, and in some ways refreshing given the dryness of many politicians. What Jackson has in style, however, he does not make up for in substance. Indeed, the Good Reverend's Cure-All Tonic needs a few more of its ingredients listed on the bottle and it should certainly not be tested on anything more significant than laboratory rats.

Stephen C. Erickson is a UMass student.

Are you CURIOUS? CONCERNED? AMUSED?

Why do so many buildings on campus leak, or not work the way they are supposed to? (Like the Library Tower, for instance).

Where do all our student fee monies go? And why do they increase every year?

How can local landlords charge as much as they want, without having to worry about lack of renters?

Who are all these candidates for political office that come to UMass, and what do they want from us? And what do we want from them?

Will the SGA Constitution ever be ratified? And if so, what will change?

What is really going on in Center America? What's happening here in the Happy Valley?

For answers to these, and many other interesting questions, read the Editorial Page this semester. Better yet, come down and join the "new and improved" Collegian Investigative Task Force, and find out for yourself (and for everybody else) what's going on.

Pay is negligible, but honor and recognition may be bestowed upon you in your never-ending quest for upholding truth, justice, and the American Way. If you're curious and interested, come to the first 1984 Collegian meeting, Wednesday, February 8, from 8 to 9 p.m., Room 805 CC. Or stop by the Collegian Editorial Desk anytime after 2 p.m.

EMT's
Join
UMass Fire & First Aid Unit

Work at shows, football games, basketball games
CPR recert, CEU's
1st meeting Tuesday, Feb. 7 at 7 PM
Morrill North 406
New members welcome
Please bring a copy of your EMT and CPR card

ATTENTION RA's

Help wanted
for research project
involves journal/diary keeping
Academic Credit Available
Call: Eileen Stewart 5-2462
Julie Larn 5-0427

What Does Osco Drug Have For You?

✓Hands-on Management Experience!
✓Genuine Growth!
✓An Excellent Career!

You're finishing school and looking for the company and the opportunity to turn your education into a successful career in retail management. Look to Osco Drug. We're the nation's fastest growing retail drug chain. And, we're a progressive and diverse company with a challenging promotion-from-within policy.

Our Management Trainee Program offers you valuable merchandising experience and the development of supervisory and leadership skills.

Experience growth at Osco Drug. Talk to the Osco Representative visiting your campus to discuss retail management opportunities.

We will be interviewing on
February 13th, 1984.
Sign up at the Placement Office.

All majors are welcome. If you are unable to sign up for an interview, please contact: Director of College Recruiting, OSCO DRUG, INC., 1818 Swift Drive, Oak Brook, Illinois 60521. We are an equal opportunity employer m/f.

OscoDrug

Collegian
Recruitment meeting

● Experience ● Involvement
● Excitement
● Open to all majors

Wednesday Feb. 8
8 pm-9 pm
Room 805 C.C.

Attention:
Meal Plan Students

Use Your Meal Tickets in the TOC Restaurant

Campus Center Food Services, in conjunction with University Food Services, is proud to announce a new Dining Experience! Students enrolled in a University Food Services' full board plan may use their meal ticket for a $3.00 credit on Wednesday Evenings in the Top of the Campus Restaurant. Also, students will receive the usual 15% discount. For reservations or further information call 549-6000 ext. 639 or go to the T.O.C. Restaurant.

$1.00 off
with this coupon
and a purchase
$4.75 minimum
Expires 2/29/84

TOP of the CAMPUS
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
11th FLOOR/CAMPUS CENTER/UMASS

THREE SOUND REASONS TO BEGIN YOUR CAREER WITH FLEET FINANCIAL GROUP

As you plan your move from academic to business life, you will encounter much advice on what career to choose, what firm to join, and how to pick a company that has consistently offered advancement potential. At Fleet, where innovation and expansion have been a tradition since 1791, we'll give you solid facts. Here are three of them!

IMMEDIATE RESPONSIBILITY
Yes, you will have supervision and guidance, but you will be expected to make decisions from your first day with us.

HIGH CORPORATE VISIBILITY
We provide no hiding places. The work you do will be readily evident and quickly recognized.

GOOD CORPORATE MOBILITY
With over 300 offices around the world there is room to move around at Fleet. Expanded lines of business in mortgage banking, real estate lending, asset-based lending, consumer banking, venture capital and data processing services also assure plenty of room to move up.

If you see financial services as the exciting growth market for the 80's and beyond, we have a lot in common. Open a diaglogue by meeting with our Campus Recruiter who can give you even more facts. We will be on campus February 22nd. Please sign up at the Placement Services Office.

Fleet Financial Group
55 Kennedy Plaza
Providence, R.I. 02903

An Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action Employer m/f/v/h

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

The UMass Zone — Mark Rollins

Superbad — G.H.

MASS PHOBIA — Winmill

The Strip — Bert Saveriano and Jim Walsh

Shagnasty — O.T. Derringer

DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

©1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Mediterranean ship
5 Bangladesh city
10 Actress Lupino and others
14 —— mater
15 Glorify
16 Movie, in France
17 Actress Patricia
18 The state, French style
19 Villa d' ——
20 Castor and Pollux
22 WWI scenes
24 Caesar's comedienne
26 Another: Abbr.
27 Summer cooler
31 Kind of world or land
34 Palm leaf
35 Wide collars
37 Cheekbone
39 Gymnast Korbut
41 Fencing pieces
43 Partner for less
44 Inveigle
46 Smidgen
48 One, to Aimee
49 Taste experience
51 Not an even match
53 "The Bridge of San —— Rey"
55 Pair in harness
56 Custard apple
60 Dish for mulligatawny
64 "Heavenly" instrument
65 —— Kinte of "Roots"
67 River of Silesia
68 Bone: Comb. form
69 To be, Spanish style
70 Court score
71 Friend's pronoun
72 Makes a grating sound
73 Seaman-author

DOWN
1 Vocalized
2 Protected from the weather
3 Moslem priest
4 Multicolored cloth
5 Fragile
6 Woodsman's gear
7 Women's suffrage trailblazer
8 Bow of the Silents
9 Give heed to
10 Frozen fare
11 Corned beef and cabbage, for one
12 Kind of entrance fee
13 Divines
21 "With malice toward ——..."
23 Model
25 Espouse
27 Spoils
28 Mademoiselles
29 Molten rock
30 Winter month, in Spain
32 Audibly
33 Seine feeder
36 Connery and O'Casey
38 Wind instrument
40 Tasty symbol of Americana
42 Symbols of sovereignty
45 Track figure
47 Biblical twin
50 Taker of chances
52 Sudden raid
54 March man
56 Camera feature
57 Daub lightly, in art
58 Celtic language
59 Polygons of a sort: Abbr.
61 Old Norwegian verse
62 Green land
63 "Peter Pan" character
66 Source of water

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Hamburg on Roll
Tuna Oriental

BASICS LUNCH
Oatburgers
Tuna Oriental

DINNER
Fried Chicken/
Cranberry Sauce
Orange Glazed Ham
Egg and Cheddar
Florentine

BASICS DINNER
Fried Chicken/
Cranberry Sauce
Egg and Cheddar
Florentine

Weather

WEATHER — Cloudy today with chance of light snow, highs in the 30s. Skies will clear tonight with highs in the teens expected.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

S	I	T	O	P		A	L	S	O		S	E	A	E
L	O	V	E		I	N	D	O	O	R		A	P	A	C
O	N	E	S		T	O	U	C	H	O	F	V	E	N	U	S
E	T	A		S	A	T	O		A	D	A	M	A	S
			U	N	A		A	R	I	U	M
T	I	M	E		S	U	N		A	L	S	I	A		S	I	E
A	C	O	R	N	S		M	U	S	E	S			I	M	A
C	A	U	S	E		U	Z	E		I	N	E	A	R
E	T	C			A	D	O	N		S	A	N	T	A
T	H	E		M	A	N		O	N	T	H	E		M	O	O	N
								R	O	D	S		A	N	A
A	P	P	L	E	S		S	A	U	C	E		O	N
P	L	A	N	E	T		O	F		T	H	E		A	P	E	S
T	O	S	C	A		D	A	L	E	S		A	I	A	M
V	I	E	T	N	A	M		A	T	U	S		C	I	C	O

Hypercurricula...

"Hypercurricula," a listing of events held at the University of Massachusetts and surrounding area, is published daily in the Collegian. Events are listed the day before they take place except Monday which will carry Monday's and Tuesday's events. Friday will carry Saturday and Sunday.

YEN HWEI

FEAST OF LANTERNS

Wed. Feb. 8 (Year of the Rat)

Bluewall Cafeteria 11:30 am-1:45 pm

Featuring:
Sliced Beef with Snow Peas
Chicken & Green Peppers
Stir fry Mixed Vegetables
Fried Rice, Steamed Rice
Egg Rolls
Orange Almond Cake
Rice Pudding
Fortune Cookies

Celebrate Yen Hwei, the Feast of Lanterns, when good spirits are guided earthward for a New Year of prosperity and good health.

HOWES BROTHERS PHOTOGRAPHS: BLACK PORTFOLIO - Photos of Blacks in the Connecticut River Valley from 1882-1907. African Textiles: The Maude Wahlman Collection will also be on view. 5-7 p.m., Augusta Savage Gallery.

LIBRARY TOURS - Take a tour of Goodell Library and the tower during the first two weeks of the semester. Tours leave from the Goodell lobby weekdays. 10:30; 1:30; 2:30, Goodell Library.

CHESS - You are invited to play chess! All levels welcome. You don't have to be good or bad, you just have to want to play. Be there tonight. 8:00-11 p.m., Campus Center (check calender by elevator for room).

CPR SIGN UP - American Red Cross sign up talbe for CPR courses to be held on campus. CPR saves lives. 9a.m.-1 p.m., Concourse - Campus Center.

STUDENT ALLIANCE FOR ISRAEL MEETING - 7:30 p.m., Campus Center 802.

PI KAPPA ALPHA OPEN RUSH - All University men are invited to Pi Kappa Alpha, 418 N. Pleasant St. for open rush. 9-11 p.m., 418 N. Pleasant St.

WMUA GENERAL STATION MEETING - WMUA will be holding a general station meeting. New members are always welcome. 7 p.m., 168 Campus Center.

BOOK SALE (NEW AND USED) - New and used books and texts will be on sale on Mon. and Tues. in Bartlett Hall, sponsored by the Massachusetts Studies in English. 10 a.m.-2 p.m., main lobby of Bartlett.

FIRST OUTING CLUB MEETING - Come to our first meeting. Everyone is welcome to see a slideshow. We will introduce officers and tell you what we do. See you there! 7 p.m., Student Union Ballroom.

MASSPIRG LOCAL BOARD - Help plan for the National Student Conference on Voter Registration this weekend and spring projects, including acid rain, hazardous waste, hotline, and grass roots lobby. 6 p.m., 423 SUB (MassPIRG office).

BETA KAPPA PHI OPEN RUSH - All University men are invited to Beta Kappa Phi, 388 N. Pleasant St. for open rush. 9 p.m., 388 N. Pleasant.

HILLEL COUNCIL MEETING - 6 p.m., Campus Center 802.

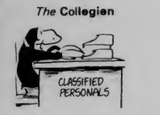
COMPUTER ACCESS CENTER, INC

On Site Microcomputer Time Rental

Why wait in line to do your computer work. Rent time from us.

79 SOUTH PLEASANT STREET
256-1213
(behind Peter Pan terminal building)
Open 7 days a week

Opening February 15



*Mastercard & Visa accepted

Start every day refreshed!

The Collegian

The Collegian

presents

Rant N' Rave with the STRAY CATS

MON. FEB. 6
F.A.C. UMASS

GREAT SEATS STILL AVAILABLE!

Tickets available at all datatix locations at the Fine Arts Center, Springfield Civic Center, and Stop & Shops in Northampton, Greenfield, Pittsfield, Holyoke, and Hadley.

UMass Students: $11.50 & 12.50
Public: $13.50 & 14.50

UMass I.D. required with student ticket. No cans, bottles, cameras, or recording devices

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ALL QUALITY SUNGLASSES

Genuine Raybans and Vuarnets Fashionable and functional sunglasses for your face. All types. Reasonable prices. Bruce 549-2879

ARE YOU AN ACCOUNTING MAJOR?

I need a tutor for Accounting 202 Please call 546-7035 and ask for Michael if interested (call eves)

ATTENTION: WE'RE HIRING DJ'S

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT is hiring qualified DJ's. Experience preferred, good personality and knowledge of music required. Reply to: Box 48, Amherst, MA 01004

AUDIO

Speakers, RAL 3 way, 125 wtts/ch. Brand new $325 or BO must sell 542-3494

AUTO FOR SALE

1975 Ford Pinto. Good condition. $650. or BO. 549-5141 dinner time

CAPE COD

Housemates wantad for 6 bedroom house in Harwich half mile to beach 546-5851

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yermouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment SGA Affirmative Action position available. Requirements - serious committment to AA principles, good organizational and writing skills, ability to work independently. 12 hrs/week 3.35/hr Application available 420 SUB or call 5-0341 for more info. AA/EOE

ENTERTAINMENT

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets -ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739

PROFESSIONAL DJs FOR LESS. 4 years of Quality Disc Jockey Service at UMass. Why pay more? 256-1393

Wicked and Wild DJ's for hire. Quality sound at the lowest price. Call 584-6712

Guitarist looking for band, preferably but not necessarily progressive rock 546-6452

FOR RENT

Parking available 496 No. Pleasant St. next to Newman Center 253-9015

Lrg room in log cabin in Leverett wood heat 6 miles from campus beautiful location 549-4497 Laura or Stu

FOR SALE

Pentex ME Super 35mm Camera with 50mm F2 lens and Pentax auto-winder 6 mos. old with all packaging $225.00 see Andy at the Collegian Photo Dept.

Computer terminal, standard type must sell immediately $375 call Rob 586-6889

Beseler Enlarger for Photo Darkroom use. Ex. cond. only $100.00 contact Drew or David at the Photo Dept/Collegian Campus Center Rm 113 545-3500.

VIC-20 computer system, modem, disk extras. Call 549-4696 after 5 pm

Dorm size refrigerator $75 or BO new kitchen table with two matching chairs $60 or BO ironing board BO 549-6109

Guild Electric Guitar with case $225 brand new Scamper Amp $110 call Gary 665-3013

Sears Commentator electric typewriter with corrector, excellent condition, $225 includes cover and case. Lynda 253-3950

Water Ski EP comp1 2 yrs old only $135 for the serious skier call Jody 549-0124

Olivetti Electric Typewriter; interchengeable elements; erasing cartridge; $190 or best offer; Daniel 586-9305

FOUND

Drama Text, in parking lot, call to identify.

TI Calculator in Textbook Annex on Feb. 1 call 549-7622 and identify it

FREE KARATE DEMO

Challenge Fighting, Musical Forms, Dueling Kicks. Featuring Larry and Donna Kelley, "Americas #1 Black Belt Couple". 7 February, 6:00-7:00 p.m. S.U.B.

HELP WANTED

Need cash? Earn $500 + each school year, 2-4 (flexible) hours per week placing and filling posters on campus. Serious workers only; we give recommendations. 1-800-243-6679

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Waakand cook wented at local sorority. Experience wanted. Call 545-0527 for more info.

Kitchan help wanted in exchange for meals (great working conditions!) call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

Recycling Coordinators needed for dorms. Earn a credit & a letter of recommendation for volunteering. Recycle newspaper & glass in your dorm! 545-0618, 306 SUB

Kitchan help needed in exchange for free meals Beta Kappa Phi call 253-9071 ask for Stevie D

Waitrasses, apply at Rusty Nail, 3 to 5 weekdays, no experience necessary general office help MS 1-6 daily $4 per hour

Attention kitchen help needed. Earn $550 in D.C. rebate while gaining full access to fraternity meal plan! For more info call Pike between 9:30-5:00 pm. Ask for Jim. 545-2150

Experienced reliable childcare sought for 4 yr old call Carolyn 253-3162

Sorority looking for help in kitchen. Lunch & dinner. Call anytime at 545-0320/1. Ask for Peg or Mary.

Counselors: Camp Wayne, Northeastern Penna. Co-ed children's camp. Interested in Resident Assistants and other students who really love children. Our specialty is our warm and caring atmosphere, 12 Allevard St. Lido Beach NY 11561 (include your telephone number)

Dorm residents for Frankies new food delivery service to UMass dorms. Excellent potential for income. Requirements: automobile and desire to make money call 256-0858 for more information or apply in person at Frankies Restaurant directly in front of Stop and Shop on Rt 9

Tast Yourself: Are you an effective time-manager? Can you work 2-4 hrs/wk consistently? Are you success-oriented? Earn base + performance-based bonuses. 1-800-243-6706

COORDINATOR - UMASS MEN'S CENTER Requires coordination of administrative budget, programming, outreach, and evaluation 10-15 hrs/week @ 3.35 committment to social issues awareness a must. Job description, application available Brett 130 due Feb. 14 AA/EOE

Cruiseships! Hiring! $16-30,000! Carribean, Hawaii, World. Call for Guide, Directory, Newsletter. 1-(916) 944-4440 ext. U Massachusetts Cruise

Airlines Hiring! Stewardesses, Reservationists! $14-39,000. Worldwide! Call for directory, Guide, Newsletter. 1-(916) 944-4440 X U Massachusetts Dir.

INSTRUCTION

Know your car. Basic Automobile Workshop. Classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-2098

Bass and guitar lessons $8/hr for more info call george 584-0708

LOST

Lost during intersession on pr. grey suede leather gloves w/rabbit fur lining. Please call Dave 253-7658

On 1/30/84 - mens gold ring initials on face reward call 546-9893

Glasses inside brown case w/Cesar Vieira written on if found call Pedro Vieira at 546-4644

MOVIE

THE SHINING
Fri. Feb. 10 at 5, 7, 9, 11
Campus Ctr. Auditorium
Sponsored by Chi Delphia

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust
Ft. Laudardale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down
for more info 545-3437

SPRING BREAK '84
FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS
THE BEST FLIGHTS
THE BEST BUSES
ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN
NON-MEMBERS WELCOME
FOR MORE INFO 545-3437

Juniors, Seniors, Grad Studentsl Enjoy the convenience of your own credit cards at leading department stores, oil companies, and banks. No cost to apply. If you are a Junior, Senior, or Graduate Student, you're eligible. Call TOLL FREE 800-232-1100, M-F, 9 am - 6 pm College Card Corporation "The Most Trusted Name on Campus."

Nead help with your 1984-85 financial aid form? Call perfect forms 584-6868 for personalized assistance at a nominal fee

Shapard-Colle, 5 years old, needs foster home until August. Jessie is affectionate, playful, well-trained, loves kids. We will subsidize. 256-0404

Bratta I wish you would make up your mind, me or Scott--Love Craig

Is it true you can buy jeeps for $44 through the U.S. Government? Get the facts today! Call (312) 742-1142 ext 5931 A

Looking for a home? Sorority is taking boarders; if interested call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

Free Demonstration: UMass Sport Karate, Larry Kelley, Kirk Jenness. Forms, sparring styles: Tuesday 6 pm SUB, CC first club meeting: Wed 4 pm NOPE 24

make reservations now for Spring Break Ft. Lauderdale, Daytona, Acapulco. Prices from $107! Andrea 546-9648

PI KAPPA ALPHA

- OPEN RUSH -
Mon 2/6, Tues 2/7, Wed 2/8, Mon 2/13
Tues 2/14
For more information call Rick 545-2150

RIDE WANTED

To Mass. Ave. Cambridge every Fri. after 12:05 call Sue Ellen 546-6226

RIDERS WANTED

To Los Angeles Spring Break leave March 17 - brand new luxury car call Ilisa 549-5920

ROOM WANTED

Single room wantad in house or apt call Rosie 586-7230

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male, one room in two bedroom apartment Brittany Manor 256-1374

Room for two people in in Amherst Fields condo $125 plus utilities 256-6691 after 7:00 pm

Roommate wanted to share 2 br. Cliffside Apt w/1 female call Robin or Ellen at 256-0958

Need two people to share house on bus route in Belchertown. Call Eric 323-7705

One room in 3 bedroom Northampton house non-smoker. Unfumished. 140 mo. + utilities 584-2679 or 546-1140

To share large double bedroom in Brittany Manor 120 a month includes heat. Nice people call anytime 256-0969

SAY IT WITH A FLOWER

Say it with a flowar! February 6-9 CCC sponsored by NSA

SERVICES

Typing, Copies, Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0634 anytime

Holiday clothes need hemming? Area's lowest rates. Experienced seamstress. Joan 549-5548

TYPING fast, reliable, professional. Manuscripts, stats, correspondence, etc. Reasonable rates 665-3414

SPRING BREAK 84

84 SPRING BREAK 84

Daytona Beach 259 price includes round trip jet 7 nights hotel Quality Inn ReefFree rent a carunlimited mileage

Ft Lauderdale 259 round trip jet 7 nights hotel Days Inn Broward Blud Free rent a carunlimited mileage Montreal Spring Breal Weekends

from $49.00
price includes round trip luxury motor coach 3 days 2 nights Quality Inn Downtown
Welcome Party at the Old Munich Restaurant. All above prices do not include tax & service charges

College Town Tours
482 Main St Malden MA 02148
617 321 3993

Beachcomber Tours Daytona Beach $338.00
does not include car jet from Boston

Village Tours Ft Lauderdale $389.85
does not include car hotel: Days Inn jet from Boston

College Town Tours Daytona 318.00
including free rent a car unlimited mileage jet from NY add $20 from Boston

Ft Lauderdale $338 jet, hotel, Days Inn free rent a car unlimited mileage jet from Boston
all above prices include tax + services

make your own choice

TEXTBOOKS

Looking for an alternative to the Textbook Annex? You can buy used books at the Book Exchange. CC Rm 166-169 Feb 6-8 9 am - 4 pm daily. Sponsored by Gamma Sigma Sigma

TO SUBLET

1 br in house near UMass and Am Center for spring. Call now 549-0159

TRAVEL

FLORIDA

Miami/Fort Lauderdale area
$209.00 Round Trip
(air only)
Convenient Departures on the scheduled airlines
(these are not risky charter flights) seats are limited
call 584-3224

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley, Instructor. First class meets Wednesday 4 p.m. February 8th. Cost: $55 per semester (includes shirt) Beginner and intermediate karate students welcome. Call 256-0080

V.D.

Say it with carnations. Today at the CC sponsored by PIKE

WANT TO BE A DJ?

WSYL Radio 89.7 needs DJs 1st meeting 2/6 8 pm Cashin Bsmt call 6-6282 for more info

WANTED

Lyricist wanted to collaborate on pop ballads/love songs. Call 546-5500

WORK-STUDY HELP WANTED

The Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Comm. has one work-study position for an office assistant. Applicants should have organizing skills, research and writing skills. Deadline for application is Feb 8th 5:00 WMLASC is an AA/EEO employer. Applications available in WMLASC Offcie 404 Student Union Bldg

Sports

UMass beaten in poor outing, 76-69

By BRIAN MURPHY
Collegian Staff

KINGSTON, RI - The University of Massachusetts men's basketball team had one of their worst performances of the year, Saturday afternoon, as they dropped yet another road game, this time to Rhode Island, 76-69. The loss put a stop to the modest two-game winning streak the Minutemen had.

The Minutemen were primed for a big win after coming off an impressive upset of Penn St. two nights earlier. However, Rhode Island had other thoughts, and jumped out to a quick 7-1 lead, as Roland Fiore scored 5 early points. The Rams used both the inside and outside games to up their lead to 19-11 with twelve minutes to go in the half.

UMass Coach Ron Gerlufsen had seen enough and called a much needed timeout, and 60 seconds later, his team exploded.

The good guys went on a 25-10 run, fueled by the inside games of Bobby Braun and Horace Neysmith, as well as a couple of buckets by the rediscovered Donald Russell. Braun would score 13 first-half points in his finest game as a Minuteman, but curiously would see but 3 minutes of playing time in the second half.

The teams went into the locker room with the Amherst locals leading 42-39.

The opening five minutes of the second half were see-saw, with UMass still holding a three point lead, 52-49. The Rams then went on their own little spurt, which for all practical purposes, decided the game.

The Rams outscored the Minutemen 15-8, primarily on baskets by their two guards, Tony Taylor and Kevin Compton. Taylor (19 points) scored six in this critical stretch and Compton (14 points) added four. The Rams were in control now, leading 66-60.

UMass then proceeded to get ice-cold, scoring five points in the next seven minutes. The Minutemen shot a dismal 41 percent in the second half, and could only muster 27 points. The Minutemen beat themselves in this important portion of the game, turning the ball over several times and committing three offensive fouls.

MINUTEMAN MUTTERINGS--UMass starting front line had a poor game, shooting 10 for 28 and scoring only 27 points...John Hempel had his second straight bad shooting display, making but 3 of 14 from the floor...Donald Russell had his second straight 18 point outing...Carl Smith had only 5 assists, a good days work for many, but sub-standard for him...Edwin Green had but 8 points, but those points thrust him into the number four all-time scoring slot. He nudged ahead of Billy Tindall '68...Green will probably become the second all-time scorer at UMass, trailing only Mike Pyatt...The Rams dominated the second half at the charity stripe, connecting 17 of 23 from the line, while UMass could manage only 5 free throws in 6 attempts.

Gymnasts lose

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

Despite losing by 10 points, the University of Masachusetts men's gymnastics team scored their second highest team total of the season in an exciting match against East Strousburg, 260.85 — 250.95.

Bert Mathieson, Ken Dougherty and Phil Gorgone got the crowd going when they came through with the big performances. Later, the crowd was to be silenced as Dougherty was injured after being flung from high bar.

Before the mishap UMass stayed within three points of Strousburg in each event and after the pommel horse event was ahead thanks to Mathieson (9.05) and Dougherty (9.01).

After a strong ring event for Stousburg, UMass fell behind. Mathieson anchored the event for UMass and came up with a gritty performance to score a 9.15.

Vaulting was a disappointment with the exception of Gorgone. Performing a layout tsukara, Gorgone notched a 9.3.

"I knew I had to hit because we were behind too much already," Gorgone said. "It's tough going up after someone who got a 9.45 doing the same vault (Devot Garrett). It was a great meet up until vault."

Going into the high bar event the Minutemen had a slim chance of taking the meet. Dougherty was the first man up, and was thrown from the bar after losing control of his swings. He injured his hip after missing the mats and hitting the hardwood floor.

"I think we might be scaring the audience away," Mathieson said. "I think sometimes if you want something really bad you lose focus and I think that's what happened in the performance today."

Stevens commented, "We like to keep the crowd on their toes. I was very glad to see a large crowd. It helped out a lot. It keeps the team going."

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

FEELING THE PRESSURE — 142 lb. Wes Beckwith (bottom) has his hands full against B.C.'s Tom Quinn. Beckwith came back to win his match but UMass lost both times over the weekend.

Huskies down women

By ED CUNNINGHAM
Collegian Staff

In all team sports there are two types of streaks. One of those streaks gathers supporters and accolades, the other does not. Unfortunately, for the University of Massachusetts Women's basketball team, their streak adheres to the latter description. The women are now 0-7 in their last 7 efforts.

The latest chapter in this losing streak was a loss to a strong Northeastern University squad, 74-65. More accurately at the hands of the Huskies sophomore guard Pamela Green. The 5'9" Green led all scorers with 28 points, pouring 20 of those points in during the second half.

UMass had to play "catch up" basketball throughout the afternoon as the Lady Huskies jumped to an early lead which they would never relinquish. Although the outlook was bad, things were never out of control. UMass could have won this contest. "I told them to look at how they were playing 4 games ago (when the streak started). Compared to today's game it's not even close," stated UMass head coach Barbara Stevens.

Comparing the stats and the game as a whole, Stevens is correct. UMass outrebounded Northeastern 32-19, which was the facet of their game which UMass had been working on. UMass had four players in double figures, and shot a respectable 53 percent from the floor and 69 percent from the charity stripe.

The obstacles in this game were few but insurmountable. Carla Singleton (13 points), coupled with Green, were two of the major problems facing the Minutewomen. Twenty-seven turnovers and their missed conversions down the stretch kept them from halting this skid. UMass missed four or five layups within the last four minutes of the game, valuable points which could have placed them in the lead.

The first half of the game was a slow paced affair with neither team capable of taking control. Northeastern maintained anywhere from a 2 to a 10 point advantage. In the closing minutes of the half, however, the teams were deadlocked at 28. The final two minutes proved to be more of the same and the Huskies entered the locker room within a slim one point lead, 33-32.

The second half started on a sour note for UMass, as the Pamela Green show started. Green scored 6 of the Huskies' first 9 points. At 44:36, UMass called a time out to regroup. They decided to continue their aggressive and gambling style of defense to try and get some momentum. At times the tactics worked, at others they did not. Northeastern was handed several easy layups and breaks and maintained their lead. UMass refused to fold and played tougher. Jerrie Bernier collected a game high 9 rebounds. Karen Damminger, still nursing an injury, added 14 points and Wendy Ward played another strong game from her guard position. They refused to fold but they just couldn't manage to take the game away from the Lady Huskies.

Northeastern now sports a 13-5 record as UMass drops to 7-11. The Minutewomen's next stop is Dartmouth, New Hampshire, where the women will face the Big Green tomorrow night.

Wrestlers lose twice

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

This past weekend was a typical one for the University of Massachusetts wrestling team as they dropped two more decisions. Springfield College abused the Minutemen Friday night by a score of 36-3, and the Boston College Eagles beat them almost as badly Saturday evening, 37-10.

What wasn't so typical about this weekend was that team captain Scott McQuaide joined several of his teammates in losing both of his matches. McQuaide started off the season by winning his first 11 dual matches before dropping a 4-3 decision last Wednesday to UNH's Dave Yale. UMass' 167 pounder lost two more this weekend, both by a one point margin.

Springfield's Pat Allen outscored McQuaide 10-9 Friday night and B.C.'s John Hanlon took a 13-12 decision Saturday. Hanlon was last year's conference champion at the 177 mark before he dropped a weight class this year. McQuaide came back from a 12-4 deficit to tie the score at 12 at the buzzer, however Hanlon was awarded a point at the end of the match for a superior riding time.

A major problem facing the Minutemen is their inability to field a full lineup. UMass forfeited both the 118 and unlimited positions in both matches this weekend. Going into a match losing 12-0 doesn't help the cause. Springfield also forfeited the 118 pound mark.

At 126 pounds, freshman Chris Lee split his matches this weekend; dropping a 6-4 decision to Springfield's Darryl Arroy and defeating Eagle's Eric Sherbacow 16-8. Phillipe Durant meanwhile was pinned early against Springifeld and his replacement, Mike Hanlon, didn't fare much better the next night as he was outpointed by B.C.'s Dave Attanasio 11-3. Both of these wrestlers did battle at the 134 pound bracket.

At 142 pounds Wes Beckwith dropped a 16-4 decision to Springfield's Pat Hughes Friday night before coming on strong against B.C.'s Tom Quinn Saturday. Quinn took Beckwith to the mat twice for a 4-0 lead before the Minutemen came alive in the second period and pressed Quinn's shoulders to the mat at 3:51 of the match. Beckwith is quickly becoming a force to reckon with and is definitely the Minutemen's most improved wrestler since the beginning of the season.

Sophomore Mike Bossi dropped both of his matches at the 150 pound mark this weekend. Springfield's Bob Mathews got the better of him Friday by a score of 8-5. Bossi looked like he had a pin wrapped up against B.C.'s Carl Traylor, however the Eagle managed to reverse Bossi's cradle and secure a six point victory for B.C. . Bossi was a preseason all-American honorable mention winner and has not been performing as expected so far this semester due to his being rusty after not wrestling last semester.

At the 158 pound spot, Minuteman Paul Hardy dropped back to back decisions against Springfield's Rich White, 24-1, and B.C.'s Ted Hughes, 6-5. Brian Shaughnessy also was beaten twice over the weekend. Thavir Soule out-pointed the Minutemen 19-0 Friday, and B.C.'s Mark DeAngeles pinned the freshman at 1:42 of the match Saturday.

At 190 pounds UMass' Tony Gaeta defeated Springfield's John Caissie 11-5 before dropping a 6-2 decision to BLCL's Joe Traiggert. UMass' next match is against C.C.S.C. Monday at 7:30.

connected with the Collegian for the sole purpose of distribution

NUMMO NEWS

February 6, 1984 Volume 12 Issue 14

Jackson Discusses America

Jesse Jackson delivers his powerful message to a crowd of over 2,000 at the Fine Arts Center Thursday.
photo by Ed Cohen

by Robert Teixeira

Last Thursday, long time Civil Rights activist and presidential candidate Rev. Jesse Jackson gave a thundering address to a crowd of over 2,000 at the University of Massachusetts' Fine Arts Center.

As the keynote for Black History month, Jackson compared the present political and economic plight of Black Americans to that of women, other nationally oppressed people, and the American working class. He said that people came to this land on "different ships, but we are all in the same boat now...we can survive without each other but we cannot win without one another."

Jackson attacked the fundamental direction of the Reagan Administration. He said that "We must all change the course of this nation." The country's "new frontier" is to address the social needs of people and to "put America back to work."

"The foundation of our country is in trouble. Just like a tall skyscraper, when the foundation cracks, then those on the top will go down with the whole building."

Jackson said that "A developed mind is our first line of defense. That is why we need an educational defense act...We must choose the human race over the nuclear race; that is the new frontier."

On health care, Jackson indicated that he would support a nationalized health care system. "Not one person should be denied access to health care because she or he cannot afford to pay for it. Health care should be based on need, not on wealth."

Jackson criticized the recent hirings and firings in the Office of Civil Rights by Reagan and company. Implying that the current administration has made a mockery of basic civil and human rights, he said that Reagan has now made it the "Office of Civil Wrongs."

Jackson also criticized the appointment of Edwin Meese as the new Attorney General. He said that "we must not let Meese into office without wide-spread protest." Meese, a conservative Administration economist, was recently quoted as saying that Black children were among the best fed children in the country and that some poor people were free loaders.

The Boyer Brothers Gospel group performed Thursday to open for Jesse Jackson.
photo by Ed Cohen

On toxic waste, Jackson said that "the issue of whether the earth can live is non-negotiable...We can no longer have 'killer-Watts' roaming the forests...The environmental movement must become main line politics."

In foreign policy towards Africa and the rest of the Third World, Jackson maintained that "America has always had a problem with arithmetic." Jackson noted that a foreign policy debate at Harvard "nobody discussed three-fourths of the world...We must have a problem with fractions." He said that "our foreign policy must be based on mutual respect among nations...A foreign policy must count foreigners...most people in the world are black, brown, yellow, or red. They are non-christians, don't speak English, and are poor. We must respect these people."

While Chancellor Duffy, SGA Student Trustee Charlene Allen and various Jackson campaign organizers sat on the podium, Jackson made a clear reference in support of student empowerment. He said, "There has always been a resistance to student power... But history has shown that when students wake up and become active, the whole country wakes up.

Yvette Henry Claims Racism In Arrest

by Segun Eubanks

On December 23, 1983, the "practical hell" that UMass student Yvette Henry had been living for three weeks was somewhat lessened when charges of arson stemming from the Crampton fires of last semester were dropped by the District Attorney's Office because new evidence made a successful prosecution "improbable."

Most of us are already aware that charges have been dropped. But not many have been informed of the events leading up to that decision. On Novemeber 29, 1983 Crampton dormitory was plagued with its 16th fire of the semester. The university police in collaboration with the state police, the state fire marshall's office and the FBI came to the conclusion that Yvette Henry was the person they were looking for.

This assumption was based soley on a psychological profile developed by the FBI and a handwriting analysis based on notes and grafitti written in campus bathrooms. After going over all of the evidence in the case the psychological profile indicated that the suspect had a craving for attention and was most likely a black female who was probably a middle child, had lost a parent at an early age, and was either extremely intelligent or of below-normal intelligence.

The reasoning for suspecting a Black person was based on the syntax of a note found which read: "you southwest janitors who cleans here."

According to Hampshire County District Attorney Michael Ryan, "The psychological profile had merged into Yvette. At that point, the police were operating on the assumption that she matched the profile." (quoted from the Philadelphia Daily News, Feb. 27, 1984). Ms. Henry is Black, a middle child, and lost her father at a young age. The fact that Ms. Henry is a Chemistry major and that her floor was planning a party on that friday night, led the FBI to believe that she was making a bomb and preparing to poison the punch at the party as a "grand finale." The possibility

Continued on page 2

Jackson's Importance to You

by Michael Thelwell

Jesse Jackson's bold and audacious bid for the Democratic nomination for the presidency has excited much press coverage and discussion. Yet, or perhaps for that reason, it is widely misunderstood and misrepresented. This is unfortunate, because it is potentially the most important development in the entire campaign.

Certainly, it gives students, particularly students in Massachusetts, because of the timing of the state primary, a remarkable opportunity to influence the Democratic Party and the course of the nation; if they choose to take it. For this reason it is important that we understand exactly what this candidacy means to the political life of the nation through the potential effect of the movement he calls the Rainbow Coalition.

First, look at what we have. "For young people in the morning of their lives" as Rev. Jackson is fond of saying, the behavior and attitudes of the Reagan administration cannot be reassuring. What are we to make of a President in his first term - knowing he has to face the electorate again - who has:

Fought inflation by creating a depression which put nearly ten million of his countrymen out of work?

Mortgaged our futures - after solemnly promising to balance the budget by 1984 - by creating the largest federal deficits in history?

Unleashed a James Watt to rape the wilderness reserves and bring the environmental cleanup program to a virtual halt?

Reduced corporate taxes, (including financial aid to students) while cutting every program that helped poor people climb out of poverty?

Created a profound sense of national insecurity through a foreign policy which restores military draft registration while deploying American servicemen to the Middle East, and Central America, invading Grenada, and deploying nuclear missiles to Europe?

Cuts economic, cultural, educational and agricultural programs to the Third World while increasing military aid to countries that need schools and tractors more than tanks and guns?

Supported oppressive murderous dictatorships while abandoning the human rights initiatives of the previous administration?

These actions suggest that the administration is totally insensitive to the concerns of America's young, or the needs and suffering of America's poor. Expecting us to vote for him again indicates that he has no respect for either our intelligience or our political ability.

If Reagan could do all this knowing he has to face re-election, can you imagine what he will do if we are foolish or apathetic enough to allow him a second term when he will be unaccountable to anyone? Really think about that.

As Rev. Jackson says, "Reagan has made the country and the world a more dangerous and painful place. If America is standing tall, it is standing on very thin ice." And to all this the Democratic response has been timorous and ineffectual. That is why he has entered the race, to raise these issues in a powerful and clear way and because "nearly half of the voting age population are so disenchanted they think voting is worthless."

We must remember that Reagan was elected by less than 25 per cent of the voting age population. Most Americans did not vote for him, they voted against the unfortunate Jimmy Carter or stayed home. It was the smallest turnout in recent presidential elections.

For example, in Massachusetts Reagan won by a margin of 2,500 votes, less than the student population of this school. There were more than 20,000 unregistered minorities and God knows how many unregistered students in the state. In Mississippi where Reagan's margin was 7,000 there are over 50,000 discouraged Blacks who are not registered. And so it goes; Reagan won thirteen states where the number of unregistered Blacks alone was more than double his margin of victory.

By his candidacy Jackson is giving those unregistered Black Americans a reason and inspiration to enter the political process. He has brought life, energy, enthusiasm and hopefulness to those communities that is of an intensity not seen since the heroic days of the Civil Rights Movement. He is giving students a reason to enter also. This is important not only for Blacks, minorities or students, but for the Democratic process of the entire nation. We must keep it going.

But Jackson has the potential to do much more than that. To the extent that students, women, Blacks, Hispanics and all other excluded people come together, register, vote and send Jackson to the convention at the head of a great coalition of new voters, we will be sending a clear and unequivocal message to both parties. The message is, "we, the people whom Reagan discounts are the margin of victory. We may not be able to select a president, but we can determine who he will not be. United we are a powerful force in the nation's politics. WE MUST BE TAKEN SERIOUSLY," something neither party has done before.

Because this is a predominantly white state with an early primary our students can have a disproportionate influence in keeping this movement going. The students of this school joining with other students around the state can show the nation that Jackson is more than the candidate of Black America, and the Rainbow Coalition more than a dream. We really have that opportunity!

More Questions Need Answers

by Segun Eubanks

In Nummo News editorials of December 5 and 12 1983, some questions were raised concerning the Yvette Henry case. Questions such as why Yvette was held for three hours and interrogated (without the presence of a lawyer) before her arrest.

Answers to some of these questions have been uncovered and have recieved publicity all over the nation, with the exception of Massachusetts. There seems to be a black-out of information in this area from the local press, including the UMass student-run newspaper, the Collegian.

In a Collegian editorial (February 2, 1984) concerning the treatment of the case by area newspapers the article stated "As a student newspaper on this campus, our goal is to inform the public of prominent news events affecting the lives of people of the univesity--the bad news, as well as the good." Although we at Nummo feel that this goal is a noble one, we also strongly believe that simply reporting the news is just one job of a responsible news organization.

Investigative reporting, behind the scenes information gathering, questioning information sources and not just looking for a "scoop" but looking for the truth. These are the goals of Nummo News.

The evidence that had been used to arrest Ms. Henry has not been reported in the Pioneer Valley or anywhere else in Massachusetts, although it has been available.It makes one wonder what the University is trying to hide. Even more so how much influence the University has on local press.

The news of Yvette Henry's arrest spread over the state like wild-fire. At the arrainment every news service locally and nationwide was represented. Why then did the news of the dropped charges not have the same coverage? How would the press have covered the case if additional charges were added rather than original charges dropped?

Yvette Henry is back in school this semester and plans to graduate in May in spite of finals she still has to make up from last semester. However, Yvette's life will never be the same. She must live with the accusations, the strange looks, and the publicity for a long time.

Through all this there are still many more questions that must be answered. Such as: What if the suspect did not recieve all the publicity that Yvette did? Or the community and family support and outcry that Yvette did? Or the financial support that Yvette did? If not would that suspect be free now?

The answers to these questions may lay in a long hard look at the history of the UMass police department. Or maybe in the many files of Attorney Charles J. DiMare. Or maybe in the words of State Trooper Jay Bowman: "If the same thing occured today, we would have done the exact same thing. No one would have second-guessed the information that we had."

Yvette Henery describes her feelings.(Reprinted from the Philadelphia Inquirer.)

"It became very clear that we could that we could not prove any case against Yvette Henry.... We made a mistake."

-Michael Ryan, Hampshire County district Attorney

Continued from page 1

of what was referred to as "another Jonestown" made police move swiftly against their suspect.

A half-hour after Yvette was taken down to the campus police station, a search of her room turned out no bomb. After three hours of what Ms. Henry called "humiliating and degrading" interrogation, the police did not recieve the confession that the FBI profile predicted they would get. The folders full of newspaper clippings about the fires that were supposed to be in Yvette's room (according to the profile) were not there. However, Yvette was arrested and spent two days in the Franklin County house of corrections, an all male institution.

The District Attorney announced that he was dropping the case when the handwriting analysis of messages found in the bathrooms showed that Ms. Henry had not writtten the messages. Instead the analysis resulted in the arrest of a white woman who had been a janitor in Crampton.

"It became very clear that we could not prove a case against Yvette Henry," said Ryan, "We made a mistake." (Quoted from Philadelphia Daily News, Feb 27.)

The charges have been dropped but the struggle still continues for Yvette Henry. "I was a scapegoat" said Ms. Henry, "There is no doubt that there was racism." Ms. Henry's lawyer, Charles J. DiMare of UMass legal services said that Black and Hispanic women were targeted by police and university officials. "They were being degraded. People were being searched in the middle of the night."

DiMare is preparing two court suits against the university and law-enforcement officials and said that there may also be civil rights suits filed by other minority students who were questioned in the case.

HATS

by Tracey Bryant

"HATS: A TRIBUTE TO HARRIET TUBMAN," is a one-woman show that shares the dreams and courage of Harriet Tubman. Through the original musical score, visual effects, Black spirituals and the talents of writer/director Saundra Dunson Franks, the Underground Railroad conductor will live again, at Bowker auditorium 8:00 p.m. tonight.

"HATS:" is an evening of theatre magic that transports the audience in time. Franks incarnates the 90-year-old Tubman reminiscing about dark starless nights of slavery and her escape; her trips south to lead other slaves to freedom; her experiences as an Union Army Intelligence Agent; her associations with Frederick Douglass, John Brown, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and many others.

Franks originally wrote, produced and performed the piece in 1977 in an Atlanta church. Inspired by the audience's reaction, Franks researched Tubman more deeply. Franks feels that "it is through divine inspiration and love that she was led to Harriet Tubman and was given the talent to successfully portray Harriet."

"To successfully portray Harriet," is an understatement. Franks revives one of history's most persevering spirits. The Buffalo Courier Express said, "Mrs. Franks' ability to become Harriet Tubman is such that members of the audience have to think twice to separate the actress from the character...When I saw this old woman faltering at the steps to the stage, I got out of my seat without thinking...She had become Harriet Tubman...". The Bermuda Sun said, "Saundra Franks' presentation is so complete that she is no longer the actor on stage, but 90-year-old Harriet Tubman herself."

An Atlanta screen and stage actress Franks directed the Drama Department at the Neighborhood Arts Center in Atlanta for three years. She also conducted internships for college students and creative drama workshops for Atlanta City Schools.

As a professional actress, she has been a member of the "Just Us Theatre Company," the "Clark College Players," the "Spelman-Morehouse Players," " Proposition Theatre Co.," "People's Survival Theatre Co.," " Jomandi Productions," and the Alliance Theater's "Umbrella Players."

She appeared in "The Mighty Gents," playing the long-suffering wife, Rita, and the highly acclaimed "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men." Franks has played many diverse roles in a broad spectrum of plays - from "Macbeth," to "Everyman," and from "the Three Penny Opera," to "Hair."

Since 1978, she has devoted her talents to "HATS." She plans to continue creating works about Black women and is currently researching projects on poet Phillis Wheatley, educator Mary McCleod Bethune, politician Shirley Chisolm, and selected Black African queens.

Franks explains: "Roles for Black actresses are very limited." In a move to avoid stereotypical typecasting of Black women, she has decided, "to create my role as a theatrical historian...And I'd like to see more Black actresses do this kind of thing. We don't have to submit to portraying negative images of our people."

Saundra Dunson Franks in portraying Harriet Tubman.

Saundra Dunson Franks before makeup for her role of Harriet Tubman.

Franks has trained in modern and African dance, as well as ballet; is a member of "Screen Actor's Guild and Equity," and has formed her own company, "Theatrical History, Inc." Recently, she completed a certification program sponsored by Cable Atlanta to use video equipment in the studio and on location. She also successfully coordinated a 1981 video/acting workshop for teens that was sponsored by the Fulton County Arts Council.

Despite her many and varied interests, Franks continues to dedicate herself to bringing "HATS: A TRIBUTE TO HARRIET TUBMAN" to audiences across the country. Using her multiple talents, she brings to life the spiritual essence of one of the world's greatest freedom fighters, Harriet Tubman.

This show which received a five-minute standing ovation at Albany State College, will be presented free of charge at UMass. Be sure to get to Bowker Auditorium early enough to get a seat. It promises to be an unforgettable evening of entertainment an education - Magic!

Fighting For Freedom

There was once a woman of unquestioning faith in God, an unconquerable will, determination, strength and courage. Although there are no records showing the exact date of birth, Harriet Tubman is thought to have been born in 1820 or 1821 in Dorchester County, Maryland.

After living as a slave for almost thirty years, Harriet had a vision of freedom. She escaped from slavery and then became the conductor of the world famous Underground Railroad.

Risking her life she made 19 trips into the deep South to lead over 300 slaves to freedom. Using an informal network of safe houses owned by abolitionists and sympathizers, her "train" never lost a passenger.

Harriet Tubman accomplished all of this despite frequent attacks of a sleeping sickness that left her virtually paralyzed for periods of time; AND despite a $40,000 reward for her capture, dead or alive.

She was a leader in the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, and was active in the women's rights movement. Those who believed in freedom and human dignity as she did, found in her a friend. She was associated with many of the great social reformers of the 19th century, including Frederick Douglass, John Brown, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Thaddeus Stevens.

She served in the Union Army as soldier, nurse, spy, scout and cook during the Civil War. Despite her courage and sacrifice, she was denied a veteran's pension from the government until 1899, ten years after her husband's death. When she finally received his pension, as the widow of Nelson Davis, five dollars was taken off the twenty-five dollar request and she was granted twenty dollars a month for the duration of her life.

Several biographers came to her rescue by donating all of the monies they received for the books they wrote about her.

Although the United States was slow to acknowledge her achievements, other coutries praised her efforts. England's Queen Victoria sent her jubilee medal and her own black shawl, as symbols of her admiration.

Harriet Tubman was a world legend in her own time, and is an inspiration for all time.

Use It Or Lose It

Brothers and Sisters,

One of the greatest assets of UMass/Amherst is undoubtably the opportunities available for each of us to get involved. While academics always shall be the most important task for us to attend to during our time here, extracurricular activities add a totally different dimension to an Undergraduates life.

Fortunately this institution boasts a variety of organizations in response to the diversity of our needs and interests. If you happen to be literary or artistic for example, you might consider joining the staff of Nummo News, Black Affairs or Drum magazine.

If your interest centers around Black development and empowerment, Afrik-Am could be just the group you've been looking for. Ahora and the Asian-American Student Association also do exciting and important work throughout each semester ensuring culturally-rich programs and services.

The Black Mass Communications Project provides opportunities to those of us hwo are musically-inclined. The Third World Theatre allows performers of color their chance, while providing our community with entertainment.

Another important organization in need of participation is the Third World Caucus. This caucus is made up of all the Third World members of the Undergraduate Student Senate willing to participate. The caucus works to ensure that the interests of the students of color here at UMass are represented and secured on the Senate floor. This group also advocates each year for the continued funding of all the Third World organizations aforementioned, when the Senate allocates its budget.

Our involvement is the only way to ensure the continued existence of these opportunities. It took years of constant struggle to secure them: we cannot afford to lose them now.

Becoming involved is easy. Simply call the organization which interests you (the numbers are listed in the Student Directory), or visit the Office of Third World Affairs in the Student Union for a complete listing of available activities and more information. If you are interested in becoming a Student Senator (representative of the Third World Caucus) contact Robert Texiera or Sherwood Thompson at 545-2517.

In Unity and in Strength
Sharon L. Davies

Challenge

by Michael Nauls

As Reverend Jesse Jackson entered the presidential campaign of 1984-85 I was overwhelmed by a variety of feelings and emotions. I only wish that my forefathers and foremothers who were forced to sit in the back of the bus, lynched on a daily basis, raped, mutilated, and denied equal employment, education, and the right to vote, could feel that there efforts and sufferings weren't in vain.

As we progress on the political front with a number of Black mayors, representatives and others who have emerged as key political forces, the question of whether a Black man would ever run for president under the two party system has finally been layed to rest.

With Shirley Chisolm runnning for president this was considered an oddity, and was given little chance of succeeding, but with the emergence of Jesse Jackson who reignited the advocacy for voter registration throughout the country, but particularly through the South (where historically Blacks have been excluded from the voting process,) he has a legitimate chance of winning.

His presence has already been felt and has shed a new light on the election process. This light will be a beacon for all people who have felt alienated from the political process.

• • • NUMMO STAFF • • •

Tracey Bryant — Editor In Chief
Andrea Baker — Business Manager
Segun Eubanks — Researcher
M. David Lee III — Researcher
Yvonne Mendez — Layout Editor
Charles Rinehart — Graphics
Judy Russ — Typesetter
Donette Wilson — Reporter

• • • Contributors • • •

Ed Cohen — Photographer
Maria DaLuz — Photographer
Russell Jordan — Corresponden
Rob Teixeira — Corresponden

OPENINGS - AFRO-AMERICAN STUDIES COURSES

Afro-Am 112: Intro to Clay and Plaster
MWF 9:05-11:15
Prof. Hill

Afro-Am 113 Afro-American Art History
TUTH 4:00-5:15 "C" core
Prof. Stevens

Afro-Am 156 Rev. Concepts in Afro-Am Music
MWF 12:20-1:15 "C" core
Prof. Shepp

Afro-Am 192A Black Amer. Literature I
TUTH 2:30-3:45
Prof. Esther Terry

Afro-Am 251 Black American Drama
TUTH 11:15-12:30 "C" core
Prof. Esther Terry

Afro-Am 290J Black and White Woman Writers
MWF 10:10-12:00
Prof. Cynthia Packard

Afro-Am 320 Contem. Black Urban Ed.
TUTH 1:00-2:15 "D" core
Prof. C. Davis

YVONNE'S PLACE

For the best West Indian cooking.
In the Basement of New Africa
Mon. - Fri.

YOUR CAN REGISTER TO VOTE AT THE FOLLOWING PLACES:

TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE - AMHERST TOWN HALL
MONDAY - FRIDAY - 8:00-4:30
Saturday, February 11 - 12:00 - 8:00
Tuesday, February 14 - 8:00- 10:00

NORTH AMHERST LIBRARY
Monday - Friday - 1:00 - 5:30
Tuesday & Thursday - 6:30 -8:30
Saturday 9:00 - 12:00

MUNSON LIBRARY (South Amherst)
Monday - Friday - 2:00 - 5:30
Tuesday & Thursday - 6:30 - 8:30
Saturday 9:00 -12:30

HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE LIBRARY - Contact Gay Carpenter, Library Main Office

ON CAMPUS REGISTRATION WILL ALSO TAKE PLACE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

February 6 - CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE - 9:00- 2:00 P.M.

Feburary 7 - BERKSHIRE DINING COMMONS - 5:00 - 7:00 P.M.

February 8 - WORCESTER DINING COMMONS - -5:00 - 7:00 P.M.

February 9 - HAMPSHIRE DINING COMMONS - 5:00 - 7:00 P.M.

February 10 - FRANKLIN DINING COMMONS - 11:00 - 1:00 P.M.

February 14 - CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE - 11:00 - 4:00 P.M.

You must be a registered Democrat or Independent by February 14 to vote in the Democratic Presidential Primary on March 13.

If you have any questions about registering to vote call the Amherst Town Clerk - 253-9382.

THE AMHERST TOWN DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

TWT: Nine Seasons of Excellence

Phyllis Bailey, cast member of "PROUD" will pefrom her most challenging play."

Actor/Director Glynn Turman will star in "PROUD," a presentation of the Third World Theater.

The Third World Theater of the University of Massachusetts will open its ninth season of plays Saturday, February 11 with a soul-stirring production of "PROUD" by C. Bernard Jackson.

"PROUD" is a production of the Inner City Cultural Center in Los Angeles, California and stars renown Black actor Glynn Turman and Phyllis Bailey. The play which is being presented as part of Black History Month, concerns itself with an actor who witnesses a police beating of a youth and must choose between his career and his conscience.

Actor/director Glynn Turman started his long theatrical career in the original Broadway production of Lorraine Hansberry's "A RAISIN IN THE SUN." Since then he has appeared in film, television and plays on and off Broadway. Most recently he has directed several series of the television program "DYNASTY."

Playwright C. Bernard Jackson has written a number of works including the Obie Award winning musical "FLY BLACKBIRD" and "IAGO," winner of three Dramalogue awards.

Third World Theater's production of "PROUD" marks the first area appearance of Inner City Cultural Center on the east coast. Since its inception, 14 years ago, Inner City Cultural Center has been a pioneer in Black Theater, producing such works as "EARTHQUAKE, DEPARTURE" by C. Bernard Jackson and a "A BLACK WOMAN SPEAKS" by Beah Richard.

"PROUD" has received high acclaim in the Los Angeles and San Fransisco areas where it has been playing for over a year. "Good comedy, excellent music, and a social statement not easy to ignore comes alive from the great efforts of this talented group of Black artists," Lester Cole - Peoples World

"The play makes a powerful statement about politics, relationships between men and women, the lack of humanitarian interests and the ramifications of systematic mind control." (Dr. Juba - New Bayview News).

An acting workshop with Glynn Turman and Phyllis Bailey will be held at the Green Room, Theater Building, Smith College. The production will take place at 8 pm at Bowker Auditorium, UMass, Amherst. Tickets for the performance are $2.00 students and $3.00 general public, available at the door the evening of the show or at the Fine Arts Center box office. The acting workshop is free of charge.

I would like to praise the Third World Theater (TWT) for its consistly great commitment to bringing quality, diversity and integrity to the UMass community and the entire Valley. Moreover, I would like to thank them, particularly Roberta Uno-Thelwell, for their non-complacent attitudes toward theater in America, and externally imposed standards.

The Third World Theater has not been content to merely be "good" or "good enough" in what they offer the community. And they have never settled for common myths or stereotypical portrayals. They have consistently sought out extraordinarily creative and profound vessels of truth. They have strived to be better and better, even when past seasons have been excellent.

And they have succeeded! This Spring, their ninth season promises to be especially exciting. On Feb. 11, at Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m., TWT will be presenting "PROUD," starring the renowned actor, Glynn Turman and Phyllis Bailey. It is a piece by C. Bernard Jackson, in which an actor witnesses a police beating of a youth and must choose between his career or his conscience.

The second presentation will be Craig Kee Strete's "PAINT YOUR FACE ON A DROWNING IN THE RIVER" performed by "Native Americans in the Arts" on March 10 in Bowker. Also in Bowker Auditorium , at 1:00 p.m. two young peoples' plays "THE ARROW THAT KILLS WITH LOVE" and "A SUNDAY VISIT WITH GREAT GRANDFATHER" will be performed.

Closing the Spring season will be the Third World Theater's original production of "GULLAH!", an Alice Childress play, from Thursday-Saturday April 5-7, and 12-14 in Hampden Theater at UMass.

The Third World Theater of UMass was founded in 1979 and has established a tradition of presenting the finest touring performances by professional companies, along with vital and exciting original productions. In addition to the performances, workshops are offered illuminating various aspects of acting, directing and play development all within the context of Third World American Theater.

The Third World Theater of UMass is a great asset to UMass, the Valley, and American Theater in general. It explores and releases a greatness, a fervor, an energy that is often repressed, denied and ignored. I encourage all to patronize their performances. The value when measured against a $2.00 (oreven $20.00 ticket) is awe-inspiring; as is the quality of the performances and what one is left with long after the performances.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIV, Issue 5 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Tuesday, February 7, 1984

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier

STRAY CAT STRUT — Stray Cat lead guitarist and vocalist Brian Setzer pounds out a solo during the Stray Cats' packed performance at the Fine Arts Center Monday night. The Cats "Rocked Amherst" with all their hits including "She's Sexy and Seventeen" and "Rock This Town" and a well-done cover of "Jailhouse Rock."

Tillson Farm coal pile debate continues today

By DAVID LINTON
Collegian Staff

The Director of the Physical Plant at the University of Massachusetts will meet with members of the Amherst Town Conservation Commission today to discuss solutions to the problem-plagued coal pile at Tillson Farm.

The 50,000 ton coal pile, which is stored at the farm off East Pleasant Street, has been part of an on-going controversy between the commission and UMass officials for several years. Rain washing through the coal has been found to be the main source of pollution of Taylor Brook located one-half mile away.

The coal is used to fuel the physical plant that supplies heat and some of the power to the University.

Last month, Rodger Cherewatti, director of the physical plant, presented a plan before the commission to spray sodium lauryl sulfate, an experimental detergent, on the coal to reduce the contamination of Taylor Brook, but commission members remained skeptical.

The detergent, Cherewatti said, kills bacteria in the coal which helps produce the polluting agents. Cherewatti said washing the pile with the detergent and catching the run-off in a sediment basin treated with limestone around the pile would cut down on the pollutants in surface run-off.

Another alternative is to truck the coal pile to an off-campus site, which Cherewatti said would be unnecessary. Trucking firms have already bid on plans to move the pile. Cherewatti said he would discuss plans to combine the two alternatives with members of the commission and try to iron out a workable agreement.

He said any plans would have to be approved by UMass Vice-chancellor of Administration and Finance, John L. DeNyse. The state capital outlay budget has alloted $2.5 million to correct the coal contamination problem.

Cherewatti said he discussed "house keeping measures" with members of the commission last Friday to be undertaken by the University to improve the maintenance of the coal pile. The measures call for using covers on the trucks used to transport the coal to the physical plant from Tillson Farm and washing the trucks periodically.

Other measures include sweeping the access road, Eastman Road, "once or twice a month," and keeping the area surrounding the coal pile clean to reduce the amount of coal dust.

Foreign policy panel tonight

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

Panelists from the University of Massachusetts and the Five College area will discuss eight key American foreign policy questions in a series of forums starting tonight.

"The Soviet Union-Hard Choices for Moscow" will begin the series at 7:30 this evening in the Webster House lounge of the Orchard Hill Residential Area.

The Foreign Policy Association of New York City organizes these discussions, known as Great Decisions '84, and publishes a pamphlet to accompany the sessions.

Political Science Professor Luther Allen, the Webster faculty-in-residence, will moderate the eight forums. Allen, who has lived on Orchard Hill since the inception of that residential area, has organized this series for the past 16 years.

"The program brings together many experts in the fields we discuss and the questions from the students are very good ones that make these panels interesting," Allen said.

Introduction to World Politics, a course taught by Allen, is built around these lectures and the students enrolled make up the base of the audience. But all students and members of the public are invited.

"This is a very good opportunity to learn more about these key issues in foreign policy," Allen said. "The panelists are very good about coming here — all they get is a free meal and a pamphlet, so I encourage students to participate."

The discussions will be aired on WCFR, 88.5 FM on the Thursday following the event, from 10 to 11:30 p.m.

After the Soviet Union forum tonight, the program will continue with "Central America, Mexico and the U.S." next Tuesday, followed the next week by "U.S. Security and World Peace: Allies Arms and Diplomacy."

Feb. 28's topic will be "South Africa: Can U.S. Policies Influence Change?" In March, the topics will be: "International Debt Crisis: Borrowers, Banks, and the IMF," March 6; "Saudi Arabia and Jordan: Kingdoms at the Crossroads," March 13; "China and the U.S.: Five Years after Normalization," March 20; and on March 27, "International Drug Traffic: Can It Be Stopped?"

Undergrads get 'hands on' training

Students given an alternative

By ERIKA KLEIDERMAN
Collegian Correspondent

There is one class offered at the University of Massachusetts that is more than a learning experience — it is a teaching experience.

The course, Education Seminar 282, requires UMass undergraduates to work as tutors to special needs high school students in the Alternative Learning Program (ALP).

The ALP, part of the Hampshire County Public School System, is "more than 95 percent effective" in helping students who range in age from 14- to 19-years old, according to ALP Director Edward Suglia.

Suglia, the only certified teacher in the program, took over six years ago to build the ALP into a success with the help of students taking Education Seminar 282, as well as other volunteers.

The high school students who are referred to the program by their local school systems have consistently been expelled from school or simply have social problems that prevent them from learning in a traditional high school environment, Suglia said.

ALP offers these students one-on-one instruction in subjects ranging from computer science to social studies. While the work these students do differs from ordinary high school curriculum, ALP students must have their local high schools approve their progress at the end of each semester.

Some ALP students have actually enrolled in UMass undergraduate courses in areas such as Computers and Information Sciences (COINS) and Rhetoric. Two past ALP students have entered UMass as undergraduate students after completing high school.

The 14 ALP students are entitled to full use of the University's resources, Suglia said.

Though the program is extremely academically oriented, "We do fun things too," Suglia said. A typical day might include working with computers in the School of Education's Foster Furculo Building, and working with tutors on academic subjects later in the morning. In the afternoon, the group may take a trip to one of the University's sports facilities, a greenhouse or the library.

For the program to successfully help special needs students get an education Suglia enforces strict rules, such as no smoking. Suglia said he does not generally have a problem with the students disobeying his rules and averages only one expulsion a year.

UMass undergraduate students who have worked in the program as tutors are not all eduction majors. Some are COINS or liberal arts majors and many have returned to volunteer their services. At the present time Suglia has no plans to expand the program, but has room for up to fifty undergraduate tutors.

Anyone interested in learning more about the program or in tutoring high school students to learn from one to three credits can call the program at 545-2584.

Students to confer at Harvard ttlesentatives from 11 University of Massachusetts student groups will be Representatives from 11 University of Massachusetts student groups will be leadership conference this weekend.

The conference, to be held at Harvard University, will feature forums on student registration drives, the future of higher education, the arms race and other issues confronting the presidential candidates.

Students wishing to attend the national conference can pre-register with the UMass Public Interest Research Group at the table on the Campus Center concourse. A limited number of students not affiliated with a Recognized Student Organization will be able to attend through funds from a Student Government Association scholarship fund. A bus to and from the event, which begins Friday and ends Sunday, will be provided.

INSIDE

UMass and the parking policy ..... p. 3

Students and the presidential elections ..... p. 7

Women gymnasts nipped again ..... p. 16

"Youth is a state of mind."

— Robert Kennedy

World and National News

AP Laserphoto

Welcome Home: President Reagan waves to crowd wishing him a happy 73rd birthday. Reagan visited his hometown of Dixon, Ill. for the first time in years. With him is his wife Nancy and brother Neil.

Reagan: Beirut government stable

ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE — The Reagan administration does not believe the Lebanese government has collapsed with hopes President Amin Gemayel can quickly form a "responsible, broadly representative government," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said yesterday.

"Our basic position is that President Gemayel is working intensively to form a new Cabinet under a new prime minister," Speakes told reporters as the president was en route to his hometown of Dixon, Ill., to celebrate his 73rd birthday.

"We hope that he will quickly be able to form a responsible, broadly representative government that can help him address the critical issues that face the Lebanese people at this time," he said.

"We don't believe the government has collapsed," Speakes said.

He told reporters Donald Rumsfeld, special envoy, is in Beirut and that Robert Bartholomew, the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, and Robert Paganelli, U.S. ambassador to Syria, had been "actively involved" in discussions with Lebanese leaders over the last 24 to 36 hours.

In Lebanon, where Prime Minister Shafiz Qazzan and his eight-member Cabinet resigned Sunday, Moslem militiamen poured through Beirut in running battles with the Lebanese army, and the government appeared to have lost control of much of the city's western half.

Officials to discuss jet contracts

WASHINGTON — Connecticut's congressional delegation and officials of United Technologies, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group were scheduled to meet today to discuss damage control strategies after General Electric's victory in the Air Force's jet fighter engine competition.

The Pentagon announced Friday it was awarding GE a contract to build 75 percent of the jet engines in 1985, compared to 25 percent to Pratt & Whitney, which has had a virtual monopoly on them for years.

Marla Romash, spokeswoman for Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., said yesterday the meeting was called to discuss ways of dealing with the Pentagon's announcement and of getting more business for the East Hartford, Conn.-based Pratt & Whitney.

The private meeting was to be held in Dodd's Senate office. The cost of the engines was expected to be a major topic at the meeting.

Pratt & Whitney's F100 engine, which now powers both the F-15 and F-16 fighters, costs about 2.5 million, while the GE engine is expected to cost more than $3 million.

GE, Rolls-Royce will build jets

NEW YORK — General Electric Co. and Rolls-Royce Ltd. have signed a preliminary agreement to share the cost of manufacturing and selling commercial airliner jet engines.

In a related development, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Friday the Pentagon had awarded GE a 75 percent share of a one-year contract to build engines for the Air Force's F-15 and F-16 fighter jets. The Pratt and Whitney division of United Technologies Corp., for years the Defense Department's prime jet-engine builder, was given the remaining 25 percent.

The Pentagon left open the question of how the work would be divided beyond the first year of the program, which is expected ultimately to be worth at least $10 billion and perhaps as much as $17 billion.

GE officials declined Friday to disclose financial details of the Rolls-Royce agreement.

State orders immediate ban on 18 contaminated products

BOSTON — The Massachusetts Public Health Council adopted an emergency ban yesterday on the sale of 18 products in the state that have been contaminated with the suspected cancer-causing chemical EDB.

The products included eight Duncan Hines cake mixes, plus corn muffin mix, pancake mix, dough, wheat, cornmeal and flour products from several other manufacturers.

State officials said their tests found samples of all 18 products to be contaminated with at least 10 parts per billion of ethylene dibromide, or EDB, a chemical compound used as a pesticide and linked to cancer in laboratory animals.

Lawyer claims pesticides led 'good boy' to murder

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — A jury began deliberating yesterday the fate of a lawn worker whose lawyer claims he was a "peaceful, good, hardworking boy" whose mind was poisoned by pesticides he used in his work.

David Garabedian, 22, of Chelmsford, has admitted strangling a woman in her backyard, saying he didn't know what caused him to throttle her with his hands and then throw rocks at her last March.

AP Laserphoto

Court bound: Jose Vieira, one of six defendants accused in the Big Dan's Gang rape case enters Superior Court yesterday for the start of jury selection in the Fall River trial.

Digest

By Associated Press

Jury selection begins today in New Bedford rape case

FALL RIVER, Mass. — Potential jurors were asked what newspapers they read and what television they watch as jury selection began yesterday in the trial of six men charged with raping a woman on a bar room table.

A two-page list of questions was distributed to the jury pool of some 75 persons to learn what they know of the case.

"You are not being tested," Judge William Young told them. "As citizens you have the obligation and the right to sit on the juries of this commonwealth.

The six defendants are accused of raping a 21-year-old woman at Big Dan's tavern in nearby New Bedford on March 6, 1983. Police say the woman was attacked for over two hours while other patrons in the bar cheered on her attackers.

Private hunger commission contradicts Reagan findings

BOSTON — Contradicting the Reagan administration, a private commission reported today that hunger is widespread in America and that policies of the federal governmnet are to blame.

The findings of the five-month study by the Citizen's Commission on Hunger in New England, "American Hunger Crisis," were released yesterday in Washington and Boston.

"Hunger is widespread enough from a medical perspective to be an epidemic," said commission chairman Larry Brown of the Harvard School of Public Health, defining an epidemic as an "excessive and increasing prevalence" of a condition.

Democratic leaders discuss creation of new state taxes

BOSTON — Massachusetts House Democratic leaders said yesterday Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' record $8.14 billion budget calls for $500 million in new revenues to be raised several ways — including new taxes.

A caucus of House Democrats was told the governor wants a 3 percent tax on court judgments exceeding $20,000, as well as a first-time fee of $100 for requesting jury trials in civil cases and by raising to $5 the present $2.11 per $1,000 tax for recording property deed transfers, plus authority to raise certain fees.

Six years ago today in Mass; it snowed and snowed and...

NEEDHAM, Mass. — They came by the hundreds, half-frozen motorists who abandoned their cars under mounds of snow. They crowded around the convent's two telephones, then huddled in blankets trying to sleep on church pews.

Six years ago yesterday the first of 2,000 strangers trudged down a snow-bound highway exit and into St. Bartholomew's convent. Across much of the state, the story was the same. People gave up trying to get home and took shelter wherever they could.

The Great Blizzard of '78 had started gently on Feb. 6, but by the time it ended 2¼ days later, 29 people were dead, 339 houses destroyed and 6,500 more damaged. More than 27 inches of snow paralyzed the area, with drifts piling high over thousands of cars.

Winds reached 100 mph at the height of the storm and surf lashed the coast pulling houses apart. Property damage was estimated at $300 million in Massachusetts alone.

Forecasters had warned that trouble was coming, but the force of the storm, the worst in this century, caught people by surprise.

"We were the first ones off the exit," said Father Robert Kickham, pastor of St. Bartholomew's parish in Needham. "Hundreds and hundreds of cars were stranded on Route 128. They had said this could be a bad one, but a lot of people paid no heed to it.

"We only had two telephones in the school and naturally families were going absolutely crazy, wondering 'Where is my husband? My daughter, my son?' " he said yesterday. "Most of it was just pure panic."

Correction

Grant Ingle's name was spelled wrong in the front page article on the OHR lunches.

Today's Staff

Night Editor	Rita Murphy
Copy Editor	Jim Finkle
Layout Technician	Mat Atkins
Photo Technician	Andy Heller
Production Supervisor	Mat Atkins
Production	Doug Chapman, Jon O'Hern, Tim Riviere, Marianne Walsh, Dode Levenson, Mike Lennon, John Wielgus

UMass parking risks:

45,000 tickets issued in '82

By PETE ZAKON
Collegian Correspondent

About 3 percent of parking tickets issued each year on the University of Massachusetts campus are appealed, said the chairperson of the UMass Parking Appeals Board.

Of the more than 45,000 parking tickets issued in 1982, 1,406 were appealed, according to the most recent Department of Public Safety figures. One-half to two-thirds of those appeals are usually granted, based not on legality but on extenuating circumstances, said Board Chairperson Roger Roche.

Decisions are a "matter of degree" and are classified as granted, denied, or split, Roche said. When the Board grants an appeal, the appellant's tow fee is remitted and his parking ticket is erased from the vehicle owner's record; when the appeal is split, the appellant pays for the ticket, but is remitted the towing charge. In 1982, 2,656 vehicles were towed from campus.

The Department of Public Safety's 1982 Annual Report revealed that 86 percent of vehicles towed were parked in campus parking lots and 14 percent were parked on roadways. Forty five percent of towed vehicles were towed between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m., 13 percent between 3 and 11 p.m. and 42 percent between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

The Parking Appeals Board, which investigates ambiguities in the University's parking policies and notifies the appropriate campus agency of its findings such as the Physical Plant for sign problems, is composed of six annually renewed members. They are: two undergraduate students selected by the Undergraduate Student Senate, a graduate student selected by the Graduate Student Senate, a faculty member selected by the Faculty Senate, and a member from both the classified and administrative staff selected by University Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey.

Parking appeals must be submitted in writing to the Department of Public Safety within seven days of receiving the violation notice. Forms and complete information on the appeals procedure are available in Dickinson Hall.

Winter restricts overnight parking

By PETE ZAKON
Collegian Correspondent

University of Massachusetts police are currently enforcing a University Snow Removal Policy for overnight parking on campus.

Among the many parking restrictions listed in the University's Snow Policy, parking overnight is prohibited on any campus roadway, including the Southwest horseshoe, and at any parking meter during the snow season, which runs from Dec. 1 to April 1.

Motor vehicles violating the Snow Policy may be ticketed and towed, according to Larry Holmes, assistant director of the UMass Department of Public Safety.

But, fines collected from parking tickets do not go to the Department of Public Safety, Holmes said.

The fines are deposited in the Region's Trust Scholarship Fund (formerly the Traffic Fines Scholarship Fund), said David P. Sackett of the UMass Financial Aid Office.

To gain their cars, registered owners of towed vehicles must pay Amherst Towing Company a $25 towing charge and a $5 daily storage fee that is initiated the day of the tow.

According to the Snow Policy cars may be parked overnight during the snow season in the following places: P Lot at the Stadium--back of lot only; P Lots at Fraternity & Sorority Park and behind Lot 25; Lot 21--all rows except two north rows; Lot 22; Lot 24; Lot 25--north of roadway to P Lot only; Lot 28; Lot 32--west of Lincoln Avenue only; Lots 41, 42, 43; Thatcher Way--east side only; Lots 44, 46, 49; Lot 50--except Southwest horseshoe.

Motorists may not park overnight during snow season in the following places: Stadium P Lot--front section; Lot 21l-two north rows; Lot 25--south of roadway to P Lot; Lots 26, 31; Lot 32--east of Lincoln Avenue; Lots 34, 40, 45; Lot 47--except for Head of Residence and Handicap Parking; Lots 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 71; any campus roadway or any parking meter.

More information on the Snow Policy and other motor vehicle rules and regulations can be obtained from the Department of Public Safety in Dickinson Hall.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

SPARK SHOWER — Physical Plant employee braves the furry of sparks while conducting a welding operation.

Police report campus assault

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts Police reported the assault of a woman near the Campus Center Sunday, police said.

Police said the woman reported she had been followed after leaving her dormitory and was threatened by a male subject while in the North Pleasant Street/Campus Center area about 3 p.m. The woman gave a description of the suspect and was advised of proper court procedure, police said.

In other police action:

More than $200 was reported stolen from a bureau in Cance dormitory at 1:30 a.m. Saturday, police said. The room had been left unlocked and there are no suspects.

Police responded to a report of a disturbance in Baker dormitory at 12:49 a.m. Saturday. Police said two males were apparently arguing over the ownership of a jacket when the dispute turned into a fist fight. Both subjects were informed of proper court procedure for assault and battery.

Police responded to a report of a fire in Johnson dormitory in the Northeast Residential Area at 11:45 p.m. Saturday. Police said a resident's popcorn popper caught fire, causing thick smoke but no damage. UMass Department of Environmental Health and Safety officials and the Amherst Fire Department responded to the scene.

Student security stationed in Herter Hall called campus police with a report of a suspicious person at 6:49 p.m. Sunday. The suspect, a 23-year-old Northhampton resident, had signed into the building without proper identification, police said. The suspect was found wandering around without any shoes on the fifth floor, according to police, and was issued a trespass warrant.

SGA nomination papers now available in SUB

Nomination papers for positions to be elected in the spring Student Government Association elections are now available.

Any full time undergraduate student who pays the Student Activities Trust Fund fee is eligible to run for SGA president, Campus Center Board of Governors positions, and posts on the Residential Committee. Presidential hopefuls must collect 250 valid student signatures, and BOG candidates must collect 50.

Papers are available in the Student Union Building Room 420 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. and are due no later than February 27.

Elections will be held in mid-March.

For more information, call 545-0341.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

BE COUNTED! — Town registrars assist students with voter registration on the Campus Center Concourse.

UMass Big Vote: a success story

Voter registration will take place in dining commons across campus for the rest of this week, as "UMass Big Vote '84" continues.

While an exact count of new voters was not available following yesterday's registration in the Campus Center, the drive's first day was a "phenomenal success," said Fran Pheeny, chair of the Undergraduate Student Senate's Public Policy Committee, one of five student groups organizing registration on campus.

"There was a heavy, steady flow all day," Pheeney said. "I was pleased at the turnout.'"

Registration will take place today in Berkshire Dining Commons, tomorrow in Worcester Dining Commons and Thursday in Hampshire Dining Commons, all from 5 to 7 p.m.

Friday, registrars will be in Franklin Dining Commons from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. A mobile session will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at Rolling Green Apartments. Registration will conclude next week when eligible voters can register from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday in the first floor lobby of the Whitmore Administration Building, and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday on the Campus Center concourse.

Voters can also sign up in the Town Clerk's office in Amherst Town Hall from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays. The Town Clerk's office will be open until 10 p.m. next Tuesday, the last day to register to be eligible to vote in the March 13 Democratic presidential primary. Voters must be registered as a Democrat or an Independent to vote in this election.

Collegian photo by Tom Kudla

SNOW PATH — Tractor clears the snow from the Fine Arts Center walkway as passing student pays little attention.

ATTENTION RA's

Help wanted
for research project
involves journal/diary keeping
Academic Credit Available

Call: Eileen Stewart 5-2462
Julie Larn 5-0427

WHERE HILLS TURN TO MOUNTAINS

Treat yourself to a day of big mountain Vermont skiing. Only 1¼ hours from Amherst. Fifty-one trails spread spread over 3 complete mountain faces are open daily serviced by one 1½ mile summit gondola. Nearly 7 feet of natural snow and season long snow making have built up to 6 feet of base. Enjoy a full day of Vermont skiing and still be home in time for supper.

THE SHORTEST DRIVE TO BIG MOUNTAIN SKIING LOCATED IN EASY TO REACH SOUTHERN VERMONT ON VT 100

LODGING (802)464 8501
SKI REPORT (802)464 2151

Mount Snow VERMONT

YOU ARE HOW YOU EAT

This concept, as well as the history of major cuisines and the American junk food syndrome, are explored in FOOD AND CULTURE, a three-credit course offered by the Division of Continuing Education, University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Or learn to make pate a choux for eclairs and cream puffs in PERFECT PASTRIES AND DESSERTS, a Saturday credit-free workshop held from 9:30 am to 12:30 pm. There are over 200 credit courses and credit-free workshops from which to choose.

End of late registration is February 13 for credit programs. Registration is on-going for credit-free workshops, most begin the week of February 20. Registration may be made on campus in Room 104, University Library during regular business hours for both day and evening classes, and in Room 111 for credit-free workshops. Cash, check, VISA, or MasterCard accepted.

CREDIT COURSES

ACCTG 221	Introduction to Accounting I
ACCTG 222	Introduction to Accounting II
ANTH 150	Ancient Civilization
ANTH 197A	Food and Culture
ART 101	Drawing Composition
ART 103	Basic Design II
ART 151	Architectural Drawing
ART 229	Painting: Oils
ARTHIS 115	Introduction to the Visual Arts
ASIANS 197A	Religions of Asia
ASTRON 100	Exploring the Universe
BGS 301	Arts Management
BOTANY 101	General Botany
CLSICS 102	Roman Civilization
COMSTU 121	Introduction to Mass Communication
COMSTU 260	Advanced Public Speaking
COMLIT 101A	Themes of Good and Evil
COMLIT 105	The Short Story
COMLIT 110	Myth, Folk, and Children's Literature
COMLIT 203	Madness in Literature
COINS 121	Introduction Problem Solving Using the Computer
ECON 103	Introduction to Microeconomics
ECON 104	Introduction to Macroeconomics
EDUC H 320	Human Relations Laboratory
EDUC H 491I	Effective Interaction Between Self and Others
EDUC H 491L	Self-Assertion and Empathy: Finding Myself, Finding Others
EDUC H 615	Computers in Special and Early Childhood Education
EDUC H 694K	Therapeutic Application of the Arts
ENGL 112	College Writing
ENGL 131	Society and Literature
ENGL 152	Expository Writing/Rhetoric
ENGL 350D	Expository Writing/Prelaw
ENGL 351	Technical Writing
ENGL 497A	Lives of Women as Literature: Reading in Autobiographies and Biographies of Women
ENGL 497B	Beginning Irish
ENT 226	Practical Beekeeping
ENT 166	Insects and Man
ENVDES 392L	Site Development
EXDSCI 210	Human Performance and Nutrition
FS&N 130	Nutrition and People
FRENCH 120	Elementary French
FRENCH 242	Intermediate Oral
GRFIN 301	Corporation Finance
HIST 140	European History 1500-1815
HIST 150	Development of American Civilization to 1876
HIST 151	Development of American Civilization 1876 On
HIST 371A	The History of the Modern Presidency in the 20th Century
HIST 597A	The History of the Modern Presidency in the 20th Century
HRTA 100	Introduction
HRTA 367	Advanced Food Production Management
JS 300	Newswriting and Reporting
LEGAL 297M	The 60s: Popular Rebellion and Government Repression
LEGAL 297T	An Introduction to Medical Malpractice and Health Law
LING 101	People and Their Language
MATH 104	Algebra, Analytic Geometry, and Trigonometry
MATH 197	Analytic Geometry with Trigonometry
MATH 121	Linear Methods and Probability in Business
MATH 128	Calculus for the Life and Social Sciences II
MATH 132	Calculus II
MATH 431	Ordinary Differential Equations for Scientists and Engineers
MGT 301	Principles of Management
MGT 314	Personnel Management
MKTG 301	Fundamentals of Marketing
MKTG 341	Marketing Management
MUSIC 100	Appreciation — Introduction
NURSE 210	Human Development Throughout The Life Cycle
PHIL 100	Introduction to Philosophy
PHIL 161	Problems in Social Thought
PHIL 291A	Theories of Sexuality
PLSOIL 129	Organic Farming and Gardening
POLISH 120	Elementary Polish II
POLSCI 101	American Politics
POLSCI 121	World Politics
POLSCI 131D	Politics of Science and Technology
PSYCH 100	Elementary Psychology
PSYCH 130	Physiological Psychology
PSYCH 350	Child Behavior and Development
PSYCH 355	Adolescent Psychology
PSYCH 380	Abnormal Psychology
PSYCH 391A	Theory and Clinical Application of Hypnosis
RUSS 250	Russian Culture
SOCIOL 107	Contemporary American Society
SOM 210	Introduction to Business Computers
SPAN 120	Elementary Spanish II
SPAN 240	Intermediate Spanish II
SPORST 393A	Concepts of Sport Information
STATIS 140	Statistics for Business
ZOOL 538	Biogeography

CREDIT-FREE WORKSHOPS

Basic Drawing
The Designed Environment
Life Drawing
Framing
Interior Design
Matting
Methods of the Masters
Painting
Putty Graining
Stenciling: Wall
Stenciling: Wood
Watercolor: Beginning
Watercolor: Intermediate Artist Self-Management
The Field of Arts Administration: An Overview
Getting Started: Establishing a Firm Foundation
Developing an Effective Board of Directors
Involving Volunteers in the Arts
Public Relations and Marketing for the Arts
Raising Funds in the Local Community
Arts Grantsmanship for the Novice
Presenting the Creative Arts Event Accounting: Basic Bartending
Basic Bike Repair
Bike Repair/On the Road
How to Get the Job You Want in Business
Improving Children's Self Concepts
Interviewing and Counseling Skills
Resume Writing
Teaching on Your Feet
Typing
Women at Work: Imposters, Fakes, and Frauds
Aerobics/Trimnastics: Beginning
Aerobics/Trimnastics: Intermediate
Ballet I/II
Ballet III
Ballroom
Jitterbug/Swing
Modern Jazz
Tap: Beginning
Tap: Intermediate Animation
Film Appreciation and Criticism
Video Production
Charitable Giving and Taxes
How to Prepare Your Own Income Tax Return
Investment Planning
College Costs Through Tax Planning
Acupressure Massage Practicum
Basic Hatha Yoga
Hatha Yoga for Problem Backs
Tai Chi Chuan
Touch for Health I
Perfect Pastries and Desserts
Wine Tasting for the Novice
The Inspired Garden
Landscape Logic
Chinese (Mandarin): Beginning
Chinese (Mandarin): Intermediate
English as a Second Language: Conversation
French: Beginning
French: Intermediate
German: Beginning
German: Intermediate Italian: Beginning
Italian: Intermediate Spanish: Beginning
Spanish: Intermediate
American Sign Language I
American Sign Language II
Bluegrass Banjo
Classical Guitar I
Classical Guitar II
Folk Guitar
Black and White Photography
Darkroom Photography I
Darkroom Photography II
Self-Hypnosis
Listening Skills
Memory Skills
The Parenting Choice
Public Speaking
Speaking Up
Speed Reading
Voicing
Kayaking
C-1 Paddling (Closed Canoe)
Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving
Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving Review
Rock Climbing for Everyone Sailing
Tennis: Beginning
Tennis: Intermediate
Whitewater Canoeing
Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) Preparation
Graduate Record Examination (GRE) Preparation
Law School Admissions Test (LSAT) Preparation
Quilting for Beginners
Quilting: Advanced
Sewing
Acting for Closet Actors
The Contemporary Novel
Screenwriting
Writing Poetry
American Antique Furniture
Beekeeping: Beginning
Solar House Design
Meet the Micro
The DOS (Disk Operating System)
The Best-Selling Spreadsheet Program — VISICALC Basic BASIC
The Powerful Spreadsheet Alternative — LOTUS 1-2-3

DCE DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AT AMHERST

Hillel urges voters to lobby on behalf of Soviet Jewry

Lobbyists will meet and discuss actions to aid Soviet Jews with U.S. Senators and Representatives, Assistant Secretary of State for Policy Affairs Larry Eagleburger and Israeli Ambassador to the United States Meir Rosenne.

Massachusetts and New York registered voters are urged to join in the eighth annual Washington Lobby for Soviet Jewry Feb. 22 and 23.

More than 700 student lobbyists participated in last year's effort. Contact Hillel at 545-2526 for information and registration.

Amherst's Jones Library has special books that talk

People who have trouble reading conventional print because of a physical handicap are eligable for the federally funded Talking Books Program.

The Jones Library in Amherst has sample equipment and books for users to borrow and become aquainted with the program. Applications are availabe at the Jones Library, at 43 Amity St., or call the Adult Services Librarian at 256-0246.

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

DIETING?
Try a different approach. Lose weight sensibly by learning about your eating habits. Say goodbye to diets, forever! Call University Health Services, 549-2671 ext. 181 to register, deadline is February 17. Classes start February 28. Hurry, class size is limited!

BODY SHOP

$7.00 off

Exercise Facilities
Sign up at NOPE and Boyden
Start NOW to GET FIT
come in for Free Workout

$7.00 off

regular $45.00 NOW $38.00
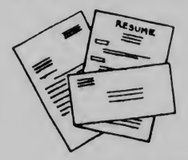
up to 17 weeks of workouts



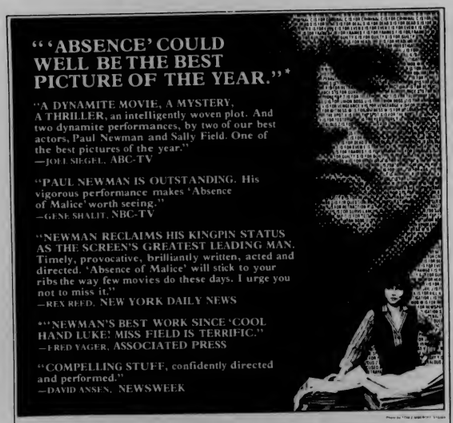
15% Discount
Spring Semester Memberships

NOPE
M-F 7:30-9 am, 12-1 pm, 4-6 pm, 7-9 pm
Sat 1-4

Bring this ad to the BODY SHOP for 15% discount
offer expires on Feb. 7 (9 pm)

Boyden
M-F 7-9 am, 12-1 pm, 4-6 pm
Sat 12-3

Return of the. . .
JOB APPLICATION PACKAGE



- Letter
- Resume
- Envelope

matching papers & typestyles

Word Processing can help you get a job

549-6310 wordpro 358 N. Pleasant, # 104 Amherst

PAUL NEWMAN SALLY FIELD
ABSENCE OF MALICE

Academy Award Nominations For Best Actor Best Supporting Actress Best Screenplay

COLUMBIA PICTURES Presents A MIRAGE ENTERPRISES PRODUCTION
PAUL NEWMAN • SALLY FIELD • ABSENCE OF MALICE • Music by DAVE GRUSIN
Director of Photography OWEN ROIZMAN, A.S.C. • Executive Producer RONALD L. SCHWARY
Written by KURT LUEDTKE • Produced and Directed by SYDNEY POLLACK
PG

DATE: Sunday Feb. 12
TIME: 5, 7, 9, 11
PLACE: Campus Center Aud. (CCA)
ADMISSION: $1.50 (75¢ - 5:00 show)

Collegian
Recruitment meeting

- Experience
- Involvement
- Excitement
- Open to all majors

Wednesday Feb. 8
8 pm-9 pm
Room 805 C.C.

Attention: Meal Plan Students

Use Your Meal Tickets in the TOC Restaurant

Campus Center Food Services, in conjunction with University Food Services, is proud to announce a new Dining Experience! Students enrolled in a University Food Services' full board plan may use their meal ticket for a $3.00 credit on Wednesday Evenings in the Top of the Campus Restaurant. Also, students will receive the usual 15% discount. For reservations or further information call 549-6000 ext. 639 or go to the T.O.C. Restaurant.

$1.00 off
with this coupon
and a purchase
$4.75 minimum
Expires 2/29/84

TOP of the CAMPUS
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
11th FLOOR/CAMPUS CENTER/UMASS

Letters

Read it at your own risk

To the Editor,

Last semester I, and everyone I know with any amount of social conscience, applauded the departure of the infamous UMASS ZONE. But, much to my dismay, Mark Rollins and the Collegian have dredged up the strip once again. As Charlie Brown would say, "Arrrgh!".

I wonder how many people will be offended this time around. For those who don't remember their comic strip history very well, the Zone was rather "controversial" two semesters ago. Many groups seemed a bit perturbed at the strip, including; blacks, women, gays, physical plant workers, and DC workers, to name a few. In fact, readers were asked to vote on whether or not the strip should be banned. Unfortunately, there were not enough negative votes. So we were told. To avoid any future "unpleasantness," perhaps someone on the Collegian staff could attempt to explain the concept of "social awareness" to Mr. Rollins.

Richard Vigeant
Amherst

He can't speak for God

To the Editor,

I would like to respond to Wayne L. Johnson's letter published February 1. Mr. Johnson, how can you attribute broken homes, child and spouse abuse and sex crimes to the feminist movement? We are not protesting our unjust lack of equity in our society in a fashion that causes violence and upheaval. We want peace for ourselves, as well as for men. Feminists do not advocate violence as a means to alleviate existing inequities but instead we advocate social issues education for both men and women who, like yourself, are living many years behind the times.

Your choice of quotations from one of the oldest books in the world is an example of how "primitive" your thinking is. Your choice of quotations seems somewhat arbitrary and they seem to have been used out of context. I'm not much of a religious person and I'm not overly familiar with the Bible but I do believe God would want all of us to be treated fairly and equally.

Don't you agree, Mr. Johnson?

Cheryl B. Nugent
Belchertown

Red baiting in the Collegian

To the Editor,

Red baiting in the Collegian. What will come next? The Collegian has brought itself down into the realm of Rupert Murdoch with its printing of Steven P. Barrett's editorial on student lobby groups.

He starts off innocently enough saying student groups shouldn't demand unreasonable programs from the government, then lets loose with his irresponsible claims of communist infiltration. He implies saying "labor and the masses" makes someone a communist. In a supposedly free country you should be able to say labor and the masses without some fool attempting to get you on the up and coming un-American list. In a free country any one has the right to profess a communist or any doctrine they believe in. To say that you're a communist doesn't mean you're for the type of communism that is imposed on the people of Russia or China. (Unless you have a mind that is as hopelessly closed as Mr. Barrett's obviously is.)

If you remember, the anti-nuclear movement was supposed to be run by Russian agents. These claims, started by the mad John Bircher who went down in a blaze of all-American glory on a Korean airliner, were found to be untrue. Mr. Barrett offers no evidence whatsoever for his accusations that anyone is a lackey for the Polish government. Is this the type of irresponsible journalism they teach at the National Journalism Center, is Mr. Barrett himself being groomed to be a lackey for the mouth pieces of the government and their dubious and overused claims of "National Security"? He seems to aspire to some day joining the ranks of the great fact and history twisters such as George Will and Joey Sobran. Who knows, maybe some day he will rise even higher and get a shot at Steve Dunleavy's job.

Jim Gervais
Granby

Stray ticket prices

To the Editor,

We would like to express our disgust at the ticket prices of the Stray Cats concert. What does UPC do with the money it gets from the student government? We were under the impression that the monies given to UPC were for the purpose of relieving the burden of the price of the tickets for the student.

The prices of $11.50 and $12.50 for students barely passes as any kind of reduction. The prices of the tickets hardly justifies the student funded UPC presenting concerts at UMass when we could have Don Law or Frank J. Russo promoting the shows at the same or lower prices.

The concerts would be of equal quality or better, and the professional promoters have a proven ability to book many shows at a low or reasonable price. We are not attempting to undermine student run activities but we feel that for the mandatory fine arts fee and student activity fee that we deserve a little more than one or two known acts a year.

UPC tend to like to look back and refer to their past record. Lets face it — The Grateful Dead may have been great back in 1979 and congratulations to UPC for getting them. The problem is that nobody presently attending UMass was here back then so the memory is alien to us.

We expect a lot of resentment for our proposal but we feel that if our hard-earned money is being used we would like to get something in return.

Timothy Kress
Tom Bouchard
Southwest

SPRING SEMESTER 1984

TOPIC FOCUSED GROUPS

SELF-EXPLORATION GROUP
Learn more about yourself, and how others see you.
GROUP I MONDAYS/3:30-5:00 GROUP II TUESDAYS/3:30-5:00

STRESS MANAGEMENT GROUP
Learn effective coping techniques to manage your stress level. MONDAYS/3:30-5:00

BULIMIA GROUP
An exploratory group for women who binge-purge. THURSDAYS/3:30-5:00

Register during the first three weeks of February. For information or to apply for a group, call 545-2337 or come to the Mental Health Service, 127 Hills North, University of Massachusetts

Are you tired of waiting on lines for a computer terminal?
Try the COMPUTER ACCESS alternative
On site microcomputer time rental
79 SOUTH PLEASANT ST
256-1213
(behind Peter Pan terminal bldg.)
Open 7 days a week
Opening February 15
Mastercard & Visa accepted

TUESDAY
TWO FOR ONE
all liquor drinks
9 till 11
with music by
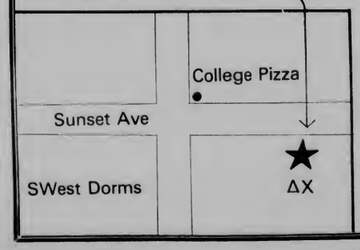
RACK-A-DISC
9 til 1 NO COVER
THE PUB
15 East Pleasant St.
AMHERST

MGH Institute of Health Professions

The Master in Science Program in Nursing
Designed for non-nurse college graduates, this program leads to preparation as Clinical Nurse Specialists. Graduates are eligible for RN licensure and specialized practice in one of six clinical areas.

The Master of Science Program in Speech-Language Pathology.
A two-year program of academic and clinical education leading also to clinical certification in Speech-Language Pathology is open to graduates of bachelors programs in communication disorders, psychology, linguistics, and selected other fields.

Social Work in Health Care Program
- Post-Baccalaureate Certificate program prepares college graduates for practice in a variety of health settings.
- Post-Masters Certificate program provides an opportunity for social workers to develop the clinical skills and knowledge needed for advanced practice in health care.



For more information, fill out and return this blank to:
MGH Institute of Health Professions, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, MA 02114. PLEASE PRINT.

Please send me information on the programs indicated below:
Master of Science Program in Nursing for non-nurse college graduates
Master of Science Program in Speech-Language Pathology
Post Baccalaureate Certificate Program in Social Work in Health Care
Post Masters Certificate Program in Social Work in Health Care

Name
Address
City State Zip
College attended

The MGH Institute of Health Professionals admits students of any race, color and national or ethnic origin.

IT'S 1984
AND BIG BROTHER (YOUR RA) IS WATCHING YOU!
GET OUT WHILE YOU CAN!
DELTA CHI OPEN RUSH
ΔX
Refreshments Served
All University men invited
Tues Feb 7 & 14 7-10 pm
Wed Feb 8 & 15 7-10 pm
☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆
COME CHECK US OUT
☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆
Before they come to get you next.

EDITORIAL/OPINION

On why you should vote

Brooke States

It is easy to understand these feelings (except for GH and Dynasty). Public Rhetoric aside, both parties often seem more like parts of one party, the Republicrats. Even if we manage to elect a knight in shining armor, various dark sinister forces and powers combine to melt his armor, bend his sword, and at the end of four years leave our knight in shining armor looking and acting more like Don Quixote, with Sancho Panza as a Vice President.

This is still no reason for not registering. By November you may change your mind, even if only to vote as a protest against the way things are. The simple act of registering, as so many people have already done this year, makes politicians more careful of what they say and do. If national politics seems too far away, consider the state and local issues and leaders that will have to be decided on. Here far more leverage can be applied. The victory of Chicago's Mayor Harold Washington is one example of this, so was the near victory of rent control in Amherst last year. In the year of big brother leaving politics to the politicians makes no sense.

In introducing the Reverend Jesse Jackson last Thursday night Professor Michael Thelwell made an important point. History is not in the 1800s it is now, he said. We have a responsibility to ourselves and the future, which we will inherit, to see how our environment is run and who runs it. In the late 1700s the United States started on its path to democracy. Those who could vote were white men with property. Gradually those without property, those who were not white or men, and those who were young, fought for and won the right to vote. While none of the candidates running may please you enough to go and register, consider what would happen if the candidate you like the least got into office. Seldom in recent campaigns has there been such a difference between virtually all of the Democratic candidates and the Republican incumbent. An even stronger case can be made for the difference between the political forces that support each side. These people, from the Reverend Falwell all the way over to Lane Kirkland, will have their say, in a big way, if their man carries the day.

We have a huge deficit and national debt, a new cold war and arms race with the Russians, and destabilizing crises at home and abroad. These problems have to be faced by the leadership of this country, and we owe it to ourselves to vote for the one we most would like to see run America, rather than not vote because our perfect choice is not there on his or her perfect program.

Brooke States is a Collegian columnist

A challenge for us all to take

The University of Massachusetts/Amherst has the opportunity to become a better school, due to increased state funding for public higher education. The University community must decide how and where the money will be spent, and how the direction the University will take during implementation of the Long Range Plan.

Massachusetts State Senator John Olver, D-Amherst, told the UMass Faculty Senate last week that the school may receive as much as a 25 percent funding increase, due largely to Governor Dukakis' stated interest in improving public education.

Josh Meyer

Senator Olver presented a five-part plan needed to "get the best education to turn out the best students," including increased alumni support and improved teacher salary and training. Extending the graduate program by 25 percent, and identifying and expanding the academic centers of excellence such as polymer research and computer science were other points.

Olver said that the University "needs to actively support enterpreneurship." What he meant by this was not clear. If he meant subjecting the allocation of funds to the discretion of corporate contributors, his plan has ominous forebodings for the UMass tradition of academic freedom and integrity in preserving the liberal arts.

Expanding the already excellent academic areas would contribute to the stagnation and decline in the quality of the lesser areas.

In the past two years, UMass has seen strong higher education budgets, even in the face of fiscal constraints such as Proposition 2½, which lowered considerably the private sector taxes used to help the public higher education budget. Olver aide Kathleen Merrigan said that Reaganomics has been a constant source of opposition to public education funding too, and "has left our state in a situation where we have to set clear priorities." The Olver aide added that "higher education is one of these priorities.

One indication of the state legislature's committment to higher education is the fact that the overall budget for education has increased 25 percent in the last two years. This is the largest increase in funding of any of the state university systems nationwide.

This year, in addition to significant funding increases, the legislature has loosened control of transfers among education accounts. By the legislature's giving slack to these strings, campus administrations now have more control and autonomy and an increased flexibility in spending the money in the way that they choose. An example of this can be seen in the tuition retention program, where increases in tuition may be used to achieve specific purposes as defined by the academic community, and not by Boston legislators.

Olver said to the Faculty Senate that "We can give you money and control, but you (the Faculty) have to take the challenge."

It is evident that the combination of increased funding, along with the new flexibility has given this campus the opportunity to "surge ahead in academic prestige and excellence," just as the Senator said.

It is good to hear that the future of UMass is looking brighter. Sen. Olver's proposal is just that--a recommendation. As with any other grant of this magnitude, the money allocations must be determined by all concerned members of the community. Once the grant is appropriated, how and where to spend it should be a most pressing task of all those involved in political organizations such as the student, graduate and faculty Senates, to ensure that funds are spent fairly and in the most democratic manner possible.

Josh Meyer is the Collegian Editorial Page Editor

Letters

It's Meese, not McGovern

To the Editor,

I want first to congratulate Collegian reporter Peter Abraham on his well written front page article on Rev. Jesse Jackson's appearance at the Fine Arts Center last Thursday night. A correction needs to be made, however. Through a mix-up of paragraphs, it was not made clear that Jackson was referring to Edwin Meese, Reagan's new appointment to Attorney General, in the statements that "This is a man against hungry children, against equal rights for women, his positions are well known. We must stand tall against him and resist and protest to our fullest means".

For those who may have forgotten, Mr. Meese is the man who feels that "Scrooge merely had a bad press." Do we need another four years of leadership like this before we wake up? I shudder.

Linda Marston
Sunderland

Students left out in the cold

To the Editor,

I wanted to see Jesse Jackson speak at the Fine Arts Center (FAC) Thursday. I couldn't get a ticket Tuesday, but I decided to try for one of the remaining 400 tickets Thursday night. It was pretty cold out and a lot of people showed up. Because I'd been waiting since 6:30, I figured that I would be one of the lucky 400.

But I was wrong. When I got to the door at 8:00, I was told that there were no tickets left, and that there had really only been 120 available. 120! Where did the other 280 go? To the friends and family of the management? Or was the FAC just lying to students in the first place? And why, pray tell, did the FAC make students wait so long in the bitter cold before even revealing this?

Although students were allowed to see the Jackson speech on a closed-circuit T.V., it just wasn't the same. I didn't wait in 20 degree weather to watch T.V. Most people just went home, angry or depressed.

Such incompetence and insensitivity should not go unpunished. The house manager should be fired, and an official apology sent to students.

Robert Nolan
Chadbourne

McGovern priority mixup?

To the Editor,

My roommate and I heard Mr. George McGovern speak at the Student Union Ballroom Wednesday night. Mr. McGovern emphasized several times that it is his top priority to withdraw the marines from Lebanon. He feels that their role has been reduced to one of survival.

He continued to say that a peacekeeping force made up of troops from "neutral" countries (i.e. Sweden and Norway) would better serve the interests of the world. Why should these countries risk the lives of their young men in order to keep peace in an area where they have little interest? These troops will receive the same hostile gunfire as our marines did. By removing our troops and replacing them with those of another country, the only thing he is accomplishing is substituting the dead bodies of one nationality with the bodies of another country. This does not sound very humanitarian from a man who says he is highly concerned with human rights. The most basic human right is that of life.

Mr. McGovern's speech was pure rhetoric designed to please the interests of American voters concerned about our marines. This does not solve the ongoing problems in the Middle East which is a region of major concern to the United States. Candidate McGovern must rethink his proposals on the Middle East, if he is to be considered a contender for the Democratic nomination.

Jeff Moelis
Peter O'Connor
Southwest

The Great White North

To the Editor,

Cold? Who says it's cold? "Prairie Home Companion," a radio show broadcast from Lake Woe-Be-Gone, Minn, once aired a Thanksgiving special in which members of the audience were asked to write down things for which they were thankful. One fellow wrote; "Let's be thankful for the cold winters we get here in St. Paul, they keep the riff-raff out of Minnesota."

Well, what with all these Democrats we've got here speaking on campus lately, I guess it can't be too cold out after all.

Black Jacques Shellac

With the divestiture of the 22 Bell Operating companies and the restructuring of the AT&T organization, questions arise concerning how the change will affect AT&T Bell Laboratories.

Will the ingenuity still be there? Will there still be the creativity, the innovation and the unique development capability that has made AT&T Bell Laboratories one of the nation's foremost technological resources? Yes. So what's new?

A New Name
What was Bell Labs, Bell Laboratories or, sometimes simply 'The Labs,' is now officially AT&T Bell Laboratories. It joins AT&T Technologies, Inc. and AT&T Communications in an impressive corporate family...the new AT&T.

A New Freedom
The new AT&T is free to compete in a variety of markets. AT&T Bell Laboratories' discoveries and designs can now be extended to whatever applications and consequent markets they suggest.

A New Mission
AT&T Bell Laboratories will provide the technology AT&T needs to be a world leader in information systems, services and products. We will pursue a broad spectrum of research in micro-electronics, photonics, digital systems and software to fuel new ventures.

A New Beginning
It is a year of new beginnings. For AT&T and for you. If you are a graduate with a BS, MS or PhD in Electrical or Mechanical Engineering, Computer Science, Mathematics, Operations Research, Chemistry, Physics, or Human Factors Psychology talk to an AT&T Bell Laboratories recruiter.

Check with the Placement Office for the dates we will be on campus.

If you would prefer to write, send a copy of your resume and academic transcripts to: Director of Technical Employment, Dept. 127/3104/84, AT&T Bell Laboratories, 150 John F. Kennedy Parkway, Short Hills, New Jersey 07078

An equal opportunity employer

AT&T Bell Laboratories

BLUE WALL
CAMPUS CENTER AT UMASS

TUES. 2/7
Comedy Night with Tony Rose
Sponsored by GPC — 99¢
Live!

THURS. 2/9
3 of the valley's finest NEW WAVE bands!
the MUSEUM DIREKTORS Heroes in Trouble and The Systems
$1.00 Cover

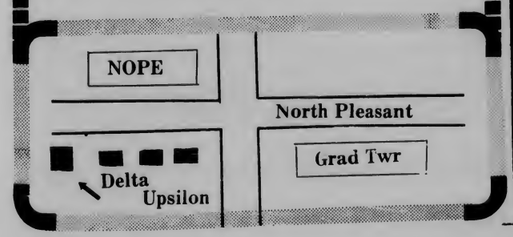
FRI. 2/10
the NOVEMBER GROUP

ATTENTION STUDENT SENATORS!

Wednesday, Feb. 8

Senate Meeting will begin at 5 PM

Due to the importance of considering the SGA constitution, anyone with schedule conflicts should contact someone in speakers office.



DELTA UPSILON OPEN RUSH

Tues. Feb. 7th
Wed. Feb. 8th

Free Refreshments

9:00 PM

778 North Pleasant Street
549-3831

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

Betty Friedan
Author of "The Feminine Mystique"

Co-founder of N.O.W.

"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"

Wednesday, February 8, 1984
8:00 P.M. Student Union Ballroom
Free

Arts

artslines...

A staged reading of a work in progress by Leslie Stainton based on Poet in New York by Frederico Garcia Lorca will be presented by the University's Theater Department in the Curtain Theater at 8 p.m. on Feb. 21-25. there will be a discussion following each performance. Tickets are $2 for students and senior citizens, and $3 for the general public. For further information and reservations, call the Fine Arts Center box office at 545-2511.

The Third World Theater at the University will hold auditions for the original production of Alice Childress' Gullah! from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 12 and from 6-9 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 13. All auditions will be held in Bowker Auditorium. Those wishing to audition should pick up scripts and musical tapes in 203 Hasbrouck prior to their auditions. (Scripts and tapes are also available from the theater departments at Smith, Mt. Holyoke, Amherst and Hampshire colleges.) For further information, call 545-0190.

Auditions will be held for Lanford Wilson's Fifth of July this evening in room 204 of the Fine Arts Center. There are roles for 4 men and 4 women. Those wishing to audition must sign up for an audition time in advance. Sign up sheets are posted outside the main office of the Department of Theater (located in the Fine Arts Center). For further information, or to have your name put on a sign-up sheet, call 545-3490.

Auditions for A Lovely Sunday For Creve Coeur, by Tennessee Williams, will be held this evening in room 08 of the Fine Arts Center. There are roles for 4 women. For further information, call 545-3490.

REMEMBER!
NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE
APPLICATIONS ARE DUE
FEBRUARY 15!
Have transcripts in by March 1
with full grades
INFORMATION SESSIONS will be held Wednesday, Feb. 8 4-6 pm
in the Campus Center Room 805
Tuesday, Feb. 14 7-9 pm
in the Campus Center Room 904

LEE INSTITUTE
REALTY COURSE
PRE-LICENSE EXAM COURSE
1st CLASS NO OBLIGATION
- Over 29 years in operation
- Repeat next course no charge if you fail
- Textbook included with tuition
- Member Real Estate Educators Assoc.

7 P.M. TUESDAY, FEB. 7
UMASS AMHERST
CAMPUS CENTER RM 168C
All classes held in Amherst on Tuesday eves 7 to 10 PM
LEE INSTITUTE 617-734-3211
310 Harvard St.
Brookline
Licensed by Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Dept of Education

WHAT CAN FRATERNITIES OFFER YOU?

STOP BY AND FIND OUT.

Sponsored by UMass IFC

GO GREEK GO GREEK GO GREEK

Hypercurricula

Today

UMASS CONSERVATIVE COALITION-ORGANIZATIONAL MTG. — Organizational meeting for setting this semester's schedule of events, and projects. Members only. 7:00-9:30 p.m., 802 CC.

OPEN MEETING — Featuring a slide presentation from Nicaraguan Coffee Brigades. New members welcome to attend. 7:00 p.m., Rms. 805-809 CC.

LUNCH WITH THE RABBI — Informal lunch time get-together with Rabbi Saul Perlmutter. 12 noon. Campus Center 802.

FILM: THE FRISCO KID — Starring Gene Wilder and Harrison Ford — Hilarious! and FREE! 7:30 p.m. Thompson 106.

ALPHA DELTA PHI OPEN RUSH — All University men are invited to Alpha Delta Phi, 395 N. Pleasant Street, for open rush. 8-10 p.m. 395 N. Pleasant St.

DELTA UPSILON OPEN RUSH — All University men are invited to Delta Upsilon, 778 N. Pleasant Street, for open rush. 9-11 p.m. 778 N. Pleasant St.

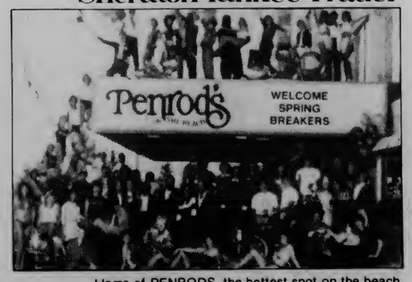
DELTA CHI OPEN RUSH — All University men are invited to Delta Chi, 118 Sunset Avenue, for open rush. 7-9:30 p.m. 118 Sunset Ave.

IMPORTANT MEETING: STUDENTS FOR CRANSTON '84 — Help push the Nuclear Freeze to the forefront of the Dem. Party Platform. Everyone urged to attend as the primaries are rapidly approaching., 7:00 p.m., Rm. 804 CC.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB MEETING — C.U.S.P. is holding it's first meeting of the semester. Come get involved! Elections will be held and refreshments served. NEW MEMBERS WELCOME! 7:30 p.m. Tobin 304.

INVESTMENT CLUB MEETING — Introductory Meeting — The Investment Club will hold its first meeting of the semester. We will discuss the club's portfolio. New members welcome! 6:30 p.m., SOM 111.

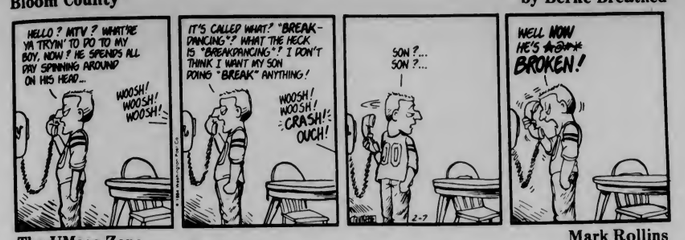
SPORT KARATE DEMONSTRATION — Featuring Black Belt Challenge Fighting, Musical Forms, Dueling Kicks, with Larry Kelley, #2, U.S.A., Donna Kelley, #1, New England, and Andy Long, undefeated professional fighter. 6:00-7:00 p.m., SUB.



Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00 (with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
FREE CONSULTATIONS
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610

Starting February 10, Stanley Kaplan will be located at 358 North Pleasant St. from 264 North Pleasant St.
March, 1984
GMAT & LSAT
classes enrolling now!
Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938
253-5108



DINNER FOR TWO IS JUST THE BEGINNING.
The Amherst Downtown Council in cooperation with WFCR radio and the Fine Arts Center is again sponsoring A Valentine's Day Giveaway Drawing!
Fifteen lucky winners will enjoy Dinner for Two at one of these fine Amherst restaurants
•Charlie's •Daisy's •Delano's •LaRaclette
•Lord Jeffery Inn •Phimbley's •The Pub
They'll also receive two choice tickets to an evening's entertainment at the Fine Arts Center for one of the following Spring performances
•Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal
•Springfield Symphony featuring Jean Pierre Rampal
•Philip Jones Brass Ensemble
•Murray Louis Dance Company
•Concord String Quartet
•Johnny Griffin Chico Freeman
(Tickets contributed by the University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center.)
ENTER YOUR NAME IN THE DRAWING FEBRUARY 1ST THRU FEBRUARY 14TH AT ANY DOWNTOWN COUNCIL MEMBER BUSINESS DISPLAYING THIS SIGN.
DRAWINGS TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 14TH. DECISION OF JUDGES IS FINAL. WINNERS WILL BE NOTIFIED FEBRUARY 15TH.
NO PURCHASE NECESSARY
(Owners and managers of Downtown Council businesses are not eligible.)

ALWAYS SUNNY
SPRING BREAK '84
S. Fort Lauderdale Blast S.
MINUTEMEN TO INVADE FORT LAUDERDALE
SPRING BREAK CAMPS SET UP AT TWO MAJOR HOTELS
Sheraton Yankee Clipper

Beach entertainment galore . . . right outside your door.
(Mike and Dean of the Beach Boys - Spring, 83)
Sheraton Yankee Trader

Home of PENRODS, the hottest spot on the beach.
Wave after wave of students descend on Fort Lauderdale . . . but the smartest check in at the two great Sheratons, where the best doesn't cost more.
RECRUITS SIGNING UP DAILY BY CALLING (toll-free):
1-800-325-3535
1324

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

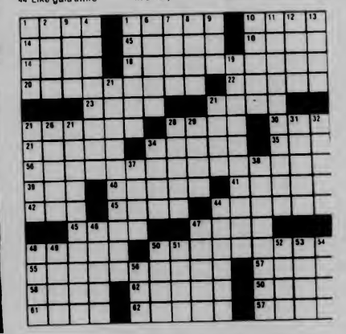
The UMass Zone — Mark Rollins

Superbad — G.H.

MASS PHOBIA — Winmill

The Strip — Bert Saveriano and Jim Walsh

Shagnasty — O.T. Derringer



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

© 1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Bungle
5 Make ——
10 —— effort
14 Christiania, today
15 Winning of all tricks, in piquet
16 Irritate
17 St Petersburg resident
18 Certain puzzles
20 Quarrel
22 Ledger item
23 Had on
24 Gailey direction
25 Slate differently
28 Gator's relative
30 Pallid
33 Approach, in Amiens
34 Part of a river
35 Harem room
36 Hamlet's reading matter Act II, sce 2
39 Last word
40 Verbose
41 Piece of gossip
42 Means of transportation Abbr
43 Minerals
44 Like gala attire
45 Diacritical ——
47 Lends a hand
48 Poet of a kind
50 Surname of 3rd Earl of Salisbury
55 Slogans and maxims
57 Melville's South Seas story
58 Sound of surprise
59 As a friend Fr
60 Genuine
61 Sibilant sound
62 Love of Paris
63 Desperately urgent

DOWN
1 Enemy of Rome
2 Peak in Thessaly
3 Nordic name
4 Prelude
5 Harmony
6 Spy novelist Le ——
7 Footless animal
8 Disadvantage
9 Mimic offs
10 Originated
11 Baby talk, in a way
12 Word for a shoppe
13 Part of R and R
19 Calls to action
21 Noted English poet
24 Topers
25 More inexperienced
26 Dark wood
27 Writers
28 Vocal and others
29 Vallee
31 —— Ababa
32 Unpleasant
34 'A Man For All Seasons'
37 Function
38 Give ——
44 Holds on stubbornly
46 Scene in 'My Fair Lady'
47 'Molly ——'
48 Noted publisher
49 Speaker's place
50 Solitary
51 By word of mouth
52 Mountain sacred to Buddhists
53 Leonine word
54 Handout
56 O —— (alas) Ger

Need A Job

We are training for paid positions in the Collegian
Graphics Department
Introductory Meeting
Come to Rm 113
Campus Center
Thursday 5:30 p.m.

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Open Face Roast Beef Sandwich
Quiche Lorraine

DINNER
Spaghetti/Italian Sweet Sausage, Tomato Sauce
Fruit Plate with Pumpkin Bread
Fisherman's Plate/ Tartar Sauce

BASICS LUNCH
The Salad Sandwich
Quiche Lorraine

BASICS DINNER
Hi-Protein Spaghetti/ Tomato Sauce
Fruit Plate with Pumpkin Bread
Fisherman's Plate/ Tartar Sauce

Weather

Mass., Conn. and R.I. — Mostly sunny Today, highs 25 to 35. Clear tonight, lows ranging from near zero in the Berkshires to the 20s on Cape Cod. Sunny Wednesday, highs in the 30s.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Olympics: four Canadians out

SARAJEVO, YUGOSLAVIA — (AP) The XIV Winter Olympic games open today with first round action in hockey, the sport mired in a controversey over eligibility.

The International Olympic Committee ruled that anyone who has ever signed a contract with the National Hockey League is not eligible for the Winter Olympics. The ruling has affected four players.

Four players from Canada and Italy were disqualified.

In Olympic action tonight, the United States meets Canada in hockey action that will determine if the US can advance to the medal round.

Kelley's win karate titles

Larry and Donna Kelley proved once again that they are the number one husband and wife team in National Karate Competition as each won titles in the East Coast Superstars Championship in Watertown, Mass. on January 29 in front of 550 competitors.

Larry, ranked third in the country last year, defeated New England Patriot and karate enthusiast Andre Tippett 3-1 for the heavyweight title.

Donna Kelley, who is ranked number one in New England, defeated third ranked Tammy Marino (Conn.) in a one sided 10-4 decision. The win gave Donna the Grand Championship in women's black belt for the third year in a row.

★ Women's gymnastics

Continued from page 16

squad)."

The one bright spot of late has been the performance of Tricia Harrity, who finished second in the all-arounds at Temple and Maryland before capturing first at Cornell with a 33.65. Harrity finished second in both the balance beam and uneven parallel bars and third in the floor exercises.

"Tricia is starting to really pull it all out. She's a real tough competitor," commented Anderson.

Lisa Griffin also had a good meet for UMass, finishing first in the vault with a 9.2 and second in the floor exercises with a 8.9. Elizabeth Janney came in second in the vault with a 8.9.

As a team, the Minutewomen won the vault and the floor exercises but not by enough to overcome Cornell's victories in the uneven parallel bars and the balance beam. Cornell was led by all-arounds Liz Spiegel and Ellen Mayer.

UMass hopes to get back to their winning ways this Saturday at Springfield College at 1 p.m. The Springfield meet also will also serve as a tune-up for what figures to be UMass' biggest meet of the season so far — February 18th at Boyden versus New Hampshire.

"New Hampshire is the tough one. We have to pull out all the stops and hope we have a healthy team," Anderson said.

Another reason for the Minutewomen to start pulling out all the stops is that if they plan on being one of the six teams in the Eastern Regionals, they are going to have to start scoring in the 170's instead of the upper 160's.

M. gymnastics

Continued from page 16

the all around after missing the still rings event because of an injury. Macurdy commended Stevens for his leadership qualities on the team this season.

"We need more of a Willie Stevens attitude," Macurdy said. "He just goes out there and does his job with not only watching but doing the performance. He's enthused about what he's doing and beyond that."

Ken Dougherty, who was injured from a fall off the high bar, will be back in the lineup for tonight's meet. Dougherty, who normally competes in the all around, will only perform in the pommel horse event.

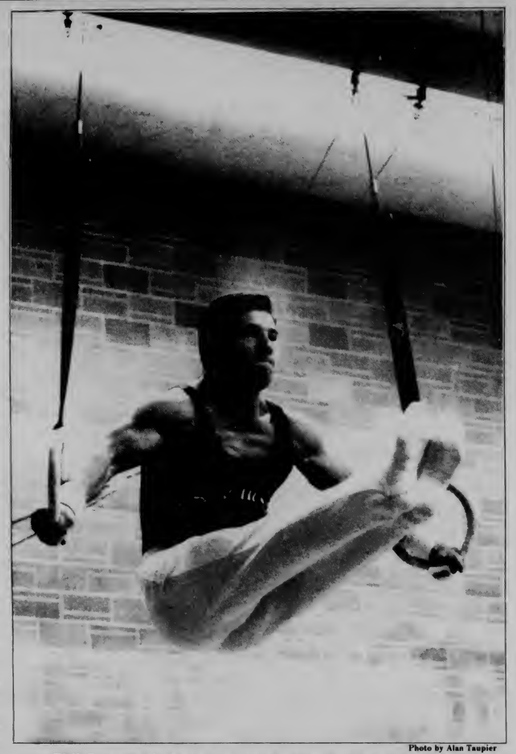


Photo by Alan Taupier

Phil Gorgone displays the strength needed on the rings. The UMass men host Southern tonight at 7 p.m. at Boyden.

RUN FOR OFFICE

Nomination papers are available for President of the Student Government Association seats on the Campus Center Board of Governors seats on the Residential Committee
Any full-time undergraduate student may run for the presidency or B.O.G.
Nomination sheets may be obtained in Rm. 420 Student Union. Nomination papers are due Feb. 27th at 4 pm

Our best to you

$ 680EE Cartridge
SONY PS-LX2 Turntable
Boston Acoustics A-60 Speakers
ONKYO TX-25 Receiver
499.
Sennheiser HD-400 Headphones $38
Free STANTON Record Cleaner with any System

Acoustat	B&W	Discwasher	Jensen Video	Ortofon	Sony
ADC AR	Carver	Dual	JVC	Pioneer	Stanton
Audio Technica	Celestion	Empire	Maxell	Pyramid	TDK
Avid	Concord	Fried	Mobile Fidelity	Sheffield Lab	Teac
Boston Acoustics	dbx	Hafler	Nitty Gritty	Shure	Telarc
BSR	Denon	Harman/Kardon	Onkyo	Sonus	Thorens

Sound & Music
90-92 King St. (Rte 5), Northampton • Mon-Sat 10-5:30, Thu'til 9
VISA, MasterCard, American Express • Financing Available • 584-9547

Collegian recruitment meeting Wed. 8:00 CC 805

Collegian staff meeting Thurs. 7:00 Newsroom

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ALL QUALITY SUNGLASSES

Genuine Raybans and Vuernets Fashionable and functional sunglasses for your face. All types. Reasonable prices. Bruce 549-2879

ARE YOU AN ACCOUNTING MAJOR?

I need a tutor for Accounting 202 Please call 546-7035 and ask for Michael if interested (call eves)

ATTENTION: WE'RE HIRING DJ'S

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT is hiring qualified DJ's. Experience preferred, good personality and knowledge of music required. Reply to: Box 48, Amherst, MA 01004

AUDIO

Speakers, RAL 3 way, 125 wtts/ch. Brand new $325 or BO must sell 542-3494

AUTO FOR SALE

1975 Ford Pinto. Good condition. $650. or BO. 549-5141 dinner time

76 Saab 99GL blue excl con ask 3900 call 256-0656 ask for Chris after 7 PM

1976 Honda Wagon 400 or BO must sell please call 549-7520

CAPE COD

Housemates wanted for 6 bedroom house in Harwich half mile to beach 546-5851

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS

W. Yarmouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment SGA Affirmative Action position available. Requirements - serious committment to AA principles, good organizational and writing skills, ability to work independently. 12 hrs/week 3.35/hr Application available 420 SUB or call 5-0341 for more info. AA/EOE

ENTERTAINMENT

RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets -ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739

PROFESSIONAL DJs FOR LESS. 4 years of Quality Disc Jockey Service at UMass. Why pay more? 256-1393

Wicked and Wild DJ's for hire. Quality sound at the lowest price. Call 584-6712

Guitarist looking for band, preferably but not necessarily progressive rock 546-6452

ENTREPENEURS/SALESPEOPLE ACT NOW

NATIONAL COMPANY SEEKS AGRESSIVE SALESPEOPLE TO SELL SUNGLASSES. EARNINGS 300-1000/SEMESTER. WRITE P.O. BOX 0640 BROWN UNIVERSITY PROVIDENCE R.I. 02912

FOR RENT

Lrg room in log cabin in Leverett wood heat 6 miles from campus beautiful location 549-4497 Laura or Stu

Own room in beautiful Sunderland house. On bus route. Rent negotiable. (approximately 140 +) 665-2512

FOR SALE

Pentax ME Super 35mm Camera with 50mm F2 lens and Pentax auto-winder 6 mos. old with all packaging $225.00 see Andy at the Collegian Photo Dept.

Computer terminal, standard type must sell immediately $375 call Rob 586-6889

VIC-20 computer system, modem, disk extras. Call 549-4696 after 5 pm

Dorm size refrigerator $75 or BO new kitchen table with two matching chairs $60 or BO ironing board BO 549-6109

Sears Commentator electric typewriter with corrector, excellent condition, $225 includes cover and case. Lynda 253-3950

Water Ski EP comp 1 2 yrs old only $135 for the serious skier call Jody 549-0124

Sangiglo Ski Boots, K2-skis Salomon 444 bindings and poles, $100 for everything; 546-5426

Mexican Red-Legged Tarantula for sale. Clean, quiet 549-4894 Amy

Skis: Atomic Team Bionic Arc (slalom). 195 cm. Excellent condition $180-negotiable. 542-3052

Lab Series L5 guitar amplifier 100W mint condition best offer 6-9283

FOUND

TI Calculator in Textbook Annex on Feb. 1 call 549-7622 and identify it

FREE KARATE DEMO

Challenge Fighting, Musical Forms, Dueling Kicks. Featuring Larry and Donna Kelley, "Americas #1 Black Belt Couple". 7 February, 6:00-7:00 p.m. S.U.B.

HELP WANTED

Button-Up is looking for a creative person to design and make buttons. 10 hrs. of workstudy/week. Call Roberta at 545-0341 X28 ASAP. Start right away.

ARTISTS! The SGA Communications Office now has a workstudy graphic designer position open. Portfolio required. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Public Relations/Advertising! The SGA Communications Office has the following paid positions open for Spring '84: Operations Supervisor, Production Coordinator, and Typesetter. Experience helpful, but not necessary. See Kelley in 423A Student Union for application. Deadline is 2/10/84.

Weekend cook wanted at local sorority. Experience wanted. Call 545-0527 for more info.

Kitchen help wanted in exchange for meals (great working conditions!) call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

Recycling Coordinators needed for dorms. Earn a credit & a letter of recommendation for volunteering. Recycle newspaper & glass in your dorm! 545-0618, 306 SUB

Waitresses, apply at Rusty Nail, 3 to 5 weekdays, no experience necessary general office help MS 1-6 daily $4 per hour

Test Yourself: Are you an effective time-manager? Can you work 2-4 hrs/wk consistently? Are you success-oriented? Earn base + performance-based bonuses. 1-800-243-6706

COORDINATOR - UMASS MEN'S CENTER Requires coordination of administrative budget, programming, outreach, and evalustion 10-15 hrs/week @ 3.35 committment to social issues swareness s must. Job description, application available Brett 130 due Feb. 14 AA/EOE

Kitchen help needed in exchange for free meals. Beta Kappa Phi call 253-9071 ask for Duff's brother Stevie D

TUTOR NEEDED for Accounting 222 please call 596-7035 and ask for Michael if interested. (Call eves)

INSTRUCTION

Know your car. Basic Automobile Workshop. Classroom theory and shop. Limited enrollment 253-2098

Bass and guitar lessons $8/hr for more info call george 584-0708

LOST

Lost during intersession on pr. grey suede leather gloves w/rabbit fur lining. Please call Dave 253-7658

On 1/30/84 - mens gold ring initials on face reward call 546-9693

Glasses inside brown case w/Cesar Vieira written on it found call Pedro Vieira at 546-4644

MARTIAL ARTS ENTHUSIASTS

Study Sport Karate with Larry Kelley, #3 U.S. Fighter. 256-0080

MOVIE

THE SHINING
Fri. Feb. 10 at 5, 7, 9, 11
Campus Ctr. Auditorium
Sponsored by Chi Delphia

PERSONALS

Go Down with someone you know and trust Ft. Lauderdale - Springbreak

Ski Club Goes Down for more info 545-3437

SPRING BREAK '84 FT. LAUDERDALE

THE BEST HOTELS THE BEST FLIGHTS THE BEST BUSES ALL AT THE BEST PRICES

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN NON-MEMBERS WELCOME FOR MORE INFO 545-3437

Juniors, Seniors, Grad Students! Enjoy the convenience of your own credit cards at leading department stores, oil companies, and banks. No cost to apply. If you are a Junior, Senior, or Graduate Student, you're eligible. Call TOLL FREE 800-232-1100, M-F, 9 am - 6 pm College Card Corporation "The Most Trusted Name on Campus."

NEED HELP with your 1984-85 financial aid form? Call PERFECT FORMS 584-6868 for personalized assistance at a nominal fee

Looking for a home? Sorority is taking boarders; if interested call Louise or Sylvia at 256-6887

Free Demonstration: UMass Sport Karate, Larry Kelley, Kirk Jenness. Forms, sparring styles: Tuesday 6 pm SUB, CC first club meeting: Wed 4 pm NOPE 24

make reservations now for Spring Break Ft. Lauderdale, Daytona, Acapulco. Prices from $107! Andrea 546-9648

OPEN RUSH ALPHA DELTA PHI

TUES FEB 7 WED FEB 8

COME DOWN AND CHECK A.D. PHI

Grandma Muffy Jinglebells Kaplan you're not over the hill yet! Happy Birthday! Love the family

Try a SQUARE DANCE for a change Sat. Feb. 11th 8:00 S.U.B.

Karate for women, too. Develop assertiveness and total fitness. Umass Sport Karate 256-0080

Extinguish the midweek blues with Larry Kelley's Wednesday Sport Karate class. 256-0080

Get involved with the UMass Greek Community. Greek life is an experience, a reward, a lifetime. All university women encouraged to sign up at the Campus Center Concourse for Sorority Rush orientation Monday Feb 13 at 7:00 PM

Cash for college available Computer shows $16.5 million unclaimed. Results guaranteed Send $1.00 (refundable) SDR - 49 Downing Fall River, MA 02723

3-S Grayson Let's stampede on to a great semester. An annonymous herd member.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

- OPEN RUSH -
Mon 2/6, Tues 2/7, Wed 2/8, Mon 2/13
Tues 2/14
For more information call Rick 545-2150

RIDE WANTED

To Mass. Ave. Cambridge every Fri. after 12:05 call Sue Ellen 546-6226

RIDERS WANTED

To Los Angeles Spring Break leave March 17 - brand new luxury car call Ilisa 549-5920

ROOM WANTED

Looking for a place to live during Spring semester. Pref. close to UMass. Responsible, 24 yrs. Student. Call Ted: 549-2773

ROOMMATE WANTED

Male, one room in two bedroom apartment Brittany Manor 256-1374

Room for two people in in Amherst Fields condo $125 plus utilities 256-6691 after 7:00 pm

Need two people to share house on bus route in Belchertown. Call Eric 323-7705

To share large double bedroom in Brittany Manor 120 a month includes heat. Nice people call anytime 256-0969

Three seniors seek fourth male to share two bedroom Northampton apt. near bus route. $106 + util. call 546-5554

SAY IT WITH A FLOWER

Say it with a flower! February 6-9 CCC sponsored by NSA

SERVICES

Typing, Copies, Binding Pickup and delivery avail. 413-772-0694 anytime

TYPING fast, reliable, professional. Manuscripts, stats, correspondence, etc. Reasonable rates 665-3414

SPRING BREAK

Bahamas 419 from Boston 344 from New York complete no hidden costs also Lauderdale choice of hotels on strip or off Doug 549-1934

SPRING BREAK 84

84 SPRING BREAK 84

Daytona Beach 259 price includes round trip jet 7 nights hotel Quality Inn ReefFree rent a carunlimited mileage

Ft Lauderdale 259 round trip jet 7 nights hotel Days Inn Broward Blud Free rent a carunlimited mileage Montreal Spring Breal Weekends

from $49.00
price includes round trip luxury motor coach 3 days 2 nights Quality Inn Downtown
Welcome Party at the Old Munich Restaurant. All above prices do not include tax & service charges

College Town Tours
482 Main St Malden MA 02148
617 321 3993
Beachcomber Tours Daytona Beach $338.00
does not include car jet from Boston

Village Tours Ft Lauderdale $389.85
does not include car hotel: Days Inn jet from Boston

College Town Tours Daytona 318.00 including free rent a car unlimited mileage jet from NY add $20 from Boston

Ft Lauderdale $338 jet, hotel, Days Inn free rent a car unlimited mileage jet from Boston
all above prices include tax + services

make your own choice

STAFF MEETING

Collegian Staff and interested people STAFF MEETING - Thursday night, Feb. 9 7:00 in the Newsroom. Mandatory for staff and correspondents

TEXTBOOKS

Looking for an alternative to the Textbook Annex? You can buy used books at the Book Exchange. CC Rm 165-169 Feb 6-8 9 am - 4 pm daily. Sponsored by Gamma Sigma Sigma

TRAVEL

FLORIDA

Miami/Fort Lauderdale area $209.00 Round Trip (air only) Convenient Departures on the scheduled airlines (these are not risky charter flights) seats are limited call 584-3224

UMASS SPORT KARATE

Larry Kelley, Instructor. First class meets Wednesday 4 p.m. Februsry 8th. Cost: $55 per semester (includes shirt) Beginner and intermediate ksrate students welcome. Call 256-0080

WORK-STUDY HELP WANTED

The Western Mass Latin American Solidarity Comm. has one work-study position for an office assistant. Applicants should have organizing skills, research and writing skills. Deadline for spplication is Feb 8th 5:00 WMLASC is an AA/EEO employer. Applications available in WMLASC Offcie 404 Student Union Bldg

Sports

Blue Devils mortally wound UMass

By JOHN BADGER
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts wrestling team ended its home season last night by dropping a 41-12 decision to Central Connecticut.

The Minutemen forfeited the 118 pound spot and the Blue Devils did likewise at the 126 pound bracket to start the score at six apiece.

At the 134 pound mark, Central's Sean Curtain pinned UMass' Phillipe Durant at 2:21 of the match to put the Devils up 12-6.

Minutemen Mike Hanlon and Paul Hardy both had excellent chances to pin their opponents at the 142 and 150 brackets respectively, however both came away from the mat empty handed.

Down 10-0 in the third period, Hanlon managed to reverse Central's Sean McGrath for two points and gain another three for a near fall but time ran out in the match and McGrath was victorious 11-5.

Hardy started the 150 bout by taking his opponent to the mat for two and also gaining three points for a near pin, but unlike Hanlon, Devil's Mark Ostoyich was successful in his comeback. He wore the Minuteman down and managed to get the pin with 27 seconds left in the match to give Central a 21-6 lead.

At 158 pounds, Mike Bossi, wrestling with a cell infection on his left knee, dropped a 6-1 decision to Central's Jim Campanello before the big dissapointment of the match.

Many fans were on hand to see senior captain Scott McQuaide wrestle his last home match of his career. However the Central coach decided to rob the fans of their last chance to see one of the University's finer athletes in its 121 year history and forfeited the 167 pound mark. McQuaide had pinned the Devil's 167 pounder, Bob Guisti, in a recent tournament and the Devil's decided Guisti didn't need another beating with the New England's not too far away. Guisti wrestled at the 177 spot. Guisti was successful in pinning minuteman Brian Shaughnessy at 6:03 of the contest to put central up 30-12.

Minuteman Tony Gaeta dropped a 16-4 decision to Rick Jacobsen at the 190 pound weight class to increase Central's lead to 35-12.

The heavyweight contest saw 180 pound Vin McEntee go against Central's 280 pound Dan Daube. What looked to be an extreme mismatch turned out to be anything but as the Minuteman showed superior wrestling skill and speed as he held the giant at bay until 3:00 minutes into the match when Daube managed to fall on McEntee. The weight of the Devil was too much for McEntee to move and the pin was Daube's making the final score 41-12 Connecticut. The minutemen wrestle at Princeton and Brown this Friday to close the regular season.

Fog hampers women skiers over the weekend

By SUE LEVY
Collegian Correspondent

After three weekends of intense slalom and giant slalom competition, the University of Massachusetts women's ski team is tied for first place in the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference (WISC) with Boston College. UMass and BC lead the league with 37 points, Brown and Plymouth State are tied for second, followed by Amherst, Smith, Army and Trinity.

This past weekend, the Minutewomen competed in a slalom on Saturday and a giant slalom on Sunday at Cannon Mountain, New Hampshire. UMass suffered a rare and disappointing upset Saturday finishing fifth despite UM's Alice Gigliotti's first place finish. Gigliotti won the race by an overwhelming two second margin. Senior Bobbi Voll skied well with a solid fifth place finish. Intense fog coupled with poor snow conditions hampered the performance of other UM racers.

On Sunday, due to bad weather conditions, a short giant slalom course was set. The Minutewomen rebounded from Saturday's upset to take away the top honors of the day. Team captain Sue White came from behind to win the race with a combined time of 57.88 over BC's Ingrid VanZon (59.03). Freshman Lisa "Hoover" Tomek skied her best race of the season thus far, taking second place for the second run and capturing third place overall. Teammate Voll came off the hill with a ninth place finish to clinch the victory for UMass. Other Minutewomen finishers were Sue Levy (13th) and Diana Swain (14th).

White and Gigliotti are tied for first place in the league. White has been league champion for the past two seasons by an incredible margin. Although White and Gigliotti are competing for the individual league title, their main concern is to ski well in order to keep the team as a whole ahead in the league standings.

The UM racers will be back in action at Loon Mountain, New Hampshire this weekend.

Collegian photo by Katie Watters

Team captain Sue White, who won the giant slalom, makes a turn Sunday at Berkshire East.

Men slip and slush to victory

By MATT LUCZKOW
Collegian Staff

It was wet and foggy at Cannon Mountain this past weekend, but the University of Massachusetts men's skiing team pulled a victory out of the slush, to remain on top in the New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference.

Six men scored among the top twenty in Saturday's slalom race to give UMass the best team time at 440.28 seconds. Boston College took second (447.13) and Plymouth State College was third (450.60).

Jon Segal (84.28) was fastest for UMass in the deeply-rutted course, good enough for second place in the individual standings. Segal was only one-tenth of a second behind Brown's Dwight Janerich (84.12).

Junior Dan Conway and captain Tim Enright also skied well for UMass, finishing 6th and 7th place respectively. Also contributing to the win were teammates Matt Luczkow (14th), Andy Clarke (15th) and Kris Vanderzee (17th).

UMass was ahead of PSC after the first run in Sunday's giant slalom, but had to settle for second place in the final tally.

Conway, Segal and Enright were consistent again for UMass, taking 6th, 7th and 9th place, respectively. Vanderzee (11th) and Luczkow (17th) also added to the score. PSC's Doug Karwoski won the race.

Overall, UMass (280.12) was less than four seconds behind first place PSC (276.96). Brown University took third (286.93) and Boston College finished fourth (289.59). Other schools racing at the tournament were the University of Connecticut, Amherst College, Trinity College, and Army.

The skiers will travel to Loon Mountain in New Hampshire this weekend for their next race.

Massachusetts gymnastics .....

Nagging injuries do hurt

By KEVIN DELUCA
Collegian Staff

Despite a first place all-around performance by sophomore Tricia Harrity, the University of Massachusetts women's gymnastics team lost another close match Saturday, this time to Cornell University, 166.9-166.4.

The loss, the Minutewomen's third by half-a-point or less -- the other two close losses coming against the universities of Connecticut and Rhode Island, dropped UMass' record to 6-5 and left UMass coach Ken Anderson cursing the nagging injuries that have plagued his team.

"I had to pull Robin Low off the balance beam at UConn because she was aggravating a sprained foot. It might have cost us the meet (UMass lost, 170.15-169.7)," said Anderson. "Then at Temple we were without Robin and Tricia Camus sprained her ankle warming up. We beat Temple but both gymnasts missed the Maryland meet, where we lost to Maryland and Rhode Island (UMass finished .35 behind URI but did defeat a depleted Duke

Continued on page 14

Gymnasts to compete tonight

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team will try to get it all together tonight at 7 p.m. in Boyden gym as they host 1983 Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics Champion Southern Connecticut.

"We're going to have to hit to beat them and they're going to have to not have one of their better meets," assistant coach John Macurdy said. "I think we'll beat them on pipe (high bar). It's still a toss up because we have one of the stronger high bar teams when we hit."

Southern has been averaging between 265-270 in total team points this season.

Two-time defending EIGL pommel horse champion Darren Dembrow will be leading his team. Dembrow should also record a top parallel bars performance as he was 1982 EIGL champion in that event.

Junior Scott Nadeau will be challenging the Minutemen's Bert Mathieson and Willie Stevens for best all around performance. Freshman Robin Artz will also be a threat for Southern in the all around competition.

"I think Southern Connecticut has the edge on us," Coach Roy Johnson said, "But we'll be right there if they want to give us the meet."

Tri-captain Stevens has been coming up with some fine performances for UMass this season and was recently added back into

Continued on page 14

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIV, Issue 6 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Wednesday, February 8, 1984

Collegian photo by Katie Watters

MAN FROM DOWN UNDER—John Kiley of the Telephone Company looks for a leak in a manhole yesterday outside the Student Union Building.

School finances aided Jackson's History visit?

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

The speech given last Thursday night at the University of Masachusetts by Democratic presidential hopeful Rev. Jesse Jackson was partially funded by University sources using student funds.

A total of $2,250 was spent on the speech with the Board of Governors (BOG), the Student Government Association's (SGA) Finance Committee and the Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs office contributing $1,250. Afrik-Am, a Recognized Student Organization, (RSO) added the remaining $1,000.

John Ruddock, president of Students for Jesse, a new RSO, requested money from the Department of Public Safety (through the division of Student Affairs) and from the Board of Governors. Ruddock, according to the Registrar's Office yesterday, is not currently a student at UMass and was withdrawn on November 8, 1983.

News Analysis

Records in the SGA treasurer's office reveal that the BOG contributed $400, the vice-chancellor's office put up $350 and the SGA finance committee gave $500, all of these from funds collected from students for the purpose of student affairs.

The breakdown of the $2,250 budget, provided by Eric Nitetzche, SGA Treasurer, shows that $350 was spent on security, another $350 went to rent out the Fine Arts Center for the speech, $300 went for sound equipment, $250 a piece paid for publicity and the work of the physical plant (barriers and trash cans), $400 went to simulcast the speech to the Student Union Ballroom, $100 went toward "hospitality," $50 paid for the printing of tickets and $100 each went for badges and miscellaneous costs.

"He (Jackson) is coming to UMass not so much as a presidential candidate, but as a Black History Month keynote speaker because of his longstanding commitment to black history and culture," said Sharon Davies, Five College Campaign coordinator for Jackson, in an interview prior to the speech.

Ruddock maintained before the visit by Jackson that "(the speech) is going to be on black history, political and social changes that have been made in recent years." But that contradicts the speech's emphasis, which was clearly on Jackson's political campaign.

"No honoria, no financial endorsement is being made by the Students for Jesse, the SGA or any University affiliate. We are providing support service, for him to come to a forum for cultural expression which we feel is needed," Ruddock said before the speech.

Jackson was supposed to be the keynote speaker for the initial presentation of Black History Month, but the fiery minister only briefly mentioned that celebration, instead spending most of his time attacking President Ronald Reagan's policies and boosting his own candidacy.

For all intents and purposes it was a campaign rally, complete with signs reading "We Love You Jesse." Black History Month would have made an excellent topic for a man with Jackson's qualifications, but it would appear his speech was an appeal for votes.

People at the speech were handed cards asking for contributions to Jackson's campaign fund. The cards were addressed to Jackson's local headquarters.

"John Ruddock came to me asking for funds to simulcast the speech and because I thought it would be a big part of Black History Month, so I gave (the funds) to him," said Mike Reilly, chair of the BOG.

"As it turned out it was basicaly a campaign rally," Reilly noted.

Dennis Madson, vice-chancellor of Student Affairs, said too that Ruddock asked for funds. "The sponsoring student organization (Students for Jessee) asked for security personnel and we responded with two uniformed officers (who were on overtime) and members of the Public Safety office administration staff," he said.

So what happened is that Ruddock asked for, and received, $750. The SGA, as mentioned, added $500.

continued on pg. 4

Students learning math for no credits

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

For 300 students at the University of Massachusetts last semester, learning the concepts of mathematics was important enough that they did so for no University credit.

Three times a week they went to class, where they worked in pairs and groups to discuss the process of solving word problems, not just their answers.

These students, whose majors range from psychology to business, were in the cognitive mathematics program, part of a center designed to explore and fill the needs of students with weak math backgrounds.

Yesterday, Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey hosted a presentation to celebrate the math center, its success, and a $297,000 grant from Exxon Education Foundation to fund research on improving students' math skills in a technological era.

The program itself earned specific funds in the University budget of $269,000 for fiscal year 1984, and the Exxon money will be used to fund farther research.

The studies will examine the "need to improve and do more investigation to understand what student problems are, (like) fractions," program director John Lochhead said. Research will also include evaluation of students' success in mathematics beyond the program.

Eventually, Lochhead hopes to establish a learning center, where students can use "computers and other devices that will help students learn using different modalities than are presented to them in class."

"It's really significant to be able to apply what you have learned to solve a problem," said Doug Ross, another T.A. and former student. "That's what happens in life."

The program's approach is based on 20 years of research on "the things which make math and science difficult to learn," Lochhead said.

We're trying to improve the students' ability to think by improving communication with each other, where they talk about problem solving and they go about solving it," Lochhead said. There is "almost no lecturing" in classes, but rather cooperative efforts where students discuss their reasoning behind problems and receive coaching from teaching assistants, many who are former students of the course themselves, he said.

"I felt bad -- I knew I had a great math deficiency," said Joel Fishel, one such T.A. who took the courses last year after a four year absence from school. He is now a teaching assistant.

Fishel, a political science major preparing for graduate school entrance exams, said the course was "far more demanding than the math department thinks it is," with homework that included writing essays of the steps taken to solve the word problems. "I came in and it was tough...(but) I feel I can handle calculus now."

While some students, like Fishel, take the course for personal reasons, others must take it as a prerequisite for calculus, as judged by the mathematics placement exam. And, since the course does not offer credits toward graduation, some students resent it.

"The students are paying for the incompetence of the high schools," Fishel said. "Students should acquire these skills while in high school, and now they're paying again."

Students say "they work hard and should get credit," agreed Lochhead, but the faculty sees the course for "the content of what's covered."

Even so, for many the value of the course extends beyond the classroom.

Friedan to discuss the modern woman

Noted feminist and author, Betty Friedan, will speak about "Women's changing roles in the 80s," at 8 p.m. tonight in the Student Union Ballroom at the University of Massachusetts.

Friedan, the founder and first president of the National Organization for Women (NOW), is best known for her book published in 1963 called The Feminine Mystique based on interviews with upper and upper-middle-class women who graduated from Smith College and found themselves frustrated with roles as wives and mothers.

Joyce Berkman, a professor in the UMass History Department, said The Feminine Mystique focused on educated women who were "constrained from opportunities to explore and learn about the world outside the home."

Friedan identified the "feminine mystique" as social institutions, media, academia, and politics that continued to "echo and define" gender roles which were considered "proper" in the 50s, Berkman said.

Friedan was also a leading advocate for the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion reform, educational opportunities for women, and other contemporary women's issues. Her visit is being sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Program.

By MIRIAM ZOLL

Inside:

Plans to update the Chinese lexicon ..... p. 3

The obsession of being thin ..... p. 7

Stray Cats reviewed ..... p. 11

"The cruellest lies are often told in silence"

— Robert Louis Stevenson

World and National News

AP Laserphoto

JOY RIDE—Shiite Moslem militiamen wave their guns and flash victory signs after successfully driving the Lebanese Army out of Beirut Tuesday.

Moslems declare victory in Beirut US Marines to be removed off coast

BEIRUT, Lebanon AP --

Triumphant Moslem rebels in command of west Beirut declared a cease-fire Tuesday in their six-day war with the Lebanese army and said they were withdrawing from the city's devastated streets.

President Reagan, vacationing in California, announced that U.S. Marines would be moved from their beleaguered positions at Beirut's international airport to warships operating along the Lebanese coast. He said the redeployment of the 1,600 Marines "will begin shortly and proceed in stages."

A Christian militia commander, Fadi Frem, called on his fighters to confront the Moslem-leftist challenge, declaring, "We will see them at the battlefield." But no major new clashes were reported.

The future of Lebanon's Christian president, the U.S.-backed Amin Gemayel, hung in the balance, his army weakened by Moslem defections.

Off Beirut, the five-inch guns of the mighty U.S. battleship New Jersey thundered to life at midday Tuesday, shelling what was believed to be a rebel position after the U.S. Marine base at the airport again came under fire. One Marine was wounded.

In west Beirut, 39 employees and dependents of the U.S. Embassy were airlifted out by helicopter because of "the current unstable situation," a Marine spokesman said.

State Department officials in Washington said the evacuees, considered non-essential for the embassy's operation, were taken to a 6th Fleet ship for later transfer to Cyprus. Thirty-six U.S. Embassy personnel remained in Beirut, they said.

Two U.S. warships -- the carrier Independence and destroyer Ricketts -- cut short a port call in Turkey and were steaming back to rejoin the flotilla off Lebanon.

The new explosion of fighting, which began last Thursday and climaxed Monday with the rebel takeover of Moslem west Beirut, has put the multinational Beirut peacekeeping troops in a difficult position -- cut off from the Lebanese government they are here to support.

One French soldier was killed and at least 15 other members of the multinational force were wounded -- including two Marines -- in the fighting Monday and Tuesday. About 200 Lebanese were reported killed and more than 300 wounded in the six days of fighting, police said.

American astronauts are first human satellites

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. AP -- Two American astronauts left the safety of their shuttle yesterday and flew unrestrained for the first time, adding another milepost to man's conquest of space. Said the first man out to the second: "Go enjoy it; have a ball."

Bruce McCandless, then Robert Stewart, unhooked their life-lines and slowly rose up, up and away from Challenger, carried by a $10 million jet-powered backpack to a distance greater than the length of a football field.

"McCandless and his Manned Maneuvering Unit comprise a spacecraft of their own," said Mission Control.

Although they had no sensation of speed, the astronauts were traveling 4.8 miles a second as they zipped over the spinning Earth below. They'll do it again Thursday.

McCandless, who has spent more than a decade preparing for his historic but brief flight, parodied Neil Armstrong's words upon becoming the first man to step on the moon in 1969.

Said McCandless: "That may have been one small step for Neil, but it's a heck of a big leap for me."

Never before in 59 space walks -- 46 American and 13 Soviet -- had a man ventured out without a lifeline. Tuesday's exercise was a rehearsal for the next shuttle flight when other space walkers will try to retrieve an ailing satellite, bring it into the cargo bay for repair, and release it to orbit again.

Today's Staff

Night Editor	David Summersby
Copy Editor	Ralph Roberts
Layout Technician	Susan Bankert
Photo Technician	Katie Watters
Production Supervisor	Pete Soderberg
Production	John Wielgus, Lynne Gottlieb, Leslie King, Merrianne Hrycin, Ansel Zinter, Sue Gianetti, Pamela Smith

FOR LADIES ONLY...

Ladies Night

Every Wednesday in

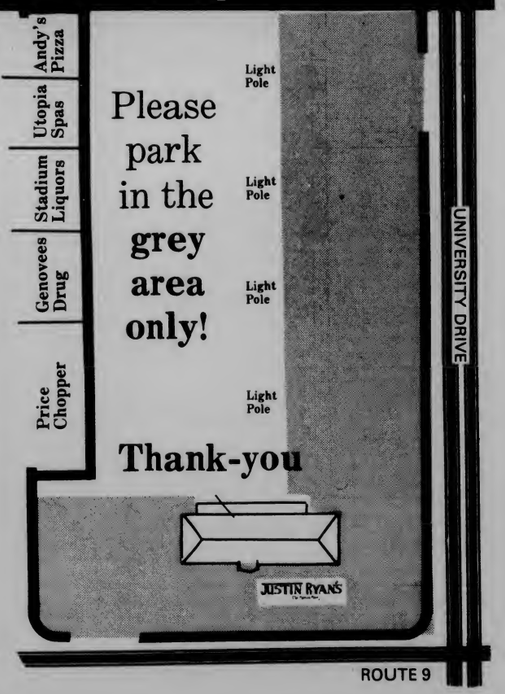
Webster's Lounge

All bar drinks 99¢

Including our famous frozen

libations of

Pina Colada, Frozen Dacquiri,



Strawberry Margarita

7:00 to closing

Plumbley's off the common

30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst
253-9586

JUSTIN RYAN'S needs your help to solve "the parking problem"

Chinese lexicon planned

By MARY-SHEILA LOUGHLIN
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts and the Peking Institute of Foreign Languages are planning a joint project to publish a Dictionary of Contemporary Chinese to update the Chinese language, and aid students in Chinese classes at UMass.

"Western scholars and students need help in translating the English and Chinese languages," said Shou-hsin Teng, chair of the department of Asian Languages and Literatures at UMass and the associate editor of the project.

Much of the information in current dictionaries is taken for granted. When Westerners use the current dictionaries, they encounter problems because words are not adequately defined," Teng said.

After the Chinese revolution in 1949, the government of mainland China simplified the Chinese language.

This means that the dictionaries printed before 1949 carry the traditional characters and those after the revolution carry the contemporary characters," Teng said.

Western scholars and students are trained in both the traditional and contemporary characters. The new dictionary will contain both, where as others (the 1931 Mathew's Dictionary, the 1978 Peking and the Taiwan edition) have not.

The project, which will take five years to complete, will be designed especially for Western scholars and students, Teng said. "It will use American English and have a more comprehensive design with more conventional cross indexes," he said.

Teng said the material for the dictionary will be selected and devised in Peking, and the dictionary entries will then be sent to Amherst. UMass will enter the grammatical descriptions, the English definitions, and will store and process the information in its computers.

Chinese Ambassador Zhang Wenjin will visit UMass March 15 to announce his approval of the project, Teng said.

The Board of Directors for the project at UMass is chaired by Chancellor Joseph Duffey and the Chinese word processing equipment has been donated by UMass Trustee an Wang, of Wang Labs Incorporated.

Collegian photo by Katie Watters

HELP IS ON THE WAY—Four members of a new team to update the Chinese dictionary. From left to right: Ling-hsia Yeh, Shou-hsin Teng, Ching-Mao Cheng and Alvin Cohen.

Teng said UMass has asked for funding from the National Endowment for Humanities for the dictionary and will receive an answer in May. If funding is granted, work on the project will begin in July with a full-staff meeting in Peking. Each year the meeting will alternate between the U.S. and Peking until the project is completed.

Amherst magazine takes second place

By STUART RONALDSON
Collegian Correspondent

The Amherst College literary magazine, "The Amherst Review," won second place and $200 in the annual Victoria Chen Haider Memorial College Literature Contest.

The "Review" finished second out of 106 entries from Colleges and Universities in 32 different states. To be eligible for the contest, which is judged in New York, the publication must be edited by students and more than half of the published material must be selected from undergraduate students.

The $200 prize may be used to increase the number of pages in future issues, said Ethan Nasriddin, non-fiction editor of the "Review".

The magazine, which has a staff of 30 to 35 people, also accepts submissions from local artists and professional writers from around the country, according to editor David Chinitz. Chinitz said the magazine placed second in 1982 and first place "a few years before that."

"Our main goal is to keep the quality of our work competitive and it is always nice to be recognized for that," he said. "Success in the contest raises interest in the which helps raise the quality of the magazine because you can be more selective (in choosing entries for the magazine)."

Chinitz said the published material in the magazine includes works of non-fiction, fiction, poetry together with paintings, drawings and photographs. In the past, the magazine included material from poets James Tate, Denise Levertov and John Ashbery, he said.

Other winners in the contest included the literary magazine of Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois, which received the first place award of $300. The third place winner was Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio, which won a $100 prize.

The "Review" is published annually and should be available May 1 and is free for Amherst College students, Chinitz said. A $5 fee is charged to the public.

Campus shoppers to be shuttled to stores

By JOHN YONCE
Collegian Correspondent

Beginning today University of Massachusetts students will no longer have to walk from the campus to do their grocery shopping.

Paul Blanchard, assistant operations manager of the UMass transit system, said that students will be provided with transportation to and from local food stores, via the "shopper shuttle".

The shuttle will leave the Graduate Research Center (GRC) on the hour between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Wednesdays, and between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturdays, Blanchard said.

The bus will transport students to the Price Chopper and the Stop and Shop supermarket complexes, and will return 45 minutes after leaving the GRC.

The service was organized through action by the Transportation Advisory Board, on a suggestion from Student Government Association Co-President Tom Ahern and acting Committee Chair Bennie Hilliard.

The bus shuttle was one of several proposals last fall by the board, which was revived by Ahern after two years of inactivity. Other proposals included late night bus routes to bars and possible insurance rebates for UMass bus riders.

"There have been a number of proposals brought up, none of which have been discussed at length yet, said Blanchard. The other projects may succeed depending upon "how the proposals stack up against each other," he said.

The shopping bus will continue to run through May 23rd, with the exception of spring break and the weekends preceding and following the vacation. The service will be continued next fall depending on community response. Schedules are available on the shopper shuttle or at the transit garage.

Stolen articles total more than $800

By MARY ANNE BEEN
Collegian Staff

More than $800 worth of articles were reported stolen from a motor vehicle parked in the Campus Center garage Monday morning, University of Massachusetts police said.

An AM-FM stereo cassette player, valued at $270, were taken from a car parked on the second level shortly after 11 a.m., according to police. The left side vent window had been smashed to gain entry, causing $75 in damage, police said. The case is being investigated.

In other police action:

Police received a report of a motor vehicle accident on Governor's Drive shortly after 9 p.m. Monday. Police said an icey road surface caused a driver to hit a concrete light pole. Damage was estimated at $300 to the motor vehicle and $800 to the light pole, police said.

Police cited the driver with speeding and having no license in possession. There were no injuries.

Police responded to a false fire alarm in Thoreau dormitory in the Southwest Residential Area at 12:48 a.m. last Saturday. Upon arrival to the dorm, police, Environmental Health and Safety officials and the Amherst Fire Department could find no evidence of fire or smoke, although the alarm had been activated. Police officials have a suspect and the case is open.

A 26-year-old Attleboro resident was arrested at 12:35 a.m. Tuesday and charged with driving while intoxicated, police said. The driver had been observed driving in an erratic manner on North Pleasant St., according to the police report.

Police arrested a 19-year-old Springfield resident shortly after 4 p.m. Monday on President's Drive after observing that the subject's car had its inspection sticker scraped off. After an identification check, police learned that there was an outstanding warrant for the subject's arrest on a larceny charge from Springfield police. The case is under investigation.

Collegian photo by Katie Watters

A NEW DEAN—Bruce MacDougall is now in charge of the College of Food and Natural Resources.

New dean appointed at UMass college

By STEPHEN HOWE
Collegian Staff

The College of Food and Natural Resources has appointed E. Bruce MacDougall as dean after a three month search in which "roughly a dozen candidates" were considered, according to search committee chairman Joseph Larson.

The appointment, announced at last Thursday's Faculty Senate meeting, fills a void in a position that was empty since Daniel Padberg resigned last summer. David E. Leonard has been acting dean of the department.

MacDougall headed the department of Landscape Architecture and Regional Planning for six and a half years. Despite showing enthusiasm about his new position he acknowledged that there are some serious physical problems with the College of Food and Natural Resources.

"The human resources of the college, the faculty, staff and students are outstanding," he said. Most of the buildings however, are "archaic," he added.

MacDougall said that he is proud that the college has done so well with the facilities available but he thinks it could do better with improved facilities. The administration is concerned about updating buildings and laboratories he said, but, "it looks like it will happen at a very slow rate."

He also said that he is concerned about meeting the increasing demand for courses in the college.

"One third of the programs we have are difficult to get into. Some programs have requirements such as a creativity test for the design option in architecture, to limit enrollment," he said.

The college is "desperately trying to meet demands, he said. But it is very difficult to increase faculty so the challenge is to shift faculty to accommodate current demands, he added.

"The human resources of the college, the faculty, staff and students are outstanding. Most of the buildings however, are "archaic."

— New Dean Bruce MacDougall

MacDougall, who has a Bachelors and Masters Degree in Forestry and a Ph.D. in Geography, is also an authority on microcomputers. He has written two books on the subject, "Computer Programming for Spacial Problems" and "Microcomputers in Landscape Architecture," which was published this past September.

MacDougall said he wrote the second book as the result of building his own microcomputer from a kit in 1977. He wrote the book to learn more about the subject he said.

"Computers are becoming increasingly more important in all Natural Resources fields," MacDougall said.

"In some forest inventories now, you never put a number on a piece of paper. It's all collected and stored electronically," he said.

"I've been on the job a day and a half and there have been no major problems," MacDougall said, "I'm looking forward to it. I think it's going to be a lot of fun."

★ Jackson

continued from pg. 1

When George McGovern, another Democratic hopeful, was on campus the day before Jackson, neither the SGA or the BOG gave any funds at all. The security costs, according to Madson, "were small."

Granted a candidate such as the popular Jackson drew more people than McGovrn, but who decides which candidate gets money for publicity, hospitality, etc?

Why was John Ruddock, a non-student, allowed to solicit money? Can Ruddock be the president of a student group? Ruddock could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Jesse Jackson may have fooled people into thinking he was going to speak only about Black History Month, and if that is the case, the University is at fault for giving money toward his interests. Why were people allowed to hand out cards asking for money? The speech, from every account, was a campaign rally, not a historical talk.

This University needs to examine its procedures for providing funding for political candidates and to student groups that support candidates. A public university should not have to give funding for candidates with campaign chests more substantial than student resources.

The questions arise as to whether student monies should be used in support of any candidate and does the appearance of Chancellor Joseph D. Duffey on the stage constitute an endorsement? Students appear to have little actual say as to where the SGA, BOG or Student Affairs money goes after representatives are elected, and it is doubtful that most intended their money to be used in support of any particular candidate.

Thirsty for news?

Read the Collegian

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

Summer Jobs
UPWARD BOUND/
UMASS AMHERST
Positions Available:
Instructors (for College Prepatory Curriculum)
Counselor/Tutors (for residential component)
Pick up applications at
205 New Africa House
Deadline: Feb. 29, 1984
Internships also available

Charter Travel Time
For hassle-free group travel, call the experts ... call Travel Time. Before your group plans its next trip—any size group—call us for a price quotation. We'll be happy to quote you our economical rates. No obligation!

Charter Service to all points in the U.S.A. and Canada.

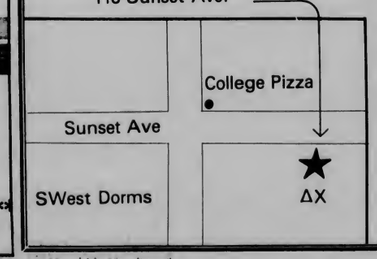
Check out what we offer:
- Luxurious Highway Coaches
- School Buses
- Mini-Buses

We'll also handle hotel, meal and sightseeing arrangements for your group. Our deluxe highway coaches are climate controlled and restroom equipped.

Travel Time Bus Lines Inc.
99 Arnold Street Springfield, MA
Call: General Office and Charter Service 783-0211
Toll Free in MA 1-800-322-0297

DISNEY AUDITION TOUR '84
TWO EXCITING ENTERTAINMENT EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES
1. The WALT DISNEY WORLD® Vacation Kingdom, near Orlando, Florida, is seeking professional Singers, Dancers and Musical Theatre Actors/Actresses. Most positions are for full, one-year contracts with some summer seasonal employment also available. Sorry, no professional instrumentalist auditions.
2. The WALT DISNEY WORLD Vacation Kingdom and DISNEYLAND® (located in Anaheim, California) are forming a 22-member All American College Marching Band for each Park, plus, a 40-member All American College Symphony Orchestra to perform at EPCOT Center. These positions are for summer-long employment, beginning June 4 and concluding on August 18.
AUDITION REQUIREMENTS ALL AUDITIONEES:
- Must be 18 years of age by June 1, 1984
- Must bring a current resume and photograph
- Must show movement ability
AUDITION SITE: BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS February 16, 1984
Joy of Movement Center
536 Mass Avenue
Central Square
Cambridge, Massachusetts
TALENT AUDITION: Audition call: Females - 10 a.m. Males - 2 p.m.
COLLEGE MUSICIANS: Audition call: 10 a.m.-5 p.m.
Join the "World" leaders in family entertainment! For additional audition requirements or if you need further information, please call or write "Disney Audition Tour '84," Entertainment Division, P.O. Box 40, Lake Buena Vista, FL 32830, (305) 824-5478, (Monday-Friday only, 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. EST).
Walt Disney World
An equal opportunity employer

BACK to SCHOOL SPECIAL!
NO COUPONS!
3½¢ PER COPY WHITE BOND 8½ x 11
INSTANT COPIES
NO GIMMICKS!
ON THE "TOTAL COPY SYSTEM" from 25 to 25,000 per original
Expires March 30, 1984
COMPARE ANYWHERE! SAME DAY SERVICE!
Wickles FinePrint
AMHERST
1 Boltwood Walk
256-0148
Mon-Fri 8:30am-5:30pm
High Quality Offset Printing at a Low, Low Price!



Western Village
Ski Sale
UP TO 30% OFF
DOWNHILL SKIS
BOOTS and BINDINGS
choose from K2, Dynastar, Salomon, Lange and Nordica
20%-30% OFF
CLOTHING FOR SKIING
JACKETS, SWEATERS.
TURTLENECKS
GLOVES and MITTENS
32 Main St. Northampton 584-3620
Open Daily 8:30-5:15
THurs 'til 8 pm
Western Village Ski & Sports

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN TO FT. LAUDERDALE

SPRING BREAK 83
8 Days 7 Nights Luxurious Hotel on the Strip
Hotel only $149 W/Motor Coach $285 W/Jet $375
 tax included  tax included ***
For more info 545-3437

IT'S 1984
AND BIG BROTHER (YOUR RA) IS WATCHING YOU!
GET OUT WHILE YOU CAN!
DELTA CHI OPEN RUSH
ΔX
Refreshments Served
118 Sunset Ave.
All University men invited
Tues Feb 7 & 14 7-10 pm
Wed Feb 8 & 15 7-10 pm
☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆
COME CHECK US OUT
☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆☆
Before they come to get you next.

Black Affairs

Franks takes hat off to Tubman

By DARLENE JACKSON
Collegian Correspondent

A small, yet appreciative audience in Bowker Auditorium at the University of Massachusetts Monday night, was hurled back into time by the captivating performance of writer-director Sandra Dunson Franks as she portrayed Harriet Tubman, the Underground Railroad conductor, who led thousands of slaves to freedom.

"HATS: A Tribute to Harriet Tubman", was a one woman show illustrating the life and dreams of Mrs. Tubman and the second event celebrating Black History Month at UMass.

The show began with a brief introduction of slides and music effectively setting the mood of the late 19th century.

Franks entered through the shadows cladded from head to toe in a dark brown garment of the time, white gloves and shouldered in a white shawl.

Her make-up aged her perfectly only to be reinforced by her steady pace and shaky yet scholarly voice as the now transformed Franks told Mrs. Tubman's story -- retold history.

She utilized the scant number of props on stage as she taught and preached the events of nine decades.

Franks introduced the audience to Bessie, Tubman's rifle and companion. After escaping to freedom, Tubman was determined to go back and free her people which she successfully did with only "a prayer on my lips and a gun on my hip," said Franks.

"Mrs. Tubman, do you believe that women should have the right to vote," someone once asked her. "I had suffered enough to believe," said Franks.

Franks made the audience chuckle when she told us of Tubman's "extraordinary" physical strength and also of her first husband, John Tubman.

Hush fell over the auditorium as Franks herself fell into a somber state in the retelling of the Harper's Ferry incident.

"I can remember it like it was yesterday," Franks said of Tubman's 19 trips into the deep south freeing over three hundred slaves, her service in the Union army as a nurse and an Army Intelligence Agent as well as her supportive position in the women sufferage movement.

Franks made a key statement worth reiterating in view of Black History month, "If you don't know where you've come from, how do you know where you are going?"

Franks had stated earlier in an article printed in Nummo News that she wanted "to create (a) role as a theatrical historian," which she did in HATS. A performance that is highly recognized and justifiably praised.

DuBois exhibit highlights month

By YADIRA BETANCES
Collegian Staff

An exhibit on the life and works of William Edwards Burghardts Du Bois in addition to other exhibits and a program of music and history kicked off Black History Month at an opening celebration and proclamation at the State House in Boston early last week.

The State Black Caucus from the House of Representatives and the Governor's Office decided to have the exhibit to highlight Black History Month, said Homer Mead of the Afro-American Studies Department at the University of Massachusets.

The exhibit, which will appear at the State House until February 10, includes excerpts from Du Bois' major literary achievements as well as biographical sketches and graphics made by UMass students. A wide range of pictures also shows Du Bois extensive world wide travel.

"The exhibit was taken (to the State House) because it is not only important to have it there (as part of Black History Month), but he said he wanted to film Chancellor Joseph Duffey's remarks to be added to a film being made about the W.E.B. Du Bois paper collection at the Tower Library archives at UMass.

The film, is being directed by Mead with support from the Chancellor's office, and other corporations in Massachusetts, Mead said.

Mead said the movie would give 'insight into the Du Bois paper collection in a way no other presentation can do."

"(The film) will highlight Du Bois' connection to the Black community in Western Massachusetts," he said.

"Du Bois is someone who lived for and gave his life for the benefit of his people," Mead said.

Du Bois, was the father of the Civil Rights Movement and founder of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (N.A.A.C.P.).

A writer, philosopher, educator and social scientist, Du Bois dedicated his life to writing about the problems beseiging american society during his lifetime.

Du Bois was born in Great Barrington, Mass. on February 23, 1888. After exceeding his white counterparts at Great Barrington High School and graduating as class valedictorian, he attended Fisk University in Nashville, Tennessee. He then attended grad school at Harvard University and studied at the University of Berlin with a fellowship from a Slater Fund.

Du Bois taught at various universities in the United States and published a vast amount of sociological works. He also received various medals of honor including the Lenin Peace Prize in 1958.

In 1963 he became a citizen of Ghana, where he died and is buried on August 27, 1963 at the age of 95.

UMass gained partial possession of the Du Bois papers in 1973. In 1979 the University Library received additional material from Du Bois' second wife and widow Shirlev Ghraham Du Bois.The arrangement and description of the papers was completed and the papers formally opened in 1980.

The Du Bois papers document every stage of Du Bois' life-long career.

Mead, an expert on the life and achievement of Du Bois said he first became interested in Du Bois while studying Black literature at Cornell University.

"I wanted to find out if things being said about Du Bois were true," he said. "They were exactly true. What's more important is that his insights into problems are still accurate today as when he made the statements. Some go as far as 90 years," he said.

W.E.B. DuBois Archives photo

William Edwards Burghardts DuBois receiving his Doctorate degree confirmation from the University of Ghana, on his 95th birthday in Feb. 1963.

Has our time come?

By MICHAEL THELWELL
Special to Black Affairs

Has our time come?
"GOD GAVE NOAH THE RAINBOW SIGN NO MO' WATER, THE FIRE NEXT TIME"

At last Thursday's appearance of Rev. Jackson one could see a large representation of the University's black community-students, faculty, and administration all seemed caught up in the spirit and excitement of the occassion. But it seems to me that we cannot stop with attending a speech, cheering, clapping and shouting "Win, Jesse, Win."

We quickly need to find a way to tangibly and usefully contribute to what is clearly the opening round of a new stage in the ongoing struggle of black people to take the place to which they are entitled by history, suffering, morality and simple justice in this society.

What Rev. Jackson is about is employment of people using for the first time the power of our numbers. Think for a minute of this difference of this nation if the three million unregistered blacks in the South alone were active participants in the political process.

Every week that Rev. Jackson remains a viable candidate, these numbers grow. In addition to registering blacks, the Rainbow coalition is also encouraging hundreds of blacks to run in the November elections for local offices in the South. Think also of the possibility that effort represents. Clearly then, this candidacy has implications which go far beyond the presidential race.

With our "early" primary, the Massachusetts results will be very important in keeping the candidacy at the forefront of people's consciousness. What this means literally, is that all votes are not equal. A vote in March for Jackson is worth more than a vote for any of the other candidates.

A VOTE FOR JACKSON NEXT MONTH CAN MEAN FIVE VOTES AGAINST REAGAN IN NOVEMBER.

That is not rethoric and there are over thirty thousand unregistered blacks in Springfield; just down the road.

To vote in the March 13 primary they must register by next Tuesday. Can the black community of this university organize itself quickly for a one-shot effort next Sunday? We can desend in mass on Springfield talking to people, standing outside churches, stores, ringing door bells, and going where the folks are explaining why they should register before Tuesday.

A meeting will be held next Friday, February 10 at 4 p.m. at Yvonnes' in the New Africa House basement to see if we have the will, energy and resources to do this.

On voting rights

By MARILYN G. BOU
Collegian Correspondent

Election time is drawing upon us once again. Candidates are on the road trying to convince us of their ideas and ideals. This primary election, however is a sensitive one for the Black and other minority communities in the United States.

The Black Civil Rights Movement is a perfect example in this present day of the powerful effect unity can have on this nation. Based on results, this movement has had an enormously positive impact on all minorities. The struggle however is by no means over. If we put before us a goal to "change the course of this nation," as stated by the Rev. Jesse Jackson last week in his speech to over 2,000 people at the Fine Arts Center.

One of Jackson's most moving moments during his speech was when he urged every unregistered person to make this a thing of the past. We can once again take an active participation in determining our own destiny.

Without exercising our right to vote we lose our voice in the American political society. It is up to all of us to go forth in the continuous movement of Civil Rights. I cannot stress enough how crucial it is for each and everyone of us not only to register, but to take oneself out on election day come rain or shine and take advantage of the incredible power that we are privileged to have in this country.

When I think of the pain and struggle our forefathers went through to ensure that their children could vote it pains me to say that some of those efforts were in vain. Now I ask you - were their efforts in vain?

There is a vast program in progress for unregistered voters on campus, one may register at:

February 8 - WORCESTER DINING COMMONS - 5:00-7:00 p.m.
February 9 - HAMPSHIRE DINING COMMONS - 5:00-7:00 p.m.
February 10 - FRANKLIN DINING COMMONS - 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m.
February 14 - CAMPUS CENTER CONCOURSE - 11:00 a.m.-4: p.m.

In Amherst you can also register to vote at the following places:

Town Clerk's Office - Amherst Town Hall
Monday-Friday 8:00 a.m.-4:30 p.m.
Saturday, February 11 12:00-8:00 p.m.
Tuesday, February 14 8:00-10:00 a.m.
North Amherst Library
Monday-Friday 1:00-5:30 p.m.
Tuesday & Thursday 6:30-8:30 p.m.
Saturday 9:00 a.m.-12:00 p.m.
Munson Library (South Amherst)
Monday-Friday 2:00-5:30 p.m.
Tuesday & Thursday 6:30-8:30 p.m.
Saturday 9:00-12:30 p.m.
Hampshire College Library - Contact: Gay Carpenter, Library Main Office.

If you have any questions about registering call: The Amherst Town Clerk - 253-9382.

COMPUTER TERMINAL RENTAL
by COMPUTERM
• Save time & aggravation by renting your own terminal; or split a rental with friends!
Note: rentals will communicate with Cyber, Vax, and any other mainframe computer.
for RENT. . .
RCA TERMINALS (Model VP-3501) 120.00 per semester
• Fully detachable keyboard
• Built in direct connect modem (300 baud)
use with your black & white or color TV (color graphics)
no messy software needed!!
for SALE. . .
RCA COMPLETE TERMINALS Model VP4801TD 598.00
• Detachable full stroke keyboard with the 16 key numerical pad
• Auto Dial • Auto Log On • Printer Port
• 80/40 character display format
• 12 inch green phosphor monitor Model VP4601 w/o monitor 399.00
Call COMPUTERM: M-F (5 pm-11 pm) Sat & Sun (10 am-10 PM)
MIKE (413) 549-0393

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA
OPEN RUSH
All University Men Invited
February 8, 9, 14, 15
8:30 - 11 pm
FREE REFRESHMENTS
374 N. Pleasant St. 253-9032
(the Blue House)

I & R TRAVEL INC present
"Spring Break 84"
We offer you Complete Quality Trips
Ft. Lauderdale Daytona
Bermuda Bahamas
Better Quality Accommodations,
Special Extras, and all at an Inexpensive Price!!
Call for Information and Reservation
Limited Space Available
Ira 546-5422 Rob 546-1201

VALENTINE'S DAY SPECIALS
thru Feb. 14
All Handbags 20 - 50% off
Shearling 50% off
American Tourister 65% off
Selected Wallets 50% off
PLUS MUCH MORE
All Sales Final
584-5233
Harlow Luggage, inc.
157 Main St., Northampton, Massachusetts 01060

Pioneer Valley Data Equipment
SPECIALIZING IN STUDENT RENTALS
-VIDEO TERMINALS-
-PRINTERS-
-MODEMS-
RENT ME FOR A SEMESTER
-SEMESTER RENTALS AVAILABLE-
259 TRIANGLE STREET, AMHERST 549-1017

ATTENTION
STUDENT SENATORS!
Wednesday, Feb. 8
Senate Meeting
will begin at 5 PM
Due to the importance of considering the SGA constitution, anyone with schedule conflicts should contact someone in speakers office.

CHONA
Come in and preview our new Spring collections
CONTEMPORARY FASHION FOR MEN
MEN 2nd FLOOR THORNES MARKET 150 MAIN STREET NORTHAMPTON
open daily 9:30-5:30 Thurs eve til 9 Sun 12-5

COMPUTER WORKS
766 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MA 01002 253-5673
Amherst's Microcomputing Center
Mon - Sat 10-5
EPSON QX-10
COMPUTER PACKAGE
- Fast CPM Processor
- Internal Clock, Hi-Res Graphics
- 256 K Internal Memory
- 2 Drives, 380 K Storage Each
- 'Valdocs & 'Peach' Software
- Includes RX 80ft Printer
UNDER $3000
C

EDITORIAL/OPINION

"I'M SORRY, BUT THE PRESIDENT CAN'T MEET WITH YOU NOW—HE HAS SOME HIGHER PRIORITIES TO ATTEND TO, LIKE ABORTION AND SCHOOL PRAYER."

Editorial Notes

Voter Registration

As college students, we are known for having loud political voices, often expressing discontent with the powers that be. We channel our youthful energy into grass-roots movements, and our minds are more open and malleable than they will be at a later age.

But most students don't utilize the most effective method for bringing about change in this country: most students don't vote.

A college movement against the Solomon Amendment, for example, is rendered ineffective if many of its members, come November, don't bother to show their opposition to legislators who support such measures by taking the time to vote for somebody else.

Most college age men register for the draft. Not nearly as many register to take part in a choosing the country's commander-in-chief, the president, who has the power to send them off to war.

Jesse Jackson told a UMass audience last week that Ronald Reagan won the 1980 election by far fewer votes than there were noneligible voting college students, though most students (then and now) said they opposed Reagan.

At one point, Jackson asked all those who had not registered to vote to stand up. As student gatherings go, this audience was as politically conscious as any you could find, yet close to half the room was on its feet!

Yes, it seems a bit of a pain in the ass to sign up and vote. In Massachusetts, unlike in some states, one can't just pass out registration postcards. Perhaps if registering were as easy as picking up a copy of the Collegian on the way to lunch, more students would vote.

This week, it will be as easy as picking up a Collegian. Voter registrars will be in the dining commons at mealtime: 5-7 pm at Berkshire today, Worcester tomorrow, Hampshire on Thursday, and 11am-1pm at Franklin on Friday, as well as in Whitmore all day next Monday and the Campus Center on Tuesday.

All the candidates who have come to campus so far have stressed the importance of taking part in the electoral process ("whether you vote for me or for somebody else," said George McGovern). Let's not disappoint them, or oursleves.

Ian Polumbaum
UMass

The SGA Constitution

The Student Government Association (SGA) is in the final stages of writing and ratifying its new Constitution. The document is of major importance to the student body on this campus. It outlines the powers and responsibilities of the Undergraduate Senate, Area Governments, House Councils, and the Student Judicial System; and serves as the governing document which allows for the establishment and recognition of all Registered Student Organizations. All constituencies must make it their business to see that it is ratified by the students and remains intact in the face of administration interference.

Considerable publicity has accompanied the problems the SGA has faced in coming up with an acceptable document, and that is as it should be. But now the situation has changed. Over the past weekend, dedicated SGA members who represent all sides of the political spectrum met in negotiating sessions to hash out our differences in the current draft of the Constitution. These sessions were immensely successful, and have resulted in a document that I think all will agree deserves the vocal and active support of the undergraduate students and their governance bodies. Reaching consensus has been a monumental task, and everyone involved deserves credit for it.

But now comes the real test. On the assumption that students will pass the current document, there remains only one hurdle to overcome: the administration. Before we can forward our document to the Board of Trustees for consideration, student leaders will be negotiating the final draft with representatives of the administration. It is imperative that we stand united in these discussions. There still remain major points of disagreement, and the students must decide in a calculated and deliberate manner on which points we can bend and on which points we cannot. These negotiations must take place in a diplomatic manner, but we must be able to speak with the force of 18,000 voices to make our points felt with the power that is our right.

This is a difficult task, but one to which we must rise. A united student body is a powerful force in University politics. Now is the time. Let us stand up and get the respect we deserve.

Eric Nitzsche
SGA Treasurer

Letters

Stand up and be counted

To the Editor,

With the Massachusetts primary just two weeks away I urge everyone who attended the registration rally last Wednesday night to follow through by registering to vote. Registering is the first step in making your voice heard.

This year the Democrats offer eight candidates for the party's nomination. These candidates although united in their determination to defeat Ronald Reagan in November take many differring positions on the issues facing the party and the country.

In the interest of educating the voting public I ask the student groups supporting a candidate to work with me in sponsoring a mock debate. Each candidate with a student group on campus could be represented by a member of that group.

Stephen Bailey
Students Supporting George McGovern for President

It's better to laugh than cry

To the Editor,

I am writing this in regard to the letter submitted by Allan E. Dines which appeared in the Collegian on Monday, February 6. Referring to the comic strip, "Shagnasty" which appeared on February 2, Dines wrote, ". . . I did not find Mr. Derringer's cartoon humorous or even mildly amusing. As a student who is, and was concerned about the arson problem on campus, I feel that making fun of the events that took place on camus last semester is in poor taste. Not only did the situation cause stress and psychological trauma for the woman in Crampton, but it could also have been a fatal situation."

In today's hectic society, I feel that humor is a crucial tool in relieving the very stress and tension that Mr. Dines is referring to. I, as he, was concerned about the fires and appreciated the measures that the school took, yet I also value the humor that Mr. Derringer gave to this distressing situation. We need such reliefs if we are to survive such mentally trying times.

Beth Ann Niece
Dickinson Dormitory

The Obsession of being thin

Diane Lane

For me, being thin isn't just something I am, it is something I must be. I am joined in my obsession with weight by more than half of all American women. The Obsession. I guess I've always had it, although objectively speaking I was overweight for only three or four years.

When I was sixteen I thought I was fat. I dieted and fasted and exercised . . .I also ate cookies, cake and a not infrequent ice cream sundae. I complained about my fat, I talked only of new ways to lose weight, I was obsessed by it. My weight? 116 pounds.

Today when I shop for magazines, titles rush up and slap me in the face. Fitness, A Slimmer You, The New You, Health and Beauty, Weight Watchers . . .A Guide to the Anorectic Life. And if the titles are accusatory, the photos and articles are much worse. I am told I can lose ten pounds in five days, I can do 400 exercises for my fat thighs and never leave bed (Oh God! not Fat Thighs!), page 75 a miraculous slim down diet—page 76 recipe for gorgeout—uperchocolate-zillion calorie cake. The Obsession is ambivalent.

Fashion models who have not yet completed puberty average $500 per hour. In 1984 clothes you and I will want to wear are modeled by 13 year old girls with boyish shapes. Remember what you looked like at 13? Hell, it's no wonder I don't like my body! No matter what I do, how hard I diet, I still have these damned curves . . .a woman's hips for God's sake!

In 1977, in the United States, 300,000 women had operations to enlarge their breasts. Another 15 to 20,000 underwent surgery to have breast size reduced. We wire our jaws shut, we hire doctors to slice fat from our buttocks and thighs like so much diseased tissue. We attend camps, health spas and fat farms where the price is $185 to $3000 per week to pursue the perfect body. The Obsession.

Every morning I stand in front of my closet and try on as many as ten outfits before finding one that doesn't "make me look fat", much to the puzzlement of my husband. Men don't understand The Obsession.

Thin Thighs in Thirty Days, Linda Carter's Work Out Book, Slim Down with Jane, Tone Up with Raquel, Lift Weights with Victoria—more and more it seems that everyone has something to say about the state of my body.

In USA Today the day before Super Sunday a picture of announcer Phyllis George, who had given birth to twins just six weeks earlier, was run with the caption, "Phyllis George-worried about looks." Interviews with Marie Osmond shortly after the birth of her child spent inordinate space on how much weight "tiny Marie" gained and how much she has since lost. The pounds of mothering only heighten The Obsession.

And the other day I received a letter from my beautiful 10 month old neice who lives in California, written in the first person for her by her mother. Jacquelyn writes, "I am walking more and more and learning how to talk. I am very petite just like Mommy. I hope I stay this way." And upon being offered some cookies and milk a friend's three year old daughter was heard to say, "I'll have some diet soda please; I'm getting quite a tummy." The Obsession is learned early.

In The Obsession: Reflections on the Tyranny of Slenderness author Kim Chernin states, "The body holds meaning. A woman obsessed with the size of her body, wishing to make her breasts and thighs and hips and belly smaller and less apparent, may be expressing the fact that she feels uncomfortable being female in this culture.

We want to be thin and beautiful and cherished. Somehow all the advertising and cultural expectations are internalized in spite of our better sense. Despite my mind and my intelligence and the plans I have for myself which have nothing to do with my body, I am panicked by a two pound weight gain. I lie in bed after a dinner party, in silent darkness and feel the slight rise of my abdomen. It is then I experience the horror and disgust only the obsessed can truly share. I must regain control over this, my woman's body. The Obsession.

Diane Lane is a Collegian staff member

Don't Forget!
1st Recruitment meeting tonight, 8pm Room 805 CC.
...and, 1st staff meeting, Thursday night, mandatory attendance.

The world is your classroom

School for Field Studies

- learn field research techniques with a team of students from across the country
- help seek solutions to problems in endangered ecosystems
- explore a potential career or major
- receive academic credit

Summer, Semester, and January term programs around the world
Marine Mammal Biology and Conservation
Glacier Bay, Alaska

Environmental Geology
Mt. Vesuvius, Italy

Wildlife Conservation
Kenya
and 9 other field study courses around the world.

Slide show presentation in the UMass Campus Center on Friday, February 10 from 12:15-2:00 pm
Financial aid is available for qualified students. For your free catalogue, write or call:

SCHOOL FOR FIELD STUDIES
50 Western Avenue
Cambridge, MA 02139
(617) 497-9000

SFS is an affirmative action, equal opportunity institution.

The Distinguished Visitors Program presents

Betty Friedan

Author of "The Feminine Mystique"

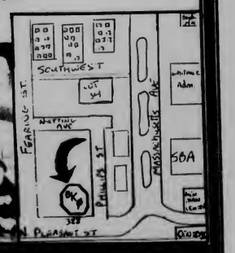
Co-founder of N.O.W.

"Women's Changing Roles in the 1980's"

Wednesday, February 8, 1984
8:00 P.M. Student Union Ballroom
Free

BKΦ

invites all university men to attend an



OPEN RUSH

TONIGHT

Time: 9:00 p.m.

388 N. Pleasant St.
Tel. 253-9071

"'ABSENCE' COULD WELL BE THE BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR."

"A DYNAMITE MOVIE. A MYSTERY, A THRILLER, an intelligently woven plot. And two dynamite performances, by two of our best actors, Paul Newman and Sally Field. One of the best pictures of the year."
—JOEL SIEGEL, ABC-TV

"PAUL NEWMAN IS OUTSTANDING. His vigorous performance makes 'Absence of Malice' worth seeing."
—GENE SHALIT, NBC-TV

"NEWMAN RECLAIMS HIS KINGPIN STATUS AS THE SCREEN'S GREATEST LEADING MAN. Timely, provocative, brilliantly written, acted and directed. 'Absence of Malice' will stick to your ribs the way few movies do these days. I urge you not to miss it."
—REX REED, NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

"'NEWMAN'S BEST WORK SINCE 'COOL HAND LUKE.' MISS FIELD IS TERRIFIC."
—FRED SAGER, ASSOCIATED PRESS

"COMPELLING STUFF, confidently directed and performed."
—DAVID ANSEN, NEWSWEEK

PAUL NEWMAN SALLY FIELD
ABSENCE OF MALICE

Academy Award Nominations For: Best Actor Best Supporting Actress Best Screenplay

COLUMBIA PICTURES Presents A MIRAGE ENTERPRISES PRODUCTION
PAUL NEWMAN • SALLY FIELD • ABSENCE OF MALICE • Music by DAVE GRUSIN
Director of Photography OWEN ROIZMAN A.S.C. • Executive Producer RONALD L. SCHWARY
Written by KURT LUEDTKE • Produced and Directed by SYDNEY POLLACK

PG

Available in paperback from BALLANTINE BOOKS

DATE: Sunday Feb. 12
TIME: 5, 7, 9, 11
PLACE: Campus Center Aud. (CCA)
ADMISSION: $1.50 (75¢ - 5:00 show)

Letters

Collegian self-serving?

To the Editor,

Last Thursday, the Collegian published a very convenient disclaimer, blithely refusing any responsibility for damage to the personal reputation of a woman charged with the Crampton fires. Since the Collegian advocates freedom of the press in their self-appointed crusade for the public's "right to know," I'd like to ask some questions to find out who is responsible.

Why did anyone besides a Crampton resident need to know about the fires? One could certainly argue that they had a right to know about them, but did anyone else?

Who is responsible for the rash of fires in other dorms that resulted after the press broadcast that an arsonist could get away with it in Crampton.

Who ignored the pleas of public safety officials for a calm, quiet, low-profile investigation (with unannounced evidence)?

Who named names in a case that had no clear findings?

Who exalted the issue all the way to the national press?

Who else but the Collegin.

It would seem that the right to report the news included the prerogative to make the news. In a case where the Collegian was obviously serving neither community nor individual welfare, I can only conclude that the editors were serving themselves.

Rusty Denton
Amherst

Editor's Note: The Collegian does have a "self-appointed crusade for the public's right to know. However, it does not "make news," nor does it "exalt issues all the way to the national press."

Our purpose is to inform the community. When something happens, we report it.

More comic remarks

To the Editor,

With regard to the letter written by Richard Vigeant, Feb. 7, 1984, I would like to make some remarks about Mark Rollins' Umass Zone. To begin with, Charlie Brown rarely says "Arrgh." He's famous for "Ugh," as I feel many can appreciate.

A second point necessary to make is the fact that in order for any item of written work to attain the readers attention, the author usually needs to aproach the reader from the blind side, many times covering some controversy of some sort. This is sometimes called the shock value, which gives the written work some character. In comic strips, if character is missing, then the strip is boring. Take for example, Fred Basset, by Alex Graham, Field Enterprises, Inc. Graham is not known for coming from the blind side and therefore lacks character, and consequently is boring. Rollins makes use of the shock value as do others such as Berke Breathed. If the Umass Zone is to be removed, so is Bloom County.

Any person, or group of persons who spends any amount of time in the public eye is going to draw criticism from some journalistic source. This has been happening since day one, and the Umass Zone isn't crossing any journalism boundaries. Without a doubt, criticisms may not always be welcome or appropriate, but that's human nature and nothing can be done about it.

Peter J. DePuy
Sylvan

Custom Designed Hairstyles that only look expensive!

At Great Expectations you'll leave with the style you had in mind...at a price you can afford
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED

SHAMPOO, PRECISION CUT & BLOW DRY STYLING... still only $12.50

Hampshire Mall
Hadley
Mon.-Sat.
10-9:30
586-6182

GREAT EXPECTATIONS
PRECISION HAIRCUTTERS

Do you want to do work when you want and not when there is an available computer?

Try

COMPUTER ACCESS

On site microcomputer time rental
79 SOUTH PLEASANT STREET
256-1213
(behind Peter Pan terminal bldg.)
Open 7 days a week
Opening February 15
Mastercard & Visa accepted

College Night
Thursday, February 9
3 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Precision Haircut & Style - Only $10
Terrific campus cuts at super savings with student I.D. Free gifts & refreshments.
REGIS HAIRSTYLISTS
Ingleside Mall • 532-6007

Le Boudoir
Intimate Fashions

We Wish All Gentlemen...
Happy Valentine's Day...
and Cordially Invite Them to...
Gentlemen Only Nite
Thursday, Feb. 9 — 6 to 10 p.m.
Give her a gift that's true!
Soft Silk Teddies
Matching Bras & Bikinis
Night Gowns, Cozy Terry Robes and more
Champagne & Hors d'oeuvres Served
Come Join Us!

Carriage Shops, 233 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, (upper level) 549-6915

DELTA UPSILON
OPEN RUSH

Tues. Feb. 7th
Wed. Feb. 8th
9:00 P.M.

NOPE

North Pleasant

Delta Upsilon

Grad Twr 778 N Pleasant St
549-3831

Collegian

Recruitment meeting

- Experience
- Excitement
- Open to all majors

Wednesday Feb. 8
8 pm-9 pm
Room 805 C.C.

OFF THE WALL
• FRAMING •
"We frame for less"
56 Main St.
Northampton 586-9200

Start every day refreshed!
The Collegian

READ THE ARTS PAGE!

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN TO FT. LAUDERDALE

SPRING BREAK 83
8 Days 7 Nights Luxurious Hotel on the Strip
Hotel only $149 | W/Motor Coach $285 | W/Jet $375
 tax included  tax included ***
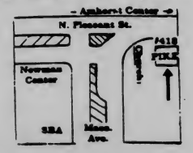
For more info 545-3437

DIETING?
Try a different approach. Lose weight sensibly by learning about your eating habits. Say goodbye to diets, forever! Call University Health Services, 549-2671 ext. 181 to register, deadline is February 17. Classes start February 28. Hurry, class size is limited!

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519



Pi Kappa Alpha

We are. . .
• the Campus and Greek Area Athletic Champions
• the fraternity that does not haze
• the house that raised over $42,000 for Multiple Sclerosis

PIKE - we could be for you

RUSH PARTIES
Mon. Feb. 6 at 9 pm
Tues. Feb. 7 at 9 pm
Wed. Feb. 8 at 9 pm
Mon. Feb. 13 at 9 pm
Tues. Feb. 14 at 9 pm

Pi Kappa Alpha
TEL. 545-2150
Free Refreshments

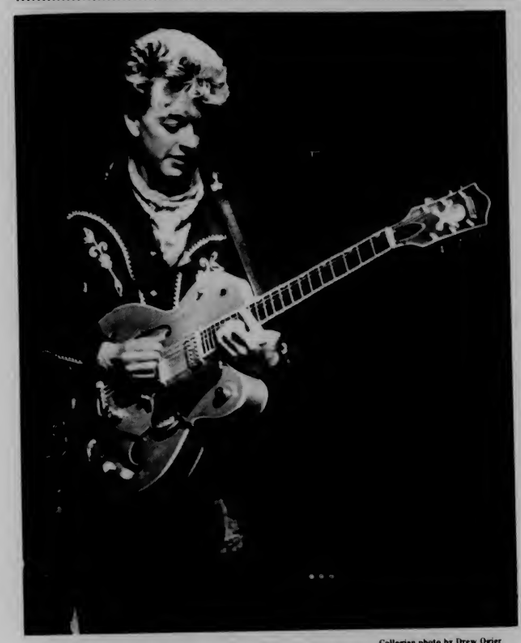
"TWO GREAT SALES IN ONE"
JOIN YOUR OLYMPIANS AND GO FOR JOSTENS GOLD.

$25 OFF ALL 14K GOLD RINGS

See Your Jostens Representative for details of Jostens Easy Payment Plans.
Date: Feb. 8, 9, 10 - Wed, Thur, Fri
Time: 10:30 - 3 pm
Place: University Store
Deposit: $15.

Jostens
JOSTENS IS THE OFFICIAL AWARDS SUPPLIER OF THE 1984 OLYMPIC GAMES.

"TWO GREAT SALES IN ONE"
JOIN YOUR OLYMPIANS AND GO FOR JOSTENS GOLD.



SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER
LADIES' 10K GOLD ADAGIO $20. OFF
MEN'S 10K GOLD CARAVEL $20. OFF

See Your Jostens Representative for details of Jostens Easy Payment Plans.
Date: Feb. 8, 9, 10 - Wed, Thur, Fri
Time: 10:30 - 3 pm
Place: University Store
Deposit: $15.

Jostens
JOSTENS IS THE OFFICIAL AWARDS SUPPLIER OF THE 1984 OLYMPIC GAMES.

Arts

Collegian photo by Drew Ogier
Brian Setzer stretches the strings during Monday nights FAC show.

Rumble in Amherst

THE STRAY CATS
Fine Arts Center
Monday Feb. 6

By ED BEEN
Collegian Staff

It was a night of rantin' 'n' ravin' when The Stray Cats strutted into the Fine Arts Center Monday, and put on a show that left the near capacity crowd twisting in the aisles and screaming for more.

The rockabilly trio from New York, stars of stage and music videos, displayed the appeal of rock and roll in its original form: stripped down, soulful songs about booze, cars and broken hearts. And they did it with a hell of a lot of class.

During their 70 minute set, The Stray Cats ripped through their top ten hits like "Sexy and 17," "Stray Cat Strut" and "Look At That Cadillac." But the real highlights of the evening were the near hits, the extended jam numbers and the surprises that the band held up the sleeves of their sleeveless auto mechanic's shirts. "Rumble in Brighton" was retitled "Rumble in Amherst," after which singer-guitarist Brian Setzer remarked, "This is a great hall, just the right size. We've been playing a lot of really big places, but this is great."

"Drink That Bottle Down," sung by bassist Lee Rocker was a slow blues number that featured Setzer's hottest solo of the night. Other bright moments included the "Theme from The Munster," and a banjo instrumental dedicated to a member of the road crew. The Cats slowed the pace with the ballad "I Won't Stand In Your Way," for which they brought out Mel Collins on saxophone, and 14 Karat Soul, a doo-wop group from New York, who preceeded The Cats' set with a short one of their own. These guys dripped with soul as they primed the audience with "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "Jump 'Till Day" and "Why Do Fools Fall In Love."

For encores, The Stray Cats did an extended version of "Rock This Town," and then brought out the larger ensemble to end the evening with "Jailhouse Rock," that left drummer Slim Jim Phantom leaping off his bass drum to crash the final notes on his cymbal and snare. The too-short show was over.

The mixed bag audience was amazing, 16 year old bobby-soxers, dress shirt and tie college students and men who were around when "Jailhouse Rock" was a new song, all sat in the same section. "We're here for the sound, that sound," said a member of this last group. The Stray Cats managed, even better live than on vinyl, to rev up incredibly powerful raw rock and roll energy, to go back to its roots, and prove why the genre has lasted as long as it has.

They sang about cars and girls, but more important than what they did is how they did it. Their show was a physical one with Phantom whirlwinding his stick into his drums, Rocker putting his acoustic bass on his shoulder, and playing it behind his head, and Setzer with his hollow-body electric guitar (complete with a pair of dice for volume knobs) dancing back and forth across the stage in his big blue suede shoes.

The Stray Cats can really play, and with Monday night's performance as evidence, they are not merely a novelty act, or some kind of revival show. They are a mainstay, a band that simply went back to basics to create pure rock and roll.

Absolutely live

Montgomery's party-on-vinyl

LIVE TRAX
James Montgomery
MSI Records

By JACK BRESNAHAN
Collegian Correspondent

It sure is good to hear this new album by James Montgomery. Recorded at the highly acclaimed and internationally known Trax Lounge in beautiful downtown NYC, this album rates as his best yet. Full of energetic music and showcase harmonica work, James and his band generate dance and ribaldry. This record is an accurate testimony to the party-rock, good-time atmosphere one can expect at any of his live shows.

My only gripe is that this album didn't come out sooner. I recall seeing this band years ago at the Salisbury Beach Frolics -- summertime, the place packed and rocking -- and wondering later why they didn't record live shows for posterity.

Well, he's got a whole new repetoire now, but the intensity is still in the music. Although, one of James' own, "Schoolin Them Dice," an oldie by now, leads the show off, very effective pace setter. His street-wise savvy is evident in the next two songs, "Tuff," and "Urban Cats," in which his after-hours anxiety and simultaneous coolness follow one another like flip sides to a single. Then again, he and Barbara Holliday do a romantic duet, "New England Sunshine," in which the slow-dance and romance take over. You've got to find someone to dance with on this one.

"(I'm Counting on the) Rock and Roll" features a wailing harmonica backed by a tight rhythm. The crowd loves it, it sounds great through headphones, and even Mr. Marvelous Marvin Hagler listens to it. For boxing fans and workout aficionados, "Marvelous Marvin," is a clever song with a beat with which the champ could punch to. This song should be in the hands of fight promoter Bob Arum soon, and played before the middle-weight champ knocks out Sugar Ray Leonard midst his attempted comeback.

You've got to love James' showstopper, "Train," of which he does a superb version on the album. This is a number that gets everyone boogying by the end of the night, but equally effective if heard upon awakening. There's a great saxaphone pulsation throughout, made possible by the Uptown Horns, notoriously known on the last J. Geil's "Showtime" disc. They provide a definite added feature to this live set, and mesh easily with James' tight band. His new songs, primarily co-authored with band members, show his capabilities and progress in developing his own sound and persona. That's not to say he forgets the traditional blues. Recently, he's been doing an updated version of Little Walters' "Checkin Up On My Baby," with every bit of Chicago harp you'd expect of someone honored in The Hohner Calendar.

No gimmicks or overdubs here, just a straightforward outpouring of talent, energy, and fun. This local legend can be heard this Thursday, Feb. 8th, shows 9 and 11, at Jonathan Swifts, Harvard Square, Cambridge.

Pianist Nigel Coxe will perform in Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue at 8pm on Feb. 12 in Bezanson Recital Hall. For further information, call 545-0190.

OPEN THURSDAY & FRIDAY NITES

OUR BIGGEST SALE OF THE YEAR!

OPEN SUNDAY 12-5 PM

4 DAYS ONLY THURS., FRI., SAT. & MONDAY

FISHER® DOLBY CASSETTE TAPE DECK
SAVE 40" 69.99

Technics 20 WATT AM/FM RECEIVER
SAVE 40" 99.99

AKAI HX1 DOLBY CASSETTE RECORDER
SAVE 40" 99.99

SCOTT® REFURBISHED DIRECT DRIVE TURNTABLE
SAVE TO 100" 29.99

AKAI SEMI-AUTO BELT DRIVE TURNTABLE
SAVE 30" 49.99

Technics DOLBY & DBX CASSETTE DECK
SAVE 60" 129.99

CROWN WALKING STEREO CASSETTE
SAVE 23" 19.99

Panasonic 8 HOUR VIDEO RECORDER
SAVE 60" 439.99

RCA 19 INCH SOLID STATE COLOR TV
SAVE 80" 259.99

AVID 8" 2 WAY DELUXE SPEAKER
BUY 1 SPEAKER 149.99 BUY 2 SPEAKERS 150.00

SOUND CREATION IN DASH CAR AM/FM CASSETTE
SAVE 40" 39.99

JENSEN IN DASH CAR AM/FM CASSETTE
SAVE 60" 69.99

PIONEER® CAR AM/FM AUTO REVERSE CASSETTE
SAVE 100" 89.99

ALPINE® CAR AM/FM STEREO CASSETTE
SAVE 30" 129.99

SCOTT 10" 3 WAY SCRATCH & DENT SPEAKERS
SAVE 40" 39.99 ea.

Keytronics CORDLESS TELEPHONE & 10 MEMORY DIALER
SAVE 50" 79.99

CROWN AM/FM STEREO CASSETTE
SAVE 30" 29.99

PIONEER® MINI SURFACE MOUNT SPEAKER
SAVE 35" 14.99 pair

JENSEN 20 OUNCE TRIAX CAR SPEAKERS
SAVE 30" 59.99

SPECIALS! SPECIALS!

Extension Telephone	(16)	19.99
Panasonic AM/FM AC/Battery Radio	(24)	14.99
3 Way 8 x 5 - 60 ounce Car Speakers	(50)	29.99
Panasonic 8 Track Recorder	(120)	29.99
Empire 250 Magnetic Phono Cartridge	(40)	24.99
Telephone Answerer	(79)	49.99
Sanyo 30 Watt Car Amplifier	(80)	99.99
Pioneer PL2 Belt Drive Turntable	(99)	99.99
Technics 200 Belt Drive Auto Turntable	(130)	99.99
Marantz 3100 44 Watt Receiver	(249)	159.99
Pioneer 5000 In Dash AM/FM Cassette	(249)	159.99
Akai F16 "Best Buy" Dolby Cassette	(180)	149.99
Pioneer KPA 700 Super Tuner IN A Cassette	(250)	179.99
Harmon Kardon 660 35 Watt Stereo Amplifier	(260)	199.99
Jensen 600 15 Watt In Dash AM/FM Cassette	(270)	199.99
Pioneer KEX 29 & BM 120-60 Watt AM/FM Stereo Car Cassette	(430)	299.99
Panasonic 700 9 In 1 Zoom Color Camera	(700)	499.99
JVC RX 66 66 Watt Receiver with Built In Graphic Equalizer	(570)	349.99
Powered 4-Way Loudspeakers pair	(599)	399.99
Laxman EX100 Dolbox Dolby Cassette	(400)	319.99
Laxman 181 40 Watt Deluxe Receiver	(500)	419.99
RCA 25" Remote Control Color TV	(600)	499.99
Panasonic 25" Console Color TV	(600)	499.99
Jensen 19" Color Monitor	(800)	499.99
Quasar 25" Cable Ready Remote Control Color TV	(800)	649.99
Jensen 25" Color Monitor	(1030)	799.99
Fisher 730 Cable Ready, Stereo Dolby VHS Video Recorder	(1100)	799.99
Panasonic 25" Stereo Color TV with Wireless Remote	(1000)	799.99
Sony 2040 25" Trinitron Color TV, Stereo, Cable Ready, Remote Control	(1400)	999.99

Panasonic AM/FM STEREO CASSETTE SYSTEM
SAVE 50" 139.99

Panasonic 12 INCH BLACK & WHITE TV
SAVE 30" 59.99

TDK SAC 90 CASSETTES
$1.99 ea. LIMIT 3

KONICA T120 VIDEO CASSETTE
$6.99 LIMIT 6

Panasonic AM/FM STEREO CASSETTE
SAVE 30" 69.99

The Sound Company

SINCE 1961

SPRINGFIELD 477 SUMNER AVE. at the X 736-3626 Open Thurs. & Fri. Til 9 P.M. Open Sunday 12-5

CHICOPEE FAIRFIELD Mall near Caldors 593-5330 Open Every Evening till 9:30 PM Open Sunday 12-5

AMHERST 201 N. Pleasant Street 256-0744 Open Thurs. & Friday Evenings Til 9 PM

NO RAIN CHECKS. Quantities Limited. All items not available in all stores and NO DEALERS.

Bloom County by Berke Breathed

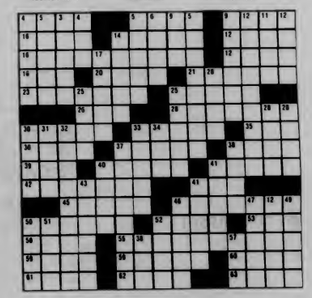
The UMass Zone Mark Rollins

Superbad G.H.

MASS PHOBIA Winmill

The Strip Bert Saveriano and Jim Walsh

Shagnasty O.T. Derringer



DAILY CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Edited by Margaret Farrar and Trude Jaffe

© 1984 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

ACROSS
1 Israeli seaport
5 Acid —
9 Parisian summers
13 Match up
14 Wood for furniture
15 Whale
16 Torpor
18 Invisible emanation
19 External: Pretix
20 Seth's son
21 Cakes, in Caen
23 Cleaning agent
25 Poetic division
26 Scot's name
27 Intonations
30 Atelier sight
33 Milton of mirth
35 Pique
36 "— is the lowest form of wit"
37 Division of society
38 One of Jacob's sons
39 Knightly title
40 Utters in grating tones
41 Held another session
42 Support, as a cause
44 Abbr. on a street map
45 Strips
46 Geometric figure
50 Name for a light-hearted lass
52 Ancient area of Europe
53 Optimism, to a Cockney
54 Word with shoe or neck
55 Press agent?
58 Baltic feeder
59 Ready, for sleep
60 Mackerel-like fish
61 Hardy heroine
62 Highland negatives
63 Geological divisions

DOWN
1 Church features
2 "— — 22"
3 Gaucho's adjunct
4 Unit of work
5 Skin art, in a way
6 Coverings for fimais
7 Cautionary word, 8 Digit, to an octopus
9 Two-handed card game
10 Partiality for Germany
11 To be, in Toulouse
12 Red and Coral
14 Opera by Massenet
17 Landlocked Asian country
22 Noun suffix
24 Manner
25 Greens' vehicles
28 14 Across, for one
29 Muralist from Spain
30 Adroitness
31 Egyptian sacred bull
32 Ecclesiastical vestments
33 Starting places
34 Psychic abbr
37 Redeemed chips, as in Las Vegas
38 High domicile
40 Babe
41 Channel of a sort
43 Horse operas
44 "I — — have danced..."
46 Measures of length
47 Hopeless case
48 "Lakme" or "Parsifal"
49 Peter of the keyboard and others
50 Obliterate (with "out")
51 Put cargo on a ship
52 Sailing maneuver Var.
56 Genetic abbr
57 King topper

Need A Job

We are training for paid positions in the Collegian
Graphics Department
Introductory Meeting
Come to Rm 113
Campus Center
Thursday 5:30 p.m.

D.C. Menu

LUNCH
Royal Zucchini Beef Parmesan
Grilled Cheese Sandwich

DINNER
Roast Turkey/ Bread Dressing, Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Frank Reuben
Spinach Salad Plate

BASICS LUNCH
Hearty Latin Stew
Grilled Cheese on Wheatberry

BASICS DINNER
Roast Turkey/ Bread Dressing, Gravy, Cranberry Sauce
Cheese Nut Loaf/ Mushroom Sauce

Weather

Today sunny, high near 30 degrees. Tonight clear low in the teen's.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

G	O	O	F		A	C	I	A	L		A	F	O	R
O	S	L	O		G	A	P	O		R	I	L	L	E
T	S	A	R		C	R	O	S	S	W	O	R	D	S
H	A	V	E		W	O	R	D	S		A	S	S	E	T
			W	O	R	E		S	T	I	R
B	E	W	O	R	D		C	R	O	C		M	A	N
A	R	D	E	N	T		M	O	U	T	H		O	D	A
W	O	R	D	S		W	O	R	D	S		W	O	R	D	S
E	N	D		W	O	R	D	Y		D	O	N	U	T
S	Y	S		O	N	E	S		D	R	I	S	S	Y
			M	A	C	K			A	V	I	D	S
D	O	I	S	T		L	O	N	G	S	W	O	R	D
C	A	T	C	H	W	O	R	D	S		D	O	D	O
W	I	N	K	O		E	N	A	M		P	E	A	L
S	I	S	I	T		H	E	I	E	N		D	I	N	E

Hypercurricula

Today

SAFA (Students Advocating Financial Aid)—General meeting-all new members welcome. 6:00pm Rm 905-09 CC

C.E.Q./"JOHN GREEN SLIDESHOW"—The introductory meeting to the Coalition for Environmental Quality will feature naturalist John Green who will give a slide-presentation on Glacier National Park. All welcome. 6:00pm Rm 803 CC

Thursday

THE ROCKY MIDNIGHT EXPERIENCE—An awesome adaptation of your favorite midnight movie! Absolutely free for everyone! No bottles, cans, toilet paper, water, etc. allowed. 8 pm and 12 pm Hampden Theatre, SW

EDUCATIONAL COLLECTIVE ON WORLD AFFAIRS—Meeting to plan teach-ins on U.S. Foreign Policy. First event this semester will focus on the Caribbean Basin Initiative. 7 pm Thompson Tower 630

GRENADA: NOBODY'S BACKYARD—The first film of the Commuter Area Government's Progressive Film series. An Examination of Grenada's political history, featuring the role of U.S. Intellegence agencies. (1981) 7:30 CC Rm 101

STATE STUDENT ASSOCIATION OF MASSACHUSETTS OPENING MEETING—SSAM Chapter to lobby for student rights in the Higher Education System of the Commonwealth. If interested, come by. 7pm 811 CC

ALPHA EPSILON PI OPEN RUSH—All university men are invited to Campus Center Rm 1009 for Open Rush. 8:30-12pm

STUDENTS SUPPORTING GEORGE McGOVERN—Organizational meeting. All those who signed up at rally please attend. Everyone welcome. 7:00 pm Check Campus Center Schedule

JEWISH IDENTITY SUPPORT DISCUSSION GROUP—7pm Campus Center 801

URI DAGAN, SOVIET JEWISH EMIGRE—Uri Dagan will speak about Soviet Jewish Aliyah to Israel. 7pm Dukes Room, Student Union

PHI SIGMA KAPPA OPEN RUSH—All university men are invited to Phi Sigma Kappa 510 N. Pleasant St. for open rush. Call 256-6863 for time.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS MEETING—Want to see things run right in the C.C.? Come to the BOG meeting. Work in any area of the Campus Center. Get involved now! 6:00pm 805 CC

KAPPA SIGMA OPEN RUSH—All university men are invited to Kappa Sigma 70 Butterfield Terr. for open rush. 8:30-10:30

ALPHA TAU GAMMA OPEN RUSH—All Stockbridge men are invited to Alpha Tau Gamma 375 N. Pleasant St for open rush 7:30-9:30.

WILDLIFE SOCIETY MEETING—First meeting. Everyone welcome. Guest speaker refreshments will be served. 7:30 pm 312 Holdsworth.

Strong travels

The United States Olympic field hockey team, that includes 1982 Massachusetts graduate Judy Strong, will travel to Melbourne, Australia to compete in a four nations tournament February 29-March 4. The Americans will meet three of six teams named as Olympic qualifiers.

The tournament seedings for the 1984 Olympic tournament have also been announced. The Netherlands are seeded first followed by Australia, West Germany, the USA, Canada and New Zealand.

These teams were awarded Olympic berths based on their international match results from August, 1980 to December 1983.

The Olympic tourney is tentatively scheduled to start on Tuesday, July 31 with the final match to be August 11. It will be a round-robin tournament and the medals will be awarded to the three teams getting the most points in the five game series.

Points will be given for a win or tie.

SPORTS NOTICES

Anyone interested in working for the WMUA Sports dept. must attend a meeting Thursday, Feb. 9 at 4 p.m. at the new studios in the Campus Center.

There will be a meeting for all those interested in the UMass boxing club at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 9 on the 19th floor of Washington Tower in Southwest. Beginners and experienced boxers welcome.

The Creature Needle
FINE YARNS & NEEDLEWORK SUPPLIES
For Valentines Day Quickly Created Gifts for Your Loved Ones
Come in and see our selection!
233 N. Pleasant St Mon-Sat 9:30-5:30
Amherst Carriage Shops 549-6106

Jialih's
JAPANESE CUISINE
(413) 584-8242
TEMPURA
TERIYAKI BEEF
SHUSHI & SASHIMI
SUKIYAKI
JIALIH SIMERAL
WILFRED SIMERAL
32 PLEASANT STREET
NORTHAMPTON, MA

OPEN BAR
Tonight & every Wed.
JUSTIN RYAN'S
The Meeting Place
JUSTIN RYAN'S challenges
all women to drink for FREE
from 8:00 - 9:00
241 DRINKS
for everyone til midnight

AMHERST CINEMA
DOUBLE FEATURE $2.50
Sun - Thurs Feb. 4-9
Fanny & Alexander 7:00
Fri - Tues Feb. 10-14
Time After Time 7:00
Return of Martin Gurre 9:00
DOWNTOWN AMHERST

SPRING SEMESTER 1984
TOPIC FOCUSED GROUPS
SELF-EXPLORATION GROUP
Learn more about yourself, and how others see you.
GROUP I MONDAYS/3:30-5:00
GROUP II TUESDAYS/3:30-5:00
STRESS MANAGEMENT GROUP
Learn effective coping techniques to manage your stress level MONDAYS/3:30-5:00
BULIMIA GROUP
An exploratory group for women who binge-purge THURSDAYS/3:30-5:00
Register during the first three weeks of February. For information or to apply for a group, call 545-2337 or come to the Mental Health Service, 127 Hills North, University of Massachusetts

WHAT CAN FRATERNITIES OFFER YOU?
STOP BY AND FIND OUT.
Sponsored by UMass
IFC
GO GREEK GO GREEK GO GREEK

Sports

Owls fly past UMass men gymnasts

High season total for UM Stevens has strong meet

By ELLEN RICHARD
Collegian Staff

No team likes to lose, but when it scores its highest team total of the season and second highest ever, it makes the loss a little easier to handle. Last night at Boyden gym, the University of Massachusetts men's gymnastics team was defeated by the 1983 Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics Champions, Southern Connecticut 257.1-263.5, the closest the Minutemen have come to beating the champs.

Prior to the meet last night, the Minutemen's top score this season was 251.50 against Navy two weeks ago. The highest team total is 261.5, scored in 1982 against Springfield. The Minutemen have been steadily gaining ground on their goal to score 260 and also to not have any scores under 8.0. Against Southern the Minutemen only had two scores under 8.0, a considerable improvement from 10 scores below 8.0 in the first meet of the season back on December 3.

UMass won the pommel horse event 40.15-39.95 over Southern and overpowered the Owls in the high bar event 43.65-42.45 with the help of strong performances by Bert Mathieson, Ken Dougherty and Willie Stevens.

Mathieson had a quick paced pommel horse routine which gave him a 9.05 score. Dougherty, still hurting from a fall off the high bar on Saturday's meet, proved his gymnastics ability by executing a solid routine and receiving a 9.0. Dougherty has been a consistent top performer for UMass this season in the pommel horse event due to getting high extensions on his scissors and performing two difficult tricks—two circles on one pommel and performing flairs while traveling from one end of the horse to the other.

Collegian photo by Andy Heller

Bert Mathieson shows agile ability on the pommel horse along with strong concentration.

Stevens, who placed second in all around with his highest score of the season, 52.4, scored a 9.35 with a solid performance on high bar to capture first place in the event. The tri-captain had a fine meet as he placed second in long horse vaulting with a 91.35 score. Stevens performed a front handspring, front somersault vault. Craig Maurello won the event for Southern Connecticut (9.55) by performing a very difficult vault, a full twisting tsukara.

Other standout performances for the Minutemen were by Mathieson on the still rings event (9.05), Tony Sbarra performing a front handspring, front somersault (9.2) and pommel horse specialist Mark Quevillon scoring his score on his event, 8.75.

"The way I feel about it is that when you're in practice, you can hit. It's not practice that makes perfect because you can just go through the motions. It's perfect practice," said Quevillon, who has shown a big improvement this season. "The object to better my routine is to nail this one and go on to a bigger and better set."

The Minutemen will take their 5-4 record against Cortland on Saturday in Boyden gym. In a meet which UMass should be victorious, the team will try to vanish any scores under 8.0.

UM recruits top hoop standout

By PETER ABRAHAM
Collegian Staff

University of Massachusetts men's basketball coach Ron Gerlufsen may be concerned with how his team is doing in the Atlantic 10 this season, but the future looks a little better after some recruiting news this week.

The Minutemen announced they signed New York state first team all-star Matt Ryan to play next season. Ryan, out of Long Island's Miller Place High, is a smooth-shooting 6-4 off guard who will blend in well with current freshman point guard Carl Smith in the future.

Ryan is averaging 28 points-per-game this season for Miller Place while leading the school to a 16-1 record. The 187 pounder played on the winning team in the Empire State Games last summer and led the team in scoring in the final two games of that competition.

"Obviously we're very happy to have a player of Ryan's talent coming to UMass," said Gerlufsen. "Depending on how quickly he matures and picks up our system he could contribute a lot to the team next season."

Of his five starters Gerlufsen is losing only center Edwin Green and still has his starting backcourt of Smith and junior co-captain Donald Russell returning. "Carl stepped right in and started this season for us which is unusual," said Gerlufsen. "Ryan has the talent to do that but right now it's just a matter of seeing how he adjusts, every freshman is different."

"Obviously we're looking at pairing him with Carl in the future, it would be a good combination, but all that remains to be seen," the coach said.

Ryan, according to Gerlufsen, is a team-oriented defensive ball player as well as a consistent scorer. He has a solid outside jumper and can handle the ball well.

"I think we got him due to our strong blend of academics and the basketball tradition here," said Gerlufsen. "Some good schools wanted him so we're very fortunate to land him. I'm looking forward to having him on the team."

UMass has also received a verbal commitment from 6-8 forward-center Fitzhugh Tarry of Buffalo. The announcement is expected to be made once the admissions office acts on his application.

UMass swamps Rhody

By TOM SCOLLINS
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts women's swimming team won 14 of 16 events enroute to a overwhelming 102-37 rout of the University of Rhode Island, last weekend.

The Minutewomen were dominant in Kingston and co-captain Elizabeth Feinberg was dominant winning the 50, 100 and 200 yard freestyle. She also anchored the winning 200 medley relay team.

"We weren't expecting to do that well," Feinberg said. "We thought it would be a little closer." Feinberg also swam the 500 freestyle unofficially, which was won by freshman sensation Alison Uzzo. Feinberg finished second.

"I spent the whole race watching Alison. I usually don't swim that event," Feinberg chuckled. Uzzo also took a second, to Feinberg, in the 200 free.

"The team did really well," Feinberg said. "Nancy Stephens and Maura Sweeney swam exceptionally well." Sweeney won the 100 and 200 butterfly and was part of the winning 200 yard medley relay team.

The highlight of the meet was Jean Bushee setting a school record in one meter diving compiling an impressive 241.75 points. Bushee also won the three meter event.

The Minutewomen next take to the pool on Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. as they face the Univeristy of New Hampshire in the squad's last home meet of the year. The meet will be held at Boyden.

Canada stuns U.S. in Olympics

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) -- Canada, stung by the disqualification of two of its players, struck back on ice Tuesday and defeated the United States 4-2 in first-round hockey competition on the opening day of the XIV Winter Olympics.

The Canadians had significant psychological advantages and used them quickly, scoring just 27 seconds into the game.

They were playing the defending gold medalists, who had edged them 5-4-3 in a 10-game exhibition series.

And they were playing the country that had started the dispute that caused the Canadians to be ineligible for the Olympics because they had played in the National Hockey League.

"I think they were fired up and I can understand that," said U.S. Coach Lou Vairo. "They played with really great intensity today and were very good."

The United States faces another stiff test Thursday in second-seeded Czechoslovakia, which crushed Norway 10-4 Tuesday behind Vincent Lukac's three goals.

Finland did not let the hockey dispute get in its way, either. The heavily favored Finns took an early 2-0 lead and held on for a 4-3 victory over Austria.

In another afternoon game, Sweden broke open a close game with six goals in the third period to defeat Italy 11-3.

The Soviet Union drubbed Poland 12-1, while West Germany beat Yugoslavia 8-1.

Though hockey was the first competition of the Olympics, the Games will officially open Wednesday before a sellout crowd of 50,000 at the bowl-shaped Kosevo Stadium, home of the Sarajevo soccer team.

Teams from 49 participating nations will march into the stadium, led by one athlete from each nation who will carry the national flag.

The U.S. flag bearer will be Frank Masley, 23, of Newark, Del., a three-time national luge champion who works as a computer draftsman.

Masley is one of 124 U.S. athletes, among 1,510 entered for the competition.

The Massachusetts Daily NEW ENGLAND'S LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY

Collegian

Volume CXIV, Issue 7 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS AMHERST (545-3500) Thursday, February 9, 1984

Collegian photo by Dave Bruber

BETWEEN THE LINES — Gerry Spear paints the basketball lines on the Boyden Gym floor yesterday. See related story on page 3.

Student Senate gives approval to constitution

By LISA MARIE CANTWELL
Collegian Staff

After eight months of work, the Undergraduate Student Senate last night unanimously approved a fifth and final draft of the Student Government Association (SGA) Constitution.

The document will "send a signal to the Board of Trustees that all students are united," said Erich Mitzsche, senate treasurer. He called the final document, which was completed at 5 a.m. yesterday, a "monumental compromise," between a wide range of groups within the University community.

The constitution insures that students rights will be well represented through democratic processes and "good student government," said Central area senator Timothy Rudolph. The document also allows students a voice in how their trust fund money is controlled.

Chris Sullivan, senate speaker, said the development of the constitution was a long and "delicate" procedure because "everyone's side had to be looked at."

A dispute arose last night over a portion of the draft which excluded students with under 12 credits from holding elected or appointed positions, even if their Student Activity Trust Fund fees (SATF) were paid.

Jim Murphy, who opposed the rule, said it was "economic discrimination," since some students cannot afford to attend full-time.

"This denies some students rights, privileges and fair representation in an organization they are supporting when they pay the SATF fee," he said.

An amendment to lower the standard to six credits failed. Bill Collins, a Southwest area senator said, "It is important that we keep this (document) intact."

According to existing SGA bylaws, the new draft will remain in the area governments for the next four weeks. It must be approved by at least five of the seven governments before receiving a final SGA vote. The constitution will then be sent to the Board of Trustees.

Roger Chapman, a Central area house council member said he does not "anticipate any problems with any of the area governments as far as approving the existing constitution."

One of the functions of the constitution is to ensure area governments receive a certain percentage of the trust fund money, and that was "well established," Rudolf said.

Chancellor addresses Holyoke businesses

By ANNE McCRORY
Collegian Staff

Massachusetts businesses should take "responsible, appropriate action" to assist their employees in the event of a company closing, but they should not be required by law to announce a closing in advance, the co-chair of the Governor's Commission on Mature Industries and the Chancellor of the University of Massachusetts said last night.

"I don't advocate legislation which would require employers, under penalty, to provide advance notice of a plant closing," said Joseph D. Duffey. "States which have such legislation have experienced difficulty in enforcing it, and the only consequence of the legislation is that businesses are reluctant to locate in such states."

Duffey, speaking before a crowd of area business associates in Holyoke, emphasized the need for incentives to encourage businesses to announce their shut-downs in advance. Those that do so could receive tax credits from the state's savings in unemployment benefits from the additional time made available to assist workers with counseling and retraining, he said.

But this issue has "consumed more time and energy...than it deserves," Duffey said.

"The best antidote to a plant closing is a plant opening or a plant expansion," he said. "If we have a healthy economy, if the state can make effective, short-term intervention to prevent sudden calamities, the difficulties of massive plant closings might be avoided."

Duffey said the Commission had addressed the problems confronting laid off workers, and would "probably recommend financial assistance, job counseling and job retraining." For example, while unemployed persons can now take courses for free at public institutions, courses more directly related to the job market should be developed to accommodate dislocated workers, he said.

Duffey, co-chair of the committee since its creation last June, also reviewed the group's findings and proposals to enhance Massachusetts industries, including both the service and manufacturing sectors. The commission hopes to present its final report next month.

"There is considerable interaction between mature and newer industries," Duffey said. "Newer industries have also become markets for traditional products — paper for word processors, machine parts for robots, plastic casings for computer terminals.

"The Commission concluded, correctly I think, that mature industries still constitute a major portion of our manufacturing economy," Duffey said. "They will remain with us for decades to come, although they will grow more slowly than other sectors."

Inside:

Debate between nine potential women vice presidents announced . . . . . p. 2

New WMUA studio opening delayed . . . p. 3

UMass loses animal suit . . . . . p. 7

St. Bonaventure comes to town for Atlantic 10 struggle . . . . . p. 16

"Friends don't owe; friends do because they wanna do."
— Rocky Balboa in Rocky III

Friedan says women's rights being 'whittled away'

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

Being the force that can defeat Ronald Reagan in 1984, preserve the gains of the women's and civil rights movement, and restructure the workplace are only three of the changing roles of women that feminist and author Betty Friedan said she envisions for the 80s.

Friedan, who spoke last night in the Student Union Ballroom, made an urgent plea for young women and men to "continue to move and transform the nature of power."

"We cannot get the ERA, childcare, comparable worth, or even be guaranteed of life until we get rid of Reagan. In the last four years, the rights of women have been whittled away, and federal agencies that are supposed to protect our rights are told not to enforce those rights."

Friedan said today's generation of women has reached a "second stage" of the women's movement that is very different from 20 years ago.

The first stage focused on women in isolation whose identity had been determined by men in this country," she said. "I don't think women want to emulate them."

"Women today have a new set of problems--interesting problems and new choices relating to career and family, marriage and children, and how we piece it all together," she said.

"The structure of work and professional careers are based on men," Friedan said. "There will not be a restructuring of this in terms of women alone," but it will be a concern of unions and leaders of professions later in the 80s.

Friedan said the issue of equal pay for equal worth will not "right the economic scale" because most women are still doing service work which is essential to the economy but valued less "because women have traditionally done those jobs."

"Where is it written that the nurse, the librarian, the woman who runs the office is worth less than the man who collects the garbage?" she said.

According to Friedan, "Women cannot move much farther by themselves" and changing roles for women means changing roles and values for men as well, she said. "There is something lethal about the role of

Continued on page 4

Collegian photo by Katie Walters

Betty Friedan, author of the Feminine Mystique, spoke last night at the University of Massachusetts.

AP Laserphoto

HOWDY, FOLKS — Sarajevo, Yugoslavia — Members of the U.S. Olympic team wave to the audience during the Olympic's opening ceremony. The sign marked "SAD" is the Yugoslav designation for USA.

U.S. battleship bombards rebel positions in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The giant guns of the battleship New Jersey pounded the rebel-held hills beyond Beirut all day yesterday in a thundering barrage that brought the United States in firmly on the government side in Lebanon's civil war.

On Beirut's southern edge, meanwhile, 1,400 U.S. Marines waited for orders sending them back to their ships offshore under President Reagan's announcement Tuesday that they would be withdrawn from their perilous position in the coming weeks.

The small British contingent of the multinational force pulled out yesterday and Italy ordered a gradual withdrawal of its force.

Lebanon's U.S.-backed Christian president, Amin Gemayel, also appeared to be in an ever more precarious spot. His army's 6th Brigade said it was defecting to the side of the Moslem rebels, who held Moslem-populated west Beirut.

The New Jersey opened up with its 16-inch guns - the biggest afloat - at 1:25 p.m. after artillery shells began raining down on Christian east Beirut and around suburban Yarze, near the U.S. ambassador's residence and Gemayel's presidential palace.

Reagan said the U.S. Navy would provide "naval gunfire and air support against any unit firing into greater Beirut from parts of Lebanon controlled by Syria."

He said such attackers would "no longer have sanctuary from which to bombard Beirut at will."

Until now, U.S. gunships and warplanes generally hit only rebel units suspected of firing on the Marines at Beirut airport.

Beirut radio said the shelling of east Beirut came from artillery positions of anti-government Druse leftist forces in central mountain areas occupied by the Syrian army. The right-wing Christian "Voice of Lebanon" radio said two people were killed and 60 wounded.

The New Jersey's guns knocked out 30 Druse artillery batteries from Baissour, southeast of the airport, to Chtaura, on the Beirut-Damascus highway 22 miles east of the capital, the radio said. The official Syrian news agency said "tens" of Lebanese, including women and children, were killed by Navy's "barbaric bombardment." The Druse radio said the Lebanese army also shelled the Druse village of Shweifat, near Beirut airport.

Smith surprised by debate announcement

NORTHAMPTON, (AP) - Smith College officials said yesterday the state Democratic Committee's announcement that the college would host a debate among nine women with eyes on the vice presidency was news to them.

"We were just stunned to read that in the paper," said college spokeswoman Ann Shanahan. "We had been approached, but nothing is firm."

The proposed forum aimed at showcasing the prominent Democratic women received another setback yesterday when the offices of at least six of those invited to participate said they had other commitments and would not attend.

Shanahan said that Jane Paffard, associate dean of students, had discussed the possibility of holding the forum with the state Democratic Committee, but no date, time or place for the debate had been arranged and negotiations were continuing.

"We are very interested in participating and want to work with the committee, but we are still in the planning stages," Paffard said.

She said the college and the state committee "are both talking about the same day and program." But she declined to reveal what the college considered unsettled, saying "I think I would rather leave it on a positive note."

The 2,000-student school is the nation's largest privately endowed women's college. Among its former students are a couple of well-known Republicans - Nancy Reagan and Barbara Bush, the wife of Vice President George Bush.

Massachusetts party chairman Chester Atkins announced at a Tuesday news conference in Boston that the debate was set for Feb. 26. He said the forum was designed to showcase the women and "give the public a chance to see the skills, qualities and character they have."

Atkins had told reporters that some of the women invited to participate in the forum had confirmed they would take part, but he declined to identify those who had accepted.

Today's Staff

Night Editor — Cris Schuster
Copy Editor — Stephen Howe
Layout Technician — Paul Basken
Photo Technician — Dave Deuber
Production Supervisor — Lesley Clark
Production — Dave Rath, Lynn Eisenberg, Joy McCarty, Martha Connors, Amy Keefe, Norm Achin, Tracy Lang, Tim Riviere, Marianne Walsh, Lissa Kiernan

Correction

Guest artist Jerri Allyn will give a slide/lecture presentation at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 104 Thompson

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian (USPS 333-220) is published daily Monday through Friday excluding vacations, exam periods, or holidays. Subscriptions are available for $18 at 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, 113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003.

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

In Webster's Lounge
Bass Ale and Heineken 99¢

Molson Golden, Miller Light,
Budweiser and Michelob
all just 75¢
All night 7:00 to closing

Plumbley's off the common
30 Boltwood Walk
Amherst
253-9586

"'ABSENCE' COULD WELL BE THE BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR."*

"A DYNAMITE MOVIE, A MYSTERY, A THRILLER, an intelligently woven plot. And two dynamite performances, by two of our best actors, Paul Newman and Sally Field. One of the best pictures of the year."
—JOEL SIEGEL, ABC-TV

"PAUL NEWMAN IS OUTSTANDING. His vigorous performance makes 'Absence of Malice' worth seeing."
—GENE SHALIT, NBC-TV

"NEWMAN RECLAIMS HIS KINGPIN STATUS AS THE SCREEN'S GREATEST LEADING MAN. Timely, provocative, brilliantly written, acted and directed. 'Absence of Malice' will stick to your ribs the way few movies do these days. I urge you not to miss it."
—REX REED, NEW YORK DAILY NEWS

*"NEWMAN'S BEST WORK SINCE 'COOL HAND LUKE.' MISS FIELD IS TERRIFIC."
—FRED YAGER, ASSOCIATED PRESS

"COMPELLING STUFF, confidently directed and performed."
—DAVID ANSEN, NEWSWEEK

PAUL NEWMAN SALLY FIELD
ABSENCE OF MALICE

Academy Award Nominations For: Best Actor, Best Supporting Actress, Best Screenplay

COLUMBIA PICTURES Presents A MIRAGE ENTERPRISES PRODUCTION
PAUL NEWMAN • SALLY FIELD • ABSENCE OF MALICE • Music by DAVE GRUSIN
Director of Photography OWEN ROIZMAN A.S.C. • Executive Producer RONALD L. SCHWARY
Written by KURT LUEDTKE • Produced and Directed by SYDNEY POLLACK
PG

DATE: Sunday Feb. 12
TIME: 5, 7, 9, 11
PLACE: Campus Center Aud. (CCA)
ADMISSION: $1.50 (75¢ - 5:00 show)

Windows delay WMUA station opening

By DAVID LINTON
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts radio station, WMUA, was forced to delay opening its new studio in the Campus Center when a Physical Plant building inspector Monday, found the windows and their trim to be improperly installed.

"They (windows) are not mounted in as well as they could be," Linda Kenyon, the station's news director said. "They could possibly cause personal injury."

The new studio, which cost $130,000, was contracted by R.A.B. Construction, Carl Lowman, The radio station's general manager said. But the windows and trim were installed by a sub-contractor, he said.

A spokesperson from R.A.B. Construction in Chicopee said the window installations were done by A & L Glass, also of Chicopee. He denied the windows were unsafe and said any necessary corrections would be made.

The owners of A & L Glass could not be reached for comment yesterday.

Lowman said the window installations are important in soundproofing the studio, which is located in Room 102 of the Campus Center. He said the faulty installations cause the sound "to bleed from studio to studio," making noise from the master control room audible in the newsroom.

Lowman said the sound could only come through the double window pane installations because "there is an overabundance of insulation" in the walls and ceilings of the studio. He said the faulty work was also visible.

R.A.B. will begin repair work Feb. 13, Lowman said, and the work will take about a week to complete. He said the contractors are bound by contractual obligations.

After all the repairs are completed, Lowman said the station should be able to begin broadcasting from the Campus Center Feb. 20. Lowman said he hopes to make a "smooth transition" from Cashin and said he thinks the station would not be "off the air at all."

"This whole thing is like an omen. It's been one setback after another," Lowman said. Setbacks began with the station's expulsion from Marston Hall last June, Lowman said and continued when work on the studios had been delayed in January after UMass officials prevented R.A.B. from working during the asbestos removal project.

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

ALL ALONE — Vonnie Rhee, an international relations major from Smith College, waits for a bus under the night lights of the Fine Arts Center.

Boyden courts should be ready Monday

By DAVID LINTON
Collegian Staff

Physical education classes and basketball intramural games postponed because of floor repairs in Boyden Gymnasium will resume Monday, according to University of Massachusetts officials, unless the contractors fail to meet their Feb. 12 deadline.

William Marren, a Physical Plant project engineer said yesterday that work crews with the contracting firm, Mari and Sons, were "working around the clock" to meet the deadline. He said the contractors still had to paint the basketball, volleyball and squash court stripes and cover the floor with three coats of sealer.

"We have every assurance that the thing will be playable Monday morning," Marren said.

Students enrolled in the 33 class sections are being "slightly inconvenienced" by the delay, said Russell Kidd, assistant to the director of the general physical education program. Tennis, soccer, volleyball, basketball, badminton, frisbee and lacrosse classes which were to have met in the gymnasium have been postponed until Monday, Kidd said.

Basketball intramurals are also being postponed until Monday, affecting some 1900 students in the 22 intramural leagues, said Franklin Wright, director of the intramural program. Intramurals were scheduled to begin Feb. 2, he said, which means each team will play one game less than the planned five game round robin emtournament.

The $75,000 project originally specified the repair of 4,000 square feet for $47,800 by Jan. 31, according to Marren, but UMass officials decided to add another 5,000 square feet to the contracted repairs and extended the deadline, he said.

Funding for the repairs was taken from the administration and finance budget, Marren said. The original floor, which exceeds 44,000 square feet, is more than 20 years old. The 9,000 square feet of floor is being repaired because they have been worn and could have become a safety hazard, he said.

Marren said that he and John Volpe, assistant to the dean of physical education, John DeNyse, vice-chancellor of administration and finance, Edmund Ryan, chief design and project engineer and David Bischoff, dean of physical education, mutually agreed to increase the extent of the repairs.

University increases study space

By CAMDEN PIERCE
Collegian Staff

Meeting rooms in the Campus Center will now be open for study space on a trial basis, according to Sandy Forbes, building operations coordinator for the Campus Center Board of Governors (BOG).

In response to student pressure for more study space in the Campus Center, Forbes said unscheduled conference rooms will automatically be opened for study space.

Students interested in using the rooms should check the room scheduling list, posted daily near the elevators on every floor in the Campus Center, or inquire at the information desk on the Campus Center concourse.

Forbes said the Campus Center has become a popular place to study because of its convenience and proximity to the Hatch and the Coffee Shop. But problems with overcrowding in the Music Library and "competition between the Blue Wall and the Music Library" have led to complaints, he added.

Rock events at the Blue Wall have distracted some students in the Music Room, just across the concourse, Forbes said.

The use of the meeting rooms as study space will depend on the responsibility of the students who use them, Forbes said. The Business Operations Office has expressed fear that students will abuse the rooms, but Forbes said he and BOG member Peter Reardon were able to get permission to open the rooms on the basis of their successful use during finals week last semester.

"It worked so well last semester. It really should be made available this semester," Forbes said.

Lecture explores the Kibbutz

By CAMDEN PIERCE
Collegian Staff

Almost since the turn of the century, the Kibbutz movement in Israel has endured as a cooperative way of life structured to allow its members the opportunity to become who they really are, a representative of the movement said last night at the University of Massachusetts.

Israel Maizel, a social psychologist who grew up in a Kibbutz said the communal way of life in the Kibbutz is not for everybody. He said this is evident from the fact that only three percent of the Israeli population lives in the nation's 260 Kibbutz, and 50 percent of the people who grow up in the Kibbutz choose to leave when they become adults.

But for those who remain, the Kibbutz strives to create a situation which encourages personal exploration, "to find a way a person can get a better way to express himself," Maizel said.

Collegian photo by Dave Deuber

Social psychologist Israel Maizel spoke last night at the University of Massachusetts about life in the Kibbutz.

The children in a Kibbutz are educated into the movement's philosophy of cooperation and communality, Maizel said. They are brought up in a social environment in which "work is almost a religion," he said. In the Kibbutz one often works "from first dawn to last light, and sometimes even more," he said.

Yet the principle behind the hard work of Kibbutz members is not output, Maizel said. "It's not what is your productivity, but what is your effort. It's being connected with your work," he said.

Emphasizing sharing and working together, Maizel said the Kibbutz movement has demonstrated "cooperation can bring more, and not competition." In Israel, the Kibbutz produce 60 percent of the nation's food, and 20 percent of the country's industry, with only three percent of the population.

The average Kibbutz member produces two or three times what his or her more conventional fellow citizen produces, he said. "It's not because people in the Kibbutz are stronger or smarter, but because they have combined forces," he said.

Get your work published

University Press helps writers

By LAURA YEE
Collegian Staff

Aspiring, talented writers need look no further than the University of Massachusetts Press to submit a piece of work for publication. These determined writers can follow the example of former UMass student Nancy Jane, who wrote "Bicycle Touring in the Pioneer Valley" while earning a degree in natural resources. The Press later published her work in 1978.

Both nationally and internationally recognized, The Press produces books ranging from "texts, specialized studies in science and natural resources, to topical books and poetry," said Press marketing manager Ralph Kaplan.

"Basically, anyone could have a manuscript reviewed for print. The editorial staff of the Press reads the works and selects the ones that will go on to outside readers who are authorities in the field of that particular manuscript (usually scholars and UMass faculty). It is then sent to the Press Committee who further review the work and give it final approval," Kaplan said.

Kaplan said the author of a manuscript proposed for publication is usually not paid.

"They (authors) are sometimes paid, but that's up to the director. More often, a royalty schedule in the contract is signed upon acceptance of the committee, but money is usually paid on reprint," Kaplan said.

The Press was established in 1964 to publish books of outstanding and artistic merit, Kaplan said. According to the 1983 annual report of the Press Committee, the Press has received national recognition and has been a recipient of various awards and grants.

Last year, the Press published 26 new books out of the 628 manuscripts submitted, reprinted nine titles and shipped over 54,000 individual volumes bearing the imprint of the University of Massachusetts to customers worldwide.

★ Friedan

Continued from page 1

In terms of women's political force, Friedan said it took time for the political candidates and the party bosses to understand that "women were not a 10 percent minority but a 51 percent majority."

Friedan, who has endorsed presidential candidate Walter Mondale, said she is running as a Mondale delegate in order to "sharpen" the focus on women's issues.

Contact Lenses replaced

Bausch & Lomb or AOSoft $25. each

Price of other brands on request
We need your contact lens prescription and will have your lens in 2-3 days.

Norman Spencer MD
170 University Dr. 256-8561

ROCK & ROLL • JAZZ • SOUL

MAXELL XL II 90 $2.38 each
MAXELL XL II S90 $3.00 each
TDK SA 90 $2.38 each.

DYNAMITE RECORDS
from Rimsky Korsakov to Little Walter
Thornes, a marketplace plus!
• CLASSICAL • R & B • 584-1580

Summer and Fall internships available for all majors

Call or visit the Office of Internships to sign up for a Planning Session

Office of Internships
16 Curry Hicks
545-0727

Spring Break '84
A Trip With Class
for a Student's Price
A 7 day cruise aboard the S.S. Mardi Gras visiting Mexico, Jamaica and the Cayman Islands

Ship sails from Miami 4 PM, March 18, 1984. Returns 8 AM, March 25, 1984
- All meals, up to 8 a day
- 2 Outdoor pools—1 Indoor pool
- Midnight buffet • Night club shows
- On board casino • Singles cocktail party
- Full health club and much, much more!
- Poolside snacks for only $561.00!

Round trip airfare from Logan Airport in Boston to Miami for $209.00
Round trip trainfare via Amtrack from N.Y. to Miami for $175.00
All payments due by February 18, 1984
For further information call:
Carroll Travel at (413) 256-8931
15 Cowles Lane
Amherst, MA 01002

COMPUTER TERMINAL RENTAL
by COMPUTERM
- Save time & aggravation by renting your own terminal; or split a rental with friends!

Note: rentals will communicate with Cyber, Vax, and any other mainframe computer.

for RENT. . .
RCA TERMINALS (Model VP-3501) 120.00 per semester
- Fully detachable keyboard
- Built in direct connect modem (300 baud)

use with your black & white or color TV (color graphics)
no messy software needed!!

for SALE. . .
RCA COMPLETE TERMINALS Model VP4801TD 598.00
- Detachable full stroke keyboard with the 16 key numerical pad
- Auto Dial • Auto Log On • Printer Port
- 80/40 character display format
- 12 inch green phosphor monitor Model VP4801 w/o monitor 399.00

Call COMPUTERM: M-F (5 pm-11 pm) Sat & Sun (10 am-10 PM)
MIKE (413) 549-0393

MEN.... ATTENTION.... WOMEN
MODELS WANTED******

A major manufacturer of professional hair care products needs models to show the latest hair styles at a professional hair stylist beauty show. Models receive a consultation from the internationally known stylist who will be conducting the demonstration. This is an excellent opportunity to have your hair styled by one of todays finest hairdressers. We need models to show the latest styles including permanent waves, color and newest cuts. For more information and registration please call Robbins Beauty Supply, out of town use toll free 1-800-332-9550; ask for show department: or come directly to model call on. . .

Sunday, February 12th, 1984
Holyoke Holiday Inn (Ingleside Exit Rt 91)
Lobby Area 12:00 noon

. . .look for Mr. Patrick Parenty of the Nucleic A Company
The show will be held at the Holyoke Holiday Inn on Monday February 13th, 1984.
For further information from the manufacturer call Patrick Parenty at 201-531-1705.

DINNER FOR TWO IS JUST THE BEGINNING.

The Amherst Downtown Council in cooperation with WFCR radio and the Fine Arts Center is sponsoring A Valentine's Day Giveaway Drawing Dinner for Two at . . .

• Charlie's • Lord Jeffery Inn
• Daisy's • Plumbley's
• Delano's • The Pub
• LaRaclette

They'll also receive two dance tickets to an evening's entertainment at the Fine Arts Center for one of the following Spring performances
• Les Ballets Jazz de Montreal
• Springfield Symphony featuring Jean Pierre Rampal
• Philip Jones Brass Ensemble
• Murray Louis Dance Company
• Concord String Quartet
• Johnny Griffin Chico Freeman

(Tickets contributed by the University of Massachusetts Fine Arts Center.)

ENTER YOUR NAME IN THE DRAWING FEBRUARY 1ST THRU FEBRUARY 14TH AT ANY DOWNTOWN COUNCIL MEMBER BUSINESS DISPLAYING THIS SIGN

DRAWINGS TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 14TH. DECISION OF JUDGES IS FINAL. WINNERS WILL BE NOTIFIED FEBRUARY 15TH.

NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

(Owners and managers of Downtown Council businesses are not eligible.)

FEBRUARY 14

Last Day to Advertise for Valentine's Day is Friday February 10

Classifieds and displays

RT. 47 SUNDERLAND
You must be 18 to enter
Open 'til 2
665-4937
24 Hour Taped Message

The rusty nail Inn PROUDLY PRESENTS

Tonight — Wire Train and Rapture of the Deep
Friday 10th — NFL Fountainhead
Saturday 11th — Dish a womans band

COMING:
15th Los Lobos
16th Crystal Ship
17th Girls Night Out
18th Stompers
24th John Butcher Axis

"TWO GREAT SALES IN ONE"
JOIN YOUR OLYMPIANS AND GO FOR JOSTENS GOLD.

$25 OFF ALL 14K GOLD RINGS

See Your Jostens Representative for details of Jostens Easy Payment Plans.

Date: Feb. 8, 9, 10 - Wed, Thur, Fri
Time: 10:30 - 3 pm
Place: University Store
Deposit: $15.

Jostens

JOSTENS IS THE OFFICIAL AWARDS SUPPLIER OF THE 1984 OLYMPIC GAMES.

KAPPA SIGMA
OPEN RUSH
Tonite 8 PM

★★★★ KΣ Highlights ★★★★

Captain Golf Team - Casey Scavone
Captain Football Team - Gary Frecker
Captain Rugby Team - Brent Goldstein
Captain Wrestling Team -Scott MacQuaide

Intramural Ice Hockey Champions

29 members on N.E. Champion Rugby Team

High Fraternity G.P.A.

call 545-3197 for more info
Located next to Gorman Dorm

Students to attend conference

By MIRIAM ZOLL
Collegian Staff

To help students play an important role in the 1984 presidential elections, student leaders from around the country will meet this weekend in Cambridge to develop a national strategy.

The National Student Voter Registration Conference at Harvard University will feature such speakers as consumer advocate Ralph Nader, former Congresswoman Bella Abzug, and Sen. George McGovern, presidential hopeful from South Dakota.

"Student workshops on organizing and strengthening student power will also be held," said Cindy Jacques, a member of the University of Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MassPIRG) national coordinator for the event.

"On November 6, students will determine the nation's course, either by voting or by defaulting. Unless we are registered, we won't be heard," Jacques said.

Out of the 48 million Americans not registered to vote, 14 million are between the ages of 18-24, she said.

"Students have shown throughout history that when we organize, we can powerfully impact the issues we care about," said Jacques. "Yet, although we have the potential to be an influential political force, we are the most disenfranchised group of voters."

At least one student from every state is expected to participate in the three-day conference.

The United States Student Association (USSA) and MassPIRG sent informational packets and letters to students expressing the urgency for making student voter registration a priority in 1984.

The USSA and MassPIRG began "laying the groundwork" for the national student conference last December she said.

"We originally planned on having 500 students attend this weekend's conference," Jacques said, "but now we have close to 2,000."

Campus leaders, including student government presidents, college newspaper editors, and student issues leaders have endorsed the national conference in hopes of launching a growing student movement, she said.

Approximately 35 to 40 UMass students as well as representatives from 11 Campus organizations are registered to attend the Harvard conference.

3 day conference begins tonight

A conference to explore the prospects and problems of the world's political economy will be held tonight through Sunday at Mount Holyoke College.

Joyce B. Rabens, an international economist in the department of State's Office of Trade, will deliver a keynote address at 8 p.m. tonight in Pratt Auditorium.

Tomorrow, University of Massachusetts professor of economics Carmen Deere and Ann Hollic, a professor at the Center for International Studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will participate in a panel discussion to address "A Definition of the World Economic Crisis--Its Political and Economic Roots." The discussion will be held at 1 p.m. in Gamble Auditorium.

Barbara Stallings, a political science professor at the University of Wisconsin, will give a keynote address at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Gamble Auditorium.

A debate on whether major international financial institutions should make extraordinary efforts to assist states coping with massive debt crises is scheduled for Saturday. Professor of politics at Catholic University James O'Leary, and Martin McLaughlin, a consultant to the U.S. Catholic Conference, will address the 1 p.m. debate in Gamble Auditorium.

These events, as part of Mt. Holyoke College's sixth annual Student Conference on International Affairs, are free and open to the public.

— CAMDEN PIERCE

The UMass Music Theatre Guild Proudly Presents. . .

THE ROCKY MIDNIGHT EXPERIENCE

An Adaptation of Everyone's Favorite Midnight Movie
Thursday - Saturday, Feb. 9, 10, 11 8 p.m. and 12 p.m.
Hampden Theatre, Southwest
Saturday, Feb. 25, 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.
Barracks, Worcester Dining Commons
ABSOLUTELY FREE!!
Supported and Funded by: Umass Arts Council, Student Government Association, and SW Area Government.

9West

- Ready, Set, Go! All leather action shoes...three eyelet-tie on Velcro closure - soft supple leathers in blue, pink, grey, white, teal, lilac. Come See!

SHOE BIN
187 n. pleasant st. amherst

Open Sunday

THURSDAY

- AT THE PUB -

LITE SKI NIGHT

Sponsored By

Miller Lite and Berkshire East

- Drink Specials All Night -

• 50¢ Miller Lite Draughts • 2.50 Pitchers •

• Two for One on all Liquor Drinks 9 til 11 •

• First 100 People a free Bottle of Lite •

starting at 9:00 PM

Lite

Great taste... less filling

- MUSIC BY RACK-A-DISC -

• Requests Welcome •

and

Special Prizes to be Given Away

• Over 50 Berkshire East Night Passes

• C B Jackets

• Obmeyer Turtlenecks

• Ski Hats • Ski Bags

• Ski Ties •

BERKSHIRE EAST

South River Road,

Charlemont, Mass.

THE PUB

15 E. Pleasant St.,

AMHERST

BERKSHIRE EAST SKI AREA

UMASS MUSIC THEATRE GUILD

Announces

AUDITIONS

for

"Grease"

A Spring/Outdoor production

Feb. 13 & 14 @ 7:00 pm

at the Student Union Ballroom

Have a prepared song (preferably from "Grease") and dressed to move!

Flashdance

Thursday, February 9

5:00 - $1.00

7, 9, 11 - $1.50

Campus Center Auditorium

Sponsored by: Zeta Psi

University agrees to pay $5000

(AP) The University of Massachusetts has agreed to pay a $5,000 fine for keeping laboratory animals in dirty, cramped cages and not providing sufficient veterinary care, officials said.

"This has been a longstanding problem and we just got to the point where we decided we had to write it up as a violation," Dr. David Galbreath, a Boston representative of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said yesterday.

Galbreath, acting veterinarian in charge of the U.S.D.A.'s Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Massachusetts, said most of the animals involved were rabbits.

R. Glenn Brown, chairman of the University's Animal Care Committee and a professor of Food Science and Nutrition, said about 100 animals were involved and that problems were being corrected.

"We've taken steps to make sure that this never happens again," he said. "The caging, frankly, was old but that goes along with our low budget. It's being replaced with new caging."

He said buildings also were being improved.

The government is allowing the University to use the civil fine to improve care for animals and the school has agreed to avoid future violations.

The violations were observed on three occasions between July 1982 and February 1983, according to a government statement issued last week. USDA cited seven research centers for storing food supplies improperly, not keeping feeders and cages clean, not providing sufficient medical care, and keeping animals in cages that were too small.

Brown said the rabbits were kept for use in behavioral studies and as producers of antibodies, and were not subject to vivisection. The animals lived in laboratories throughout the campus, including the departments of natural sciences, math, natural resources and social studies.

Emotionally disturbed given a new start

By DANIEL SOBEL
Collegian Staff

A new school for emotionally disturbed children and those with learning disabilities is taking a new approach to education and offers internships to University of Massachusetts students in the spring, fall and summer semesters.

The International School Akapecha (meaning, start new, my friend) was founded in October 1982 by Jerrell Bible and Eric Laursen and is located in Mathews County, Virginia, said Britta Rasmussen, a school cook.

Students, aged 8 to 18, most coming from institutions, spend half their time in the classroom and the other half traveling in the United States and abroad, learning about different cultures and societies.

"We teach the kids they have the ability of being active, responsible human beings," Rasmussen said. "For this purpose we take them out and put them in the middle where things are going on." Rasmussen noted that in traveling, students can witness current world problems, and gain a perspective of their own problems.

The racially mixed school has an enrollment of 25 students and is completely subsidized by the state of Virginia.

Rasmussen said the school has four principles of education: to develop hand and brain skills, mobility, to learn to live together and to learn the skill of curiosity and exploration.

The goal of the school is to prepare students for their high school equivalency tests and possibly prepare them to go on to college as well as provide a learning environment which will prepare them for the outside world, Rasmussen said.

Students interested can contact the school or the internship office in Curry Hicks.

I&R Travel Inc. present

"SPRING BREAK 84"

- Round Trip Jet from Boston to Ft. Lauderdale Only $199
- 7 Nights at the Lamp Lighter or Riviera located ¾ miles from the beach Only $119
- Price includes FREE Admission to the Button and a FREE Drink Everyday!! Also, a Beer Blast Party Friday at Penrods FREE Beer from 2-3!!
- Daytona Beach: Bus Tour leaves right from UMass Campus Center and returns back to UMass Campus Center plus 7 Nights on the Ocean Only $175
- Bermuda: Airfare, 7 Nights Only $289 FREE Lunch Everyday!!
- Bahamas: Freeport & Nassau Airfare, 7 Nights Only $279 and $299

Limited Space Available
For Information & Reservation call

FOR THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE

Rob 546-1201 Ira 546-5422

The Students of Stockbridge School of Agriculture present the 7th Annual Professional Agriculture Convention

Wednesday, Feb. 15 9 am - 5 pm
Campus Center Auditorium UMass
Theme: Communications in Agriculture

Seminars Job Mart
Industrial Exhibits Student Displays

Business Administration Majors

Sherwin-Williams provides your career with direction.

We're a major Fortune 200 Company and a leader in the coatings industry. Our long-term commitment to management development provides immediate entry level management positions to energetic and qualified candidates who complete our formal Management Training and Development Program.

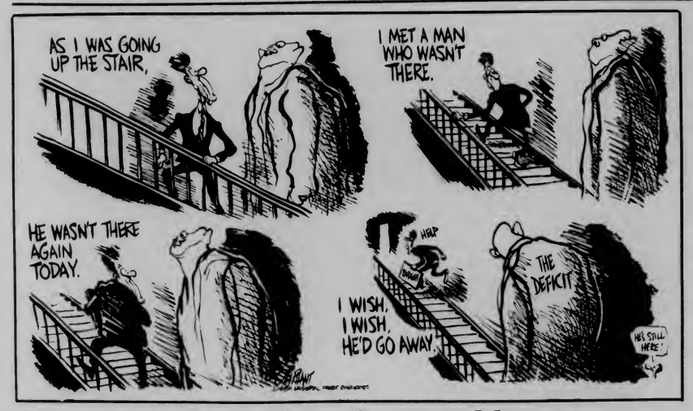
Due to major expansion, we are seeking graduates for our Program with the following qualifications:

- Degree in Business Administration
- Above average GPA
- Some work experience while attending college
- Have the drive to succeed
- Relocatable within the state or region

Our Success Package includes:

- Comprehensive five week Management Training School out of state, completely company paid
- Excellent starting salary — bonus upon completion of formal training
- Well defined career path — leading quickly to management responsibilities
- Frequent formal performance evaluation program to measure your progress
- Complete benefits package from an international billion dollar plus company

If you're ready to progress with a well defined career path and opportunities for rapid advancement, "ask Sherwin Williams". Contact your College Placement Office for further information. If you are unable to interview, please send us your resume.



We will be on campus: Thursday, March 1

Personnel Director
THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS COMPANY
Stores Division
555 East City Line Avenue
Bala Cynwyd, PA 19004

An Equal Opportunity Employer M F H V

SHERWIN WILLIAMS

EDITORIAL/OPINION

Rape: a crime misunderstood by many

The back of the Hatch is a common study place as well as a conversation place. It is a good place to talk to friends or just listen to conversations.

I'm not the nosey type, but sometimes people talk too loudly, making it impossible not to overhear their conversations. A few days ago, two men were sitting next to me while I ate a corned beef on rye.

Rita Murphy

"Did you see that movie the other night 'when she says no?' It was about this chick who said she was raped. She was out with these three guys and invited them up to her apartment. The tease. She led them on and then decided she didn't want it. They couldn't help themselves. They got arrested for rape, can you believe it?"

I didn't see "When she says no?" I knew it was on t.v., but didn't watch it because I've seen very few movies, let alone t.v. movies, that accurately define rape. What most movies and t.v. shows do is perpetuate the myths surrounding rape. They help to funnel false perceptions into society of who is raped and who rapes.

Rape is a crime. It is a violent crime. It is not a passionate crime. Those who rape are criminals, but often times they are not treated as such. Much of the blame should go to a criminal justice system which does not only understand rape, but which makes little attempt to.

Rape is not a crime of sexual passion, but some people think it is. A few months ago, a judge in the south gave two convicted rapists the option of either spending twenty years in jail or of being castrated. If a man robbed a bank with a gun would a judge be content with taking away the gun and letting the man go?

A crude comparison at best, but it does make a point.

Case in point. A few years ago a judge gave a man a suspended sentence after he admitted raping his five-year old step daughter. The judge said because the girl was overly "promiscuous" the man could not be fully blamed for his actions. "Any chick who invites three guys up to her room is asking for it. There's a point when she can't say no. And when she does she means yes."

One major myth in our society is that when a woman says no she really means yes. Why can't a woman say no? And why can't she be believed when she does? Why can't a woman invite a man or men to her apartment without them assuming "she wants it?"

"I don't know how she could say she was raped, she didn't have any bruises or anything. She just wanted the publicity."

A woman does not, or at least should not, have to show physical wounds to prove she was raped. While rape is often accompanied by a beating, many times the woman suffers only from emotional scars. I hesitate to use the word only because the emotional trauma of rape is an incredible experience which is difficult but not impossible to overcome.

"I know one thing, if any girl invites me up to her room, I'm not leaving no matter how many times she says no."

It's a shame there are so many ignorant people in the world. It's an even greater shame they talk so loudly.

Rita Murphy is a Collegian Columnist

A real difference in character

When negotiating in arms control with the Soviet Union, we must analyze the many differences between our two societies, governments, and international behavior.

First, the United States is an open society, while the Soviet Union is a closed one. We seek the rule of the law, while their official morality, as stated by Lenin, is that what is moral is whatever serves the interest of the class struggle. To them, lies about the KAL Airliner tragedy, yellow rain, and many arms treaty violations are not unethical, but are the only moral courses of action.

Reactions to the Korean Airliner tragedy and other Soviet atrocities are a reinforcing reminder of just how different the Soviet's concept of truth and international cooperation is from that of the rest of the civilized world.

Peter Dow

Of course, we do have to live on the same planet with the Soviets, and we need to keep open the long-run possibility of reaching an arms agreement with them. But in trying to achieve such goals, we must find some way to induce the Soviets to change their belligerent and deceitful behavior so horribly demonstrated in the Korean Airliner tragedy, and so often repeated in the arms negotiations themselves.

Consider for a moment some of the major treaty violations by the Soviets. In 1975, we negotiated the Helsinki Accords, whereby the Soviet government would gradually slacken their emigration restrictions. But the promised freedoms have not been met, in fact, Soviet emigration has been severely curtailed in recent years, while the number of requests to leave have been dramatically increasing.

In 1975 we also negotiated the Biological Weapons Treaty, to ban the production and use of chemical weapons. Within a few months of the agreement, native villagers in Laos were being gassed by Soviet produced and supplied "yellow rain." These same atrocities occurred in 1979 when the Soviet Union invaded Afganistan, and still continue today.

After analyzing the effects of yellow rain in Afganistan and Southeast Asia, what conclusions can we draw concerning the character of the current Soviet leadership? Clearly, these men in the Kremlin have no moral discomfort about using chemical weapons considered too atrocious and barbaric to use even in total war, like World War II.

As long as this Soviet attitude and behavior continues, no arms treaties should be produced. For now we should suspend the arms talks, and rely on the balance of military power to maintain deterence. We should return to the bargaining table only when we believe the Soviets are ready to turn serious, perhaps when there is a change in the Kremlin leadership.

As the editor of the Wall Street Journal recently said, "the true outrage to morality is not inanimate lumps of steel and plutonium buried in Montana (as many "freeze" supporters maintain), but the sordid deaths of Hmong tribesmen and Afgan Freedom Fighters in Asia."

It should be obvious by now that the Soviet motives for signing these treaties (and others, such as SALT I) had nothing to do with peace, and everything to do with exploiting the arms agreements to prevent the West from either matching their developments, or from applying our superior technology.

It is not surprising that the unparalleled Soviet military buildup coincides with the era of arms negotiation; the arms control process has effectively restrained the United Fates without restraining the Soviet Union.

Peter Dow is a UMass student

Editorial Notes
On the Reagan budget

To the Editor,

Last week the Reagan Administration released its proposed 1985 budget, and as is typical every year in Washington, it became an instant bestseller, but by no means a critical success. Like a bad Stephen King novel, it was scary in parts and just unbelievable in other spots. Even Reagan insiders admitted that it was an election year piece of fiction.

In an economic message, which Reagan made as a preface to his "pulp novel budget" he stressed, "Bold, vigorous fiscal policy action to break the momentum of entrenched spending (is) essential to the nation's future economic health." He said that high deficits raise "the specter of sharply higher interest rates, choked off investment, renewed recession and rising unemployment."

Yet the final draft of his budget does little if anything to make any substantial cut in the deficit. Rather for political expediency, he places the deficit issue on the back-burner until after the election. The White House believes that voters don't really care about how much the government owes as long as they don't see the effects of these expenditures on their own tax bills.

Senator Paul Laxalt, chairman of the Committee to Re-elect, feels that deficits are "a yawner. We, as Republicans, have talked about deficits and budgets since the days of Roosevelt, and the people simply haven't listened, because they can't relate to those huge numbers." In other words its only an important issue when it's a reasonably moderate Democratic deficit, not when it's an incredibly over-bloated Republican deficit.

The budget gets even more horrifying than this though. The American public is the victim in this cheap thriller, while the Reagan administration is the menacing axe murderer. Education, natural resources, and the environment are all getting the axe with cuts as high as 8 percent. At the same time, the defense budget received a whopping 15 percent increase to 272 billion dollars. This resulted in a total overall rise in spending of 8.4 percent from $853.8 billion to $925.5 billion.

How will figures like these affect our future? No one can be completely sure. However, most economists believe that the Reagan administration is leading us down the road to disaster, not recovery.

In a recent Time magazine article Edward Yardeni, chief economist of Prudential-Bache Securities, commented, "One of the primary concerns confronting investors as they look ahead to 1984 and 1985 is the size of the federal deficit and the possibility that it could push interest rates higher and put an end to the recovery."

In the final analysis like in any tale of horror, the President will leave us in a sea of red--not blood, but ink.

Kevin Sweeney McNamara

Random Notes
More on '84

It's that time of the month." I said, looking at the last digit of my license plate. The number two means inspection time for my bug. The "Angry Young Beetle," as I affectionately call it was due for an annual check-up. Almost over the hill at the tender age of twelve, this car has seen better decades but even after all those years, it still manages to make that all important trip to the package store. So I was hesitant approaching this new emmission control thing. I knew what would come next -- the interrogations, the manipulating until finally my car, too, would become a convert.

Time was when all you had to do to get a sticker in Massachusetts was flash your lights and beep the horn in and out in less than five minutes; it was almost fun! The minor inconvenience of doling out three bucks was soon forgotten when the new sticker sat primly on the windshield--sometimes with cute phrases on the back: "A little courtesey won't kill you." Bay-state drivers could start a revolution by using directionals. Anyway since the new inspection now checks the exhaust fumes, made sure it was pumped up with the finest octane available; naturally, I chose super-premium unleaded gasoline. The "super" stands for expensive, but that was minor compared to what I forked over for chemicals including gas treatment, carboarater cleaner, and other assorted goodies. I can't remember pampering that car so well the year we took it cross country. But this was more important, so across town I ventured with an engine ready for the Indy 500. I was ready; so was Big Brother.

Big Brother is the brain behind inspection '84. Your car every move is monitored by the watchful screen. The process involves a long metallic probe which is inserted into the tailpipe. Apparently this magnesium enema is a necessary and standard procedure to measure the "flora carbons" present in exhaust gasses. In five seconds it was all over, Big Brother saw right through my engines guise and was flashing "invalid RPMs."

Upon returning to the newly named Ministry of Purity the next week, I wondered if I would still recognize it. My thoughts were soon answered however, when I was presented with the bill for its rehabilitation--We're united once again, but the magic, (in the form of greenbacks) has left. My car has joined the ranks--a 1984 convert.

By Thilo Thamhain
Johnson dorm

Overscheduling—a big problem

From the many who are concerned and angry and who would like to see some changes.

The basis for this letter is to express both frustration and disgust that so many students experience every semester in attempts to register for both required and desired courses.

Scott D. Plath

A great deal of students are accepted to the University of Massachusetts but as members of CASIAC and they are told that they must "work towards acceptance" into the various majors such as Management or HRTA due to limited space, faculty, etc. As freshmen and sophomores we/they are confined to electives and core requirements as preference is awarded to declared majors and upperclassmen in the majority of classes on this campus that have limited space.

Based on our experiences we were left with 100 level courses and English classes and the hopes that as upperclassmen we would be afforded these same considerations. As it turned out, this would not be entirely so.

After four semesters of "working towards acceptance" into the HRTA program I was finally accepted this past summer. The news filled me with pride and visions of "smooth sailing" in my final two years. Weeks later I received my fall schedule to find that I was granted only two of the courses I pre-registered for and one happened to be an English elective (pre-registered as an alternate selection). When I returned to campus with my two courses and attempted to submit a change of major form the head of the HRTA department, Dr. Fletcher, explained that "unfortunately", due to actions of the previous provost directly affecting the HRTA program, a number of students' acceptances were reversed. There is no need for me to express the disguest and contempt I felt for the administration of this University. Thanks to Dr. Fletcher agreements were reached and students were reinstated soon thereafter.

Well, as another semester begins things get no better. Again I received only two classes as another was "oversubscribed" and another was restricted to the class of 84 and 85 and granted to freshmen and sophomores due to a "computer error"! This situation is inexcusable, although we who have every right to take that class now know better than to hope for the situation to be corrected. Due to this one senseless error many of us have been forced to search and beg all week in hopes that maybe one professor will show compassion enough to ignore the allotted student enrollment and sign us in. I can no longer afford to take a damned elective and have been turned down in exactly six upper level management courses, and all upper level HRTA courses. Every single one has been "oversubscribed". This is ridiculous and can not be tolerated.

We strongly question both the morality and legality of situations that exist at UMass that deprive so many students of courses they both want and need. Many students like myself spend all the money we have and earn in order that we may remain enrolled in this University that some of us were disillusioned into believing we could receive a proper, satisfactory education at, if we wanted to. This is a falsehood. We do not have the power here to control our destiny. We are unable to take half the courses we choose.

This University has a responsibility to provide its students with the full and proper education that we pay for. Tuition should guarantee the chance to take not only courses required but those that hold an interest for us. There is no excuse for the fact that I have received less than one third of all the classes I have pre-registered for.

How many classes are oversubscribed semester after semester? And how many of these are expanded accordingly to accomodate student demand? When will the reallocation of resources to high demand areas take place and when will the great number of vacant faculty positions be filled? Finally, when will this University realize that in a quality education the first responsibility lies with student considerations and if the administration cannot provide us adequately with what we pay for, when will it begin to be honest with incoming freshmen and warn them of the inevitable frustrations they will face?!?

Scott D. Plath is a UMass student

We need columnists!
Stop by the Editorial Desk
Anyday 2 to 6 p.m.

GLIMMERS OF AMIABILITY AS GROMYKO AND SHULTZ MEET IN PRIVATE.

Policy Ed
Do yourself a favor and register

This week marks the occasion of "UMass Big Vote '84," perhaps the biggest voter registration drive in UMass history. The drive ends next Tuesday, and organizers hope to register 2500 students by the end of this week. You can register even if you have already registered in another state or town.

So far the drive has been an impressive success. Almost 1200 students were registered in the first two days, signing up at voter registration booths on the Campus Center Concourse and in the Dining Commons. This show of student force has been extremely impressive according to several organizers of the drive.

Students have historically been the most underrepresented voting bloc in the country. Half of the people between the ages of 18 and 24 are not registered. Since this group is one-quarter of the total population, the number of unregistered young adults up to 14 million. This number of voters, if mobilized, could significantly alter the political landscape of this country for the better. Lack of voting will have the reverse effect.

Student apathy is even worse at UMass. As of last April, 14 percent of the 10,613 dorm residents were registered. Thirty-one percent of off-campus students were registered too, a more staggering fact because they live here, and could vote in candidates who support rent control and other issues beneficial to students. This year, statistics for registration have already risen, and will continue to rise by the end of the drive. But every student must register, and follow through by voting in the Democratic presidential primaries, in the race for the open state Senate seat and in every other election and referenda that will determine the course and quality of life for the next few years.

Students often say that registering and voting is a waste of time, and that they can't affect the political process. They are dangerously wrong. Politicians often win by what Rev. Jesse Jackson last week called "the error or separation," in which the coalitions needed to change defeat into victory are lost by small numbers of people who don't vote. In the past, the students who complain the loudest have often been the ones who never even registered in the first place. We can't let that happen again.

Policy editorials reflect the majority opinion of the Collegian Board of Editors

Letters

Social awareness this spring

To the Editor,

We appreciated your front-page article of Monday, February 6, regarding the Office of Human Relations and the Forums which it is sponsoring this Spring. Two points of clarification seem necessary however:

1) The activities of the Office of Human Relations are not limited to issues of racism, sexism, and anti-Semitism, as your article suggests. Homophobia, handicappism, ageism, and issues of the workplace are also of concern.

2) Similarly, the Human Relations Forums sponsored by the Office are not as limited in scope as indicated in your article. The purpose of these open forums is to provide faculty, staff, and students an opportunity to identify and discuss a wide-range of issues which affect the quality of life and learning on the campus.

Judith Davis
Grant Ingle
Staff, Office of Human Relations

Frat ad lacks sensitivity

To the Editor,

At the beginning of each semester, the many fraternities on campus advertize their rushes in posters and Collegian advertisements in an attempt to attract underclassmen into their organizations. Each year I can count on one or two of these ads to display a particularly flagrant brand of ignorance and insensitivity, usually involving some type of sexism or general social unawareness. An ad in Tuesday's Collegian by Delta Chi outdoes any other in recent memory though.

The ad uses a worn out cliche comparing Resident Assistants to "Big Brother" in 1984, a typically ignorant response from people who don't take the time to find out what R.A.s actually do. R.A.s do more than enforce rules. They are also there to refer people to the proper agency for any help. They are the first person to respond to any emergency in the residence halls. They train people in social awareness and fight racism, sexism, anti-semitism, handicapism and homophobia. And they lend a willing ear whenever a resident just needs someone to talk to.

R.A.s have a difficult enough job without having to tolerate this kind of harassment. Instead of knocking the residence hall staffs, the people at Delta Chi should take a look at what they really do and try to incorporate some of that into their own living situations. They would be much better for it.

Field-Grayson Staff
and
Webster-Dickinson Staff

Staff meeting 7 p.m. tonight in newsroom

KAYPRO II, $1595.
COMPLETE WITH SOFTWARE.

For $1595, a Kaypro II not only comes complete with all the hardware you need, it comes complete with all the software you need:

• Word Processing/Spelling • Data Base Management (filing/reporting) • Financial Spreadsheeting. And with CP/M, Kaypro can run thousands of other programs for more specialized needs. Come in today for a complete demonstration.

KAYPRO
The Complete Business Computer.

1073 St. James Ave.
Springfield, MA 01104
413-737-4562

Mountain Farms Mall - Rt. 9
Hadley, MA 01035
413-584-3933

STUDENT and FACULTY DISCOUNTS AVAILABLE

Registered Trademarks - CP/M - Digital Research Inc.

The Pub 40

ORDER MILLER OR MILLER LITE IN
THE PUB 40*

$3.95 you KEEP the MUG!
THE PUB AMHERST
*40 OUNCES

THE AMHERST PUB
REFILLS $2.25
SEVEN DAYS A WEEK

UMASS SKI CLUB
HEAD FOR THE MOUNTAINS
UMASS SKI CLUB
TONIGHT
THURSDAY NIGHT SKIING
$9. inlcudes Lifts Refreshments & Transportation
Bus Leaves F.A.C at 5:00
* For other scheduled Ski Club events
call 545-3437

"TWO GREAT SALES IN ONE"
JOIN YOUR OLYMPIANS
AND GO FOR JOSTENS GOLD.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER

LADIES' 10K GOLD ADAGIO $20. OFF

MEN'S 10K GOLD CARAVEL $20. OFF

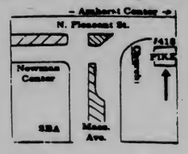
See Your Jostens Representative for details of Jostens Easy Payment Plans.

Date: Feb. 8, 9, 10 - Wed, Thur, Fri
Time: 10:30 - 3 pm
Place: University Store
Deposit: $15.

Jostens

JOSTENS IS THE OFFICIAL AWARDS SUPPLIER OF THE 1984 OLYMPIC GAMES.

Pi Kappa Alpha



We are. . .
• the Campus and Greek Area Athletic Champions
• the fraternity that does not haze
• the house that raised over $42,000 for Multiple Sclerosis

PIKE - we could be for you

RUSH PARTIES
Mon. Feb. 6 at 9 pm
Tues. Feb. 7 at 9 pm
Wed. Feb. 8 at 9 pm
Mon. Feb. 13 at 9 pm
Tues. Feb. 14 at 9 pm

Pi Kappa Alpha
TEL. 545-2150
Free Refreshments

Arts

Mummenschanz breathes new life into mime

MUMMENSCHANZ
Tuesday, Feb. 7
Fine Arts Center

By LISA MOSLEY
Collegian Staff

Mummenschanz skit: mime with a Swiss flair.

I don't like mime. Apparently, though, there are a lot of people who do. A few years ago, I suppose there were enough of them to warrent the prime-time Shields and Yarnell, a variety show hosted by a husband and wife mime team. (Maybe audiences thought this combination was a bit classier than Sonny and Cher...)

The problem with mime is that with very few exceptions (Marcle Marceau, of course, comes to mind as one), it is incredibly boring. After all, how many times, can you watch someone in whiteface pretend to be trapped in a box before you stop being fascinated, amused or even interested?

Perhaps it's my attitude that made Mummenschanz so fascinating for me. Apparently I was not alone in my fascination, for the sold out crowd in the Fine Arts Center laughed, cheered and brought the performers back for three curtain calls Tuesday night.

The troup, whose name is derived from the German words "mummen," meaning quiet, and "schanz," meaning chance (In the middle ages, people who played games of chance often wore masks to hide their expressions from the other players), has combined the more traditional aspects of pantomime, gestures without sound to relate feelings, with some very unorthadox costumes and masks. In fact, the three performers' faces were not revealed until they came out for curtain calls.

The first segment of the program must have been the biggest shock to those audience members who came expecting something akin to traditional pantomime. While the bodies of the performers were, indeed, expertly used, it was almost impossible for the audience to tell that there were bodies under the wonderful "costumes." The brief skits featured huge blob-like objects, trying to climb a ramp and a giant slinky playing catch with the audience with an orange balloon. These simple actions were surprisingly funny, in a cartoon-like, almost vaudvillian way.

Oddly enough, the audience found itself attaching various emotions to the inhuman objects. Although these objects had no faces, it was easy to "see" what facial expressions would have appeared at various times, because the slightest gestures carried a familiarity that all audience members could identify with.

The performers finished out the first act with "impersonations" of animals, including a fly. Masks were worn, but the bodies were visible for the first time, clad in black tights and leotards.

The skits in the second act depended mainly on interesting masks, and revolved around romantic involvements. In one particularly humourous piece, two "people" with "faces" made from rolls of toilet paper flirt with each other.

In the show's only serious skit, a man and woman wearing white face masks cuddle together, visciously attack each other and then eat pieces of each other's masks. Without words or even conventional actions, the performers convey the worst aspects of a relationship.

Mummenschanz* left me with a good feeling (silly as it sounds, it's the truth) and also wondering why the show hadn't been booked by the Fine Arts Center before. I hope that, like Marcel Marceau, the troup becomes an annual attraction here at the University.

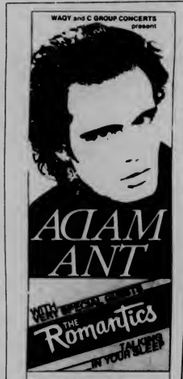
Crawling back into the spotlight

THE PRETENDERS
Learning To Crawl/Sire Records

By ED BEEN
Collegian Staff

Unless you've been living in a cave for the last month, you know that The Pretenders are back, but even better news is the strength of their return. Following the deaths of founding members James Honeyman-Scott and Pete Farndon, and the induction of Chrissie Hynde into marriage and motherhood, the future of the band seemed in question.

But as is the case with the truly greats, art imitates life and the result is a top notch album, faithful to the spirit of the earlier Pretenders with an eye on the present and future. Learning to Crawl starts off with "Middle Of The Road," perhaps their best song to date, with soul bearing lyrics like "I'm not the kind I used to be - I've got a kid I'm 33." The guitar and harmonica solos are outshined only by Hynde's cat sounds.



In "Time The Avenger," singer-songwriter-guitarist Hynde offers the quip, "Nobody's perfect - Not even a perfect stranger." Success obviously hasn't spoiled her either, as she sings in "Watching The Clothes": "On Saturday night everyone's having fun - I'm down at the laundromat trying to get my washing done."

Hynde turns her attention closer to home in "Show Me" as she welcomes her new daughter into the world, telling her that even though things are uncertain there is always hope. Ms. Hynde's beautiful vocal tremelo can make a believer of almost anyone. Side Two opens with the uptempo country tinged "Thumbelina" in which a mother and daughter drive across the U.S. as "the Oklahoma sunrise becomes the Amarillo dawn."

In "Thin Line Between Love And Hate" the title says it all, but the lines "The sweetest woman in the world - could be the meanest woman in the world if you make her that way," are equally as poignant. "I Hurt You" features a double lead vocal and a gritty guitar tone that helps to emphasize this song of revenge.

Learning to Crawl also includes last summer's sizzlers "Back On The Chain Gang" and "My City Was Gone," essentials in the Pretenders' anthology. Anyone who neglected to buy the single this summer now has a second chance. Anyone not buying it this time around has no excuse.

The album is smart and fun, it makes you think and it makes you dance, a rare combination. Hynde is in top vocal and lyrical form, and her usually underrated guitar playing keeps the unique Pretenders' sound intact. Drummer Martin Chambers plays as solidly as ever, and newcomers Robbie McIntosh (guitar), and Malcolm Foster (bass) deliver performances equally as strong. The Pretenders' new sound, slightly less slick with this album is balanced by the intense energy it generates. The end result is a must-own album, one born of life's two most intense feelings, love and pain, expertly exhibited here.

SPRINGFIELD CIVIC CENTER
Little Arena
February 26th - 8:00 pm
All tickets $11.50
General Admission Dance Floor
Reserved Arena Seating
On sale at Civic Center Box Office, Daltons and all Ticketron Outlets
Phone charge (413) 787-6600
No Hartford or Worcester appearance
DANCE CONCERT

Performing Arts Division
Music, Theater and Dance Instruction, popular and classical styles, private and group, children and adults. Walk-in Registration ends February 10. OLD CHAPEL. 545-0519

PERSONALIZED STYLE HAIRCUTS
$7.00
(with this coupon)
$10.00 with Shampoo and Blow Dry
$11.50 Long Hair
Expires 2/29/84 C
Please Call for an Appointment
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive
Amherst, MA/549-5610
FREE CONSULTATIONS

Northeast Area Government is holding elections for Vice-President and Treasurer Nomination papers can be picked up from Diane Rossi
Rm 304 Dwight
Last day to pick up nomination papers is Feb. 15. Elections will be held Feb. 23 during dinner. Voting is at Worcester Dining Commons.

Co-op Education Fair
Wed. Feb. 15 at 10:30
CC lower level
"The Benefits of Co-op Education"
speaker is Russ Johnson
Manager of US College Relations at Digital
1-4 PM workshops on paid field experience by 17 regional employers
Pick up schedule 110 Thompson hall or call 5-2579
Office for Cooperative Education
Room 110 Thompson Hall
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts 01003
(413) 545-2579

Good friends will give you a break when you're broke.

The dinner was sensational. So was the check. The problem is, the theater tickets that you insisted on buying broke your whole budget. Enough to declare bankruptcy by the time the coffee arrived.

A nudge under the table and a certain destitute look in the eye were enough to produce the spontaneous loan only a good friend is ready to make.

How do you repay him? First the cash, then the only beer equal to his generosity: Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.

© 1984 Beer Brewed in U.S.A. by Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, WI

READ THE ARTS PAGE!

Start every day refreshed!

The Collegian

DIETING?

Try a different approach. Lose weight sensibly by learning about your eating habits. Say goodbye to diets, forever! Call University Health Services, 549-2671 ext. 181 to register, deadline is February 17. Classes start February 28. Hurry, class size is limited!

TJ's

HAPPY HOUR

7 days a week!

3-7 p.m.

- Domestic beer $1.
- 12 oz. Draught beer 50¢
- most mixed drinks $1.

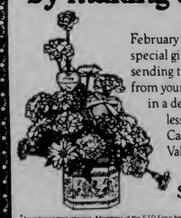
(3 p.m.-10 p.m.)

3 T.V.'s

Tuesday Night ...

LADIES' NIGHT

• pizzas • grinders • burgers • • salads • soups • chili • • calzones • steak sandwiches •



1 Bridge St., Northampton 586-1726

Hrs.: 11 a.m.-1 a.m. daily

"How to ace a test by making a phone call."

Merlin Olsen

February 14th is the big test. Show that special girl you're a sensitive, caring guy by sending the Heart-to-Heart™ Bouquet from your FTD® Florist. Beautiful flowers in a decorator tin with a sachet heart. And it's usually less than $22.50*

Call or visit your FTD Florist today. Because Valentine's Day is one big test you don't want to flunk.

Send your love with special FTD care.™

*As independent retailers, Members of the FTD Florist Network set their own prices. Service charges and delivery may be additional.

®Registered Trademark of Florists' Transworld Delivery Association

BKØ

All University Women

invited to an open little sister rush

Thurs. Feb. 9, 9:30 -

For more information call 253-9071 ask for Stevie D

(C-D-BKØ) 388 N. Pleasant St. (big white building)

Bloom County — by Berke Breathed

The UMass Zone — Mark Rollins

Superbad — G.H.

MASS PHOBIA — Winmill

Now everyone has a syllabus? Good! Now as you can see there are 20 tests, 40 papers, 3 midterms, 2 finals, 1 oral report, 1 group project, 1 lab, 1 field trip, 1 internship, 1 thesis, 1 dissertation, 1 sabbatical, 1 leave of absence, 1 nervous breakdown, 1 suicide attempt, 1 hospitalization, 1 electroshock treatment, 1 lobotomy, 1 coma, 1 death, 1 funeral, 1 burial, 1 resurrection, 1 ascension, 1 second coming, 1 rapture, 1 tribulation, 1 battle of Armageddon, 1 millennium, 1 day of judgement, 1 heaven, 1 hell, 1 purgatory, 1 limbo, 1 reincarnation, 1 nirvana, 1 karma, 1 transmigration of souls, 1 metempsychosis, 1 Zen koan, 1 Tao, 1 Yin, 1 Yang, 1 Ying, 1 Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang Ying, 1 Yang Ying, 1 Ying Yang

UMass men's swimming defeats UVM, UConn

By TOM KELLEY
Collegian Staff

The University of Massachusetts men's swimming team has won its last two meets, defeating the University of Connecticut, 63-50, and the University of Vermont, 69-44, to bring its record to 5-3.

Going into the last race against visiting UConn, it looked as though UMass would lose by one point. The UConn 400 yard free relay team was favored, but the "Sub-Minutemen" had taken first, second and third in the three meter dive and the 200 yard breaststroke to keep it close. UMass won the meet when UConn swimmer Brian Gibson false started.

The fans saw a very strong performance by UMass diver John Macurdy, who won both the one meter and three meter dives. UMass was also led by senior co-captain Chris Porter who took first in the 100 yard free style and senior co-captain Phil Surette who won the 200 yard individual medley. Freshman Michael Hoover also swam well winning the 200 yard breaststroke and taking second in the 200 yard individual medley.

The UMass 400 yard medley relay team of Marc Surette, Neil Kinnon, Chris Clarke and Chris Porter set the pace for a strong victory over Vermont by setting a University of Vermont Fobush pool record of 3:43.45 in the opening event. Chris Porter also won the 50 and 200 yard freestyle races while sopomore Marc Surette won the 200 yard backstroke and junior Chris Clark took first in the 200 yard butterfly.

UMass freshman Rick Bishop who has been hampered by a shoulder injury won the 1000 yard freestyle followed by junior Paul McNeil who took second and also won the 500 yard free.

Coach Russ Yarworth attributes his teams success to hard work and a spirited team.

"The slower swimmers on the team are right there cheering on the winners," said Yarworth.

The Sub-Minutemen travel to the University of New Hampshire this weekend for their second-to-last meet before the New England Championships.

"We should win our last two meets," said Yarworth. "Its the last chance for some of our swimmers to qualify for the New Englands. We have a number of kids fighting for three open spots."

Yarworth is looking forward to the New England Championships. "We're known as a team that performs well in championships."

UMass hopefuls in the New Englands are freshman Michael Hoover, junior Chris Clarke and sophomore Marc Surette.

"Captain Chris Porter is currently ranked fourth in the 100 free," said Yarworth. "If he really hits it he could do well at the New Englands."

SPORTS NOTICE

The Valley Women's Rugby Football Club is beginning practice for the Spring Season. Interested women are invited to attend a film presentation and informational gathering on Monday, February 13, at the University of Massachusetts Campus Center, Room 805, at 8:00 PM. For more information, call 586-9093.

SPRING SEMESTER 1984
TOPIC FOCUSED GROUPS
SELF-EXPLORATION GROUP
Learn more about yourself, and how others see you.
GROUP I MONDAYS/3:30-5:00 GROUP II TUESDAYS/3:30-5:00
STRESS MANAGEMENT GROUP
Learn effective coping techniques to manage your stress level. MONDAYS/3:30-5:00
BULIMIA GROUP
An exploratory group for women who binge-purge. THURSDAYS/3:30-5:00
Register during the first three weeks of February for information or to apply for a group, call 545-2337 or come to the Mental Health Service, 127 Hills North, University of Massachusetts

SOUND in MOTION
THE CAR STEREO SPECIALISTS
321 MAIN STREET • AMHERST, MA 01002 • 253-9341
Auto Alarm Weekly Specials JVC
Crimestopper current & motion sensing Passively Arming $159.95 INSTALLED
16 watt AM/FM Cassette with dolby & Metal Tape capability Separate Bass & Treble Speakers included
Whistler Q-1200 Radar Detector $139.95
$199.95 INSTALLED
Sound in Motion's
FREE INSTALLATION WEEK
with the purchase of any car stereo system
Get The Installation Free
253-9341
coupon good till 2/11/84
VISA master charge

Hunan Garden Restaurant
"The Best Chinese Food"
BUFFET
Mon - Thurs 5 pm - 8 pm
Sunday Brunch 11:30 am - 3 pm
ALL YOU CAN EAT $5.95 per person
Hot and Sour Soup, Chicken Fingers, Pan Fried Ravioli, Beef with Green Pepper, Chicken Fried Noodles
Sweet and Sour Chicken, Pan Fried Rice, Chinese Barbequed Pork, Broccoli in Oyster Sauce, Chicken Wings
Luncheon Special & Take-Out Service
Full Cocktail Menu
Sun - Thurs 11:30 am - 10 pm
Fri & Sat 11:30 am - 11 pm
10 Belchertown Road at Rte 9, Amherst
256-0251
MENU

UMass Transit is sponsoring Spring Training Program
Bus Drivers
Applications meeting
Feb. 13 7:00 pm
Thompson 106
Bring proof of class year
For further info:
545-0056

Kickoff Lounge
(located downstairs Justin Ryan's)
Catch the Action
TONIGHT
on our Giant Screen T.V.
7:30 Bruins vs Maple Leafs
after the Bruins
UMASS vs ST. BONAVENTURE
(shown in its entirety)
50¢ 12 oz. drafts during the event plus our nightly drink special
BEAT THE CLOCK!!

UMASS SKI CLUB GOES DOWN TO FT. LAUDERDALE
SPRING BREAK 83
8 Days 7 Nights Luxurious Hotel on the Strip
Hotel only $149 W/Motor Coach $285 W/Jet $375
 tax included  tax included ***
For more info 545-3437

ESTIA RESTAURANT presents
The only authentic Greek cuisine in 65 miles
Enjoy our delicious Greek
Sunday Brunch 11:00 to 2:00
featuring omelets rolled in pita bread • French toast • muffins
Grecian pancakes
Lunch & Dinner offers our full menu plus pizza, grinders, and sandwiches served in pita bread!
DURING FEBRUARY WITH THE PURCHASE OF EVERY LARGE ESTIA SPECIAL PIZZA WE OFFER A FREE SMALL CHEESE PIZZA
Bring your own liquor.
Tues., Wed. 11:30 a.m.-10 p.m.
586-7011 - 586-7010
Thurs.-Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11 p.m.
Sunday 11:00 a.m.-9 p.m.
24 MAIN ST. NORTHAMPTON

SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE
Winter Clearance Sale!
All Mens & Ladies Wool Sweaters
20 - 50% OFF!
Mens Union Bay Cords ! $19.95
Denim Jackets - $24.95
Ladies Manisha Pants - All $19.95
Shetland Sweaters (mens & womens) $14.95
Down Vests - $19.95
Saturday Clothes
Downtown Amherst 253-9729
All Winter Clothes On Sale!
SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE SALE

COLLEGIAN STAFF MEETING AT 7 TONIGHT IN THE OFFICE

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED

Come to Collegian Office CC 113 • 8:45-3:45 Monday - Friday • Deadline is 3:45 two days prior to publication day
Cash in advance • 15 consecutive days 10% discount • Phone number FREE

ARE YOU AN ACCOUNTING MAJOR?
I need a tutor for Accounting 222 Please call 546-7035 and ask for Michael if interested (call eves)

ATTENTION: WE'RE HIRING DJ'S
RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT is hiring qualified DJ's. Experience preferred, good personality and knowledge of music required. Reply to: Box 48, Amherst, MA 01004

AUDIO
Speakers, RAL 3 way, 125 wtts/ch. Brand new $325 or BO must sell 542-3494
Stereo Equipment lowest prices available most major brands available Akai, JVC, Technics, Kenwood, etc. call Steve 546-5181

AUTO FOR SALE
1975 Ford Pinto. Good condition. $650. or BO. 549-5141 dinner time
1976 Honda Wagon 400 or BO must sell please call 549-7520

BOOGIE DOWN
. . .to the sounds of "The Stevie Diamond Show!" (what else?) EVERY Thurs. afternoon, 3 to 6, on WMUA, 91.1 FM

CAPE COD SUMMER SEASONAL RENTALS
W. Yermouth, Dennis; Largest inventory of studios, 1, 2, 3 & 4 bedroom units; Direct from owners. 617/528-8300 or 617/771-2233.

EMPLOYMENT
Employment SGA Affirmative Action position available. Requirements - serious committment to AA principles, good organizational and writing skills, ability to work independently. 12 hrs/week 3.35/hr Application available 420 SUB or call 5-0341 for more info. AA/EOE

ENTERTAINMENT
RACK-A-DISC ENTERTAINMENT has everything - bands, DJ's, lights, banquets -ALL GUARANTEED! 256-0739
PROFESSIONAL DJs FOR LESS. 4 years of Quality Disc Jockey Service at UMass. Why pay more? 256-1393

Risky Business
Friday 2/10 5, 7, 9, 11 $1.50
Engineering Eest Auditorium

PARTY MIX PRODUCTIONS Disc Jockeys who give you more! More lights, more requests and more experience! Call Jeff Taylor 253-2152
Te Bona Sound Inc Quality Engineered Sound Systems for rent. Call for reservations 549-3654

FOR RENT
Own room in beautiful Sunderland house. On bus route. Rent negotiable. (approximately 140+) 665-2512
Brand-new Duplex HOuse In Sunderland, two big bedrooms, woodstove. On bus route. Call after 5. Chris 665-7148

FOR SALE
VIC-20 computer system, modem, disk extras. Call 549-4696 after 5 pm
Mexican Red-Legged Tarantula for sale. Clean, quiet 549-4894 Amy
Skis: Atomic Team Bionic Arc (slalom). 195 cm. Excellent condition $180-negotiable. 542-3052
Lab Series L5 guiter amplifier 100W mint condition best offer 6-9283
Twin Mettress & Boxspring $30 or best offer call Gary 549-4827
Elan 903 Skis, Tyrolia 160 and size 8 boots, $130. also, Lady Koflach Turbo size 8 boots, new $150, Kelly 546-7307
Computer for sale or rent Apple II+ 48k best offer call Ruthie anytime 256-1306
Platform beds, we build them. Queen with drawer 169. 527-2141
Beautiful water bed Queen size sacrifice $200. or BO 665-4912 eves
1974 Yamaha 500 buy now save big good condition some mileage call Chuck 549-5838

FOUND
